⁶ THAT NIGHT—let thick darkness seize it, Let it not be united to the days of the year, Into the number of the months let it not

⁷ Go! THAT NIGHT—let it be gloomy, [come, Let not singing come into it.

⁸ Let the cursers of day mark it, Who are ready to wake up leviathan.

⁹ Let the stars of its twilight be dark, Let it wait for light, and there be none, Let it not look on the eyelids of the dawn.

¹⁰ Because it hath not shut the doors Of my mother's womb,

That it may hide misery from mine eyes. ¹¹ Why from the womb do I not die? From the belly I have come out and gasp.

¹² Wherefore have knees been before me? And what—breasts that I suck?

¹³ For now, I have lain down, and am quiet; I have slept—then there is rest to me,

¹⁴ With kings and counsellors of earth, Who build wastes for themselves.

¹⁵ Or with princes who have gold, Who fill their houses with silver.

¹⁶ Or why as a hidden abortion am I not? As infants who have not seen light.

¹⁷ There the wicked have ceased troubling, And there rest the wearied in power.

¹⁸ Together the prisoners have been at ease, They have not heard an exactor's voice.

¹⁹ Small and great are there the same, And the servant is free from his lord.

²⁰ Why giveth He light to the miserable, And life to the bitter in soul? [not:

²¹ Who wait earnestly for death, and it is Yea, they seek it above hid treasures.

²² Who are glad unto joy—

They rejoice when they find a grave.

²³ To a man whose way hath been hidden, And whom God shutteth up?

²⁴ For before my food, my sighing cometh, And poured out as waters are my roarings.

²⁵ For I feared a fear, and it meeteth me, And that which I have been afraid of—

Doth come to me.

²⁶ I was not safe,—nor was I quiet— Nor was I at rest,—yet trouble cometh.

(IV. ¹ AND Eliphaz the Temanite answereth and saith:

² Hath one tried a word with thee?— Thou art weary!

But to keep in words who is able?

³ Lo, thou hast instructed many, Yea, feeble hands thou makest strong.

⁴ The stumbling thy words raise up, And bowing knees thou dost strengthen.

⁵ But now, it cometh unto thee, And thou art weary:

It striketh thee, and thou art troubled.

⁶ Is not thy reverence thy confidence? Thy hope even the perfection of thy ways

⁷ Remember, I pray thee,

Who, being innocent, hath perished?

And where have the upright been cut off?

⁸ As I have seen—ploughers of iniquity, And sowers of misery, reap the same:

⁹ From the breath of God they perish, And from the spirit of His anger they are

¹⁰ The roaring of a lion, [consumed;

Even the voice of a fierce lion,

¹¹ And the teeth of young lions, Have been broken.

¹² The old lion is perishing without prey.

And the lioness' whelps separate.

¹³ And unto me a thing is secretly brought, And mine ear receiveth a little of it.

¹⁴ In thoughts from visions of the night, In the falling of deep sleep on men.

¹⁵ Fear hath met me, and trembling, And the multitude of my bones

It hath caused to fear.

¹⁶ And a spirit before my face passeth,

Stand up doth the hair of my flesh;

¹⁷ It standeth, but I discern not its aspect, A similitude is before mine eyes;

Silence! then a voice I hear:

¹⁸ 'Is mortal man than God more righteous? Than his Maker is a man cleaner? [dence.

¹⁹ Lo, in His servants He putteth no credence, Nor in His messengers setteth praise.'

²⁰ Also, the inhabitants of houses of clay, Whose foundation is in the dust,

They bruise them before a moth.

²¹ From morn to even are beaten down, Without any regarding, for ever perish.

²² Hath not their excellency

Been removed with them?

They die, but not in wisdom.

V. ¹ PRAY, call, is there any to answer thee?

To which of the saints dost thou turn?

² For provocation slayeth the perverse, And envy putteth to death the simple.

³ I—I have seen the perverse taking root, And I mark his habitation straightway:

⁴ Far are his children from safety, Yea, they are bruised in the gate.

And there is no deliverer.

⁵ Whose harvest the hungry eateth,

And even from the thorns taketh it, And the thirsty swallowed their wealth.

⁶ For sorrow cometh not out from the dust, Nor from the ground springeth up misery.

⁷ But man to misery is born,

And the sparks go high in flying.

⁸ Yet I—I inquire for God:—

And for God I give my word: [ing,

⁹ Doing great things, and there is no search, Wonderful, till there is no numbering.

¹⁰ Who giveth rain on the face of the land, And is sending waters on the out-places.

- 11 Setting the low on a high place,
 And mourners have been high in safety.
 12 Making void the thoughts of the subtle,
 And their hands execute not wisdom.
 13 Capturing the wise in their subtilty,
 And the counsel of the wrestling ones
 Hath been hastened.
 14 By day they meet darkness—
 And as night—they grope at noon.
 15 And saveth the wasted from their mouth,
 And from the strong hand the needy.
 16 And there is hope for the poor.
 And perverseness hath shut her mouth.
 17 Lo, the happiness of mortal man.
 God reproveth him:
 So the chastisement of the Mighty
 Despise thou not.
 18 For He paineth and He bindeth up;
 He smiteth and His hand healeth.
 19 In six distresses He delivereth thee,
 Yea, in seven evil striketh not on thee.
 20 In famine He redeemed thee from death,
 And in battle from the hands of the sword.
 21 When the tongue scourgeth thou art hid;
 And thou art not afraid of destruction
 When it cometh.
 22 At destruction and hunger thou mockest,
 And of the beast of the earth
 Thou art not afraid. [nant,
 23 For with the sons of the field is thy cove-
 And the beast of the field
 Hath been at peace with thee.] [peace,
 24 And thou hast known that thy tent is
 And hast inspected thy habitation,
 And dost not err.
 25 And hast known that numerous is Thy

 And thine offspring as the herb of the 26 Thou comest in a full age unto the grave,
 As the going up of a stalk in its season.
 27 Lo, this—we have searched it out—
 It is right; hearken;
 And thou, know it for thyself.
 VI. 1 AND Job answereth and saith:
 2 O that my provocation were thoroughly weighed,
 And my calamity in the balances
 They would lift up together. [heavier,
 3 For now, than the sand of the seas it is Therefore my words have been rash.
 4 For the arrows of the Mighty are with me,
 Whose poison drinketh up my spirit.
 Terrors of God array themselves for me.
 5 Brayeth a wild ass over the tender grass?
 Loweth an ox over his provender?
 6 Eaten is an insipid thing without salt?
 Is there sense in the drivel of dreams?
 7 My soul refuseth to touch!
 They are as my sickening food.
 8 O that my request may come,
 That God may grant my hope!
 9 That God would please and bruise me,
 Loose his hand and cut me off!
 10 And yet it is my comfort,
 And I exult in pain: let Him not spare,
 That I have not hidden
 The sayings of the Holy One.
 11 What is my power that I should hope?
 And what mine end
 That I should prolong my life?
 12 Is my strength the strength of stones?

- Is my flesh brazen?
 13 Is not my help with me,
 Though substance was driven from me?
 14 To the despiser of his friend is shame,
 The fear of the Mighty One he forsaketh.
 15 My brethren have deceived as a brook,
 As a stream of the brooks they pass away
 16 Which are black because of ice,
 By means of their snow hideth itself.
 17 By the time they become warm
 They have been cut off,
 By its being hot they have been Extinguished from their place.
 18 Turn aside do the paths of their way:
 They ascend into emptiness and are lost.
 19 Passengers of Tema looked expectingly,
 Travellers of Sheba hoped for them.
 20 They have been ashamed
 That one hath trusted—
 They have come unto it—
 And are confounded.
 21 SURELY NOW YE HAVE BECOME THE SAME:
 Ye see a downfall, and are afraid.
 22 Is it that I said, Give to me?
 Or, By your power bribe for me?
 23 Or, Deliver me from the hand of an adversary? [deem me?
 Or, From the hand of terrible ones re-
 24 Shew me, and I keep silent: [stand.
 And what I have erred, let me under-
 25 How powerful have been upright sayings;
 But what doth reproof from you reprove?
 26 As reproof, do you reckon words?
 And as wind—sayings of the desperate.
 27 Anger on the fatherless ye cause to fall,
 And are strange to your friend.
 28 And, now, please, look upon me,
 Even to your face do I lie?
 29 Turn back, I pray you,
 Let it not be perverseness,
 Yea, turn back again—
 My righteousness is in it.
 30 Is there in my tongue perverseness?
 Discerneth not my palate desirable things?
 VII. 1 IS there not a warfare to man on the earth?
 And as the days of an hireling his days?
 2 As a servant desireth the shadow,
 And as an hireling expecteth his wages,
 3 So have I been caused to inherit Months of vanity,
 And nights of misery
 Have they numbered to me.
 4 If I have lain down then I have said,
 'When do I arise?'
 And the evening hath been measured,
 And I have been full of tossings till dawn.
 5 Clothed hath been my flesh with worms,
 And a clod of dust, [some:
 My skin hath been shrivelled and is loath-
 6 My days swifter than a weaving machine,
 And they are consumed without hope.
 7 Remember Thou that my life is a breath,
 Mine eye turneth not back to see good.
 8 The eye of my beholder beholdeth me not,
 Thine eyes are upon me: and I am not.
 9 Consumed hath been the cloud,
 And it goeth, [not up.
 So he who goeth down to Sheol cometh
 10 He turneth not back again to his house,
 Nor doth his place know him any more.

- 11 Also, I—I withhold not my mouth—
I speak in the distress of my spirit,
I talk in the bitterness of my soul.
- 12 Am I a sea-monster, or a dragon,
That thou settest over me a guard?
- 13 When I said, 'My bed doth comfort me,'
He taketh away in my talking my couch.
- 14 Thou hast afflicted me with dreams,
And by visions thou terrifiest me;
- 15 And my soul chooseth strangling:
Death rather than my bones. [live.]
- 16 I have wasted away; not for ever do I Cease from me, for my days are vanity.
- 17 What is man that Thou magnifiest him?
That Thou settest Thy heart unto him?
- 18 And inspectest him in the mornings—
In the evenings triest him?
- 19 How long dost Thou not look from me?
Thou dost not desist till I swallow my
- 20 I have sinned, what do I to Thee, spittle,
O Thou watcher of man? [Thee.]
- Why hast Thou set me for a mark to
That I am become a burden to myself?
- 21 And what?
Thou dost not take away my transgression
Or cause to pass away mine iniquity;
- 22 But now, for dust I lie down:
And Thou hast sought me—and I am not.
- VIII. 1 AND Bildad the Shuhite answereth
and saith:
- 2 Till when dost thou speak these things?
And a strong wind—sayings of thy mouth?
- 3 Doth God pervert judgment?
Or doth the Mighty One pervert justice?
- 4 If thy children have sinned before Him,
Then He sendeth them away
By the hand of their transgression:
- 5 If thou seekest early unto God,
And to the Mighty make supplication:
- 6 If thou art pure and upright,
Surely now He waketh for thee,
And hath completed
The habitation of thy righteousness.
- 7 Yea, thy beginning hath been small,
But thy latter end is very great.
- 8 For pray, ask of a former generation,
And prepare to a search of their fathers:
- 9 (For we are of yesterday and know not,
For a shadow are our days on earth.)
- 10 Do they not shew thee, speak to thee,
And from their heart bring out words?
- 11 'Doth a rush rise without mire?
Doth a reed increase without water?
- 12 While it is in its budding, uncrept,
Even before any herb it withereth.
- 13 So are the paths of all who forget God,
And the hope of the profane perisheth,
- 14 Whose confidence is loathsome,
And a house of a spider his trust.
- 15 He leaneth on his house—it standeth not:
He taketh hold on it—but it abideth not.
- 16 Green he is before the sun,
And over his garden his branch goeth out.
- 17 Near a heap his roots are wrapped,
A house of stones he looketh for.
- 18 If one destroy him from his place,
Then it hath feigned concerning him:
I have not seen thee.
- 19 Lo, this is the joy of his way,
And from the dust others spring up.'
- 20 Lo, God rejecteth not the perfect,

- Nor taketh hold on the hand of evil doers.
- 21 While he filleth with laughter thy mouth,
And thy lips with shouting,
22 Those who hate thee put on shame,
And the tent of the wicked is not.
- IX. 1 AND Job answereth and saith:
- 2 Truly I have known that it is so;
But what—is man just with God?
- 3 If he delight to strive with Him—
He answereth him not one of a thousand.
- 4 Wise in heart and strong in power—
Who hath hardenedeth towards Him and is
- 5 Who removeth mountains, [at peace?]—
And they have not known:
- 6 Who hath overturned them in His anger,
Who shaketh earth from its place,
And its pillars move themselves.
- 7 Who speaketh to the sun, and it riseth
And scaleth up the stars. [not.]
- 8 Stretching out the heavens by Himself,
And treading on the heights of the sea,
- 9 Appointing Osh, Kesil, and Kimah,
And the inner chambers of the south.
- 10 Doing great things
Till there is no searching.
And wondrous till there is no numbering.
- 11 Lo, He goeth over me, and I see not,
And He passeth on, and I attend not to
him. [back?]
- 12 Lo, He snatcheth away, who bringeth it:
Who saith unto Him, 'What dost Thou?'
- 13 God turneth not back His anger:
Under Him bowed have proud helpers.
- 14 How much less do I answer Him?
Choose out my words with Him?
- 15 Whom, though I had been righteous,
I answer not:
For my judgment I make supplication.
- 16 Though I had called and He answereth me,
I do not believe He giveth ear to my voice.
- 17 For with a tempest He bruiseeth me,
And multiplied my wounds for nought.
- 18 He permitteeth me not to refresh my spirit,
But filleth me with bitter things.
- 19 If of power, lo, the strong One:
And if of judgment—who convinceth me?
- 20 If I be righteous,
Mine own mouth condemneth me:
I am perfect!—it declareth me perverse.
- 21 I am perfect!—I know not my soul,
I despise my life.
- 22 IT IS THE SAME THING, therefore I said:
'The perfect and the wicked
He consumeth.'
- 23 If a scourge put to death suddenly,
At the trial of the innocent He laugheth.
- 24 The earth hath been given
Into the hand of the Wicked One.
The face of its judges he covereth:
If not—where, who is he? [ner:]
- 25 My days have been swifter than a run:
They have fled, they have not seen good:
- 26 They have passed on with ships of reed,
As an eagle darteth on prey.
- 27 Though I say, 'I forget my talking,
I forsake my corner, and I brighten up:'
- 28 I have been afraid of all my griefs,
I have known Thou dost not acquit me.
- 29 I—I am become wicked; why is this?
I labour in vain.
- 30 If I have washed myself with snow-water,

And purified with soap my hands,
 21 Then in corruption Thou dippest me,
 And my garments have abominated me.
 22 But if a man like myself, I answer him,
 We come together into judgment.
 23 O that there were between us an umpire,
 Placing his hand on us both.
 24 Let him turn aside from me His rod,
 And let not His terror make me afraid:
 25 I speak, and do not fear Him,
 Though I am not right with myself.
 X. MY soul hath been weary of my life,
 I leave off my talking to myself,
 I speak in the bitterness of my soul.
 2 I say unto God, 'Do not condemn me;
 Let me know why Thou strivest with me.
 Is it good for Thee that Thou dost oppress?
 That Thou dost despise
 The labour of Thy hands,
 And on the counsel of the wicked hast
 4 Eyes of flesh hast Thou?' [shone?
 As man seeth—seest Thou?
 As the days of man are Thy days?
 Thy years as the days of a man?
 6 That Thou inquest for mine iniquity,
 And seekest for my sin?
 7 For Thou knowest that I am not wicked;
 And there is no deliverer from Thy hand.
 8 Thy hands have taken pains about me,
 And make me together round about,
 Yet Thou swallowest me up.
 9 Remember, I pray Thee,
 That as clay Thou hast made me,
 And unto dust Thou bringest me back.
 10 Dost Thou not as milk pour me out?
 And as cheese curdle me?
 11 Skin and flesh Thou puttest on me,
 And with bones and sinews fencest me.
 12 Life and kindness Thou hast kept with me. [spirit.
 And Thine inspection hath preserved my 13 And these Thou hast laid up in Thy heart:
 I have known that this is with Thee.
 14 If I sinned, then Thou hast observed me,
 And from mine iniquity dost not acquit me.
 15 If I have done wickedly—wo to me,
 And righteously, I lift not up my head.
 Full of shame—then see my affliction:
 16 Yea, it riseth: as a lion Thou huntest me.
 And thou turnest back—
 Thou shewest Thyself wonderful on me.
 17 Thou renewest Thy witnesses against me,
 And multiplieth Thine anger with me;
 Changes and warfare are with me.
 18 But why from the womb
 Hast Thou brought me out?
 I expire, and no eye seeth me.
 19 As I had not been, I am:
 From the belly to the grave I am brought;
 20 Are not my days few?
 Cease then, and put Thyself from me,
 And I brighten up a little,
 21 Before I go, and return not,
 Unto a land of darkness and death-shade.
 22 A land of obscurity as thick darkness,
 Death-shade without order,
 And the shining is as thick darkness.'

XI. AND Zophar the Naamathite answereth with and saith:
 2 Is not the multitude of words answered?
 Or is a talkative man justified?

3 Thy devices make men keep silent;
 Thou scornest, and none causeth blushing!
 4 And thou sayest, 'My discourse is pure,
 And clean I have been in Thine eyes.'
 5 And yet, O that God had spoken!
 And would open His lips with thee,
 6 And tell to thee the secrets of wisdom,
 For counsel hath foldings.
 And know that God forgetteth for thee,
 Some of thine iniquity.
 7 By searching dost thou find out God:
 Unto perfection dost thou find out
 The Mighty One?
 8 The heights of heaven—what dost thou?
 Deeper than Sheol—what knowest thou?
 9 Longer than the earth is its measure;
 And broader than the sea.
 10 If He pass on, and shut up, or congregate,
 Who then reverseth it?
 11 For He hath known men of vanity,
 And He seeth iniquity,
 Though one doth not consider it.
 12 But empty man is bold,
 Yet the colt of a wild ass man is born.
 13 If thou hast prepared thy heart,
 And spread out unto Him thy hands;
 14 If iniquity is in thy hand, put it far off,
 And let not perverseness dwell in thy tents. [blestish,
 15 For then thou liftest up thy face from
 Yea, thou hast been firm, and fearest not.
 16 For thou forgettest misery, [it.
 As waters passed away thou rememberest
 17 And above the moon doth age rise:
 Thou fliest—as the morning thou art.
 18 And hast trusted, because there is hope,
 And hast searched:
 In confidence thou liest down.
 19 Yea, thou hast rested,
 And none causeth trembling,
 But many have entreated thy face: [ed,
 20 While the eyes of the wicked are consumed,
 And refuge hath perished from them.
 And their hope is a breathing out of life.
 XI. AND Job answereth and saith:
 2 Truly, ye are the people,
 And with you wisdom dieth.
 3 I also have a heart like you;
 I am not falling more than you.
 And with whom is there not like these?
 4 A laughter to his friend I am; [him,
 'He calleth to God, and He answereth
 A laughter is the perfect righteous one.
 5 A torch—despised in the thoughts of the 6 The tents of spoilers are at peace, [dence,

 And those who provoke God have confi-fide into whose hand God hath brought.
 7 And yet, ask, I pray thee,
 One of the beasts, and it doth shew thee,
 And a fowl of the heavens,
 And it doth declare to thee.
 8 Or talk to the earth, and it sheweth thee;
 Yea, fishes of the sea recount unto thee:
 9 'Who hath not known by all these,
 That the hand of the LORD hath done
 this? [ing thing,
 10 In whose hand is the breath of every liv-
 And the spirit of all mankind.'
 11 Doth not the ear try words?

And the palate taste food for itself ?
 12 With the very aged is wisdom,
 And with length of days understanding.
 13 With Him are wisdom and might ;
 He hath counsel and understanding.
 14 Lo, He breaketh down, and it is not built
 He shutteth against a man, [up,
 And it is not opened.
 15 Lo, He keepeth in the waters,
 And they are dried up ;
 And He sendeth them out,
 And they overturn the land.
 16 With Him are strength and wisdom,
 His the deceived and the deceiver.
 17 Causing counsellors to go away spoiled,
 And judges He maketh foolish.
 18 The band of kings He hath opened,
 And He bindeth a girdle on their loins.
 19 He causeth ministers to go away spoiled.
 And strong ones He overthroweth.
 20 He turneth aside the lip of the steadfast,
 And the reason of the aged taketh away.
 21 He poureth contempt upon princes,
 And the girdle of the mighty made feeble.
 22 He removeth deep things out of darkness,
 And bringeth out to light death-shade.
 23 He magnifieth the nations, and destroyeth them. [them.
 He spreadeth out the nations, and quieteth
 24 He turneth aside the heart
 Of the heads of the people of the land,
 And He causeth them to wander
 In vacancy—no way !
 25 They feel darkness and not light,
 He causeth them to wander as a drunkard.
 XIII. 1 LO, all this hath mine eye seen.
 Mine ear hath heard and attendeth to it.
 2 According to your knowledge
 I have known—even I.
 I am not falling more than you.
 3 Yet, I for the Mighty One do speak,
 Yea, to argue for God I delight.
 4 But, yet, ye are forgers of falsehood.
 Physicians of nought—all of you.
 5 O that ye would keep perfectly silent,
 And it would become your wisdom.
 6 Hear, I pray you, mine argument,
 And attend to the pleadings of my lips.
 7 For God do ye speak perverseness,
 And for Him do ye speak deceit ?
 8 His person do ye accept, if for God ye
 9 Is it good that He search you, [strive ?
 If, as one mocketh at a man, ye mock at Him ? [accept persons.
 10 He surely reproveth you, if in secret ye
 11 Doth not His excellency terrify you ?
 And His dread fall upon you ?
 12 Your remembrances are similes of ashes,
 Even high places of clay your heights.
 13 Keep silent from me, and I speak ;
 And let pass over me what will.
 14 Wherefore do I take my flesh in my teeth ?
 And my life put in my hand ?
 15 Lo, let Him slay me—I wait not ;
 Only, my ways unto His face I argue.
 16 Even this becometh my salvation,
 That the profane cometh not before Him.
 17 Hear diligently my word,
 And my declaration with your ears.
 18 Lo, I pray you,
 I have set the cause in order,

I have known that I am righteous.
 19 Who is he?—let him strive with me,
 For now I keep silent and gasp.
 20 Only two things, O God, do with me :
 Then from Thy face I am not hidden.
 21 Thy hand put far off from me,
 And let not Thy terror terrify me.
 22 And call Thou, and I answer :
 Or I speak, and answer Thou me.
 23 How many iniquities and sins have I ?
 My transgression and my sin
 Cause me to know.
 24 Why hidest Thou Thy face ?
 And reckonest me for an enemy to Thee ?
 25 A leaf driven away dost Thou terrify ?
 And the dry stubble dost Thou pursue ?
 26 For Thou writest for me bitter things,
 And causest me to possess
 The iniquities of my youth ;
 27 Yea, Thou puttest in the stocks my feet.
 And observest all my paths : [print.
 On the roots of my feet Thou settest a

 As a garment, a moth hath consumed him.
 XIV. 1 MAN, born of woman, is
 Of few days, and full of trouble. [cut off :
 2 As a flower he hath gone forth, and is
 He fleeth as a shadow, and remaineth not
 3 Also, on this Thou hast opened Thine eyes,
 And bringest me into judgment with Thee.
 4 Who giveth a clean thing out of an
 Not one. [unclean ?
 5 If his days are determined,
 The number of his months with Thee,
 His limit Thou hast made.
 And he passeth not over.
 6 Look away from him that he may cease.
 Till he enjoy as a hireling his day.
 7 For there is hope of a tree if it be cut
 That again it changeth. [down,
 That its tender branch ceaseth not,
 8 If its root become old in the earth.
 And its stem die in the dust ;
 9 From the fragrance of water it flourisheth,
 And hath yielded a crop as a plant.
 10 But a man dieth, and becometh weak ;
 Yea, man expireth, and where is he ?
 11 Waters have gone away from a sea,
 And a river becometh waste and dry.
 12 And each hath lain down, and riseth not ;
 Till the wearing out of the heavens
 They awake not.
 Nor are aroused from their sleep.
 13 O that in Sheol Thou wouldst hide me,
 Hide me till the turning of Thine anger :
 Set for me a limit and remember me.
 14 If a man die—doth he revive ?
 All the days of my warfare I wait,
 Till my change come.
 15 Thou dost call, and I answer Thee : [sire.
 To the work of Thine hands Thou hast de-16 Though, now, my steps Thou numberest,
 Thou watchest not over my sin.
 17 Sealed up in a bag is my transgression :
 Yea, Thou sewest up mine iniquity.
 18 And yet, a falling mountain wasteth away,
 And a rock is removed from its place.
 19 Waters have worn away stones,
 Their outpourings wash away the dust of earth ;
 And the hope of man Thou hast destroyed.

- 20 Thou prevailst over him for ever, and he
He changeth his countenance, [goeth,
And Thou sendest him away.
21 Honoured are his sons, but he knoweth
Yea, they become little, [not ;
And he attendeth not to them.
22 Only, his flesh on him is pained,
And his soul in him mourneth.

XV. 1 AND Eliphaz the Temanite answereth and saith : [ledge ?

- 2 Dost a wise man answer with vain know-
And fill with an east wind his belly ?

And speeches in which are no profit ?
4 Yea, thou makest reverence void,
And diminishes meditation before God.
5 For thy mouth teacheth thine iniquity :
That thou chooseth the tongue of the subtile. [not I,
6 Thine own mouth condemneth thee, and
And thine own lips testify against thee.
7 The first man art thou born ?
Before the heights hast thou been formed ?
8 Of the secret counsel of God dost thou hear ?

Withdrawest thou unto thyself wisdom ?
9 What hast thou known that we know not ?
Understandest thou—that is not with us ?

- 10 Both the grey-headed
And the very aged are among us—
Greater than thy father in days.

11 Are the comforts of God too few for thee ?
While a gentle word is with thee,

- 12 What—doth thine heart take thee away ?
And what—are thine eyes high ?

13 For thou turnest thy spirit against God ?
And hast brought words from thy mouth ?

- 14 What is man that he should be pure,
And that he should be righteous,
One born of a woman ?

15 Lo, in His holy ones He putteth no credence, [His eyes.

- 16 Also, surely abominable and filthy,
Is man drinking perverseness as water.

17 I shew thee—hearken to me—
Yea, this I have seen and declare :

- 18 Which the wise tell,
And have not hid—from their fathers.

19 To them alone the land was given.
And a stranger passed not over
Into their midst :—

- 20 All the days of the wicked he paineth
And few years [himself,

Have been laid up for the terrible one.

- 21 A dreadful voice is in his ears,
In peace a destroyer meeteth him.

22 He believeth not
In returning from the darkness,
Yea, watched he is for the sword.

- 23 He wandereth for bread—“Where is it ?”
He hath known that ready at his hand is a day of darkness.

24 Adversity and distress terrify him,
They prevail over him
As a king ready for the boaster.

- 25 For against God he stretched out his hand,
And against the Mighty One
He maketh himself mighty.

26 He runneth unto Him proudly,
With the thick bosses of his shields.

- 27 For he hath covered his face with his fat,
And getteth vigour over his confidence.

28 And inhabiteth cities cut off,
Houses not dwelt in,
Which were ready to become heaps.

- 29 He is not become rich,
Nor doth his wealth abide,
Nor doth he stretch out on the earth
Their continuance.

30 He turneth not aside from darkness,
His tender branch a flame drieth up,
And he turneth aside
At the breath of His mouth !

- 31 Let him not put credence in vanity,
He hath been deceived,
For vanity is his recompence.

32 Not in his day is it completed,
And his bending branch is not green.

- 33 He shaketh off as a vine his unripe fruit,
And casteth off as an olive his blossom.

34 For the company of the profane is gloomy,
And fire hath consumed
The tents of bribery.

- 35 Conceiving misery, and bearing iniquity,
Their heart also prepareth deceit.

XVI. 1 AND Job answereth and saith :

- 2 I have heard many such things,
Miserable comforters are ye all.

3 Is there an end to words of wind ?
Or what emboldeneth thee
That thou answerest ?

- 4 I also, like you, might speak,
If your soul were in my soul's stead.
I might join against you with words,
And nod at you with my head.

5 I might harden you with my mouth,
And the moving of my lips
Might be sparing.

- 6 If I speak, my pain is not restrained,
And I cease—what goeth from me ?

7 O my, now he hath wearied me ;
Thou hast desolated all my company.

- 8 And dost loathe me,
It hath been for a witness,
And my failure riseth up against me ;
In my face it testifieth.

9 His anger hath torn, and he hateth me,
He hath gnashed at me with his teeth,
My adversary sharpeneth his eyes for me.

- 10 They have gaped on me with their mouth,
In reproach they have smitten my cheeks,
Together they set themselves against me.

11 God shutteth me up unto the perverse,
And to the hands of the Wicked
He turneth me over.

- 12 I was at ease, and he breaketh me :
And he hath laid hold on my neck,
And breaketh me in pieces,
And raiseth me for a mark to him.

13 His archers go round against me,
He splitteth my reins, and spareth not,
He poureth out to the earth my gall.

- 14 He breaketh me—breach upon breach,
He runneth upon me as a mighty one.

15 Sackcloth I have sowed on my skin,
And have rolled my horn in the dust.

- 16 My face is foul with weeping,
And on mine eyelids is a death-shade.

17 Not for any violence in my hands,
And my prayer is pure.

- 18 O earth, cover not thou my blood !

And let there not be a place for my cry.
 19 Also, now, lo, in heaven is my witness,
 And my testifier is in the high places.
 20 My interpreter is my friend,
 To God mine eye hath dropped;
 21 And he reasoneth for a man with God,
 Even the son of man for his friend.
 22 When a few years come,
 Then a path I return not do I go.
 XVII. MY spirit hath been destroyed,
 My days have been extinguished—
 The graves are mine.
 2 If not—mockeries are with me.
 In their provocation mine eye lodgeth.
 3 Place, I pray Thee, my pledge with Thee;
 Who is he that striketh hands with me?
 4 For their heart Thou hast hidden
 From understanding;
 Therefore Thou exaltest them not.
 5 For a portion he sheweth friendship.
 Yet the eyes of his sons are consumed.
 6 And he hath set me up
 For a proverb of the peoples,
 And a wonder before them I am.
 7 And dim from sorrow is mine eye,
 And my members are as a shadow,
 All of them.
 8 Astonished are the upright at this,
 And the innocent against the profane
 Stirreth himself up,
 9 And the righteous layeth hold on his way,
 And the clean of hands increaseth
 And dumb are they all. [strength,
 10 Return, I pray you, and come in,
 Yet I find not a wise man among you.
 11 My days have passed,
 My devices have been broken off,
 The possessions of my heart.
 12 Night they appoint for day,
 Light is near because of darkness.
 13 If I wait—Sheol is my house.
 In darkness my couch I have spread out.
 14 To corruption I have called:—
 'Thou art my father.'
 To the worm:—
 'My mother,' and 'my sister.'
 15 And where is now my hope?
 Yea, my hope, who beholdeth it?
 16 To the parts of Sheol they go down,
 If together on the dust we may rest.
 XVIII. AND Bilad the Shuhite answereth
 and saith:
 2 When will ye set an end to words?
 Consider, and afterwards let us speak.
 3 Wherefore have we been reckoned as cattle?
 Have we been defiled in your eyes?
 4 He teareth himself in his anger.
 For thy sake is the earth forsaken?
 Or removed is a rock from its place?
 5 The light of the wicked is extinguished,
 Nor doth a spark of his fire shine.
 6 The light hath been dark in his tent,
 And his lamp over him is extinguished.
 7 Straitened are the steps of his strength,
 And his own counsel casteth him down.
 8 For he is sent into a net by his own feet,
 And on a snare he walketh habitually.
 9 A gin seizeth on the heel;
 The designing prevaileth over him.
 10 His cord is hidden in the earth,

And his trap on the path.
 11 Round about terrors have terrified him,
 And have scattered him—at his feet.
 12 His sorrow is hungry,
 And calamity is ready at his side.
 13 It consumeth the parts of his skin,
 Death's first-born consumeth his parts.
 14 Drawn from his tent is his confidence,
 And it causeth him to step
 To the king of terrors.
 15 It dwelleth in his tent:
 Out of his provender,
 Scattered over his habitation is sulphur.
 16 Beneath, his roots are dried up,
 And above, his crop is cut off. [land,
 17 His memorial hath perished from the
 And he hath no name in the street.
 18 They thrust him from light into darkness,
 And from the habitable earth cast him
 19 He hath no continuator, [out,
 Nor successor among his people,
 And none remaining in his dwellings.
 20 At his day the Westerns
 Have been astonished—
 And the Easterns have taken fright.
 21 These are the tabernacles of the perverse,
 And this the place God hath not known.
 XIX. AND Job answereth and saith:
 2 Till when do ye afflict my soul,
 And bruise me with words?
 3 These ten times ye put me to shame.
 Ye blush not:
 Ye make yourselves strange to me.
 4 And also, truly, I have erred,
 With me my error remaineth.
 5 If, truly, over me ye magnify yourselves,
 And decide against me my reproach.
 6 Know ye now,
 That God hath turned me upside down,
 And hath set round His net against me.
 7 Lo, I cry out—violence,
 And I am not answered;
 I cry aloud, and there is no judgment.
 8 My way He hath hedged up,
 And I pass not over,
 And on my paths He placeth darkness.
 9 Mine honour from off me He stripped,
 And turneth the crown from my head.
 10 He breaketh me down round about, and
 And removeth my hope like a tree. [I go,
 11 And He kindly against me His anger,
 And reckoneth me to Him
 As His adversaries.
 12 His troops come in together,
 And raise up against me their way,
 And encamp round about my tent.
 13 My brethren from me He hath put far off,
 And mine acquaintances surely
 Have been estranged from me.
 14 My neighbours have ceased,
 My familiar friends have forgotten me.
 15 The sojourners of my house and my maids
 For a stranger reckon me:
 A stranger I have been in their eyes.
 16 To my servant I have called
 And he answereth not: [him,
 With my mouth I make supplication to 17 My spirit is strange to my wife,
 And my favours
 To the children of my mother's womb.
 18 Also sucklings have despised me;

I arise, and they speak against me.
 19 All the men of my counsel
 Have me in abomination,
 And those I have loved
 Have been turned against me.
 20 To my skin and to my flesh
 My bone hath cleaved, [teeth.
 And I deliver myself with the skin of my 21 Pity me, pity me, O ye my friends;
 For the hand of God hath stricken me.
 22 Why do you pursue me as God?
 And with my flesh are not satisfied?
 23 Who will grant now,
 That my words may be written?
 Who will grant that in a book
 They may be graven?
 24 With a pen of iron and lead—
 For ever in a rock they may be hewn.
 25 That 'I have known my Redeemer,
 The Living and the Last,
 For the dust he riseth.
 26 And after my skin hath compassed this,
 Then from my flesh I see God:
 27 Whom I see on my side,
 And mine own eyes have beheld,
 And not a stranger: [bosom.
 My reins have been consumed in me
 28 But say ye, 'Why pursue we after him?
 Seeing the root of the matter
 Hath been found in me:
 29 Be afraid for yourselves,
 Because of the sword, [sword.
 For furious are the punishments of the
 That ye may know there is a judgment.
 XX. 1 AND Zophar the Naamathite
 answereth and saith: [answer.
 2 Therefore my thoughts cause me to an-
 And because of my sensations in me:
 3 The chastisement of my shame I hear,
 And the spirit of mine understanding
 Cansteth me to answer:
 4 This hast thou known from antiquity:
 Since man was placed on the earth?
 5 But the singing of the wicked is short,
 And the joy of the profane for a moment.
 6 Though his excellency go up to heaven,
 And his head against a cloud he strike—
 7 As his own dung for ever he perisheth:
 His beholders say: 'Where is he?'
 8 As a dream he fleeth,
 And they find him not, [night.
 And he is driven away as a vision of the 9 The eye hath seen him and addeth not,
 And not again doth his place behold him.
 10 His children do the poor oppress,
 And his hands give back his wealth:
 11 His bones have been full of his youth,
 And with him in the dust it lieth down.
 12 Though he sweeten evil in his mouth,
 Hide it under his tongue,
 13 Have pity on it and forsake it not,
 Keep it back in the midst of his palate:
 14 His food in his bowels is turned,
 The bitterness of asps is in his heart.
 15 Wealth he hath swallowed,
 But he vomiteth it,
 From his belly God driveth it out.
 16 Gull of asps he sucketh,
 The tongue of a viper slayeth him.
 17 He looketh not on rivulets,
 Flowings of brooks of honey and butter.

18 He giveth back what he laboured for,
 And consumeth it not:
 As a bulwark is his exchange,
 Yet he exults not.
 19 For he oppressed—he forsook the poor,
 A house he took violently away,
 Which he buildeth not.
 20 For he hath not known ease in his belly.
 With his desirable thing
 He delivereth not himself.
 21 There is no remnant of his food,
 Therefore his good stayeth not.
 22 In the fulness of his sufficiency he is straitened,
 Every perverse hand meeteth him.
 23 It cometh to pass, at the filling of his belly,
 He sendeth against him
 The fierceness of His anger,
 Which He raineth on him in his eating.
 24 He fleeth from an iron weapon,
 A bow of brass passeth through him:
 25 One hath drawn:
 And it cometh out from the body,
 And the glittering weapon
 From his gall proceedeth:
 On him are terrors.
 26 All darkness is hid for his treasures:
 Consume him doth a fire not blown:
 Broken is the remnant in his tent.
 27 The heavens reveal his iniquity,
 And the earth raiseth itself against him.
 28 The increase of his house removeth,
 Running away in a day of His anger.
 29 This is the portion of the wicked from God.
 The inheritance appointed him by God.
 XXI. 1 AND Job answereth and saith:
 2 Hear diligently my word,
 And let this be your consolations.
 3 Hear with me and I speak,
 And after my speaking you may deride.
 4 I—to man is my complaint:
 And if so, wherefore
 May not my purpose become short?
 5 Turn unto me and be astonished,
 And put hand to mouth.
 6 Yea, if I have remembered,
 Then I have been troubled,
 And my flesh hath taken fright.
 7 Wherefore do the wicked live?
 They have become old,
 And have been mighty in wealth:
 8 Their seed is established with them,
 Before their face,
 And their offspring before their eyes.
 9 Their houses are—peace without fear,
 Nor is the rod of God upon them.
 10 His bullock hath eaten corn,
 And longeth not,
 His cow bringeth forth safely,
 And miscarrieth not.
 11 They send out their sucklings as a flock,
 And their children skip.
 12 They lift themselves at timbrel and harp,
 And rejoice at the sound of an organ.
 13 They wear out in good their days,
 And in a moment to Sheol go down.
 14 Yet they say to God, 'Turn aside from us,
 Yea, the knowledge of Thy ways
 We have not desired.
 15 What is the Mighty One
 That we should serve Him?

And what do we profit
When we meet with Him?
10 Lo, their good is not in their hand,
The counsel of the wicked
Hath been far from me, [tinguished,
11 How oft is the light of the wicked ex-
And cometh on them their calamity?
Pangs He apportioneth in His anger.
12 They are as straw before wind,
And as chaff a hurricane hath stolen away.
13 God layeth up for his children his sorrow,
He giveth recompence unto him;
And he knoweth.
14 His own eyes see his destruction,
And of the wrath of the Mighty
He drinketh.
15 For what his delight in his house after it,
When the number of his months
Hath been cut off?
16 To God doth one teach knowledge,
Seeing the high He judgeth?
17 This one dieth in his perfect strength,
Wholly at ease and quiet.
18 His breasts have been full of milk,
And marrow his bones moisten.
19 And this one dieth with a bitter soul,
And hath not eaten with gladness.
20 Together in the dust they lie down,
And the worm covereth them over.
21 Lo, I have known your thoughts,
The devices ye do wrongfully against me.
22 For ye say, 'Where is the house of the
And where the tent— [noble?
The tabernacles of the wicked?'
23 Have ye not asked the passers by?
And their signs do ye not know?
24 To a day of calamity the wicked is spared,
To a day of wrath they are brought.
25 Who declareth to his face his way?
And for that which he hath done,
Who giveth recompence to him?
26 And he—to the graves he is brought,
And over the heap a watch is kept. [him.
27 The clouds of the valley have been sweet to
And after him every man he draweth,
And before him there is no numbering.
28 How then comfort ye me with vanity?
In your answers trespass hath been left.
XXII. 1 AND Eliphaz the Temanite an-swereth and saith:
2 To God is a man profitable. [self?
Because a wise man is profitable to him-
3 Is it a delight to the Mighty One
That thou art righteous?
Or is it gain
That thou makest thy ways perfect?
4 Because of thy reverence
Doth He reason with thee?
He entereth with thee into judgment:
5 Is not thy wickedness abundant?
Yea, there is no end to thine iniquities.
6 For thou takest a pledge of thy brother
For nought,
And the garments of the naked
Thou strippest off.
7 Thou lettest not the weary drink water,
And from the hungry
Thou withholdest bread.
8 As to the man of strength,
He hath the earth, [in it.
And the accepted of face—ho dwelleth

9 Widows thou hast sent away empty,
And the arms of the fatherless are bruised.
10 Therefore are snares round about thee,
And fear troubleth thee suddenly.
11 Or darkness—thou seest not;
And abundance of waters cover thee.
12 Is not God high as heaven;
See, then the summit of the stars,
That they are high.
13 Yet thou hast said,
'What—hath God known?
Through the thickness doth He judge?
14 Thick clouds are a secret place for Him,
And He seeth not;
Yet the circle of the heavens
He walketh habitually.
15 The path of old dost thou observe,
Which men of iniquity have trodden?
16 Who have been cut down unexpectedly.
A flood is poured on their foundation.
17 Who say to God, 'Turn aside from us.'
Yet what doth the Mighty One to them?
18 He hath filled their houses with good;
And the counsel of the wicked
Hath been far from me.
19 The righteous see and rejoice,
And the innocent mocketh at them: [off,
20 'Surely our substance hath not been cut
But their excellency fire hath consumed.'
21 Acquaint thyself, I pray thee, with Him,
And be at peace.
Thereby thine increase is good.
22 Receive, I pray thee,
From His mouth a law,
And put His sayings in thy heart.
23 If thou return unto the Mighty
Thou art built up,
Thou putteth iniquity far from thy tents.
24 So as to place on the dust a defence,
And on a rock of the valleys a covering.
25 And the Mighty hath been thy defence,
And silver is strength to thee.
26 For then on the Mighty
Thou delightest thyself,
And liftest up unto God thy face.
27 Thou makest supplication unto Him,
And He heareth thee;
And thy vows thou completest.
28 And thou decreest a saying,
And it is established to thee,
And on thy ways hath light shone.
29 For they have made low,
And thou sayest, 'Lift up,'
And the bowed down of eyes he saveth.
30 He delivereth him who is not innocent,
Yea, he hath been delivered
By the cleanness of thy hands.
XXIII. 1 AND Job answereth and saith:
2 Also, to-day is my complaint bitter:
My hand hath been heavy
Because of my sighing.
3 O that I had known—I find Him.
I come in unto His seat.
4 I arrange the cause before Him
And fill my mouth with arguments.
5 I know the words He would answer me,
And understand what He saith to me.
6 In the abundance of power
Doth He strive with me?
No! surely He putteth it in me.
7 There the upright doth reason with Him,

- And I escape for ever from my judge.
 8 Lo, forward I go—and He is not;
 And backward—and I perceive Him not;
 9 To the left in His working—but I see not;
 He is covered on the right,
 And I behold not.
 10 For He hath known the way with me;
 He hath tried me—as gold I go forth.
 11 On His step my foot hath laid hold;
 His way I kept, and turn not aside;
 12 The command of His lips, and depart not:
 Above my allotted portion I have laid up
 The sayings of His mouth.
 13 And He is in one mind,
 And who turneth Him back?
 And His soul hath desired—and He doeth
 14 For He completeth my portion: [it.
 And many such things are with Him.
 15 Therefore, before Him I am troubled,
 I consider, and am afraid of Him.
 16 And God hath made my heart soft,
 And the Mighty hath troubled me.
 17 For I have not been cut off
 Before the darkness,
 And before me He hath covered
 The thick darkness.

- XXIV. ¹WHEREFORE from the Mighty
 Times have not been hidden,
 And those who know Him have not seen
 2 The borders they reach, [His days:
 A drove they have taken violently away;
 Yea, they do evil.
 3 The ass of the fatherless they lead away,
 They take in pledge the ox of the widow,
 4 They turn aside the needy from the way;
 The poor of the earth have hid together.
 5 Lo, wild asses in the wilderness,
 They have gone out about their work,
 Seeking early for prey;
 A mixture for itself—food for the young.
 6 In the field his provender they reap,
 And the vineyard of the wicked they glean.
 7 The naked they cause to lodge
 Without clothing,
 And there is no covering in the cold.
 8 From the inundation of mountains
 They are wet,
 And without a refuge, have embraced a 9 They take violently away [rock.
 The orphan from the breast,
 And on the poor they lay a pledge.
 10 Naked, they go without clothing,
 And hungry—have taken away the sheaf.
 11 Between their walls they make oil,
 Wine-presses they have trodden, yet they 12 Because of enmity men groan, [thirst.
 And the soul of pierced ones crieth,
 And God giveth no praise, [of light:
 13 They have been among the rebellious ones
 They have not known His ways,
 Nor remained in His paths.
 14 At the light the murderer riseth,
 He slayeth the poor and needy,
 And in the night he is as a thief.
 15 And the eye of the adulterer
 Hath observed the twilight,
 Saying, 'No eye beholdeth me,'
 And he covereth the face.
 16 He hath dug in the darkness—houses;
 By day they shut themselves up,
 They have not known the light.

- 17 When together, morning is to them death—
 When he discerneth the terrors [shade,
 Of the death-shade.
 18 Light he is on the face of the waters;
 Vindict is their portion in the earth;
 He turneth not the way of the vineyards.
 19 Drought—also heat—consume the snow—
 Sheol those who have sinned. [waters,
 20 Forget him doth the womb,
 Sweeten on him the worm;
 He is not remembered any more:
 And wickedness is broken as a tree.
 21 He evil entreateth the barren who beareth
 And to the widow he doth no good; [not,
 22 And hath drawn the mighty by his power;
 He riseth, and none believeth in life.
 23 He giveth confidence to him,
 And he is supported:
 And His eyes are on their ways.
 24 High they have been for a little, and are
 And have been brought low. [not,
 As all others they are shut up,
 And as the head of an ear of corn cut off.
 25 And if not now, who proveth me a liar,
 And maketh of nothing my word?
 XXV. ¹AND Bildad the Shuhite answereth
 and saith:
 2 Rule and fear are with Him:
 He maketh peace in His high places.
 3 Is there any number to His troops?
 And on whom ariseth not His light?
 4 And what? is man righteous with God?
 And what? is he pure—born of woman?
 5 Lo—unto the moon, and it shineth not,
 And the stars have not been pure in His 6 How much less man—a grub; [eyes.
 And the son of man—a worm.
 XXVI. ¹AND Job answereth and saith:
 2 How hast thou helped the powerless;
 Saved the arm not strong! [wise,
 3 How hast thou given counsel to the un-
 And wise plans abundantly made known.
 4 With whom hast thou declared words?
 And whose breath came out from thee?
 5 The Rephaim are formed,
 Beneath the waters, and their inhabitants.
 6 Naked is Sheol over-against Him,
 And there is no covering to destruction.
 7 Stretching out the north over desolation;
 Hanging the earth upon nothing;
 8 Binding up the waters in His thick clouds,
 And the cloud is not rent under them;
 9 Taking hold of the face of the throne,
 Spreading over it His cloud.
 10 A limit He hath placed on the waters,
 Unto the boundary of light and darkness.
 11 The pillars of the heavens tremble,
 And wonder because of His rebuke.
 12 By His power He hath quickened the sea,
 And by His understanding
 He hath smitten the proud.
 13 By His Spirit He beautified the heavens;
 His hand formed the fleeing serpent.
 14 Lo, these are the borders of His way,
 And how little a matter hath been heard
 Yea, the thunder of His might [of Him;
 Who understandeth?
 XXVII. ¹AND Job continueth to lift up his smile, and saith:—
 2 God liveth!
 He hath turned aside my judgment,

And the Mighty hath made my soul bitter.
 3 For all the while my breath is in me,
 And the spirit of God in my nostrils.
 4 My lips speak not perverseness,
 And my tongue uttereth not deceit.
 5 Pollution to me if I justify you:
 Till I expire I turn not aside
 Mine integrity from me.
 6 On my righteousness I have laid hold,
 And I let it not go:
 My heart reproacheth not while I live.
 7 My enemy is as the wicked,
 And my withstander as the perverse.
 8 For what is the hope of the profane,
 When He cutteth off?
 When God casteth off his soul?
 9 Doth God hear his cry
 When distress cometh on him?
 10 On the Mighty doth he delight himself?
 Doth he call God at all times?
 11 I shew you by the hand of God:
 That which is with the Mighty I hide not.
 12 Lo, ye—all of you—have seen,
 And why is this—ye are altogether vain?
 13 This the portion of wicked man with God,
 And the inheritance of terrible ones
 From the Mighty they receive.
 14 As his children multiply, for them is a
 As to his offspring, [sword].
 They are not satisfied with bread.
 15 His remnant are buried in death,
 And their widows weep not.
 16 If he heap up silver as the dust
 And as clay prepare clothing,
 17 He prepareth—the righteous putteth it on,
 And the innocent apportion the silver.
 18 He hath built his house as a moth,
 And as a booth the watchman hath made.
 19 Rich, he lieth down, but he is not gathered:
 His eyes he hath opened, and he is not.
 20 Terrors overtake him as waters, [away].
 By night a whirlwind hath stolen him
 21 Take him up doth an east wind,
 And he goeth;
 And it frighteneth him from his place.
 22 And casteth at him, and sparcth not:
 From its hand he diligently fleeth.
 23 It clappeth at him its hands,
 And hisseth at him from its place.
 XXVIII. 1 Surely there is for the silver an outlet,
 And a place for the gold they refine:
 2 Iron from the dust is taken,
 And from the firm stone brass.
 3 An end one hath set to darkness,
 And to all perfection he is searching:
 The stone of thick darkness
 And of death-shade.
 4 A stream broke out from a sojourner.
 The forgotten ones of the foot,
 They have been low:
 From man they have wandered.
 5 The earth! from it cometh out bread,
 And its under-part is turned like fire.
 6 Its stones are the place of the sapphire,
 And it hath dust of gold.
 7 A path—the ravenous fowl knew it not.
 Nor scorched it hath the eye of the kite;
 8 Not trodden it have the sons of pride.
 Not passed over it hath the fierce lion.
 9 Against the flint one sent forth his hand,

He overturned mountains from the root.
 10 Among the rocks he cleaved brooks,
 And every precious thing his eye saw.
 11 Floods he hath bound from overflowing,
 And the hidden thing bringeth out to light.
 12 BUT WISDOM—whence is it found?
 And where is this,
 The place of understanding?
 13 Man hath not known its arrangement.
 Nor is it found in the land of the living.
 14 The deep hath said, 'It is not in me.'
 And the sea hath said, 'It is not with me.'
 15 Gold is not given for it,
 Nor is silver weighed—its price.
 16 It is not valued with pure gold of Ophir,
 With the precious onyx and sapphire.
 17 Gold and crystal do not equal it,
 Nor is its exchange a vessel of fine gold.
 18 Corals or pearl is not remembered:
 The acquisition of wisdom is above rubies.
 19 Not equal it doth the topaz of Cush,
 With pure gold it is not valued.
 20 AND WISDOM—whence cometh it?
 And where is this,
 The place of understanding?
 21 Seeing it hath been hid
 From the eyes of all living.
 Even from the fowl of the heavens
 It hath been hidden.
 22 Destruction and death have said:
 'With our ears we have heard its fame.'
 23 God hath understood its way,
 And He hath known its place.
 24 For He to the ends of the earth looketh,
 Under the whole heavens He seeth:
 25 To make for the wind a weight;
 And the waters He meted out by measure.
 26 In His making for the rain a limit.
 A way for the brightness of the thunder.
 27 Then hath He seen and declareth it:
 He prepared it, and even searched it out.
 28 And He saith to man—
 'Lo, the fear of the Lord, that is wisdom,
 And to turn from evil is understanding.'
 XXIX. 1 AND Job continueth to lift up his simile, and saith:
 2 Who shall make me as in months past,
 As in the days of God's preserving me;
 3 In His causing His light to shine
 Upon my head:
 By His light I walk through darkness.
 4 As I was in the days of my maturity.
 And the counsel of God upon my tent.
 5 When yet the Mighty is with me,
 My young ones round about me;
 6 When washing my steps with butter,
 And the firm rock is with me
 Rivulets of oil.
 7 When I go out the gate by the city.
 In the broad place I prepare my seat.
 8 Youths have seen me, and been hidden.
 And the aged have risen—they stood up.
 9 Princes have kept in words,
 And place the hand on their mouth.
 10 The voice of leaders hath been hidden,
 And their tongue cleaved to their palate.
 11 For the ear hath heard,
 And it declareth me happy, [me].
 And the eye hath seen, and it testifieth to 12 For I deliver the afflicted who crieth,
 And the fatherless who hath no helper.

13 The blessing of the perishing cometh on
 And the heart of the widow (me,
 I cause to sing, feth me.
 14 Righteousness I have put on, and it cloth-
 As a robe and a diadem is my justice.
 15 Eyes I have been to the blind,
 Yea, feet to the lame am I.
 16 A father I am to the needy,
 And the cause I knew not I search out.
 17 And I break the jaw-teeth of the perverse,
 And from his teeth I cast away prey.
 18 And I say, 'With my nest I expire,
 And as the sand I multiply days.'
 19 My root is open to the waters,
 And dew remaineth on my branch.
 20 My honour is fresh with me,
 And my bow in my hand is renewed.
 21 To me they have hearkened;
 They wait, and are silent for my counsel.
 22 After my word they change not,
 And on them my speech droppeth.
 23 And they wait for me as for rain,
 And their mouth they have opened wide
 As for the latter rain.
 24 I laugh at them—they give no credence.
 And the light of my face cause not to fall.
 25 I choose their way, and sit head,
 And I dwell as a king in a troop,
 When mourners he comforteth.
 XXX. 1 YET, now, laughed at me,
 Have the younger in days than I,
 Whose fathers I have loathed to set
 With the dogs of my flock:
 2 Also, the power of their hands,
 Why is it to me?
 On them old age hath perished.
 3 With want and with famine gloomy,
 Who flee to a dry place,
 Formerly a desolation and waste.
 4 Who crop mallows near a shrub,
 And broom-roots is their food.
 5 From the midst they are cast out,
 They shout against them as a thief.
 6 In a frightful place of valleys to dwell,
 Holes of earth and clefts.
 7 Among shrubs they groan,
 Under nettles they are gathered together.
 8 Children of folly—
 Even children without name,
 They have been smitten from the land.
 9 Yet, now, their song I have been,
 And I am become a byword to them.
 10 They have abominated me,
 They have kept far from me,
 And from before me,
 They have not spared spitting.
 11 Because He hath loosed His cord,
 And afflicteth me,
 The bridle also from before me,
 They have cast away.
 12 On the right hand the brood rise;
 My feet they have cast away,
 And they rise up against me
 The paths of their calamity.
 13 They have broken down my path,
 By my calamity they proflit:
 'He hath no helper.'
 14 As a wide breach they come,
 Under the desolation rolled themselves.
 15 He hath turned against me terrors:
 It pursueth as the wind mine abundance,

And as a thick cloud,
 My safety hath passed away.
 16 And now, my soul in me poureth itself
 Days of affliction seize me: (out,
 17 At night my bone hath been pierced in me,
 And mine eyelids lie not down.
 18 By the abundance of power
 My clothing is changed,
 As the mouth of my coat it girdeth me.
 19 Casting me into the mire,
 I am even become like dust and ashes.
 20 I cry unto Thee,
 And Thou answerest me not:
 I have stood, and Thou dost consider me.
 21 Thou art turned to be fierce to me;
 With the strength of Thine hand,
 Thou opposest me.
 22 Thou liftest me up,
 On the wind Thou causest me to ride,
 And meltest me—levell'est me.
 23 For I have known
 To death Thou bringest me back,
 And to the appointed house for all living.
 24 Surely against the heap
 He sendeth not out the hand,
 Though in its ruin they have safety.
 25 Wept I not for him whose day is hard?
 My soul hath grieved for the needy.
 26 When good I expected, then cometh evil,
 And I wait for light, and darkness cometh.
 27 My bowels have boiled, and ceased not,
 Days of affliction have gone before me.
 28 Mourning I have gone without the sun:
 I have risen, in the congregation I cry.
 29 A brother I have been to dragons,
 And a companion to daughters of the owl.
 30 My skin hath been black upon me,
 And my bone hath burned from heat;
 31 And my harp becometh mourning,
 And my organ to the sound of weeping.
 XXXI. 1 A covenant I made for mine eyes,
 And what—should I attend to a virgin?
 2 And what the portion of God from above?
 And the inheritance of the Mighty
 From the heights?
 3 Is not calamity to the perverse?
 And strangeness to workers of iniquity?
 4 Doth He not see my ways,
 And all my steps number?
 5 If I have walked with vanity,
 Or my foot hasten to deceit,
 6 Let Him weigh me in righteous balances:
 And let God know mine integrity.
 7 If my step turn aside from the way,
 And after mine eyes my heart hath gone,
 Or to my hands cleaved hath blennish,
 8 Let me sow and another eat,
 And let my products be rooted out.
 9 If my heart was enticed by a woman,
 And by the opening of my neighbour
 I have laid wait,
 10 Grind to another let my wife,
 And over her let others bend.
 11 For it is a wicked thing,
 Yea, it is a judicial iniquity:
 12 For a fire it is, to destruction it consumeth,
 And it would root out all mine increase.
 13 If I despise the cause of my man-servant,
 Or of my hand-maid,
 In their contending with me:
 14 Then what shall I do when God ariseth?

And when He inspecteth,
What shall I answer Him? (make him?)
15 Did not He that made me in the womb
Yea, One preparer of me in the womb.
16 If I withhold from pleasure the poor,
Or the eyes of the widow consume,
17 Or do eat my morsel by myself,
And the orphan hath not eat of it,
18 (For from my youth
He grew up with me as with a father,
And from the belly of my mother
I have led her),
19 If I see any perishing without clothing,
And no covering to the needy;
20 If his loins have not blessed me,
Or from the fleece of my sheep
He warmeth not himself;
21 If I have waved at the fatherless my hand,
When I see in the gate my help,
22 Let my shoulder from its blade fall,
And mine arm from the bone be broken.
23 For a dread to me is calamity from God,
And because of His excellency I am unable.
24 If I have made gold my confidence,
Or to the pure gold said, 'My trust';
25 If I rejoice because my wealth is great,
And because my hand found abundance;
26 If I see the light when it shineth,
Or the precious moon walking,
27 And my heart is secretly enticed,
And my hand kisseth my mouth:
28 It also is a judicial iniquity,
For I had lied to God above.
29 If I rejoice at the ruin of my hater,
Or stirred up myself when evil found him;
30 Yea, I have not suffered my mouth to shew
To ask with an oath his life.
31 If not—say ye, O men of my tent,
'O that we had of his flesh;
We are not satisfied.'
32 In the street lodgeth not the stranger,
My doors to the traveller I open.
33 If I covered as Adam my transgressions,
By hiding in my bosom mine iniquity;
34 If I fear a great multitude,
Or the contempt of families affright me:
Then I am silent,
I go not out of the opening.
35 Who giveth to me a hearing? lo, my mark.
Let the Mighty One answer me,
Seeing a bill mine adversary hath written.
36 If not, on my shoulder I take it up,
I bind it a crown on myself.
37 The number of my steps I tell Him:
As a leader I approach Him.
38 If against me my land cry out,
Or together its furrows weep,
39 If its strength I consumed without money,
Or the life of its owners
I have caused to breathe out:
40 Instead of wheat let the thorn go forth,
And instead of barley the useless weed!
THE WORDS OF JOB ARE FINISHED.
XXXII. 1 AND these three men cease from answering Job, for he is righteous in his own eyes. 2 And the anger of Elihu son of Barachel the Buzite, of the family of Ram, burneth:—against Job his anger burned, because of his justifying himself rather than God; 3 and against his three friends his anger burned, because they have found no answer, yet condemn Job. 4 And Elihu waited earnestly beside Job with words, for they are older than he in days. 5 And Elihu seeth that there is no answer in the mouth of the three men, and his anger burneth.

6 And Elihu son of Barachel the Buzite an-
swereth and saith:
I am young in days, and ye are aged,
Therefore I have feared,
And am afraid of shewing you my opinion.
7 I said: Let days speak,
And let multitude of years teach wisdom.
8 Surely a spirit is in man,
And the breath of the Mighty One
Causeth them to understand.
9 The multitude are not wise:
Nor do the aged understand judgment.
10 Therefore I have spoken: Hearken to me.
I shew my opinion—even I.
11 Lo, I have waited for your words,
I give ear unto your reasons,
Till ye search out sayings.
12 And unto you I attend,
And lo, there is no reasoner for Job,
Or answerer of his sayings among you:
13 Perhaps ye say, We have found wisdom,
God thrusteth him away, not man.
14 Yet he hath not set words in array for me,
And with your sayings I answer him not.
15 They have broken down,
They have not answered again,
They removed from themselves words.
16 And I have waited, but they speak not,
For they have ceased,
They have answered no more.
17 I answer, even I—my share:
I shew my opinion—even I.
18 For I have been full of words,
The spirit of my breast hath distressed me.
19 Lo, my breast is as wine not opened,
Like new bottles it is broken up.
20 I speak and am refreshed,
I open my lips and answer.
21 Pray, let me not accept the person of any,
Nor unto man give flattering titles, (titles:
22 For I have not known to give flattering
In a little my Maker taketh me away.
XXXIII. 1 AND yet, O Job, I pray thee,
Hear my speech,
And to all my words give ear.
2 Pray, lo, I have opened my mouth,
My tongue hath spoken in my palate.
3 The uprightness of my heart
Are my sayings; [spoken.
And knowledge my lips have clearly
4 The Spirit of God hath made me;
And the breath of the Mighty quickeneth
5 If thou art able—answer me: [me.
Set in array before me—station thyself.
6 Lo, I am, according to thy word, for God;
From the clay I also have been formed:
7 Lo, my terror frighteneth thee not,
And my burden on thee is not heavy.
8 Only, thou hast said in mine ears
And the sound of words I hear:
9 'Pure am I, without transgression,
Innocent am I, and I have no iniquity.
10 Lo, He findeth occasions against me,
He reckoneth me for an enemy to Him;
11 He putteth in the stocks my feet,
He watcheth all my paths.'

12 Lo, in this thou hast not been just ;
I answer thee :
That God is greater than man.
13 Wherefore against Him hast thou striven,
When for any of His matters
He answereth not ?
14 For once God speaketh, yea twice,
(He beholdeth it not.)
15 In a dream—a vision of the night,
In the falling of deep sleep on men,
In slumberings on the bed,
16 Then He uncovereth the ear of men,
And for their instruction saileth :
17 To turn aside man from doing ;
And pride from man He concealeth.
18 He keepeth back his soul from corruption,
And his life from passing away by the dart.
19 He hath been reproved
With pain on his bed,
And the strife of his bones is enduring.
20 And his life hath nauseated bread,
And his soul desirable food.
21 His flesh is consumed from being seen,
And his bones are high,
They were not seen ;
22 And his soul draweth near to the pit,
And his life to those who cause death.
23 If there is by Him a messenger,
An interpreter—one of a thousand,
To declare for man His uprightness :
24 Then He favoureth him and saith,
' Ransom him from going down the pit :
I have found an atonement.'
25 Fresher is his flesh than a child's,
He returneth to the days of his youth.
26 He maketh supplication unto God,
And He accepteth him.
And he seeth His face with shouting ;
And He returneth to him
His righteousness.
27 He looketh on men, and saith, ' I sloned,
And uprightness I have perverted,
And it hath not been profitable to me.
28 He hath ransomed my soul
From going over into the pit,
And my life on the light looketh.'
29 Lo, all these God worketh,
Twice—thrice with man,
30 To bring back his soul from the pit,
To be enlightened with the light of the 31 Attend, O Job! hearken to me, [living.
Keep silent, and I speak.
32 If there are words—answer me.
Speak, for I have a desire to justify thee.
33 If there are not—hearken Thou to me ;
Keep silent, and I teach thee wisdom.
XXXIV. 1 AND Elihu answereth and saith
2 Hear, O wise men I my words,
And, O knowing ones I give ear to me.
3 For the ear trieth words,
And the palate tasteth to eat.
4 Judgment let us choose for ourselves ;
Let us know among ourselves what is good ;
5 For Job hath said, ' I have been righteous,
And God hath turned aside my right ;
6 Against my right shall I lie ?
Mortal is mine arrow—without transgress-
7 Who is a man like Job? [alon.
He drinketh scoffing like water,
8 And hath travelled for company
With the workers of iniquity,

So as to go with men of wickedness ;
9 For he hath said, ' It profiteth not a man,
When he delighteth himself with God.'
10 Therefore, O men of understanding,
Hearken to me ;
Far be it from God to do wickedness ;
And from the Mighty to do perverseness ;
11 For the work of man he recompenseth to
And according to the path of each [him,
He causeth him to find.
12 Yea, truly, God doth not wickedly,
And the Mighty
Doth not pervert judgment.
13 Who hath inspected for Himself the earth ?
And who hath placed all the habitable
14 If He set on him His heart, [world?
His spirit and his breath unto Himself He 15 Expire doth all flesh together, [gathereth.
And man to dust returneth.
16 And if—understanding, hear this,
Give ear to the voice of my words.
17 Yea, doth one who hateth justice govern ?
Or the Most Just dost thou condemn ?
18 Who saith to a king—' Worthless,'
Unto princes—' Wicked ?'
19 Who accepted not the person of princes,
Nor hath known the rich before the poor ;
For the work of His hands are all of them,
20 In a moment they die, and at midnight
People shake and pass away ;
And remove the mighty without hand.
21 For His eyes are on the ways of each,
And all his steps He seeth.
22 There is no darkness nor death-shade,
That the workers of iniquity
Are hidden there ;
23 For He doth not suffer man any more,
To go unto God in judgment ;
24 He breaketh the mighty—no searching !
And appointeth others in their stead.
25 Therefore He knoweth their works,
And hath overturned at night,
And they are bruised.
26 As wicked He hath stricken them,
In the place of beholders.
27 For against right
They have turned aside from after Him,
And none of His ways considered wisely ;
28 Causing to come to Him
The cry of the poor,
And the cry of the afflicted He heareth.
29 And He giveth rest, and who wrongeth ?
And hideth the face, and who beholdeth it ?
And in reference to a nation or to a man,
It is the same.
30 For the reigning of a profane man,
From the snares of the people :
31 For unto God hath any said :
' I have taken away, I do not corruptly,
32 Besides that which I see, shew Thou me ;
If iniquity I have done I add not ?'
33 By thee doth He recompense,
That thou hast refused—
That thou chooseth, and not I ?
And what thou hast known, speak.
34 Let men of understanding tell me,
And let a wise man hearken to me.
35 Job speaketh not—with knowledge ;
And his words are not with wisdom.
36 My Father! let Job be tried unto victory,
For answers for men of iniquity ;

- 27 For he addeth to his sin;
Transgression among us he vomiteth,
And multiplieth his sayings to God.
XXXV. 1 And Elihu answereth and saith :
2 This hast thou reckoned for judgment:
Thou hast said,
‘ My righteousness is more than God’s.’
3 For thou sayest, ‘ What doth it profit thee?
What do I profit from my sin?’
4 I—I return thee words,
And thy friends with thee:
5 Behold attentively the heavens and see,
And behold the clouds,
They have been high above thee.
6 If thou hast sinned,
What dost thou against Him?
Thy transgressions have been multiplied,
What dost thou to Him?
7 If thou hast been righteous,
What givest thou to Him?
Or what from thy hand receiveth He?
8 For a man like thyself is thy wickedness,
And for the son of man thy righteousness.
9 By the multitude of oppressions
They cause to cry out,
They cry at the arm of the mighty.
10 And none hath said:
‘ Where is God my maker,
Giving songs in the night,
11 Teaching us more than the beasts of the Yea, than the fowl of the heavens [earth]:
He maketh us wiser.’
12 There they cry, and He answereth not,
Because of the pride of evil doers.
13 Surely vanity God heareth not,
And the Mighty beholdeth it not.
14 Yea, though thou say
Thou beholdest Him not,
Judgment is before Him, and stay for 15 And, now, because there is none, [Him].
He hath appointed His anger,
And hath not known in great extremity.
16 But Job with vanity openeth his mouth:
Without knowledge he multiplieth words.
XXXVI. 1 AND Elihu continueth and saith:
2 Honour me a little, and I shew thee,
That yet for God are words.
3 I lift up my knowledge from afar,
And to my Maker I ascribe righteousness.
4 For, truly, my words are not false,
The perfect in knowledge is with thee.
5 Lo, God is mighty, and despiseth not;
Mighty in power and heart.
6 He reviveth not the wicked,
And the judgment of the poor appointeth.
7 Withdraweth not His eyes from the right:
Or from kings on the throne: [eous],
And He cansthem to sit for ever,
And they become high:
8 And if prisoners in fetters
They be captured with cords of affliction,
9 Then He declareth to them their work,
And their transgressions,
That they have become mighty:
10 And uncovereth their ear for instruction,
And saith that they turn back from iniquity.
11 If they hear and serve, [quity],
They complete their days in good,
And their years in pleasantness.
12 And if they hearken not,
By the dart they pass away,
And expire without knowledge.
13 But the profane in heart set the face,
They cry not when He hath bound them.
14 Their soul dieth in youth,
And their life is among the defiled. [tion],
15 He draweth out the afflicted in his affliction,
And uncovereth their ear in oppression.
16 So also He moved thee from a strait place,
To a broad place—no straitness beyond it;
And the setting beyond of thy table
Hath been full of fatness. [fulfilled],
17 Yet the judgment of the wicked thou hast
Judgment and justice are upheld;
18 Because of fury,
Lest He move thee with a stroke,
And the abundance of an atonement turn
19 Doth He value thy riches? [thee not aside].
He hath gold and all the forces of power.
20 Desire not the night, [stead],
For the going up of the peoples in their 21 Take heed—turn not unto iniquity
For on this thou hast fixed
Rather than on affliction.
22 Lo, God setteth on high by His power,
Who is a teacher like Him?
23 Who hath appointed to Him his way?
And who hath said,
‘ Thou hast done iniquity.’
24 Remember that thou magnify His work
Which men have beheld.
25 All men have looked on it;
Man looketh attentively from afar.
26 Lo, God is great,
We know not the number of His years:
Yea, there is no searching.
27 When He diminisheth
The droppings of the waters,
They refine rain according to its vapour,
28 Which clouds do drop:
They distil on man abundantly.
29 Yea, doth any understand
The spreadings out of a cloud?
The noises of His tabernacle?
30 Lo, He hath spread over it His light,
And the roots of the sea He hath covered;
31 For by them He judgeth the peoples:
He giveth food in abundance. [light],
32 By the palms of the hand He covered the
And layeth a charge over it in its meeting.
33 He sheweth by its substance to his friend,
Anger against perversity.
XXXVII. 1 ALSO, at this my heart trembleth,
And it moveth from its place.
2 Harken ye diligently
To the trembling of His voice,
Yea, the sound from His mouth goeth out.
3 Under the whole heavens He directeth it,
Its light is over the skirts of the earth.
4 After it roareth a voice—
He thundereth with the voice of His ex-
And He holds them not back [celessly].
When His voice is heard. [fully],
5 God thundereth with His voice wonder-
Doing great things which we know not.
6 For to the snow He saith,
‘ Be on the earth.’
And the small rain and the great rain are 7 Into the hand of every man [its strength].
He scaleth them,
For the knowledge by all men of His work.
8 And every beast entereth into covert,

And in their habitations continue.
 9 From an inner chamber cometh the hurri-
 And from the scatterings the cold; [cane,

 And the breadth of waters is straitened;

 On the face of the habitable earth.

 Or for kindness He cause it to come.
 14 Hear this, O Job :
 Stand and consider the wonders of God.
 15 Dost thou know when God placed them,
 And caused the light of His cloud to shine ?
 16 Dost thou know the balancings of a cloud ?
 The wonders of the Perfect in knowledge ?
 17 That thy garments are warm,
 In the quieting of the earth from the 18 Hast thou made with Him [soulth ?
 An expanse for the clouds,
 Strong as a hard mirror ?
 19 Let us know what we shall say to Him :
 We set not in array because of darkness.
 20 Is it declared to Him that I speak ?
 If a man hath spoken,
 Surely he is swallowed up.
 21 And, now, they have not seen the light,
 Bright it is in the clouds,
 And wind hath passed by and cleanseth

 With God is fearful honour.
 23 The Mighty ! we have not found Him out:
 Great in power and judgment,
 And abundant in righteousness, He an-
 24 Therefore men fear Him : [swereth not.
 He seeth not any of the wise of heart.
 XXXVIII. 1 AND the LORD answereth Job out of the whirlwind and saith :
 2 Who is this—darkening counsel
 By words without knowledge ?

 And I ask thee,
 And cause thou Me to know. [earth ?

 Or who cast its corner-stone ?

 Of the stars of the morning,
 When all the sons of God shout for joy,
 8 When He shutteth up with doors the sea,
 In its coming forth,
 From the womb it goeth out.
 9 In My making a cloud its clothing,
 And thick darkness its swaddling band,
 10 Then I measure over it My statute,
 And place a bar and doors,
 11 And say : ' Hitherto come thou, and add
 Seeing a command is placed [not ;
 On the pride of thy billows.'
 12 Since thy days—
 Hast thou commanded the morning ?
 Caused thou the dawn to know its place ?
 13 To take hold on the skirts of the earth,
 That the wicked may be shaken out of it ;
 14 It turneth itself as clay of the seal

And they station themselves as clothing.
 15 Their light is withheld from the wicked,
 And the high arm is broken.
 16 Hast thou come to the springs of the sea ?
 Or in searching the deep
 Hast thou walked up and down ?
 17 Revealed for thee were the gates of death ?
 The gates of death—shade dost thou see ?
 18 Hast thou understanding,
 Even to the broad places of earth ?
 Declare—if thou hast known it all.
 19 Where is this—the way light dwelleth ?
 And darkness, where is its place ?
 20 That thou mayest take it to its boundary,
 And that thou mayest understand
 The paths of its house.
 21 Thou hast known—for then thou art born,
 And the number of thy days are many !
 22 Hast thou come to the treasures of snow ?
 Yea, the treasures of hail dost thou see ?
 23 Which I kept back for a time of distress,
 For a day of conflict and battle.
 24 Where is this,
 The way light is apportioned ?
 It scattereth an east wind over the earth.
 25 Who hath divided for the flood a conduit ?
 Or a way for the lightning of the thunder ?
 26 To cause it to rain on a land—no man,
 A wilderness—no man in it.
 27 To satisfy a desolate and waste place,
 And to cause to shoot up
 The produce of the tender grass ?
 28 Hath the rain a father ?
 Or who hath begotten the drops of dew
 29 From whose belly came forth the ice ?
 And the hoar-frost of heaven,
 Who hath begotten it ?
 30 As a stone are waters hidden,
 And the face of the deep is captured.
 31 Dost thou bind
 The sweet influences of Kinah ?
 The attractions of Kesil dost thou open ?
 32 Bring out Mazzaroth in its season ?
 And Aysh for her children comfort ?
 33 Hast thou known the statutes of heaven ?
 Or appointest thou
 Its dominion in the earth ?
 34 Dost thou lift up to the cloud thy voice,
 That abundance of water may cover thee ?
 35 Dost thou send out lightnings, that they
 And say unto thee, ' Behold us ?' [go,
 36 Who hath put in the inward parts wisdom ?
 Or who hath given
 Understanding to the covered part ?
 37 Who numbereth the clouds by wisdom ?
 And the bottles of heaven
 Who causeth to lie down,
 38 In the hardening of dust into hardness,
 When clods cleave together ?
 39 Dost thou hunt for the lion prey ?
 And the desire of young lions fulfil ?
 40 When they bow down in dens,
 Abide in the thicket for a covert ?
 41 Who prepareth for a raven his provision,
 When his young ones cry unto God,
 As they wander without food ?
 XXXIX. 1 HAST thou known the time of
 The bearing of the wild goats of the rock ?
 The bringing forth of hinds
 Dost thou mark ?
 2 Numberest thou the months they fulfil ?

- Hast thou known the time they bring
 1 They bow down, [forth]
 Their young ones they bring forth safely,
 Their pangs they cast out.
 4 Safe are their young ones;
 They grow up in the field,
 They have gone out,
 And have not returned to them.
 5 Who hath sent out the wild ass free?
 Yea, the bands of the wild ass who opened?
 6 Whose house I have made the wilderness,
 And his dwellings the barren land,
 7 He laughed at the multitude of a city;
 The cries of an exactor he heareth not.
 8 The range of mountains is his pasture,
 And after every green thing he seeketh.
 9 Is a Reem willing to serve thee?
 Doth he remain by thy crib?
 10 Dost thou bind the Reem in the furrow
 With his thick band?
 Doth he harrow valleys after thee?
 11 Dost thou trust in him
 Because his power is great?
 Or leave unto him thy labour?
 12 Dost thou trust in him
 That he will bring back thy seed?
 And to thy threshing-floor gather it?
 13 The wing of the rattling ones exults;
 Whether the wing of the ostrich or hawk.
 14 For she leaveth on the earth her eggs,
 And by the dust warmeth them,

 And a beast of the field tread it down.
 16 Her young ones it hath hardened without

 To her in understanding:
 18 At the time she lifteth herself up on high,
 She laugheth at the horse and at his rider.
 19 Dost thou give to the horse might?
 Dost thou clothe his neck with a mane?
 20 Dost thou cause him to rush as a locust?
 The majesty of his snorting is terrible.
 21 They dig in the valley,
 And he rejoiceth in power,
 He goeth out to meet the armour.
 22 He laugheth at fear, and is not affrighted,
 And he turneth not back
 From the face of the sword.
 23 Against him rattleth the quiver,
 The flame of the spear and halbert.
 24 With trembling and rage
 He swalloweth the ground,
 And remaineth not steadfast
 For the sound of the trumpet.
 25 Among the trumpets he saith, Aha,
 And from afar he smelleth the battle,
 Roaring of princes and shouting.
 26 By thine understanding flieth the hawk?
 Spreadeth he his wings toward the south?
 27 At thy command goeth the eagle up high?
 Or lifteth he up his nest?

 He lodgeth on the tooth of a rock, and a

 And where the pierced are there is he.
 XL. ¹AND the LORD answereth Job and

 2 Is the striver with the Mighty instructed?
 The reprover of God, let him answer it.
 3 And Job answereth the LORD and saith;
 4 Lo, I have been vile,
 What shall I return to Thee?
 My hand I have placed on my mouth.
 5 Once have I spoken, but I answer not;
 Yea, twice, but I add not.
 6 And the LORD answereth Job out of the whirlwind, and saith:
 7 Gird, I pray thee, as a man, thy loins;
 I ask thee, and cause thou Me to know.
 8 Dost thou also make void My judgment?
 Dost thou condemn Me
 That thou mayest be righteous?

 And tread down the wicked in their place.

 Their faces blind in secret.
 14 Then even I do praise thee,
 When thine own right hand
 Giveth salvation to thee.

 Which I made with thee,
 Grass he eateth as an ox.

 His Maker bringeth near his sword;

 Where all the beasts of the field do play.
 21 Under the shades he lieth down,
 In a secret place of the reed and mire.
 22 Cover him do the shades
 With their shadow,
 Cover him do the willows of the brook.

 Or dost thou bind him for thy damsels?

 They divide him among the merchants!
 7 Dost thou fill with barbed irons his skin?
 Or with fish-spears his head?
 8 Place on him thy hand,
 Remember the battle—continue not.
 9 Lo, the hope of him is found a liar,
 Even at his appearance is not one cast down?

10 None so fierce that he awaketh him;
 And who is he
 That before Me stationeth himself?
 11 Who hath brought before Me,
 That I may repay?
 Under the whole heavens it is mine.
 12 I do not keep silent concerning his parts,
 And the matter of might,
 And the grace of his arrangement. [sing?]

 Within his double bridle who entereth?

 They stick together and are not separated.

 As a blown pot or caldron.
 21 His breath setteth coals on fire,
 And a flame from his mouth goeth out.
 22 In his neck strength lodgeth,
 And before him grief exulteth.
 23 The flakes of his flesh have adhered—
 Firm on him—it is not moved.
 24 His heart is firm as a stone,
 Yea, firm as a lower piece.
 25 By his rising the mighty are afraid,
 By breakings they keep themselves free.

 27 He reckoneth iron to be straw,
 Brass to be rotten wood.

 Stones of the sling
 Are turned by him into stubble.

 At the shaking of a javelin.

 He spreadeth gold on the mire.
 31 He causeth the deep to boil as a pot,
 The sea he maketh as a pot of ointment.
 32 After him he causeth a path to shine,
 One thinketh the deep to be hoary.
 33 There is not on the earth his like,
 Who is made without terror:
 34 Every high thing he seeth;
 He is king over all the sons of pride.
 XLII. 1 AND Job answereth the LORD and saith: [art able,
 2 Thou hast known that for all things Thou

And not withheld from Thee is any device:
 3 'Who is this,
 Hiding counsel without knowledge?'
 Therefore I have declared
 That which I understand not,
 Too wonderful for me, that I know not.
 4 'Hear, I pray thee, and I do speak;
 I ask thee, and cause thou me to know.'
 5 By the hearing of the ear I heard Thee,
 And now mine eye hath seen Thee.
 6 Therefore I loathe myself,
 And have repented in dust and ashes.
 7 And it cometh to pass after the LORD's speaking these words unto Job, that the LORD saith unto Eliphaz the Temanite:
 'Mine anger hath burned against thee, and against thy two friends, for ye have not spoken concerning Me rightly, like My servant Job. 8 And now, take to you seven bullocks and seven rams, and go unto My servant Job, then have ye caused a burnt-offering to ascend for yourselves; and Job
 My servant prayeth for you, for surely his face I accept, so as not to do with you folly, for ye have not spoken concerning Me rightly, like My servant Job.' 9 And they go—Eliphaz the Temanite, and Bildad the Shuhite, Zophar the Naamathite—and do as the LORD hath spoken unto them; and the LORD accepteth the face of Job.
 10 And the LORD hath turned to the captivity of Job in his praying for his friends, and the LORD addeth to all that Job hath —the double. 11 And unto him come all his brethren, and all his sisters, and all his former acquaintances, and eat bread with him in his house, and bemoan him, and comfort him concerning all the evil which the LORD had brought upon him, and they gave to him each a kesitah, and each a ring of gold.
 12 And the LORD hath blessed the latter end of Job more than his beginning, and he hath fourteen thousand of a flock, and six thousand camels, and a thousand pairs of oxen, and a thousand she-asses. 13 And he hath seven sons and three daughters. 14 And he calleth the name of the first Jemima, and the name of the second Kezia, and the name of the third Keren-Happuch. 15 And there hath not been found women fair as the daughters of Job in all the land, and their father giveth to them an inheritance in the midst of their brethren.
 16 And Job liveth after this a hundred and forty years, and seeth his children, and his children's children, four generations.
 And Job dieth, old and satisfied with days.

PSALMS.

- I. 1 O THE HAPPINESS OF THAT ONE, who Walked not in the counsel of the wicked,
And in the way of sinners hath not stood,
And in the seat of scorers hath not sat :
2 But in the law of the LORD is his delight,
And in His law he doth meditate,
By day and by night :
3 And he hath been as a tree,
Planted by rivulets of waters,
Which giveth its fruit in its season,
And its leaf withereth not :
And all he doth he causeth to prosper.
4 NOT SO THE WICKED :
But, as chaff which wind driveth away !
5 Therefore the wicked rise not in judgment,
Nor sinners in the company of the right :
6 For the LORD knoweth [cous:]
The way of the righteous,
But the way of the wicked is lost.

- II. 1 Why have nations tumultuously assembled?
And do peoples meditate vanity ?
2 Kings of the earth station themselves,
And princes have been united together,
Against the LORD and His Messiah :
3 ' Let us draw off their fetters,
And cast from us Their thick bands.'
4 He who sitteth in the heavens doth laugh,
The LORD mocketh at them.
5 Then speaketh He unto them in His anger,
And in His wrath He troubleth them :
6 ' And I have anointed My King,
Upon Zion, My holy hill.'
7 I declare concerning a statute:
'The LORD hath said unto me,
'Thou art My Son, I, to-day,
I have brought thee forth.
8 Ask thou of Me,
And I make nations thine inheritance,
And thy possession the ends of the earth.
9 Thou rulest them with a sceptre of iron,
As a vessel of a potter thou crushest them.'
10 And now, O kings, act wisely :
Be instructed, O judges of earth:
11 Serve the LORD with fear,
And rejoice with trembling.
12 Kiss the Chosen One, lest He be angry,
And ye lose the way,
When His anger burneth but a little.
O the happiness of all who trust in Him !

- III. A Psalm of David, in his fleeing from the face of Absalom his son.
1 LORD, how have my distresses multiplied !
Many are rising up against me.
2 Many are saying of my soul :
'There is no safety for him in God.' Selah.
3 Yet Thou, O LORD, art a shield for me :
My glory, and the lifter up of my head.
4 My voice is unto the LORD; I call:
He answereth me from His holy hill,
Selah.
5 I—I have lain down, yea, I sleep:
I have waked, for the LORD sustaineth
6 I am not afraid of myriads of people [me.]

- Which round about they have set against 7 Rise, O LORD ! save me, my God. [me.]
Surely Thou hast smitten
All mine enemies on the cheek :
The teeth of the wicked hast broken.
8 This safety is of the LORD;
On Thy people is Thy blessing. Selah.

- IV. To the Overseer with Stringed Instruments.—A Psalm of David.
1 In my calling answer me,
O God of my righteousness.
In adversity Thou hast given enlargement
Favour me, and hear my prayer. [to me:]
2 Sons of men!
Till when is my glory for shame ?
Ye love a vain thing, ye seek a lie. Selah.
3 Know also that the LORD
Hath separated a saintly one for Himself.
'The LORD heareth in my calling to Him.
4 'Tremble ye, and sin not :'
Say ye thus in your heart on your bed,
And be silent. Selah.
5 Sacrifice ye sacrifices of righteousness,
And trust on the LORD.
6 Many say : 'Who doth show us good ?'
Lift on us the light of Thy countenance.
O LORD.
7 Thou hast put joy in my heart
From the time their corn and their wine
Have been multiplied.
8 In peace together I lie down and sleep :
For Thou, O LORD, alone,
Causest me to dwell confidently.

- V. To the Overseer, 'Concerning the Inheritances.'—A Psalm of David.
1 My sayings hear, O LORD,
Consider my meditation.
2 Be attentive to the voice of my cry,
My king and my God.
3 For unto Thee I pray habitually.
LORD, at morning Thou hearest my voice:
At morning I set in array for Thee,
And look out.
4 For not a God desiring wickedness art
Evil inhabiteth Thee not. [Thou:]
5 The boastful station not themselves
Before Thine eyes :
Thou hast hated all who work iniquity.
6 Thou destroyest those who speak lies ;
A man of blood and deceit
The LORD abominates.
7 And I, in the abundance of Thy kindness,
I enter Thy house ; [Thy fear:]
I bow myself toward Thy holy temple in 8 O LORD, lead me in Thy righteousness,
Because of mine observers :
Make strait before me Thy way.
9 For stability is not in their mouth ;
Their heart is mischiefs :
Their throat is an open grave.
Their tongue they make smooth.
10 Declare them guilty, O God ;
Let them fall from their own counsels.
In the abundance of their transgressions

- Drive them away,
For they have rebelled against Thee.
11 And let all who trust in Thee rejoice;
For ever let them sing;
And cover Thou them over: [Thee.
Let those who love Thy name exult in 12 For Thou bleasest the righteous, O LORD:
As a buckler with favour
Thou compassedst him.

VI. To the Overseer with Stringed Instruments, on the Octave.—A Psalm of David.

- 1 O LORD, in Thine anger reprove me not,
Nor in Thy fury chastise me.
2 Favour me, O LORD, for I am weak;
Heal me, O LORD,
For my bones have been troubled.
3 And my soul hath been troubled greatly,
And Thou, O LORD, till when?
4 Turn back, O LORD, draw out my soul;
Save me for Thy kindness' sake.
5 For, in death Thy memorial is not.
In Sheol, who giveth thanks to Thee?
6 I have been weary with my sighing;
I meditate all the night on my bed:
With my tears my couch I waste.
7 Old from provocation is mine eye:
It is old because of all mine adversaries:
8 Turn from me, all ye workers of iniquity,
For the LORD hath heard
The voice of my weeping;
9 The LORD hath heard my supplication;
The LORD my prayer receiveth.
10 All mine enemies are ashamed,
And they are troubled greatly:
They turn back—ashamed in a moment.

VII. 'The Erring One,' by David, which he hath sung to the LORD concerning the words of Cush the Benjamite.

- 1 O LORD, my God, in Thee I have trusted;
Save me from all my pursuers,
And deliver Thou me.
2 Lest he tear as a lion my soul;
Rending, and there be no deliverer.
3 O LORD, my God, if I have done this,
If there be iniquity in my hands,
4 If I have paid my wellwisher evil,
Or draw mine adversary without cause:
5 Let an enemy pursue my soul,
And overtake;
And tread down to the earth my life;
And my honour place in the dust. Selah.
6 Rise, O LORD, in Thine anger:
Be lifted up at the wrath of mine adver-
And awake for me: [saries.
Judgment Thou hast commanded:
7 And a company of peoples compass Thee;
And over it on high return Thou.
8 Let the LORD judge the peoples;
Judge me, O LORD,
According to my righteousness,
And according to mine integrity in me:
9 Let the evil of the wicked, I pray Thee,
Be ended;
And establish Thou the righteous
Seeing a trier of hearts and reins
Is the righteous God.
10 My shield is on God,
The saviour of the upright of heart:
11 God is a righteous judge

- And is not angry at all times.
12 If one turn not, His sword he sharpens;
His bow he hath trodden—He prepareth

And brought forth falsehood.
15 A pit he hath prepared which he diggeth,
And he falleth unto the ditch he maketh.
16 His perverseness returneth on his head,
And on his crown his violence cometh
17 I thank the LORD, [down.

VIII. To the Overseer, 'On the Gittith.'
A Psalm of David.

- 1 Jehovah, our Lord,
How honourable Thy name in all the earth!
Who settest thine honour on the heavens.
2 By the mouth of infants and sucklings
Thou hast founded strength:
Because of Thine adversaries,
To still an enemy and a self-avenger.
3 For I see Thy heavens,
The work of Thy fingers;
Moon and stars that Thou establishedst.
4 What is man that Thou rememberest him?
The son of man that Thou inspectest him?
5 And causest him to lack
A little of Godhead,
And with honour and majesty compassed
6 Thou causest him to rule [him.
Over the works of Thy hands;
All Thou hast placed under his feet.
7 Sheep and oxen, all of them;
Yea, even beasts of the field,
8 Bird of the heavens, and fish of the sea:
Passing through the paths of the seas.
9 Jehovah, our Lord, [earth!
How honourable Thy name in all the

IX. To the Overseer, 'On the Death of Labben.'—A Psalm of David.

- 1 I confess, O LORD, with all my heart;
I recount all Thy wonders;
2 I rejoice and exult in Thee;
I praise Thy name, O Most High.
3 In mine enemies turning backward,
They stumble and perish at Thy presence.
4 For Thou hast executed
My judgment and my right;
Thou hast sat on a throne
A judge of righteousness;
5 Thou hast rebuked nations;
Thou hast destroyed the wicked:
Thou name Thou hast blotted out
For ever and ever.
6 O thou Enemy,
Destructions have been finished for ever:
As to cities thou hast plucked up.
Their memorial hath perished with them.
7 And the LORD for ever abideth,
He prepareth for judgment His throne.
8 And judgeth the world in righteousness:
He judgeth the peoples in uprightness.
9 And the LORD is a tower for the bruised,
A tower for times of adversity.
10 They who know Thy name trust in Thee:

- For Thou hast not forsaken
Those who seek Thee, O LORD.
 11 Sing ye praise to the LORD,
The Inhabitant of Zion;
Toll ye among the peoples His acts;
 12 That He who seeketh blood
Hath remembered them:
He hath not forgotten the cry of the af-
 13 Favour me, O LORD, [flicted].
See mine affliction by those who hate me,
Thou who liftest me up from the gates of 14 So that I recount all Thy praise, [death]:
In the gates of the daughter of Zion.
I rejoice on Thy salvation.
 15 Nations have sunk in a pit they made;
In a net which they hid
Hath their own foot been captured.
 16 The LORD hath been known,
Judgment He hath executed:
By a work of his own hands
Hath the wicked been snared.
Meditation. Selah.
 17 The wicked turn back to Sheol,
All nations forgetting God.
 18 For the needy is not always forgotten,
The hope of the humble lost for ever.
 19 Rise, O LORD, let not man be strong;
Let untaught be judged before Thy face.
 20 Appoint, O LORD, a director for them;
Let nations know—they are men! Selah.

- X. 1 Why, LORD, standest Thou at a distance?
Hidest Thou in times of adversity?

The poor is inflamed.

On high are Thy judgments before him:
All his adversaries he puffeth at them.

He hath hid His face, He hath never seen.'
 12 Arise, O LORD! O God, lift up Thy hand!
Forget not the humble. [God?]
 13 Wherefore hath the wicked despised
He said in his heart, 'It is not required.'

 18 To judge the fatherless and bruised:
He addeth no more to oppress—
Man of the earth!

XI. To the Overseer.—By David.

Because of the bird?

XII. To the Overseer, on the Octave.—A Psalm of David.

- 1 Save, LORD, for the saintly hath failed,
For the steadfast have ceased
From the children of men:
 2 Vanity they speak each with his neigh-
Lip of flattery! [bour];
With double heart they speak.
 3 The LORD cutteth off all lips of flattery,
The tongue speaking great things,
 4 Who said, 'By our tongue we do mightily:
Our lips are our own; who is Lord over us?'
 5 Because of the spoiling of the poor,
Because of the groaning of the needy,
Now I arise, saith the LORD:
I place in safety him who breatheth for it.
 6 The sayings of the LORD are pure sayings:
Tried silver, in a furnace of earth,
Refined sevenfold.
 7 Thou, O LORD, preservest them, [ever].
Thou keepest us from this generation fo:

According as vileness is exalted
By the sons of men.

XIII. To the Overseer.—A Psalm of David.

- 1 Till when, O LORD,
Dost Thou forget me? for ever? [me?]
Till when dost Thou hide Thy face from 2 Till when do I put counsels in my soul?
Sorrow in my heart daily?
Till when is mine enemy exalted over me?

- 2 Look attentively ;
 Answer me, O LORD, my God ;
 Enlighten mine eyes, lest I sleep in death :
 3 Lest mine enemy say, ' I overcame him.'
 Mine adversaries joy when I am moved.
 4 But I in Thy kindness have trusted,
 My heart rejoiceth in Thy salvation.
 5 I sing to the LORD,
 For He hath conferred benefits on me.

XIV. To the Overseer.—By David.

- 1 A fool hath said in his heart, ' God is not ;'
 They have done corruptly,
 They have done abominable actions ;
 There is none doing good.
 2 The LORD from the heavens
 Hath looked on the sons of men,
 To see if there be a wise one—seeking God.
 3 The whole have turned aside ;
 Together they have been filthy ;
 There is none doing good, not even one.
 4 Have all who work iniquity not known ?
 They who consume my people ate bread,
 The LORD they have not called.
 5 There they have feared a fear, [eous.
 For God is in the generation of the right-
 6 The counsel of the poor ye cause to Because the LORD is his refuge. [stink,
 7 ' Who giveth from Zion the salvation of
 When the LORD turneth back [Israel ?'
 To a captivity of His people,
 Jacob rejoiceth, Israel is glad.

XV. A Psalm of David.

- 1 LORD, who sojourneth in Thy tent ?
 Who dwelleth in Thy holy hill ?
 2 He who walketh uprightly,
 And worketh righteousness,
 And speaketh truth in his heart.
 3 He hath not slandered by his tongue,
 He hath not done to his friend evil :
 And reproach hath not lifted up
 Against his neighbour.
 4 Despised in his eyes is a rejected one,
 And the fearers of the LORD he honoureth.
 He hath sworn to suffer evil,
 And he changeth not ;
 5 His silver he hath not given in usury ;
 And a bribe against the innocent
 He hath not taken ;
 Whoso doth these is not moved for ever.

XVI. A Secret Treasure of David.

- 1 Preserve me, O God,
 For I have trusted in Thee.
 2 Thou hast said to Jehovah,
 ' Thou art my Lord ;'
 My good is not for thine own sake.
 3 For the holy ones who are in the land,
 And the honourable,
 All my delight is in them.
 4 Their griefs are multiplied
 Who have hastened backward ;
 I pour not out their libations of blood,
 Nor take up their names on my lips.
 5 The LORD is the portion of my share
 And of my cup :
 Thou—Thou upholdest my lot.
 6 Lines have fallen to me in pleasant places,
 Yea, a beautiful inheritance is mine.
 7 I bless the LORD who counselled me :

- Even in the nights my reins instruct me.
 8 I placed the LORD before me continually,
 Because at my right hand
 I am not moved.
 9 Therefore my heart hath been glad,
 And my honour rejoiceth,
 Even my flesh dwelleth confidently :
 10 For Thou dost not leave my soul to Sheol,
 Nor give thy saintly one to see corruption.
 11 Thou caust me to know the path of life :
 Fulness of joys is by Thy presence,
 Pleasant things by Thy right hand for ever

XVII. A Prayer of David.

- 1 Hear, O LORD, righteousness ; attend my Give ear to my prayer, [cry
 Without lips of deceit.
 2 From before Thee let my judgment go
 Let Thine eyes see uprightly. [out ;
 3 Thou hast proved my heart,
 Thou hast inspected by night,
 Thou hast tried me, Thou findest nothing ;
 My thoughts pass not over my mouth.
 4 As to the doings of man,
 Through a word of Thy lips I observed
 The paths of a destroyer ;
 5 Upholding my goings in Thy paths,
 My steps have not slidden.
 6 I called Thee, for Thou answerest me ;
 O God, incline Thine ear to me,
 Hear my speech.
 7 Separate wonderfully Thy kindness
 By Thy right hand,
 O Saviour of the confiding, from with-

 The daughter of the eye ;
 In the shadow of Thy wings hide me ;
 9 From the presence of the wicked
 Who have spoiled me.
 Mine enemies in soul go round against me :
 10 Their fat they have closed up ;
 Their mouths have spoken proudly :
 11 ' Our steps now have compassed him ;'
 Their eyes set to turn aside in the land.
 12 His likeness as a lion desirous of tearing,
 As a young lion dwelling in secret places.
 13 Arise, O LORD, go before his face,
 Cause him to bend.
 Deliver my soul from the wicked, Thy

 From men of the world,
 Their portion is in life : [their belly ;
 And with Thy hidden things Thou fillest
 They are satisfied with children :
 And have left their abundance
 To their sucklings.
 15 I—in righteousness, I see Thy face :
 I am satisfied in awaking with thy form.

XVIII. To the Overseer.—By a servant of the LORD, by David, who hath spoken to the LORD the words of this song in the day the LORD delivered him from the hand of all his enemies, and from the hand of Saul, when he saith :—

- 1 I love Thee, O LORD, my strength.
 2 The LORD is my rock, and my bulwark,
 And my deliverer.
 My God is my rock ; I trust in Him :
 My shield, and the horn of my salvation,
 My high tower.

- 2 'The praised One' I call the LORD,
 And from mine enemies I am saved.
 4 The cords of death have compassed me,
 And the streams of the worthless
 Make me afraid.
 5 The cords of Sheol have surrounded me.
 The snares of death have been before me.
 6 In mine adversity I call the LORD,
 And unto my God I cry.
 He heareth from His temple my voice,
 My cry before Him cometh into His ears.
 7 And the earth shaketh and trembleth,
 And the foundations of hills are troubled.
 And they shake; because He hath wrath.
 8 Smoke hath gone up by His nostrils,
 And fire from His mouth consumeth;
 Coals have been kindled by it.
 9 And He inclineth the heavens,
 And cometh down,
 And thick darkness is under His feet.
 10 And He rideth on a cherub, and doth fly.
 And He flieth on the wings of the wind.
 11 He maketh darkness His secret place,
 Round about Him His tabernacle,
 Darkness of waters,
 Thick clouds of the skies.
 12 From the brightness before Him
 His thick clouds have passed on,
 Hail and coals of fire.
 13 And the LORD thundereth in the heavens,
 And the Most High giveth forth His voice,
 Hail and coals of fire.
 14 He sendeth arrows and scattereth them;
 And much lightning and crusheth them.
 15 And the streams of waters are seen,
 And foundations of the earth are revealed.
 By Thy rebuke, O LORD,
 By the breath of the spirit of Thine anger.
 16 He sendeth from above—He taketh me,
 He draweth me out of many waters.
 17 He delivereth me from my strong enemy,
 And from those who hate me,
 For they have been stronger than I.
 18 They go before me
 In a day of my calamity;
 But the LORD becometh my support.
 19 And He bringeth me out to a large place:
 He draweth me out,
 Because He hath delighted in me.
 20 The LORD recompenseth me
 According to my righteousness,
 According to the cleanness of my hands
 He returneth to me.
 21 For I have kept the ways of the LORD,
 And did not wickedly against my God.
 22 But all His judgments are before me:
 And His statutes I turn not from me.
 23 And I am perfect with him:
 And I keep myself from mine iniquity.
 24 And the LORD returneth to me
 According to my righteousness,
 According to the cleanness of my hands
 Before His eyes.
 25 With the kind Thou showest Thyself kind:
 With the perfect man
 Thou showest Thyself perfect:
 26 With the pure Thou showest Thyself
 And with the perverse [pure]:
 Thou showest Thyself a wrestler:
 27 For Thou a poor people savest,
 And the eyes of the high causest to fall.
- 28 For Thou—Thou lightest my lamp.
 The LORD my God enlighteneth my dark-
 29 For by Thee I run—a troop! [ness.
 And by my God I leap a wall.
 30 God! perfect is His way:
 The saying of the LORD is tried:
 A shield He is to all who trust in Him.
 31 For who is God besides Jehovah?
 And who is a rock save our God?
 32 God! who guideth me with strength,
 And maketh perfect my way.
 33 Who maketh my feet like hinds,
 On my high places causeth me to stand.
 34 He teacheth my hands for the battle,
 And a bow of brass
 Hath been brought down by mine arms.
 35 And Thou givest to me
 The shield of Thy salvation,
 And Thy right hand supporteth me:
 And Thy lowliness maketh me great.
 36 Thou enlargest my steps under me,
 And mine ankles have not slidden.
 37 I pursue mine enemies,
 And overtake them,
 And turn back not till they are consumed.
 38 I smite them, and they are not able to rise:
 They fall under my feet.
 39 Thou girdest me with strength for battle:
 Causest my withstanders to bow under 40 As to mine enemies, [me.
 Thou hast given to me the neck;
 As to those who hate me—I cut them off.
 41 They cry, and there is no saviour,
 On the LORD, but He answereth them not.
 42 And I beat them as dust before the wind,
 As mire of the streets I empty them out.
 43 Thou deliverest me
 From the strivings of the people;
 Thou placest me for a head of nations:
 A people I knew not do serve me: [me;
 44 At the hearing of the ear they hearken to
 Sons of a stranger feign obedience to me:
 45 Sons of a stranger fade away,
 And are slain out of their close places.
 46 The LORD liveth: and blessed is my rock,
 And exalted is the God of my salvation.
 47 God, who giveth vengeance to me,
 And subdueth peoples under me:
 48 My deliverer from mine enemies,
 Above my withstanders Thou raisest me,
 From a man of violence deliverest me.
 49 Therefore I confess Thee
 Among the nations, O LORD:
 And to Thy name I sing praise:
 50 Magnifying the salvation of His king,
 And doing kindness to His anointed:
 To David, and to his seed for ever.

XIX. To the Overseer.—A Psalm of David.
 1 The heavens are recounting the honour
 And the work of His hands [of God,
 The expanse is declaring.
 2 Day to day uttereth speech,
 And night to night sheweth knowledge:
 3 There is no speech, and there are no words:
 Their voice hath not been heard.
 4 Into all the earth their line hath gone out,
 And to the end of the world their sayings.
 For the sun in them
 He hath placed a tent: [his covering,
 5 And he, as a bridegroom, goeth out from

- He rejoiceth as a mighty one
To run the path. [out,
From the end of the heavens is his going
And his revolution is unto their ends,
And nothing is hid from his heat.
The law of the Lord is perfect,
Refreshing the soul;
The testimonies of the Lord are steadfast.
Making wise the simple;
The precepts of the Lord are right,
Rejoicing the heart;
The command of the Lord is pure,
Enlightening the eyes: [for ever;
The fear of the Lord is clean, remaining
The judgments of the Lord are true,
They have been righteous together.
They are more desirable than gold;
Yea, than much fine gold;
And sweeter than honey,
Even liquid honey of the comb.
Thy servant also is warned by them;
In keeping them—a great reward.
Errors! who understandeth?
From hidden ones declare me innocent;
Also, from presumptuous ones
Keep back Thy servant.
Let them not rule over me;
Then am I perfect,
And declared innocent of much transgression.
Let the sayings of my mouth, [sion.
And the meditation of my heart,
Become a pleasing thing before Thee,
O Lord, my rock, and my redeemer.

XX. To the Overseer.—A Psalm of David.

- The Lord answer Thee
In a day of adversity: [on high;
The name of the God of Jacob set thee
Send Thy help from the sanctuary,
And from Zion support thee;
Remember all Thine offerings, [Selah.
And Thy burnt-offerings reduce to ashes.
Give to thee according to Thine own heart,
And all Thy counsel fulfill.
May we sing of Thy salvation,
In the name of our God set up a banner.
The Lord fulfill all Thy requests.
Now I have known
That the Lord hath saved His anointed;
He answereth him from His holy heavens,
With the saving might of His right hand.
Some of chariots, and some of horses,
But we of the Name of the Lord our God
Make mention.
They have bent and have fallen,
And we have risen and station ourselves
O Lord, save the king; [upright.
Let Him answer us in the day we call.

XXI. To the Overseer.—A Psalm of David.

- Lord, in Thy strength the king is joyful;
In Thy salvation how greatly he rejoiceth.
The desire of his heart Thou gavest to him,
And the request of his lips
Thou hast not withheld. Selah.
For thou puttest before him blessings of goodness,
Settest on his head a crown of fine gold.
Life he hath asked from Thee;
Thou hast given to him length of days
For ever and ever.

- Great is his honour in Thy salvation,
Honour and majesty Thou placest on him.
For Thou makest him blessings for ever;
Thou causest him to rejoice with joy
By Thy countenance.
For the king is trusting in the Lord,
And in the kindness of the Most High
He is not moved.
Thy hand cometh to all Thine enemies,
Thy right hand cometh to Thy haters.
Thou makest them as a furnace of fire,
At the time of Thy presence.
The Lord in His anger swalloweth them,
And fire devoureth them.
Their fruit from earth Thou destroyest,
And their seed from the children of men:
For they stretched out evil against Thee;
They have devised a wicked device;
They prevail not:
For Thou makest them a butt,
When Thy strings Thou preparest
Against their faces.
Be Thou exalted, Lord, in Thy strength;
We sing and praise Thy might.

XXII. To the Overseer, on 'The Hind of the Morning.'—A Psalm of David.

- My God, my God,
Why hast Thou forsaken me?
Far from my salvation,
The words of my roaring? [est not;
My God, I call by day, and Thou answer-
And by night, and there is no silence to
And Thou art holy, [me.
Sitting, the Praise of Israel.
In Thee our fathers trusted—they trusted;
And Thou dost deliver them.
To Thee they cried, and were delivered-
In Thee they trusted and were not ashamed.
And I am a worm, and no man, [ed.
A reproach of man, and despised of the
All my beholders mock at me, [people.
They make free with the lip,
They shake the head:
Roll on the Lord, let Him deliver him;
Let Him deliver him,
For He hath delighted in him.
For thou art He
Who bringeth me forth from the womb,
Causing me to trust
On the breasts of my mother.
On Thee I have been cast from the womb,
From the belly of my mother Thou art
Be not far from me, [my God
For adversity is near;
For there is no helper.
Many bulls have surrounded me,
Mighty ones of Bashan compassed me;
They have opened for me their mouth,
A lion tearing and roaring.
As waters I have been poured out,
And all my bones have separated.
My heart hath been like wax,
It is melted in the midst of my bowels.
Dried up as an earthen vessel
Hath been my power,
And my tongue is cleaving to my jaws.
To the dust of death Thou appointest
For dogs have surrounded me, [me;
A company of evil doers compassed me,
Piercing my hands and my feet.

- 17 I count all my bones, they look expect-
They look upon me, ^{ingly};
- 18 Apportion my garments to themselves,
And for my clothing cause a lot to fall.
- 19 And Thou, O LORD, be not far off;
O, my strength, to help me, haste.
- 20 Deliver from the sword my soul,
From the paw of a dog mine only one.
- 21 Save me from the mouth of a lion:—
Even from the horns of the high places
Thou hast answered me.
- 22 I declare Thy name to my brethren;
In the midst of the congregation
I praise Thee.
- 23 Ye who fear the LORD, praise ye Him;
All the seed of Jacob, honour ye Him;
Be afraid of Him, all ye seed of Israel.
- 24 For He hath not despised,
Nor hath He abominated
The affliction of the afflicted:
Nor hath He hidden His face from him.
Yea, in his crying unto Him, He heareth.
- 25 Of Thee my praise is
In the great congregation;
My vows I complete before His fearers.
- 26 The humble eat and are satisfied:
Ye who seek Him praise the LORD,
Let your heart live for ever.
- 27 Let all ends of the earth remember
And return unto the LORD;
And let all families of the nations
Bow themselves before Thee:
- 28 For the LORD hath the kingdom,
And He ruleth among the nations;
- 29 And the fat ones of earth have eaten,
And bow themselves; ^[the dust:]
Before Him bow do all who go down to
And he who hath not revived his soul.

To a people that is born,
That He hath made.

XXIII. A Psalm of David.

- 1 The LORD is my shepherd, I have no lack;
- 2 In pastures of tender grass
He causeth me to lie down
By quiet waters He leadeth me.
- 3 My soul He refresheth;
He leadeth me in paths of righteousness
For His name's sake.
- 4 Also, when I walk in a valley of death,
I fear not evil: ^[shade]
For Thou art with me,
Thy rod and Thy staff—they comfort me.
- 5 Thou arrange before me a table
Over-against mine adversaries;
Thou hast anointed with oil my head;
My cup is full.
- 6 Only, goodness and kindness pursue me
All the days of my life;
And my dwelling is in the house of the LORD for a length of days.

XXIV. A Psalm of David.

- 1 To the LORD is the earth and its fulness;
The world and the inhabitants in it.
- 2 For He on the seas hath founded it
And on the floods He establisheth it.
- 3 Who goeth up into the hill of the LORD?

- And who riseth up in His holy place?
4 The clean of hands and pure of heart,
Who hath not lifted up to vanity his soul,
Nor sworn to deceit:

Even righteousness ^[LORD.]
From the God of his salvation. ^[Him:]
- 6 This is a generation of those who seek
Who seek Thy face, O Jacob! Selah.
- 7 Lift up, O gates, your heads;
And be lifted up, O everlasting doors,
And let the king of glory come in.
- 8 Who is this—'the king of glory?'
The LORD—strong and mighty,
The LORD, the hero of battle.
- 9 Lift up, O gates, your heads,
And be lifted up, O everlasting doors,
And let the king of glory come in.
- 10 Who is He—this 'king of glory?'
The LORD of hosts—
He is the king of glory! Selah.

XXV. By David.

- 1 Unto Thee, O LORD, my soul I lift up;
- 2 My God, in Thee I have trusted:
Let me not be ashamed,
Let not mine enemies exult over me:
- 3 Let none who wait on Thee be ashamed.
Let the treacherous dealers without cause
Be ashamed.
- 4 Thy ways, O LORD, cause me to know,
Thy paths teach Thou me: ^[me:]
- 5 Cause me to tread in Thy truth, and teach
For Thou art the God of my salvation;
Near Thee I have waited all the day.
- 6 Remember Thy mercies, O LORD,
And Thy kindnesses, for of old are they.
- 7 Sins of my youth, and my transgressions,
Remember Thou not.
According to Thy kindness remember me.
For Thy goodness' sake, O LORD.
- 8 Good and upright is the LORD:
Therefore He directeth sinners in the way. ^[ment.]
- 9 He causeth the humble to tread in judg-
And teacheth the humble His way.
- 10 All the paths of the LORD
Are kindness and truth,
To those who keep His covenant
And His testimonies.
- 11 For Thy name's sake, O LORD,
Thou hast pardoned mine iniquity,
Though it is great.
- 12 Who is this—the man fearing the LORD?
He directeth him in the way He chooseth.
- 13 His soul in good remaineth,
And his seed possesseth the land.
- 14 The secret of the LORD
Is for those who fear Him,
And His covenant to cause them to know.
- 15 Mine eyes are continually unto the LORD,
For He bringeth out from a net my feet.
- 16 Turn unto me, and favour me,
For lonely and afflicted am I.
- 17 The distresses of my heart
Have enlarged themselves:
From my distresses bring me out.
- 18 See mine affliction and my misery.
And bear with all my sins. ^[many:]
- 19 See mine enemies, for they have been
Who with violent hatred have hated me.

- ²⁰ Keep my soul and deliver me;

And with the wicked I sit not.

And to recount all Thy wonders.

To look on the pleasantness of the LORD,
And to inquire in His temple;

In the day of evil;
He hideth me in a secret place of His tent;
On a rock He raiseth me up;

Above mine enemies, my surroundings,
And I sacrifice in His tent
Sacrifices of shouting: I sing,
Yea, I sing praise to the LORD.

XXX. A Psalm.—A song of the dedication of the house of David.

1 I exalt Thee, O LORD,
For Thou hast drawn me up,
And hast not caused mine enemies
To rejoice over me.
2 LORD, my God, I have cried to Thee,
And Thou healest me.
3 LORD, Thou hast brought up from Sheol
Thou hast kept me alive [my soul;
From going down to the pit.
4 Sing praise to the LORD, ye His saints,
And give thanks
At the remembrance of His kindness:
5 For a moment is in His anger:
Life is in His good-will:
At evening weeping remaineth,
And at morn singing.
6 And I, in mine ease I have said,
'I am not moved for ever.'
7 O LORD, in Thy good pleasure
Thou hast caused strength to remain
For my mountain:
Thou hast hidden Thy face—I have been
8 Unto Thee, O LORD, I call, [troubled.
And unto the LORD I make supplication:
9 'What gain in my blood?
In my going down unto corruption?
Doth dust thank Thee?
Doth it declare Thy truth?
10 Hear, O LORD, and favour me;
O LORD, be a helper to me.'
11 Thou hast turned my mourning
To dancing for me,
Thou hast loosed my sackcloth,
And girded me with joy: [silent;
12 So that honour praiseth Thee, and is not
O LORD, my God, for ever I thank Thee.

XXXI. To the Overseer.—A Psalm of David.

1 In Thee, O LORD, I have trusted:
Let me not be ashamed for ever:
In Thy righteousness deliver me.
2 Incline to me Thine ear hastily; deliver me;
Be to me for a strong rock,
A house of bulwarks to save me.
3 For my rock and my bulwark art Thou,
For Thy name's sake lead me and tend me.
4 Bring me out from the net
Which they have hid for me,
For Thou art my strength.
5 Into Thy hand I commit my spirit:
Thou hast redeemed me,
LORD God of truth.
6 I have hated observers of lying vanities,
And toward the LORD have been confident.
7 I rejoice and am glad in Thy kindness,
Because Thou hast seen mine affliction,
Thou hast known in adversities my soul.
8 And hast not shut me up
Into the hand of an enemy:

Thou hast caused my feet to stand
In a broad place.

9 Favour me, LORD, for distress is to me;
Mine eye, my soul, and my body
Become old by provocation.
10 For my life hath been consumed in sorrow,
And my years in sighing.
Feeble because of mine iniquity
Hath been my strength.
And my bones have become old.
11 Among all mine adversaries
I have been a reproach,
And to my neighbours exceedingly,
And a fear to mine acquaintances;
Those who see me without—fled from me.
12 I have been forgotten as dead out of mind,
I have been as a perishing vessel;
13 For I have heard an evil account of many:
Fear is round about:
In their being united together against me,
To take my life they have devised:
14 And I have trusted on Thee, O LORD:
I have said, 'Thou art my God.'
15 In Thy hand are my times:
Deliver me from the hand of mine ene-
And from my pursuers. [mies,
16 Cause Thy face to shine on Thy servant:
Save me in Thy kindness.
17 O LORD, let me not be ashamed,
For I have called Thee;
Let the wicked be ashamed.
Let them become silent to Sheol.
18 Let lips of falsehood become dumb,
Which speak against the righteous,
Ancient sayings, in pride and contempt.
19 How abundant is Thy goodness
Which Thou hast laid up
For those who fear Thee.
Thou hast wrought for those who trust in
Before the sons of men. [Thee,
20 Thou hidest them in the secret place of
From artifices of man: [Thy presence
Thou concealest them in a tabernacle
From the strife of tongues:
21 Blessed is the LORD,
For He made marvellous His kindness
To me in a city of bulwarks.
22 And I—I have said in my haste,
'I have been cut off before Thine eyes';
Thou hast heard the voice
Of my supplications
In my crying unto Thee.
23 Love the LORD, all ye His saints.
The LORD is keeping the faithful,
And recompensing abundantly
The proud doer.

XXXII. A Psalm of David.—An Instruction.

1 O the happiness of him
Whose transgression is forgiven,
Whose sin is covered.
2 O the happiness of a man
To whom the Lord imputeth not iniquity,
And in whose spirit is no deceit.
3 When I have kept silence
My bones have become old,
Through my roaring all the day:
4 When by day and by night
Thy hand is heavy upon me,

- My moisture hath been changed
 Into the drougths of summer. Selah.
 5 My sin I cause Thee to know,
 And mine iniquity I have not covered :
 I have said, 'I confess concerning
 My transgressions to the LORD :'
 And Thou hast taken away
 The iniquity of my sin. Selah.
 6 For this every saintly one prayeth to Thee,
 At a time for finding.
 Surely at an overflowing of many waters,
 Unto him they come not.
 7 Thou art a hiding-place for me :
 From distress Thou keepest me :
 With songs of deliverance
 Thou compassedst me. Selah.
 8 I cause thee to act wisely,
 And I direct thee in this way thou goest ;
 I cause mine eye to take counsel
 Concerning thee.
 9 Be ye not as a horse—as a mule,
 Without understanding,
 With bridle and bit, their ornaments, to
 Not to come near unto thee. [curl,
 10 Many are the pains of the wicked :
 As to him who trusteth in the LORD,
 Kindness doth compass him.
 11 Be glad in the LORD,
 And rejoice, ye righteous ;
 And sing, all ye upright of heart.

- XXXIII. 1 Sing, O righteous, in the LORD :
 For the upright ones praise is comely.
 2 Give thanks to the LORD with a harp :
 With a psaltery of ten strings sing praise
 3 Sing ye to Him a new song : [to Him ;
 Play skillfully with shouting.
 4 For upright is the word of the LORD :
 And all His work is in faithfulness.
 5 Loving righteousness and judgment,
 Of the kindness of the LORD the earth is 6 By the word of the LORD [full.
 The heavens have been made,
 By the breath of His mouth all their host.
 7 Gathering as a heap the waters of the sea,
 Putting in treasures the depths.
 8 Let all the earth be afraid of the LORD :
 Let all the inhabitants of the world
 Be afraid of Him.
 9 For He hath said, and it is :
 He hath commanded, and it standeth fast.
 10 Jehovah made void the counsel of nations ;
 Disallowed the thoughts of the peoples.
 11 Jehovah's counsel for ever standeth :
 The thoughts of His heart to all genera-
 12 O the happiness of the nation [tions.
 Whose God is Jehovah :
 Of the people He hath chosen
 For an inheritance to Himself.
 13 From the heavens the LORD hath looked,
 He hath seen all the children of men.
 14 From the fixed place of His dwelling
 He looked on all the inhabitants of earth,
 15 Who formeth their hearts together,
 Who attendeth to all their works.
 16 The king is not saved
 By the multitude of a force :
 A mighty man is not delivered
 By abundance of power.
 17 A false thing is the horse for safety,
 And by the abundance of his strength

- He delivereth not.
 18 Lo, the eye of the LORD
 Is toward those who fear Him,
 To those who wait for His kindness :
 19 To deliver their soul from death,
 And to keep them alive in famine.
 20 Our soul hath waited for the LORD,
 Our help and our shield is He ;
 21 For in Him our heart rejoiceth,
 For in His holy name we have trusted.
 22 Let Thy kindness, O LORD, be on us,
 As we have waited for Thee.

XXXIV. By David, in his changing his behaviour before Abimelech, who driveth him away, and he goeth.

- 1 I bless the LORD at all times ;
 Continually His praise is in my mouth.
 2 In the LORD my soul boasteth herself :
 The humble hear and rejoice.
 3 Ascribe greatness to the LORD with me,
 And we exalt His name together.
 4 I sought the LORD, and He answered me,
 And from all my fears delivered me.
 5 They have looked expectingly unto Him,
 And have become bright,
 And their faces are not ashamed.
 6 This poor one hath called,
 And the LORD hath heard,
 And from all his distresses saved him.
 7 The Messenger of the LORD encampeth
 Round about those who fear Him,
 And He smeth them.
 8 Taste and see that the LORD is good.
 O the happiness of the man who trusteth
 9 Fear the LORD, ye His holy ones ; [in Him.
 For there is no lack to those who fear Him.
 10 Young lions have lacked and been hun-
 Yet those who seek the LORD [dry,
 Lack not any good.
 11 Come ye, children, hearken to me :
 The fear of the LORD I teach you :
 12 Who is the man that desireth life ?
 Loving days to see good ?
 13 Keep thy tongue from evil,
 And thy lips from speaking deceit.
 14 Turn aside from evil and do good :
 Seek peace and pursue it.
 15 The eyes of the LORD are to the righteous,
 And His ears toward their cry.
 16 The face of the LORD is on doers of evil.
 To cut off from the earth their memorial.
 17 They cried, and the LORD heard, [them.
 And from all their distresses delivered
 18 Near is the LORD to the broken of heart,
 And the bruised of spirit He saveth.
 19 Many are the evils of the righteous,
 Out of them all the LORD delivereth him.
 20 Keeping all his bones,
 One of them hath not been broken.
 21 Evil putteth the wicked to death,
 And those who hate the righteous are desolate. [vants ;
 22 The LORD redeemeth the soul of His ser-
 And none who trust in Him are desolate.

XXXV. By David.

- 1 Strive, O LORD, with my strivers,
 Fight with my fighters :
 2 Take hold of shield and buckler,
 And arise for my help :

- 8 And draw out spear and lance
To meet my pursuers.
Say to my soul, 'Thy salvation I am.'
- 9 They are ashamed and blush,
Who seek my soul:
Turned backward and confounded,
Who devise my evil.
- 10 They are as chaff before wind, [away,
And the messenger of the LORD driving
Their way is darkness and slipperiness,
And the messenger of the LORD their pur-

For me their net-pit;
Without cause they digged for my soul.
- 12 Desolation meeteth him—he knoweth not,
And his net which he hid catcheth him;
For desolation he falleth into it.
- 13 And my soul is joyful in the LORD,
It rejoiceth in His salvation. [Thee;

Delivering the poor from the stronger

That which I have not known they ask me;
16 They recompense me evil for good,
Bereaving my soul;
17 But I—in their sickness
My clothing is sackcloth:
I have humbled with fasting my soul,
And my prayer to my bosom returneth.
- 18 As a friend, as my brother,
I have walked habitually;
As a mourner for a mother.
Mourning I have bowed down;
19 But, in my halting they have rejoiced,
And have been gathered together:
The smiters were gathered against me,
And I have not known;
They have rent, and ceased not.
- 20 With profane ones, mockers in feasts,
Guashing their teeth against me.
- 21 Lord, how long dost thou behold?
Keep back my soul from their desolations,
From young lions mine only one.
- 22 I thank Thee in the great congregation:
Among a mighty people I praise Thee.
- 23 Mine enemies rejoice not over me
With falsehood;
Those who hate me without cause wink
- 24 For they speak not peace, [the eye.
And against the quiet of the land
They devise deceitful words;
25 And enlarge against me their mouth:
They said, 'Aha, aha, our eye hath seen.'
- 26 Thou hast seen, O LORD:
Be not silent, O LORD; be not far from me.
- 27 Stir up, and wake to my judgment,
My God, and my Lord, to my plea.
- 28 Judge me according to Thy righteousness-
O LORD my God, [ness,
And they do not rejoice over me.
- 29 They do not say in their heart, 'Aha, our
They do not say, [desire.
'We have swallowed him up.'

Who rejoice at my evil: [gether,
They put on shame and confusion,
Who magnify themselves against me.

'The LORD is magnified,
Who desireth the peace of His servant.'

XXXVI. To the Overseer.—By a servant of the LORD, by David.

- 1 The transgression of the wicked
Affirmeth within my heart:
'The fear of God is not before his eyes;
2 For he made it smooth to himself in his
At finding his iniquity to be hated; [eyes, 3 The words of his mouth are iniquity and deceit;
He ceased to act prudently—to do good;
4 Iniquity he deviseth on his bed;
He stationeth himself by a way not good;
Evil he refuseth not.'
- 5 O LORD, in the heavens is Thy kindness;
Thy faithfulness is unto the clouds;
6 Thy righteousness is as mountains of God;
Thy judgments are a great deep.
Man and beast Thou savest, O LORD.
- 7 How precious is Thy kindness, O God;
And the children of men
Trust in the shadow of Thy wings.
- 8 They are filled from the fatness of Thy
And the stream of Thy delights [house,
Thou caustest them to drink.
- 9 For with Thee is the fountain of life;
In Thy light we see light.
- 10 Draw out Thy loving-kindness
To those who know Thee,
Thy righteousness to the upright of heart.
- 11 Let not a foot of pride meet me;
Let not a hand of the wicked move me.
- 12 There the workers of iniquity fell,
They have been overthrown,
And have not been able to rise.

XXXVII. By David.

- 1 Fret not thou because of evil doers;
Be not envious against doers of iniquity;
- 2 For as grass speedily are they cut off;
And as the greenness of the tender grass
They do fade.
- 3 Trust in the LORD and do good;
Dwell in the land, and enjoy faithfulness.
- 4 And delight thyself on the LORD,
And He doth give to thee
The petitions of thy heart.
- 5 Roll on the LORD thy way,
And trust upon Him, and He worketh,
6 And hath brought out as the light
Thy righteousness,
And thy judgment as the noon-day.
- 7 Be silent for the LORD.
And stay thyself for Him;
Fret not because of Him
Who maketh prosperous His way,
Because of a man doing wicked devices.
- 8 Desist from anger, and forsake fury;
Fret not thyself only to do evil.
- 9 For evil doers are cut off;
As to those who wait on the LORD,
They possess the land.
- 10 And yet a little, and the wicked is not;
And thou hast considered his place,
And it is not;
- 11 And the humble possess the land,
And have delighted themselves

In the abundance of peace.

- ¹² The wicked devieth against the right-
And gnasheth against him his teeth. [eous,
¹³ The Lord laugheth at him,
For He hath seen that his day cometh.
¹⁴ The wicked have opened a sword,
And have trodden their bow,
To cause the poor and needy to fall,
To slaughter the upright of the way.
¹⁵ Their sword entereth into their own heart,
And their bows are shivered.
¹⁶ Better is the little of the righteous
Than the store of many wicked.
¹⁷ For the arms of the wicked are shivered,
And the Lord sustaineth the righteous.
¹⁸ The Lord knoweth the days of the perfect,
And their inheritance is for ever.
¹⁹ They are not ashamed in the time of evil,
And in days of famine they are satisfied.
²⁰ But the wicked perish,
And the enemies of the Lord,
As the preciousness of lambs,
Have been consumed:
In smoke they have been consumed.
²¹ The wicked borroweth, and repayeth not:
And the righteous is gracious, and giveth.
²² For His blest ones possess the land,
And His reviled ones are cut off.
²³ From the Lord are the steps of a man:
They have been prepared,
And His way he desireth;
²⁴ When he falleth, he is not cast down,
For the Lord sustaineth his hand. [old,
²⁵ I have been young, I have also become
And have not seen the righteous forsaken,
And his seed seeking bread.
²⁶ All the day he is gracious, and lendeth,
And his seed is for a blessing.
²⁷ Turn aside from evil, and do good,
And dwell for ever.
²⁸ For the Lord loveth judgment,
And forsaketh not His saintly ones;
For ever they have been kept,
And the seed of the wicked cut off.
²⁹ The righteous possess the land,
And dwell for ever on it.
³⁰ The mouth of the righteous uttereth wis-
And his tongue speaketh judgment. [dom,
³¹ The law of his God is in his heart;
His steps slide not.
³² The wicked watcheth for the righteous,
And seeketh to put him to death.
³³ The Lord leaveth him not in his hand,
Nor condemneth him in his being judged.
³⁴ Look toward the Lord, and keep His way,
And He exalteth thee to possess the land:
In the wicked being cut off—thou seest!
³⁵ I have seen the wicked terrible,
And spreading as a green native plant:
³⁶ And he passeth away, and lo, he is not;
And I seek him, and he is not found.
³⁷ Observe the perfect, and see the upright,
For the latter end of that one is peace.
³⁸ And transgressors have been destroyed
The latter end of the wicked [together:
Hath been cut off. [the Lord,
³⁹ And the salvation of the righteous is from
Their strong place in a time of adversity.
⁴⁰ And the Lord helpeth them,
And delivereth them;
He delivereth them from the wicked,

And He saveth them,
Because they have trusted in Him.

XXXVIII. A Psalm of David, 'Causing to remember.'

- ¹ Lord, in Thy wrath reprove me not;
Nor in Thy fury chastise me.
² For Thine arrows have come down on me,
And Thou lettest down on me Thy hand.
³ Soundness is not in my flesh,
Because of Thine indignation;
Peace is not in my bones, because of my

Have passed over my head,
As a heavy burden—too heavy for me.
⁵ My wounds have stunk,
They have become corrupt,
Because of my folly.
⁶ I have been bent down,
I have been bowed down—to excess;
All the day I have gone mourning:
⁷ For my flanks have been full of drought,
And soundness is not in my flesh.
⁸ I have been feeble and smitten—to excess,
I have roared from disquietude of heart.
⁹ Lord, before Thee is all my desire,
And my sighing from Thee hath not been

My power hath forsaken me,
And the light of mine eyes,
Even these are not with me.
¹¹ My lovers and my friends
Over-against my plague stand,
And my neighbours afar off have stood.
¹² And those who seek my soul lay a snare,
And those who seek my evil
Have spoken mischievous things,
And meditate deceits all the day.

And in whose mouth are no reproofs.
¹⁵ Because for Thee, O Lord, I have waited,
Thou dost answer, O Lord my God.
¹⁶ When I said, 'Lest they rejoice over me,
In the slipping of my foot
They magnified themselves against me.
¹⁷ For I am ready to halt,
And my pain is before me continually.
¹⁸ For I declare mine iniquity,
I am sorry for my sin.
¹⁹ And mine enemies are lively;
They have been strong:
And those who hate me without cause
Have been multiplied.
²⁰ And those who pay evil for good accuse me,
Because of my pursuing good.
²¹ Forsake me not, O Lord:
My God, be not far from me:
²² Hasten to help me, O Lord, my salvation.

XXXIX. To the Overseer, to Jeduthun.—

A Psalm of David.

- ¹ I have said, 'I observe my way,
Against sinning with my tongue:
I keep for my mouth a curb,
While yet the wicked is before me.'
² I have been dumb with silence;
I have kept silent from good,
And my pain hath been excited.
³ Hot is my heart within me;

- In my meditating the fire burneth;
I have spoken with my tongue;
4 Cause me to know, O LORD, mine end,
And the measure of my days, what it is;
I know how frail I am. [days,
5 Lo, handbreadths Thou hast made my
And mine age as nothing before Thee.
Only, altogether vanity
Is every man set up. Selah.
6 Only, in an image each walketh habitually:
Only, in vain are they disquieted;
He heapeth up, and knoweth not
Who doth gather them.
7 And, now, what have I expected?
O LORD, my hope—it is of Thee;
8 From all my transgressions deliver me;
The reproach of the fool make me not;
9 I have been dumb, I open not my mouth;
Because Thou hast done it.
10 Turn aside from me Thy stroke;
By the striving of Thy hand
I have been consumed.
11 With reproofs against iniquity
Thou hast corrected man;
And wastest as a moth his desirableness;
Only, every man is vanity. Selah.
12 Hear my prayer, O LORD,
And to my cry give ear;
Unto my tears be not silent;
For a sojourner I am with Thee;
A settler like all my fathers.
13 Look from me, and I brighten up,
Before I go and be not.

XL. To the Overseer.—A Psalm of David.

- 1 I have diligently expected the LORD,
And He inclineth to me, and heareth my cry.
2 And causeth me to come up
From the pit of desolation,
Out of the mire of mud;
And He raiseth up on a rock my feet;
He establisheth my steps,
3 And putteth in my mouth a new song,
'Praise to our God.'
Many see and fear, and trust in the LORD.
4 O the happiness of the man
Who hath made the LORD his trust,
And hath not turned toward the proud,
Or those who turn aside to lies.
5 Much hast Thou done, LORD my God;
Thy wonders and Thy thoughts toward us,
There is none to arrange unto Thee;
I declare and speak;
'They have been more than to be num-
6 Sacrifice and offering [bered.]
Thou hast not desired;
Ears Thou hast prepared for me;
Burnt and sin-offering Thou askedst not.
7 Then said I, 'Lo, I have come';
In the roll of the book it is written of me;
8 To do Thy pleasure, my God, I have de-

9 I proclaim tidings of righteousness
In the great congregation;
Lo, my lips I restrain not,
LORD, Thou hast known.
10 Thy righteousness I have not concealed
In the midst of my heart;
Thy faithfulness and Thy salvation I told;
I hid not Thy kindness and Thy truth
To the great congregation.

- 11 Thou, O LORD, restrainest not
Thy mercies from me; [keep me,
Thy kindness and Thy truth continually
12 For evils innumerable have compassed me,
Mine iniquities have overtaken me;
And I have not been able to see; [head;
They have been more than the hairs of my
And my heart hath forsaken me.
13 Be pleased, O LORD, to deliver me;
O LORD, for my help haste.
14 They are ashamed and confounded to-
Who seek my soul to destroy it; [gether
They are turned backward,
And are ashamed, who desire my evil;
15 They are desolate,
As a consequence of their shame,
Who say to me, 'Alas, alas.'
16 All who seek Thee rejoice,
And are glad in Thee;
Those who love Thy salvation say con-
'The LORD is magnified.' [tinually,
17 Yet I am poor and needy;
Let the LORD devise for me.
My help and my deliverer art Thou;
O my God, tarry not.

XLI. To the Overseer.—A Psalm of David.

- 1 O the happiness of him
Who acteth wisely toward the poor;
In the day of evil the LORD delivereth him.
2 The LORD preserveth him—reviveth him;
He is happy in the land;
And Thou givest him not
Into the will of his enemies.
3 The LORD supporteth him
On the couch of sickness;
All his bed Thou hast turned in his weak-
4 I, I have said, 'O LORD, favour me; [ness,
Heal my soul, for I sinned against Thee.'
5 Mine enemies say evil of me;
'When he dieth—his name hath perished.'
6 And if he come to see: vanity he speaketh;
His heart gathereth iniquity to itself;
He goeth out—at the street he speaketh.
7 All who hate me whisper together against Against me they devise evil to me. [me;
8 'A thing of Belial is poured out on him,
And because he hath lain down
He riseth not again.'
9 Even mine ally, in whom I have trusted,
One eating my bread,
Hath made great the heel against me.
10 Yet Thou, O LORD, favour me;
And cause me to arise,
And I give recompense to them.
11 By this I have known
That Thou hast delighted in me,
Because my enemy shouteth not over me.
12 As to me, in mine integrity,
Thou hast taken hold on me,
And Thou causeth me to stand
Before Thee for ever.
13 Blessed is the LORD, God of Israel,
From age to age. Amen and Amen.

XLII. To the Overseer.—An Instruction.
By sons of Korah.

- 1 As a hart panteth for streams of water,
So my soul panteth toward Thee, O God.
2 My soul hath thirsted for God,
For the living God;

- When do I enter and see the face of God?
 3 My tears have been to me bread
 By day and by night,
 In their saying unto me all the day,
 'Where is thy God?'
 4 These things I remember,
 And pour out my soul in me,
 For I pass over into the booth,
 I go softly with them to the house of God:
 With the voice of singing and confession,
 A multitude keeping the feast!
 5 What! howest thou thyself, O my soul?
 Yea, art thou troubled within me?
 Wait for God, for still I confess Him:
 'The salvation of my countenance, my 6 In me my soul boweth itself, [God.
 Therefore I remember Thee
 From the land of Jordan,
 And of the Hermons, from the hill Mizar;
 7 Deep unto deep calleth
 At the noise of Thy water-spouts;
 All Thy breakers and Thy billows
 Have passed over me.
 8 By day the LORD commandeth His kind-
 And by night a song is with me, [ness,
 A prayer to the God of my life.
 9 I say to God my rock:
 'Why hast Thou forgotten me?
 Why go I mourning
 For the oppression of an enemy?'
 10 With a sword in my bones
 Mine adversaries have reproached me,
 In their saying unto me all the day:
 'Where is thy God?'
 11 What! howest thou thyself, O my soul?
 And what! art thou troubled within me?
 Wait for God; for still I confess Him:
 'The salvation of my countenance,
 And my God.'

XLIII. 1 Judge me, O God,
 And plead my cause against a nation not pious:
 From a man of deceit and perverseness
 Deliver me:
 2 For thou art the God of my strength,
 Why hast Thou cast me off?
 Why mourning go I up and down,
 For the oppression of an enemy?
 3 Send forth Thy light and Thy truth:
 They—they lead me, they bring me in Unto Thy holy hill,
 And unto Thy tabernacles.
 4 And I go in unto the altar of God,
 Unto God, the joy of my rejoicing,
 And I thank Thee with a harp,
 O God, my God.
 5 What! howest thou thyself, O my soul?
 And what! art thou troubled within me?
 Wait for God; for still I confess Him:
 'The salvation of my countenance,
 And my God.'

 Reckoned as sheep of the slaughter.

 Thou forgettest our afflictions
 And our oppression;

 Our belly hath cleaved to the earth.

 And redeem us for Thy goodness' sake.

XLV. To the Overseer.—'On the Lilies.'—
 By sons of Korah.—An Instruction.—A song of loves.

- 1 My heart hath indited a good thing;
 I tell my works to the king:
 My tongue is the pen of a speedy writer.
 2 Thou hast been beautified
 Above the children of men;
 Grace hath been poured into thy lips:
 Therefore God hath blessed thee for ever.

- 9 Gird Thy sword upon the thigh, O mighty;
 Thy glory and Thy majesty!
 10 As to Thy majesty—prosper—ride!
 Because of truth, and meekness,
 And righteousness;
 And Thy right hand sheweth Thee fearful
 11 Thine arrows are sharp, [things.
 (Peoples fall under Thee.)
 12 In the heart of the enemies of the King.
 13 Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever:
 A sceptre of uprightness
 Is the sceptre of Thy kingdom.
 14 Thou hast loved righteousness,
 And dost hate wickedness,
 Therefore God, thy God, anointed thee,
 Oil of joy above thy companions;
 15 Myrrh and aloes, cassia! all thy garments;
 Out of palaces of ivory
 The Meni have made thee glad.
 16 Daughters of kings are among thy precious ones:
 The queen hath stood at thy right hand
 In pure gold of Ophir.
 17 Hearken, O daughter,
 And see, and incline thine ear, [house;
 And forget thy people, and thy father's 18 And the king desireth thy beauty:
 Because he is thy Lord—bow thyself to him: [ing.

 Of gold-embroidered work her clothing.
 21 In divers colours she is brought to the king:
 Virgins—her companions—after her,
 Are brought to thee:
 22 They are brought with joy and gladness;
 They come into the palace of the king.
 23 Instead of thy fathers are thy children:
 Thou appointest them for princes
 Throughout all the earth.
 24 I make mention of Thy name
 Throughout all generations:
 Therefore peoples praise Thee
 For ever and ever,

XLVI. To the Overseer.—By sons of Korah.
 —'For the virgins.'—A song.

- 1 God is to us a refuge and strength,
 A help in adversities found most surely.
 2 Therefore we fear not
 In the changing of the earth,
 And in the slipping of mountains
 Into the heart of the seas.
 3 Its waters roar—they are troubled,
 Mountains they shake in its pride. Selah.
 4 A river—its rivulets rejoice the city of God,
 The holy place of the tabernacles
 Of the Most High.
 5 God is in her midst—she is not moved;
 God helpeth her at the turn of the morn.
 6 Nations have been troubled;
 Kingdoms have been moved;
 He hath given forth with His voice,
 The earth melteth.
 7 The LORD of Hosts is with us,
 A tower for us is the God of Jacob. Selah.
 8 Come, see the works of the LORD:
 Who doth astonishing things in the earth:
 9 Causing wars to cease

- Unto the end of the earth;
 The bow he shivereth;
 And the spear he hath cut asunder;
 Charlots he burneth with fire.
 10 Desist, and know that I am God:
 I am exalted among the nations;
 I am exalted in the earth.
 11 The LORD of hosts is with us,
 A tower for us is the God of Jacob. Selah.

XLVII. To the Overseer.—By sons of Korah.—A Psalm.

- 1 All ye peoples, clap the hand,
 Shout to God with a voice of singing;
 2 For the LORD Most High is fearful,
 A great king over all the earth.
 3 He leadeth peoples under us,
 And nations under our feet.
 4 He chooseth for us our inheritance,
 The excellency of Jacob which He loves.
 Selah.
 5 God hath gone up with a shout,
 The LORD with the sound of a trumpet.
 6 Praise ye God; praise ye;
 Give praise to our king: praise ye:
 7 For king of all the earth is God;
 Give praise, O understanding one.
 8 God hath reigned over nations,
 God hath sat on His holy throne:
 9 Nobles of the peoples have been gathered,
 With the people of the God of Abraham:
 For to God are the shields of the earth;
 Greatly hath He been exalted.

XLVIII. A Song, a Psalm by sons of Korah.

- 1 Great is the LORD, and greatly praised,
 In the city of our God—His holy hill.
 2 Beautiful for elevation,
 A joy of all the land, is mount Zion;
 The sides of the north,
 The city of a great king.
 3 God in her high places hath been known
 For a high tower.
 4 For, lo, the kings have met,
 They have passed by together,
 5 They have seen—so they have marvelled,
 They have been troubled,
 They have been hastened away.
 6 Trembling hath seized them there,
 Pain, as of a travelling woman.
 7 By an east wind Thou shiverest
 The ships of Tarshish.
 8 As we have heard, so we have seen,
 In the city of the LORD of hosts,
 In the city of our God:
 God doth establish her for ever. Selah.
 9 We have thought, O God, of Thy kindness,
 In the midst of Thy temple;
 10 As is Thy name, O God, so is Thy praise,
 Over the ends of the earth:
 Righteousness hath filled Thy right hand.
 11 Mount Zion rejoiceth,
 The daughters of Judah are joyful,
 For the sake of Thy judgments.
 12 Compass ye Zion, and go round her,
 Count ye her towers;
 13 Set your heart to her bulwark,
 Consider her high places:
 That ye may recount to a later generation,
 14 That this God is our God—ever and ever:
 He leadeth us over death.

LII. To the Overseer.—An Instruction, by David, in the coming in of Doeg the Edomite, when he declareth to Saul, and saith to him, 'David came in unto the house of Abimelech.'

LIII. To the Overseer.—'On a disease.'—
 An Instruction, by David.

- 1 A fool hath said in his heart,
 'There is no God.'
 They have done corruptly,
 Yea, they have done abominable iniquity:
 There is none doing good.
 2 God from the heavens hath looked
 On the children of men,
 To see if there be an understanding one,
 One seeking God.
 3 Every one hath gone back,
 Together they have become filthy:
 There is none doing good—not even one.

LIV. To the Overseer with Stringed Instruments.—An Instruction, by David, in the coming in of the Ziphim, when they say to Saul, 'Is not David hiding himself with us?'

- 1 O God, by Thy name save me,
 And by Thy might judge me.
 2 O God, hear my prayer,
 Give ear to the sayings of my mouth;

17 Evening, and morning, and noon
I meditate, and make a noise,
And He heareth my voice.

Reach not to the half of their days;
Yet I—I trust in Thee.

Dove far off.'—A secret treasure of David, in the Philistines' taking hold of him in Gath.

1 Favour me, O God,
For man hath swallowed me up;
All the day fighting he oppresseth me.
2 Mine enemies swallowed up all the day:
For many are fighting against me, O most High.
3 The day I am afraid,
I have confidence towards Thee.
4 In God I praise His word;
In God I have trusted;
I fear not what flesh doth to me.
5 All the day they wrest my words Concerning me all their thoughts are for evil:
6 They assemble, they hide, they watch my heels,
When they have expected my soul.
7 By iniquity they escape.
In anger the peoples put down, O God.
My wanderings Thou hast counted:
Thou, pluck Thou my tears in Thy bottle:
Are they not in Thy book?
8 Then do mine enemies turn backward
In the day I call:
This I have known, that God is for me.
9 In God I praise the word,
In the LORD I praise the word.
11 In God I have trusted,
I fear not what man doth to me.

LVII. To the Overseer.—'Destroy not.'—
A secret treasure of David, in his fleeing from the presence of Saul into the cave.

1 Favour me, O God, favour me,
For in Thee my soul trusteth:
And in the shadow of Thy wings I trust,
Until the calamities pass over.
2 I call to God Most High,
To God who perfecteth for me.
3 He sendeth from heaven and saveth me:
He hath reproached—who panteth after me. Selah.
God sendeth forth
His kindness and His truth.
4 My soul is in the midst of lions:
I lie down among flames—sons of men;
Their teeth are a spear and arrows,
And their tongue a sharp sword.
5 Be Thou exalted above the heavens, O God,
Above all the earth Thine honour.
6 A net they have prepared for my steps;
My soul hath bowed down:
They have digged before me a pit,
They have fallen into its midst. Selah.
7 My heart is prepared, O God,
Prepared is my heart, I sing and praise.
8 Awake, mine honour:
Awake, O psalter and harp;
I awake the morning dawn.
9 I thank Thee among the peoples, O LORD,
I praise Thee among the nations.
10 For great unto heaven is Thy kindness,
And unto the clouds Thy truth.
11 Be Thou exalted above the heavens, O God,
Above all the earth Thine honour.

LVIII. To the Overseer.—'Destroy not.' A secret treasure, by David.

Uprightly ye judge, O sons of men?

In the land the violence of your hands ye

The jaw-teeth of young lions break down,
O LORD.

They go up and down for themselves:
His arrow proceedeth
Even as they cut themselves off.

LIX. To the Overseer.—'Destroy not,' by David.—A secret treasure, in Saul's sending, when they watch the house to put him to death.

- 1 Deliver me from mine enemies, O my God: From my withstanders
Thou settest me on high.
- 2 Deliver me from workers of iniquity,
And from men of blood save me.
- 3 For, lo, they have laid wait for my soul:
Strong ones are assembled against me:
Not my transgression nor my sin, O LORD.
- 4 Without punishment
They run and prepare themselves:
Stir up to meet me, and see.
- 5 And Thou, O LORD God of Hosts,
God of Israel,
Awake to inspect all the nations;
Favour not any treacherous dealers of iniquity.

Thou mockest at all the nations.

If they are not satisfied, they murmur.

And I sing at morn of Thy kindness:
For Thou hast been a high tower for me,
And a refuge for me in a day of adversity.
- 17 O my strength, unto Thee I sing praise:
For God is my high tower,
The God of my kindness.

LXV. To the Overseer.—A Psalm of David.
A Song.

- 1 To Thee, O Lord—praise, O God, is in Zion;

- And to Thee a vow is completed.
2 Hearer of prayer, to Thee all flesh cometh.
3 Matters of iniquities were mightier than I:
Our transgressions—Thou coverest them.
4 O the happiness of him whom Thou
And drawest near: [choicest,
He inhabiteth Thy courts:
We are satisfied with the goodness of Thy Thy holy temple. [house,
5 By fearful things in righteousness Thou
O God of our salvation, [answerest us,
The confidence of all the far off ends
Of earth and sea;
6 Establishing mountains by His power,
He hath been girded with might:
7 Restraining the noise of seas,
The noise of their billows,
And the multitude of the peoples.
8 And the inhabitants of the uttermost
From Thy signs are afraid; [parts
The outgoings of morning and evening
Thou causest to sing.
9 Thou hast inspected the earth,
And Thou waterest it:
Thou makest it very rich;
The rivulet of God is full of waters:
Thou preparest their corn.
When Thou dost thus prepare it,
10 Its ridges have been filled,
Its furrows have been deepened,
With showers Thou softenest it:
Its springing up Thou blessest.
11 Thou hast crowned the year of Thy good-
And Thy paths drop fatness: [ness,
12 Drop do the pastures of a wilderness,
And joy of the heights Thou girdst on.
13 Lambs have clothed the flock,
And valleys are covered with corn:
They shout; yea, they sing.

LXVI. To the Overseer.—A Song, a Psalm.

- 1 Shout ye to God, all the earth:
2 Praise ye the honour of His name;
Make ye His praise honourable.
3 Say to God, ‘How fearful are Thy works;
By the abundance of Thy strength
Thine enemies feign obedience to Thee;
4 All the earth boweth to Thee;
Yea, they sing praise to Thee;
They praise Thy name.’ Selah.
5 Come and see the works of God,
Fearful acts towards the children of men.
6 He hath turned a sea to dry land;
Through a river they pass over on foot:
There we rejoice in Him.
7 Ruling by His might for ever;
His eyes among the nations watch:
The refractory exalt not themselves.
8 Bless, ye peoples, our God, [Selah.
And sound the voice of His praise;
9 Who placeth over soul in life,
And suffered not our feet to be moved.
10 For Thou hast tried us, O God;
Thou hast refined us like the refining of 11 Thou hast brought us into a net; [silver:
Thou hast placed pressure on our loins;
12 Thou hast caused man to ride at our head;
We have entered into fire and into water;
Thou bringest us out to a watered place.
13 I enter Thy house with burnt-offerings;
I complete to Thee my vows;

- 14 For my lips were opened,
And my mouth spake in my distress:
15 'Burnt-offerings of fallings I cause to as-
With perfume of rams: [cend to Thee,
I prepare a bullock with he-goats.' Selah.
16 Come, hear, all ye who fear God,
And I recount what He did for my soul.
17 Unto him I have called with my mouth,
And exaltation is under my tongue.
18 Iniquity, if I have seen it, in my heart,
The Lord heareth not.
19 But God hath heard:
He attended to the voice of my prayer.
20 Blessed is God,
Who hath not turned aside my prayer,
Or His loving-kindness from me.

LXVII. To the Overseer, with Stringed Instruments.—A Psalm, a Song.

- 1 God doth favour us and bless us;
Causeth His face to shine with us. Selah.
2 For the knowledge of Thy way on earth,
Among all nations Thy salvation.
3 The peoples praise Thee, O God;
The peoples praise Thee, all of them.
4 The nations rejoice and sing;
For Thou judgest peoples uprightly,
And peoples on earth comfortest. Selah.
5 The peoples confess Thee, O God;
The peoples confess Thee—all of them.
6 Earth hath given her increase:
God, our God, doth bless us;
God doth bless us,
And all ends of the earth fear Him.

LXVIII. To the Overseer.—A Psalm, a Song of David.

- 1 God ariseth: His enemies are scattered:
Those who hate Him flee from His face.
2 As the driving away of smoke,
Thou drivest away:
As the melting of wax before fire,
The wicked perish at the presence of God.
3 And the righteous rejoice;
They exult before God,
And they joy with gladness.
4 Sing ye to God; praise His name;
Raise up a highway
For Him who rideth in the deserts;
In Jah is His name,
And exult ye before Him.
5 A father of the fatherless,
And a judge of the widows,
Is God in His holy habitation.
6 God—causing the lonely to dwell at home:
Bringing out bound ones into prosperity:
Only, the refractory
Have inhabited a dry place.
7 O God, in Thy going out before Thy people,
In Thy stepping through the wilderness:
8 The earth hath shaken, [Selah:
The heavens have dropped before God;
This Sinai—before God, the God of Israel.
9 A shower of free-will gifts
Thou shakest out, O God;
Thine inheritance, when it was weary,
Thou hast established it.
10 Thy company hath dwelt in it:
Thou preparest in Thy goodness
For the poor, O God.
11 The Lord giveth the saying:

- The female proclaimers are a numerous

And a female inhabitant of the house
Apportioneth spoil.
13 Though ye lie between two boundaries,
Wings of a dove covered with silver,
And her pinions with yellow gold.
14 When the Mighty spreadeth kings in it,
It snoweth in Salmon.
15 A hill of God is the hill of Bashan;
A hill of heights is the hill of Bashan.
16 Why envy ye, O high hills,
The hill God hath desired for His seat?
The Lord also doth tabernacle for ever.
17 The chariots of God are myriads,
Thousands of changes:
The Lord is among them,
Sinai—in the sanctuary.
18 Thou hast ascended on high:
Thou hast taken captivity captive;
Thou hast taken gifts for men,
That even the refractory may rest, O Lord.
19 Blessed is the Lord: [God.
Day by day He layeth upon us:
God Himself is our salvation. Selah.
20 God Himself is to us a God for deliverances:
And the Lord God hath the outgoings of 21 Only, God smiteth [death.
The head of His enemies,
The hairy crown of a habitual walker in

'From Bashan I bring back:
I bring back from the depths of the sea.'
23 So that thy foot thou dashest in blood,
In the blood of thine enemies,
The tongue of Thy dogs.
24 They have seen Thy goings, O God,
Goings of my God, my king, in the sanc-
25 Singers have been before, [tuary.
Behind are players on instruments;
In the midst virgins playing with timbrels.
26 In the congregations bless ye God
The Lord from the fountain of Israel.
27 There is little Benjamin their ruler;
The heads of Judah their defence;
Heads of Zebulun—heads of Naphtali.
28 Thy God hath commanded thy strength
Be strong, O God:
This Thou hast wrought for us.
29 Because of Thy temple at Jerusalem,
To Thee kings bring a present.
30 Rebuke a beast of the reeds,
A company of bulls,
With calves of the peoples,
Humbling himself with pieces of silver;
Scatter peoples delighting in conflicts.
31 Fat ones come out of Egypt:
Cush causeth her hands to hasten to God.
32 Kingdoms of the earth, sing ye to God;
Praise ye the Lord. Selah.
To him who rideth on the heavens
Of heavens of old
Lo, He giveth with His voice a strong noise.
34 Ascribe ye strength to God:
Over Israel is His excellency,
And His strength is in the clouds.
35 Fearful, O God, out of Thy sanctuaries:
The God of Israel Himself
Giveth strength and might to the people.
Blessed is God.

LXIX. To the Overseer.—On the Lilies, by David.

- 1 Save me, O God,
For the waters have come unto the soul.
- 2 I have sunk in deep mire,
And there is no standing;
I have come into the depths of the waters,
And a flood hath overflowed me.
- 3 I am wearied with my calling;
Burnt hath been my throat,
Consumed have been mine eyes,
Waiting for my God.
- 4 They who hate me without cause
Have been more than the hairs of my head;
Mighty have been my destroyers,
My lying enemies:
That which I took not away—I bring back.
- 5 O God, Thou, Thou hast known
Concerning my overturn, [been hid.
And my desolations from Thee have not
- 6 Let not those who wait on Thee
Be ashamed because of me,
O Lord, Jehovah of Hosts;
Let not those who seek Thee
Blush because of me, O God of Israel.
- 7 For because of Thee I bare reproach:
Shame hath covered my face.
- 8 A stranger I have been to my brother,
And a foreigner to sons of my mother.
- 9 For zeal for Thine house
Hath consumed me;
And the reproaches of Thy reproachers
Have fallen upon me.
- 10 And I weep in the fasting of my soul,
And it becometh a reproach to me.
- 11 And I make sackcloth my clothing,
And I become a simile to them.
- 12 Those who sit at the gate
Meditate concerning me;
And the drinkers of strong drink
Play on instruments.
- 13 And I—my prayer is to Thee, O LORD;
A time of good pleasure, O God,
In the abundance of Thy kindness,
Answer me by the truth of Thy salvation.
- 14 Deliver me from the mire, and let me not [sink;
Let me be delivered
From those who hate me,
And from the deep places of waters.
- 15 Let not a flood of waters overflow me,
Nor let the deep swallow me up;
Nor let a pit shut her mouth upon me.
- 16 Answer me, O LORD, for Thy kindnesses is [good,
According to the abundance
Of Thy mercies turn unto me;
- 17 And hide not Thy face from Thy servant:
For I am in distress; haste, answer me.
- 18 Be near unto my soul: redeem it
Because of mine enemies rescue me.
- 19 Thou—Thou hast known my reproach,
And my shame, and my blushing;
Before Thee are all mine adversaries.
- 20 Reproach hath broken my heart,
And I am sick; [none,
And I look for a bemoaner, and there is
And for comforters, and have found none.
- 21 And they give gall for my food,
And for my thirst
They cause me to drink vinegar.
- 22 Their table before them becometh a snare,
And a recompence—a trap.

- 23 Their eyes are darkened from seeing;
Their loins also continually shake Thou.
- 24 Pour on them Thine indignation,
And the fierceness of Thine anger doth
- 25 Their tower is desolated; [seize them.
In their tents there is no dweller.
- 26 For they have pursued
Him Thou hast smitten,
And talk of the pain of Thy pierced ones.
- 27 Give punishment for their iniquity,
And they enter not
Into Thy righteousness.
- 28 They are blotted out of the Book of life,
And with the righteous are not written.
- 29 When I am afflicted and pained:
Thy salvation, O God, setteth me on high.
- 30 I praise the name of God with a song,
And I magnify Him with thanksgiving.
- 31 And it is better to the LORD than an ox,
A bullock—horned—hoofed.
- 32 The humble have seen: they rejoice;
Ye who seek God—your heart also liveth:
- 33 For the LORD hearkeneth unto the needy,
And His bound ones He hath not despised.
- 34 Heaven and earth do praise Him;
Sens and every moving thing in them.
- 35 For God saveth Zion,
And buildeth the cities of Judah;
And they have dwelt there, and possess it.
- 36 And the seed of His servants inherit it,
And those who love His name dwell in it.

LXX. To the Overseer, by David.—‘Causing to remember.’

- 1 O God, to deliver me;
- 2 O LORD, for my help, haste.

Who seek my soul:
Let them be turned backward and blush
Who desire my evil:

And all those who love Thy salvation
Say continually, ‘God be magnified.’

O God, haste to me;
My help and my deliverer art Thou;
O LORD, tarry not.

Let me not be ashamed for ever:

And cause me to escape:
Incline unto me Thine ear, and save me.

To go in continually:
Thou hast given command to save me,
For my rock and my bulwark art Thou.

 And have added unto all Thy praise.
 15 My mouth recounteth Thy righteousness,
 All the day Thy salvation;
 For I have not known the numbers.
 16 I come in the might of the Lord Jehovah:
 I mention Thy righteousness—Thine only.

 And hitherto I declare Thy wonders.

 O God, forsake me not; [tion,

 Is unto the heights;
 Because Thou hast done great things:
 O God, who is like Thee?
 20 Because Thou hast showed me
 Many and sad distresses:
 Thou turnest back, Thou revivest me;
 And from the depths of the earth
 Thou turnest back, Thou bringest me up.
 21 Thou dost increase my greatness,
 And Thou turnest round;
 Thou comfortest me.
 22 I also thank Thee with vessels of psaltery,
 Thy truth, O my God;
 I sing to Thee with a harp,
 O Holy One of Israel; [Thee;
 23 My lips cry aloud when I sing praise to
 And my soul which Thou hast redeemed.
 24 My tongue also all the day uttereth Thy righteousness;
 Because ashamed—because confounded,
 Have been those who seek my evil.

A Psalm of Asaph.—A Song.

 It is full of mixture,
 And He poureth out of it:

LXXVII. To the Overseer, for Jeduthun.—
 A Psalm of Asaph.

- 1 My voice is unto God, and I cry:
 My voice is unto God,
 And He hath given ear unto me.
 2 In a day of my distress

 My hand by night hath been spread out,
 And ceaseth not;
 My soul hath refused to be comforted.

 4 Thou hast taken hold
 Of the watches of mine eyes:
 I have been moved, and I speak not.

 With my heart I meditate:
 And my spirit searcheth diligently.
 7 For ever doth the Lord cast off:
 Doth He continue to be pleased no more?
 8 Hath His kindness ceased for ever?
 The saying failed to all generations?
 9 Hath God forgotten favours?
 Shut up in anger His mercies? Selah.
 10 And I say: 'My weakness is:
 The changes of the right hand of the Most High.'
 11 I mention the doings of Jah,
 For I remember of old Thy wonders:
 12 And I have meditated on all Thy working,
 And talk concerning Thy doings.
 13 O God, in holiness is Thy way,
 Who is a great god like God?
 14 Thou art the God doing wonders:
 Thou hast made known
 Among the peoples Thy strength.

 With strength Thy people,
 The children of Jacob and Joseph. Selah.

 The skies have given forth a noise:
 Also, Thine arrows go up and down.
 18 The voice of Thy thunder is in the spheres;
 Lightnings have lightened the world:
 The earth hath trembled, yea, it shaketh.

LXXVIII. An Instruction of Asaph.

- 1 Give ear, O my people, to my law:
 Incline your ear to sayings of my mouth.
 2 I open with a simile my mouth,
 I utter hidden things of old:

 And our fathers have recounted to us.
 4 We hide not from their children,
 To a later generation
 Recounting the praises of the Lord,
 And His strength, and His wonders
 That He hath done.
 5 That He raiseth up testimonies in Jacob,
 And a law hath placed in Israel,
 Which He commanded our fathers,
 To make them known to their children.
 6 That a later generation may know,
 That children who are born,
 May rise and recount to their children:
 7 And place in God their confidence,
 And not forget the doings of God,
 But keep His commands:
 8 And not be like their fathers,
 A generation apostate and rebellious:
 A generation! it hath not prepared its heart,
 Nor steadfast with God is its spirit.
 9 Sons of Ephraim, armed bearers of bows,
 Turned in a day of battle:
 10 They have not kept the covenant of God,
 And in His law have refused to walk:
 11 And they forget His doings,
 And His wonders that He shewed them.
 12 Before their fathers He did wonders:
 In the land of Egypt—the field of Zoan.
 13 He hath cleft a sea,
 And causeth them to pass over.
 14 Yea, causeth the waters to stand as a heap:
 15 And leadeth them with a cloud by day,
 And all the night with a light of fire.
 16 He cleaveth rocks in the wilderness,
 And giveth drink—as the great deep:
 17 And bringeth out streams from a rock,
 Causeth waters to come down as rivers.
 18 Yet they continue still to sin against Him,
 To provoke the Most High in the dry
 19 And they try God in their heart, [place,
 By asking food for their lust. [said:

 And sheweth Himself wroth: [cob,
 And a fire hath been kindled against Ja-
 And anger also went up against Israel:
 24 For they have not believed in God,
 Nor trusted in His salvation.
 25 And He commandeth clouds from above:
 Yea, doors of heaven He hath opened:
 26 And He raineth on them manna to eat;
 Yea, corn of heaven He gave to them.
 27 Food of the mighty each hath eaten:
 Venison He hath sent to them to satiety.
 28 He causeth an east wind to journey in the heavens,
 And leadeth by His strength a south wind:
 29 And raineth on them flesh as dust,
 And as sand of the seas—winged fowl:

23 And causeth it to fall in the midst of His

Seeing their desire He bringeth to them.

26 And the anger of God hath gone up against them,
And He slayeth among their fat ones,
And the youths of Israel caused to bend.
27 With all this they have sinned again,
And have not believed in His wonders.
28 And He consumeth in vanity their days,
And their years in trouble.
29 If He hath slain them,
Then they have sought Him,
And have turned back,
And have sought God earnestly,
30 And remember that God is their rock,
And God Most High their redeemer.
31 Yet they deceive Him with their mouth,
And with their tongue lie to Him; [Him,

35 How often do they provoke Him in the wilderness,
Grieve Him in the desolate place:
36 Yea, they turn back, and try God,
And the Holy One of Israel have limited.
37 They have not remembered His hand
The day He hath redeemed them
From the adversary:

And His wonders in the field of Zoan:

And their floods they drink not.

And it consumeth them;
And the frog, and it destroyeth them:

And their labour to the locust. [cease,
42 He destroyeth with hail their vine,
And their sycamores with frost:
43 And delivereth up to the hail their beasts,
And their cattle to the burning flames.
44 He sendeth on them the fury of His anger,
Wrath, and indignation, and distress—
A discharge of evil messengers.
45 He pondereth a path for His anger:
He kept not back their soul from death;
Yea, their life to the pestilence
Hath delivered up.

This mountain His right hand had got,
50 And casteth out nations from before them,

And causeth them to fall in the line of inheritance, [in their tents.
And causeth the tribes of Israel to dwell

And His virgins have not been praised.

And their widows weep not.

As a mighty one crying aloud from wine:

And taketh him from the folds of a flock:
66 From behind the suckling ones

And over Israel His inheritance.
67 And he ruleth them

the ancients:
Haste, let Thy mercies go before us,

 Because of the honour of Thy name;
 And deliver us, and cover over our sins,

 By Asaph.

 Shout to the God of Jacob.
 2 Lift up a song, and give out a timbrel,
 A pleasant harp with the psaltery.

 An ordinance of the God of Jacob.

LXXXII. A Psalm of Asaph.

- 1 God hath stood in the Company of God:
 In the midst God judgeth.
 2 Till when do ye judge perversely?
 And the face of the wicked lift up? Selah.
 3 Judge the weak and the fatherless:
 The afflicted and the poor justify.

 From the hand of the wicked deliver them.
 5 They know not, nor do they understand;
 In darkness they walk perpetually:
 Moved are all the foundations of the earth.

 And sons of the Most High, all of you.'
 7 But as man ye die,
 And as one of the heads ye fall.
 8 Rise, O God, judge the earth:
 For Thou hast an inheritance
 Among all the nations.

LXXXIII. A Song.—A Psalm of Asaph.

 Be not silent, nor be quiet, O God.

 4 They have said: 'Come,

 And the name of Israel
 Is not remembered any more.'
 5 For they have consulted in heart together:
 Against Thee they make a covenant:

 With Thy whirlwind,
 And with Thy hurricane troublest them.
 16 Fill their faces with shame,
 And they seek Thy name, O LORD.

 Art the Most High over all the earth.

LXXXV. To the Overseer.—By sons of Korah.—A Psalm.

- 1 Thou hast accepted, O LORD, Thy land:
 Thou hast turned to the captivity of Jacob:
 2 Then hast taken away
 The iniquity of Thy people:
 Thou hast covered all their sin. Selah.
 3 Thou hast gathered up all Thy wrath:
 Thou hast turned back
 From the fierceness of Thine anger.
 4 Turn back to us, O God of our salvation,
 And make void Thine anger at us.
 5 For ever art Thou angry against us?
 Dost Thou draw out Thine anger
 To generation and generation?
 6 Dost Thou not turn back? Thou revivest us,
 And Thy people rejoice in Thee.
 7 Show us, O LORD, Thy kindness,
 And Thy salvation give to us.
 8 I hear what God the LORD speaketh,
 For He speaketh peace unto His people,
 And unto His saints;
 And they turn not back to folly.
 9 Only, near to those who fear Him is His salvation,
 That honour may dwell in our land.
 10 Kindness and truth have met;
 Righteousness and peace have kissed;
 11 Truth from the earth springeth up, [out:
 And righteousness from heaven looketh
 12 The LORD also giveth that which is good;
 And our land giveth its increase.
 13 Righteousness before Him goeth,
 And maketh His footsteps become a way.

LXXXVI. A Prayer of David.

- 1 Incline, O LORD, Thine ear:
 Answer me, for I am poor and needy.
 2 Keep my soul, for I am godly:
 Save Thy servant who trusteth to Thee,
 O Thou, my God.
 3 Favour me, O LORD,
 For unto Thee I call all the day

 For unto Thee, O LORD, my soul I lift up:
 5 For Thou, LORD, art good and forgiving.
 And abundant in kindness to all who call

 Attend to the voice of my supplications.
 7 In a day of my distress I call Thee,
 For Thou dost answer me. [O LORD,

 And like Thy works there are none:

 Come and bow themselves before Thee,
 And give honour to Thy name. [O LORD,

 Thou art God by Thyself.
 11 Show me, O LORD, Thy way:
 I walk in Thy truth:
 My heart rejoiceth to fear Thy name.

 In the shade of the Mighty lodgeth habi-
 2 He saith of the LORD: [tually:
 'My refuge, and my bulwark;
 My God, I trust in Him.'
 3 For He delivereth thee
 From the snare of the fowler,
 From the clamorous pestilence:
 4 With His pinion He covereth thee over:
 And under His wings thou trustest.

- A shield and buckler is His truth.
 5 Thou art not afraid of fear by night;
 Or of arrow flying by day;
 6 Of pestilence walking in thick darkness;
 Of destruction destroying at noon:
 7 A thousand do fall at thy side,
 And a myriad at thy right hand;
 Unto thee it cometh not nigh.
 8 But, with thine eyes thou lookest,
 And the reward of the wicked thou seest:
 9 For Thou, O LORD, art my refuge;
 The Most High hast made thy habitation.
 10 Evil happeneth not unto thee,
 And a plague cometh not near thy tent:
 11 For His messengers He chargeth for thee,
 To keep thee in all thy ways:
 12 With double hands they bear thee up,
 Lest thou smite against a stone thy foot.
 13 On the lion and asp thou treadest;
 Thou treadest the young lion and dragon.
 14 Because in Me he hath delighted,
 I also deliver him;
 I set him on high
 Because he hath known My name.
 15 He calleth Me, and I answer him;
 In distress I am with him;
 I deliver him, and honour him.
 16 With length of days I satisfy him,
 And cause him to look on My salvation.

XCVI. A Psalm.—A Song for the Sabbath-day.

- 1 Good to give thanks to the LORD, [High:
 And to sing praises to Thy name, O Most
 2 To declare in the morning Thy kindness,
 And Thy faithfulness in the nights,
 3 On the ten strings, and on the psaltery;
 On the higgaiion, with the harp.
 4 For Thou hast caused me to rejoice
 In Thy work, O LORD:
 Concerning the works of Thy hands I sing.
 5 How great have been Thy works, O LORD:
 Very deep have been Thy thoughts.
 6 A brutish man knoweth not;
 And a fool understandeth not this.
 7 When the wicked flourish as the herb,
 And all the workers of iniquity blossom,
 —for their being destroyed
 For ever and ever!
 8 And Thou art high for ever, O LORD.
 9 For, lo, Thine enemies, O LORD,
 For, lo, Thine enemies do perish:
 All the workers of iniquity separate.
 10 And Thou exaltest as the reem my horn:
 I have been anointed with fresh oil.
 11 And mine eye looketh on mine enemies:
 Of those who rise up against me,
 The evil doers, mine ears hear.
 12 The righteous as a palm-tree flourisheth,
 As a cedar in Lebanon he groweth.
 13 Planted ones in the house of the LORD,
 In the courts of our God do flourish.
 14 They still bring forth in old age,
 Fat and flourishing are they,
 15 To show that upright is the LORD my rock,
 That there is no perverseness in Him.

XCVI. 1 The LORD hath reigned;
 He hath put on excellency;
 The LORD hath put on strength;
 He hath girded Himself:

- Also, the world is established, not moved.
 2 Thy throne is established since then;
 From eternity Thou art.
 3 Floods have lifted up, O LORD,
 Floods have lifted up their voice;
 Floods lift up their breakers.
 4 Than the voices of many mighty waters,
 Breakers of the sea,
 Mighty on high is the LORD.
 5 Thy testimonies have been very stedfast:
 To Thy house holiness is comely,
 O LORD, for length of days.

- XCVI. 1 O LORD, God of vengeance,
 God of vengeance, shine forth.
 2 Be lifted up, O Judge of the earth:
 Send back a recompence on the proud.
 3 Till when do the wicked, O LORD?
 Until when do the wicked exult?
 4 They utter—they speak old saws:
 All who work iniquity boast themselves.
 5 Thy people, O LORD, they bruise,
 And thine inheritance they afflict.
 6 Widow and sojourner they slay,
 And fatherless ones they murder.
 7 And they say, 'The LORD seeth not;
 And the God of Jacob considereth not.'
 8 Consider, ye brutish among the people,
 And ye, foolish, when do ye act wisely?
 9 He who planteth the ear doth He not hear?
 He who formeth the eye doth He not see?
 10 He who instructeth nations,
 Doth He not reprove?
 He who teacheth man knowledge is the 11 He knoweth the thoughts of man, [LORD.
 That they are vanity.
 12 O the happiness of the man
 Whom Thou instructest, O LORD,
 And out of Thy law teachest him,
 13 To give rest to him from days of evil,
 While a pit is digged for the wicked.
 14 For the LORD leaveth not His people,
 And His inheritance forsaketh not.
 15 For unto righteousness
 Judgment turneth back,
 And after it all the upright of heart.
 16 Who riseth up for me against evil doers?
 Who stationeth himself for me
 Against the workers of iniquity?
 17 Unless the LORD were a help to me,
 My soul had almost inhabited silence.
 18 If I have said: 'My foot hath slipped.'
 Thy kindness, O LORD, supporteth me.
 19 In the abundance of my thoughts in my
 Thy comforts delight my soul. [heart
 20 Is a throne of mischief joined with Thee?
 A framer of perverseness by statute?
 21 They decree against the soul of the right-
 And condemn innocent blood. [eous.
 22 Yet the LORD becometh a high place to me,
 And my God becometh a rock—my refuge.
 23 And turneth back on them their iniquity,
 And in their wickedness
 Cutteth them off;
 The LORD our God cutteth them off.

XCV. 1 Come, let us sing to the LORD;
 Let us shout to the rock of our salvation.
 2 Let us come before His face
 With thanksgiving:
 With psalms let us shout to Him.

- 3 For a great God is the LORD,
And a great king above all gods.
4 For in His hand are the deep places of earth:
And the strong places of hills are His.
5 For the sea is His, and He made it,
And His hands formed the dry land.
6 Come in, let us bow ourselves, and bend,
Let us kneel before the LORD our Maker.
7 For He is our God,
And we the people of His pasture,
And the flock of His hand:
To-day, if to His voice ye hearken,
8 Harden not your heart as in Meribah,
As in the day of Massah in the wilderness:
9 For your fathers have tried Me,
Have proved Me, yea, have seen My work.
10 Forty years I am weary of the generation,
And say, 'A people erring in heart—they,
And they have not known My ways.'
11 For I swear in Mine anger:
'They come not in unto My rest.'

- XCVI. 1 Sing to the LORD a new song:
Sing to the LORD all the earth.
2 Sing to the LORD, bless His name:
Proclaim from day to day His salvation.
3 Declare among the nations His honour,
Among all the peoples His wonders.
4 For great is the LORD, and praised greatly:
Fearful He is above all gods.
5 For all the gods of the peoples are nought:
But the LORD made the heavens.
6 Honour and majesty are before Him:
Strength and beauty in His sanctuary.
7 Ascribe to the LORD,
O families of the peoples,
Ascribe to the LORD honour and strength.
8 Ascribe to the LORD the honour of His Lift up an offering, [name;
And come into His courts.
9 Bow yourselves before the LORD,
In the honour of holiness:
He pained at His presence, all the earth.
10 Say among the nations,
'The LORD hath reigned;
Also, the world is established, not moved:
He judgeth the peoples in uprightness.'
11 The heavens joy, and the earth is joyful;
The sea and its fulness roar.
12 The field exulteth, and all that is on it;
Then sing do all the trees of the forest,
13 Before the LORD, for He cometh:
For He cometh to judge the earth.
He judgeth the world in righteousness,
And the peoples in His faithfulness.

- XCVII. 1 The LORD hath reigned:
The earth is joyful; the many isles rejoice.
2 A cloud and thick darkness
Are round about Him:
Righteousness and judgment
Are the basis of His throne.
3 Fire before Him goeth,
And burneth round about His adversaries.
4 His lightnings have lightened the world:
The earth hath seen and is pained.
5 Hills, like wax, melted before the LORD,
Before the Lord of all the earth. [ness;
6 The heavens have shown His righteous-
And all the peoples have seen His honour.

- 7 Ashamed are all servants of a graven-
Who boast themselves in idols: [age,
Bow yourselves to Him, all ye gods.
8 Zion hath heard and rejoiceth,
And the daughters of Judah are joyful,
For the sake of Thy judgments, O LORD.
9 For Thou, LORD, art Most high
Over all the earth;
Greatly Thou hast been exalted over all
10 Ye who love the LORD, hate evil: [gods.
He keepeth the souls of His saints:
From the hand of the wicked He delivereth
11 Light is sown for the righteous, [them.
And for the upright of heart—joy.
12 Rejoice, ye righteous, in the LORD,
And give thanks
At the remembrance of His holiness.

- XCVIII. 1 Sing ye to the LORD a new song,
For wonders He hath done:
His right hand and His holy arm
Hath given salvation to Him.
2 The LORD hath made known His salvation:
Before the eyes of the nations
He hath revealed His righteousness
3 He hath remembered His kindness
And His faithfulness to the house of Israel:
All ends of the earth
Have seen the salvation of our God.
4 Shout to the LORD, all the earth,
Break forth, and cry aloud, and sing.
5 Sing to the LORD with a harp;
With a harp, and the voice of praise:
6 With trumpets, and the voice of a cornet,
Shout ye before the king Jehovah.
7 The sea roareth and its fulness:
The world and the inhabitants in it.
8 Floods clap the hand; together hills cry
9 Before the LORD, [aloud
For He cometh to judge the earth;
He judgeth the world in righteousness,
And the peoples in uprightness.

- XCIX. 1 The LORD hath reigned:
Peoples tremble:
The Inhabitant of the cherubs: the earth
2 The LORD in Zion is great, [shaketh.
And high He is over all the peoples.
3 They praise Thy name:
'Great, and fearful—holy is.'
4 And the strength of the king
Hath loved judgment:
Thou hast established uprightness;
Judgment and righteousness in Jacob
Thou—Thou hast done.
5 Exalt the LORD our God,
And bow yourselves at His footstool:
Holy is He.
6 Moses and Aaron among His priests,
And Samuel among those who proclaim
They call unto the LORD, [His name,
And He answereth them:
7 In the pillar of cloud He speaketh to them:
They kept His testimonies,
And the statute He gave to them.
8 O LORD, our God, Thou didst afflict them:
A God forgiving Thou wast to them,
But taking vengeance on their actions.
9 Exalt the LORD our God,
And bow yourselves at His holy hill:
For holy is the LORD our God.

C. A Psalm of Thanksgiving.

- 1 Shout to the LORD, all the earth.
- 2 Serve the LORD with joy:
Come before Him with singing.
- 3 Know that the LORD He is God:
He made us, and we are His,
His people and the flock of His pasture.
- 4 Enter His gates with thanksgiving:
His courts with praise:
Give thanks to Him; bless His Name.
- 5 For good is the LORD:
For ever is His kindness;
And unto generation and generation
His faithfulness.

CII. A Psalm of David.

- 1 Kindness and judgment I sing:
To Thee, O LORD, I sing praise.
- 2 I act wisely in a perfect way.
When dost Thou come unto me?
I walk habitually in the integrity of my
In the midst of my house. [heart]
- 3 I set not before mine eyes a worthless
The work of those [thing]:
Who turn aside I have hated;
It adhereth not to me.
- 4 A perverse heart turneth aside from me;
Wickedness I know not.
- 5 Whoso slandereth in secret his neighbour,
Him I cut off:
The high of eyes and proud of heart,
Him I endure not.
- 6 Mine eyes are on the faithful of the land,
To dwell with me: [eth me].
Whoso walketh in a perfect way, he serveth.
- 7 He dwelleth not in mine house who worketh.
Whoso speaketh lies [eth deceit]:
Is not established before mine eyes.
- 8 At morning I cut off
All the wicked of the land;
Cutting off from the city of the LORD
All the workers of iniquity.

CIII. A Prayer of the afflicted when he is feeble, and before the LORD poureth out his plaint. [Thee cometh.]

- 1 O LORD, hear my prayer, yea, my cry unto
- 2 Hide not Thou Thy face from me
In the day of mine adversity;
Incline unto me Thine ear:
In the day I call, haste, answer me
- 3 For my days have been consumed in smoke,
And my bones as a fire-brand burnt.
- 4 Smitten as the herb,
And withered, is my heart:
For I have forgotten to eat my bread.
- 5 From the voice of my sighing
My bone hath cleaved to my flesh.
- 6 I have been like
To a pelican of the wilderness:
I have been as an owl of the dry places.
- 7 I have watched, and I am
As a bird alone on the roof.
- 8 All the day mine enemies reproached me;
Those who are mad at me
Have sworn against me.
- 9 For ashes as bread have I eaten,
And my drink with weeping have mingled,
- 10 From Thine indignation and Thy wrath:
For Thou hast lifted me up,
And dost ease me down.

- 11 My days are as a shadow stretched out;
And I—as the herb I am withered.
- 12 And Thou, O LORD, for ever abidest;
And Thy memorial to all generations.
- 13 Thou risest—Thou pitiest Zion;
For the time to favour her,
For the appointed time hath come.
- 14 For Thy servants have been pleased with
And her dust they favour. [her stones].
- 15 And nations fear the name of the LORD,
And all kings of the earth Thine honour:
- 16 For the LORD hath built Zion,
He hath been seen in His honour:
- 17 He hath turned towards
The prayer of the destitute,
And hath not despised their prayer.
- 18 This is written for a later generation.
And the people created praise the LORD.
- 19 For He hath looked
From the high place of His sanctuary:
The LORD from heaven unto earth
Hath looked attentively:
- 20 To hear the groan of a prisoner;
To loose the sons of death:
- 21 To declare in Zion the name of the LORD,
And His praise in Jerusalem;
- 22 In the peoples being gathered together,
And the kingdoms to serve the LORD.
- 23 He hath humbled my power in the way:
He hath shortened my days.
- 24 I say: 'My God, take me not away
In the midst of my days.'
Through all generations are Thine years.
- 25 Formerly Thou didst found the earth,
The work of Thy hands are the heavens.
- 26 They perish, but Thou remainest:
And all of them as a garment become old;
As clothing Thou changest them,
And they are changed:
- 27 But Thou art the same,
And Thine years are not finished.
- 28 The children of Thy servants continue,
And their seed before Thee is established.

CIII. By David.

- 1 Bless, O my soul, the LORD:
And all my inward parts His Holy Name.
- 2 Bless, O my soul, the LORD,
And forget not all His benefits:
- 3 Who forgiveth all thine iniquities:
Who giveth healing to all Thy diseases;
- 4 Who redeemeth from destruction thy life;
Who crowneth thee—kindness and mercy.
- 5 Who satisfieth with good thy desire; [cies]:
Renew itself as an eagle doth thy youth.
- 6 The LORD doth righteousness and judgment
For all oppressed ones. [ment]
- 7 He maketh known His ways to Moses,
To the childreun of Israel His acts.
- 8 Merciful and gracious is the LORD,
Slow of anger, and abundant in mercy.
- 9 He striveth not for victory:
Nor for ever doth He watch.
- 10 Not according to our sins hath He done
Nor according to our iniquities [to us]:
Hath He conferred benefits on us.
- 11 For, as the height of heaven is above the earth, [who fear Him].
His kindness hath been mighty over those
- 12 As the distance of the east from the west
He put far off from us our transgressions.

- 12 As a father hath mercy on children,
The LORD hath mercy on those who fear
13 For He hath known our frame, [Him].
Remembering that we are dust.
14 Mortal man, as grass are his days;
As a flower of the field so he flourisheth:
15 For a wind hath passed over it,
And it is not;
And its place discerneth it not any more.
16 But the kindness of the LORD
Is from eternity to eternity
On those who fear Him,
And His righteousness to children's chil-
17 To those who keep His covenant, [dren];
And to those who remember His precepts
18 The LORD in the heavens [to do them].
Hath established His throne,
And His kingdom over all hath ruled.
19 Bless the LORD, ye His messengers,
Mighty in power—doing His word,
Harkening to the voice of His word.
20 Bless the LORD, all ye His hosts;
Ye His ministers—doing His pleasure.
21 Bless the LORD, all ye His works,
In all places of His dominion.
Bless, O my soul, the LORD.

- CIV. 1 Bless, O my soul, the LORD.
LORD, my God, Thou hast been very great;
Honour and majesty Thou hast put on:
2 He is covered with light as a garment;
He stretcheth out the heavens as a curtain; [bers in the waters;
3 Who layeth the beam of His upper chamber; Who maketh thick clouds His chariot;
Who walketh on the wings of the wind,
4 Making His messengers—the winds;
His ministers—the flaming fire.
5 He founded the earth on its bases,
It is not moved for ever and ever.
6 The abyss, as with clothing Thou hast covered it;
Above hills do the waters stand,
7 From Thy rebuke they flee; [away].
From the voice of Thy thunder they haste
8 They go up hills—they go down valleys
Unto a place which Thou hast founded 9 A border Thou hast set [for them].
They pass not over;
They turn not back to cover the earth.
10 Who sendeth fountains into valleys,
Between hills they go on.
11 They water every beast of the field;
The wild asses break their thirst.
12 By them the fowl of the heavens dwelleth:
From between the branches
They give forth the voice.
13 Watering hills from His upper chambers,
From the fruit of Thy works
Is the earth satisfied.
14 Causing grass to spring up for cattle,
And herb for the service of man,
To bring out bread from the earth;
15 And wine—it rejoiceth the heart of man:
To cause the face to shine from oil;
And bread—the heart of man it support-
16 The trees of the LORD are satisfied; [eth].
Cedars of Lebanon which He planted;
17 For there birds make nests;
The stork—the fir is her house.
18 The high hills are for wild goats;

- Rocks are a refuge for the rabbits.
19 He made the moon for seasons:
The sun hath known his place of entrance,
20 Thou setteth darkness, and it is night:
In it every beast of the forest moveth.
21 The young lions are roaring for prey,
And seeking from God their food.
22 The sun riseth, they are gathered,
And in their dens they crouch.
23 Man goeth out to his work,
And to his service till the evening.
24 How many have been Thy works, O LORD:
All of them in wisdom Thou hast made:
The earth is full of thy possessions.
25 This, the sea, great and broad of sides,
There are moving things innumerable,
Living creatures—small with great.
26 There ships go: leviathan,
Which Thou hast formed to play in it.
27 All of them look unto Thee,
To give their food in its season.
28 Thou givest to them—they gather;
Thou openest Thy hand—
They are satisfied with good;
29 Thou hidest Thy face—they are troubled;
Thou gatherest their breath—they expire,
And unto their dust turn back.
30 Thou sendest out Thy Spirit—
They are created;
And Thou renewest the face of the ground.
31 The honour of the LORD is for ever:
The LORD rejoiceth in His works. [bleth;
32 Who looketh to the earth, and it tremble cometh against hills, and they smoke.
33 I sing to the LORD during my life;
I sing praise to my God while I exist.
34 My meditation on Him is sweet:
I—I rejoice in the LORD.
35 Sinners are consumed from the earth,
And the wicked are no more.
Bless, O my soul, the LORD.
Praise ye the LORD.

- CV. 1 Give thanks to the LORD;
Call in His Name:
Make known among the people His acts.
2 Sing to Him—sing praise to Him;
Meditate on all His wonders.
3 Boast yourselves in His Holy Name:
The heart of those who seek the LORD re-
4 Seek the LORD and His strength; [joiceth.
Seek His face continually.
5 Remember His wonders which He did,
His signs and the judgments of His mouth.
6 O seed of Abraham His servant,
O children of Jacob His chosen ones.
7 He is the LORD our God;
In all the earth are His judgments.
8 He hath remembered for ever His coven-
The thing He commanded [ant],
To a thousand generations:
9 Which He hath made with Abraham,
And His oath to Isaac;
10 And establisheth it to Jacob for a statute,
To Israel—an everlasting covenant;
11 Saying, 'To thee I give the land of Canaan,
The portion of your inheritance.'
12 In their being few in number,
But a few, and sojourners in it.
13 Yea, they go up and down,
From nation unto nation,

From one kingdom to another people.
 14 He hath not suffered any to oppress them,
 And reproveth kings for their sakes;
 15 'Strike not against Mine anointed,
 And to My prophets do not evil.'
 16 And He calleth a famine on the land,
 The whole staff of bread He hath broken.
 17 He hath sent a man before them:
 For a servant hath Joseph been sold.
 18 They have afflicted with fetters his feet;
 The iron hath entered his soul:
 19 Till the time of the coming of His word,
 The saying of the LORD hath tried him.
 20 The king hath sent, and looseth him,
 The ruler of the peoples,
 And draweth him out.
 21 He hath made him lord of his house,
 And ruler over all his possessions;
 22 To bind his heads at his pleasure,
 And his elders he maketh wise.
 23 And Israel cometh into Egypt,
 And Jacob sojourneth in the land of Ham.
 24 And He maketh His people very fruitful,
 And maketh it mightier
 Than its adversaries.
 25 He turned their heart to hate His people,
 To conspire against His servants.
 26 He hath sent Moses His servant,
 Aaron whom He had fixed on.
 27 They have set among them
 The matters of His signs,
 And wonders in the land of Egypt.
 28 He hath sent darkness, and it is dark:
 And they have not provoked His word.
 29 He hath turned their waters to blood,
 And putteth to death their fish.
 30 Their land hath teemed with frogs,
 In the inner chambers of their kings.
 31 He hath spoken, and the beetle cometh,
 Lice throughout all their border.
 32 He hath made their showers hail;
 A flaming fire is in their land.
 33 And He smiteth their vine and their fig,
 And shivereth the trees of their border.
 34 He hath spoken, and the locust cometh,
 And the cankerworm—innumerable.
 35 And it consumeth
 All the herbs in their land,
 It consumeth the fruit of their ground.
 36 And He smiteth
 Every first-born in their land,
 The first-fruits of all their strength.
 37 And bringeth them out
 With silver and gold;
 And there is not in His tribes a feeble one.
 38 Egypt hath rejoiced in their going out,
 For their fear had fallen upon them.
 39 He hath spread a cloud for a covering,
 And fire to enlighten the night.
 40 It hath asked, and He bringeth quails,
 And with bread of heaven satisfieth them.
 41 He hath opened a rock,
 And waters issue out; [river.
 They have gone on in the dry places—
 42 For He hath remembered His holy word,
 With Abraham His servant.
 43 And bringeth out His people with joy,
 With singing His chosen ones.
 44 And giveth them the lands of the nations,
 And the labour of the peoples they possess.
 45 That they may observe His statutes,

And His laws may keep.
 Praise ye the LORD.

CVI. 1 Praise ye the LORD;
 Give ye thanks to the LORD,
 For good, for for ever, is His kindness.
 2 Who uttereth the mighty acts of the LORD?
 Soundeth all His praise?
 3 O the happiness of those who keep judg-
 Doing righteousness at all times. [ment,
 4 Remember me, O LORD,
 With the favour of Thy people;
 Inspect me through Thy salvation.
 5 To look on the good of Thy chosen,
 To rejoice in the joy of Thy nation,
 To boast myself with Thine inheritance.
 6 We have sinned with our fathers,
 We have done perversely,
 We have done wickedly.
 7 Our fathers in Egypt
 Have not considered Thy wonders wisely;
 They have not remembered
 The abundance of Thy kindness,
 And provoke by the sea, at the Red sea.
 8 And He saveth them for His name's sake,
 To make known His might;
 9 And rebuketh the Red sea, and it is dried
 And causeth them [up;
 To go through the depths as a wilderness.
 10 And He saveth them from the hand
 Of him who hateth; [the enemy.
 And redeemeth them from the hand of 11 And the waters cover their adversaries;
 Not one of them hath been left.
 12 And they believe in His words;
 They sing His praise.
 13 They have hastened—forgotten His works;
 They have not waited for His counsel.
 14 And lust greatly in the wilderness,
 And try God in the desert.
 15 And He giveth to them their request;
 And sendeth leanness into their soul.
 16 And they are envious of Moses in the
 Of Aaron, the LORD'S holy one. [camp,
 17 The earth openeth and swalloweth up
 And covereth over [Dathan,
 The company of Abiram.
 18 And fire burneth among their company;
 A flame setteth the wicked on fire.
 19 They make a calf in Horeb,
 And bow themselves to the molten image;
 20 And change their Honour
 Into the form of an ox—eating herbs.
 21 They have forgotten God their Saviour.
 The doer of great things in Egypt;
 22 Of wonderful things in the land of Ham,
 Of fearful things by the Red sea.
 23 And He saith—to destroy them:
 Unless Moses, His chosen one,
 Had stood in the breach before Him.
 To turn back His wrath from destroying.
 24 And they kick against the desirable land:
 They have not given credence to His word.
 25 And they murmur in their tents;
 They have not hearkened
 To the voice of the LORD:
 26 And He lifteth up His hand against them,
 To cause them to fall in the wilderness;
 27 And to cause their seed to fall
 Among the nations,
 And to scatter them through the lands.

28 And they are coupled to Baul-Peor,
 And eat the sacrifices of the dead;
 29 And provoke to anger by their actions,
 And a plague breaketh forth upon them;
 30 And Phineas standeth, and executeth
 And the plague is restrained: [judgment,
 31 And it is reckoned to him for righteous-
 To all generations, even for ever. [ness
 32 And they cause wrath
 By the waters of Meribah,
 And it is evil to Moses for their sakes:
 33 For they have provoked his spirit,
 And he speaketh wrongfully with his lips.
 34 They have not destroyed the peoples,
 As the LORD had said to them:
 35 And mix themselves among the nations,
 And learn their works,
 36 And serve their idols,
 And they are to them for a snare.
 37 And they sacrifice their sons
 And their daughters to destroyers,
 38 And shed innocent blood—
 Blood of their sons and of their daughters,
 Whom they have sacrificed
 To the idols of Canaan:
 And the land is profaned with blood.
 39 And they are delisted with their works,
 And commit fornication in their habitual 40 And the anger of the LORD [doings.
 Is kindled against His people,
 And He abominates His own inheritance.
 41 And He giveth them up
 Into the hand of the nations,
 And those who hate them rule over them,
 42 And their enemies oppress them,
 And they are humbled under their hand.
 43 Many times He delivereth them;
 And they rebel in their counsel,
 And they are brought low in their iniquity.
 44 And He looketh on their distress
 When He heareth their cry:
 45 And remembereth for them His covenant,
 And is comforted.
 According to the abundance of His kind-
 46 And appointeth them for mercies [nesses.
 Before all their captors.
 47 Save us, O LORD, our God,
 And gather us from the nations,
 To give thanks to Thy holy name,
 To glory in Thy praise.
 48 Blessed is the LORD, the God of Israel,
 From age even unto age.
 And all the people hath said, 'Amen.
 Praise ye the LORD.'

CVII. 1 Give ye thanks to the LORD,
 For good, for for ever, is His kindness:
 2 Let the redeemed of the LORD say,
 Whom He hath redeemed
 From the hand of an adversary.
 3 And from the lands hath gathered them,
 From the east, and from the west,
 From the north, and from the sea.
 4 They wandered in a wilderness,
 In a desert by the way:
 A city of habitation they have not found.
 5 Hungry, yea, thirsty,
 Their soul in them becometh feeble;
 6 And they cry unto the LORD
 In their adversity,
 From their distresses He delivereth them,

7 And causeth them to tread in a right way,
 To go unto a city of habitation.
 8 They confess to the LORD His kindness,
 And His wonders to the children of men:
 9 For He hath satisfied a longing soul,
 And a hungry soul filled with goodness.
 10 The inhabitants
 Of the dark places and death-shade,
 Prisoners of affliction and of iron.
 11 Because they changed the sayings of God,
 And the counsel of the Most High
 Have despised,
 12 He even humbleth with labour their heart;
 They have been feeble, and there is no
 13 And they cry unto the LORD [helper.
 In their adversity,
 From their distresses He saveth them.
 14 He bringeth them out from the dark place
 And death-shade,
 And their bands He draweth away.
 15 They confess to the LORD His kindness,
 And His wonders to the children of men:
 16 For He hath broken the doors of brass,
 And the bars of iron hath cut.
 17 Fools, by means of their transgression,
 And by their iniquities, afflict themselves:
 18 All food their soul abominates;
 And they come nigh to the gates of death.
 19 And they cry unto the LORD
 In their adversity,
 From their distresses He saveth them:
 20 He sendeth His word and healeth them,
 And delivereth from their destruction.
 21 They confess to the LORD His kindness,
 And His wonders to the children of men,
 22 And sacrifice sacrifices of thanksgiving,
 And recount His works with singing.
 23 Those who go down to the sea in ships,
 Who do business in many waters,
 24 They have seen the works of the LORD,
 And His wonders in the deep.
 25 And He speaketh, and the tempest stand-
 And lifteth up its billows. [eth,
 26 They go up to the heavens,
 They go down to the depths,
 Their soul in evil is melted. [kard,
 27 They reel to and fro, and move as a drunk-
 And all their wisdom is swallowed up.
 28 And they cry unto the LORD in their ad-
 And from their distresses [versity,
 He bringeth them out.
 29 He establisheth a whirlwind into a calm,
 And their billows are hushed.
 30 And they rejoice because they are quiet;
 And He leadeth them
 Unto the haven of their desire.
 31 They confess to the LORD His kindness,
 And His wonders to the children of men;
 32 And they exalt Him
 In the congregation of the people,
 And praise Him in the seat of the elders.
 33 He maketh rivers become a wilderness,
 And outlets of waters become dry land;
 34 A fruitful land becometh a barren place,
 For the wickedness of its inhabitants.
 35 He maketh a wilderness
 Become a pool of water,
 And a dry land become outlets of waters.
 36 And there He causeth the hungry to dwell,
 And they prepare a city of habitation,
 37 And they sow fields, and plant vineyards,

- And they yield fruits of increase.
 28 And He bleaseth them,
 And they multiply exceedingly.
 And their cattle He doth not diminish.
 29 But they are diminished, and bow down,
 By restraint, evil, and sorrow.
 30 He poureth contempt upon nobles,
 And causeth them to wander
 In vacancy—no way.
 31 And setteth on high the needy from af-
 And placeth families as a flock. [fiction].
 32 The upright see and rejoice:
 And all perversity hath shut her mouth.
 33 Who is wise, and observeth these?
 They understand the kindness of the LORD.

CVIII. A Song, a Psalm of David.

- 1 Prepared is my heart, O God;
 I sing; yea, I sing praise; my honour also.
 2 Awake, O psaltery and harp:
 I awake the dawn.
 3 I thank Thee among the peoples, O LORD:
 And I praise Thee among the nations:
 4 For great above the heavens is Thy kind-
 And unto the clouds Thy truth. [ness].
 5 Be exalted above the heavens, O God,
 And above all the earth Thy honour:
 6 That Thy beloved ones may be delivered,
 Save with Thy right hand, and answer us.
 7 God hath spoken in His holiness:
 I exult, I apportion Shechem.
 And the valley of Succoth I measure:
 8 Mine is Gilead, mine is Manasseh,
 And Ephraim is the strength of my head:
 Judah is my law-giver:
 9 Moab is my washing-pot;
 Against Edom I cast my shoe:
 Over Philistia I shout habitually.
 10 Who bringeth me to a fenced city?
 Who hath led me unto Edom?
 11 Hadst not Thou, O God, cast us off?
 And Thou goest not out,
 O God, with our hosts!
 12 Give to us help from adversity.
 Seeing vain is the safety of man.
 13 Through God we do mightily,
 And He treadeth down our adversaries.

CIX. To the Overseer.—A Psalm of David.

- 1 O God of my praise, be not silent;
 2 For the mouth of wickedness,
 And the mouth of deceit,
 They have opened against me:
 They have spoken with me—
 A lying tongue, and words of hatred.
 3 They have compassed me about:
 And they fight me without cause.
 4 For my love they accuse me:
 And I am prayer!
 5 And they set against me evil for good,
 And hatred for my love.
 6 Appoint over him the wicked: [hand].
 And an adversary standeth at his right
 7 In his being judged, he goeth out wicked,
 And his prayer becometh sin.
 8 His days are few:
 His oversight another taketh.
 9 His children are fatherless,
 And his wife a widow.
 10 And wander diligently do his children:
 Yea, they have begged.

- And have sought out of their dry places.
 11 The exactor layeth a snare for all that he
 And strangers spoil his labour. [hath].

 Nor is there one showing favour to his

 In another generation their name is

 And the sin of his mother is not blotted

 And He cutteth off
 From the earth their memorial.
 16 Because he hath not remembered to do kindness,
 And pursueth the poor and needy,
 And the smitten of heart—to slay: [him].
 17 And he loveth reviling, and it meeteth
 And he hath not delighted in blessing,
 And it is far from him.
 18 And he putteth on reviling as his robe,
 And it cometh as water into his midst,
 And as oil into his bones. [self].

 Because Thy kindness is good, deliver me.

 23 As a shadow, when it is stretched out, I
 I have been shaken off as a locust.
 24 My knees have been feeble from fasting,
 And my flesh hath failed of fatness.
 25 And I have been a reproach to them:
 They see me; they shake their head.
 26 Help me, O LORD my God:
 Save me, according to Thy kindness.
 27 And they know that this is Thy hand:
 Thou, O LORD, Thou hast done it.
 28 They revile, and Thou blestest:
 They have risen, and are ashamed.
 And Thy servant rejoiceth.
 29 Mine accusers put on blushing,
 And they are covered:
 As an upper robe is their shame.
 30 I thank the LORD greatly with my mouth,
 And in the midst of the multitude I praise Him: [needy].

CX. A Psalm of David.

- 1 Jehovah affirmeth to my Lord:
 'Sit at My right hand,
 Till I make thine enemies thy footstool.'
 2 The rod of thy strength the LORD sendeth from Zion:
 Rule in the midst of thine enemies.
 3 Thy people are free-will gifts
 In the day of thy strength,
 In the honour of holiness, from the womb,
 From the morning:
 Thou hast the dew of thy youth.
 4 The LORD hath sworn, and repenteth not,
 'Thou art a priest for ever.
 According to the order of Melchizedek.'

- ⁶ The Lord at His right hand smote kings
In the day of His anger.
⁷ He judgeth among the nations;
He hath completed the carcasses,
Smitten the head over the mighty earth.
⁸ From a brook in the way he drinketh:
Therefore he lifteth up the head.

CXI. ¹ Praise ye the LORD.

- I thank the LORD with the whole heart,
In the secret meeting of the upright,
And the assembly.
² Great are the works of the LORD:
Sought out of all who desire them.
³ Honourable and majestic is His work:
And His righteousness standeth for ever.
⁴ A memorial He made of His wonders:
Gracious and merciful is the LORD.
⁵ Food He hath given to those who fear Him:
He remembereth for ever His covenant.
⁶ The power of His works He hath declared to His people,
To give to them the inheritance of nations.
⁷ The works of His hands are true and just:
Stedfast are all His appointments.
⁸ They are sustained for ever and ever:
They are made in truth and uprightness.
⁹ Redemption He hath sent to His people:
He hath appointed for ever His covenant:
Holy and fearful is His name.
¹⁰ The beginning of wisdom is fear of the LORD: [them:]
Good understanding have all who keep
His praise standeth for ever.

CXII. ¹ Praise ye the LORD.

- O the happiness of one fearing the LORD:
In His commands he delighteth greatly.
² Mighty in the earth is his seed:
The generation of the upright is blessed.
³ Wealth and riches are in his house:
And his righteousness standeth for ever.
⁴ Light rose in darkness to the upright,
Gracious, and merciful, and righteous.
⁵ Good to the man—gracious and lending:
He sustaineth his matters in judgment.
⁶ For he is not moved for ever:
For an everlasting memorial is the right.
⁷ Of an evil report he is not afraid: [eous,
His heart is prepared, confident in the LORD.
⁸ Sustained is his heart—he feareth not,
Till that he look on his adversaries.
⁹ He hath scattered—given to the needy:
His righteousness standeth for ever:
His horn is exalted with honour.
¹⁰ The wicked see, and hath been angry:
His teeth he gnasheth, and hath melted;
The desire of the wicked perisheth.

CXIII. ¹ Praise ye the LORD.

- Praise, ye servants of the LORD,
Praise the name of the LORD.
² The name of the LORD is blessed,
From henceforth, even for ever.
³ From the rising of the sun to its going in,
Praised is the name of the LORD.
⁴ High above all nations is the LORD;
Above the heavens is His honour.
⁵ Who is as the LORD our God:
Who exalteth Himself to sit:

- ⁶ Who humbleth Himself to look
On the heavens and on the earth.
⁷ He raiseth up from the dust the poor,
From the dunghill exalteth the needy.
⁸ To cause to sit with princes,
With the princes of His people.
⁹ He causeth the barren one of the house to
A joyful mother of children. [sit
Praise ye the LORD.

CXIV. ¹ In the going of Israel out of Egypt.

- The house of Jacob from a strange people;
² Judah became His sanctuary,
Israel His dominion.
³ The sea hath seen, and fleeth:
The Jordan turneth backward.
⁴ The mountains have skipped as rams,
Heights as young ones of a flock.
⁵ What—to thee, O sea, that thou fleest?
O Jordan, thou turnest back!
⁶ O mountains, ye skip as rams!
O heights, as young ones of a flock!
⁷ From before the LORD he pined, O earth,
From before the God of Jacob;
⁸ Who turneth the rock to a pool of waters,
The flint to a fountain of waters.

CXV. ¹ Not to us, O LORD, not to us,

- But to Thy name give honour,
For Thy kindness, for Thy truth.
² Why do the nations say:
'Where, pray, is their God?'
³ Yet our God is in the heavens:
All that He pleaseth He hath done.
⁴ Their idols are silver and gold,
The work of men's hands.
⁵ A mouth have they, but they speak not;
Eyes have they, but they see not;
⁶ Ears have they, but they hear not;
A nose have they, but they smell not;
⁷ Their hands, but they handle not;
Their feet, but they walk not;
⁸ Neither mutter they through their throat:
Like them are their makers.
Every one who trusteth in them.
⁹ O Israel, trust in the LORD:
'Their help and their shield is He.'
¹⁰ O house of Aaron, trust in the LORD:
'Their help and their shield is He.'
¹¹ Ye who fear the LORD, trust in the LORD:
'Their help and their shield is He.'
¹² The LORD remembered us; He blesseth:
He blesseth the house of Israel;
He blesseth the house of Aaron;
¹³ He blesseth those who fear the LORD,
The small with the great.
¹⁴ The LORD addeth to you,
To you, and to your children.
¹⁵ Blessed are ye of the LORD,
Maker of heaven and earth.
¹⁶ The heavens—the heavens are the LORD'S,
And the earth He hath given
To the children of men.
¹⁷ The dead praise not the LORD,
Nor any who go down to silence.
¹⁸ But we, we bless the LORD,
From henceforth, even for ever.
Praise ye the LORD.

CXVI. ¹ I have loved, because the LORD

My voice, my supplication; [heareth

- ² Because He hath inclined His ear to me;
And during my days I call.
³ Compassed me have the cords of death,
And the straits of Sheol have found me;
Distress and sorrow I find.
⁴ And in the name of the LORD I call:
I pray Thee, O LORD, deliver my soul.
⁵ Gracious is the LORD, and righteous;
Yea, our God is merciful;
⁶ A preserver of the simple is the LORD:
I was low, and to me He giveth salvation.
⁷ Turn back, O my soul, to thy rest: [thee.
For the LORD hath conferred benefits on ⁸ For Thou hast delivered my soul from Mine eyes from tears, [death,
My feet from overthrowing.
⁹ I walk habitually before the LORD
In the lands of the living.
¹⁰ I have believed, for I speak:
I have been afflicted greatly.
¹¹ I have said in my haste:
'Every man is a liar.'
¹² What do I return to the LORD?
All His benefits are upon me.
¹³ The cup of salvation I lift up,
And in the name of the LORD I call.
¹⁴ My vows to the LORD let me complete,
I pray you, before all His people.
¹⁵ Precious in the eyes of the LORD
Is the death for His saints.
¹⁶ Cause it to come, O LORD,
For I am Thy servant:
I am Thy servant, a son of Thine hand-
Thou hast opened my bonds. [maid:
¹⁷ To Thee I sacrifice a sacrifice of thanks,
And in the name of the LORD I call.
¹⁸ My vows to the LORD let me complete,
I pray you, before all His people,
¹⁹ In the courts of the house of the LORD,
In thy midst, O Jerusalem.
Praise ye the LORD.

CXVII. ¹ Praise the LORD, all ye nations:
Glorify Him, all ye peoples.

- ² For mighty to us hath been His kindness;
And the truth of the LORD is for ever.
Praise ye the LORD.

CXVIII. ¹ Give thanks to the LORD,
For good, for for ever, is His kindness.

- ² I pray you, let Israel say,
That, for ever is His kindness.
³ I pray you, let the house of Aaron say,
That, for ever is His kindness.
⁴ I pray you, let those who fear the LORD
That, for ever is His kindness. [say,
⁵ From the strait place I called the LORD:
The LORD answered me in a broad place.
⁶ The LORD is for me;
I fear not what man doth to me.
⁷ The LORD is for me among my helpers,
And I look on those who hate me.
⁸ Better to take refuge in the LORD
Than to trust in man:
⁹ Better to take refuge in the LORD
Than to trust in princes.
¹⁰ All nations have compassed me about;
In the name of the LORD
I surely cut them off.
¹¹ They have compassed me about,
Yea, they have compassed me about;

In the name of the LORD

I surely cut them off.

- ¹² They have compassed me about as bees,
Been extinguished as a fire of thorns;
In the name of the LORD
I surely cut them off.
¹³ Thou hast sorely thrust me to fall,
But the LORD hath helped me.
¹⁴ My strength and my song is the LORD,
And He is become my salvation.
¹⁵ A voice of singing and salvation
Is in the tents of the righteous:
The right hand of the LORD doth valiantly.
¹⁶ The right hand of the LORD is exalted;
The right hand of the LORD doth valiantly.
¹⁷ I shall not die, but live,
And recount the works of the LORD.
¹⁸ The LORD hath sorely chastened me,
But to death hath not given me up.
¹⁹ Open ye to me the gates of righteousness:
I enter into them—I thank the LORD.
²⁰ This is the gate to the LORD,
The righteous enter into it.
²¹ I thank Thee, for Thou hast answered me,
And art become my salvation.
²² A stone the builders refused
Hath become head of the corner.
²³ From the LORD hath this been,
It is wondrous in our eyes.
²⁴ This is the day the LORD hath made,
We rejoice and are glad in it.
²⁵ I beseech Thee, O LORD, save, I pray Thee:
I beseech Thee, O LORD, prosper, I pray

In the name of the LORD: [LORD.
We blessed you from the house of the ²⁷ God is the LORD, and He giveth to us light:
Direct the festal-sacrifice with cords,
Unto the horns of the altar.
²⁸ Thou art my God, and I confess Thee;
My God, I exalt Thee.

For good, for for ever, is His kindness.

Accept, I pray Thee, O LORD:
And Thy judgments teach Thou me.
109 My soul is in my hand continually:
And Thy law I have not forgotten.
110 The wicked have laid a snare for me;
But from Thy precepts I wandered not.
111 I have inherited Thy testimonies for ever:
For the joy of my heart are they.
112 I have inclined my heart
To do Thy statutes, for ever—to the end.
 J SAMECH.
113 Doubting ones I have hated:
And Thy law I have loved.
114 My hiding-place and my shield art Thou:
For Thy word I have hoped.
115 Turn aside from me, ye evil doers,
And I keep the commands of my God.
116 Sustain me according to Thy saying,
And I live, and Thou puttest me not to
Because of my hope. [shame.
117 Support me, and I am saved:
And I look on Thy statutes continually.
118 Thou hast trodden down
All who go astray from Thy statutes:
For falsehood is their deceit.
119 Dross! Thou hast caused to cease
All the wicked of the earth:
Therefore I have loved Thy testimonies.
120 My flesh hath trembled from Thy fear;
And from Thy judgments
I have been afraid.
 J AIN.
121 I have done judgment and righteousness:
Leave me not to mine oppressors.
122 Make sure Thy servant for good:
Let not the proud oppress me.
123 Mine eyes have been consumed
For Thy salvation.
And for the saying of Thy righteousness.

126 Time for the LORD to work!
They have made void Thy law.
127 Therefore I have loved Thy commands
Above gold, even above fine gold.
128 Therefore all my appointments
I declare wholly right:
Every path of falsehood I have hated.

129 Wonderful are Thy testimonies,
Therefore my soul hath kept them.
130 The opening of Thy words enlighteneth,
Instructing the simple.
131 My mouth I have opened: yea, I pant:
For, for Thy commands I have longed.
132 Look unto me, and favour me,
As customary to those who love Thy name.
133 My steps establish by Thy saying,
And no iniquity ruleth over me.
134 Redeem me from the oppression of man,
And I observe Thy precepts.
135 Thy face cause to shine on Thy servant.
And teach me Thy statutes.
136 Rivulets of waters came down mine eyes,
Because they kept not Thy law.

- 157 Righteous art Thou, O LORD,
And upright are Thy judgments.
158 Thou hast appointed Thy testimonies,
Righteous and exceeding faithful.
159 My zeal hath cut me off:
For mine adversaries forgot Thy words.
160 Tried is Thy saying exceedingly:
And Thy servant hath loved it.
161 Small I am, and despised:
Thy precepts I have not forgotten.
162 Thy righteousness is an everlasting right-

163 Adversity and distress have found me:
Thy commands are my delights.

CXX. A Song of the Ascents.

- 1 To the LORD in my distress I have called,

CXXI. A Song of the Ascents.

- 1 I lift up mine eyes unto the hills;
From when doth my help come?
2 My help is from the LORD,
Maker of heaven and earth:
3 He suffereth not thy foot to be moved:
Thy preserver slumbereth not.
4 Lo, He slumbereth not, nor sleepeth,
Who preserveth Israel.
5 The LORD is thy preserver;
The LORD thy shade on thy right hand.
6 By day the sun smiteth thee not,
Nor the moon by night.
7 The LORD preserveth thee from all evil;
He preserveth thy soul.
8 The LORD preserveth thy going out,
And thy coming in,
From henceforth even for ever.

CXXII. A Song of the Ascents, by David.

- 1 I have rejoiced in those who say to me
'To the house of the LORD we go.'
2 Our feet have been standing in thy gates,
O Jerusalem!
3 Jerusalem—the builded one—
Is a city which is joined to itself together.
4 For there the tribes have gone up,
The tribes of the LORD,
The companies of Israel,
To give thanks to the name of the LORD.
5 For there have sat thrones of judgment,
Thrones of the house of David.

- 6 Ask ye the peace of Jerusalem:
At rest are those who love thee.
7 Peace be in thy bulwark,
Rest in thy high places.
8 For the sake of my brethren and my companions,
Let me speak, I pray thee, 'Peace be in CXXIII. A Song of the Ascents.

- 1 Unto Thee I have lifted up mine eyes,
O dweller in the heavens.
2 Lo, as the eyes of men-servants
Are unto the hand of their masters,
As the eyes of a maid-servant
Are unto the hand of her mistress;
So are our eyes unto the LORD our God,
Till He favour us.
3 Favour us, O LORD; favour us:
For greatly have we been filled with con-

With the scorning of the easy ones,
With the contempt of the arrogant.

CXXIV. A Song of the Ascents, by David.

- 1 Save for the LORD who hath been for us,
[Pray, let Israel say],
2 Save for the LORD who hath been for us,
In the rising up of man against us:
3 Then alive had they swallowed us up,
In the burning of their anger against us:
4 Then had the waters overflowed us,
The stream had passed over our soul:
5 Then passed over our soul had the proud waters.
6 Blessed is the LORD who hath not given us
A prey to their teeth.
7 Our soul as a bird hath escaped
From the snare of the fowlers:
The snare hath been broken,
And we have escaped.
8 Our help is in the name of the LORD,
Maker of heaven and earth.

CXXV. A Song of the Ascents. [Zion:]

And to the upright in their hearts.

The LORD canst them to go with thee

CXXVI. A Song of the Ascents.

- 1 In the LORD's turning back
To the captivity of Zion,
We have been as dreamers.

Then they say among the nations, [these:]

Bearing his sheaves.

CXXVII. A Song of the Ascents, by Solomon.

- 1 If the LORD build not the house,
In vain have its builders laboured at it:
If the LORD watch not the city,
In vain hath the watchman waked.

Who feareth the LORD.
5 The LORD blesseth thee out of Zion:
Look, then, for the good of Jerusalem
All the days of thy life:

CXXX. A Song of the Ascents.

- 1 From the depths I have called Thee, LORD.
2 Lord, hearken to my voice;
Thine ears are attentive
To the voice of my supplications.
3 If iniquities Thou observest, O LORD:
O Lord, who doth stand?
4 But with Thee is forgiveness,
That Thou mayest be feared.

- ⁵ I hoped for the LORD, my soul hath hoped,
And for His word I have waited.

For with the LORD is kindness,
And abundant with Him is redemption.
⁸ And He redeemeth Israel
From all his iniquities.

CXXXI. A Song of the Ascents, by David.

Nor mine eyes high:
Nor have I walked in great things,
And in things too wonderful for me.

CXXXII. A Song of the Ascents.

- ¹ Remember, LORD, for David, all his afflictions:

I go not up on the couch of my bed;

⁶ 'Lo, we have heard it in Ephraim;
We have found it in the fields of the forest.
⁷ We come into His tabernacles:
We bow ourselves at His footstool.
⁸ Arise, O LORD, to Thy rest:
Thou, and the ark of Thy strength.
⁹ Thy priests put on righteousness;
And Thy saints cry aloud.
¹⁰ For the sake of David Thy servant,
Turn not back the face of Thine anointed.
¹¹ The LORD hath sworn truth to David,
He turneth not back from it:
Of the fruit of thy body,
I set on the throne for thee.
¹² If thy children keep My covenant,
And My testimonies which I teach them,
Their children also for ever and ever
Sit on the throne for thee.
¹³ For the LORD hath fixed on Zion:
He hath desired it for a seat to Himself:
¹⁴ This is My rest for ever and ever:
Here I dwell: for I have desired it.
¹⁵ Her provision I greatly bless:
Her needy ones I satisfy with bread;
¹⁶ And her priests I clothe with salvation:
And her godly ones sing aloud.
¹⁷ There I cause to spring a horn for David:
I have arranged a lamp for Mine anointed.
¹⁸ His enemies I clothe with shame,
And on him doth his crown flourish.'

Yea, our Lord is above all gods.
⁶ All that the LORD pleased He hath done,
In the heavens and in the earth,
In the seas and all deeps.
⁷ He causeth clouds to ascend
From the end of the earth:
Lightnings for the rain hath He made:
He bringeth out wind from His treasures.
⁸ Who smote the first-born of Egypt,
From man unto beast.
⁹ He sent tokens and wonders
Into thy midst, O Egypt,
On Pharaoh and on all his servants.

And slew strong kings;
Even Sihon king of the Amorite,
And Og king of Bashan,
And all the kingdoms of Canaan:

O house of Aaron, bless ye the LORD:
¹⁹ O house of Levi, bless ye the LORD:
Ye who fear the LORD, bless ye the LORD.

 On the land of a stranger?

 My right hand forgetteth!

 If I do not remember thee,
 If I do not exalt Jerusalem
 Above my chiefest joy.

 Which thou hast done to us.
 9 O the happiness of him who seizeth.
 And hath dashed thy sucklings on the rock!

CXXXVIII. By David.

- 1 I confess Thee, with all my heart:
 Before the gods I praise Thee.
 2 I bow myself toward Thy holy temple.

 Thou quickenest me:
 Against the anger of mine enemies
 Thou sendest forth Thy hand,
 And Thy right hand doth save me.

 O LORD, Thy kindness is for ever;
 The works of Thy hands weaken not.

CXXXIX. To the Overseer.—A Psalm by David. [est:

- 1 LORD, Thou hast searched me, and know-
 2 Thou—Thou hast known my sitting down,
 And my rising up; [afar.
 Thou hast attended to my thoughts from 3 My path and my couch Thou hast fanned:
 And with all my ways Thou hast been acquainted.
 4 For there is not a word in my tongue,
 Lo, O LORD, Thou hast known it all.
 5 Behind and before Thou hast besieged me,
 And placed on me Thy hand.
 6 Knowledge too wonderful for me;
 It hath been set on high,
 I am not able for it.
 7 Whither do I go from Thy Spirit?
 And whither from Thy face do I flee?
 8 If I ascend the heavens—there Thou art:
 Or spread out a couch in Sheol, lo, There.
 9 Take I the wings of morning,
 Dwell I in the uttermost part of the sea.
 10 Also there Thy hand leadeth me,
 And Thy right hand holdeth me.
 11 When I say, 'Surely darkness bruises me,'
 Then night is light for me.
 12 Also darkness hideth not from Thee:
 And night as day shineth:
 As is darkness so is light.
 13 For Thou hast possessed my reins:
 Thou dost cover me in my mother's belly.
 14 I confess Thee, because that
 With wonders I have been distinguished.
 Wonderful are Thy works
 And my soul knoweth it well.
 15 My substance was not hid from Thee,
 When I was made in secret,

Curiously wrought with the lower part of earth. [saw:]

 The days they were formed—
 And not one among them. [thoughts:]

 O God, how great hath been their sum.
 18 I recount them: than the sand they are

 I have waked, and am still with Thee.
 19 Dost Thou not slay, O Lord, the wicked?
 Then, men of blood, turn aside from me.
 20 Who exchange Thee for wickedness:
 Lifted up to vanity are Thine enemies.
 21 Do I not hate, LORD, those who hate Thee?
 And with Thy withstanders
 Do not I grieve myself?
 22 With perfect hatred I have hated them:
 Enemies they have become to me.
 23 Search me, O God, and know my heart:
 Try me, and know my thoughts:
 24 And see if a grievous way he in me,
 And lead me in an everlasting way.

CXL. To the Overseer.—A Psalm of David.

1 Deliver me, O LORD, from the evil man:
 From one of violence Thou keepest me.
 2 Who have devised evils in the heart;
 All the day they assemble for wars.
 3 They have sharpened their tongue as a serpent:
 Poison of an adder is under their lips.

 They spread a net by the side of the path;
 Snares they have set for me. Selah.

 Hear, LORD, the voice of my supplications.'
 7 O LORD, my Lord,
 The strength of my salvation,

 In the day of armour.

CXLI. A Psalm, by David.

1 O LORD, I have called Thee; haste to me;
 Give ear to my voice when I call to Thee.
 2 My prayer is prepared as incense before Thee: [offering:]
 The lifting up of my hand as the evening
 3 Set, O LORD, a watch for my mouth;
 Watch over the door of my lips.

4 Incline not my heart to an evil thing,
 To do habitually wicked actions,
 With men who work iniquity,
 Yea, I eat not of their pleasant things.
 5 The righteous beareth me in kindness,
 And reproacheth me;
 Oil of the head my head disalloweth not:
 For still my prayer is about their vexa-

 By the sides of the rock,
 And they have heard my sayings,
 For they have been pleasant.
 7 As a tiller and ripper up in the land,
 Our bones have been scattered
 At the command of Saul.
 8 But to Thee, O LORD, my God, are mine
 In Thee I have trusted, [eyes:]
 Make not bare my soul.

 Even snares of the workers of iniquity.

CXLII. An Instruction of David: a Prayer
 when he is in the cave.

1 My voice is unto the LORD, I cry:
 My voice is unto the LORD, I entreat grace.
 2 I pour out before Him my meditation:
 My distress before Him I declare.
 3 When my spirit hath been feeble in me,
 Then Thou hast known my path:
 In the way in which I walk,
 They have hid a snare for me.
 4 Look to the right hand and see,
 That I have no acquaintance:
 Refuge hath perished from me;
 There is none inquiring for my soul.
 5 I have cried unto thee, O LORD:
 I have said, 'Thou art my refuge;
 My portion in the land of the living.'
 6 Attend unto my loud cry:
 For I have become very low:
 Deliver me from my pursuers;
 For they have been stronger than I.
 7 Bring out from prison my soul,
 To confess Thy name:
 The righteous compass me about,
 When Thou conferrest benefits on me.

CXLIII. A Psalm by David.

1 O LORD, hear my prayer:
 Give ear unto my supplications:
 In Thy faithfulness answer me,
 In Thy righteousness. [servant:]
 2 And enter not into judgment with Thy
 For no living is justified before Thee.
 3 For the enemy hath pursued my soul:
 He hath bruised to the earth my life,
 Hath caused me to dwell in dark places,
 As the dead of old.
 4 And my spirit in me is become feeble;
 Within me my heart is become desolate.
 5 I have remembered the days of old;
 I have meditated on all Thine acts;
 On the work of Thy hand I muse:
 6 I have spread forth my hands unto Thee:
 My soul was as a weary land for Thee. Selah.
 7 Haste, answer me, O LORD:
 My spirit hath been consumed:
 Hide not Thy face from me,
 Or I have been compared

With those who go down to the pit.
 Cause me to hear in the morning Thy
 For in Thee I have trusted: [kindness;
 Cause me to know the way that I go:
 For unto Thee I have lifted up my soul.
 Deliver me from mine enemies, O LORD:
 Near Thee I am covered.
 Teach me to do Thy good pleasure;
 For Thou art my God:
 Thy Spirit is good;
 Lead me into the land of uprightness.
 For Thy name's sake, O LORD,
 Thou dost quicken me:
 In Thy righteousness
 Thou bringest out from distress my soul:
 And in Thy kindness Thou cuttest off
 And hast destroyed [mine enemies.
 All the adversaries of my soul:
 For I am Thy servant.

CXLIV. By David.

Blessed is the LORD my rock, who teacheth
 My hands for war, my fingers for battle.
 My kind one, and my bulwark;
 My high tower, and my deliverer;
 My shield, and in whom I have trusted;
 Who subdueth my people under me.
 LORD, what is man that Thou knowest him?
 The son of man that Thou esteemest him?
 Man to vanity hath been like,
 His days as a shadow passing by.
 LORD, incline Thy heavens and come down:
 Strike against mountains, and they smoke.
 Send forth lightning and scatter them:
 Send forth Thine arrows and trouble them.
 Send forth Thy hand from on high:
 Free me, deliver me from many waters,
 From the hand of the sons of a stranger;
 Because their mouth hath spoken vanity,
 And their right hand
 Is a right hand of falsehood.
 O God, a new song I sing to Thee:
 On a psaltery of ten strings I sing praises to
 Who giveth deliverance to kings: [Thee.
 Who freeth David His servant
 From the sword of evil.
 Free me, and deliver me
 From the hand of the sons of a stranger,
 Because their mouth hath spoken vanity,
 And their right hand is a right hand of
 Because our sons are as plants, [falsehood.
 Becoming great in their youth;
 Our daughters are hewn stones,
 Polished, the pattern of a palace:
 Our garners are full, bringing out
 From kind to kind:
 Our flocks bringing forth thousands,
 Ten thousands in our out-places:
 Our oxen carrying, there is no breach:
 And there is no outgoing;
 And there is no crying in our broad places.
 O the happiness of the people that is thus:
 O the happiness of the people
 Whose God is the LORD.

CXLV. Praise by David.

I exalt Thee, my God, O king;
 And I bless Thy name for ever and ever.
 Every day I bless Thee,
 And praise Thy name for ever and ever.
 Great is the LORD, and greatly praised;

And of His greatness there is no searching.
 Generation to generation praiseth Thy works,
 And Thy mighty acts they declare.
 The honour, the glory of Thy majesty,
 And the matters of Thy wonders I declare.
 And the strength of Thy fearful acts they
 And Thy greatness I recount. [tell:
 The memorial of the abundance
 Of Thy goodness they send forth,
 And Thy righteousness they sing.
 Gracious and merciful is the LORD:
 Slow to anger, and great in kindness.
 Good is the LORD to all;
 And His mercies are over all His works.
 All Thy works confess Thee, O LORD:
 And Thy saints bless Thee.
 The honour of Thy kingdom they tell,
 And of Thy power they speak;
 To make known to the sons of men
 His mighty acts,
 The honour of the majesty of His kingdom.
 Thy kingdom is a kingdom of all ages,
 And Thy dominion
 Is throughout all generations.
 A support is the LORD of all who fall,
 And a raiser up of all who are bowed down.
 The eyes of all look unto Thee,
 And Thou art giving to them
 Their food in its season:
 Opening Thy hand, and satisfying
 The desire of every living thing.
 Righteous is the LORD in all His ways,
 And kind in all His works.
 Near is the LORD to all who call Him,
 To all who call Him in truth.
 The desire of all who fear Him He doeth,
 And their cry heareth, and saveth them.
 The LORD preserveth all who love Him:
 And all the wicked He destroyeth.
 The praise of the LORD my mouth speak:
 And all flesh bleaseth His holy name [eth:
 For ever and ever.

CXLVI. Praise ye the LORD.

Praise, O my soul, the LORD.
 I praise the LORD during my life:
 I sing praise to my God while I exist.
 Trust not in princes—in the son of man,
 For he hath no deliverance. [his earth:
 His spirit goeth forth, he hath returned to
 In that day have his thoughts perished.
 O the happiness of him
 Who hath the God of Jacob for his help,
 His hope on the LORD his God.
 Who maketh the heavens and the earth,
 The sea and all that is in them;
 Who keepeth truth for ever:
 Who doeth judgment for the oppressed:
 Who giveth bread to the hungry.
 The LORD looseth the prisoners:
 The LORD openeth the blind:
 The LORD raiseth the bowed down:
 The LORD loveth the righteous:
 The LORD preserveth the strangers:
 The fatherless and widow He causeth to
 And the way of the wicked [stand:
 He turneth upside down.
 The LORD doth reign for ever,
 Thy God, O Zion, to all generations.
 Praise ye the LORD.

CXLVII. 1 Praise ye the LORD:

- For it is good to praise our God;
 For pleasant—comely is praise.
 2 The builder of Jerusalem is the LORD:
 The driven away of Israel He gathereth.
 3 Who giveth healing to the broken of heart,
 And bindeth up their griefs.
 4 He appointeth the number of the stars;
 To all of them He giveth names.
 5 Great is our Lord, and great in power:
 Of His understanding—no narration.
 6 The LORD causeth the meek to stand:
 He maketh low the wicked—to the earth.
 7 Answer ye to the LORD with thanksgiving:
 Sing ye to our God with a harp.
 8 Who covereth the heavens with clouds,
 Who prepareth for the earth rain,
 Who causeth grass to spring up on moun-

 To the young of the ravens which call.

 delight:

- Not in the legs of a man is He pleased.
 11 The LORD is pleased
 With those who fear Him,
 With those who wait for His kindness.
 12 (Glorify, O Jerusalem, the LORD;
 Praise thy God, O Zion.
 13 For He strengthened the bars of thy gates;
 He hath blessed thy children in thy midst.
 14 Who maketh thy border peace,
 With the fat of wheat He satisfieth Thee.
 15 Who sendeth forth His saying on earth:
 Very speedily doth His word run.
 16 Who giveth snow like wool;
 Hoar-frost as ashes He scattereth.
 17 Casting forth His ice like morsels:
 Before His cold who doth stand? [them:
 18 He sendeth forth His word and melteth
 He causeth His wind to blow—the waters

 His statutes and His judgments to Israel.

 As to judgments, they have not known

CXLVIII. 1 Praise ye the LORD.

- Praise ye the LORD from the heavens:
 Praise ye Him in the high places.
 2 Praise ye Him, all His messengers;
 Praise ye Him, all His hosts.
 3 Praise ye Him, sun and moon:
 Praise ye Him, all stars of light.
 4 Praise ye Him, heavens of heavens,
 And ye waters which are above the sea.
 5 They praise the name of the LORD: [vens.
 For He commanded,
 And they were created. [ever:
 6 And He establisheth them for ever and

A statute He gave, and they pass not over.

- 7 Praise ye the LORD from the earth,
 Dragons and all deeps:
 8 Fire and hail; snow and vapour;
 Whirlwind doing His word:
 9 The mountains and all hills;
 Fruit tree, and all cedars:
 10 Wild beast, and all cattle;
 Creeping thing, and winged bird:
 11 Kings of earth, and all peoples;
 Heads, and all judges of earth:
 12 Young men, and also maidens:
 Old men, with children:
 13 They praise the name of the LORD:
 For His name alone hath been set on high:
 His honour is above earth and heaven.
 14 And He exalteth the horn of His people,
 The praise of all His saints;
 Of the children of Israel, a people near Him.
 Praise ye the LORD.

CXLIX. 1 Praise ye the LORD.

- Sing ye to the LORD a new song,
 His praise in a congregation of saints.
 2 Israel rejoiceth in His Maker:
 The children of Zion joy in their king.
 3 They praise His name in the dance:
 With timbrel and harp
 They sing praise to Him.
 4 For the LORD is pleased with His people:
 He beautifieth the humble with salvation.
 5 Saints exult in honour:
 They sing aloud on their beds.
 6 The exaltation of God is in their throat,
 And a two-edged sword in their hand.
 7 To do vengeance among the nations,
 Punishments among the peoples.
 8 To bind their kings with chains,
 And their honoured ones with iron fetters.
 9 To do among them the judgment written:
 And honour it is for all his saints.
 Praise ye the LORD.

CL. 1 Praise ye the LORD.

- Praise ye God in His holy place:
 Praise Him in the expanse of His strength.
 2 Praise Him in His mighty acts:
 Praise Him according to the abundance of His greatness.
 3 Praise Him with blowing of a trumpet:
 Praise Him with psaltery and harp.
 4 Praise Him with timbrel and dance:
 Praise Him with stringed instruments and organ.
 5 Praise Him with cymbals of sounding:
 Praise Him with cymbals of shouting.
 6 All that breatheth doth praise the LORD.
 Praise ye the LORD.

PROVERBS.

I. 1 PROVERBS OF SOLOMON, SON OF DAVID, KING OF ISRAEL.

- 2 For knowing wisdom and instruction,
3 For understanding sayings of intelligence;
4 For receiving the instruction of wisdom,
Righteousness, and judgment, and uprightness;
- 5 For giving to the simple—prudence,
To the youth—knowledge and discretion.
- 6 The wise heareth and increaseth learning,
And the intelligent obtaineth plans.
- 7 For understanding a proverb and its
The words of the wise, [sweetness,
And their acute sayings.
- 8 The fear of the Lord is the beginning of knowledge; [wisdom,
Wisdom and instruction fools have de-
9 Hear, my son, instruction of thy father;
Leave not the direction of thy mother;
- 10 For a graceful wreath are they for thy
And chains for thy neck. [head,
11 My son, if sinners entice thee—go not in;
If they say, 'Come with us;
We lay wait for blood, [out cause:
We watch secretly for the innocent with-
12 We swallow them as Sheol—alive;
And whole—as those who go down to the
- 13 Every precious substance we find. [pit:
We fill our houses with spoil:
14 Thy lot cast thou among us;
One purse is to all of us.'
- 15 My son, go not in the way with them;
Withhold thy foot from their path;
16 For their feet run to evil,
And they haste to shed blood.
- 17 Surely in vain is the net spread out
Before the eyes of any bird.
- 18 Yet they for their own blood lay wait:
They watch secretly for their own lives.
- 19 So are the paths of every gainer of dishonest gain;
The life of its owners it taketh away.
- 20 Wisdom in the out-place crieth aloud,
In the broad places giveth forth her voice:
21 At the head of the multitudes she calleth,
In the openings of the gates:
In the city her words she saith, [city?
- 22 'Till when, ye simple, do ye love simpli-
And scorners their scornful desire?
And fools hate knowledge?
- 23 Turn back at my reproof;
I utter my mind to you,
I make known my words with you.
- 24 Because I have called, and ye refuse:
I stretched out my hand, and none attend-
25 And ye slight all my counsel, [eth:
And my reproof have not desired:
- 26 I also at your calamity laugh:
I deride when your fear cometh.
- 27 When your fear cometh as destruction, (And your calamity as a hurricane doth come.)
When on you come adversity and distress,
28 Then they call me, and I answer not;
They seek me earnestly, and find me not.
- 29 Because they have hated knowledge,

- And the fear of the Lord have not chosen:
30 They have not consented to my counsel:
They have despised all my reproof,
31 And they eat of the fruit of their way,
And from their own counsels are filled.
- 32 For the turning back of the simple slayeth them, [them,
And the safety of the foolish destroyeth
33 But whose hearkeneth to me dwelleth confidently,
And is secure from fear of evil.'

- II. 1 My son, if thou accept my sayings,
And my commands lay up with thee;
2 Causing thine ear to attend to wisdom,
Thou inclinest thy heart to understand
3 For, if for intelligence thou callest, [ing:
For understanding givest forth thy voice;
4 If thou seek her as silver,
And as hid treasures search her: [Lord,
5 Then understandest thou the fear of the
And the knowledge of God thou findest.
- 6 For the Lord giveth wisdom: [standing,
From His mouth knowledge and under-
7 Even laying up substance for the upright:
A shield for those who walk uprightly.
- 8 Keeping the paths of judgment,
Even the way of His saints He preserveth.
- 9 Then understandest thou righteousness,
And judgment, and uprightness—every good path.
- 10 For wisdom cometh into thy heart,
And knowledge to thy soul is pleasant;
- 11 Thoughtfulness watcheth over thee,
Understanding keepeth thee,
12 —To deliver thee from an evil way,
From any speaking forward things;
- 13 Who are forsaking paths of uprightness,
To walk in ways of darkness;
- 14 Who are rejoicing to do evil,
Delight in the frowardness of the wicked;
- 15 Whose paths are crooked:
Yea, they are perverted in their ways.
- 16 —To deliver thee from the strange woman, [her sayings,
From the stranger who hath made smooth
17 Who is forsaking the guide of her youth,
And the covenant of her God hath forgotten.
- 18 For her house hath inclined unto death,
And unto the Rephaim her paths.
- 19 None who go into her turn back,
Nor reach the paths of life.
- 20 —That thou mayest walk in the way of the good,
And the paths of the righteous keep.
- 21 For the upright inhabit the earth,
And the perfect are left in it;
- 22 And the wicked from the earth are cut off,
And treacherous dealers pulled out of it.

- III. 1 My son, my direction forget not,
And my commands let thy heart keep:
2 For length of days and years,
Life and peace they add to thee.
- 3 Let not kindness and truth forsake thee:

Bind them on thy neck;
Write them on the table of thy heart:
And find grace and good understanding
In the eyes of God and man.
Trust to the LORD with all thy heart:
And to thine own understanding lean not.
In all thy ways know Him,
And He maketh straight thy paths.
Be not wise in thine own eyes:
Fear the LORD, and turn aside from evil.
Healing it is to thy navel,
And moistening to thy bones.
Honour the LORD with thy substance,
With the beginning of all thine increase:
And thy barns are filled with plenty,
And with new wine thy presses break forth.
The chastisement of the LORD, my son,
And be not vexed with His reproof:
For whom the LORD loveth He reproveth:
Even as a father the son He is pleased with.
O the happiness of the man who hath
And of the man who bringeth out under-
For better is her merchandise [standing,
Than the merchandise of silver,
And than gold—her increase.
Precious she is above rubies; [to her.
And all thy pleasures are not comparable
Length of days is in her right hand;
In her left are wealth and honour.
Her ways are ways of pleasantness,
And all her paths are peace. [on her;
A tree of life she is to those who lay hold
And whose retaineth her is happy.
The LORD by wisdom founded the earth,
Prepared the heavens by understanding.
By His knowledge depths have been rent,
And clouds drop dew.
My son, let them not turn from thine
Keep wisdom and thoughtfulness: eyes:
And they are life to thy soul,
And grace to thy neck.
Then thou goest thy way confidently,
And thy foot stumbleth not.
If thou liest down, thou art not afraid:
Yea, thou hast lain down,
And sweet hath been thy sleep.
Be not afraid of sudden fear,
Or of the desolation of the wicked, when
For the LORD is at thy side, [it cometh.
And hath kept thy foot from capture.
Withhold not good from its owners,
When thy hand is towards God to do it.
Say not to thy friend,
'Go, and return, and to-morrow I give,'
While substance is with thee.
Devise not against thy neighbour evil,
And he sitting confidently with thee:
Strive not with a man without cause,
If he have not done thee evil.
Be not envious of a violent man,
Nor fix on any of his ways.
For an abomination to the LORD is the perverted:
But with the upright is His secret counsel.
The curse of the LORD is in the house of the wicked:
But the habitation of the righteous He scorneth.
Though He scorn the scorers, [bleseth.
Yet to the humble He giveth grace.

The wise inherit honour:
And fools bear away shame.

IV. Hear, O children, the instruction of a father, [ing.
And give attention to know understanding:
For good learning I have given to you,
My direction forsake not.
For, a tender son I have been to my father,
And an only one before my mother.
And he directeth me, and saith to me:
'Let thy heart retain my words;
Keep my commands, and live.
Get wisdom, get understanding:
Forget not; nor turn away
From the sayings of my mouth.
Forsake her not, and she preserveth thee:
Love her, and she keepeth thee.
The first thing is wisdom—get wisdom:
And with all thy getting get understand-
Exalt her, and she lifteth thee up: [ing.
She honoureth thee,
When thou dost embrace her.
She giveth to thy head a wreath of grace:
A crown of beauty she giveth thee freely.
Hear, my son, and receive my sayings:
And years of life are multiplied to thee:
In the way of wisdom I have directed thee:
I have caused thee to tread
In the paths of uprightness.
In thy walking thy step is not straitened:
And though thou runnest,
Thou stumblest not.
Lay hold on instruction; desist not:
Keep her; for she is thy life.
Into the path of the wicked enter not,
And be not happy in the way of evil doers.
Slight it, pass not over into it,
Turn aside from it, and pass on.
For they sleep not if they do no evil,
And their sleep hath been taken violently away
If they cause not some to stumble: [ness.
For they have eaten the bread of wicked-
And the wine of violence they drink.
But the path of the righteous
Is as the shining light, [blished.
Going and brightening till the day is esta-
The way of the wicked is as darkness:
They have not known at what they stumble.
My son, to my words give attention:
To my sayings incline thine ear.
Let them not turn aside from thine eyes:
Preserve them in the midst of thy heart.
For life they are to those who find them,
And healing to all their flesh.
Above every charge keep thy heart:
For out of it are the outgoings of life.
Turn aside from thee a froward mouth
And perverse lips put far from thee,
Thine eyes look straightforward,
And thine eyelids look straight before [thee.
Ponder the path of thy feet,
And all thy ways are established.
Incline not to the right or the left:
Turn aside thy foot from evil.

V. My son, to my wisdom give attention:
To mine understanding incline thine ear:
By observing thoughtfulness,

- Even the knowledge of thy lips they watch.
 3 For the lips of a strange woman drop honey,
 And smoother than oil is her mouth;
 4 But her latter end is bitter as wormwood,
 Sharp as a sword with mouths.
 5 Her feet go down to death:
 Sheel her steps take hold off.
 6 The path of life leat thou ponder,
 Her paths have moved—thou knowest not.
 7 And now, children, hearken to me,
 And turn not from the sayings of my
 8 Keep far from her thy way, [mouth,
 And come not near unto the opening of her house:
 9 Lest thou give to others thy honour,
 And thy years to the fierce:
 10 Lest strangers be filled with thy power,
 And thy griefs in the house of a stranger:
 11 And thou hast howled at thy latter end,
 At the consumption of thy flesh and thy 12 And thou hast said, [food:
 'How have I hated instruction,
 And reproof my heart despised;
 13 And hearkened not to the voice
 Of mine instructors,
 And to my teachers inclined not mine ear.
 14 As a little thing I have been in all evil,
 In the midst of a congregation,
 And an assembly.'
 15 Drink waters out of thine own cistern,
 Even flowing ones out of thine own well.
 16 Let thy fountains be scattered abroad,
 In the broad places rivulets of waters.
 17 Let them be to thee for thyself,
 And not to strangers with thee.
 18 Let thy fountain be blessed;
 And rejoice from the wife of thy youth.
 19 A hind of loves, and a roe of grace;
 Let her loves satisfy thee at all times:
 In her love magnify thyself continually.
 20 And why wilt thou magnify thyself,
 My son, with a stranger? [man?
 And embrace the bosom of a strange wo-
 21 For over-against the eyes of the LORD
 Are the ways of a man,
 And all his paths He is pondering.
 22 His own iniquities capture the wicked,
 And with the ropes of his sin he is holden.
 23 He dieth without instruction;
 And in the abundance of his folly
 He magnifieth himself. [thy friend,
 VI. My son, if thou hast been surety for Hast stricken for a stranger thy hand,
 2 Hast been snared with the sayings of thy Hast been captured [mouth,
 With the sayings of thy mouth—
 3 Do this now, my son, and be delivered.
 For thou hast come into the hand of thy
 Go, trample on thyself, [friend:
 And strengthen thy friend;
 4 Give not sleep to thine eyes,
 Or slumber to thine eyelids:
 5 Be delivered as a roe from the hand,
 And as a bird from the hand of a fowler.
 6 Go unto the ant, O slothful one;
 See her ways and be wise:
 7 Who hath no captain, overseer, or ruler;
 8 She prepareth in summer her bread,
 She hath gathered in harvest her food.
 9 Till when, O slothful one, dost thou lie:
 When dost thou arise from thy sleep
 10 A little sleep, a little slumber,
 A little clasping of the hands to rest:
 11 And thy poverty cometh as a traveller,
 And thy want as an armed man.
 12 A man of worthlessness, a man of iniquity,
 Walketh with perverseness of mouth,
 13 Winking with his eyes,
 Speaking with his feet,
 Directing with his fingers;
 14 Frowardness is in his heart;
 Devising evil at all times,
 Contentions he sendeth forth.
 15 Therefore suddenly his calamity cometh:
 Instantly he is broken—and no healing.
 16 These six hath the LORD hated:
 Yea, seven are abominations to His soul:
 17 Eyes high—tongue false—
 And hands shedding innocent blood—
 18 A heart devising thoughts of vanity—
 Feet hasting to run to evil—
 19 A false witness who breatheth out lies—
 And one sending forth
 Contentions between brethren.
 20 Keep, my son, the command of thy father,
 And leave not the direction of thy mother.
 21 Bind them on thy heart continually,
 Tie them on thy neck.
 22 In thy going up and down, it leadeth thee;
 In thy lying down, it watcheth over thee:
 And thou hast awaked, it talketh with thee.
 23 For the command is a lamp;
 And the direction a light:
 And a way of life reproofs of instruction:
 24 To preserve thee from an evil woman,
 From the flattery of the tongue
 Of a strange woman.
 25 Desire not her beauty in thy heart;
 And let her not take thee with her eyelids.
 26 For a harlot consumeth unto a cake of bread; [eth.
 And an adulteress the precious soul hunt-
 27 Doth a man take fire into his bosom,
 And are his garments not burnt?
 28 Doth a man walk on the hot coals,
 And are his feet not scorched?
 29 So is he who goeth in unto the wife of his neighbour:
 None who toucheth her is innocent.
 30 They do not despise the thief;
 When he stealeth to fill his soul when he is hungry;
 31 But being found he repayeth sevenfold;
 All the substance of his house he giveth.
 32 He who committeth adultery with a woman lacketh understanding,
 He destroyeth his own soul who doth it.
 33 A stroke and shame he findeth,
 And his reproach is not wiped away;
 34 For jealousy is the fury of a man,
 And he spareth not in a day of vengeance.
 35 He accepteth not the appearance of any
 Yea, he consenteth not, [atonement:
 Though thou multipliest bribes.
 VII. 1 My son, keep my sayings,
 And my commands lay up with thee.
 2 Keep my commands, and live:
 My direction as the pupil of thine eye.
 3 Bind them on thy fingers,

Write them on the table of thy heart.
 4 Say to wisdom, 'Thou art my sister;
 And cry to understanding, 'Kinswoman'
 5 To preserve thee from a strange woman,
 From a stranger who hath made smooth
 her sayings.
 6 For, at a window of my house,
 Through my casement I have looked out,
 7 And I see among the simple ones,
 I discern among the youths,
 A young man lacking understanding,
 8 Passing on in the street, near her corner,
 And the way to her house he steps,
 9 In the twilight, in the evening of the day,
 In the darkness of night and blackness.
 10 And, lo, a woman to meet him—
 A harlot's dress, and watchful of heart,
 11 [Noisy she is, and stubborn;
 In her house her feet rest not.
 12 Now in the out-place, now in broad places,
 And near every corner she lieth in wait,
 13 And she laid hold on him, and kissed him,
 Hath hardened her face, and saith to him:
 14 'Sacrifices of peace-offerings are by me;
 To-day I have completed my vows.
 15 Therefore I have come out to meet thee,
 Earnestly to seek thy face, and I find thee.
 16 With ornamental coverings I decked my carved works—cotton of Egypt. [couch,
 17 I have sprinkled my bed—
 Myrrh, aloes, and cinnamon.
 18 Come, we are filled with loves till morning:
 We delight ourselves in loves.
 19 For that one is not in his house,
 He hath gone on a long journey;
 20 A bag of money he took in his hand:
 At the day of the new moon he cometh to his house.' [dance of her speech, 21 She hath turned him aside with the abundant flattery of her lips forsooth him.
 22 He goeth after her straightway,
 As an ox unto the slaughter he cometh:
 And as an ornament at the chastisement
 23 Till an arrow split his liver: [of a fool;
 As a bird hath hastened unto the snare,
 And hath not known that it is for its life.
 24 And now, children, hearken to me,
 Give attention to the sayings of my mouth:
 25 Let not thy heart turn unto her ways,
 Wander not in her paths.
 26 For many are the wounded she caused to
 And mighty are all her slain ones. [fall,
 27 The ways of Sheol—her house,
 Going down to the inner chambers of death.

VIII. 1 Doth not wisdom call?
 And understanding give forth her voice?
 2 At the head of high places by the way,
 Between the paths she hath stood.
 3 At the side of the gates,
 At the mouth of the city,
 The entrance of the openings, she crieth
 4 'Unto you, O men, I call: [aloud:
 And my voice is to the sons of men.
 5 Understand, O simple ones, prudence;
 And fools, understand courage,
 6 Hearken, for noble things I speak,
 And the opening of my lips is upright-
 7 For my mouth uttereth truth: [ness.
 And an abomination to my lips is wickedness.

8 In righteousness are all the sayings of my mouth;
 Nothing in them is froward or perverse.
 9 All of them are plain to the intelligent,

 And those who seek me earnestly, find me.

 Lasting substance and righteousness.
 19 Better is my fruit than gold, even fine gold:

 Before the heights, was I brought forth.

 Watching at my doors daily,
 Watching the door-posts of mine en-

 And bringeth out good-will from the LORD.
 36 And whoso misseth me, wrongeth his soul:
 All who hate me have loved death.

CHAP. I. ¹ WORDS OF A PREACHER, SON OF DAVID, KING IN JERUSALEM:

² Vanity of vanities, said the Preacher, Vanity of vanities: the whole is vanity. ³ What advantage hath man by all his labour which he laboureth at under the sun? ⁴ Generations go and generations come, and the earth for ever standeth. ⁵ The sun also hath risen, and the sun hath gone in, and panting unto its place, it riseth there. ⁶ Going unto the south, and turning round unto the north, turning round, turning round, the wind goeth: and by its circuits the wind returneth. ⁷ All the streams go unto the sea, and the sea is not full: unto a place where the streams go, there they turn back to go.

⁸ All these things are wearying: a man is not able to speak, the eye is not satisfied by seeing, nor filled is the ear from hearing. ⁹ What is that which hath been? it is that which is: and what is that which hath been done? it is that which is done, and there is not an entirely new thing under the sun. ¹⁰ There is a thing of which one saith: 'See this, it is new!' already it hath been in the ages which were before us! ¹¹ There is no remembrance of former generations; and also of the latter which are, there is no remembrance of them with those which are at the last.

¹² I, the preacher, have been king over Israel in Jerusalem. ¹³ And I have given my heart to seek and to search out by wisdom concerning all that hath been done under the heavens. It is a sad travail God hath given to the children of men to be humbled by it. ¹⁴ I have seen all the works which have been done under the sun, and lo, the whole is vanity and vexation of spirit! ¹⁵ A crooked thing one is not able to make straight, and a lacking thing is not able to be numbered. ¹⁶ I spake with my heart, saying, 'I, lo, I have magnified and increased wisdom above every one who hath been before me at Jerusalem, and my heart hath seen abundantly wisdom and knowledge. ¹⁷ And I give up my heart to know wisdom, and to know madness and folly: I have known that even this is vexation of spirit: ¹⁸ For, in abundance of wisdom is abundance of sadness; and he who increaseth knowledge increaseth pain.'

II. ¹ I said in my heart, 'Pray, come, I try thee with mirth, and look thou on gladness:' and lo, even this is vanity. ² Of laughter I said, 'Foolish!' and of mirth, 'What is this it doeth?' ³ I sought in my heart to draw out with wine my appetite, (yet my heart a leader in wisdom), and to take hold on folly till that I might see where is the good to the children of men of that which they do under the heavens, the number of the days of their lives. ⁴ I made great my works, I builded for myself houses, I planted for myself vineyards. ⁵ I made for myself gardens and paradises, and I planted in them a tree of every fruit. ⁶ I made for myself pools of water, to water from them a forest shooting forth trees. ⁷ I got men-servants and maid-servants, and children of the house were mine: I had also much substance—herd and flock—above all who had been before me in Jerusalem. ⁸ I gathered for myself also silver and gold, and the peculiar treasure of kings and of the provinces. I prepared for myself men-singers and women-singers, and the luxuries of the sons of men—a wife and wives. ⁹ And I became great, and increased above every one who had been before me in Jerusalem; my wisdom also stood with me. ¹⁰ And all that mine eyes asked I kept not back from them: I withheld not my heart from any joy, for my heart rejoiced because of all my labour: and this hath been my portion from all my labour: ¹¹ That I have looked on all my works which my hands have done, and on the labour which I have laboured to do, and lo, the whole is vanity and vexation of spirit, and there is no advantage under the sun!

¹² And I turned to see wisdom, and madness, and folly: but what is the man who cometh after the king? that which is already—they have done! ¹³ And I saw that there is an advantage to wisdom above folly, like the advantage of the light above the darkness. ¹⁴ The wise—his eyes are in his head, and the fool walketh in darkness: and I myself also knew that one event happeneth with them all: ¹⁵ and I said in my heart, 'As it happeneth with the fool, it happeneth also with me: and why then am I more wise?' And I said in my heart, that even this is vanity: ¹⁶ That there is no remembrance of the wise with the fool for ever, for that which is already, in the days that come is all forgotten, and how dieth the wise with the fool! ¹⁷ And I have hated life; for sad to me is the work which hath been done under the sun, for the whole is vanity and vexation of spirit. ¹⁸ And I have hated all my labour which I labour at under the sun, because I leave it to a man who is after me. ¹⁹ And who knoweth whether he is wise or foolish? yet he shall rule over all my labour which I have laboured at, and that I have done wisely under the sun! this also is vanity.

²⁰ AND I turned round to cause my heart to despair concerning all the labour which I laboured at under the sun. ²¹ For there is a man whose labour is in wisdom, and in knowledge, and in equity, and to a man who hath not laboured therein he giveth it—his portion! Even this is vanity and a great evil. ²² For what hath man had by all his labour, and by the thought of his heart which he laboured at under the sun? ²³ For all his days are pains, and his travail sadness; even at night his heart hath not lain down; this also is vanity: ²¹ There is nothing good in a man who eateth, and hath drank, and hath shewn his soul good in his labour. This also I have seen that it is from the hand of God. ²³ For who eateth and who hateth out more than I? ²⁴ For to a man who is good before Him, He hath given wisdom, and knowledge, and joy; and to a sinner He hath given travail, to gather and to heap up, to give to the good before God. Even this is vanity and vexation of spirit.

III. ¹ TO everything—a season, and a time to every delight under the heavens:

- ² A time to bring forth,
And a time to die.
- A time to plant,
And a time to eradicate the planted.
- ³ A time to slay,
And a time to heal.
- A time to break down,
And a time to build up.
- ⁴ A time to weep,
And a time to laugh.
- A time to mourn,
And a time to skip.
- ⁵ A time to cast away stones,
And a time to heap up stones.
- A time to embrace,
And a time to be far from embracing.
- ⁶ A time to seek,
And a time to destroy.
- A time to keep,
And a time to cast away.
- ⁷ A time to rend,
And a time to sew.
- A time to be silent,
And a time to speak.
- ⁸ A time to love,
And a time to hate.
- A time of war,
And a time of peace.

⁹ What advantage hath the doer in that which he laboureth at? ¹⁰ I have seen the travail which God hath given to the children of men to be humbled by it. ¹¹ The whole He hath made beautiful in its season: also, that knowledge He hath put in their heart without which man findeth not out the work which God hath done from the beginning even unto the end. ¹² I have known that there is no good for them except to rejoice and to do good during their life; ¹³ yea, even every man who eateth and hath drunk and seen good by all his labour: it is a gift of God. ¹⁴ I have known that all that God doth is for ever: to it nothing is to be added, and from it nothing is to be withdrawn—and God hath wrought that they should fear before Him. ¹⁵ That which hath been is now, and that which is to be hath already been, and God requireth that which is pursued.

¹⁶ And again, I have seen under the sun a place of judgment, there is the wicked—and a place of righteousness—there is the wicked. ¹⁷ I said in my heart, 'The righteous and the wicked God judgeth, for a time is for every matter and for every work there.' ¹⁸ I said in my heart concerning the matter of the children of men that God might cleanse them; so as to see that they themselves are beasts. ¹⁹ For an event is to the children of men, and an event is to the beasts, even the same event is to them: as the death of this, so is the death of that, and one spirit is to all, and the advantage of man above the beast is nothing: for the whole is vanity. ²⁰ The whole go unto one place, the whole have been from the dust, and the whole turn back unto the dust. ²¹ Who knoweth the spirit of the children of men which goeth up on high, and the spirit of the beast which goeth down below to the earth? ²² Yea, I have seen that there is nothing better than that man rejoice in his works, for it is his portion, for who doth bring him to look on that which is after him?

IV. ¹ AND I have turned, and I consider all the oppressions which are done under the sun, and lo, the tear of the oppressed, and they have no comforter; and at the hand of their oppressors is power, and they have no comforter. ² And I praise the dead who have already died above the living who are yet alive. ³ And better than both of them is he who hath not yet been, because he hath not seen the evil work that hath been done under the sun. ⁴ And I have considered all the labour, and all the benefit of the work, because for it a man is the envy of his neighbour. Even this is vanity and vexation of spirit. ⁵ The fool elaspeth his hands, and eateth his own flesh, saying, ⁶ 'Better is a handful with quietness, than two handfuls with labour and vexation of spirit.'

⁷ And I have turned, and I see a vain thing under the sun: ⁸ There is one, and there is not a second; even son or brother he hath none, and there is no end to all his labour! His eye also is not satisfied with riches, but, he saith not, 'For whom do I labour and bereave my soul of good?' This also is vanity, yea, it is a sad travail. ⁹ Two are better than one, for they have a good reward by their labour. ¹⁰ For if they fall, the one raiseth up his companion; but wo to the one who falleth while there is not a second to raise him up! ¹¹ Also, if two lie down, then they have heat, but how shall one have heat? ¹² And if one strengthen himself, two shall stand against him; and the threefold cord is not broken hastily. ¹³ Better is a poor and wise youth than an old and foolish king, who hath not known to be warned any more. ¹⁴ For from a house of prisoners he hath gone out to reign, for even in his own kingdom he hath been poor. ¹⁵ I have seen all the living, who walk under the sun, with the second youth who doth stand in his place. ¹⁶ There is no end to all the people, to all who were before them; yet the latter rejoice not in him. Surely this also is vanity and vexation of spirit.

V. ¹ KEEP thy feet when thou goest unto a house of God, and draw near to hear rather than to give of fools the sacrifice, for they know not they do evil. ² Cause not thy mouth to hasten, yea, let not thy heart hasten to bring out a word before God, for God is in the heavens, and thou on the earth, therefore let thy words be few. ³ For the dream cometh by abundance of business, and the voice of a fool by abundance of words. ⁴ When thou vowest a vow to God, delay not to complete it, for there is no pleasure in fools: that which thou vowest—complete. ⁵ Better that thou do not vow, than that thou shouldst vow and not complete. ⁶ Suffer not thy mouth to cause thy flesh to sin, nor say before the messenger, that 'it is an error,' why is God wroth because of thy voice, and hath destroyed the work of thy hands? ⁷ For, in the abundance of dreams both vanities and words abound; but fear thou God.

⁸ If oppression of the poor, and violent taking away of judgment and righteousness thou seest in a province, marvel not at the matter, for a higher than the high observeth, and high ones are over them. ⁹ And the abundance of the laud is for all. A king is served for a field. ¹⁰ Whoso loveth silver is not satisfied with silver, nor he who is in love with stores with increase. Even this is vanity. ¹¹ In the multiplying of good, its consumers have been multiplied, and what benefit hath its possessor except the sight of his eyes? ¹² Sweet is the sleep of the labourer whether he eat little or much; but the sufficiency of the wealthy suffereth him not to sleep. ¹³ There is a painful evil I have seen under the sun: wealth kept for its possessor, for his evil. ¹⁴ And that wealth hath been lost in an evil business, and he hath begotten a son while there is nothing in his hand! ¹⁵ As he came out from the belly of his mother, naked he turneth back to go as he came, and he taketh not away anything of his labour, which may go in his hand. ¹⁶ And this also is a painful evil: just as he came, so he goeth, and what advantage hath he who laboureth for wind? ¹⁷ Also all his days he consumeth in darkness; and sadness, and wrath, and sickness abound. ¹⁸ Lo, that which I have seen: It is good, because pleasant, to eat, and to drink, and to see good in all one's labour which he laboureth at under the sun, the number of the days of his life which God hath given to him, for it is his portion. ¹⁹ Every man also to whom God hath given wealth and riches, and hath given him power to eat of it, and to accept his portion, and to rejoice in his labour, this is a gift of God. ²⁰ For he doth not much remember the days of his life: for God answereth through the joy of His heart.

VI. ¹ THERE is an evil which I have seen under the sun, and it is great on man: ² A man to whom God giveth wealth, and riches, and honour, and there is no lack to his soul of all that he desireth, and God giveth him not power to eat of it, but a stranger eateth it: this is vanity, yea, it is an evil disease. ³ Though a man beget a hundred, and live many years, and be great, because they are the days of his years, and his soul be not satisfied from that goodness, and he hath not had even a grave, I have said, 'Better than he is the untimely birth.' ⁴ For in vanity he came in, and in darkness he goeth, and in darkness his name is covered. ⁵ Even the sun he hath not seen nor known; more rest hath this than that. ⁶ And though he hath lived a thousand years twice over, yet he hath not seen good; doth not every one go to the same place?

⁷ All the labour of man is for his mouth, and yet the soul is not filled. ⁸ For what advantage hath the wise above the fool? What hath the poor who knoweth to walk before the living? ⁹ Better is the sight of the eyes than the going of the soul. This also is vanity and vexation of spirit. ¹⁰ What is that which hath been? already its name is called, and it is known that it is man; and he is not able to contend with him who is stronger than he. ¹¹ For there are many things multiplying vanity: what advantage hath man? ¹² For who knoweth what is good for man in life, the number of the days of the life of his vanity, when he maketh them as a shadow? for who declareth to man what is after him under the sun?

VII. ¹ BETTER is a name than good perfume, And the day of death than the day of birth.

² Better to go unto a house of mourning, Than to go unto a house of banqueting, For that is the end of all men, And the living layeth it unto his heart.

³ Better is sorrow than laughter, For by the sadness of the countenance The heart becometh better.

⁴ The heart of the wise is in a house of And the heart of fools [mourning, In a house of mirth.

⁵ Better to hear a rebuke of a wise man, Than for a man to hear a song of fools:

⁶ For as the noise of thorns under the pot, So is the laughter of a fool; Even this is vanity.

⁷ Surely oppression maketh the wise mad, And a gift destroyeth the heart.

⁸ Better is the latter end of a thing Than its beginning; Better is the patient of spirit Than the haughty of spirit.

⁹ Be not hasty in thy spirit to be angry, For anger resteth in the bosom of fools.

¹⁰ Say not thou, 'What was it, [these?]' That the former days were better than For thou hast not asked wisely of this.

¹¹ Wisdom is good with an inheritance, And an advantage it is To those who behold the sun.

¹² For wisdom is a defence, money a defence; But the advantage of the knowledge of She reviveth her possessors. [wisdom is:]

¹³ Consider the work of God: For who is able to make straight That which He hath made crooked?

¹⁴ In a day of prosperity be glad, And in a day of evil consider. God also made this over-against that,

To the intent that man

May not find anything after him.

¹⁵ All this have I considered in the days of my vanity.

There is a righteous one perishing in his righteousness, and there is a wrong-doer prolonging himself in his wrong. ¹⁶ Be not over-righteous, nor allow thyself too wise, why wilt thou be desolate? ¹⁷ Do not much wrong, neither be thou a fool, why wilt thou die without thy time? ¹⁸ It is good that thou lay hold on this, and also, from that withdraw not thy hand, for whose feareth God goeth out with them all. ¹⁹ Wisdom giveth strength to a wise man, more than wealth strengthens the rulers who have been in a city. ²⁰ Though there is no righteous man on earth that doth good and erreth not. ²¹ Also to all the words that they speak give not thy heart, that thou hear not thy servant reviling thee. ²² For many times also thy heart hath known that thou thyself also hast reviled others.

²³ All this have I tried by wisdom; I have said, 'I will be wise,' but it is far from me. ²⁴ Far off is that which hath been, and deep, deep, who doth find it? ²⁵ I have turned round with my heart to know and to search, and to seek out wisdom, and reason, and to know the wrong of folly, and of foolishness the madness. ²⁶ And I find more bitter than death, the woman whose heart is nets and snares, her hands are bands; the good before God escapeth from her, but the erring one is captured by her. ²⁷ See, this I have found, said the Preacher, one to one, to find out the reason (which still my soul had sought, and I had not found), One man, a teacher, I have found, but a woman among all these I have not found. ²⁸ See, this alone have I found, that God made man upright, and they—they have sought out many devices.

VIII. ¹ Who is as the wise? and who knoweth the interpretation of a thing? The wisdom of man causeth his face to shine, and the hardness of his face is changed. ² Keep, I pray thee, the commandment of a king, even for the sake of the oath of God. ³ Be not troubled at his presence: thou mayest go, stand not in an evil thing, for all that he pleaseth he doeth. ⁴ Where the word of a king is power is, and who saith to him, 'What doest thou?' ⁵ Whoso keepeth a command knoweth no evil thing, and time and judgment the heart of the wise knoweth. ⁶ For to every pleasure there is a time and a judgment, for the misfortune of man is great upon him. ⁷ For he knoweth not that which shall be, for when it shall be who declareth to him? ⁸ There is no man ruling over a spirit to restrain the spirit: and there is no authority over the day of death, and there is no discharge in battle, and wickedness delivereth not its possessors. ⁹ All this have I considered so as to give up my heart to every work that hath been done under the sun: a time when man hath ruled over man to his own evil. ¹⁰ And so I have seen the wicked buried, who went in, even from the Holy Place they go, and they are forgotten in the city whether they had so done. This also is vanity.

¹¹ Because sentence on an evil work hath not been done speedily, therefore the heart of the children of men is full within them to do evil. ¹² Though a sinner do evil a hundred times, and prolong himself for it, surely also I know that there is good to those who fear God, who fear before Him. ¹³ And good is not to the wicked, and he doth not prolong days as a shadow, because he feareth not before God. ¹⁴ There is a vanity which hath been done upon the earth, that there are righteous ones unto whom it cometh according to the work of the wicked; and there are wicked ones unto whom it cometh according to the work of the righteous. I have said that this also is vanity. ¹⁵ And I have praised mirth because man hath no good under the sun except to eat and to drink, and to rejoice, seeing it remaineth with him of his labour the days of his life which God hath given to him under the sun.

¹⁶ WHEN I gave up my heart to know wisdom and to consider the business that hath been done on the earth, (for there is also a spectator in whose eyes sleep is not by day or by night), ¹⁷ then I considered all the work of God, that man is not able to find out the work that hath been done under the sun, because though man labour to seek, yet he doth not find; and even though the wise man speak of knowing he is not able to find.

IX. ¹ But all this I have laid unto my heart, so as to clear up the whole of this, that the righteous, and the wise, and their works, are in the hand of God; man knoweth not either love or hatred: the whole is before them. ² The whole is as to the whole; one event is to the righteous and to the wicked, to the good, and to the clean, and to the unclean, and to him who sacrificeth, and to him who doth not sacrifice; as is the good so is the sinner, he who sweareth as he who feareth an oath. ³ This is an evil among all that hath been done under the sun, that one event is to all, and the heart of the children of men also is full of evil; and madness is in their heart during their life, and after it—unto the dead. ⁴ But to him who is joined unto all the living there is confidence, for to a living dog it is better than to the dead lion. ⁵ For the living know that they shall die, but the dead know not anything, and there is no more to them a reward, for their remembrance hath been forgotten. ⁶ Their love also, their hatred also, their envy also, hath already perished, and they have no more a portion for ever in all that hath been done under the sun. ⁷ Go, eat with joy thy bread, and drink with a glad heart thy wine, for already hath God been pleased with thy works. ⁸ At all times let thy garments be white: and let not perfume be lacking on thy head. ⁹ Enjoy life with the wife whom thou hast loved, all the days of the life of thy vanity, which life hath given to thee under the sun, all the days of thy vanity, for it is thy portion during life, even of thy labour which thou labourest at under the sun. ¹⁰ All that thy hand findeth to do, with thy power do, for there is no work, or device, or knowledge, or wisdom in Sheol whither thou goest.

¹¹ I have turned so as to see under the sun, that not to the swift is the race, nor to the mighty the battle, nor even to the wise bread, nor even to the intelligent wealth, nor even to the skilful grace, for time and chance happen with them all. ¹² For even man knoweth not his time; as fish which are taken hold of by an evil net, and as birds which are taken hold of by a snare, like these are the children of men snared at an evil time, when it falleth upon them suddenly.

¹³ This also I have considered: wisdom under the sun which is great to me. ¹⁴ A little city, and few men in it, and a great king hath come unto it, and hath surrounded it, and hath built against it great bulwarks. ¹⁵ And there hath been found in it a poor wise man, and he hath delivered the city by his wisdom; but men have not remembered that poor man! ¹⁶ And I said, 'Better is wisdom than might, but the wisdom of the poor is despised, and his words are not heard.'

¹⁷ The words of the wise are heard in quiet, More than the cry of a ruler over fools.

¹⁸ Better is wisdom than weapons of war, And one sinner destroyeth much good.

X. ¹ Dead flies cause the perfumer's fume To send forth a stink; [fume The precious by reason of wisdom From honour—a little folly!]

² The heart of the wise is at his right hand, And the heart of a fool at his left.

³ And also, when he that is a fool Is walking in the way, his heart is lacking, And hath said of every one, 'He is a fool.'

⁴ If the spirit of the ruler go up against thee, Leave not thy place,

For yielding quieteth great sinners.

⁵ There is an evil I have seen under the sun, As an error that goeth out from the ruler:

⁶ He hath set the fool in many high places, And the rich in a low place sit.

⁷ I have seen servants on horses, Princes walking as servants on the earth.

⁸ Whoso diggeth a pit falleth into it; And whoso breaketh a hedge, A serpent biteth him.

⁹ Whoso removeth stones is grieved by them, Whose cleaveth trees endangered by them.

¹⁰ If the iron hath been blunt, And he hath not sharpened the face, Then doth he increase strength: [right. And wisdom is advantageous to make

¹¹ If the serpent bite without enchantment, Then there is no advantage

To a master of the tongue. [cious, But the lips of a fool swallow him up.

¹² The beginning of the words of his mouth And the latter end of his mouth [is folly, Is mischievous madness.

¹³ And the fool multiplieth words:

'Man knoweth not that which shall be, Yea, that which shall be after him, Who doth declare to him?'

¹⁴ The labour of the foolish wearieth him, Because he knew not to go to the city.

¹⁵ Wo to thee, O land, When thy king is a youth, And thy princes eat in the morning.

¹⁶ Happy art thou, O land, When thy king is a free man, And thy princes eat in due season,

For might and not for drunkenness.

¹⁷ By slothfulness the wall is brought low, And by idleness of the hands

Doth the house drop.

¹⁸ For mirth they make a feast, And wine maketh life joyful.

And silver answereth with all.

¹⁹ Even in thy mind a king revile not, And in the inner chambers of thy bed

Revile not the rich:

For the fowl of the heavens Causeth the voice to go,

And a possessor of wings declareth the [matter

⁴ As thou knowest not what is the way of Like bones in the womb of the full one;

So thou knowest not the work of God Who maketh the whole.

⁵ In the morning sow thy seed, And at even withdraw not thy hand:

For thou knowest not which is right, this or that,

Or whether both of them are alike good.

⁶ Sweet also is the light, And good for the eyes to see the sun.

⁷ But if man live many years, In all of them let him rejoice,

And remember the days of darkness. [ity. For they are many! all that cometh is van-

⁸ Rejoice, O young man, in thy childhood, And let thy heart gladden thee

In the days of thy youth.

And walk in the ways of thy heart, And in the sight of thine eyes;

But know, that for all these God bringeth thee into judgment.

⁹ And turn aside anger from thy heart, And cause evil to pass from thy flesh, For childhood and age are vanity.

XII. ¹ Remember also thy Creators In the days of thy youth,

While the evil days come not, [est, Nor the years have arrived, that thou say- 'I have no pleasure in them.'

² While the sun is not darkened, or the Or the moon, or the stars, [light, Or the thick clouds returned after the rain,

³ In the day that the keepers of the house
do tremble,
And the men of strength have bowed themselves,
And the grinders have ceased,
Because they have become few,
And those who look out at the windows
Have become dim,
⁴ And the doors been shut in the street,
When the noise of the grinding is low,
And one riseth at the voice of the bird,
And all daughters of song are bowed down,
⁵ Also of that which is high, they are afraid,
And of the low places in the way,
And the almond-tree is despised,
And the grasshopper is become a burden,
And want is increased;
For man goeth unto his everlasting home,
And the mourners have gone round
Through the street.
⁶ While the silver cord is not removed,
Or the golden bowl broken,
Or the pitcher broken by the fountain,
So as to break the wheel at the well.

⁷ And the dust turneth back unto the earth
as it was,
And the spirit turneth back unto God who gave it.

⁸ VANITY OF VANITIES, SAID THE PREACH-ER, THE WHOLE IS VANITY.

⁹ And further, because the preacher was wise, he still taught the people knowledge, and gave ear, and sought out—he made right many similes. ¹⁰ The preacher sought to find out pleasing words, and, written by the upright, words of truth. ¹¹ The words of the wise are as goads, and as fences planted by the masters of collections, they have been set by one shepherd. ¹² And further, from these, my son, be warned;
the making of many books hath no end,
and much study is a weariness of the flesh.
¹³ Let us hear the end of the whole matter—'Fear God, and keep His commands, for this is the whole of man. ¹⁴ For every work God bringeth into judgment, with every hidden thing, whether good or bad.'

SONG OF SONGS.

I. THE SONG OF SONGS, WHICH IS SOLOMON'S.

- ¹ Let him kiss me with kisses of his mouth,
For better are thy loves than wine.
- ² For fragrance thy perfumes are good,
Perfume emptied out—thy name;
Therefore have virgins loved thee!
- ³ Draw me: after thee we run,
The king hath brought me
Into his inner chambers,
We joy and rejoice in thee;
We mention thy loves more than wine;
Uprightly have they loved thee!
- ⁴ Dark am I, but comely,
Ye daughters of Jerusalem:
As tents of Kedar, as curtains of Solomon.
- ⁵ Fear me not because I am very dark,
Because the sun hath scorched me:
My mother's children were angry with me:
They made me keeper of the vineyards,
My vineyard—mine own—I have not kept.
- ⁶ Tell to me, thou whom my soul hath loved,
Where thou delightest,
Where thou liest down at noon:
For why am I as a veiled one,
By the ranks of thy companions?
- ⁷ If thou know not, O fair among women,
Get thee out by the traces of the flock,
And feed thy kids
Beside the shepherds' dwellings.
- ⁸ To mine own joyous one
In the chariots of Pharaoh,
Have I compared thee, my friend;
- ⁹ Comely were thy cheeks with garlands,
Thy neck with chains:
- ¹⁰ Garlands of gold we make for thee,
With studs of silver.
- ¹¹ While the king is in his circle,
My spikenard hath given its fragrance.
- ¹² A bundle of myrrh is my beloved to me,
Between my breasts it lodgeth:
- ¹³ A cluster of cyprus is my beloved to me,
In the vineyards of En-Gedi.
- ¹⁴ Lo, thou art fair, my friend:
Lo, thou art fair: thine eyes are doves.
- ¹⁵ Lo, thou art fair, my love, yea, pleasant:
Yea, our couch is shady,
- ¹⁶ The beams of our houses are cedars,
Our rafters are firs:
I am a rose of Sharon, a lily of the valleys!
- ¹⁷ As a lily among the thorns,
So is my friend among the daughters.
- ¹⁸ As a citron among trees of the forest,
So is my beloved among the sons.
In his shade I delighted, and sat down,
And his fruit is sweet to my palate;
- ¹⁹ He hath brought me into a house of wine,
And his banner over me is love:
- ²⁰ Sustain me with grape cakes, [with love].
Support me with citrons, for I am sick.
- ²¹ His left hand is under my head,
And his right doth embrace me.
- ²² I have adjured you,
Ye daughters of Jerusalem,

By the roes or by the hinds of the field,
Stir not up nor wake this love till she
please.

- ²³ The voice of my beloved:
Lo, this—he cometh,
Leaping on the mountains,
Skipping on the hills.
- ²⁴ My beloved is like to a roe,
Or to a young one of the harts,
Lo, this—he standeth behind our wall,
Looking from the windows,
Blooming from the lattice.
- ²⁵ My beloved answered and said to me:
'Rise up, my friend, my fair one,
And come away:
- ²⁶ For lo, the winter hath passed by,
The rain hath passed away—it hath gone.
The flowers have appeared on the earth:
The time of singing hath come,
And the voice of the turtle hath been heard in our land;
- ²⁷ The fig-tree hath ripened her green figs,
And the sweet-smelling vines
Have given out fragrance:
Rise, come, my friend, my fair one, yea,
come away.'
- ²⁸ My dove, in clefts of the rock,
In a secret place of the ascent,
Cause me to see thine appearance;
Cause me to hear thy voice;
For thy voice is sweet,
And thine appearance comely.
- ²⁹ Seize ye for us foxes,
Little foxes—destroyers of vineyards,
Even our sweet-smelling vineyards,
- ³⁰ My beloved is mine, and I am his,
Who delighteth among the lilies;
- ³¹ Till the day break forth,
And the shadows have fled away,
Turn round, be like, my beloved,
To a roe, or to a young one of the harts,
On the mountains of separation.
- ³² On my couch by night,
I sought him whom my soul hath loved,
I have sought him but found him not!
- ³³ —Pray, let me rise:
And let me go round about the city:
In the streets and in the broad places,
I seek him whom my soul hath loved!
—I have sought him, but found him not.
- ³⁴ The watchmen found me,
(Who go round about the city):
'Him whom my soul hath loved saw ye?'
- ³⁵ But a little I passed on from them.
Till I found him whom my soul loved!
I have seized him, and let him not go,
Till I have brought him in
Unto the house of my mother.
To the chamber of her that conceived me.
- ³⁶ I have adjured you,
Ye daughters of Jerusalem,
By the roes or by the hinds of the field,
Stir not up nor wake this love till she
please.

- ⁶ What is this coming up from the wil-
Like palm-trees of smoke, [cleriness,
Perfumed with myrrh and frankincense,
From every powder of the merchant?
- ⁷ Lo, his couch, which is Solomon's,
Sixty mighty ones are around it,
Of the mighty of Israel;
- ⁸ All of them holding the sword, [night:
Taught of battle: Each his sword by his thigh, for fear at
- ⁹ A palanquin king Solomon made for him-
Of the wood of Lebanon: [self,
- ¹⁰ Its pillars he made of silver,
Its bottom of gold, its seat of purple,
Its midst lined with love,
By the daughters of Jerusalem.
- ¹¹ Go forth and look, ye daughters of Zion,
On king Solomon, with the crown,
Wherewith his mother crowned him,
In the day of his espousals,
And in the day of the joy of his heart.

- IV. ¹ Lo, thou art fair, my friend,
Lo, thou art fair:
Thine eyes are doves behind thy veil,
Thy hair as a row of goats
Which have shone from mount Gilead;
- ² Thy teeth as a row of shorn ones
Which have come up from the washing:
For all of them form twins,
And a bereaved one is not among them.
- ³ As a thread of scarlet are thy lips,
And thy speech is comely;
As the work of a pomegranate thy temple
Behind thy veil;
- ⁴ As the tower of David is thy neck,
Built for an armoury,
The chief of the shields are hung on it,
All shields of the mighty;
- ⁵ Thy two breasts are as two young ones,
Twins of a roe, who feed among lilies.
- ⁶ Till the day break forth,
And the shadows have fled away,
I will get me unto the mountain of myrrh,
And unto the hill of frankincense.
- ⁷ Thou art all fair, my friend;
And a blemish is not in thee.
Come from Lebanon, O spouse,
Come from Lebanon, come thou in.
Look from the top of Amanna,
From the top of Shenir and Hermon,
From the habitations of lions,
From the mountains of leopards. [spouse,
- ⁹ Thou hast emboldened me, my sister-
Emboldened me with one of thine eyes,
With one chain of thy neck.
- ¹⁰ How wonderful have been thy loves,
My sister-spouse,
How much better have been thy loves than wine, [all spices,
And the fragrance of thy perfumes than
- ¹¹ Thy lips drop honey, O spouse;
Honey and milk are under thy tongue;
And the fragrance of thy garments is as the fragrance of Lebanon.
- ¹² A garden shut up is my sister-spouse,
A spring shut up—a fountain sealed.
- ¹³ Thy shoots a paradise of pomegranates,
With precious fruits;
- ¹⁴ Cyprus with spikenard, nard and saffron;
Cane and cinnamon,

- With all trees of frankincense;
Myrrh and aloes, with all chief spices;
- ¹⁵ A fount of gardens, a well of living waters,
And flowings from Lebanon!
- ¹⁶ Awake, O north, and come in, O south,
Cause my garden to breathe forth;
Its spices let flow;
Let my beloved come into his garden,
And eat its pleasant fruits.
- V. ¹ I have come into my garden,
My sister-spouse,
I have plucked my myrrh with my spice:
I have eaten my comb with my honey;
I have drunk my wine with my milk.
Eat, O friends; drink,
Yea, drink abundantly, O beloved ones!
- ² I sleep, but my heart waketh;
The sound of my beloved knocking:
'Open to me, my sister, my friend,
My dove, my perfect one;
For my head is filled with dew,
My locks with drops of the night.'
- ³ I have put off my coat,
How shall I put it on?
I have washed my feet,
How shall I defile them? [work,
- ⁴ My beloved sent his hand from the net-
And my bowels were moved for him.
- ⁵ I rose to open to my beloved,
And my hands dropped myrrh,
Yea, my fingers flowing myrrh,
On the handles of the lock;
- ⁶ I opened to my beloved,
But my beloved withdrew—passed on;
My soul went out when he spake;
I sought him and found him not.
I called him and he answered me not.
- ⁷ Watchmen who go round about the city,
Found me—smote me—wounded me;
The keepers of the walls have lifted up
My veil from off me;
- ⁸ I have adjured you, daughters of Jeru-
If ye find my beloved— [salem,
What do ye tell him?
That I am sick with love!
- ⁹ What is thy beloved above any beloved,
O fair among women?
What is thy beloved above any beloved,
That thus thou hast adjured us?
- ¹⁰ My beloved is clear and ruddy,
Conspicuous above a myriad!
- ¹¹ His head is pure gold—fine gold;
His locks flowing, dark as a raven;
- ¹² His eyes as doves by streams of water,
Washing in milk, sitting in fulness;
- ¹³ His cheeks as a bed of spices,
Towers of perfumes:
His lips lilies, dropping flowing myrrh;
- ¹⁴ His hands rings of gold, set with beryl;
His heart bright ivory,
Covered with sapphires;
- ¹⁵ His limbs pillars of marble,
Founded on sockets of fine gold;
His appearance as Lebanon,
Choice as the cedars;
- ¹⁶ His mouth of the sweetest,
And all of him desirable;
This is my beloved, and this my friend,
O daughters of Jerusalem.

- VI. ¹ Whither hath thy beloved gone,
O fair among women?
Whither hath thy beloved turned,
And we seek him with thee?
- ² My beloved went down to his garden,
To the beds of spice;
To delight himself in the gardens,
And to gather lilies. [mine:]
- ³ I am my beloved's, and my beloved is
Who delighteth himself among the lilies.
- ⁴ Fair art thou, my friend, as Tirzah;
Comely as Jerusalem;
Awe-inspiring as bannered hosts.
- ⁵ Turn round thine eyes from before me,
For they have made me proud.
Thy hair is as a row of goats,
Which have shone from Gilead;
Thy teeth as a row of lambs,
Which have come up from the washing:
For all of them form twins,
And a bereaved one is not among them.
- ⁷ As the work of a pomegranate thy temple
Behind thy veil:
⁸ Sixty are queens, and eighty concubines,
And virgins without number:
⁹ One is my dove, my perfect one;
One she is of her mother,
The choice one she is of her that bare her:
Daughters have seen her,
And pronounce her happy: [her:]
Queens and concubines, and they praise
¹⁰ Who is this that looketh forth as morn-
Fair as the moon—clear as the sun, fang,
Awe-inspiring as bannered hosts?
- ¹¹ Unto a garden of nuts I went down,
To look on the buds of the valley:
To see whither the vine had flourished,
The pomegranates had blossomed,
¹² I knew not mine own mind.
It made me—chariots of my people Nadib.
- ¹³ Return, return, O Shulamith!
Return, return, that we may look on thee.
What do ye see in Shulamith?
- VII. ¹ As the chorus of 'Mahanaïm.'
How beautiful were thy feet with sandals,
O daughter of Nadib.
The turnings of thy sides as ornaments,
The work of the hands of an artificer;
² Thy waist a bason of roundness,
It lacketh not mixture: [lilies:]
Thy body a heap of wheat, fenced with
³ Thy two breasts as two young ones, twins
⁴ Thy neck as a tower of ivory: [of a roe:]
Thine eyes pools in Heshbon,
Near the gate of Bath-Rabbim;
Thy face as a tower of Lebanon,
Looking toward Damascus:
⁵ Thy head upon thee as Carmel:
And the hair of thy head as purple;
The king is bound with the showings!
⁶ How fair and pleasant hast thou been,
O love, in delights.
⁷ This thy stature hath been like to a palm,
And thy breasts to clusters.
⁸ I said, 'Let me go up on the palm,
Let me lay hold on its boughs,
Yea, let thy breasts be, I pray thee,
As clusters of the vine,
And the fragrance of thy face as citrons,

- ⁹ And thy palate as good wine—'
Flowing to my beloved in uprightness:
Strengthening the lips of the aged!
- ¹⁰ I am my beloved's, and on me is his desire.
¹¹ Come, my beloved, let us go forth to the ¹² Let us lodge in the villages. [field,]
Let us go early to the vineyards.
Let us see if the vine hath flourished,
The sweet-smelling flower hath opened,
The pomegranates have blossomed:
There I give thee my loves.
- ¹³ The mandrakes have given out fragrance,
And at our openings
All pleasant things, new, yea, old, my be-
I have laid up for thee. [lovel,]
- VIII. ¹ Who doth make thee as my brother,
Sucking the breasts of my mother?
I find thee without, I kiss thee,
Yea, they do not despise me:
² I lead thee. I bring thee to my mother's
She teacheth me, [house,]
I cause thee to drink of perfumed wine,
Of the juice of my pomegranate;
³ His left hand is under my head,
And his right doth embrace me.
⁴ I have adjured you, daughters of Jeru-
How ye stir up, [saem,]
Or how ye wake this love till she please.
⁵ Who is this coming from the wilderness,
Hasting herself for her beloved?
Under the citron-tree I have waked thee,
There thy mother pledged thee,
There she gave a pledge that bare thee.
⁶ Set me as a seal on thy heart;
As a seal on thine arm:
For strong as death is love;
Sharp as Sheol is jealousy:
Its burnings are burnings of fire,
A flame of Jah!
⁷ Many waters are not able to quench this Floods even do not wash it away. [love:]
If one give for love all the wealth of his Treading down, they tread upon it. [house,]
⁸ We have a little sister, and breasts she
What shall we do for our sister, [hath not,]
In the day that it is told of her?
⁹ If she be a wall,
We build by her a palace of silver;
And if she be a door,
We fashion by her board-work of cedar.
¹⁰ I am a wall, and my breasts as towers;
Then have I been in his eyes
As one finding peace.
¹¹ Solomon hath a vineyard in Baal-Hamon:
He hath given out the vineyard to keepers:
Each bringeth for its fruit
A thousand silverlings:
¹² My vineyard—mine own—is before me:
The thousand is for thee, O Solomon.
And two hundred for the keepers of its fruit.
O dweller in gardens!
¹³ The companions attend to thy voice:
Cause me to hear.
Flee, my beloved, and be like to a roe,
¹⁴ Or to a young one of the harts
On mountains of spices!

ISAIAH.

CHAPTER I. VISIONS of Isaiah son of Amoz, which he hath seen concerning Judah and Jerusalem, in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah, kings of Judah.

² Hear, O heavens: and give ear, O earth: For the LORD hath spoken: Children have I nourished and brought up, And they—have transgressed against Me:

³ An ox hath known its owner, And an ass its master's crib: Israel hath not known, My people hath not understood.

⁴ Ah, sinning nation, A people heavy with iniquity, A seed of evil doers, children—corrupters! They have forsaken the LORD, They have despised the Holy One of Is: They have gone away backward. [rael, ⁵ Wherefore will ye be stricken any more? Ye will add apostasy! Every head is become diseased, And every heart sick.

⁶ From the sole of the foot—unto the head, There is no soundness in it; Wound, and bruise, and flesh smiting— They have not been closed, nor bound, Nor softened with ointment.

⁷ Your land is a desolation, Your cities burnt with fire: Your ground, before you strangers are consuming it,

A desolation as overthrown by strangers, And left hath been the daughter of Zion, As a booth in a vineyard,

As a lodge among cucumbers—as a city. Unless the LORD of Hosts [besieged.

Had left to us a remnant, Shortly—as Sodom we had been, To Gomorrah we had been like!

¹⁰ Hear a word of the LORD, Ye rulers of Sodom; Give ear to a direction of our God, Ye people of Gomorrah:

¹¹ Why to Me—the abundances of your sacrifices? saith the LORD:

I have been satiated with burnt-offerings And fat of fattings; [of rams, Yea, blood of bullocks, and lambs, And he-goats I have not desired.

¹² When ye come in to appear before Me, Who hath required this of your hand, To trample My courts?

¹³ Add not to bring in a vain present: Incense, it is an abomination to Me; New moon, and sabbath, calling of convocation:

I endure not iniquity—and restraint. Your new moons and your set times Hath My soul hated:

They have been on Me for a burden; I have been weary of bearing.

¹⁵ And in your spreading forth your hands, I hide Mine eyes from you; Yea, when ye increase prayer, I hear not:

Your hands have been full of blood. Wash ye, make ye pure; Turn aside the evil of your doings

From before Mine eyes: Cease to do evil; learn to do good;

¹⁷ Seek judgment, make happy the oppressed: Judge the fatherless; [ed; Strive for the widow.

¹⁸ Come, I pray you, and let us reason, Saith the LORD:

If your sins are as scarlet, As snow they shall be white; If they are red as crimson, As wool they shall be!

¹⁹ If ye are willing and have hearkened, The good of the land ye consume;

²⁰ And if ye refuse and have rebelled, By the sword ye are consumed, For the mouth of the LORD hath spoken.

²¹ How hath a faithful city become a harlot! I filled it with judgment:

Righteousness lodgeth in it—now murder. Thy silver hath become dross, [derers. Thy drink polluted with water.

²³ Thy princes are apostates, And companions of thieves: Every one loving a bribe, and pursuing

The fatherless they judge not, [rewards: And the plea of the widow cometh not to

²⁴ Therefore, affirmeth the LORD, [them. Jehovah of Hosts, the Mighty of Israel, Ah, I am eased of Mine adversaries,

And I am avenged of Mine enemies: And I turn back My hand upon thee,

And refine as purity thy dross, And turn aside all thy tin:

²⁶ And I give back thy judges as at the first, And thy counsellors as in the beginning: After this thou art called,

'A city of righteousness—a faithful city.' Zion in judgment is redeemed,

And her captives in righteousness. And the destruction of transgressors and sinners is together,

And those who forsake the LORD are con- For men are ashamed of the oaks [suned. Which ye have desired,

And ye are confounded for the gardens Which ye have chosen.

³⁰ For ye are as an oak whose leaf fadeth, And as a garden which hath no water

³¹ And the strong hath become tow, And his work a spark, And both of them have burned together,

And there is none quenching!

II. ¹ THE THING which Isaiah son of Amoz hath seen concerning Judah and Jerusalem.

² Yea, it hath come to pass, In the latter end of the days, The mountain of the LORD's house is established

Above the top of the mountains, [blished And hath been lifted up above the heights: And flowed unto it have all the nations.

³ And many peoples have gone and said: 'Come, and we go up unto the mountain of the LORD,

Unto the house of the God of Jacob: And He doth teach us of His ways, And we walk in His paths:

For from Zion goeth out a direction,

And the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.
 4 And He hath judged between the nations,
 And hath given a decision to many peoples;
 And they have beaten their swords into plowshares,
 And their spears into pruning-hooks:
 Nation lifteth not up sword against nation,
 Nor do they learn war any more!
 5 O house of Jacob, come,
 And let us walk in the light of the LORD.
 6 For Thou hast left thy people,
 The house of Jacob,
 For they have been filled from the east,
 And are sorcerers like the Philistines,
 And with the children of strangers strike bands.
 7 And its land is full of silver and gold,
 And there is no end to its treasures:
 And its land is full of horses,
 And there is no end to its chariots:
 8 And its land is full of idols;
 To the work of its hands it boweth itself,
 To that which its own fingers have made:
 9 And the low boweth down,
 And the high is humbled:
 And Thou acceptest them not.
 10 Enter into the rock,
 And be hidden in the dust,
 Because of the fear of the LORD,
 And of the honour of His excellency.
 11 The haughty eyes of man
 Have been humbled, [of men;
 And bowed down hath been the loftiness
 And set on high hath the LORD alone
 been in that day.
 12 For a day is to the LORD of Hosts,
 For every proud and high one,
 And for every lifted up and low one;
 13 And for all the cedars of Lebanon,
 The high and exalted ones,
 And for all the oaks of Bashan,
 14 And for all the high mountains,
 And for all the exalted heights,
 15 And for every high tower,
 And for every fenced wall,
 16 And for all ships of Tarshish,
 And for all desirable pictures.
 17 And bowed down hath been
 The haughtiness of man,
 And humbled the loftiness of men:
 And set on high hath the LORD alone
 been in that day.
 18 As to idols—they completely pass away.
 19 And men have entered into caverns of
 And into caves of dust, [rocks,
 Because of the fear of the LORD,
 And of the honour of His excellency,
 In His rising to terrify the earth.
 20 In that day man casteth his idols of silver,
 And his idols of gold,
 Which they made for him to worship,
 To the moles, and to the bats;
 21 To enter into cavities of the rocks,
 And into clefts of the high places,
 Because of the fear of the LORD,
 And of the honour of His excellency,
 In His rising to terrify the earth.
 22 Cease for yourselves from man,
 Whose breath is in his nostrils:
 For in what is he esteemed?
 III FOR, lo, the LORD, Jehovah of Hosts,

Is turning aside from Jerusalem,
 And from Judah, the stay and the staff,
 Every stay of bread—every stay of water,
 2 Hero and warrior, judge and prophet,
 And diviner and elder,
 3 Head of fifty, and the accepted of faces,
 And counsellor, and the wise of artificers,
 And the intelligent of charmers.
 4 And I have made youths their heads,
 And sucklings rule over them.
 5 And the people hath exacted—man upon
 Even a man on his neighbour: [man,
 Enlarge themselves do the youths against
 And the lightly esteemed [the aged,
 Against the honoured.
 6 When one layeth hold on his brother,
 Of the house of his father, by the garment:
 'Come, a ruler be thou over us,
 And this ruin under thy hand.'
 7 He lifteth up, in that day, saying:
 'I will not be a binder up,
 And in my house there is neither bread
 nor garment:
 Ye shall not make me a ruler of the peo-
 8 For Jerusalem hath stumbled, [ple.'
 And Judah hath fallen:
 For their tongue and their doings
 Are against the LORD,
 To provoke the eyes of His glory.
 9 The appearance of their faces
 Hath witnessed against them,
 And their sin, as Sodom, they have de-
 They have not hidden! [clared,
 Wo to their soul,
 For they have done evil to themselves.
 10 Say ye, O righteous, that it is good:
 For the fruit of their doings they eat.
 11 Wo to the wicked—evil:
 For the deed of his hands is done to him.
 12 My people—its exactors are sucklings,
 And women have ruled over it.
 My people—thy eulogists cause to err,
 And the way of thy paths
 They have swallowed up.
 13 The LORD standeth up to plead,
 Yea, is standing to judge the peoples.
 14 The LORD into judgment entereth
 With the elders of His people and its heads:
 'Seeing ye have consumed the vineyard:
 The plunder of the poor is in your houses.
 15 What—to you? ye bruise My people,
 And the faces of the poor ye grind.
 Affirm doth the LORD, Jehovah of Hosts,
 Yea, the LORD saith: [haughty,
 16 'Because the daughters of Zion have been
 And walk stretching out the neck,
 And deceiving with the eyes,
 Walking and mincing they go,
 And with their feet make a tinkling:
 17 The LORD hath also scabbed
 The crown of the head of Zion's daughters,
 And the LORD their simplicity exposeth.
 18 In that day the LORD turneth aside
 The beauty of the tinkling ornaments,
 And of the embroidered works,
 And of the round tires like the moon:
 19 Of the drops, and of the bracelets,
 And of the mufflers;
 20 Of the bonnets, and of the ornaments of
 And of the bands: [the legs,

And of the perfume boxes, and of the amulets,
 21 Of the seals, and of the nose-rings,
 22 Of the costly apparel, and of the mantles,
 And of the coverings, and of the purses,
 23 Of the mirrors, and of the linen garments,
 And of the hoods, and of the veils;
 24 And it hath come to pass,
 Instead of spice to muck;
 And instead of a girdle, a rope;
 And instead of curled work, baldness;
 And instead of a stomacher, a girdle of sackcloth.
 25 For instead of glory, thy men by the sword
 And thy might in the battle. (do fall,
 26 And lamented and mourned have her
 Yea, she hath been emptied; [openings:
 On the earth she sitteth.
 IV. 1 And taken hold have seven women on
 In that day, saying: [one man,
 'Our own bread we will eat,
 And our own raiment we put on;
 Only, let thy name be called over us,
 Remove our reproach.'
 2 In that day the Shoot of the LORD
 Is for desire and for honour,
 And the fruit of the earth
 For excellence and beauty, to the escaped
 3 And it hath come to pass, [of Israel.
 He who is left in Zion,
 And he who remaineth in Jerusalem,
 'Holy' is said of him,
 Of every one written for life in Jerusalem:
 4 For the LORD hath washed away
 The filth of the daughters of Zion,
 And the blood of Jerusalem
 Purgeth from her midst,
 By the spirit of judgment,
 And by the spirit of burning.
 5 Then hath the LORD formed
 Over every fixed place of Mount Zion,
 And over her convocations,
 A cloud by day, and smoke,
 And the shining of a flaming fire by night:
 That, over all honour a safe guard,
 6 And a covering may be,
 For a shadow by day from drought,
 And for a refuge, and for a hiding-place,
 From inundation and from rain. [loved,
 V. 1 LET me sing, I pray you, for my be-
 A song of my beloved as to his vineyard.
 My beloved hath a vineyard
 In a very fruitful hill, [stones,
 2 And he fenceth it, and casteth out its
 And planteth it with a choice wine,
 And buildeth a tower in its midst,
 And hath also hewed out a wine-press in it:
 And he waiteth for the yielding of grapes,
 And it yieldeth bad ones!
 3 And now, O inhabitant of Jerusalem,
 And man of Judah, [vineyard.
 Judge, I pray you, between me and my 4 What—to do still to my vineyard,
 That I have not done in it?
 Wherefore, I waited for the yielding of
 Doth it yield bad ones? [grapes.
 5 And now, pray, let me cause you to know,
 That which I am doing to my vineyard:
 Turning aside its hedge,
 And it hath been for consumption:
 Breaking down its wall,

And it hath been for a treading-place.
 6 And I make it a waste,
 It is not pruned, nor arranged;
 And gone up hath brier and thorn:
 And on the thick clouds I lay a charge,
 From raining on it rain.
 7 For the vineyard of the LORD of Hosts
 Is the house of Israel,
 And the man of Judah His pleasant plant:
 And He waiteth for judgment,
 And lo, oppression:
 For righteousness, and lo, a cry.
 8 Wo to those who join house to house,
 Field to field they bring near,
 Till there is no place,
 And ye have been settled by yourselves
 In the midst of the land!
 9 By the weapons of the LORD of Hosts
 Do not many houses become a desolation?
 Great and good without inhabitant!
 10 For ten acres of vineyard yield one bath,
 And an homer of seed yieldeth an ephah.
 11 Wo to those who rise early in the morn-
 Strong drink they pursue! [ing,
 Who tarry in the twilight,
 Wine inflameth them!
 12 And harp, and psaltory, tabret, and pipe,
 And wine, have been their banquets:
 And the work of the LORD they behold
 Yea, the work of His hands [not,
 They have not seen.
 13 Therefore my people
 Hath removed without knowledge;
 And its honourable ones—dead of famine,
 And its multitude—dried up of thirst.
 14 Therefore Sheol hath enlarged herself,
 And opened her mouth without limit:
 And gone down hath its honour,
 And its multitude, and its noise,
 And its exulting one, into her.
 15 And bowed down is the low,
 And humbled is the high,
 And the eyes of the haughty become low:
 16 And the LORD of Hosts
 Is become high in judgment, [ness:
 And the Holy God sanctified in righteous-17 And lambs have fed according to their
 And waste places of the fat ones [leading,
 Do sojourners consume.
 18 Wo to those who draw out iniquity
 With cords of vanity,
 And as with thick ropes of the cart—sin:
 19 Who are saying: 'Let Him hurry,
 Let Him hasten His work, that we may see: [Israel
 And let the counsel of the Holy One of Draw near and come, that we may know.'
 20 Wo to those who are saying to evil 'good,'
 And to good 'evil:' [darkness:
 Putting darkness for light, and light for Putting bitter for sweet, and sweet for 21 Wo to the wise in their own eyes, [bitter.
 And—before their own faces intelligent!
 22 Wo to the mighty to drink wine.
 Men of strength to mingle strong drink:
 23 Who justify the wicked for a bribe,
 And the righteousness of the righteous
 Turn aside from him.
 24 Therefore, as a tongue of fire devoureth
 And flaming hay falleth, [stubble,
 Their root is as muck,

And their flower as dust goeth up.
Because they have rejected
The law of the LORD of Hosts, [despised,
And the saying of the Holy One of Israel
22 Therefore hath the anger of the LORD burned among His people,
And He stretcheth out His hand against it,
And smiteth it: and the mountains tremble, and their carcasses [ble,
Are as filth in the midst of the ont-places.
With all this His anger turneth not back,
And still His hand is stretched out!
23 And He hath lifted up an ensign
To nations afar off,
And hissed for it from the end of the earth:
And lo, hastily, swift, it cometh.
24 There is none weary, nor stumbling in it;
It slumbereth not, nor sleepeth; [loins,
Nor opened hath been the girdle of its
Nor drawn away the latchet of its shoes.
25 Whose arrows are sharp, and all its bows
The hoofs of its horses as flint [bent,
Have been reckoned,
And its wheels as a hurricane!
26 Its roaring is like a lioness,
It roareth like young lions,
And howleth, and seizeth prey,
And carrieth away safely,
And there is none delivering.
27 And it howleth against it in that day
As the howling of the sea,
And hath looked attentively to the land,
And lo, darkness—distress:
Even the light hath been darkened by its abundance.

VI. 1 IN the year of the death of king Uziah I see also the Lord, sitting on a throne, high and lifted up—and His train filling the temple. 2 Seraphs are standing above it:
six wings hath each; with two each covereth its face, and with two each covereth its feet, and with two each flieth. 3 And this one hath called unto that, and said:
'Holy, Holy, Holy, is the LORD of Hosts;
The fulness of the whole earth is His glory.'
4 And the posts of the thresholds are moved by the voice of him who calleth, and the house is full of smoke.

5 And I say, 'Wo to me, for I have been
For a man of unclean lips am I, [silent:
And in dwelling of a people of unclean lips
Am I midst of:
For the King, the LORD of Hosts,
Have mine eyes seen.'
6 And one of the seraphs flieth unto me, and in his hand a burning coal, (with tongs he hath taken it from off the altar,) 7 and he striketh against my mouth, and saith:

'Lo, this hath stricken against thy lips,
And turned aside is thine iniquity,
And thy sin is covered.'
8 And I hear the voice of the Lord, saying:
'Whom shall I send?
And who will go for Us?'
9 And I say, 'Here am I; send me.'
10 And He saith, 'Go:
Then hast thou said to this people:
Hear ye—to hear, but ye will not understand;
And see ye—to see, but ye will not know.'
11 Declare fat the heart of this people,

And its ears declare heavy:
And its eyes declare dazzled—
Lest it see with its eyes,
And with its ears hear, and its heart con-
And it turn back, and have health. [sicker,
12 And I say, 'Till when, O Lord?'
13 And He saith, 'Surely till cities have been wasted without inhabitant,
And houses without man,
And the ground be wasted—a desolation,
14 And the LORD hath put man far off,
And great be the forsaken part
In the heart of the land.

15 And yet in it a tenth, and it hath turned,
And been for a burning:
As a teil-tree, and as an oak, which in
Have substance in them, [falling,
The holy seed is its substance.'

VII. 1 AND it cometh to pass, in the days of Ahaz son of Jotham, son of Uzziah, king of Judah, gone up hath Rezin king of Aram, and Pekah, son of Remaliah, king of Israel, to Jerusalem, to the battle against it, but he is not able to fight against it.
2 And it is declared to the house of David, saying, 'Aram hath been led towards Eph-raim.' And his heart and the heart of his people is moved, like the moving of the trees of the forest by the presence of wind.
3 And the LORD saith unto Isaiah, 'Go out, I pray thee, to meet Ahaz, thou, and Shear-Jashub thy son, unto the end of the conduit of the upper pool, unto the highway of the fuller's field. 4 Then hast thou said unto him:—

'Take heed, and be quiet; fear not.
Nor let thy heart be timid, [brands,
Because of these two tails of smoking
For the fierceness of the anger of Rezin
And the son of Remaliah. [and Aram,

5 Because that Aram hath counselled against thee evil, [ing:
Ephraim and the son of Remaliah, say—

6 Let us go up into Judah, and vex it,
And rend it for ourselves,
And cause a king to reign in its midst—
The son of Tabeal:

7 Thus hath the Lord Jehovah said:
It shall not stand, nor shall it be,

8 For the head of Aram is Damascus,
And the head of Damascus is Rezin:
And within sixty and five years
Ephraim is broken from being a people:

9 And the head of Ephraim is Samaria.
And the head of Samaria is the son of
If ye do not give credence, [Remaliah,
Surely ye are not stedfast.

10 And the LORD addeth to speak unto Ahaz, saying:—

11 'Ask for thyself a sign from the LORD
Make deep the request. [thy God:
Or make it high upwards.'

12 And Ahaz saith, 'I will not ask, nor try

13 And he saith, 'Hear, I pray you. O house:
Is it a little thing for you to weary men,
That ye weary even my God?

Lo, the Virgin is conceiving, [a sign,
And bringing forth a son,
And hath called his name Immanuel;

¹⁵ Butter and honey he eateth,
When he knoweth to refuse evil,
And to fix on good.

¹⁶ For before the youth doth know
To refuse evil, and to fix on good,
Forsaken is the land thou art vexed with,
Because of her two kings.

¹⁷ The LORD bringeth on thee, and on thy
And on the house of thy father, (people,
Days which have not come,
Even from the day of the turning aside of Ephraim from Judah,
By means of the king of Asshur.

¹⁸ And it hath come to pass, in that day,
The LORD doth hiss for the fly that is in the extremity of the brooks of Egypt,
And for the bee that is in the land of Asshur.

¹⁹ And they have come, [Asshur,
And rested all of them in desolate valleys,
And in holes of the rocks,
And on all thorns,
And on all commendable things.

²⁰ In that day the Lord doth shave,
By a razor that is hired beyond the river,
By means of the king of Asshur,
The head, and the hair of the feet,
Yea, the beard also it consumeth.

²¹ And it hath come to pass, in that day,
A man keepeth alive a heifer of the herd,
And two of the flock:

²² And it hath come to pass,
From the abundance of the yielding of milk he eateth butter:
For butter and honey doth every one eat
Who is left in the heart of the land.

²³ And it hath come to pass, in that day,
Every place where there are a thousand
At a thousand silverlings, [vines,
Is for briars and for thorns. [thither;

²⁴ With arrows and with bow he cometh
For all the land is brier and thorn.

are kept in order, [thorn:
Thither cometh not the fear of brier and

'Take to thyself a great tablet, and write on it with a graving tool of man, Hasten spoil, enjoy prey.' ² And I cause faithful witnesses to testify to me, even Uriah the priest, and Zechariah son of Jeberechiah.
³ And I draw near unto the prophetess, and she conceiveth, and bareth a son; and the LORD saith unto me, 'Call his name Maher-shalal-hash-baz.' ⁴ For before the youth knoweth to cry, My father, or My mother, one taketh away the wealth of Damascus and the spoil of Samaria before the king of Asshur.'

⁵ And the LORD addeth to speak unto me again, saying,
⁶ 'Because this people hath refused
The waters of Shiloah which go softly,
And rejoiceeth with Rezin and the son of Remaliah:
⁷ Therefore, lo, the LORD bringeth upon
The waters of the river— [them
The mighty and the great,
(The king of Asshur, and all his glory:)
And it hath gone up over all its streams,

And hath gone on over all its banks:
⁸ And it hath passed on into Judah;
It hath overflowed and passed over:
Unto the neck it cometh:
And the stretching out of its wings Hath been the fulness of the breadth of thy land, O Immanuel.

⁹ Be friends, O nations, and be broken;
And give ear, all ye far off ones of earth,
Gird yourselves, and be broken,
Gird yourselves, and be broken.

¹⁰ Take counsel, and it is broken:
Speak a word, and it doth not stand:
Because of Immanuel.'

¹¹ For thus hath the LORD spoken unto me with strength of hand, and instructeth me against walking in the way of this people,
saying,

To all to whom this people saith, A con-

For a gin and for a snare
To the inhabitants of Jerusalem.

And been broken, and suared, and cap-

'Seek to them who have familiar spirits,
And to wizards, who chatter and mutter:
Doth not a people seek unto its God?

If not, let them say after this manner,
'That there is no dawn for it.'

²¹ —And it hath passed over into it,
Hardened and hungry:
And it hath come to pass,
That it is hungry, and hath been wroth,
And made light of its king, and of its God,
And hath looked upwards.

And lo, adversity and darkness:

And where do ye leave your honour?

In the place of a bound one,
And in the place of the slain they fall.
For all this not turn back doth His anger,
And still His hand is stretched out.

And concerning a people of My wrath I charge him,
To spoil spoil, and to seize prey,
And to make it a treading-place
As the clay of the out-places.
- ⁷ Yet he thinketh not so,
And his heart reckoneth not so;
For—to destroy is in his heart,
And to cut off nations not a few.
- ⁸ For he saith, 'Are not my princes altogether kings?'
- ⁹ Is not Calno as Carchemish?
Is not Hamath as Arpad?
Is not Samaria as Damascus?

Above him who heweth with it?
Doth the saw magnify itself

Above him who shaketh it?
As a rod waving those who lift it up,
And a staff lifting up that which is not wood!

¹⁵ Therefore, the Lord Jehovah of Hosts
Sendeth among his fat ones leanness,
And under his honour kindleth a burning
As the burning of a fire.

¹⁷ And the light of Israel hath been for a fire,
And his Holy One for a flame,
And it hath burned, and devoured his

²⁰ And it hath come to pass, in that day,
That the remnant of Israel,
And the escaped of the house of Jacob,
Addeth no more to lean on its smiter;
And hath leant on the Lord,
The Holy One of Israel, in truth.

²¹ A remnant returneth, a remnant of Jacob,
Unto the Mighty God.

²² For though thy people Israel be as the sand of the sea,

A remnant of it returneth;
A consumption is determined,
Overflowing with righteousness.

²³ For a consumption which is determined,
The Lord, Jehovah of Hosts,
Is making in the midst of all the land.

²⁴ Therefore, thus hath the Lord, Jehovah of Hosts, said:

'Be not afraid, my people, inhabiting Zion,
Because of Asshur;
With a rod he smiteth thee,
And his staff lifteth up against thee
In the way of Egypt.

²⁵ For yet a very little,
And the indignation hath been completed,
And Mine anger by their wearing out.

²⁶ And awake for him doth the Lord of Hosts,
A scourge like the smiting of Midian
At the rock of Oreb:

And his rod is over the sea,
And he hath lifted it in the way of Egypt.

²⁷ And it hath come to pass, in that day,
Turned is his burden from off thy shoulder,
And his yoke from off thy neck, [der,
And destroyed hath been the yoke
Because of prosperity.

²⁸ He hath come in against Aioth,
He hath passed over into Migron:
At Michmash he layeth up his vessels.

²⁹ They have gone over the passage:
Geba they have made a lodging place;
Trembled hath Ramah;
Gibeon of Saul hath fled.

³⁰ Cry with thy voice, daughter of Gallim;
Give attention, Laish;
Answer her, Anathoth.

And this Lebanon by a mighty one falleth.
XI. ¹ And a rod hath come out from the

of his loins,

And faithfulness the girdle of his reins.
⁶ And the wolf sojourneth with the lamb,

And the leopard with the kid lieth down;
And the calf, and the young lion, and the fatling are together:

And a little youth is leader over them.
⁷ And the cow and the bear feed,

Together lie down their young ones:
And the lion as an ox eateth straw.

⁸ And played hath the sucking by the hole of the asp:

And on the den of the cockatrice
Hath the weaned one put his hand.

⁹ Evil they do not, nor destroy
In all My holy mountain:
For full hath been the earth

With the knowledge of the Lord,
As the waters covering the sea.

¹⁰ And there hath been, in that day,
A root of Jesse which standeth

For an ensign of the peoples;
Unto him do nations seek,

And his rest hath been—honour!
¹¹ And it hath come to pass, in that day,

The Lord increaseth a second time his power,

To get the remnant of His people which is
From Asshur, and from Egypt, [left,

And from Pathros, and from Cush,
And from Elam, and from Shinar,

And from Hamath, and the isles of the sea.

And the adversaries of Judah are cut off:
Ephraim envieth not Judah.

And Judah distresseth not Ephraim.
¹⁴ And they have flown on the shoulder of the Philistines westward;

Together they spoil the sons of the east;
Edom and Moab sending forth their hand,

And the children of Ammon obeying them.
¹⁵ And the Lord hath devoted to destruction
The tongue of the sea of Egypt;

And hath waved His hand over the river,
In the terror of his wind:
And hath smitten it at the seven streams,
And caused men to tread it with shoes.
10 And a highway hath been
For the remnant of His people,
Which is left from Asshur;
As there was for Israel in the day of his coming up out of the land of Egypt.
XII. 1 And thou hast said in that day:
I thank thee, O LORD:
Though Thou hast been angry with me,
Turn back doth Thine anger,
And Thou comfortest me.
2 Lo, God is my salvation, I trust, and fear
For my strength and song is Jah, [not,
And He is become my salvation.
3 And ye have drawn waters with joy
Out of the fountains of salvation,
4 And have said in that day:
Give praise to the LORD, call in His name.
Make known among the peoples His acts,
Make mention that set on high is His

And every heart of man melteth.
8 And they have been troubled:
They take pains and pangs,
As a travelling woman they are pained;
A man at his friend marvels:
The appearance of flames their faces!
9 Lo, the day of the LORD cometh,
Pierce, with wrath, and heat of anger.
To make the land become a desolation;
Yea, its erring ones He destroyeth from it.

A common man than pure gold of Ophir.
13 Therefore the heavens I cause to tremble,
And the earth shaketh from its place.
In the wrath of the LORD of Hosts,
And in the day of the heat of His anger.
14 And it hath been, as a roe driven away,
And as a flock which hath no gatherer,

And each unto his own land—they flee.

And the fruit of the womb they pity not;
On children their eye hath no pity.
19 And Babylon, the beauty of kingdoms,
The glory, the excellency of the Chaldeans,
Hath been as overthrown by God,
With Sodom and Gomorrah.

 Going down unto the children of the pit:

 Because in a night destroyed hath been
 Kir of Moab—it hath been cut off.
 2 He hath gone up to Bajith, and Dibon,
 The high places to weep:
 On Nebo and on Medeba—Moab howleth:
 On all its heads is baldness,
 Every beard cut off.
 3 In its out-places they girded on sackcloth;
 On its pinnacles, and in its broad places,
 Every one howleth—going down with

 4 And cry doth Heshbon and Elealah:
 Unto Jahaz heard hath been their voice:
 Therefore the armed of Moab shout:
 His life hath been grievous to him.
 5 My heart is towards Moab:
 Cry do her fugitives unto Zoar,
 A heifer of the third year:
 For, in the ascent of Luhith,
 With weeping he goeth up in it;
 For, in the way of Horonaim,
 The cry of destruction they wake up.

 For withered hath been the hay,

'Go, station the watchman,
That which he seeth let him tell.'

7 And he hath seen a chariot,
A couple of horsemen,
The rider of an ass, the rider of a camel;
And he hath given attention—
He hath increased attention!

8 And he crieth as a lion:
'Lord, on the watch-tower I am standing continually by day, [nights.

9 And on my ward I am stationed whole
2 And lo, this, the chariot of a man coming,
A couple of horsemen.'

And he answereth and saith,
'Fallen, fallen hath Babylon,
And all the graven images of her gods
He hath broken to the earth.

That which I have heard from the LORD
of Hosts,
The God of Israel, I have declared to you.

XXII. THE BURDEN OF DUMAH.

Unto me is one calling from Seir,
'Watchman, what of the night?
Watchman, what of the night?'

12 The watchman hath said,
'Come hath morning and also night:
If ye inquire, inquire ye; turn back, come.'

XXIII. THE BURDEN ON ARADIA.

In a forest in Arabia ye lodge,
O travellers of Dedanim.

24 To meet the thirsty

Brought water have the inhabitants of the land of Tema, [fugitive.

With his bread they have come before the

From the face of the stretched-out sword,
And from the face of the trodden bow,
And from the face of the grievousness of Consumed hath been all the honour of Kedar: [men,

The mighty of the sons of Kedar are few,
For the LORD, God of Israel, hath spoken.'

XXII. THE BURDEN OF THE VALLEY OF VISION.

What—to thee, now,
That thou hast gone up—all of thee—to the roofs? [city:

2 Full of stir—a noisy city—an exulting
Thy pierced are not pierced by the sword,
Nor dead in battle.

3 All thy rulers have fled together from the bow: [of thee:
Kept bound have been all who are found
They have been kept bound together,
Afar off they have fled.

4 Therefore I have said, 'Look ye from me:
I am bitter in my weeping,
Hasten not to comfort me, [my people.'

For the destruction of the daughter of 5 For a day of noise, and of treading down.
And of perplexity, to the Lord, Jehovah
of Hosts,

In the valley of vision, of digging down
And crying unto the mountain. [wall,
6 And Elam hath borne a quiver,
In a chariot of men—horsemen,
And Kir hath exposed a shield.

7 And it cometh to pass, [of chariots.
The choice of thy valleys have been full
And the horsemen place themselves diligently at the gate.

8 And one removeth the covering of Judah,
And thou lookest in that day
Unto the armour of the house of the forest:

9 And the breaches of the city of David ye
For they have become many: [have seen,
And ye gather the waters of the lower pool:
10 And the houses of Jerusalem ye have numbered, [the wall.

And ye break down the houses to fence
11 And a ditch ye have made between the
For the waters of the old pool: [two walls,
And ye have not looked unto its maker,
And its framer of old ye have not seen.

12 And the Lord, Jehovah of Hosts,
Calleth in that day to weeping and lament-
And to baldness, [tation,
And to girding on of sackcloth:

13 And lo, joy and gladness, slaying of oxen,
And slaughtering of sheep,
Eating of flesh, and drinking of wine:
Eat and drink, for to-morrow ye die.

14 And revealed it hath been in mine ears,
By the LORD of Hosts:
Not pardoned is this iniquity to you,
Till ye die, said the Lord, Jehovah of Hosts.

15 Thus hath the Lord, Jehovah of Hosts, said,

- 'Go, enter in unto this steward,
Unto Shebna, who is over the house,
16 What—to thee here?
And whom—to thee here? [a sepulchre?
That thou hast hewn out to thyself here
Hewing on high his sepulchre,
Graving in the rock a dwelling for himself.
17 Lo, the LORD is casting thee up and down,
A casting up and down, O mighty one,
18 And thy coverer covering, wrapping round,
Wrappeth thee round, O babler,
On a land broad of sides:
There thou diest,
And there the chariots of thine honour
Are the shame of thy lord's house.
19 And I have thrust thee from thy station,
And from thine office he throweth thee
down.
20 And it hath come to pass, in that day,
That I have called for my servant,
For Eliakim son of Hilkiah.
21 And I have clothed him with thy coat,
And strengthened him with thy girdle,
And thy garment I give into his hand;
And he hath been for a father
To the inhabitant of Jerusalem,
And to the house of Judah.
22 And I have placed the key
Of the house of David on his shoulder;
And he hath opened, and none shutteth;
And hath shut, and none openeth. [place;
23 And I have fixed him a nail in a stedfast
And he hath been for a throne of honour
To the house of his father.
24 And they have hanged on him
All the honour of his father's house,
The offspring and the issue,
All vessels of small quality,
From vessels of basins
Even to all vessels of flagons.
25 In that day, affirmeth the LORD of Hosts, Moved is the nail which is fixed in a stedfast
place, [fallen:
Yea, it hath been cut down, and hath
And cut off hath been the burden which
For the LORD hath spoken.' [is on it:

XXIII. ¹THE BURDEN OF TYRE.

- Howl, ye ships of Tarshish;
For it hath been destroyed, without house,
Without entrance:
From the land of Chittim it hath been revealed to them.
2 Be silent, ye inhabitants of the isle:
The traders of Zidon, passing over the sea,
Have filled thee.
3 Even on many waters is the seed of Sihor,
The harvest of the brook is her increase,
And she is a mart of nations.
4 Be ashamed, O Zidon; for the sea hath
The strength of the sea, saying, [spoken,
'I have not been pained,
Nor have I brought forth,
Nor have I nourished young men,
Nor brought up virgins.'
5 As at the report of Egypt they are pained,
So at the report of Tyre.
6 Pass ye over to Tarshish:
Howl, ye inhabitants of the isle.
7 Is this your exulting one?

- From the days of old is her antiquity;
Carry her do her own feet afar off to so-
6 Who counselled this against Tyre, [Journ.
The crowning one—whose traders are princes.
Her merchants the honoured of earth?'
9 The LORD of Hosts hath counselled it,
To pollute the excellency of all beauty,
To make light all the honoured of earth.
10 Pass through thy land as the brook,
Daughter of Tarshish:
There is no more a girdle. [sea,
11 His hand He hath stretched out over the
He hath caused kingdoms to tremble:
The LORD hath charged concerning the merchant one,
To destroy her strong places.
12 And He saith, 'Thou dost not continue
To exult any more;
O oppressed one, virgin of the daughter
To Chittim arise, pass over: [of Zidon;
Even there—there is no rest for thee.'
13 Lo, the land of the Chaldeans—this people
Asshur founded it for the Zim; [was not,
They raised its watch-towers,
They lifted up its palaces;
—He hath appointed it for a ruin!
14 Howl, ye ships of Tarshish,
For your strength hath been destroyed.
15 And it hath come to pass, in that day,
That forgotten is Tyre seventy years,
According to the days of one king:
At the end of seventy years
There is to Tyre as the song of the harlot.
16 Take a harp, go round the city,
O forgotten harlot, play well;
Multiply song that thou mayest be re-
17 And it hath come to pass, [remembered.
At the end of seventy years
The LORD inspecteth Tyre,
And she hath repented of her gift,
That she committed fornication
With all the kingdoms of the earth
On the face of the ground.
18 And her merchandise and her gift
Have been holy to the LORD:
Not treasured up nor great:
For to those who sit before the LORD
Is her merchandise,
To eat to satiety, and for lasting covering.
XXIV. ¹LO, the LORD emptieth the land,
And maketh it waste,
And hath overturned it on its face,
And scattered its inhabitants.
2 And it hath come to pass,
As the people so the minister;
As the servant so his master:
As the maid-servant so her mistress;
As the buyer so the seller;
As the lender so the borrower;
As the usurer so he who lieth it on him-
3 Utterly emptied is the land, [self.
Yea, utterly spoiled:
For the LORD hath spoken this word:
4 Mourned, faded hath the land;
Languished hath the world,
Languished hath the high place
Of the people of the land. [inhabitants,
5 And the land hath been defiled under its
Because they have transgressed laws,
They have changed a statute,

They have made void an everlasting covenant.
[land,
6 Therefore a curse hath consumed the
And the inhabitants in it are become desolate:
[ants of the land,
Therefore consumed have been inhabit-
And few men men have been left.
7 Mourned hath the new wine,
Languished hath the vine,
Sighed have all the joyful of heart.
8 Ceased hath the joy of tabrets,
Ceased hath the noise of the exulting ones,
Ceased hath the joy of the harp.
9 With a song they drink not wine:
Bitter is strong drink to those who drink
10 It hath been broken down, [it.
A city of emptiness:
Shut hath been every house from entrance.
11 A cry for wine is in the out-places;
Darkened hath been all joy,
Removed hath been the joy of the land.
12 Left in the city is desolation,
And with wasting is the gate smitten.
13 When thus it is in the heart of the land,
In the midst of the peoples,
As the compassing of the olive,
As gleanings when harvest hath been 14 They lift up their voice, [finished,
They sing of the excellency of the LORD,
They have cried aloud from the sea.
15 Therefore in prosperity honour the LORD,
In the isles of the sea,
The name of the LORD, God of Israel.
16 From the skirt of the earth we have heard
The desire of the righteous. [songs,
And I say, 'Leanness is to me,
Leanness is to me, we is to me.' [ously:
Traucherous dealers have dealt treacher-
Yea, treachery, treacherous dealers
Have dealt treacherously.
17 Dread, and a snare, and a gin,
Are on thee, O inhabitant of the land.
18 And it hath come to pass,
He who fleeth from the noise of the fear
Falleth into the snare:
And he who cometh up from the midst of
Is captured by the gin; [the snare
For windows on high have been opened,
And shaken the foundations of the land.
19 Utterly broken down hath been the land,
Utterly broken down hath been the land,
Utterly moved hath been the land. [ard,
20 Stagger greatly doth the land as a drunk-
Yea, it hath been moved as a lodge;
Heavy on it hath been its transgression;
And it hath fallen, and riseth not again.
21 And it hath come to pass, in that day,
The LORD layeth a charge on the host of the high place in the high place,
And on the kings of the land on the land.
22 And they have been gathered,
The gathering of bound ones in a pit,
And shut up they have been in a prison,
And after a multitude of days are inspect-
23 And confounded hath been the moon, [ed.
And ashamed hath been the sun,
For reigned hath the LORD of Hosts
In mount Zion, and in Jerusalem,
And over-against His elders—honour.
XXV. 1 O LORD, my God art Thou;
I exalt Thee, I confess Thy name:

For Thou hast done wonderful things:
Counsels of old, faithfulness, O steadfast
2 For Thou mailest of a city a heap; [One.
Of a fenced city a ruin:
A high place of strangers from being a
For ever it is not built. [city:
3 Therefore honour Thee do a strong people,
The city of the terrible nations fear Thee.
4 For Thou hast been a stronghold for the poor,
A stronghold for the needy in his distress,
A refuge from storm,
A shadow from heat,
When the spirit of the terrible is as a
5 As heat in a dry place, [storm—a wall.
The noise of strangers Thou humblest,
Heat with the shadow of a thick cloud
The singing of the terrible is humbled.
6 And made hath the LORD of Hosts,
For all the peoples,
In this mount a banquet of fat things,
A banquet of preserved things,
Fat things full of marrow,
Preserved things refined.
7 And consumed hath He in this mountain
The face of the wrapping
Which is wrapped over all the peoples,
And of the covering
Which is spread over all the nations.
8 He hath swallowed up death in victory;
And wiped hath the LORD God
The tears from off all faces,
And the reproach of His people
He turneth aside from off all the earth,
For the LORD hath spoken:
9 And one hath said in that day,
'Lo, this is our God:
We have waited for Him, and He saves us:
This is the LORD: we have waited for Him;
We joy and rejoice in His salvation.'
10 For rest doth the hand of the LORD on this mountain,
And trodden down is Moab under Him,
As trodden down is straw on a dunghill.
11 And he spread out his hands in its midst,
As spread out doth the swimmer to swim:
And He hath humbled his excellency
With the machinations of his hands.
12 The fortress of the high place of thy walls
He hath bowed down—He hath made low,
He hath caused it to come to the earth,
—unto dust.
XXVI. 1 In that day sung is this song in the land of Judah:
'We have a strong city:
Salvation He maketh walls and bulwark.
2 Open ye the gates, that enter may a right-
Preserving steadfastness. [eous nation,

Thou fortifiest with abundant peace:
For in Thee it is confident.
4 Trust ye in the LORD for ever:
For in Jah, Jehovah, is the rock of ages;
5 For He hath bowed down the dwellers on
A city set on high He maketh low; [high;
He maketh it low unto the earth:
He causeth it to come unto the dust;
6 Tread it down doth a foot,
The feet of the poor, the steps of the weak.
7 The path for the righteous is uprightness:
O upright One,

- The path of the righteous Thou ponderest.
 8 Yea, in the path of Thy judgments,
 O LORD, we have waited for Thee;
 To thy name and to thy remembrance
 Is the desire of the soul.
 9 With my soul I desired Thee in the night,
 Yea, with my spirit within me
 I seek thee earnestly:
 For when Thy judgments are on the earth,
 The inhabitants of the world have learned.
 10 The wicked findeth favour, [righteousness,
 He hath not learned righteousness:
 In a land of straightforwardness
 He dealeth perversely,
 And seeth not the excellency of the LORD.
 11 O LORD, high is Thy hand—they see not:
 They see the zeal of the people, and are ashamed; [sumeth them.
 Yea, the fire of Thine adversaries con-

 Therefore Thou hast inspected
 And dost destroy them,
 Yea, Thou destroyest all their memory.
 15 Thou hast added to the nation, O LORD,
 Thou hast added to the nation:
 Thou hast been honoured:
 Thou hast put far off all the ends of earth.

 They have poured out a whisper;
 Thy chastisement is on them. [the birth,

 So have we been from Thy face, O LORD.
 18 We have conceived, we have been pained,
 We have brought forth as it were wind;
 Deliverance we work not in the earth,
 Nor do the inhabitants of the world fall.
 19 Thy dead live—My dead body they arise.
 Awake and sing, ye dwellers in the dust:
 For the dew of herbs is thy dew,
 And the land of the Rephaim
 Thou causeth to fall. [chambers,
 20 Come, My people, to enter into thy inner
 And to shut thy doors behind thee:
 Hide shortly a moment
 Till the indignation pass over.
 21 For, lo, the LORD cometh out of His place,
 To charge the iniquity of the inhabitant of the earth upon him:
 And revealed hath the earth her blood,
 Nor doth she cover any more her slain.
 XXVII. 1 IN that day lay a charge doth
 the LORD, [and the great,
 With his sword—the sharp, and the strong,
 On leviathan—a fleeing serpent,
 And on leviathan—a crooked serpent;
 And He hath slain the dragon
 That is in the sea.

 Respond ye to her.
 3 I, the LORD, am its keeper:
 Every moment I water it;
 Lest any lay a charge against it,
 Night and day I keep it!
 4 Fury is not in Me:

- Who giveth Me a brier—a thorn in battle?
 I step into it, I burn it at once.
 5 Or he may take hold on My strength,
 He may make peace with Me;
 Peace he may make with Me.
 6 Those who come in He causeth to take

 Jacob doth blossom, and flourished hath
 And they have filled the face of the world with increase. [smitten him?
 7 As the smiting of his smiter hath He
 As the slaying of his slain doth He slay?
 8 In measure, in sending it forth,
 Thou strivest with it:
 He hath taken away by His sharp wind,
 In the day of an east wind,
 9 Therefore by this is the iniquity of Jacob
 And this is all the fruit— [covered;
 Taking away his sin, in his setting
 All the stones of an altar,
 As chalkstones beaten in pieces:
 They rise not—shrines or images.
 10 For the fenced city is alone,
 A habitation cast out and forsaken as a
 There the calf delighteth, [wilderness:
 And there it lieth down,
 And hath consumed its branches.
 11 In the withering of its branch
 It is broken off:
 Women are coming setting it on fire:
 For it is not a people of understanding,
 Therefore pity it not doth its maker,
 And its former favourer it not.
 12 And it hath come to pass, in that day,
 Beat out doth the LORD from a branch of Unto the stream of Egypt, [the river,
 And ye are gathered one by one,
 O children of Israel.
 13 And it hath come to pass, in that day,
 It is blown with the great trumpet,
 And come in have those perishing
 In the land of Asshur,
 And those cast out in the land of Egypt,
 And have bowed themselves to the LORD,
 In the holy mount, in Jerusalem.
 XXVIII. 1 WO to the high crown of the drunkards of Ephraim,
 And the fading flower of the beauty of his glory, [the broken down of wine,
 Which is on the head of the fat valley of 2 Lo, a mighty and strong one to the Lord,
 As a storm of hail—a destructive shower,
 As an inundation of mighty waters overflowing—
 He cast down to the earth with the hand.
 3 By the feet trodden down is the high crown of the drunkards of Ephraim;
 4 And the fading flower of the beauty of his glory,
 Which is on the head of the fat valley,
 Hath been as the first fruit before summer, [mer,
 While it is yet in his hand he swalloweth it.
 5 In that day is the LORD of Hosts
 For a crown of beauty,
 And for a diadem of glory,
 To the remnant of His people.
 6 And for a spirit of judgment
 To him who sitteth in judgment:
 And for might to those who turn back
 The battle to the gate.

- ⁷ And even these through wine have erred,
And through strong drink have wandered;
Priest and prophet have erred
Through strong drink:
They have been swallowed up of wine,
They wandered because of strong drink:
They have erred in seeing.
They have stumbled in judgment
⁸ For all tables have been full of vomit—
Filth, without place!
⁹ By whom doth He teach knowledge?
And by whom doth He cause to understand the report? (from the breasts:
The weaned from the milk, the removed
¹⁰ For rule on rule, rule on rule;
Line on line, line on line;
A little here, a little there:
¹¹ For by scorned lip, and by another tongue,
He speaketh unto this people.
¹² Unto whom He hath said,
'This—the rest, give rest to the weary;
Yea, this the refreshing:'
But they have not been willing to hear,
¹³ (Yea, to whom the word of the LORD Rule on rule, rule on rule; (hath been,
Line on line, line on line;
A little here, a little there,)
So that they go and have stumbled back-
And have been broken, (ward,
And snared, and captured.
¹⁴ Therefore, hear the word of the LORD,
Ye men of scorning,
Ruling this people which is in Jerusalem.
¹⁵ Because ye have said,
'We have made a covenant with death,
And with Sheol we have made a provision;
The overflowing scourge, when it passeth
Meeteth us not, (over,
Though we have made a lie over refuge,
And in falsehood have been hidden.'
¹⁶ Therefore, thus saith the Lord Jehovah,
'Lo, I am laying a foundation in Zion,
A stone—a tried stone, a corner stone,
precious, a settled foundation:
He who believeth maketh no haste.
¹⁷ And I have put judgment for a line,
And righteousness for a plummet: (lies;
And sweep away doth half the refuge of
And the secret hiding-place do waters

Then have ye been to it for a treading-

For morning by morning it passeth over,
By day and by night: (sider the report.
And it hath been only a trembling to con-

Than to stretch one's self out in:
And the covering hath been narrower
Than to wrap one's self up in. (LORD,
²¹ For as at mount Perazim rise doth the
As at the valley in Gibeon He is troubled,
To do His work—His strange work:
And to do His deed—His strange deed.'
²² And now, show not yourselves scorers,
Least strong be your hands:
For a consumption, which is determined,
- I heard, by the Lord, Jehovah of Hosts,
Is for all the land.
²³ Give ear, and hear my voice;
Attend, and hear my saying:
²⁴ The whole day plougheth the ploughman for sowing?
He openeth and destroyeth his ground!
²⁵ Hath he not, if he have made level its face: (sprinkle;
Then scattered fitches—and cummin
And placed the principal wheat,
And the appointed barley,
And the rie in its own border?
²⁶ And instruct him for judgment doth his
He directeth him. (God:
²⁷ For not with a sharp-pointed thing
Threshed are fitches, (round:
Or the wheel of a cart on cummin turned
For with a staff beaten out are fitches,
And cummin with a rod.
²⁸ Bread-corn is beaten small,
For not for ever doth he sorely thresh it:
Nor crushed it hath the wheel of his cart,
Nor do his hoofs beat it small. (gone out,

He hath made counsel wonderful;
He hath made wisdom great.
XXIX. ¹WO to Ariel, Ariel,
The city of the encampment of David:
Add year to year, let the feasts go round.
² And I have sent distress to Ariel;
And it hath been lamentation and mourn-
And it hath been to me as Ariel. (ing:
³ And I encamped, O babbler, against thee,
And I laid siege against thee—a camp.
And I raised up against thee bulwarks.
⁴ And thou hast been low:
From the earth thou speakest,
And from the dust makest thy saying low:
And thy voice hath been from the earth,
As one that hath a familiar spirit,
And from the dust thy saying whisperest
⁵ But as small dust hath been
The multitude of those who scatter thee
And as chaff passing on,
The multitude of the terrible:
And it hath been at an instant, suddenly.
⁶ By the LORD of Hosts
Thou art inspected, with thunder,
And with an earthquake,
And with a great noise,
Hurricane, and a whirlwind,
And a flame of devouring fire.
⁷ And as a dream, a vision of the night, hath
The multitude of all the nations (been
Who war against Ariel,
And all its warriors, and its bulwark,
Even of those who distress her.
⁸ And it hath been, as when the hungry
And lo, he is eating: (dreameth.
And he hath waked, and empty is his
And as when the thirsty dreameth, (soul:
And lo, he is drinking, and he hath waked,
And lo, he is weary,
And his soul is longing:
So is the multitude of all the nations
That war against mount Zion.
⁹ Tarry and wonder: look ye, yea, look:
Be drunk, but not with wine:
Stagger, but not with strong drink;
¹⁰ For poured out on you hath the LORD

A spirit of deep sleep,
And He closeth your eyes—the prophets,
And your heads—the seers, He covered.
11 And the vision of the whole is to you,
As the words of the sealed book,
Which they give unto one who knoweth
Saying, 'Read this, we pray thee:' [knoweth
And he hath said,
'I am unable: for it is sealed:'
12 Then is the book given to him
Who hath not known books,
Saying, 'Read this, we pray thee:'
And he hath said, 'I have not known
13 And the Lord saith, [books,
Because drawn near hath this people,
With its mouth, and with its lips
They have honoured Me,
But its heart it hath put far off from Me,
And their fear of Me is—
The precepts of men—taught:
14 Therefore, lo, I continue to do wonderfully with this people,
A wonder, and a marvel: [ones,
And perished hath the wisdom of its wise
And the understanding of its intelligent

15 Wo to those who go deep from the LORD to hide counsel,
And whose works have been in darkness,
And who say, 'Who seeth us?
And who knoweth us?' [esteemed?
16 Your perversion! as clay is the potter
That the work saith of its maker,
'He made me not?'
Or the framed thing said of its framer,
'He did not understand?'
17 Is it not yet a very little,
And turned is Lebanon to a fruitful field,
And the fruitful field
For a forest is reckoned?
18 And heard in that day have the deaf
The words of a book,
And out of thick darkness, and out of
The eyes of the blind do see. [darkness,
19 And the humble have increased joy in
And the poor among men [the LORD,
In the Holy One of Israel rejoice.
20 For ceased hath the terrible one,
And consumed hath been the scorner,
And cut off have been all who watch for 21 Who cause men to sin in word, [iniquity:
And for a reprover in the gate lay a snare,
And turn into emptiness the righteous.
22 Therefore, thus said the LORD,
Who redeemed Abraham,
Concerning the house of Jacob:
'Not now ashamed is Jacob,
Nor now doth his face become pale:
23 For in his seeing his children,
The work of My hand, in his midst,
They sanctify My name, [Jacob,
Yea, they have sanctified the Holy One of
And the God of Israel make fearful.
24 And the erring in spirit
Have known understanding,
And the murmurers learn doctrine.'
XXX. 1 Wo to apostate children,
Affirmeth the LORD,
Doing counsel which is not from Me;
And spreading out a covering
Which is not of My spirit,

Broken down is Asshur,

Now I am exalted; now I am lifted up.

And know, ye near ones, My might.

A place of rivers—streams broad of sides:
No ship with oars goeth into it,

XXXIV. 1. Come near, ye nations, to hear;
And ye peoples, give attention;
The earth doth hear, and its fulness:
The world, and all its productions.

- ² For wrath hath the LORD against all the
And fury against all their host: [nations,

He hath given them to slaughter.

And their carcases cause their stink to

And melted have been mountains from
And consumed have been all the host of
And rolled together as a book [heaven,
Have been the heavens:
And all their host fadeth
As the fading of a leaf of a vine,
And as the fading one of a fig-tree.

Lo, on Edom it cometh down, [ment.
Even on the people of My curse for judg-

It hath been full of blood;
It hath been made fat with fatness,
With blood of lambs and he-goats,
With the fat of kidneys of rams:
For a sacrifice hath the LORD in Bozrah,
And a great slaughter in the land of Edom.
- ⁷ And come down have Reems with them,
And bullocks with bulls; [blood,
And soaked hath been their land from
And their dust from fatness is made fat.

A year of recompences for Zion's strife.)

And her dust to brimstone, [pitch.
And her land hath become burning pitch.

For ever ascend doth her smoke:
From generation to generation she is
For ever and for ever, [waste;
None passing into her.

And owl and raven dwell in her:
And He hath stretched out over her
A line of vacancy, and stones of emptiness.
- ¹² To the kingdom they call her nobles,
But there are none there,
Yea, all her princes are at an end.
- ¹³ And ascended her palaces have thorns,
Nettle and bramble in her fortresses,
And it hath been a habitation of dragons,
A court for daughters of the ostrich.
- ¹⁴ And met have Zim and Aïm,
And the goat for its companion calletth;
Only, there rested hath the night-owl,
And found for herself a place of rest.
- ¹⁵ There made her nest hath the bittern,
Yea, she layeth, [her shadow:
And hath hatched, and gathered under
Only, there gathered have been vultures,
Each with its companion.
- ¹⁶ Seek out of the book of the LORD, and read;
One of these hath not been lacking,
None hath missed its companion:
For My mouth, it hath commanded,
And its spirit—it hath gathered them.
- ¹⁷ And He hath cast a lot for them,
And His hand hath apportioned it to them
For ever they possess it; [by line:
For all generations they dwell in it.

And flourish as the rose.

The honour of Lebanon hath been given
The beauty of Carmel and Sharon; [to it,
They see the honour of the LORD,
The majesty of our God.
- ³ Strengthen ye the feeble hands,
Yea, the stumbling knees strengthen.
- ⁴ Say to the hasty of heart, 'Be strong,
Fear not; lo, your God, vengeance cometh,
The recompence of God:
He Himself doth come and save you.'
- ⁵ Then opened are the eyes of the blind,
And the ears of the deaf are unstopped:

And sing doth the tongue of the dumb:
For broken up in a wilderness have been
And streams in a desert. [waters,

And the thirsty land, fountains of waters:
In the habitation of dragons,
Its place of couching-down,
A court for reed and rush,

And the 'way of holiness' is called to it:
Not pass over it do the unclean;
And He Himself is by them: [not.
Whoso goeth in the way—even fools err.
- ⁹ No lion is there, yea, a destructive beast
Ascendeth it not, it is not found there:
And walked have the redeemed;
- ¹⁰ And the ransomed of the LORD return,
And have entered Zion with singing,
And everlasting joy on their head:
Joy and gladness they attain,
And fled away have sorrow and sighing
- XXXVI. ¹ AND it cometh to pass, in the fourteenth year of king Hezekiah, come up hath Sennacherib king of Asshur against all the fenced cities of Judah, and seizeth them.
- ² And the king of Asshur sendeth Rabshak-keh from Lachish to Jerusalem, unto the king Hezekiah, with a heavy force, and he standeth by the conduit of the uppermost pool, in the highway of the fuller's field.
- ³ And go out unto him doth Eliakim son of Hilkiah, who is over the house, and Shebna the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph, the re-membrancer.
- ⁴ And Rabshakeh saith unto them, 'Say ye, I pray you, unto Hezekiah, Thus hath he said, the great king, the king of Asshur,
What is this confidence in which thou hast confided? ⁵ I have said: Only, a word of the lips, counsel and might are for the battle; now, on whom hast thou trusted, that thou hast rebelled against me? ⁶ Lo, thou hast trusted on the staff of this broken
reed, on Egypt, on which a man leaneth, and it hath gone into his hand, and hath pierced it—so is Pharaoh king of Egypt, to all who trust on him. ⁷ And dost thou say unto me, On the LORD our God we have trusted? is it not He, whose high places and whose altars Hezekiah hath turned aside, and saith to Judah and to Jerusalem. Before this altar shall ye bow yourselves?
- ⁸ And now, negotiate, I pray thee, with my lord the king of Asshur, and I give to thee two thousand horses, if thou art able to put for thyself riders upon them. ⁹ And how wilt thou turn back the face of one captain of the least of the servants of my lord that thou dost trust for thyself on Egypt, for chariot and for horsemen? ¹⁰ And now, without the LORD have I come up against this land to destroy it? The LORD hath said unto me, Go up unto this land, then hast thou destroyed it?

¹¹ And Eliakim saith, with Shebna and Joah, unto Rabshakeh, 'Speak, we pray thee, unto thy servants in Aramaean, for we understand; and do not speak unto us in Jewish, in the ears of the people who are on the wall.' ¹² And Rabshakeh saith, 'Unto thy lord, and unto thee, hath my lord sent me to speak these words? is it not for the men who abide on the wall, eating their own dung and drinking their own water with you?'

¹³ And Rabshakeh standeth and calleth with a great voice in Jewish, and saith, 'Hear ye the words of the great king, the king of Asshur.' ¹⁴ Thus hath the king said, 'Let not Hezekiah lift you up, for he is not able to deliver you; ¹⁵ and let not Hezekiah make you trust unto the LORD, saying, The LORD doth certainly deliver us, this city is not given into the hand of the king of Asshur.' ¹⁶ Harken not unto Hezekiah; for thus hath the king of Asshur said, 'Make ye with me a present, and come out unto me, and eat ye each of his vine, and each of his fig-tree, and drink each the waters of his own well, ¹⁷ till I have come and taken you unto a land like your own land, a land of corn and wine, a land of bread and vineyards.' ¹⁸ Lest Hezekiah persuade you, saying, The LORD doth deliver us; have any of the gods of the nations delivered his land out of the hand of the king of Asshur? ¹⁹ Where are the gods of Hamath and Arphad? Where are the gods of Sepharvaim? Yea, have they delivered Samaria out of my hand? ²⁰ Who among all the gods of these lands are they who have delivered their land out of my hand, that Jehovah doth deliver Jerusalem out of my hand?'

²¹ And they keep silent, and have not answered him a word, for the command of the king is, saying, 'Answer him not.'

²² And Eliakim son of Hilkiah, who is over the house, cometh with Shebna the scribe, and Joah son of Asaph, the remembrancer, unto Hezekiah with rent garments, and they declare to him the words of Rabshakeh.

XXXVII. ¹ AND it cometh to pass, at the king Hezekiah's hearing it, that he rendeth his garments, and covereth himself with sackcloth, and entereth into the house of the LORD: ² and he sendeth Eliakim, who is over the house, and Shebna the scribe, and the elders of the priests, covering themselves with sackcloth, unto Isaiah son of Amoz the prophet: ³ that they may say unto him, 'Thus hath Hezekiah said, A day of distress, and rebuke, and despising, is this day, for come hath children unto the birth, and power there is none to bare. ⁴ It may be the LORD thy God doth hear the words of Rabshakeh with which the king of Asshur, his lord, hath sent him to reproach the living God, and hath decided concerning the words which the LORD thy God hath heard, and thou hast lifted up prayer for the remnant that is found present.'

⁵ And the servants of king Hezekiah come unto Isaiah, ⁶ and Isaiah saith unto them, 'Thus do ye say unto your lord, Thus hath the LORD said, Be not afraid because of the words which thou hast heard, with which the servants of the king of Asshur have reviled Me. ⁷ Lo, I am putting a spirit in him, and he hath heard a report, and hath turned back into his land, and I have caused him to fall by the sword in his own land.'

¹⁴ And Hezekiah taketh the letter out of the hand of the messengers, and readeth it; and Hezekiah goeth up to the house of the LORD, and spreadeth it before the LORD. ¹⁵ And Hezekiah prayeth unto the LORD, saying, ¹⁶ 'LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, inhabiting the cherubs, Thou art God himself, Thyself alone, over all the kingdoms of the earth; Thou hast made the heavens and the earth. ¹⁷ Incline, O LORD, Thine ear, and hear; open, O LORD, Thine eyes, and see; and hear all the words of Sennacherib which he hath sent to reproach the living God. ¹⁸ Truly, O LORD, the kings of Asshur have laid waste all the lands and their land: ¹⁹ so as to put their gods into the fire (for they are no gods, but the work of the hands of man, wood and stone), and they destroy them. ²⁰ And now, LORD our God, save us from his hand, and all kingdoms of the earth shall know that Thou art the LORD, Thyself alone.'

²¹ And Isaiah son of Amoz sendeth unto Hezekiah, saying, 'Thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said, That which thou hast prayed unto me concerning Sennacherib king of Asshur: ²² this is the word which the LORD hath spoken concerning him:

Despised thee, scorned thee,
Hath the virgin of the daughter of Zion;
After thee shaken the head
Hath the daughter of Jerusalem.

²³ Whom hast thou reproached and reviled?

And against whom lifted up the voice?
Yea, thou dost lift up on high thine eyes
Towards the Holy One of Israel.

²⁴ By the hand of thy servants
Thou hast reviled the LORD, and sayest,
With the multitude of my chariots
I have come up to the high place of moun-
The sides of Lebanon, [tains,
And I cut down the stature of its cedars,
The choice of its firs:
I enter the high place of its extremity,
The forest of its Carmel.

²⁵ I—I have dug and drunk waters;
And I dry up with the sole of my steps
All the floods of the bulwark.

²⁶ Hast thou not heard?—from afar I did it,
From days of old I formed it.
Now, I have brought it,
And it is to make desolate,
Ruinous heaps are fenced cities,
²⁷ And their inhabitants are feeble-handed,
They have been broken down and dried up:
They have been the herb of the field,
And the greenness of the tender grass,
The grass of the roofs,
Yea, a field before the stalk.

²⁸ And thy sitting down, and thy going out,
And thy coming in, I have known,
And thy being angry towards Me.

²⁹ Because of thy being angry towards Me,
And of thy noise—it came up into Mine cars,
I have even put My hook in thy nose,
And My bridle in thy lips,
And have caused thee to turn back
By the way in which thou earnest.

³⁰—And this is to thee the sign,
The fool of the year is self-sown grain;
And in the second year,
The spontaneous growth;
And in the third year, sow ye and reap,
And plant vineyards, and eat their fruits.

³¹ And it hath continued—the escaped
Of the house of Judah which is left—
To take root beneath,
And it hath yielded fruit upward.

³² For from Jerusalem goeth out a remnant,
And an escape from mount Zion;
The zeal of the LORD of Hosts doeth this.

³³ Therefore, thus hath the LORD said,
Concerning the king of Asshur,
He doth not come unto this city,
Nor shoot an arrow there,
Nor come before it with shield,
Nor pour out against it a mount.

³⁴ By the way which he came,
By it he turneth back,
And unto this city he doth not come,
Affirmeth the LORD.

³⁵ And I have covered over this city,
To save it, for Mine own sake,
And for David, My servant's sake.

³⁶ And the messenger of Jehovah goeth out, and smiteth in the camp of Asshur a hundred and eighty and five thousand;
and they rise early in the morning, and lo, all of them—dead corpses. ³⁷ And journey, and go on, and turn back, doth Sennacherib king of Asshur, and abideth in Nineveh. ³⁸ And it cometh to pass, he is bowing himself in the house of Nisroch his god, and Adrammelech and Sharezer his sons have smitten him with the sword, and have escaped to the land of Ararat: and Esar-Haddon his son reigneth in his stead.

XXXVIII. ¹ IN those days hath Hezekiah been sick unto death, and come to him doth Isaiah son of Amoz, the prophet, and saith unto him, 'Thus hath the LORD said: Give a charge to thy house, for thou art dying, and shalt not live.' ² And Hezekiah turneth round his face unto the wall, and prayeth unto the LORD; ³ and saith, 'I pray thee, O LORD, remember, I beseech Thee, that I have walked habitually before Thee in truth, and with a perfect heart, and that which is good in thine eyes I have done;' ⁴ and Hezekiah weepeth a great weeping.

⁵ And the word of the LORD is unto Isaiah, saying, ⁶ Go: then hast thou said unto Hezekiah, Thus hath the LORD God of David thy father said, 'I have heard thy prayer: I have seen thy tear; lo, I add to thy days fifteen years; ⁷ and out of the hand of the king of Asshur I deliver thee and this city, and have covered over this city. ⁸ And this is for thee the sign from the LORD, that the LORD doth this thing which He hath spoken.
⁹ Lo, I bring back the shadow, the degrees which it hath gone down on the degrees of Ahaz, by the sun, backward ten degrees: ¹⁰ and the sun turneth back ten degrees in the degrees which it had gone down.

¹¹ A writing of Hezekiah king of Judah, concerning his being sick, when he reviveth
from his sickness:

¹² I—I said in the cutting off of my days,
I go into the gates of Sheol:
I have numbered the remnant of mine
¹³ I said, I shall not see the LORD, [years.
The LORD, in the land of the living:
I shall not behold man any more.
With the inhabitants of the world.

¹⁴ My sojourning hath departed, [tent:
And been moved from me as a shepherd's
I have drawn together, as a weaver, my
By weakness He cutteth me off: [life:
From day unto night Thou dost finish me.
¹⁵ I have set Him till morning as a lion,
So doth He break all my bones:
From day unto night Thou dost finish me.

¹⁶ As a crane—a swallow, so I chatter;
I mourn as a dove:
Mine eyes have been drawn up on high:
O LORD, oppression is on me: be my surety.

¹⁷—What shall I say? seeing He hath said
And He Himself hath wrought: [to me,
I go softly all my years
For the bitterness of my soul.

¹⁸ Lord, by these men live,
And by all that in them is the life of my
Seeing thou savest me, [spirit:
Make me also to live.

bitterness; [out corruption,
And Thou hast delighted in my soul with-
For Thou hast cast behind Thy back all

Death praiseth Thee not:
Those who go down to the pit
Praise not for Thy truth.

²¹ The living, the living, he confesseth Thee.

Maketh known Thy faithfulness,
LORD—to save me:

²¹ And Isaiah saith, 'Let them take a bunch of figs, and plaster over the ulcer, and he liveth.' And Hezekiah saith, 'What is the sign that I shall go up to the house of the LORD?'

XXXIX. ¹ AT that time Merodach-Bala-dan son of Baladan, king of Babylon, hath sent letters and an offering unto Hezekiah, when he heareth that he hath been sick,
and is become strong. ² And Hezekiah rejoiceth over them, and sheweth them the house of his spices, the silver, and the gold, and the spices, and the good ointment, and all the house of his weapons, and all that is found among his treasures; there hath not been a thing in his house, or in all his dominion, which Hezekiah shewed them not.

³ And Isaiah the prophet cometh unto the king Hezekiah, and saith unto him, 'What have these men said? and from whence come they unto thee?' And Hezekiah saith,
'From a far country have they come unto me—from Babylon.' ⁴ And he saith, 'What have they seen in thy house?' and Hezekiah saith, 'All that is in my house have they seen; there was nothing which I shewed them not among my treasures.' ⁵ And Isaiah saith unto Hezekiah, 'Hear the word of the LORD of Hosts; ⁶ Lo, days are coming, and all that is in thy house, and that thy fathers have laid up till this day, hath been taken away unto Babylon; there is not left a thing, said the LORD. ⁷ And of thy sons who come out from thee, whom thou begetteth, they take, and they have been eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon.' ⁸ And Hezekiah saith unto Isaiah, 'Good is the word of the LORD which thou hast spoken:'
yea, he saith, 'For there is peace and truth in my days.'

XL. ¹ COMFORT ye, comfort ye, My people,
Saith your God.

² Speak to the heart of Jerusalem,
And call unto her.
That her warfare hath been completed;
That accepted hath been her punishment;
That she hath received from the hand of Double for all her sins. [the LORD

³ A voice crieth—in the wilderness—
Prepare ye the way of the LORD,
Make straight in the desert a highway for

⁴ Every valley is raised up, [our God,
And every mountain and hill become low;
And a crooked place hath become a plain,
And entangled places a valley:

⁵ And revealed hath been the honour of the
And seen it have all flesh together; [LORD,
For the mouth of the LORD hath spoken.

⁶ A voice saith, 'Call';
And he said, 'What shall I call?'
All flesh is grass, and all its goodness
As a flower of the field.

⁷ Withered hath the grass, faded the flower;
For the Spirit of the LORD hath blown
Surely the people is grass. [upon it:

⁸ Withered hath the grass, faded the flower:
But the word of our God riseth for ever.

⁹ On a high mountain get thee up, O Zion,
Proclaiming tidings;
Lift up with power thy voice, O Jerusalem,
Proclaiming tidings;
Lift up, fear not; say to the cities of Judah,
'Lo, your God.'

¹⁰ Lo, the Lord Jehovah with strength com-
And His arm ruleth for Him; [eth,
Lo, His hire is with Him,
And His wage before Him.

¹¹ As a shepherd His flock He feedeth,
With His arm He gathereth the lambs,
And in His bosom carrieth them:
The suckling ones He lendeth.

¹² Who hath measured in the hollow of his hand the waters?
And the heavens by a span meted out,
And comprehended the dust of the earth
in a measure,

And weighed in scales the mountains,
And the hills in balances?

¹³ Who meted out the Spirit of the LORD,
Or being His counsellor, doth teach Him?

¹⁴ With whom consulted He,
That he causeth Him to understand?
And teacheth Him in the path of judg-
And teacheth Him knowledge? [ment,
And the way of understanding
Causeth Him to know?

¹⁵ Lo, nations as a drop from a bucket,
And as small dust from the balances,
Have been reckoned:
Lo, isles as a small thing He taketh up.

¹⁶ Lebanon is not sufficient to burn, [ing,
Nor its beasts sufficient for a burnt-offer.

¹⁷ All the nations are as nothing before Him;
Than nothing and emptiness,
They have been reckoned by Him.

¹⁸ And unto whom do ye liken God,
And what likeness do ye compare to Him?

¹⁹ The graven image poured out hath the artizan,

And a refiner with gold spreadeth it over,
And chains of silver he refineth.

²⁰ He who is poor by a heave-offering,
A tree not rotting chooseth;
A skilful artizan he seeketh for it,
To establish a graven image—not move-

²¹ Do ye not know—do ye not hear? [able.
Hath it not been declared from the first
I have ye not understood [to you?
From the foundations of the earth?

²² He who sitteth on the circle of the earth,
And its inhabitants are as grasshoppers:
He who stretcheth out as a thin thing the

And spreadeth them as a tent to dwell in.

²⁵ And unto whom do ye liken Me,

²⁶ Or am I equal? saith the Holy One.
Lift up on high your eyes,
And see—who framed these?

He who bringeth out by number their
To all of them by name calleth, [host;
By abundance of strength
(And he is strong in power);
Not one is lacking.
21 Why sayest thou, O Jacob?
And speakest thou, O Israel?
'My way hath been hid from the LORD,
And from my God my judgment passeth
22 Hast thou not known?
Hast thou not heard?
The God of eternity—the LORD,
The framer of the ends of the earth,
Is not wearied nor fatigued; [ing.
There is no searching of His understand-
23 Giving power to the weary; [might.
Yea, to those not strong He increaseth
24 Even youths are wearied and fatigued,
And young men utterly stumble:
25 But those who expect the LORD
Pass on to power;
They raise up the pinion as eagles;
They run and are not fatigued,
They go on and faint not!
XLI. 'KEEP silent towards Me, O isles;
And the peoples pass on to power:
They come nigh, then they speak;
'Together to judgment we draw near.'
2 He who hath stirred up from the east
The righteous one,
He calleth him to His foot,
Giveth before him nations,
And kings He causeth him to rule:
He giveth them as dust to his sword
As driven stubble to his bow.
3 He pursueth them—he passeth over safely:
A path with his feet he entereth not.
4 Who hath wrought and done,
Calling the generations from the first?
I, the LORD, the first,
And with the last I am He.
5 Isles have seen and fear:
Ends of the earth tremble:
They have drawn near, yea, they come.
6 They help each his neighbour;
And to his brother each saith, 'Be strong.'
7 And the artisan strengtheneth the refiner,
The smother with the hammer,
Him who beateth on an anvil,
Saying, 'For joining it is good.'
And he strengtheneth it with nails,
It is not moved!
8—And thou, O Israel, My servant,
Jacob, whom I have chosen,
The seed of Abraham, My friend:
9 Whom I have taken hold of,
From the ends of the earth,
And from its near places have called thee;
I say unto thee, Thou art My servant;
I have chosen thee, and not rejected thee.
10 Be not afraid: for I am with thee.
Cry not out: for I am thy God:
I have strengthened thee;
Yea, I have helped thee;
Yea, I have upheld thee
With the right hand of My righteousness.
11 Lo, all who are displeased with thee
Are ashamed and blush:
They are as nothing; [thee.
Yea, perish do the men who strive with 12 Thou seekest them, and findest them not,

The men who debate with thee;
They are as nothing,
Yea, as nothing, the men who war with 13 For I, the LORD thy God, [thee.
Strengthen thy right hand:
He who saith to thee,
'Fear not: I have helped thee.'
14 Fear not, O worm Jacob,
Ye dead ones of Israel:
I have helped thee, affirmeth the LORD,
Even thy redeemer, the Holy One of Israel. [ing instrument,
15 Lo, I have set thee for a new sharp thresh-
Possessing teeth: thou threshest moun-
Yea, beatest small, [stains,
And hills as chaff thou makest.
16 Thou winnowest them,
And a wind lifeth them up,
And a whirlwind scattereth them
And thou rejoicest in the LORD,
In the Holy One of Israel boastest thyself.
17 The poor and the needy seek water,
And there is none;
Their tongue with thirst hath failed;
I, the LORD, answer them,
The God of Israel—I forsake them not.
18 I open on high places rivers,
And fountains in midst of valleys: [water,
I make a wilderness become a pond of
And a dry land become outlets of water.
19 I give in a wilderness the cedar,
Shittah, and myrtle, and oil-tree;
I set in a desert the fir,
Pine, and box-wood together:
20 That they may see, and know,
And regard, and act wisely together:
For the hand of the LORD hath done this,
And the Holy One of Israel produced it.
21 Bring near your cause, saith the LORD:
Bring nigh your mighty ones, saith the king of Jacob. [which doth happen:
22 They bring nigh, and declare to us that
The first things—what they are—declare ye: [latter end;
And we set our heart, and know their
Or the coming things cause us to hear.
23 Declare the things that are coming here-
And we know that ye are gods: [after,
Yea, ye mad ye good or do evil,
And we will look and see it together.
24 Lo, ye are of nothing, and your work of
An abomination it fixeth on you. [nought:
25 I have stirred up one from the north,
And he cometh: [My name:
From the rising of the sun he cometh in
And he cometh on prefects as on clay,
And as a potter treadeth down mire.
26 Who hath declared from the first,
That we may know?
And beforetime, that we may say,
'Righteous?' yea, there is none declaring;
Yea, there is none proclaiming:
Yea, there is none hearing your sayings.
27 First to Zion, Behold, behold them:
And to Jerusalem one proclaiming tidings
28 And I see that there is no man, [I give.
Yea, of these that there is no counsellor;
And I ask them, and they return word:
29 'Lo, they are all vanity:
Nought are their works:
Wind and emptiness their molten images.

XLII. ¹LO, My servant, I take hold on him;
 My chosen one My soul hath accepted:
 I have put My spirit on him:
 Judgment to the nations he bringeth out.
²He crieth not, nor lifteth up,
 Nor causeth his voice to be heard in the ³A bruised reed he breaketh not, [street.
 And dim flax he quencheth not:
 To truth he bringeth out judgment.
⁴He becometh not weak nor bruised,
 Till he set judgment in the earth:
 And for his law isles wait with hope.
⁵Thus said God, the LORD, who frameth
 The heavens, and stretcheth them out,
 Who spreadeth out the earth
 And its productions,
 Who giveth breath to the people on it,
 And spirit to those who walk in it.
⁶I, the LORD, called thee in righteousness;
 Yea, I lay hold on thy hand, and keep thee,
 And give thee for the covenant of a people,
 For the light of nations. [ple,
⁷To open the eyes of the blind,
 To bring out from prison the bound one,
 From the house of restraint
 Those who sit in darkness.
⁸I am Jehovah; this is My name;
 And Mine honour to another I give not,
 Nor My praise to graven images.
⁹The former things, lo, have come,
 And new things I declare:
 Before they spring up I cause you to hear.
¹⁰Sing ye to the LORD a new song,
 His praise from the end of the earth,
 Ye who go down to the sea, and its ful-
 Isles, and their inhabitants. [ness,
¹¹The plain and its cities lift up the voice,
 The villages Kedar doth inhabit:
 Sing do the inhabitants of Selah,
 From the top of mountains they cry.
¹²They ascribe to the LORD honour,
 And His praise in the isles they declare.
¹³The LORD as a mighty one goeth out:
 As a man of war He stirreth up zeal:
 He crieth; yea, shrieketh:
 Against His enemies He sheweth himself
¹⁴I have kept silent from of old: [mighty.
 I keep silent, I refrain myself:
 As a travelling woman I cry out:
 I desolate and swallow up together.
¹⁵I make waste mountains and hills,
 And all their herbs I dry up:
 And have made rivers become isles,
 And ponds I dry up.
¹⁶And I have caused the blind
 To go by a way they have not known;
 In paths they have not known
 I cause them to tread: [light,
 I make a dark place before them become
 And unlevel places become a plain:
 These are the things I have done to them,
 And have not forsaken them.
¹⁷Removed backward, utterly ashamed,
 Are they who trust in a graven image,
 Who say to the molten image,
 'Ye are our gods.'
¹⁸Ye deaf, hear: and ye blind, look to see.
¹⁹Who is blind but My servant?
 And deaf as My messenger I send?
 Who is blind as him who is at peace:
 Yea blind, as the servant of the LORD?

²⁰Seeing many things, yet thou observest
 Opening ears, yet he heareth not. [not,
²¹The LORD hath delight
 For the sake of His righteousness: fable.
 He magnifieth law, and maketh honour-
²²And this is a people seized and spoiled:
 Snared in holes—all of them:
 And in houses of restraint they have been
 They have become a prey, [hidden:
 And there is no deliverer:
 A spoil, and none saith, 'Restore.'
²³Who among you giveth ear to this?
 He attendeth, and heareth afterwards.
²⁴Who hath given Jacob for a spoil,
 And Israel to the spoilers?
 Is it not the LORD, He against whom we have sinned? [ways to walk;
 Yea, they have not been willing in His
 Nor have they hearkened to His law.
²⁵And He poureth on him fury,
 His anger, and the strength of battle:
 And it setteth him on fire round about,
 But he hath not known:
 And it burneth against him,
 But he layeth it not to heart!
 XLIII. ¹AND now, thus saith the LORD,
 Thy Framer, O Jacob,
 And thy Fashioner, O Israel,
 Be not afraid, for I have redeemed thee,
 I have called on thy name—thou art Mine.
²When thou passest through waters,
 I am with thee:
 And through floods, they overflow thee
³When thou goest into fire, [not:
 Thou art not burnt:
 And a flame burneth not against thee.
⁴For I—the LORD thy God,
 The Holy One of Israel, thy Saviour,
 I have appointed Egypt thine atonement,
 Cush and Sheba in thy stead.
⁵Since thou wast precious in Mine eyes,
 Thou hast been honoured;
 And I have loved thee:
 And appoint men in thy stead,
 And people instead of thy life.
⁶Be not afraid, for I am with thee.
 From the east I bring in thy seed,
 And from the west I gather thee.
⁷I say to the north, 'Give up,'
 And to the south, 'Restrain not.'
 Bring in My sons from afar,
 My daughters from the end of the earth.
⁸Every one who is called by My name,
 Even for My honour I have created him,
 I have formed him, yea, I have made him.
⁹He hath brought out a blind people who
 And the deaf who have ears. [have eyes,
¹⁰All the nations have been gathered to-
 And the peoples are assembled: [gather,
 Who among them declareth this,
 And former things causeth us to hear?
 They give their witness,
 And they are justified:
 And they hear and say, 'Truth.'
¹¹Ye are My witnesses, affirmeth the LORD,
 And My servant whom I have chosen:
 That ye may know and give credence to
 And understand that I am He: [Me,
 Before Me was no God formed,
 And after Me there is none.
 I—I am the LORD,

- And besides Me there is no saviour.
 12 I—I declared, and saved, and proclaimed:
 And there is no stranger with you:
 And ye My witnesses, affirmeth the LORD:
 And I am God.
 13 Even from the day I am He;
 And there is no deliverer from My hand;
 I work, and who turneth it back?
 14 Thus said the LORD, your Redeemer,
 The Holy One of Israel:
 'For your sake I have sent to Babylon,
 And caused bars to descend—all of them,
 And the Chaldeans, whose song is in the 15 I am the LORD, your Holy One, [ships.
 The Creator of Israel, your King.'
 16 Thus said the LORD,
 Who hath appointed a way in the sea,
 And a path in the strong waters;
 17 Who bringeth out chariot and horse,
 A force, even a strong one;
 'Together they lie down—they rise not:
 They have been extinguished,
 As flax they have been quenched.
 18 Remember not former things,
 And ancient things consider not.
 19 Lo, I do a new thing; now it springeth up;
 Do ye not know it?
 Yea, I put a way in a wilderness,
 In a desolate place—floods.
 20 Honour me doth the beast of the field,
 Dragons and daughters of the ostrich:
 For I have given waters in a wilderness,
 Floods in a desolate place,
 To give drink to My people, My chosen.
 21 This people have I formed for Myself;
 My praise they recount.
 22 Yet thou hast not called Me, O Jacob;
 For thou hast been wearied of Me, O
 23 Thou hast not brought into Me [Israel;
 The lamb of thy burnt-offerings;
 And with thy sacrifices thou hast not honoured Me: [offering,
 I have not caused thee to serve with an
 Nor wearied thee with frankincense.
 24 Thou hast not bought for Me with money
 sweet cane, [filled Me:
 And with the fat of thy sacrifices hast not Only, thou hast caused Me to serve with thy sins, [ties.
 Thou hast wearied Me with thine iniqui-
 25 I—I am He who bloteth out
 Thy transgressions for Mine own sake,
 And thy sins I remember not.
 26 Cause me to remember—we are judged together: [fled.
 Declare thou that thou mayest be justi-
 27 Thy first inther sinued, [against me.
 And thine interpreters have transgressed
 28 And I pollute the princes of the sanctu-
 And give Jacob to destruction, [ary,
 And Israel to revilings.
 XLIV. 1 AND now, hear, O Jacob, My serv-
 And Israel, whom I have fixed on: [ant;
 2 Thus hath the LORD said:
 Thy Maker, and thy Fashioner,
 From the womb helpeth thee;
 Fear not, my servant, Jacob,
 And Jesurun, whom I have fixed on.
 3 For I pour waters on a thirsty,
 And floods on a dry land;
 I pour My spirit on thy seed,
 And My blessing on thine offspring.
 4 And they have sprung up among grass,
 As willows by streams of water.
 5 This one saith, For the LORD I am:
 And this calleth himself by the name of
 And this one writeth with his hand, [Jacob:
 'For the LORD,' and by the name of Israel
 surnameth himself.
 6 Thus said Jehovah, king of Israel,
 And his Redeemer, Jehovah of Hosts:
 'I am the first, and I the last;
 And besides me there is no God.
 7 And who as I, calleth and declareth it,
 And arrangereth it for Me,
 Since My placing the people of antiquity;
 And things that are coming,
 And those that shall come, declare to 8 Fear not, nor be afraid: [them;
 Have I not from that time
 Caused thee to hear, and declared?
 And ye are My witnesses:
 Is there a God besides Me?
 Yea, there is none:
 A Rock I have not known.
 9 The framers of a graven image are all of them emptiness;
 And their desirable things profit not;
 And their own witnesses they are;
 They see not, nor know,
 That they may be ashamed.
 10 Who hath formed a god, [able?
 Or a molten image poured out—not profit-
 11 Lo, all his companions are ashamed;
 As to artificers, they are of men:
 All of them gather together, they stand up;
 They fear, they are ashamed together.
 12 He hath wrought iron with an axe,
 And hath wrought with coals,
 And with hammers formeth it,
 And worketh it by his powerful arm:
 Yea, he is hungry, and there is no power;
 He drinketh not water, and is wearied.
 13 He hath wrought with wood,
 He hath stretched out a rule,
 He marketh it out with a line,
 He maketh it with carving tools,
 And with a compass he marketh it out,
 And maketh it according to the form of
 According to the beauty of a man, [a man,
 To remain in the house.
 14 Cutting down to himself cedars,
 He taketh also a cypress or an oak,
 And he strengtheneth it for himself
 Among the trees of the forest:
 He hath planted an ash,
 And the rain doth nourish it.
 15 And it hath been for man to burn:
 And he taketh of them,
 And becometh warm:
 Yea, he kindleth it, and hath baked bread:
 Yea, he maketh a god, and boweth himself:
 He hath made it a graven image,
 And falleth down to it.
 16 Half of it he hath burnt in the fire:
 By this half of it he eateth flesh:
 He roasteth a roasting, and is satisfied;
 Yea, he is warm, and saith,
 'Aha, I have become warm,
 I have enjoyed the light.'
 17 And its remnant for a god he hath made,
 For his graven image:

He falleth down to it, and worshippeth,
And prayeth unto it, and saith,
'Deliver me, for thou art my god.'

18 They have not known, nor do they understand:
For He hath daubed their eyes from seeing
Their heart from acting wisely.

19 And none doth turn it back to his heart,
Nor hath knowledge nor understanding to
'Half of it I have burnt in the fire: (say,
Yea, also, I have baked bread over its
I have roasted flesh and eaten: (coals:
And its remnant for an abomination shall
I make?

To the stock of a tree shall I fall down?'

20 Feeding on ashes, the heart is deceived,
It hath turned him aside,
And he delivereth not his soul, nor saith,
'Is there not a lie in my right hand?'

21 Remember these, O Jacob, and Israel:
For thou art My servant:
I have formed thee; a servant to Me thou
O Israel, do not thou forget Me. (art:

22 I have blotted out, as by a thick cloud,
Thy transgressions,
Even as by a cloud thy sins: (thee.
Return unto Me; for I have redeemed
23 Sing, O heavens; for the LORD hath Shout, O lower parts of earth: (wrought:
Break forth, O mountains, with singing,
Forest, and every tree in it:
For the LORD hath redeemed Jacob,
And in Israel He beautifieth Himself.

24 Thus said the LORD, thy redeemer,
He who formeth thee from the womb,
'I am the LORD, doing all things:
Stretching out the heavens by Myself:
Spreading out the earth—who is with Me?

25 Making void the tokens of devisers,
And diviners making mad;
Turning the wise backward,
And their knowledge making foolish.

26 Confirming the word of His servant,
The counsel of His messengers He perfecteth;
Who saith of Jerusalem, (fecteth;
'She shall be inhabited:
And of the cities of Judah,
'They shall be built, her wastes I raise up.'

27 Who saith to the deep,
'Be dry, and thy rivers I cause to dry up;'

28 Who saith of Cyrus, 'My shepherd,'
Seeing all my delight He perfecteth:
Even saying of Jerusalem,
'Thou shalt be built: (ed.'

And of the temple, 'Thou shalt be founded.'

XIV. 1 THUS hath the LORD said
To His anointed, to Cyrus,
Whose right hand I have laid hold on,
To subdue nations before him;
Yea, the loins of kings I open,
To open before him two-leaved doors;
Yea, gates are not shut:
2 I go before thee, and the crooked places
I make straight:
The two-leaved doors of brass I shiver,
And the bars of iron I cut asunder,
3 And have given to thee treasures of dark-
Even treasures of secret places, (ness,
So that thou knowest that I the LORD,
Who call on thy name—am the God of Is-
4 For the sake of My servant Jacob, [rael,

And of Israel My chosen,
I call also on thee by thy name:
I surname thee,
Though thou hast not known Me.
5 I am the LORD, and there is none else;
Except Me there is no God: (Me:
I gird thee, though thou hast not known
6 So that men know from the rising of the
And from the west, (sun,
That there is none besides Me:
I am the LORD, and there is none else:
7 Forming light, and producing darkness;
Making peace, and producing evil,
I am the LORD, doing all these things.'

8 Drop, O ye heavens, from above;
And the clouds cause righteousness to flow:
The earth openeth, and they are fruitful,
Salvation and righteousness spring up to-
I, the LORD, have produced it. (gether.
9 Wo to him who striveth with his Fashioner,
(A potsherd with potsherd of the ground);
Doth clay say to its Fashioner,
'What doest thou?' Or thy work,
'He hath no hands?'

10 Wo to him who sayeth to a father,
'What begetteth thou?'

Or to a wife, 'What dost thou bring forth?

11 Thus hath the LORD said,
The Holy One of Israel, and his Fashioner,
'Ask Me of the things coming
Concerning My children,
Yea, concerning the work of My hands,
Ye may command Me.'

12 I have made earth, and created man on it:
I—My hands stretched out the heavens,
And all their host I have commanded.

13 I have stirred him up in righteousness,
And all his ways I make straight:
He doth build My city,
And My captives send out, (of Hosts
Not for price, nor for bribe, said the LORD
14 Thus said the LORD, 'The labour of Egypt,
And the merchandise of Cush,
And of the Sebam, men of measure,
Unto thee pass over, and they are thine:
After thee they go; in fetters they come
And to thee they bow themselves, (over,
Unto thee they pray, Only in thee is God;
And there is none else; no other God.

15 Surely Thou art a God hiding Thyself,
O God of Israel—Saviour!

16 They have been ashamed,
Yea, they have even blushed all of them:
Together gone to confusion
Have those who carve images.

17 Israel hath been saved in the LORD,
An everlasting salvation:
Ye are not ashamed nor confounded
Unto everlasting ages.

18 For thus said the LORD, Creator of heaven,
God Himself, the Fashioner of earth,
And its Maker:
He established it—framed it not empty,
For inhabiting He formed it:
'I am the LORD, and there is none else.

19 Not in secret have I spoken,
In a dark place of the earth:
I have not said to the seed of Jacob in vain
Seek ye Me:
I am the LORD, speaking in righteousness,

Declaring uprightness.

And they take counsel together :
Who hath proclaimed this from of old ?
From that time declared it ?
Is it not I the LORD ?
And there is no other god besides Me ;
A God righteous and saving,
There is none save Me.
²² Turn to Me, and be saved,
All ye ends of the earth :
For I am God, and there is none else.

³ Hearken unto Me, O house of Jacob,
And all the remnant of the house of Israel,
Who are born from the belly,
Who are carried from the womb.
⁴ Even unto old age I am He :
And unto grey hairs I carry :
I made, and I bear, yea, I carry and deliver.

And compare Me, that we may be like ?

But he answereth not :
From his adversity he saveth him not.

Turn it back, O transgressors, to the heart.
⁹ Remember former things of old :
For I am Mighty, and there is none else :

And all My delight I do.'

From a far country the man of My counsel :
Yea, I have spoken, yea, I bring it in ;

- I have formed it, yea, I do it.
¹² Hearken unto Me, ye mighty of heart,
Who are far from righteousness.
¹³ I have brought near My righteousness ;
It is not far off :
And My salvation tarrieth not ;
And I have given in Zion salvation :
To Israel my glory !
XLVII. ¹ COME down and sit on the dust,
O virgin, daughter of Babylon ;
Sit on the earth, there is no throne,
O daughter of the Chaldeans :
For no more do they cry to thee,
' O tender and delicate one.'
² Take millstones, and grind flour :
Remove thy veil, draw up the skirt,
Uncover the leg, pass over the floods.
³ Revealed is thy nakedness ;
Yea, seen is thy reproach :
Vengeance I take, and I meet not a man.
⁴ Our redeemer is the LORD of Hosts,
His name is the Holy One of Israel.
⁵ Sit silent, and go into darkness,
O daughter of the Chaldeans :
For no more do they cry to thee,
' Mistress of kingdoms.'
⁶ I have been wroth against My people,
I have polluted Mine inheritance
And I give them into thy hand :
Thou hast not appointed mercies for them ;
On the aged thou hast made thy yoke
very heavy ;
⁷ And thou sayest, ' For ever I am mistress :'
While thou hast not laid these things to thy heart :
Thou hast not remembered its latter end.
⁸ And now, hear this, O luxurious one,
Who sittest confidently, [else :
Who saith in her heart, ' I am, and none
I sit not a widow, nor know bereavement.'
⁹ Yet come unto thee do these two things,
In a moment, in one day,
Childlessness and widowhood :
According to their perfection
They have come upon thee,
In the multitude of thy sorceries,
In the exceeding might of thy charms.
¹⁰ Yet thou art confident in thy wickedness :
Thou hast said, ' None seeth me :'
Thy wisdom and thy knowledge,
It turneth thee back ;
And thou sayest in thy heart,
' I am, and none else.'
¹¹ And come in on thee doth evil :
Thou knowest not its rising :
And fall on thee doth mischief :
Thou art unable to pacify it :
And desolation cometh on thee suddenly,
Thou knowest not.
¹² Stand, I pray thee, in thy charms,
And in the multitude of thy sorceries,

It may be thou dost terrify !
¹³ Thou hast been wearied
In the multitude of thy counsels :
Let the charmers of the heavens,
The lookers on the stars,
The teachers concerning the months,
Stand up, I pray thee, and save thee
From that which cometh on thee !

14 Lo, they have been as stubble
Fire hath burned them;
They deliver not themselves
From the power of the flame:
There is not a coal to warm them,
A light to sit before it.

15 Thus have they been to thee
With whom thou hast laboured,
Thy merchants from thy youth:
Each to his passage hath wandered;
Thy saviour is not!

XLVIII. 1 HEAR ye this, O house of Jacob,
Who are called by the name of Israel,
And from the waters of Judah hath come
Who swear by the name of the LORD, (out,
And of the God of Israel make mention,
Not in truth nor in righteousness. [called,
2 For out of the Holy City they have been
And on the God of Israel been supported,
The LORD of Hosts is His name.
3 The former things from that time
I have declared;
Even from my mouth they have gone out:
Yea, I proclaim them;
Suddenly I have appointed, and it cometh.
4 From my knowing that thou art obstinate,
And thy neck a sinew of iron,
And thy forehead brass.
5 I even declare to thee from that time;
Before it came I have caused thee to hear,
Lest thou say, 'Mine idol hath done them,
And my graven image,
And my molten image commanded them.'
6 Thou hast heard, see the whole of it:
And ye, do ye not declare?
I have caused thee to hear new things
from this time,
And reserved things which ye knew not.
7 Now they have been produced,
And not from that time;
Yea, before the day,
And thou hadst not heard them;
Lest thou say, 'Lo, I have known them.'
8 Yea, thou hast not heard;
Yea, thou hast not known;
Yea, from that time not opened hath thine
ear: [ously,
For I have known thou dealest treacher-
And a 'Transgressor from the belly,'
One crieth to thee.
9 For My name's sake I defer Mine anger,
And My praise I restrain for thee,
So as not to cut thee off.
10 Lo, I have refined thee, but not with silver; [fiction.
I have chosen thee in the furnace of af-
For My sake, for Mine own sake, I work,
For how will it be polluted?
And Mine honour to another I give not.
12 Hearken unto me, O Jacob,
And Israel, My called one;
I am He; I am the first, and I am the last:
13 And My hand hath founded the earth,
And My right hand stretched out the
heavens:
I call unto them, they stand together.
14 Be gathered all of you, and hear:
Who among them declared these things?
The LORD hath loved him:
He executeth His pleasure on Babylon;
And His arm is on the Chaldeans.

15 I—I have spoken; yea, I have called him,
I have brought him in,
And he hath made prosperous his way.

16 Come ye near unto me; hear this:
Not from the beginning in secret spake I;
From the time of its being, there am I;
And now the Lord Jehovah, and His Spirit, hath sent me.

17 Thus said the LORD, thy redeemer,
The Holy One of Israel,
'I am the LORD thy God, teaching thee

XLIX. 1 HEARKEN, O isles, unto me,
And attend, O peoples, from afar:
The LORD from the womb hath called me;
From the bowels of my mother
He made mention of my name.
2 He maketh my mouth as a sharp sword;
In shadow of His hand He hath hid me,
And He maketh me for a clear arrow;
In His quiver He hath hid me.
3 And He saith to me,
'Thou art My servant, O Israel,
In whom I beautify Myself.'
4 And I have said, 'For a vain thing I have laboured; [have consumed:
For emptiness and vanity my power I
But my judgment is with the LORD,
And my wage with my God.
5 And now, said the LORD, who fashioneth me from the belly for a servant to Him,
To bring back Jacob unto Him,
Though Israel is not gathered,
I am honoured in the eyes of the LORD,
And my God hath been my strength:
6 Yea, He said, 'It hath been a light thing
That thou shouldst be My servant
To raise up the tribes of Jacob,
To bring back those preserved of Israel;
And I have given thee for the light of nations,
To be My salvation to the end of the earth.'
7 Thus said the LORD,
The redeemer of Israel, His Holy One,
To the despised in soul,
To the abominated of the nation,
To the servant of rulers: [worship,
'Kings see, and have risen; princes also
For the sake of the LORD, who is faithful:
The Holy of Israel, who chooseth thee.'
8 Thus said the LORD,

'In a time of good pleasure I have answered thee, [thee]:
And in a day of salvation I have helped
And I keep thee, and give thee,
For a covenant of the people,
To establish the earth,
To cause to inherit desolate inheritances.
9 To say to the bound, 'Go out;'
To those who are in darkness, 'Be un-
On the ways they feed, [covered]:'
And on all high places are their pastures.
10 They hunger not, nor thirst;
Nor smite them doth mirage or sun:
For He who pitieth them doth lead them,
And by fountains of waters tend them.
11 And I have made all My mountains become a way,
And My highways are lifted up.
12 Lo, these from afar come in: [the sea;
And lo, these from the north, and from
And these from the land of Sinim.
13 Sing, O heavens; and joy, O earth: [Ing,
And break forth, O mountains, with sing-
For comforted hath the Lord His people,
And His afflicted ones He pitieth.
14 But Zion saith, 'Jehovah hath forsaken
And my Lord hath forgotten me.' [me,

The loved one, the son of her womb?

16 Lo, on the palms of the hand I have Thy walls are before Me continually.
17 Hastened have thy builders;
Those who destroy thee,
And lay thee waste, go out from thee.
18 Lift up thine eyes round about, and see:
All of them have been gathered,
They have come to thee.
I live, affirmeth the Lord, [puttest on,
Surely all of them as an ornament thou
And thou bindest them on as a bride.
19 For thy wastes, and thy desolate places,
And the land of thy ruin,
Surely now are straitened because of inhabitants, [thee].
And far off have been those who consume
20 Again do the children of thy bereavement say in thine ears,
'The place is too straight for me:
Come nigh to me—and I dwell.'
21 And thou hast said in thy heart,
'Who hath born for me these?
While I am bereaved and gloomy,
Captive and turned aside,
And these—who hath nourished?
Lo, I was left by myself;
These—whence are they?
22 Thus said the Lord Jehovah,
'Lo, I lift up unto nations My hand,
And unto peoples I raise up Mine ensign:
And they have brought thy sons on the bosom, [carried].
And thy daughters on the shoulder are 23 And kings have been thy nursing fathers,
And their princesses thy nursing mothers:
Face to the earth—they bow down to thee,
And the dust of thy feet lick up;
And thou hast known that I am the Lord:
For those who expect Me are not ashamed.
24 Is prey taken from the mighty?

Or the captive of the righteous delivered!
25 For thus hath the Lord said,
Even the captive of the mighty is taken,
And the prey of the terrible is delivered:
For with thy striver I strive,
And thy children I save.
26 And I have caused thine oppressors
To eat their own flesh;
And as new wine drink their own blood:
And all flesh have known that I the Lord,
Thy saviour, and thy redeemer,
Am the Mighty One of Jacob.'
L. 1 THUS hath the Lord said,
'Where is this—the bill of your mother's Whom I sent away? [divorce,
Or to which of My creditors have I sold you?
Lo, for your iniquities ye have been sold,
And for your transgressions
Hath your mother been sent away.
2 Wherefore have I come, and there is no one?
I called, and there is none who answereth:
Hath My hand been at all short of redemption?
Or is there no power in Me to deliver?
Lo, by My rebuke I dry up a sea,
I make rivers a wilderness:
Their fish stinketh, for there is no water,
And they die with thirst.
3 I clothe the heavens with blackness,
And make sackcloth their covering.
4 The Lord Jehovah hath given to me
The tongue of the taught ones,
To know how to aid the weary by a word:
He waketh morning by morning,
He waketh for me an ear to hear
As the taught ones.
5 The Lord Jehovah opened for me the ear,
And I rebelled not—backward moved not.
6 My back I have given to those who smite,
And my cheeks to those who pluck out:
My face I hid not from shame and spitting.
7 But the Lord Jehovah giveth help to me;
Therefore I have not been ashamed:
Therefore I have set my face as a flint,
And I know that I shall not be ashamed.
8 Near is He who justifieth me;
Who doth contend with me?
We stand together: who is mine opponent?
Let him come nigh unto me.
9 Lo, the Lord Jehovah giveth help to me:
Who is he that condemneth me?
Lo, all of them as a garment wear out;
The moth doth eat them.
10 Who among you, fearing the Lord,
Hearkening to the voice of His servant,
Hath walked in darkness,
And there is no brightness for him?
Let him trust in the name of the Lord,
And lean on his God.
11 Lo, all ye kindling a fire, girding on sparks,
Walk in the light of your fire,
And in the sparks ye have caused to burn:
From My hand hath this been for you,
In grief ye lie down!
LI. 1 HEARKEN unto Me, ye who pursue
Who seek the Lord: [righteousness,
Look attentively unto the rock—
Ye have been hewn:
And unto the hole of the pit—

Ye have been digged.
 2 Look attentively to Abraham your father,
 And unto Sarah—she brought you forth:
 For alone I have called him,
 And I bless him, and multiply him.
 3 For the LORD hath comforted Zion:
 He hath comforted all her wastes,
 And setteth her wilderness as Eden,
 And her desert as a garden of the LORD;
 Joy, yea, gladness is found in her,
 Confession, and the voice of song.
 4 Attend unto Me, O My people,
 And, O My nation, unto Me give ear.
 For a direction from Me goeth out,
 Even My judgment to the light:
 The peoples I cause to rest.
 5 Near is My righteousness:
 Gone out hath My salvation and Mine arm:
 They judge the peoples; on Me isles wait;
 Yea, on Mine arm they wait with hope.
 6 Lift up to the heaven your eyes,
 And look attentively to the earth beneath:
 For the heavens as smoke have vanished,
 And the earth as a garment weareth out,
 And its inhabitants as lice die;
 But My salvation for ever is,
 And My righteousness is unbroken.
 7 Harken to Me, ye who know righteous-
 O people, in whose heart is My law; [ness,
 Fear ye not the reproach of men,
 And of their reviling be not affrighted:
 8 For as a garment eat them doth a moth,
 And as wool eat them doth a worm;
 But My righteousness for ever is,
 And My salvation to all generations.
 9 Awake, awake, put on strength, O arm of Awake, as in days of old, [the LORD;
 Generations of the ages:
 Art Thou not it that heweth down Rahab,
 Pierceth the dragon?
 10 Art Thou not it which drieth up a sea,
 The waters of a great deep?
 Which hath made deep places of a sea
 A way for the passing of the redeemed?
 11 And the ransomed of the LORD turn back,
 And have come to Zion with singing,
 And everlasting joy on their head:
 Gladness and joy they attain;
 Fled away have sorrow and sighing,
 12 I—I am He—your comforter:
 Who art thou—that thou art afraid of man?—he dieth!
 Or of the son of man—grass he is made!
 13 And forgettest the LORD thy maker,
 Who stretcheth out the heavens,
 And foundeth the earth;
 And fearest continually every day,
 Because of the fury of the oppressor,
 As he hath prepared to destroy?
 But where is the fury of the oppressor?
 14 Hastened hath a wanderer to be loosed,
 That he die not at the pit,
 15 Nor his bread be lacking.
 16 And I am the LORD thy God,
 Quieting the sea, whose billows roar:
 The LORD of Hosts is His name.
 17 And I put My words in thy mouth,
 And with the shadow of My hand have covered thee,
 To plant heaven, and to found earth,
 And to say to Zion, 'My people—thou.'

17 Stir thyself, stir thyself, rise, Jerusalem,
 Who hast drunk from the LORD's hand
 The cup of His fury:
 The goblet, the cup of trembling thou
 Thou hast wrung out. [hast drunk,
 18 There is not a leader for her
 Out of all the children she hath borne:
 And there is none laying hold on her hand
 Out of all the children she hath nourished.
 19 These two meet thee;
 Who is moved for thee?
 Spoiling and destruction—
 Famine and sword: who?—I comfort thee.
 20 Thy sons have been wrapt up
 They have lain down
 At the head of all out-places,
 As a wild ox in a net,
 They are full of the fury of the LORD,
 The rebuke of thy God.
 21 Therefore, hear, I pray thee, this,
 O afflicted and drunken one,
 And not with wine.
 22 Thus said thy Lord Jehovah, and thy God,
 He pleadeth for his people,
 'Lo, I have taken out of thy hand
 The cup of trembling,
 The goblet, the cup of My fury;
 Thou dost not add to drink it any more:
 23 And I have put it
 Into the hand of those who afflict thee;
 Who have said to thy soul,
 Bow down, and we pass over:
 And thou makest as the earth thy body,
 Even as the street to the passers-by.'

LII. 1 AWAKE, awake:
 Put on thy strength, O Zion,
 Put on thy beautiful garments,
 Jerusalem—the Holy City:
 For enter no more again into thee
 Doth the uncircumcised or unclean.
 2 Shake thyself from dust;
 Arise, sit, O Jerusalem:
 The bands of thy neck have loosed them—
 O captive, daughter of Zion. [selves,
 3 For thus hath the LORD said,
 'For nought ye have been sold,
 And not by money are ye redeemed.'
 4 For thus hath the Lord Jehovah said,
 'To Egypt My people went down
 At first to sojourn;
 Asshur also for nought hath oppressed it.
 5 And now, what—to Me here,
 Affirmeth the LORD,
 That My people is taken for nought?
 Its rulers cause howling, affirmeth the
 And continually all the day [LORD:
 My name is despised.
 6 Therefore doth My people know My name:
 Therefore, in that day,
 Surely I am He who speaketh; behold Me.'
 7 How comely on the mountains [tidings,
 Have been the feet of one proclaiming
 Sounding peace, proclaiming good tidings,
 Proclaiming salvation:
 Saying to Zion, 'Reigned hath thy God.'
 8 The voice of thy watchmen;
 They have lifted up the voice,
 Together they cry aloud:
 For eye to eye they see,
 In the LORD's turning back to Zion.
 9 Break forth, sing together

- O wastes of Jerusalem:
For the LORD hath comforted His people,
He hath redeemed Jerusalem.
- ¹⁰ The LORD hath made bare His holy arm
Before the eyes of all the nations;
And all ends of the earth have seen
The salvation of our God.
- ¹¹ Turn aside, turn aside, go out from thence,
The unclean touch not;
Go out from her midst; be ye pure,
Who bear the weapons of the LORD
- ¹² For not in haste do ye go out,
Yea, with flight ye go not on:
For going before you is the LORD:
And gathering you—is the God of Israel.
- ¹³ Lo, My servant acteth wisely,
He is high, and hath been lifted up,
Yea, he hath been very high.
- ¹⁴ As astonished at thee have been many;
(So marred by man his appearance,
And his form by the sons of men);
- ¹⁵ So doth he sprinkle many nations;
Concerning him kings shut their month:
For that which was not recounted to them
They have seen,
And that which they had not heard
They have understood.
- LIII. ¹ WHO hath given credence
To that which we have heard?
And the Arm of the LORD,
On whom hath it been revealed?
- ² Yea, he cometh up before Him,
As a tender plant,
And as a root out of a dry land:
He hath no form, nor honour,
When we observe him,
Nor appearance, when we desire him.

He is despised and we esteemed him not.
- ⁴ Surely our sicknesses he hath borne,
And our pains—he hath carried them:
But we have esteemed him plagued,
Smitten of God, and afflicted.
- ⁵ But he is pierced for our transgressions,
Bruised for our iniquities:
The chastisement of our peace is on him;
And by his bruise we have been healed.
- ⁶ All of us like sheep have wandered;
Each to his own way we have turned;
And the LORD hath caused to meet on him
The punishment of us all.
- ⁷ It hath been exacted,
And he himself hath answered:
Yet he openeth not his mouth:
As a sheep to the slaughter is brought,
And as a lamb before its shearers is dumb,
Yet he openeth not his mouth.
- ⁸ By restraint and by judgment
He hath been taken:
And of his generation who doth meditate,
That he hath been cut off
From the land of the living,
By the transgression of My people he is

He seeth seed—he prolongeth days,
And the pleasure of the LORD

the many, [spoil:]
And with the mighty he apportioneth
Because he exposed his soul to death,
And with transgressors was numbered,
And he bare the sin of many,
And for transgressors he intercedeth!

Break forth with singing, and cry aloud,
She hath not brought forth:
For more are the children of the desolate,
Than the children of the married one,
Said the LORD.

And the curtains of thy tabernacles
Let them stretch out:
Restrain not—lengthen thy cords,
And strengthen thy pins:
- ³ For right and left thou breakest forth:
And thy seed possesseth nations,
They cause desolate cities to be inhabited.
- ⁴ Fear not: for thou shalt not be ashamed:
Nor blush, for thou art not confounded:
For the shame of thy youth thou forgettest,
And the reproach of thy widowhood
Thou dost not remember any more.

The day of a man's afflicting his soul?
To bow as a reed his head,
And sackcloth and ashes spread out?
This dost thou call a fast,

 LXV. 1 I HAVE been inquired of
 By those who asked not: [Me not:
 I have been found by those who sought
 I have said, 'Behold Me, behold Me,'

 Sacrificing in gardens,
 And making perfume on the bricks.

 fathers together, said the LORD,
 Who have made perfume on the mounts,
 And on the hills have reproveth Me:
 Yea, I have measured their former work into their bosom.'
 8 Thus hath the LORD said,
 As the new wine is found in the cluster,
 And one hath said, 'Destroy it not,
 For a blessing is in it.'
 So I do for My servants' sake,
 Not to destroy the whole,
 9 And have brought out from Jacob a seed,
 And from Judah a possessor of My mount,
 And possess it do My chosen ones,
 And My servants dwell there.
 10 And Sharon hath been for the habitation of the flock,
 And the valley of Achor,
 For the lying down of the herd,
 For My people who have sought Me.
 11 But ye are those who forsake the LORD,
 Who forget My holy mountain,
 Who set in array a table for Gad,
 And who fill for Meni a mixture.
 12 And I have numbered you for the sword,
 And all of you bow down for slaughter:
 Because I have called,
 And ye have not answered;
 I have spoken, and ye have not hearkened:
 But do the evil thing in Mine eyes,

And on that which I desired not—fixed.
 13 Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah,
 Lo, My servants eat, but ye hunger;
 Lo, My servants drink, but ye thirst:
 Lo, My servants rejoice,
 But ye are ashamed:
 14 Lo, My servants sing from joy of heart,
 But ye cry from pain of heart,
 And howl from breaking of spirit.
 15 And ye have left your name
 For an oath for My chosen ones:
 And the Lord Jehovah hath put thee to
 And to His servants [death,
 He giveth another name:
 16 That he who blesseth himself in the earth,
 May bless himself

 And he who sweareth in the earth,

 And because they have been hid from

 That I am creator:
 For, lo, I create Jerusalem a rejoicing,
 And her people a joy.
 19 And I have rejoiced in Jerusalem,
 And joyed in My people:
 And not heard in her any more
 Is the voice of weeping,
 Or the voice of crying.
 20 There is not from thence
 Any more a suckling of days: [his days:
 Or an aged man who doth not complete
 For the youth dieth a hundred years old:
 And the sinner, a hundred years old,
 Is lightly esteemed.
 21 And they have built houses, and inhabited;
 And they have planted vineyards,
 And eaten their fruit.
 22 They build not, and another inhabit:
 They plant not, and another eat:
 For as the days of a tree
 Are the days of My people;
 And the work of their hands
 Wear out do My chosen ones.
 23 They labour not for a vain thing,
 Nor bring forth for trouble:
 For the seed of the blessed of the LORD
 And their offspring with them. [are they.
 24 And it hath come to pass,
 They do not yet call, and I answer:
 They are yet speaking, and I hear.
 25 The wolf and lamb feed as one,
 And the lion eateth straw as an ox:
 As to the serpent, dust is its food:
 They do no evil, nor destroy,
 In all My holy mountain, said the LORD.
 LXVI. 1 THUS said the LORD,
 The heavens are My throne,
 Where is this—the house ye build for Me!
 And the earth My footstool:
 And where is this—the place—My rest?
 2 Seeing all these My hand hath made,
 And all these things are,
 Affirmeth the LORD:
 But unto this one I look attentively,

- Unto the humble and bruised in spirit,
And who trembleth at My word.
 3 Whoso slaughtereth the ox smiteth a man;
Whoso sacrificeth a lamb beheadeth a dog;
Whoso bringeth up an offering—
The blood of a sow;
Whoso maketh mention of frankincense,
Blesseth iniquity:
Yea, they have fixed on their own ways,
And in their abominations
Hath their soul delighted.
 4 I also fix on their vexations,
And their fears I bring to them;
Because I have called,
And there is none answering;
I spake, and they have not hearkened:
But do the evil thing in Mine eyes,
And on that which I desired not—fixed.
 5 Hear a word of the LORD,
Ye who tremble unto His word;
Said have your brethren who hate you,
Who drive you out, for My name's sake,
'Honoured is the LORD:
And we look on your joy,' but they are ashamed.
 6 A voice of noise is from the city,
A voice from the temple,
The voice of the LORD,
Giving recompence to His enemies.
 7 Before she is pained she brought forth;
Before the pang cometh to her
She hath even delivered a male.
 8 Who hath heard anything like this?
Who hath seen anything like these?
Is the earth caused to bring forth in one
Born is a nation at once? [day]
For she hath been pained,
Zion hath also borne her children.
 9 'Do I bring to the birth,
And not cause to bring forth?' saith the
'Do not I cause to beget?' [LORD:
I have also restrained,' said thy God.
 10 Rejoice with Jerusalem,
And be glad in her, all ye who love her:
Rejoice for joy with her,
All ye who mourn for her: [fled
 11 That ye may suck, then have ye been satis-Fied from the breasts of her consolations;
That ye may wring out,
Then have ye delighted yourselves
From the abundance of her honour.
 12 For thus hath the LORD said,
'Lo, I stretch out peace to her as a river,
And as an overflowing stream
The honour of nations:
And ye have sucked, on the side ye are car-
And on the knees ye are dandled. [ried,
 13 As one whom his mother comforteth,
So do I comfort you;
Yea, in Jerusalem ye are comforted.
- 14 And ye have seen,
And your heart hath rejoiced,
And your bones flourish as tender grass;
And the hand of the LORD
Hath been known unto His servants
And He hath been indignant with His ene-
 15 For, lo, the LORD in fire cometh, [mies.
And as the hurricane His chariots,
To refresh in fury His anger,
And His rebuke in flames of fire:
 16 For by fire and by His sword [flesh.
Both the LORD execute judgment with all
Many have been Jehovah's pierced ones.
 17 Those who sanctify and cleanse themselves at the gardens,
After Ahad in the midst,
Eating the flesh of the sow,
And of the abomination, and of the mouse,
Are consumed together,
Affirmeth the LORD.
 18 And I—their works and their thoughts:
I come to gather all nations and tongues:
And they have come and seen My honour.
 19 And I have set among them a sign,
And have sent out of them
Those who escape unto the nations,
(Tarshish, Pul, and Lud, drawing the bow Tubal and Javan, the isles that are far off,)
Who have not heard My fame,
Nor seen Mine honour:
And they have declared
Mine honour among the nations.
 20 And they have brought
All your brethren out of all the nations,
An offering to the LORD,
On horses and on chariot,
And on litters, and on mules,
And on dromedaries,
Unto My holy mountain Jerusalem,
Said the LORD,
As the children of Israel bring
The offering in a clean vessel,
Into the house of the LORD.
 21 And also of them I take for priests,
For Levites, said the LORD.
 22 For, as the new heavens
And the new earth which I make,
Remain before Me, affirmeth the LORD,
So remain doth your seed and your name.
 23 And it hath come to pass,
From month to month,
And from sabbath to sabbath,
Come do all flesh to bow themselves be-
Said the LORD. [fore Me,
 24 And they have gone out,
And looked on the carcases of the men
Who transgress against me;
For their worm dieth not,
And their fire is not quenched: [flesh.
And they have been an abhorrence to all

JEREMIAH.

CHAP. I. ¹THE words of Jeremiah son of Hilkiah, of the priests who are in Anathoth, in the land of Benjamin, ²unto whom the word of the LORD hath been in the days of Josiah son of Amon, king of Judah, in the thirtieth year of his reign: ³it is also in the days of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah, till the completion of the eleventh year of Zedekiah son of Josiah, king of Judah, till the removal of Jerusalem in the fifth month.

⁴And the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, ⁵'Before I form thee in the belly, I have known thee; and before thou comest out from the womb I have separated thee; a prophet to the nations I have made thee.'

⁶And I say, 'Ah, Lord Jehovah! lo, I have not known—to speak, for I am a youth.'

⁷And the LORD saith unto me, 'Say not, I am a youth, for to all whom I send thee thou goest, and all that I command thee thou speakest. ⁸Be not afraid of their faces, for with thee am I to deliver thee, affirmeth the LORD.'

⁹And the LORD putteth forth His hand, and striketh against my mouth, and the LORD saith unto me, 'Lo, I have put My words in thy mouth. ¹⁰See, I have charged thee this day concerning the nations, and concerning the kingdoms, to pluck up, and to break down, and to destroy, and to throw down, to build, and to plant.'

¹¹And the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, 'What seest thou, Jeremiah?' And I say, 'A rod of an almond tree I see.'

¹²And the LORD saith unto me, 'Thou hast well seen: for I watch over My word to do it.'

¹³And the word of the LORD is unto me a second time, saying, 'What seest thou?' And I say, 'A blown pot I see; and its face is from the north.' ¹⁴And the LORD saith unto me, 'From the north is the evil loosed against all the inhabitants of the land.'

¹⁵For, lo, I call for all the families of the kingdoms of the north, affirmeth the LORD, and they have come, and placed each his throne at the opening of the gates of Jerusalem, and by its walls round about, and by all the cities of Judah. ¹⁶And I have spoken My judgments with them concerning all their evil, because they have forsaken Me, and make perfume to other gods, and bow themselves to the works of their own hands. ¹⁷And now, thou dost gird up thy loins, and hast arisen, and spoken unto them all that I command thee: be not affrighted because of them, lest I affright thee before them. ¹⁸And I, lo, I have given thee this day for a fenced city, and for an iron pillar, and for brazen walls over all the land, to the kings of Judah, to its heads, to its priests, and to the people of the land. ¹⁹And they have fought against thee; but they prevail not against thee; for with thee am I, affirmeth the LORD, to deliver thee.

II. ¹AND the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, ²'Go, then hast thou called in the ears of Jerusalem, saying, Thus hath the LORD said:

I have remembered for thee
The kindness of thy youth,
The love of thine espousals.
Thy going after Me in a wilderness,
In a land not sown.

³Holy is Israel to the LORD,
The first fruit of His increase:
All who consume him are guilty;
Evil cometh to them, affirmeth the LORD.

⁴Hear the word of the LORD,
O house of Jacob,
And all the families of the house of Israel.

⁵Thus hath the LORD said, [sity in Me,
What—have your fathers found perversity
That they have kept far off from Me,
And go after vanity, and become vain,

⁶And have not said, Where is the LORD,
Who bringeth us up out of the land of Whom leadeth us in the wilderness, [Egypt;
In a land of deserts and pits;

In a dry land, and of death-shade;
In a land—none hath passed through,
Nor dwelt hath man there?'

⁷Yea, I bring you to a land of fruitful fields,
To eat its fruit and its goodness;
And ye come and defile My land,
And Mine inheritance have made for an ⁸The priests have not said, [abomination.

'Where is the LORD?'
And those who handle the law have not known Me. [Me;

And the shepherds transgressed against
And the prophets prophesied by Baal:
And after those who profit not have gone.

⁹Therefore, yet I plead with you,
Affirmeth the LORD:
And with your children's children I plead.

¹⁰For, pass to the isles of Chittim, and see,
And to Kedar send, and consider well,
And see if there hath been a thing like this.

¹¹Hath a nation changed gods?
(Though they are no gods,)
But My people hath changed its honour
For that which profiteth not.

¹²Be astonished, O heavens, at this;
Yea, be frightened, be greatly wasted,
Affirmeth the LORD.

¹³For two evils hath My people done:
They have forsaken Me,
The fountain of living waters,
To hew out for themselves wells—broken

Which contain not the waters. [wells,
¹⁴A servant is Israel?

If he be a child of the house,
Wherefore hath he been for a prey?
¹⁵Against him roar do young lions,

They have given forth their voice,
And make his land become a desolation:
His cities have been burnt
Without inhabitant.

¹⁶Even the sons of Noph and Tahapanes
Consume thee—the crown of the head.
¹⁷Dost thou not do this to thyself?

- By thy forsaking the LORD thy God,
At the time He leudeth thee in the way?
18 And now, what—to thee, in the way of
To drink the waters of Sihor? [Egypt,
And what—to thee in the way of Asshur,
To drink the waters of the River?
19 Thine own wickedness doth instruct thee,
And thy backslidings reprove thee:
Know and see that an evil and a bitter thing
Is thy forsaking the LORD thy God,
And My fear not being on thee,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah of Hosts.
20 For of old thou hast broken thy yoke,
Drawn away thy bands, and sayest,
‘I will not serve!’
For, on every high hill, and under every
Thou art wandering, a harlot, [green tree,
21 Yet I planted thee a choice vine,
Wholly a true seed:
And how hast thou been turned to Me,
To the degenerate plants of a strange vine?
22 But though thou wash with nitre,
And multiply to thyself soap,
Thine iniquity is marked before Me,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.
23 How sayest thou, ‘I have not been defiled,
After the Baniim I have not gone?’
See thy way in the valley,
Know what thou hast done:
A swift dromedary winding her ways;
24 A wild ass accustomed to a wilderness,
In the desire of her soul
She hath swallowed up wind;
Her meeting—who turneth her back?
None who seek her weary themselves:
In her month they find her.
25 Withhold thy foot from being unshod,
And thy throat from thirst:
Yet thou sayest, ‘It is incurable:
No: for I have loved strangers,
And after them I go.’
26 As the shame of a thief when he is found,
So put to shame have been the house of
They, their kings, their heads, [Israel:
And their priests, and their prophets,
27 Saying to wood, ‘My father art thou!’
And to a stone, ‘Thou hast brought me
For they turned to me the neck, [forth;’
And not the face:
And in the time of their vexation,
They say, ‘Arise, and save us.’
28 And where are thy gods,
Which thou hast made for thyself?
Let them arise, that they may save thee
In the time of thy vexation:
For—the number of thy cities
Have been thy gods, O Judah.
29 Why do ye strive with Me?
All of you have transgressed against Me,
Affirmeth the Lord.
30 In vain have I smitten your children:
Instruction they have not accepted:
Devoured hath your sword your prophets,
As a destroying lion.
31 O generation, see ye the word of the LORD:
Have I been a wilderness to Israel?
A land of thick darkness?
Wherefore have My people said,
‘We have mourned,
We come not in again unto Thee.’
32 Both a maid forget her ornaments?

- A bride her bands?
Yet My people have forgotten Me
Days without number.
33 What—dost thou make pleasing
Thy way to seek love?
Therefore even the wicked
Thou hast taught thy ways.
34 Also in thy skirts hath been found
The blood of innocent needy souls:
Not by digging have I found them,
But upon all these. [innocent,
35 Yet thou sayest, ‘Because I have been
Surely His anger turneth back from me?’
Lo, I have been judged with thee,
Because of thy saying,
‘I have not sinned.’
36 What—art thou so vile as to repeat thy Even of Egypt thou art ashamed, [way?
As thou hast been ashamed of Asshur.
37 Even from this thou goest out,
And thy hands on thy head, [dence,
For the LORD hath kicked at thy conf.
And thou givest not prosperity to them.
III. 1—SAYING, ‘Lo, one sendeth away his
And she hath gone from him, [wife,
And hath been to another man,
May he turn back unto her again?’
Greatly defiled is not that land?
But thou hast committed fornication
With many lovers:
Yet turn again to Me, affirmeth the LORD.
2 Lift thine eyes to the high places and see:
Where hast thou not been lain with?
On the ways thou hast sat for them,
As an Arab in the wilderness,
And thou defilest the land
By thy fornications and by thy wickedness.
3 And withheld are showers,
And gathered rain hath not been.
The forehead of a whorish woman thou
Thou hast refused to be ashamed. [hast 4 Hast thou not from henceforth called to me, [youth?
‘My Father, Thou art the leader of my
5 Doth He keep for ever? watch for ever?’
Lo, these things thou hast spoken,
Yet thou dost evil things, and prevailest.

6 And the LORD saith unto me, in the days of Josiah the king, ‘Hast thou seen that which backsliding Israel hath done? She is going on every high mountain, and unto the place of every green tree, and commit-teth fornication there. 7 And I say, after her doing all these, Unto Me turn back;
and she hath not turned back, and her treacherous sister Judah seeth it. 8 And I see when (for all the causes whereby backsliding Israel committed fornication), I have sent her away, and give the bill of her divorce unto her, that treacherous Judah her sister hath not feared, but goeth and committeth fornication—she also. 9 And it hath come to pass, from the vileness of her fornication, that the land is defiled, seeing she com-mitteth fornication with stone and with wood. 10 And even for all this her treacherous sister Judah hath not turned back unto Me with all her heart, but with falsehood, affirmeth the LORD.’

11 And the LORD saith unto me,

- 'Backsliding Israel hath justified herself
More than treacherous Judah.
- 12 Go, then hast thou proclaimed
These words towards the north, and said,
Turn back, O backsliding Israel,
Affirmeth the LORD:
I cause not Mine anger to fall upon you;
For I am kind, affirmeth the LORD,
I watch not for ever.
- 13 Only, know thine iniquity,
For against the LORD thy God
Thou hast transgressed,
And dost scatter thy ways to strangers,
Under every green tree,
And to My voice hast not hearkened,
Affirmeth the LORD.
- 14 Turn back, O backsliding children,
Affirmeth the LORD;
For I have ruled over you,
And taken you one of a city, and two of
And brought you to Zion: [a family,
- 15 And given to you shepherds
According to Mine own heart,
And they have fed you with knowledge
And understanding.
- 16 And it hath come to pass,
When ye are multiplied,
And have been fruitful in the land,
In those days, affirmeth the LORD,
They say not any more,
'The ark of the covenant of the LORD,'
Nor doth it go up on the heart,
Nor do they remember concerning it,
Nor do they inspect, nor is it made again.
- 17 At that time they cry to Jerusalem,
'O throne of the LORD:' [nations,
And gathered unto her hath been all the
For the name of the LORD, to Jerusalem,
Nor do they go any more
After the stubbornness of their evil heart.
- 18 In those days the house of Judah
Go unto the house of Israel,
And they come together
From the land of the south, unto the land
Which I caused your fathers to inherit.
- 19 And I have said, How do I put thee
Among the children,
And give to thee a desirable land,
The beauteous inheritance
Of the hosts of the nations;
And I say, My father—ye do call to Me,
And from after Me ye turn not back.
- 20 But a woman hath deceived her friend,
So have ye dealt treacherously with Me,
O house of Israel, affirmeth the LORD.
- 21 A voice on high places is heard—weeping,
The supplications of the children of Israel:
For they have made perverse their way,
They have forgotten the LORD their God.
- 22 Turn back, O backsliding children,
I cause your backslidings to cease.
—Behold us, we have come to Thee,
For Thou art the LORD our God.
- 23 Surely in vain from the hills,
The multitude of mountains;
Surely in the LORD our God
Is the salvation of Israel.
- 24 And the shameful thing hath devoured
The labour of our fathers from our youth:
Their flock and their herd,
Their sons and their daughters.
- 25 We have lain down in our shame,
And our confusion doth cover us:
For against the LORD our God we have
We, and our fathers, [sinned,
From our youth even unto this day,
Nor have we hearkened
To the voice of the LORD our God.'
- IV. 'IF thou turnest back, O Israel,
Affirmeth the LORD, unto Me turn back;
And if thou turnest aside
Thine abominations from My face,
Then thou dost not bemoan:
2 And hast sworn, The LORD liveth,
In truth, in judgment, and righteousness;
And blessed themselves in Him have na-
And in Him they boast themselves. [tions,
- 3 For thus hath the LORD said
To the men of Judah, and to Jerusalem,
Till for yourselves tillage,
And sow not unto the thorns.
- 4 Be circumcised to the LORD,
And turn aside the foreskin of your heart,
O men of Judah,
And ye inhabitants of Jerusalem;
Lest My fury go out as fire, and hath
And there be none quenching, [burned,
Because of the evil of your doings.
- 5 Declare in Judah, and in Jerusalem sound,
And say, 'Blow a trumpet in the land:'
Call ye fully, and say,
'Be gathered, and we go into the fenced
6 Lift up an ensign toward Zion: [city.'
Strengthen yourselves, stand not still:
For evil I am bringing in from the north,
Even a great destruction.
- 7 A lion hath gone up from his thicket,
A destroyer of nations hath journeyed;
He hath come out from his place
To make thy land become a desolation:
Thy cities are laid waste—without inha-
8 For this, gird on sackcloth, [bitant.
Lament and howl;
For the fierce anger of the LORD
Turneth not back from us.
- 9 And it hath come to pass, in that day,
Affirmeth the LORD:
'Perish doth the heart of the king,
And the heart of the princes;
And the priests have been astonished,
And the prophets wonder.'
- 10 And I say, 'Ah, Lord Jehovah,
Surely thou hast entirely forgotten
This people and Jerusalem, saying:
Peace is for you,
And a sword hath struck unto the soul!'
- 11 At that time it is said of this people,
And of Jerusalem, [derness:'
'A dry wind of high places is in the wil-
(The way of the daughter of My people.)
Not for winnowing, nor for cleansing.
- 12 A full wind from these cometh for Me:
Now, also, I speak judgments with them.
- 13 Lo, as clouds he cometh up,
And as a hurricane his chariots:
Lighter than eagles have been his horses:
Wo to us, for we have been spoiled.
- 14 Wash from evil thy heart, O Jerusalem,
That thou mayest be saved:
Till hast thou lodge in thy heart
Thoughts of thy strength?
- 15 For a voice is declaring from Dan,

- And sounding sorrow from mount Ephraim.
 16 Make ye mention to the nations: (raim.
 Lo, sound ye to Jerusalem:
 'Besiegers are coming from a land afar off:
 (Judah their voice.
 And they give forth against the cities of 17 As the keepers of a field
 They have been against her round about;
 For against Me she hath rebelled,
 Affirmeth the LORD.' [to thee:
 18 Thy way and thy doings have done these
 This is thy vexation, for it is bitter,
 For it hath struck unto thy heart.
 19 My bowels, my bowels!
 I am pained at the walls of my heart;
 My heart maketh a noise for me;
 I am not silent,
 For the voice of a trumpet I have heard,
 O my soul—the shout of battle!
 20 Destruction on destruction is proclaimed,
 For all the land hath been spoiled:
 Suddenly spoiled have been my tents;
 In a moment—my curtains.
 21 Till when do I see an ensign?
 Do I hear the voice of a trumpet?
 22 For my people are foolish,
 Me they have not known;
 Foolish children are they;
 Yea, they are not intelligent:
 Wise are they to do evil,
 But to do good they have not known.
 23 I looked to the land, and lo—utterly void;
 And to the heavens—and their light is not.
 24 I have looked to the mountains,
 And lo, they are trembling;
 And all the hills moved themselves lightly.
 25 I have looked, and lo, man is not:
 And all the fowl of the heavens have fled.
 26 I have looked, and lo,
 The fruitful place is the wilderness,
 And all its cities have been broken down,
 Because of the LORD,
 Because of the fierceness of His anger.
 27 For thus hath the LORD said:
 All the land is a desolation:
 But a completion I make not.
 28 For this doth the land mourn,
 And black have been the heavens above,
 Because I have spoken—I have purposed:
 And I have not repented,
 Nor do I turn back from it.
 29 From the voice of the horsemen,
 And those who shoot with the bow,
 All the city is fleeing:
 They have come into thickets,
 And on the cliffs have gone up:
 All the city is forsaken,
 And there is no man dwelling in them.
 30 And thou, O spoiled one, what dost thou?
 For thou puttest on scarlet, [of gold.
 For thou adornest thyself with ornaments
 For thou rendest with paint thine eyes;
 In vain thou makest thyself fair:
 Kicked against thee have doting ones,
 Thy life they seek.
 31 For a voice as of a sick woman I heard;
 Distress, as one bringing forth a first-born,
 The voice of the daughter of Zion:
 She bewileth herself,
 She spreadeth out her hands: [slayera.
 'Wo to me now, for my soul is weary of

 If there be one doing judgment, [man,
 Seeking stedfastness—
 Then am I propitious to her.
 2 And if they say, 'The LORD liveth,'
 Surely to a falsehood they swear.
 3 LORD, Thine eyes, are they not on sted-
 Thou hast smitten them, [fastness?
 And they have not grieved:
 Thou hast consumed them,
 They have refused to receive instruction:
 They made their faces harder than a rock;
 They have refused to turn back.
 4 And I said, 'Surely they are the poor;
 They have been foolish;
 For they have not known the way of the
 The judgment of their God. [LORD,
 5 I get me to the great, and speak with them;
 For they have known the way of the
 The judgment of their God.' [LORD,
 Surely they together broke the yoke,
 They have drawn away the bands.
 6 Therefore smitten them hath a lion out of the forest,
 A wolf of the deserts doth spoil them;
 A leopard is watching over their cities:
 Every one who goeth out of them is torn;
 For many have been their transgressions;
 Mighty have been their backslidings.
 7 For this I am not propitious to thee:
 Thy children have forsaken Me,
 And are satisfied by that which is no god:
 I satisfy them, and they commit adultery,
 And at the house of a harlot
 They gather themselves together.
 8 Fed horses—they have been early risers;
 Each to the wife of his neighbour neigheth.
 9 For these do I not lay a charge?
 Affirmeth the LORD;
 Yea, on a nation such as this,
 Doth not My soul avenge itself?
 10 Go ye up on her walls, and destroy;
 But a completion make not:
 Turn aside her branches,
 For they are not the LORD'S.
 11 For dealt treacherously against Me

 And the house of Judah, affirmeth the

 And say, 'It is not He:
 Nor come against us doth evil;
 Yea, sword or famine we see not.
 13 And the prophets become wind,
 And the word is not in them.'
 Thus it is done by them. [Hosts,
 14 Therefore, thus said the LORD, God of
 Because of your speaking this word,
 Lo, I am making My words
 In thy mouth become fire,
 And this people wood,
 And it hath devoured them.
 15 Lo, I bring against you a nation from afar,
 O house of Israel, affirmeth the LORD;
 A nation—strong it is,
 A nation—from of old it is,
 A nation—thou knowest not its tongue,
 Nor understandest what it speaketh.
 16 Its quiver is as an open sepulchre,
 All of them mighty ones.

17 And it hath consumed thy harvest and
 They consume thy sons, [thy bread;
 And thy daughters:
 It consumeth thy flock and thy herd:
 It consumeth thy vine and thy fig-tree:
 It maketh poor thy fenced cities,
 In which thou art trusting—by the sword.
 18 Yet even in those days, affirmeth the

 O people, foolish and without heart:

 25 Your iniquities have turned these away,
 And your sins have kept good from you.
 26 For the wicked have been found
 Among My people.
 It looketh about the covering of snares:
 They have set up a trap—men they capture.
 27 As a cage full of fowls,
 So their houses are full of deceit:
 Therefore they have been great and rich.
 28 They have been fat, they have shone:
 Yea, have overpassed the acts of the evil:
 Judgment they have not judged,
 The judgment of the fatherless,
 Yet they prosper: [judged.
 The judgment of the needy have not

 On a nation such as this, [LORD:
 Doth not My soul avenge itself?
 30 An astonishing and horrible thing
 Hath been in the land:
 31 The prophets have prophesied falsely,
 And the priests bear rule by their means:
 And My people have loved it so:
 But what do they at its latter end?
 VI. 'STRENGTHEN yourselves,
 Ye children of Benjamin,
 From the midst of Jerusalem.
 And in Tekoa blow ye a trumpet,
 And over Beth-Haccerem lift up a flame:
 For evil hath been seen from the north,
 Even great destruction.
 2 The comely and delicate one

I have cut off—the daughter of Zion.
 3 Unto her come shepherds and their droves:
 They have stricken tents
 By her round about:
 They have fed each in his own station.
 4 Sanctify against her the battle;
 'Rise, and we go up at noon.'
 Wo to us, for turned hath the day,
 For stretched out are the shades of even.
 5 'Arise, and we go up by night,
 And we destroy her palaces.'
 6 For thus hath the LORD of Hosts said:
 Cut down her wood,
 And pour out against Jerusalem a mount:
 She is the city to be inspected;
 Wholly she is oppression in her midst.
 7 As the digging of a well is for its waters,
 So she hath digged for her wickedness:
 Violence and spoil is heard in her;
 Before My face are sickness
 And smiting continually.
 8 Be thou instructed, O Jerusalem,
 Lest My soul be alienated from thee:
 Lest I make thee a desolation,
 A land not inhabited.
 9 Thus hath the LORD of Hosts said:
 They surely glean, as a vine,
 The remnant of Israel:
 Put back thy hand,
 As a gatherer to the baskets.
 10 To whom shall I speak,
 And testify that they may hear?
 Lo, their ear is uncircumcised,
 And they are unable to attend:
 Lo, the word of the LORD
 Hath been to them for a reproach;
 They delight not in it. [been filled.
 11 And with the fury of the LORD I have
 (I have been weary of containing.)
 To pour it on the suckling in the street.
 And on the assembly of youths together:
 For even husband with wife is captured,
 An elder with one full of days;
 12 And their houses have been turned to Fields and wives together: [others,
 For I stretch out My hand
 Against the inhabitants of the land,
 Affirmeth the LORD.
 13 For from their least unto their greatest,
 Every one gaineth dishonest gain;
 And from prophet even unto priest,
 Every one dealeth falsely.

 Saying, 'Peace, peace!' and there is no

 15 They were ashamed when they did abomi-
 Yea, they are not at all ashamed,
 Yea, blushing they have not known:
 Therefore they fall among those who fall:
 By the time I have inspected them,
 They stumble, said the LORD.
 16 Thus hath the LORD said:
 Stand ye by the ways and see,
 And ask for the old paths,
 Where is this—the good way? and go ye
 And find rest for yourselves. [in it,
 But they say, 'We will not go.'
 17 And I have raised up for you watchmen:
 Attend ye to the voice of the trumpet,
 But they say, 'We will not attend.'

- ¹⁸ Therefore hear, O nations, and know, O
That which is upon them. [company,
¹⁹ Hear, O earth: lo, I bring in evil on this
The fruit of their own devices, [people,
For to My words they gave no attention,
And My law—they have kicked against it.
²⁰ Why is this to Me?
Frankincense from Sheba cometh,
And sweet cane from a land afar off:
Your burnt-offerings are not for accept-
And your sacrifices [ance,
Have not been sweet to Me.
²¹ Therefore, thus hath the LORD said,
Lo, I giving to this people stumbling
And stumbled against them [blocks,
Have fathers and children together;
The neighbour and his friend do perish.
²² Thus hath the LORD said,
Lo, a people cometh from the north coun-
And a great nation is stirred up [try,
From the sides of the earth.
²³ Bow and javelin they take hold of;
Pierce it is, and they have no mercy:
Their voice as a sea soundeth,
And on horses they ride,
Set in array as men of war,
Against thee, O daughter of Zion.
²⁴ We have heard its sound:
Feeble have been our hands:
Distress hath seized us,
Pain as of a travelling woman.
²⁵ Go not out to the field,
Yea, in the way walk not:
For a sword hath the enemy,
Fear is round about.
²⁶ O daughter of My people,
Gird on sackcloth, and roll thyself in ashes:
The mourning of an only one make for
A lamentation most bitter: [thyself,
For suddenly come
Doth the spoiler against us.
²⁷ A watch-tower I have given thee,
Among My people a fortress, [way,
And thou knowest, and hast tried their
²⁸ All of them are turned aside by apostates,
Walking slanderously—brass and iron;
All of them are corrupters.
²⁹ The bellows have been burnt,
By fire hath the lead been consumed;
In vain hath the refiner refined:
The wicked have not been drawn away.
³⁰ 'Silver rejected,' they have cried to them,
For the LORD hath kicked against them.

VII. ¹THE word which was unto Jeremiah from the LORD, saying, ²'Stand in the gate of the house of the LORD, then hast thou proclaimed there this word, and hast said, Hear the word of the LORD, all ye of Judah, who come in at these gates, to bow before the LORD.

- ³ Thus said the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel,
Amend your ways, and your doings,
And I cause you to dwell in this place.
⁴ Trust not for yourselves
Unto words of falsehood, saying,
The temple of the LORD,
The temple of the LORD,
The temple of the LORD are they.
⁵ For, if ye thoroughly amend your ways
And your doings;

- If ye do judgment thoroughly
Between a man and his neighbour; [not,
⁶ Stranger, fatherless, and widow, oppress
And innocent blood shed not in this place,
And after other gods walk not,
For evil to yourselves: [place,
⁷ Then have I caused you to dwell in this
In the land which I gave to your fathers,
Even from age unto age.
⁸ Lo, ye are trusting for yourselves
On words of falsehood, so as not to profit.
⁹ Stealing, murdering, and committing adul-
And swearing to falsehood, [tery,
And giving perfume to Baal,
Going after other gods whom ye knew not.
¹⁰ And have come in and stood before Me,
In this house on which My name is called,
And have said, 'We have been delivered,'
In order to do all these abominations.
¹¹ A den of burglars hath this house,
On which My name is called,
Been in your eyes?
Even I, lo, I have seen, affirmeth the LORD.
¹² But go ye, I pray you,
Unto My place which is in Shiloh,
Where I caused My name to dwell at first,
And see that which I have done to it,
For the wickedness of My people Israel.
¹³ And now, because of your doing
All these works, affirmeth the LORD,
And I speak unto you, rising early and
But ye have not hearkened: [speaking,
And I called you, but ye answered not:
¹⁴ I also to the house on which My name is
In which ye are trusting, [called,
And to the place which I gave to you,
And to your fathers,
Have done, as I have done to Shiloh.
¹⁵ And I have cast you from before My face,
As I cast out all your brethren,
The whole seed of Ephraim.
¹⁶ And thou shalt not pray for this people,
Nor lift up for them crying or prayer,
Nor intercede with Me:
For I hear thee not.
¹⁷ Dost thou not see what they are doing
In the cities of Judah,
And in the streets of Jerusalem?
¹⁸ The children are gathering wood,
And the fathers causing the fire to burn,
And the women kneading dough,
To make cakes to the queen of heaven:
And pouring out libations to other gods,
So as to provoke Me to anger.
¹⁹ Me do they provoke to anger? affirmeth
Is it not themselves, [the LORD:
For the shame of their own faces?
²⁰ Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, Mine anger and My fury
Is poured out on this place, [the field,
On man, and on beast, and on the tree of
And on the fruit of the ground;
And it hath burned, and is not quenched.
²¹ Thus said the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel:
Your burnt-offerings add to your sacri-
And eat ye flesh. [fices,
²² For I spake not with your fathers, Nor commanded them in the day of My bringing them out of the land of Egypt, Concerning the matters of burnt-offering and sacrifice:

23 But this thing commanded I them, say—
‘Hearken to My voice, [ing,
And I have become your God,
And ye are become My people:
And have walked in all the way which I
That it may be well for you.’ [command you,
21 But they have not hearkened,
Nor inclined their ear,
And they walk in the counsels,
In the stubbornness, of their evil heart:
And are for another, not for the Presence.
22 Even from the day when your fathers
Went out of the land of Egypt till this day,
I send to you all my servants the prophets,
Daily rising early and sending:
23 Yet they have not hearkened unto Me,
Nor inclined their ear,
But harden their neck:
They have done evil above their fathers.
24 And thou hast spoken unto them all these
And they do not hearken to thee: [words,
And thou hast called unto them,
And they answer thee not.
25 And thou hast said unto them:
This is the nation which hearkened not
To the voice of the LORD its God,
Nor have they accepted instruction:
Stedfastness hath perished,
Yea, it hath been cut off from their mouth.
26 Cut off thy crown, and cast it away.
And lift up on high places lamentation;
For the LORD hath rejected,
He leaveth the generation of II’s wrath.
27 For the Children of Judah
Have done the evil thing in Mine eyes,
Affirmeth the LORD: [house
They have set their abominations in the
On which My name is called—to defile it;
28 And built the high places of Tophet, [nom,
Which is in the valley of the son of Hin-
To burn their sons and daughters with fire;
Which I commanded not,
Nor did it come up on My heart.
29 Therefore, lo, days are coming,
Affirmeth the LORD:
And it is not said any more, ‘Tophet,’
Or ‘Valley of the son of Hinnom:’
But ‘The valley of slaughter:’
And they have buried in Tophet—without place. [for food
30 And the carcase of this people hath been
To the fowl of the heavens,
And to the beast of the earth;
And there is none troubling.
31 And I have caused to cease from the cities of Judah,
And from the streets of Jerusalem,
The voice of joy, and the voice of gladness,
Voice of bridegroom, and voice of bride:
For the land becometh a desolation.
VIII. 1 AT that time, affirmeth the LORD,
They bring the bones of the kings of Judah,
And the bones of its princes,
And the bones of the priests,
And the bones of the prophets,
And the bones of the inhabitants of Jerusalem, out of their graves:
2 And they have spread them to the sun,
And to the moon,
And to all the host of the heavens,
Which they have loved,

And which they have served,
And which they have walked after,
And which they have sought,
And to which they bowed themselves:
They are not gathered, nor buried;
They are dung on the face of the ground.
3 And chosen is death rather than life
By all the remnant who are left
Of this evil family,
In all the remaining places,
Whither I have driven them,
Affirmeth the LORD of Hosts.
4 And thou hast said unto them,
‘Thus hath the LORD said:
Do they fall, and not arise?
Doth he turn back, and not return?’
5 Wherefore hath this people of Jerusalem
Turned back—a perpetual backsliding?
They have kept hold on deceit,
They have refused to turn back.
6 I have given attention, yea, I hearken,
They speak not right:
No man hath repented of his wickedness,
Saying, ‘What have I done?’
Every one turneth back to their courses,
As a horse rusheth into battle.
7 Even a stork in the heavens
Hath known her seasons:
And turtle, and swallow, and crane,
Have watched the time of their coming:
But My people have not known
The judgment of the LORD.
8 How say ye, ‘We are wise,
And the law of the LORD is with us:’
Surely, lo, falsely it hath worked,
The false pen of scribes:
9 The wise have been ashamed;
They have been affrighted, and are captured: [kicked
Lo, against the word of the LORD they
And the wisdom of what have they?
10 Therefore, I give their wives to others,
Their fields to the dispossessors:
For from the least even unto the greatest,
Every one gaineth dishonest gain;
From prophet even unto priest,
Every one dealeth falsely.

For the LORD our God hath made us

Yea, He causeth us to drink water of gall.
For we have sinned against the LORD.
15 Looking for peace—and there is no good:
For a time of healing, and lo, terror.

From the voice of the neighing of his

And they come in and consume the land and its fulness,
The city and the inhabitants in it.
- 17 For lo, I am sending among you serpents,
Cockatrices which have no charmer,
And they have bitten you, affirmeth the
My refreshment for me is sorrow; [LORD.
For me my heart is sick.
- 18 Lo, the voice of the cry of the daughter
From a land afar off: [of my people
Is the LORD not in Zion?
Is her king not in her?
Wherefore have they provoked me,
With their graven images,
With the vanities of a foreigner?
- 19 Harvest hath passed, summer hath ended,
And we—have not been saved.
- 20 For the breach of the daughter of my

I have been black;
Astonishment hath seized me.
- 21 Is there no balm in Gilead?
Is there no physician there?
For wherefore hath not the health of the daughter of my people gone up?
- IX. 1 WHO will make my head waters,
And mine eye a fountain of tears?
And I weep by day and by night, [people.
With the wounded of the daughter of my
2 Who will give me in the wilderness
A lodging-place of travellers?
And I leave my people, and go from them:
For all of them are adulterers,
An assembly of treacherous ones.
- 3 And they bend their tongue; their bow is
And not for steadfastness [a lie:
Have they been mighty in the land:
For from evil to evil they have gone forth,
And Me they have not known,
Affirmeth the LORD.
- 4 Each of his friend—beware ye,
And on any brother trust ye not:
For every brother utterly supplanted,
And every friend walketh slanderously.
- 5 And each at his friend mocketh,
And truth they speak not: [hood:
They taught their tongue to speak false-
To commit iniquity they have laboured.
- 6 Thy dwelling is in the midst of deceit;
Through deceit they refused to know Me,
Affirmeth the LORD.
- 7 Therefore, thus said the LORD of Hosts:
Lo, I refine them, yea, I have tried them;
But how shall I do
Because of the daughter of my people?
- 8 A slaughtering arrow is their tongue;
Deceit it hath spoken in its mouth;
Peace with its neighbour it speaketh;
And in its heart it layeth its ambush.
- 9 For these do not I see after them?
Affirmeth the LORD:
Against a nation such as this
Doth not My soul avenge itself?
- 10 For the mountains I lift up
Weeping and wailing: [a lamentation:
And for the habitations of the wilderness
For they have been burnt up,

- Without any passing over:
Nor have they heard the voice of cattle;
From the fowl of the heavens
To the beasts they fled; they have gone.

A habitation of dragons;
And the cities of Judah I make a desola-

- 12 Who is the wise man?
And he understandeth this;
Or he to whom the mouth of the LORD
And he declareth it; [spake?
Wherefore hath the land perished?
It hath been burnt up as a wilderness,
Without any passing through.
- 13 And the LORD saith:
Because of their forsaking My law
Which I have set before them,
Yea, they hearkened not to My voice,
Nor walked in it;
- 14 And they walk after the stubbornness of
And after the Baulim, [their heart,
Which their fathers taught them,

God of Israel, [eat wormwood:

Till I have consumed them.
- 17 Thus hath the LORD of Hosts said:
Consider, and call for mourning women,
And they come;
To the wise women send, and they come:
- 18 And they hasten,
And lift up for us a wailing,
And tears run down our eyes,
And from our eyelids waters flow.
- 19 For—a voice of wailing
Hath been heard from Zion:
How have we been spoiled;
We have been greatly ashamed;
For they have forsaken the land,
For they have cast down our tabernacles.
- 20 But hear, O women, the word of the LORD,
And your ear receiveth
The word of His mouth,
And teach ye your daughters wailing,
And each her neighbour lamentation:
- 21 For death hath come up into our windows,
It hath come into our palaces,
To cut off the suckling from without,
Young men from the broad places.
- 22 Speak, thus affirmeth the LORD:
Yea the carcase of man
Hath fallen as dung on the face of the
And as a handful after the reaper, [field,
And there is none gathering.
- 23 Thus hath the LORD said:
Let not the wise boast himself in his wis-
Nor let the mighty [dom;
Boast himself in his might:
Let not the rich boast himself in his riches.
- 24 But in this let the boaster boast himself,
In understanding and knowing Me,
For I am the LORD, doing kindness,
Judgment, and righteousness in the earth;
For in these I have delighted,
Affirmeth the LORD.
- 25 Lo, days are coming, affirmeth the LORD,

- And I have laid a charge
On all the circumcised with the foreskin;
20 On Egypt, and on Judah, and on Edom,
And on the children of Ammon and Moab,
And on all who cut the corner of the beard,
Who dwell in the wilderness;
For all the nations are uncircumcised,
And all the house of Israel
Are uncircumcised in heart.
- X. ¹ HEAR ye the word, O house of Israel,
Which the LORD hath spoken for you.
2 Thus hath the LORD said,
Unto the way of the nations accustom
not yourselves, [ed:
And by the signs of heaven be not affright-
For the nations are affrighted by them.
3 For the statutes of the peoples are vanity:
For a tree from a forest hath one cut,
The work of the hands of an artificer,
with an axe: [it,
4 With silver and with gold they beautify
With nails and with hammers fix them,
And it stumbleth not.
5 As a palm they are stiff, but speak not:
They are surely borne, for they step not:
Be not afraid of them, for they do no evil,
Yea, even to do good is not in them.
6 Because there is none like Thee, O LORD:
Great art Thou, and great is Thy name in might.
7 Who doth not fear Thee, O king of nations?
For to Thee it is becoming:
For among all the wise of the nations,
And in all their kingdoms,
There is none like Thee.
8 In one thing they are brutish and foolish:
An instruction of vanities is the tree itself.
9 Spread-out silver from Tarshish is brought,
And gold from Ophaz,
The work of an artisan,
And of the hands of a refiner:
Blue and purple is their clothing:
The work of the skilful—all of them.
10 But the LORD is a God of truth,
He is the living God, an everlasting king:
From His wrath shake doth the earth,
And nations endure not His indignation.
11 Thus do ye say to them: 'The gods
Who have not made the heavens and earth,
They perish from the earth,
And from under these heavens.'
12 The maker of the earth by His power,
The establisher of the world by His wisdom, by His understanding, [dom,
Hath stretched out the heavens:
13 At the voice He giveth forth,
A multitude of waters is in the heavens,
And He causeth vapours to come up
From the end of the earth:
Lightnings for rain He hath made,
And bringeth out wind from His treasures.
14 Brutish is every man by knowledge:
Put to shame is every refiner
By a graven image:
For false is his molten image,
And there is no breath in them.
15 Vanity are they, the work of erring ones:
In the time of their inspection they perish.
16 Not like these is the Portion of Jacob:
For He is framer of all:
And Israel is the rod of His inheritance:

- The LORD of Hosts is His name.
17 Gather from the land thy merchandise,
O dweller in the bulwark;
18 For thus hath the LORD said:
Lo, I am slinging out the inhabitants
Of the land at this time,
Yea, I have been an adversary to them,
So that they are found out.
19 Wo to me for my breach,
My smiting hath been grievous:
And I said, 'Only, this is my sickness,
And I will bear it.
20 My tent hath been spoiled,
And all my cords have been broken:
My children have gone out from me,
And they are not;
There is none stretching out any more
Or raising up my curtains. [my tent,
21 For the shepherds have become brutish,
And the LORD they have not sought:
Therefore they have not acted wisely,
And all their flock is scattered.
22 A voice of a report, lo, it hath come,
Even a great shaking
From the north country,
To make the cities of Judah a desolation,
A habitation of dragons.
23 I have known, O LORD,
That not of man is his way, [his step,
Not of man the going or establishing of 24 Chastise me, O LORD, only in judgment;
Not in Thine anger,
Lest Thou make me small.
25 To pour out Thy fury on the nations
That have not known Thee,
And on the families
That have not called on Thy name:
For they have eaten up Jacob,
Yea, they have eaten him up,
Yea, they consume him.
And his habitation have made desolate.'
- XI. ¹ THE word which hath been unto Jeremiah from the LORD, saying, ² Hear ye the words of this covenant, then have ye spoken unto the men of Judah, and unto the inhabitants of Jerusalem, ³ and thou hast said unto them, Thus hath the LORD
God of Israel said:
Cursed is the man who obeyeth not
The words of this covenant.
4 Which I commanded your fathers,
In the day of My bringing them out
From the land of Egypt.
Out of the iron furnace, saying, [them,
Hearken to My voice, then have ye done
According to all that I command you:
And ye have become My people,
And I am become your God;
5 In order to establish the oath
Which I have sworn to your fathers,
To give to them a land
Flowing with milk and honey, as this day.
And I answer and say, 'Amen, O LORD.'
6 And the LORD saith unto me, 'Proclaim all these words in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, saying:
Hear ye the words of this covenant.
Then have ye done them. [fathers,
7 For I have certainly testified against your
In the day of My bringing them up
Out of the land of Egypt—till this day,

Rising early and testifying,
Saying, Hearken ye to My voice;
But they have not obeyed,
Nor inclined their ear,
And walk each in the stubbornness
Of their evil heart: [covenant,
And I bring on them all the words of this
Which I commanded to do; but they did
And the Lord saith unto me, [not.
A conspiracy is found in the men of Judah,
And in the inhabitants of Jerusalem.
They have turned back
To the iniquities of their forefathers,
Who refused to hear My words,
And have gone after other gods to serve
The house of Israel, [them:
And the house of Judah,
Have made void My covenant,
Which I made with their fathers.
Therefore, thus hath the Lord said:
Lo, I am bringing in on them evil,
Which they are not able to go out from;
And they have cried unto Me,
But I hearken not unto them.
And the cities of Judah,
And inhabitants of Jerusalem have gone,
And cried unto the gods
To whom they make perfume:
But they give no deliverance at all to them
In the time of their vexation.
For—the number of thy cities
Have been thy gods, O Judah: [salem
And—the number of the streets of Jeru-
Ye have placed altars to a shameful thing,
Altars for making perfume to Baal.
And thou shalt not pray for this people,
Nor lift up for them cry or prayer:
For I hearken not in the time of their calling unto Me for their vexation.
What—to My beloved in My house,
Her doing wickedness with many,
That the holy flesh pass over from thee?
When thou dost evil, then thou exultest.
An olive, green, fair, of goodly fruit,
Hath the Lord called thy name;
At the noise of a great tumult
He hath kindled fire against it,
And broken have been its thin shoots.
The Lord of Hosts, who planteth thee,
Hath spoken evil concerning thee,
For the evil of the house of Israel,
And of the house of Judah,
Which they have done to themselves,
Provoking Me to anger,
Making perfume to Baal.
Lord, cause me to know, and I do know:
Then hast Thou shewed me their doings.
And I am as a trained lamb brought to
And have not known [the slaughter;
That against me they devised devices:
Let us destroy the tree with its food,
And let us cut him off
From the land of the living,
And his name is not remembered again.
Lord of Hosts, judging righteousness,
Trying reins and heart,
I see Thy vengeance against them;
For unto Thee have I revealed my cause.
Therefore, thus hath the Lord said
Concerning the men of Anathoth,
Who are seeking thy life, saying,

Prophecy not in the name of the Lord,
And thou diest not by our hands:
Therefore, thus said the Lord of Hosts,
Lo, I am seeing after them:
The chosen ones die by sword;
Their sons and daughters die by famine.
And they have no remnant:
For I bring evil to the men of Anathoth,
The year of their inspection.
XII. 1 RIGHTEOUS art Thou, O Lord
When I plead towards thee:
Only, judgments do I speak with Thee:
Wherefore hath the way of the wicked prospered?
At rest have been all treacherous dealers.
Thou hast planted them,
Yea, they have taken root:
They go on, yea, they have yielded fruit:
Near art Thou in their mouth,
And far off from their reins.
And Thou, O Lord, hast known me:
Thou seest me, and hast tried my heart
with Thyself:
Draw them away as sheep to slaughter:
Yea, separate them for a day of slaughter.
Till when doth the earth mourn?
And the herb of the whole field wither,
Because of the wickedness of those who dwell in it?
Consumed have been beast and fowl,
Because they have said,
He seeth not our latter end.
For—with footmen thou hast run,
And they weary thee:
How dost thou fret thyself with horses!
Even in the land of peace,
In which thou art confident—
How dost thou in the rising of Jordan!
For even thy brethren and the house of thy father, [thee:
Even they dealt treacherously against
Even they—the called after thee loudly:
Trust not in them, when they speak unto thee good things.
I have forsaken My house,
I have left Mine inheritance,
I have given the beloved of My soul
Into the hand of her enemies.
Mine inheritance hath been to Me
As a lion in a forest;
She gave forth against Me with her voice,
Therefore have I hated her.
A speckled fowl is Mine inheritance to Me?
Are the fowls round about against her?
Come, assemble, every beast of the field:
Come ye for food. [yard:
Many shepherds have destroyed My vine-
They have trodden down My portion;
They have made My desirable portion
Become a wilderness—a desolation.
He hath made it become a desolation,
The desolation hath mourned unto Me:
Desolated hath been all the land,
But there is no man laying it to heart.
On all high places in the plain
Have spoilers come in:
For the sword of the Lord is consuming,
From the end of the land
Even unto the end of the land,
There is no peace to any flesh.
They have sown wheat, but thorns reaped:

They have become sick—they profit not:
And they have been ashamed of your increase, [the LORD.]

Because of the fierceness of the anger of 14 Thus hath the LORD said concerning all my evil neighbours, who strike against the inheritance, which I have caused My people
—Israel—to inherit:

Lo, I pluck them from off their ground,
And the house of Judah I pluck out of their midst. [ing them out,

15 And it hath come to pass, after My pluck-
I turn back, and have pitied them,
And brought them back,
Each to his inheritance, and each to his

16 And it hath come to pass, [land,
If they learn well the ways of My people,
To swear by My name, 'The LORD liveth,'
As they taught My people to swear by Baal,

Then have they been built up in the midst

17 And if they hearken not, [of My people.
Then have I plucked up that nation;
Plucking up and destroying,
Affirmeth the LORD.]

XIII. 1 THUS hath the LORD said unto me, 'Go, then hast thou got for thyself a girdle of linen, and hast placed it on thy loins, and into water thou dost not cause it to enter.' 2 And I get the girdle, according to the word of the LORD, and place it on my loins.

3 And the word of the LORD is unto me a second time, saying, 4 'Take the girdle which thou hast got, which is on thy loins, and rise, go to Phrat, and hide it there in a hole of the rock.' 5 And I go and hide it in Phrat, as the LORD commanded me.

6 And it cometh to pass, at the end of many days, that the LORD saith unto me,
'Rise, go to Phrat, and take from thence the girdle, which I commanded thee to hide there.' 7 And I go to Phrat, and dig, and take the girdle from the place where I had hid it; and lo, the girdle hath been marred, it is not profitable for anything.

8 And the word of the LORD is unto me,
saying, 'Thus hath the LORD said:

9 Thus do I mar the excellency of Judah,
And the great excellency of Jerusalem.

10 This evil people, who refuse to hear My words, [heart,

Who walk in the stubbornness of their
And go after other gods to serve them,
And to bow themselves to them;

Yea—it is as this girdle,
Which is not profitable for anything.

11 For as the girdle cleaveth unto the loins
So I caused to cleave unto Me [of a man,
The whole house of Israel, [the LORD:
And the whole house of Judah, affirmeth
To be to Me for a people, and for a name,
And for a praise, and for beauty:
But they have not hearkened.

12 And thou hast said unto them this word:
Thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said:

'Every bottle is full of wine.'
And they have said unto thee,
'Do we not certainly know

'That every bottle is full of wine?'

13 And thou hast said unto them,

1 Thus hath the LORD said:

Lo, I fill all the inhabitants of this land,
And the kings who sit for David on his
And the priests, and the prophets, [throne,
And all the inhabitants of Jerusalem,
With drunkenness, [other,

14 And I have dashed them one against an-
The fathers and the children together,
Affirmeth the LORD:

I pity not, nor spare, nor have mercy,
So as not to destroy them.

15 Hear, and give ear; be not haughty:
For the LORD hath spoken.

16 Give to the LORD your God honour,
Before He cause darkness, [mountains,
And before your feet stumble on the dark

And ye have waited for light,
And he hath made it for deathshade,
And hath appointed it for thick darkness.

17 But if ye hear it not,
In secret places doth my soul weep, be-
Yea, it weepeth sore, [cause of pride:

And tears come down mine eyes,
For the flock of the LORD
Hath been taken captive.

18 Say to the king and to the mistress:
Make yourselves low; sit still:

For come down hath your principalities,
The crown of your beauty.

19 The cities of the south have been shut up,
And there is none opening:
Judah hath been removed, all of her;

She hath been completely removed.

20 Lift up your eyes, and see those who are coming in from the north:

Where is the drove given to thee,
Thy beautiful flock? [after thee?

21 What dost thou say, when He looketh
Seeing thou hast taught them
To be over thee—leaders for head?

Do not pangs seize thee
As a travailing woman?

22 And when thou sayest in thy heart,
'Wherefore have these met me?'

For the abundance of thine iniquity
Have thy skirts been uncovered,
Thy heels suffered violence.

23 Doth a Cushite change his skin?
Or a leopard his spots?

Ye also may be able to do good,
Who are accustomed to do evil.

24 And I scatter them as stubble,
Passing away, by a wind of the wilderness.

25 This is thy lot, the portion
Of thy measures from Me, affirmeth the
Because thou hast forgotten Me, [LORD,
And dost trust in falsehood.

26 And I also have made bare
Thy skirts before thy face,
And thy shame hath been seen.

27 Thine adulteries, and thy neighings,
The wickedness of thy whoredom,
On heights in the field:

I have seen thine abominations.
Wo to thee, O Jerusalem,

Thou art not cleansed; when is it again?

XIV. 1 THAT which hath been the word of the LORD unto Jeremiah concerning the matters of the deaths:

2 Mourned hath Judah,
And her gates have languished;

They have mourned to the earth;
 And the cry of Jerusalem hath gone up.
³ And their honourable ones
 Have sent their little ones to the waters:
 They have come unto ditches,
 They have found no waters:
 They turned back—their vessels empty:
 They have been ashamed,
 And have blushed, and covered their head.
⁴ Because the ground hath been broken,
 For there hath been no rain on the land;
 Ashamed have been husbandmen,
 They have covered their head.
⁵ For even the hind in the field
 Hath brought forth—to forsake it,
 For there hath been no grass.
⁶ And wild asses have stood on high places,
 They swallowed up wind like dragons;
 Consumed hath been their eyes,
 For there is no herb.
⁷ Surely our iniquities have testified against
 O LORD, work for Thy name's sake: [us,
 For many have been our backslidings;
 Against Thee we have sinned.
⁸ O Hope of Israel—its saviour,
 In time of trouble,
 Why art Thou as a sojourner in the land?
 And as a traveller turned aside to lodge?
 Why art Thou as one dumb?
 As a mighty one unable to save?
 And Thou in our midst, O LORD,
 Thy name over us is called; leave us not.
¹⁰ Thus hath the LORD said concerning this people:
 Well have they loved to wander,
 Their feet they have not restrained:
 And the LORD hath not accepted them:
 Now doth He remember their iniquity,
 And inspect their sin.
¹¹ And the LORD saith unto me, [good;
¹² Thou shalt not pray for this people for
 When they fast, I hearken not to their cry;
 And when they cause to ascend
 Burnt-offering and present, I accept them
 For by sword, and by famine, [not;
 And by pestilence I am consuming them.
¹³ And I say, Ah, Lord Jehovah,
 Lo, the prophets are saying to them,
 'Ye shall not see a sword,
 Yea, famine shall not be to you;
 For true peace I give to you in this place.'
¹⁴ And the LORD saith unto me:
 The prophets are prophesying
 Falshood in My name:
 I sent them not, nor commanded them,
 Nor spoke unto them:
 A false vision, and divination, and vanity,
 And the deceit of their own heart
 Are they prophesying to you.
¹⁵ Therefore, thus hath the LORD said concerning the prophets who are prophesying in My name, and I have not sent them, and saying, Sword and famine shall not be in this land:
 By sword and by famine are these prophets consumed.
¹⁶ And the people to whom they prophesy
 Are cast unto the out-places of Jerusalem,
 Because of the famine, and of the sword:
 And there is none burying them,
 Them, their wives, and their sons,

And their daughters:
 And I have poured out on them this evil.
¹⁷ And thou hast said unto them this word:
 Tears come down mine eyes night and day,
 Yea, they cease not:
 For, with a great breach,
 Broken hath been the virgin
 Of the daughter of my people,
 A very grievous stroke.
¹⁸ If I have gone out to the field,
 Then, lo, the pierced of the sword;
 And if I have entered the city,
 Then, lo, the diseased of famine:
 For both prophet and priest
 Have gone up and down,
 Unto a land which they knew not.
¹⁹ Hast Thou utterly rejected Judah?
 Against Zion hath Thy soul loathed?
 Wherefore hast Thou smitten us,
 And there is no healing for us?
 Looking for peace, and there is no good;
 And for a time of healing, and lo, terror.
²⁰ We have known, LORD, our wickedness,
 The iniquity of our fathers:
 For we have sinned against Thee.
²¹ Despise not, for Thy name's sake;
 Dishonour not the throne of Thine honour:
 Remember, break not Thy covenant with us.
²² Are there among the vanities of the na-
 Any causing rain? [tions
 Or do the heavens give showers?
 Art not Thou He, O LORD our God?
 And we wait for thee:
 For Thou hast done all these.
 XV. ¹ AND the LORD saith unto me:
 Though Moses or Samuel should stand before Me,
 My soul is not towards this people:
 Send from before My face, and they go out.
² And it hath come to pass, when they say
 Whither shall we go out? [to thee,
 That thou hast said unto them:
 Thus hath the LORD said:
 Those who are for death, to death;
 Those who are for the sword, to the sword;
 And those who are for famine, to famine;
 Those who are for captivity, to captivity.
³ And I have appointed over them four kinds, affirmeth the LORD:
 The sword to slay, and the dogs to draw,
 And the fowl of the heavens,
 And the beast of the earth,
 To consume and to destroy:
⁴ And I have made them for a trembling
 To all the kingdoms of the earth,
 Because of Manasseh son of Hezekiah
 king of Judah.
 For that which he did in Jerusalem.
⁵ For who hath pity on thee, O Jerusalem?
 And who bemoaneth for thee?
 Or who turneth aside to ask of thy welfare?
⁶ Thou hast left Me, affirmeth the LORD,
 Backward thou goest:
 And I stretch out My hand against thee,
 And destroy thee:
 I have been weary of repenting.
⁷ And I scatter them with a fan,
 In the gates of the land:
 I bereaved, I have destroyed My people:
 From their ways they turn not back.

- ⁶ Their widows have been more to Me
Than the sand of the sea:
I brought in them—against the mother:
A young man—a spoiler—at noon?
I have caused to fall upon her suddenly
Wrath and trouble.
- ⁹ Languished hath the bearer of seven:
She hath breathed out her spirit;
Go in doth her sun while yet day:
It hath been ashamed and confounded;
And their residue to the sword
I give up before their enemies,
Affirmeth the LORD.
- ¹⁰ —Wo to me, my mother,
For thou hast borne me a man of strife,
And a man of contention to all the land:
I have not lent on usury,
Nor have they lent on usury to me:
All of them are reviling me.
- ¹¹ The LORD hath said:
Have I not directed thee for good?
Have not I interceded for thee, in a time
of evil,
In a time of adversity—with the enemy?
¹² Doth one break iron—northern iron, and
¹³ Thy strength and thy treasures [brass?
For a prey I give—not for a price,
But for all thy sins, and in all thy borders.
- ¹⁴ And I have caused thine enemies
To pass over into the land
Thou hast not known:
For a fire hath been kindled in Mine
Against you it burneth. [anger;
- ¹⁵ Thou, Thou hast known, O LORD;
And take vengeance for me of my pursuers:
Remember me, and inspect me.
In Thy long-suffering take me not away:
Know—I have borne for Thee reproach.
- ¹⁶ Thy words have been found,
And I do eat them:
And Thy word is to me for a joy,
And for the rejoicing of my heart:
For Thy name is called on me,
O Jehovah, God of Hosts.
- ¹⁷ I have not sat in the assembly of deriders,
Nor do I exult,
Because of Thy hand—alone I have sat:
For with indignation Thou hast filled me.
- ¹⁸ Why hath my pain been perpetual?
And my wound incurable?
It hath refused to be healed:
Thou art surely to me as a failing stream,
Waters not stedfast.
- ¹⁹ Therefore thus hath the LORD said:
If thou turn back, then I bring thee back;
Before Me thou standest:
And if thou bring out the precious from
As My mouth thou art: [the vile,
They turn back unto thee;
But thou dost not turn back unto them:
- ²⁰ And I have made thee to this people
For a wall—brazen—fenced:
And they have fought against thee,
But prevail not against thee:
For with thee am I to save thee,
And to deliver thee, affirmeth the LORD:
- ²¹ And I have delivered thee from the hand
And have ransomed thee [of evil doers,
From the hand of the terrible.
- XVI. ¹ AND the word of the LORD is unto me, saying:
- ² Thou shalt not take to thyself a wife,
Nor have sons or daughters in this place.
- ³ For thus hath the LORD said:
Of the sons and of the daughters
Who are born in this place:
And of their mothers who bare them,
And of their fathers who begat them, in
⁴ Of painful deaths they die: [this land:
They are not lamented, nor buried:
They are dung on the face of the ground;
And by sword and famine are consumed:
And their carcase hath been for food
To the fowl of the heavens,
And to the beast of the earth.
- ⁵ For thus hath the LORD said:
Enter not the house of mourning-feasts,
Nor go to lament nor bemoan for them;
For I have removed My peace from this
Affirmeth the LORD, [people,
The loving-kindness and the mercies.
- ⁶ And died have great and small in this
They shall not be buried, [land:
And none lament for them,
Nor doth any cut himself,
Nor become bald for them.
- ⁷ Nor do they deal to them for mourning,
To comfort him concerning the dead:
Nor cause them to drink the cup of con-
For his father or for his mother. [solations
- ⁸ House of banqueting thou dost not enter,
To sit with them, to eat and to drink.
- ⁹ For thus said the LORD of Hosts, God of Is-
Lo, I cause to cease from this place, [rael:
Before your eyes, and in your days, (ing,
The voice of joy, and the voice of rejoic-
Voice of bridegroom, and voice of bride.
- ¹⁰ And it hath come to pass, [these words,
When thou declarest to this people all
And they have said unto thee,
‘Wherefore hath the LORD spoken against
All this great evil?’ [us
Yea, what our iniquity, and what our sin,
That we have sinned
Against the LORD our God?’
- ¹¹ Then thou hast said unto them:
Because your fathers have forsaken Me,
Affirmeth the LORD,
And go after other gods, and serve them,
And bow themselves to them,
And Me have forsaken,
And My law have not kept:
- ¹² Ye also have done evil above your fathers.
And lo, ye are walking each
After the stubbornness of his evil heart,
So as not to hearken unto Me.
- ¹³ Even I have cast you from off this land,
On to a land which ye have not known,
Ye or your fathers:
And ye have served there other gods
By day and by night,
Where I do not give to you grace.
- ¹⁴ Therefore, lo, days are coming,
Affirmeth the LORD,
And it is not said any more,
‘The LORD liveth who brought up [Egypt,
The Children of Israel out of the land of ¹⁵ But, ‘The LORD liveth who brought up
The Children of Israel
Out of the land of the north,
And out of all the lands whither He drove them:’

And I have brought them back to their land, Which I gave to their fathers.
10 Lo, I send for many fishers,
Affirmeth the LORD,
And they have fished them;
And after this I send for many hunters,
And they have hunted them
From off every mountain,
And from off every hill,
And from the holes of the rocks.
17 For Mine eyes are upon all their ways;
They have not been hidden from My face,
Nor hath their iniquity been hidden
From before Mine eyes.
15 And I have first recompensed,
A second time their iniquity and their sin;
Because of their polluting My land
With the carcasses of their detestable things,
Yea, their abominable things
Have filled Mine inheritance.
19 —O LORD, my strength, and my fortress,
And my refuge in a day of adversity,
Unto Thee do nations come
From the ends of the earth,
And say, Only falsehood our fathers in-
Vanity, and there is none [herited,
Profitable among them.
20 Doth man make for himself a god,
And they themselves no gods?
21 Therefore, lo, I cause them to know at
I cause them to know [this time,
My hand and My might;
And they have known
That My name is the LORD.
XVII. 1 THE sin of Judah is written with a
With the point of a diamond: [pen of iron,
Graven on the tablet of their heart,
And on the horns of your altars;
2 As their children remember
Their altars, and their shrines,
By the green tree, by the high hills.
3 O My mountain in the field—thy strength,
All thy treasures—for a prey I give,
Thy high places for sin in all thy borders.
4 And thou hast let go—through thyself,
Of thine inheritance which I gave to thee;
And I have caused thee to serve thine
In a land thou hast not known: [enemies
For a fire ye have kindled in Mine anger,
For ever it burneth.
5 Thus hath the LORD said:
Cursed is the man who trusteth in man,
And hath made flesh his arm,
And whose heart turneth from the LORD.
6 And he hath been as a naked thing in a
And seeth not when good cometh; [desert,
And hath inhabited parched places in a
wilderness,
A salt land, and not inhabited. [LORD,
7 Blessed is the man who trusteth in the
And whose confidence hath been the 8 And he hath been as a tree [LORD,
Planted by waters,
And by a rivulet sendeth forth his roots,
And seeth not when heat cometh,
And his leaf hath been green;
And in a year of death is not sorrowful,
Nor censeth from yielding fruit.
9 Crooked is the heart above all things,
And it is incurable: who doth know it?
10 The LORD search the heart, try the reins,

Even to give to each according to his way,
According to the fruit of his doings.
11 A partridge—it hath hatched,
And hath not brought forth—
Is one making wealth, but not by right:
In the midst of his days he forsaketh it;
And in his latter end, he is a fool.
12 A throne of honour on high from the be-
The place of our sanctuary, [gunning,
13 The hope of Israel is the LORD:
All who forsake Thee are ashamed;
And my apostates in the earth are written,
For they have forsaken the LORD,
The fountain of living waters.
14 —Heal me, O LORD, and I am healed;
Save me, and I am saved:
For my praise art Thou.
15 Lo, they are saying unto me,
'Where is the word of the LORD?
Pray, let it come.' [Thee;
16 Yet I hastened not from feeding after
And the desperate day I have not desired,
Thou, Thou hast known: [Thy face.
The produce of my lips hath been before
17 Be not Thou to me for a terror:
My hope art Thou in the day of evil.
18 Let my pursuers be ashamed,
And let not me be ashamed—me!
Let them be affrighted,
And let not me be affrighted—me!
Bring on them a day of evil,
And a second time
With destruction destroy them.
19 Thus hath the LORD said unto me:
'Go, then hast thou stood in the gate of the people, by which the kings of Judah come in, and by which they go out, and in all the gates of Jerusalem: 20 and hast said unto them, Hear a word of the LORD, ye kings of Judah, and all Judah, and all inhabitants of Jerusalem, who come in by these gates: 21 Thus hath the LORD said:
Take heed to yourselves:
And ye bear no burden on the day of rest,
Nor have ye brought it in
By the gates of Jerusalem.
22 Nor do ye take out a burden
From your houses on the day of rest,
Yea, ye do no work;
And have sanctified the day of rest,
As I commanded your fathers.
23 But they hearkened not,
Nor inclined their ear,
And stiffen their necks so as not to hear,
Nor to receive instruction.
24 And it hath come to pass,
If ye certainly hearken unto Me,
Affirmeth the LORD,
So as not to bring in a burden
By the gates of this city on the day of rest,
And to sanctify the day of rest,
So as not to do in it any work:
25 Then entered by the gates of this city
I have kings and princes,
Sitting on the throne of David,
Riding in a chariot and on horses,
They and their princes, men of Judah,
And the inhabitants of Jerusalem:
And this city hath remained for ever.
26 And they have come in from the cities of
And the suburbs of Jerusalem, [Judah,

And from the land of Benjamin,
 And from the low country,
 And from the hill-country,
 And from the south,
 Bringing burnt-offering, and sacrifice,
 And present, and incense, [LORD,
 And bringing praise to the house of the

 To sanctify the day of rest,
 So as not to bear a burden,
 Or to come in at the gates of Jerusalem
 On the day of rest;
 Then have I kindled a fire in its gates,
 And it hath consumed the high places of
 And is not quenched.' [Jerusalem,

XVIII. 'THE word which hath been unto Jeremiah from the LORD, saying: '2 Arise, then hast thou gone down to the potter's house, and there I cause thee to hear My words.' 3 And I go down to the potter's house, and lo, he is doing a work on the stones; and the vessel that he is making of clay is marred in the hand of the potter, and he turneth and maketh it another vessel, as it was right in the eyes of the potter to make.

5 And the word of the LORD is to me, saying:

6 'As this potter am I not able to do to you?
 O house of Israel, affirmeth the LORD.
 Lo, as clay in the hand of the potter,
 So are ye in My hand, O house of Israel.

7 The moment I speak concerning a nation,
 Or concerning a kingdom,
 To pluck up, to break down, or to destroy;

8 And that nation hath turned from its evil,
 Because I spake against it,
 Then I have repented of the evil
 Which I thought of doing to it.

9 And the moment I speak concerning a
 Or concerning a kingdom, [nation,
 To build, or to plant;

10 And it hath done the evil thing in Mine
 By not hearkening to My voice, [eyes,
 Then I have repented of the good
 Which I spake of doing to it.

11 And now, speak, I pray thee,
 Unto the men of Judah,
 And against the inhabitants of Jerusalem,
 Saying: Thus hath the LORD said:

Lo, I frame against you evil,
 And devise against you a device:
 Turn back, I pray you,
 Each from his evil way,
 And amend your ways and your doings.

12 But they have said, It is incurable;
 For after our own devices we will go,
 And each the stubbornness of his evil heart we will do.

13 Therefore, thus hath the LORD said:
 Ask, I pray you, among the nations,
 Who hath heard like these?
 A very horrible thing
 Hath the virgin of Israel done.

14 Doth the snow of Lebanon
 Cease from the rock of the field?
 Failed are the cold strange waters which

15 But My people have forgotten Me, [flow?
 To a vain thing they make perfume,
 And they cause them to stumble
 In their ways—the old paths,
 To walk in paths—a way not raised up;

16 To make their land become a desolation,
 A perpetual hissing:

Every passer by it is astonished,
 And bemoans with his head, [enemy:
 17 As an east wind I scatter them before an
 The neck, and not the face, I shew them,
 In the day of their calamity.'

18 Then they say, 'Come,
 And we devise devices against Jeremiah;
 For the law doth not perish from the
 Nor counsel from the wise, [priest,
 Nor the word from the prophet:

Come, and we smite him with the tongue,
 And give no attention to any of his words.

19 Give attention, O LORD, unto me,
 And hearken to the voice of those
 Who contend with me.

20 Is evil recompensed for good,
 That they have dug a pit for my soul?
 Remember my standing before Thee
 To speak good of them,

To turn back Thy wrath from them.

21 Therefore, give up their children to famine, [sword];

And cause them to run on the sides of the
 And their wives are bereaved and widows,
 And their men are slain by death:

Their young men smitten by sword in 22 A cry is heard from their houses, [battle

 For Thou bringest against them
 Suddenly a troop:

For they have dug a pit to capture me,
 And snares have hidden for my feet.

23 And thou, O LORD, Thou hast known
 All their counsel against me for death:
 Thou wilt not cover over their iniquity,
 Nor their sin from before Thee blot out:
 And they have been stumbling before Thee:
 In the time of Thine anger,
 Work against them.

XIX. 'THUS hath the LORD said: Go, then hast thou got a potter's earthen vessel, and some of the elders of the people,
 and of the elders of the priests: 2 And thou hast gone out unto the valley of the son of Hinnom, which is at the opening of the gate of the pottery, and hast proclaimed
 there the words which I speak unto thee,
 3 and hast said, Hear a word of the LORD,
 O kings of Judah, and inhabitants of Jerusalem, Thus hath the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, said:

'Lo, I am bringing in evil on this place, at which the ears of every one who heareth it doth tingle, 4 because they have forsaken Me, and make known this place, and make perfume in it to other gods, which they knew not, they or their fathers, or the kings of Judah, and have filled this place with innocent blood: 5 and have built the high places of Baal to burn their children with fire, burnt-offerings to Baal, which I commanded not, nor spake of, nor did it come up on My heart:

6 Therefore, lo, days are coming, affirmeth the LORD, and this place is not called any more, Tophet, or, Valley of the son of Hinnom, but rather, Valley of slaughter.
 7 And I have made void the counsel of Judah and Jerusalem in this place, and have caused them to fall by the sword before their enemies, and by the hand of those who seek their life, and have given their carcass for food to the fowl of the heavens, and to the beast of the earth, and have made this city for a desolation, and for a hissing; every passer by it is astonished, and hissetteth for all its plagues. ⁹ And I have caused them to eat the flesh of their sons, and the flesh of their daughters; and each the flesh of his friend they eat, in the siege and in the straitness wherewith straiten them do their enemies, and those who seek their life.

¹⁰ And thou hast broken the bottle before the eyes of the men who are going with thee, ¹¹ and hast said unto them: Thus hath the LORD of Hosts said: So I break this people and this city, as one breaketh the potter's vessel, which cannot be repaired again; and in Tophet they bury—without place to bury. ¹² So I do to this place, affirmeth the LORD, and to its inhabitants, so as to make this city as Tophet. ¹³ And the houses of Jerusalem, and the houses of the kings of Judah, have been—as the place of Tophet—defiled, even all the houses on whose roofs they have made perfume to all the host of the heavens, so as to pour out oblations to other gods.

¹⁴ And Jeremiah cometh from Tophet, whither the LORD had sent him to prophesy, and standeth in the court of the house of the LORD, and saith unto all the people: ¹⁵ Thus hath the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, said: Lo, I am bringing in unto this city, and on all its cities, all the evil which I have spoken against it, for they have hardened their neck—not to hear My words.

XX. ¹ AND Pashur son of Immer the priest, (who also is overseer in the house of the LORD,) heareth Jeremiah prophesying these things. ² And Pashur smiteth Jeremiah the prophet, and putteth him in the stocks, which are by the high gate of Benjamin, which is by the house of the LORD.

³ And it cometh to pass on the morrow, that Pashur bringeth out Jeremiah from the stocks; and Jeremiah saith unto him, 'Not Pashur hath the LORD called thy name, but Magor-Missabib,

Thou hast hardened me, and dost prevail: I have been for a laughter all the day, Every one mocketh at me:

⁸ For, from the time I speak I cry out, 'Violence and destruction,' I cry: For the word of the LORD hath been to me For a reproach and a derision all the day.

⁹ And I have said, 'I will not mention Him, Nor speak any more in His name,'

And it hath been in my heart As a burning fire shut up in my bones; And I have been weary of containing, Yea, I am not able.

¹⁰ For I have heard the evil report of many, Fear is round about:

XXI. ¹ THE word which hath been unto Jeremiah from the LORD, in the king Zedekiah's sending unto him Pashur son of Malchiah, and Zephaniah son of Mansiah the priest, saying, ² 'Inquire, we pray thee, for us at the LORD, for Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon hath fought against us: perhaps the LORD may deal with us according to all His wonders, and cause him to go up from off us.'

³ And Jeremiah saith unto them, 'Thus do ye say unto Zedekiah, ⁴ Thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said:

Lo, I turn round the weapons of battle Which are in your hand,

With which ye fight the king of Babylon And the Chaldeans,

Who are laying siege against you

By a great pestilence they die.
And after this, affirmeth the LORD,

And his servants, and the people,
And those who are left in this city,

And from the famine,) [Babylon,

And into the hand of those who seek

By the mouth of the sword:
He hath no pity on them,
Nor doth he spare, nor hath he mercy.
And unto this people thou dost say,
Thus hath the LORD said:
Lo, I am setting before you the way of life,
And the way of death:
Whoso abideth in this city dieth,
By sword and by famine and pestilence;
And whoso goeth out,
And hath fallen to the Chaldeans,
Who are laying siege against you, liveth,
And his life hath been to him for a spoil.
For I have set My face against this city

And not for good, affirmeth the LORD.

And as to the house of the king of Judah,
Hear ye the word of the LORD:
O house of David, thus said the LORD:
Decide ye judgment at morning,
And deliver the plundered
From the hand of the oppressor,
Lest My fury go out as fire, [quenching,
And hath burned, and there be none
Because of the evil of your doings.
Lo, I am against thee, affirmeth the LORD,
O inhabitant of the valley,
Rock of the plain:
Who say, Who cometh down against us?
And who cometh unto our habitations?
And I have laid a charge against you,
According to the fruit of your doings,
Affirmeth the LORD:
And I have kindled a fire in its forest,
And it hath consumed all its suburbs.
XXII. THUS hath the LORD said, 'Go down to the house of the king of Judah, then hast thou spoken there this word, and hast said: 'Hear the word of the LORD, O king of Judah, who art sitting on the throne of David, thou, and thy servants, and thy people, who are coming in at these gates:
Thus hath the LORD said:
Do ye judgment and righteousness,
And deliver the plundered
From the hand of the oppressor;
And stranger, orphan, and widow
Ye shall not oppress nor wrong;
And innocent blood
Ye shall not shed in this place.

For, if ye certainly do this thing,
Then come in by the gates of this house
Have kings sitting for David on his throne,
Riding on a chariot, and on horses,
He, and his servants, and his people.
And if ye hear not these words,
By Myself I have sworn, affirmeth the
That this house is for a desolation. [LORD,
For thus hath the LORD said,
Concerning the house of the king of Judah:
Gilead art thou to Me, the head of Le-

And bow themselves to other gods,
And serve them.'
Ye shall not weep for the dead,
Nor bemoan for him;
Weep ye sore for the traveller,
For he returneth not again,
Nor hath seen the land of his birth.
For thus hath the LORD said concerning Shallum son of Josiah king of Judah, who reigneth instead of Josiah his father, who hath gone out from this place:
He turneth not back hither again:
For in the place whither
They have removed him he dieth,
And this land he seeth not again.

righteousness,
And his upper chambers by injustice;

And his wage giveth not to him. [nought,

Then it is well with him. [needily:
He decided the cause of the poor and
Then it is well, is it not to know Me?

But thine eyes and thy heart are not,
Except on thy dishonest gain,
And on shedding of innocent blood,
And oppression, and on doing of violence.
Therefore, thus said the LORD concerning Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah:

They lament not for him,
Ah, lord, and Ah, his honour.

Thou saidst, 'I will not hearken.'
This is thy way from thy youth,
For thou hast not hearkened to My voice.

And thy lovers into captivity go:
Surely then thou art ashamed,
And hast blushed for all thy wickedness.
23 O dweller in Lebanon,
Making a nest among cedars,
How gracious hast thou been

And into the hand of the Chaldeans.
26 And I have cast thee out,
And thy mother who bore thee,
On to another country,
Where ye were not born; and there ye die.

Thither they return not.

And they have fed them;

Nor are they lacking, affirmeth the LORD.

And I have raised up to David a righteous

And hath done judgment
And righteousness in the earth.

And Israel dwelleth confidently:

9 IN REFERENCE TO THE PROPHETS:
Broken hath been my heart in my midst,
Fluttered have all my bones;
I have been as a drunkard,
As a man—yea, wine hath passed over him,
Because of the LORD,
And because of His holy words.

I have seen a horrible thing:

Yea, they have strengthened
The hands of evil doers,
So that none hath turned back
From his wickedness:
They have been to me—all of them—as concerning the prophets:

And have caused them to drink water of

16 Thus hath the LORD of Hosts said:
Ye shall not hearken unto the words
Of the prophets who prophesy to you;
They make you vain:
A vision of their own heart they speak,
Not from the mouth of the LORD.
17 Saying diligently to those who despise
The word of the LORD, Peace is for you:
And to every one walking in the stubbornness of his heart they have said:

But they have run:
I have not spoken unto them,
But they have prophesied.

Then they would cause My people to hear
My words, [way,
And they would turn back from their evil
And from the evil of their doings.

And not a God afar off?

And I see him not? affirmeth the LORD.
Do not I fill the heavens and the earth?

23 I have heard that which the prophets have said, [saying,
Who prophesy in My name falsehood,
'I have dreamed, I have dreamed.'
24 Till when is this in the heart of the prophets of falsehood? [phets?
Yea, prophets of the deceit of their heart:
25 Who devise to cause My people
To forget My name by their dreams,
Which they recount each to his neighbour,
As their fathers forgot my name for Baal.

32 And the prophet, or priest, or people,
Who saith, The burden of the LORD,
I have even seen after that man,
And after his house.
33 Thus do ye say each unto his neighbour,
And each unto his brother,
What hath the LORD answered?
And what hath the LORD spoken?
34 And the burden of the LORD
Ye shall not mention any more:
For the burden to each is His word:
And ye have overturned
The words of the living God,
The LORD of Hosts, our God.
35 Thus dost thou say unto the prophet:
What hath the LORD answered thee?
And what hath the LORD spoken?
36 And if the burden of the LORD ye will say,
Therefore thus hath the LORD said:
Because of your saying this word,
The burden of the LORD:

Ye shall not say, The burden of the LORD.

Have taken you utterly away,
And have sent you out,
And the city which I gave to you,
And to your fathers, from before My face:

XXIV. 1 THE LORD hath shewed me, and lo, two baskets of figs, appointed before the temple of the LORD, (after the removing by Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, of Jeho-akim king of Judah, and the heads of Judah, and the artisans, and the smiths from Jerusalem, when he bringeth them into Babylon.) 2 In the one basket are figs very good, like figs, first-ripe figs; and in the other basket are figs very bad, which are not eaten for badness. 3 And the LORD saith unto me, 'What seest thou, Jeremiah?' and I say, 'Figs: the good figs are very good, and the bad are very bad, which are not eaten for badness.' 4 And the word of the LORD is unto me, saying,
5 Thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said:
Like these good figs, so do I acknowledge
The removal of Judah.
Which I have sent from this place
To the land of the Chaldeans—for good,
6 And have set Mine eyes on them for good,
And brought them back to this land.
And built them up, and throw not down,
And planted them, and pluck not up.
7 And given to them a heart to know Me,
For I am the LORD:
And they have become My people,
And I am become their God:
For they have turned back unto Me
With all their heart.
8 And, like the bad figs,
Which are not eaten for badness,
Surely thus hath the LORD said:
So do I make Zedekiah king of Judah,
And his heads, and the remnant of Jeru-
Who are left in this land, [salem,
And who dwell in the land of Egypt:
9 And I have given them for a trembling,
For evil to all the kingdoms of the earth,

For a reproach, and for a simile,
For a byword, and for a reviling,
In all the places whither I drive them.
¹⁰ And I have sent against them the sword,
The famine, and the pestilence, [ground
Till their consumption from off the
Which I gave to them and to their fathers.

XXV. ¹ THE word which hath been unto Jeremiah concerning all the people of Judah, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah, (it is the first year of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon,) ² which Jeremiah the prophet hath spoken unto all the people of Judah, and unto all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, saying:

³ From the thirteenth year of Josiah son of Amon king of Judah, even unto this day, (this three and twentieth year,) hath the word of the LORD been unto me, and I speak unto you, rising early and speaking, but ye have not hearkened: ⁴ yea, the LORD hath sent unto you all His servants, the prophets, rising early and sending, but ye have not hearkened, nor inclined your ear to hear, saying:

⁵ Turn back, I pray you, each from his evil way, and from the evil of your doings, and dwell on the ground which the LORD hath given to you and to your fathers from age unto age: ⁶ and ye shall not go after other gods to serve them, and to bow yourselves to them, nor provoke Me to anger with the work of your hands; and I do no evil to you. ⁷ And ye have not hearkened unto Me, affirmeth the LORD; so as to provoke Me to anger with the work of your hands for evil to yourselves. ⁸ Therefore thus hath the LORD of Hosts said, Because ye have not obeyed My words, ⁹ lo, I am sending, and have taken all the families of the north, affirmeth the LORD, even unto Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, My servant, and have brought them in against this land, and against its inhabitants, and against all these nations round about, and have devoted them, and appointed them for an astonishment, and for a hissing, and for everlasting wastes. ¹⁰ And I have destroyed from them the voice of rejoicing, and the voice of joy, the voice of bridegroom, and the voice of bride, the noise of millstones, and the light of lamps. ¹¹ And all this land hath been for a waste, for an astonishment; and these nations have served the king of Babylon seventy years.
¹² And it hath come to pass, at the fulness of seventy years, I charge against the king of Babylon, and against that nation, affirm-eth the LORD, their iniquity, and against the land of the Chaldeans, and have appointed it for everlasting desolations. ¹³ And I have brought in on that land all My words which I have spoken against it, all that is written in this book, which Jeremiah hath prophecised concerning all the nations.
¹⁴ For lay service upon them—even them—have many nations and great kings, and I have given recompence to them according to their doing, and according to the work of their hands.

¹⁵ For thus said the LORD God of Israel unto me, Take the wine cup of this fury out of My hand, then hast thou caused all the nations to drink it unto whom I send thee. ¹⁶ And they have drunk, and shaken themselves, and shewn themselves foolish, because of the sword which I am sending among them.

¹⁷ And I take the cup out of the hand of the LORD, and cause all the nations to drink unto whom the LORD sent me:

¹⁸ Jerusalem, and the cities of Judah,

And its kings, its heads, [ment,
To give them up to waste, to astonish-
To hissing, and to reviling, as at this day;

And his heads, and all his people;

And all the kings of the land of Uz,

istines,

XXVI. ¹ IN the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah, hath this word been from the LORD, saying: ² Thus hath the LORD said, Stand in the court of the house of the LORD, then hast thou spoken unto all those of the cities of Judah, who come in to bow themselves in the house of the LORD, all the words which I have commanded thee to speak unto them; thou dost not diminish a word.
³ If so be they hearken, and turn back each from his evil way, then have I repented concerning the evil which I think of doing to them, because of the evil of their doings.
⁴ And thou hast said unto them, Thus hath the LORD said, If ye hearken not unto Me, to walk in My law, which I have set before you, ⁵ to hearken to the words of My servants the prophets, whom I am sending unto you, yea, rising early and sending, though ye have not hearkened; ⁶ then I have given up this house as Shiloh, and this city
I give up for a reviling to all nations of the earth.
⁷ And the priests, and the prophets, and all the people, hear Jeremiah speaking these words in the house of the LORD.
⁸ And it cometh to pass, at the completion of Jeremiah's speaking all that the LORD hath commanded him to speak unto all the people, that the priests, and the prophets, and all the people catch him, saying,
⁹ Thou surely diest; wherefore hast thou prophesied in the name of the LORD, saying,
'This house shall be as Shiloh, and this city wasted, without inhabitant?' and all the people are congregated unto Jeremiah in the house of the LORD. ¹⁰ And the heads of Judah hear these things, and they go up from the house of the king to the house of the LORD, and sit in the opening of the new gate of the LORD. ¹¹ And the priests and the prophets speak unto the heads, and unto all the people, saying, 'Judgment of death is for this man, for he hath prophesied against this city, as ye have heard with your ears.'

¹² And Jeremiah speaketh unto all the heads, and unto all the people, saying,
'The LORD sent me to prophesy concerning this house, and concerning this city, all the words which ye have heard. ¹³ And now, amend your ways, and your doings, and hearken to the voice of the LORD your God, and the LORD doth repent concerning the evil which He hath spoken against you.
¹⁴ And I, lo, I am in your hand; do to me as good and right in your eyes. ¹⁵ Only, know ye certainly, that if ye put me to death, surely innocent blood ye put on yourselves, and on this city, and on its inhabitants: for truly hath the LORD sent me unto you to speak in your ears all these words.'

¹⁶ And the heads and all the people say unto the priests and unto the prophets:
'There is no judgment of death for this man;
for in the name of the LORD our God hath he spoken unto us.' ¹⁷ And certain of the elders of the land rise up, and speak unto all the congregation of the people, saying, ¹⁸ 'Micah the Morasthite hath been prophesying in the days of Hezekiah king of Judah, saying:

Thus hath the LORD of Hosts said:
Zion shall be a plowed field,
And Jerusalem shall be heaps,
And the mountain of the house
For high places of a forest.

¹⁹ Put him to death at all did Hezekiah king of Judah, and all Judah? Did he not fear the LORD? yea, he appeaseth the face of the LORD, and the LORD repenteth concerning the evil which He spake against them;
but we are doing great evil to our souls.

²⁰ And there hath also been a man prophesying in the name of the LORD, Urijah son of Shemaiah, of Kirjath-Jearim, and he prophesieth against this city, and against this land according to all the words of Jeremiah: ²¹ and the king Jehoiakim, and all his mighty ones, and all the heads, hear his words, and the king seeketh to put him to death; and Urijah heareth, and fareth, and fleeth, and goeth into Egypt. ²² And the king Jehoiakim sendeth men to Egypt, Elnathan son of Achbor, and certain with him unto Egypt: ²³ and they bring out Urijah from Egypt, and bring him in unto the king Jehoiakim, and he smiteth him with a sword, and casteth his corpse into the sepulchres of the common people.
²⁴ Only, the hand of Ahikam son of Shaphan hath been with Jeremiah so as not to give him up into the hand of the people to put him to death.

XXVII. ¹ IN the beginning of the reign of Jehoiakim son of Josiah, king of Judah, hath this word been unto Jeremiah from the LORD, saying: ² Thus hath the LORD said unto me, Make to thyself bands and yokes, ³ then hast thou put them on thy neck, and hast sent them unto the king of

Edom, and unto the king of Moab, and unto the king of the children of Ammon, and unto the king of Tyre, and unto the king of Zidon, by the hand of the messengers who are coming unto Jerusalem, unto Zedekiah king of Judah. ⁴And thou hast commanded them for their lords, saying, Thus said the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, ⁵Thus do ye say unto your lords, I—I have made the earth with man, and the cattle which are on the face of the earth, by My great power, and by My stretched-out arm, and have given it to whom it hath been right in Mine eyes. ⁶And now, I—I have given all these lands into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, My servant; and even the beast of the field I have given to him to serve him: ⁷and all the nations have served him, and his son, and his son's son, till the coming of the time of his land, even it; and done service for him have many nations and great kings. ⁸And it hath come to pass, the nation and the kingdom which serve him not—Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon—and that which putteth not its neck into the yoke of the king of Babylon, with sword, and with famine, and with pestilence, I lay a charge on that nation, affirmeth the LORD, till I consume them by his hand.

⁹And ye, ye shall not hearken unto your prophets, or unto your diviners, or unto your dreamers, or unto your observers of the clouds, or unto your sorcerers, who speak unto you, saying, Ye shall not serve the king of Babylon,—¹⁰for falsehood they prophesy to you, so as to remove you far from off your ground; and I have driven you out, and ye have perished. ¹¹And the nation which causeth its neck to enter into the yoke of the king of Babylon, and hath served him, I have even left it on its ground, affirmeth the LORD, and it hath tilled it, and dwelt in it.

¹²And unto Zedekiah king of Judah I have spoken according to all these words, saying, 'Cause your necks to enter into the yoke of the king of Babylon, and serve ye him and his people, and live. ¹³Why will ye die, thou and thy people, by sword, by famine, and by pestilence, as the LORD hath spoken concerning the nation which serveth not the king of Babylon? ¹⁴And ye shall not hearken unto the words of the prophets who speak unto you, saying, Ye shall not serve the king of Babylon,—for falsehood they prophesy to you. ¹⁵For I have not sent them, affirmeth the LORD, and they prophesy in My name falsely, so as to drive you out, and ye have perished, ye, and the prophets who prophesy to you.'

¹⁶And unto the priests, and unto all this people, I have spoken, saying, 'Thus hath the LORD said, Ye shall not hearken unto the words of your prophets, who prophesy to you, saying, Lo, the vessels of the house of the LORD are brought back from Babylon now in haste; for falsehood they prophesy to you. ¹⁷Ye shall not hearken unto them; serve the king of Babylon, and live. Why shall this city be a waste? ¹⁸And, if they be prophets, and if the word of the LORD be with them, let them intercede, I pray you, with the LORD of Hosts, so that the vessels which are left in the house of the LORD, and in the house of the king of Judah and in Jerusalem, have not gone to Babylon. ¹⁹For thus hath the LORD of Hosts said concerning the pillars, and concerning the sea, and concerning the bases, and concerning the rest of the vessels which are left in this city, ²⁰which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon hath not taken, in his removing Jeconiah son of Jehoiakim king of Judah from Jerusalem to Babylon with all the freemen of Judah and Jerusalem: ²¹surely thus said the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, concerning the vessels which are left of the house of the LORD, and of the house of the king of Judah, and in Jerusalem: ²²To Babylon they are brought, and there they are till the day of My inspecting them, affirmeth the LORD; then have I brought them up, and brought them back unto this place.'

XXVIII. ¹AND it cometh to pass, in that year, in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the fourth year, in the fifth month, spoken unto me hath Hananiah son of Azur the prophet, who is of Gibeon, in the house of the LORD, before the eyes of the priests, and of all the people, saying, ²'Thus spake the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, saying, I have broken the yoke of the king of Babylon. ³Within two years of days I bring back unto this place all the vessels of the house of the LORD which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon hath taken from this place, and carrieth to Babylon with Jeconiah son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah; and all the removal of Judah, who enter Babylon, ⁴I bring back unto this place, affirmeth the LORD: for I break the yoke of the king of Babylon.'

⁵And Jeremiah the prophet saith unto Hananiah the prophet, before the eyes of the priests, and before the eyes of all the people who are standing in the house of the LORD; 'yea, Jeremiah the prophet saith, 'Amen! so may the LORD do: the LORD establish thy words which thou hast prophesied, by bringing back the vessels of the house of the LORD, and all the removal from Babylon, unto this place. ⁷Only, hear, I pray thee, this word which I speak in thine ears, and in the ears of all the people. ⁸The prophets who have been before me, and before thee, from of old, even they prophesy concerning many lands, and concerning great kingdoms, of battle, and of evil, and of pestilence. ⁹The prophet who prophesieth of peace—by the coming of the word of the prophet, known is the prophet that the LORD hath truly sent him.'

¹² And the word of the LORD is unto Jeremiah after the breaking, by Hananiah the prophet, of the yoke from off the neck of Jeremiah the prophet, saying, ¹³ 'Go, then hast thou spoken unto Hananiah, saying, Thus hath the LORD said, Yokes of wood thou hast broken; but I have made instead of them yokes of iron.' ¹⁴ For thus said the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, A yoke of iron I have put on the neck of all these nations to serve Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon; and they have served him: and even the beast of the field have I given to him.'

¹⁵ And Jeremiah the prophet saith unto Hananiah the prophet, 'Hear, I pray thee, O Hananiah: The LORD hath not sent thee, and thou hast caused this people to trust on falsehood.' ¹⁶ Therefore thus hath the LORD said, Lo, I cast thee from off the face of the ground: this year thou diest, for perversity thou hast spoken concerning the LORD.' ¹⁷ And Hananiah the prophet dieth in that year, in the seventh month.

XXIX. ¹ AND these are the words of the letter which Jeremiah the prophet hath sent from Jerusalem unto the remnant of the elders of the removal, and unto the priests, and unto the prophets, and unto all the people, whom Nebuchadnezzar hath removed from Jerusalem to Babylon, ² after the going out of Jeconiah the king, and the mistress, and the officers, heads of Judah and Jerusalem, and the artificers, and the smiths, from Jerusalem—by the hand of Elash son of Shaphan, and Gemariah son of Hilkiyah, whom Zedekiah king of Judah hath sent unto Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon—to Babylon, saying, ³ 'Thus hath the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, said to all the removal which I have removed from Jerusalem to Babylon, ⁴ Build houses, and abide; and plant gardens, and eat their fruit; ⁵ take wives, and beget sons and daughters; and take wives for your sons, and your daughters give to husbands, and let them bear sons and daughters: and multiply there, and be not few. ⁶ And seek the peace of the city whither I have removed you, and pray for it unto the LORD: for in its peace ye have peace.'

⁸ 'For thus hath the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, said, Let not your prophets who are in your midst, and your diviners, lift you up, nor hearken ye unto their dreams, which ye cause them to dream. ⁹ For with falsehood they prophesy to you in My name: I have not sent them, affirmeth the LORD.'

¹⁰ 'For thus hath the LORD said, Surely at the fulness of Babylon—seventy years—I inspect you, and have established towards you My good word, by bringing you back unto this place. ¹¹ For I have known the thoughts which I think towards you, affirmeth the LORD: thoughts of peace, and not of evil, to give to you posterity and hope.'

¹² 'And ye have called Me, and have gone, and have prayed unto Me, and I have hearkened unto you, ¹³ and ye have sought Me, and have found, for ye seek Me with all your heart. ¹⁴ And I have been found of you, affirmeth the LORD; and I have turned back to your captivity, and have gathered you out of all the nations, and out of all the places whither I have driven you, affirmeth the LORD; and I have brought you back unto the place whence I removed you.'

¹⁵ 'Because ye have said, The LORD hath raised up to us prophets in Babylon; ¹⁶ surely thus hath the LORD said concerning the king who is sitting on the throne of David, and concerning all the people who are dwelling in this city, your brethren who went not out with you in the removal; ¹⁷ thus hath the LORD of Hosts said, Lo, I am sending upon them the sword, the famine, and the pestilence, and I have given them up as figs which are vile, which are not eaten for badness. ¹⁸ And I have pursued after them with sword, with famine, and with pestilence, and have given them for a trembling to all kingdoms of the earth, for a curse, and for an astonishment, and for hissing, and for a reproach among all the nations whither I have driven them, ¹⁹ because they have not hearkened unto My words, affirmeth the LORD, which I sent unto them by My servants the prophets, rising early and sending, but ye hearkened not, affirmeth the LORD.'

²⁰ 'And ye, hear ye the word of the LORD, all ye of the captivity which I have sent from Jerusalem to Babylon: ²¹ thus hath the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, said concerning Ahab son of Kolaiah, and concerning Zedekiah son of Maaseiah, who are prophesying falsehood to you in My name: Lo, I am giving them into the hand of Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and he hath smitten them before your eyes: ²² and taken from them hath been a reviling by all the removal of Judah which is in Babylon, saying, The LORD set thee as Zedekiah, and as Ahab, whom the king of Babylon roasted with fire; ²³ because they have done folly in Israel, and commit adultery with the wives of their neighbours, and speak a word in My name falsely which I have not commanded them; and I am He who knoweth, and a witness, affirmeth the LORD.'

²⁴ 'And unto Shemaiah the Nehelamite thou dost speak, saying, ²⁵ Thus hath the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, spoken, saying, Because thou hast sent in thine own name letters unto all the people who are in Jerusalem, and unto Zephaniah son of Maaseiah the priest, and unto all the priests, saying, ²⁶ The LORD hath made thee priest instead of Jehoiada the priest, that there may be inspectors of the house of the LORD, for every one mad, or making himself a prophet, and thou hast put him unto the torture and unto the stocks. ²⁷ And now, why hast thou not pushed against Jeremiah of Anathoth, who maketh himself a prophet to you? ²⁸ because that he hath sent unto us to Babylon, saying, It is long: build ye houses, and abide; and plant gardens, and eat their fruit.'

²⁹ And Zephaniah the priest readeth this letter in the ears of Jeremiah the prophet.

³⁰ And the word of the LORD is unto Jeremiah, saying, ³¹ 'Send unto all the removal, saying, Thus hath the LORD said concerning Shemalah the Nehelamite, Because Shemaiah hath prophesied to you, and I—I have not sent him, and he causeth you to trust on falsehood; ² therefore, thus said the LORD, Lo, I am seeing after Shemaiah the Nehelamite, and after his seed: he hath none dwelling in the midst of this people, nor doth he look on the good which I am doing to My people, affirmeth the LORD: for perversity he hath spoken against the LORD.

XXX. ¹ THE word which hath been unto Jeremiah from the LORD, saying, ² Thus spake the LORD, God of Israel, saying, Write for thyself all the words which I have spoken unto thee in a book. ³ For, lo, days are coming, affirmeth the LORD, and I have turned back to the captivity of My people Israel and Judah, said the LORD, and have caused them to turn back unto the land which I gave to their fathers, and they do possess it.

⁴ And these are the words which the LORD hath spoken concerning Israel and concerning Judah:

⁵ Surely thus hath the LORD said:

A voice of trembling we have heard,
Fear—and there is no peace.

⁶ Ask ye, I pray you, and see,
Doth a male bring forth?
Wherefore have I seen every man,
His hands on his loins,
As a travailling woman,
And all faces have been turned to pale—

⁷ Wot for great is that day, [ness?
Without any like it:

Yea, a time of adversity it is to Jacob:
But out of it he is saved.

⁸ And it hath come to pass, in that day,
Affirmeth the LORD of Hosts,
I break his yoke from off thy neck,
And thy hands I draw away,
And strangers lay no more service on him:

⁹ And they have served the LORD their God,
And David their king,
Whom I raise up to them.

¹⁰ And thou, fear not, My servant Jacob,
Affirmeth the LORD:
Nor be affrighted, O Israel:
For, lo, I am saving thee from afar,
And thy seed from the land of their cap-
And Jacob hath turned back, [tivity:
And hath rest, and is quiet,
And there is none troubling.

¹¹ For with thee am I,
Affirmeth the LORD, to save thee:
For I make an end of all the nations
Whither I have scattered thee;
Only, of thee I make no end,
And have chastised thee in judgment,
And do not entirely acquit thee.

¹² For thus hath the LORD said:
Incurable thy breach, grievous thy stroke:

¹³ There is none judging thy cause to bind up:
Healing medicines there are none for thee.

¹⁴ All who love thee have forgotten thee;
Thee they seek not:
For with the stroke of an enemy I smote
The chastisement of a fierce one, (thee,
Because of the abundance of thy iniquity;
Mighty have been thy sins.

¹⁵ What—criest thou for thy breach?

Incurable is thy pain;
Because of the abundance of thy iniquity,
Mighty have been thy sins,
I have done these to thee. [sumed,

Go into captivity,
And thy spoilers have become a spoil,
And all thy plunderers I give up to plun-

¹⁷ For I increase health to thee, [der.
And from thy strokes I heal thee,
Affirmeth the LORD:

For 'Outcast' they have called thee,
'Zion it is; there is none seeking for her.'

¹⁸ Thus hath the LORD said:
Lo, I turn back to the captivity of the tents
And his dwelling places I pity: [of Jacob,
And the city hath been built on its own heap, [remaineth.

And the palace according to its ordinance

And they are not few;
And I have made them honourable,
And they are not small.

And his company before Me is established,
And I have seen after all his oppressors.

²¹ His honourable one hath been of himself,
And his ruler from his midst goeth out;
And I have caused him to draw near,
And he hath approached unto Me;
For who is he who hath pledged his heart
To approach unto Me?
Affirmeth the LORD.

²² And ye have become My people,
And I am become your God.

²³ Lo, a whirlwind of the LORD—
Fury hath gone out—
A cutting whirlwind,
On the head of the wicked it stayeth.

²⁴ The fierceness of the anger of the LORD
Turneth not back till His doing it;
Yea, till His establishing the devices of
His heart: [about it,

In the latter end of the days ye consider

Going to cause it to rest—Israel.

Cried have watchmen on mount Ephraim:

Save, O LORD, Thy people,
The remnant of Israel.]

And have gathered them from the sides
Among them are blind and lame,
Conceiving and travelling one together:
A great congregation turneth back hither.
⁹ With weeping they come in,
And with supplications I bring them:
I cause them to go unto streams of waters,
In a right way—they stumble not in it:
For I have become to Israel a father,
And Ephraim—he is My first-born.

And declare among the isles afar off,
And say: He who scattereth Israel gathereth him,

And for the young of the flock,
And of the herd:
And their soul hath been as a watered garden;
And they continue not to grieve any more.

Both young men and old men together:
And I have turned their mourning to joy,
And have comforted them,
And gladdened them above their sorrow,

And My people with My goodness are

A voice in Ramah is heard,
Wailing, weeping, most bitter:
Rachel weeping for their children:
She hath refused to be comforted
For her children, because they are not.
- ¹⁶ Thus hath the LORD said:
Withhold thy voice from weeping,
And thine eyes from tears:
For there is a reward for thy work,

And they have turned back from the land
Affirmeth the LORD;
¹⁷ And there is hope for thy latter end,
Affirmeth the LORD;
And the children have turned back
To their own border.
- ¹⁸ I have surely heard Ephraim bemoaning
‘Thou hast chastised me, [himself:
And I am chastised, as a heifer untaught;
Turn me back, and I turn back,
For thou art the LORD my God.
- ¹⁹ For after my turning back I repented;
And after my being instructed,
I struck on my thigh:
I have been ashamed, I have even blushed,
For I have borne the reproach of my youth.
- ²⁰ Is Ephraim to Me a precious son?
A child of delight?
For since My speaking against him,
I do thoroughly remember him still:
- Therefore My bowels have been moved
I greatly love him, [for him;
Affirmeth the LORD.
- ²¹ Set up for thyself signs,
Make for thyself heaps:
Set thy heart to the highway, the way

Turn back unto these thy cities.

O backsliding daughter?
For the LORD hath produced a new thing

my sleep hath been sweet to me.
- ²⁷ Lo, days are coming, affirmeth the LORD,
And I have sown the house of Israel,
And the house of Judah,
The seed of man, and the seed of beast.

Because they made void My covenant.
And I ruled over them, affirmeth the LORD.

I have put My law in their inward part,
And on their heart I write it;
And I have become their God,
And they are become My people.
- ³⁴ And they teach not any more

For I pardon their iniquity,

[Who giveth the sun for a light by day,
The statutes of the moon and stars

XXXII. ¹ THE word which hath been unto Jeremiah from the LORD, in the tenth year of Zedekiah king of Judah—it is the eight-tenth year of Nebuchadrezzar: ² and then the forces of the king of Babylon are laying siege against Jerusalem: and Jeremiah the prophet hath been shut up in the court of the prison which is in the house of the king of Judah, ³ where Zedekiah king of Judah had shut him up, saying, 'Wherefore art thou prophesying, saying, Thus hath the LORD said, Lo, I am giving this city into the hand of the king of Babylon, and he hath captured it: ⁴ and Zedekiah king of Judah doth not escape out of the hand of the Chaldeans, but is certainly given into the hand of the king of Babylon, and his mouth hath spoken with his mouth, and his eyes behold his eyes: ⁵ and to Babylon he leatheth Zedekiah, and there he is till My inspecting him, affirmeth the LORD: because ye fight with the Chaldeans, ye prosper not?'

⁶ And Jeremiah saith, The word of the LORD hath been unto me, saying, ⁷ 'Lo, Hananeel son of Shallum, thine uncle, is coming unto thee, saying, Buy for thyself my field which is in Anathoth, for thine is the right of redemption—to buy.' ⁸ And Hananeel, my uncle's son, cometh unto me, according to the word of the LORD, unto the court of the prison, and saith unto me,
 'Buy, I pray thee, my field, which is in Anathoth, which is in the land of Benjamin, for thine is the right of possession, and thine of redemption; buy for thyself.'

And I know that this is the word of the LORD, ⁹ and I buy the field, which is in Anathoth, from Hananeel, my uncle's son, and I weigh to him the money—seventeen shekels of silver.

¹⁰ And I write in a book, and seal, and cause witnesses to testify, and weigh the silver in balances. ¹¹ And I take the purchase-book, the sealed one, according to law and custom, and the open one. ¹² And I give the purchase-book unto Baruch son of Neriah, son of Manseiah, before the eyes of Hananeel, my uncle's son, and before the eyes of the witnesses who write in the purchase-book, before the eyes of all the Jews who sit in the court of the prison. ¹³ And

 I charge Baruch before their eyes, saying,
¹⁴ 'Thus said the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, Take these books, this purchase-book, both the sealed one and the open one, then hast thou put them in an earthen vessel, that they may remain many days. ¹⁵ For thus said the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, Again are houses and fields and vineyards bought in this land.'

¹⁶ And I pray unto the LORD [after my giving the purchase-book unto Baruch son of Neriah], saying, ¹⁷ 'Ah, Lord Jehovah, lo, Thou hast made the heavens and the earth by Thy great power, and by Thy stretched-out arm: there is nothing too wonderful for Thee: ¹⁸ doing kindness to thousands, and recompensing the iniquity of fathers unto the bosom of their children after them:
 God, the great, the mighty, the LORD of Hosts is His name, ¹⁹ great in counsel, and mighty in act: because thine eyes are open on all the ways of the children of Adam, to give to each according to his ways, and according to the fruit of his doings: ²⁰ because thou hast done signs and wonders in the land of Egypt unto this day, and in Israel, and among men, and Thou makest for Thyself a name as at this day.

²¹ And Thou bringest forth Thy people
 Israel from the land of Egypt, with signs and with wonders, and by a strong hand, and by a stretched-out arm, and by great fear. ²² And thou givest to them this land which thou didst swear to their fathers to give to them, a land flowing with milk and honey. ²³ And they come in, and possess it, but they have not hearkened to Thy voice, and in Thy law have not walked, all of that which Thou didst lay a charge on them to do they have not done, and Thou proclaimest to them all this evil. ²⁴ Lo, the mounts—they have come into the city to capture it, and the city hath been given into the hand of the Chaldeans who are fighting against it, because of the sword, and the famine, and the pestilence; and that which Thou hast spoken hath come to pass, and lo, Thou seest: ²⁵ yet Thou hast said unto me, O Lord Jehovah, Buy for thyself the field with money, and cause witnesses to testify—and the city hath been given into the hand of the Chaldeans.'

²⁶ And the word of the LORD is unto Jeremiah, saying:

²⁷ Lo, I am the LORD, God of all flesh:

For Me is anything too wonderful?

²⁸ Therefore, thus hath the LORD said, Lo, I am giving this city into the hand of the Chaldeans, and into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, and he hath captured it; ²⁹ and come in have the Chal-deans who are fighting against the city, and they have set this city on fire, yea, they have burned it, and the houses on whose roofs they have made perfume to Baal, and poured out libations to other gods, so as to provoke Me to anger. ³⁰ For the Children of Israel and the Children of Judah have been only doing evil in Mine eyes, from their youth: for the Children of Israel are only provoking Me with the work of their hands, affirmeth the LORD. ²¹For a cause of Mine anger, and a cause of My fury, hath this city been to Me, even from the day that they built it, and unto this day—to turn it aside from before My face: ²²because of all the evil of the Children of Israel, and of the Children of Judah, which they have done so as to provoke Me, they, their kings, their heads, their priests, and their prophets, and the men of Judah, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem. ²³And they turn unto Me the neck, and not the face: though teaching them, rising early and teaching, yet they hearken not to accept instruction. ²⁴And they set their abominations in the house over which My name is called, so as to defile it. ²⁵And they build the high places of Baal, which are in the valley of the son of Innom, to cause their sons and their daughters to pass through to Molech, which I did not command them, nor did it come up on my heart to do this abomination, so as to cause Judah to sin.

²⁶And now, therefore, thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said concerning this city, of which ye say, It hath been given into the hand of the king of Babylon by sword, and by famine, and by pestilence: ²⁷Lo, I am gathering them out of all the lands whither I have driven them in Mine anger, and in My fury, and in great wrath; and I have brought them back unto this place, and have caused them to dwell confidently: ²⁸and they have become My people, and I am become their God; ²⁹and I have given to them one heart, and one way, to fear Me continually, for good to themselves, and to their children after them: ³⁰and I have made for them an everlasting covenant, that I turn not back from after them for My doing them good; and My fear I put in their heart, so as not to turn aside from me. ³¹And I have rejoiced over them to do them good, and have planted them in this land in truth, with all My heart and with all My soul.

³²For thus said the LORD: As I brought in unto this people all this great evil, so I am bringing in on them all the good which I am speaking concerning them. ³³And bought hath been the field in this land of which ye say, A desolation it is, without man or beast; it hath been given into the hand of the Chaldeans. ³⁴Fields with money they buy, so as to write in a book, and to seal, and to cause witnesses to testify, in the land of Benjamin, and in the suburbs of Jerusalem, and in the cities of Judah, and in the cities of the hill-country, and in the cities of the low country, and in the cities of the south: for I turn back their captivity, affirmeth the LORD.

XXXIII. ¹And the word of the LORD is to Jeremiah a second time, (and he is yet detained in the court of the prison,) saying:

²Thus said the LORD its maker, the LORD its former, at establishing it, the LORD is

His name: ³Call unto Me, and I answer thee, yea, I tell to thee great and fenced things—thou hast not known them. ⁴For thus said the LORD, God of Israel, concerning the houses of this city, and concerning the houses of the kings of Judah, which are broken down for the mounts, and for the tools: ⁵they are coming in to fight with the Chaldeans, and to fill them with the carcases of men, whom I have smitten in Mine anger, and in My fury, and for whom I have hidden My face from this city, because of all their wickedness:

⁶Lo, I increase to it health and cure, And have healed them, And have revealed to them The abundance of peace and truth.

⁷And I have turned back the captivity of And the captivity of Israel, [Judah,

And I have built them as at first,

⁸And cleansed them from all their iniquity

Which they have sinned against Me;

And have pardoned all their iniquities

Which they have sinned against Me.

And which they transgressed against Me.

⁹And it hath been to Me for a name of joy,

For praise, and for beauty,

To all the nations of the earth,

Who hear of all the good which I do with

And they have feared, [them:

And trembled for all the good,

And for all the peace, which I do to it.

¹⁰Thus hath the LORD said:

Again heard in this place of which ye say,

It is a waste, without man, without beast,

In the cities of Judah,

And in the streets of Jerusalem,

Which are desolated, without man,

And without inhabitant, and without beast,

¹¹Is the voice of joy and voice of gladness:

Voice of bridegroom, and voice of bride;

The voice of those who say:

Thank ye the LORD of Hosts,

For the LORD is good:

For His kindness is for ever:

Who are bringing in thanksgiving

To the house of the LORD:

For I turn back the captivity of the land,

As at first, said the LORD.

¹²Thus hath the LORD of Hosts said:

Again there is in this place, which is Without man or beast, [waste,

And in all its cities, a habitation of shep-

Causing the flock to lie down. [herds,

¹³In the cities of the hill-country,

In the cities of the low country,

And in the cities of the south,

And in the land of Benjamin,

And in the suburbs of Jerusalem,

And in the cities of Judah,

Again doth the flock pass by

The hands of the numberer, said the LORD.

¹⁴Lo, days are coming, affirmeth the LORD,

And I have established the good word

Which I spake unto the house of Israel,

And concerning the house of Judah.

¹⁵In those days, and at that time,

I cause to shoot up to David

A Shoot of righteousness,

And he hath done judgment

- And righteousness in the earth.
 10 In those days is Judah saved,
 And Jerusalem dwelleth confidently:
 And this is he whom the LORD proclaim-
 'Our Righteousness.' [eth to her,
 17 For thus hath the LORD said:
 Not cut off to David
 Is one sitting on the throne of the house
 18 And of the priests the Levites, [of Israel;
 Not cut off from before Me is one,
 Causing a burnt-offering to ascend,
 And perfuming a present,
 And making sacrifice continually.
 19 And the word of the LORD is unto Jeremiah, saying, ²⁰ Thus hath the LORD said:
 If ye break My covenant of the day,
 And My covenant of the night,
 So that they be not daily
 Or nightly in their season;
 21 Even My covenant is broken
 With David My servant,
 So that he hath not a son reigning on his
 And with the Levites [throne;
 The priests, My ministers.
 22 As the host of heaven is not numbered,
 Nor the sand of the sea measured;
 So I multiply the seed of David My ser-
 And the Levites My ministers. [vant,
 23 And the word of the LORD is unto Jeremiah, saying:
 24 'Dost thou not consider
 What this people have spoken, saying:
 The two families on whom the LORD fixed,
 He even rejecteth them:
 And My people they despise—
 So that they are no more a people before
 25 Thus hath the LORD said: [them?]
 If My covenant be not daily and nightly,
 The statutes of heaven and earth
 I have not appointed—
 26 Even the seed of Jacob,
 And David My servant, I reject.
 Against taking from his seed rulers
 For the seed of Abraham, Isaac, and Ja-
 For I turn back to their captivity, [cob:
 And have pitied them.'

XXXIV. ¹ THE word which hath been unto Jeremiah from the LORD, (and Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon, and all his force, and all the kingdoms of the land of the dominion of his power, and all the peoples are fighting against Jerusalem, and against all its cities,) saying: ² Thus said the LORD, God of Israel: Go, then hast thou spoken unto Zedekiah king of Judah, and hast said unto him: Thus said the LORD: Lo, I am giving this city unto the hand of the king of Babylon, and he hath burned it with fire:
³ and thou, thou dost not escape out of his hand, for thou art certainly caught, and into his hand thou art given; and thine eyes see the eyes of the king of Babylon, and his mouth with thy mouth speaketh, and Babylon thou enterest. ⁴ Only, hear the word of the LORD. O Zedekiah king of Judah: Thus hath the LORD said unto thee:
 Thou dost not die by the sword: ⁵ In peace thou diest: and with the burnings of thy fathers, the former kings who have been before thee, so they make a burning for thee; and Ah, Lord, they lament for thee:

for the word have I spoken, affirmeth the
 LORD.'

⁶ And Jeremiah the prophet speaketh unto Zedekiah king of Judah all these words in Jerusalem, ⁷ and the forces of the king of Babylon are fighting against Jerusalem, and against all the cities of Judah which are left—against Lachish, and against Azekah:
 for these have been left among the cities of Judah, cities of fortresses.

⁸ THE word which hath been unto Jeremiah from the LORD, after the making by the king Zedekiah of a covenant with all the people who are in Jerusalem, to proclaim to them liberty, ⁹ to send out each his man-servant, and each his maid-servant
 —Hebrew or Hebrewess—free, so as not to lay service on them, any on a Jew his brother; ¹⁰ and hearken do all the heads, and all the people who have come into the covenant to send out each his man-servant and each his maid-servant free, so as not to lay service on them any more, yea, they hearken, and send them away. ¹¹ But they turn afterwards, and cause the men-servants and the maid-servants to return, whom they had sent out free, and they force them for men-servants and for maidservants.

¹² Yea, the word of the LORD is unto Jeremiah from the LORD, saying: ¹³ Thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said, I—I made a covenant with your fathers in the day of My bringing them out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of servants, saying, ¹⁴ At the end of seven years ye shall send out each his brother, a Hebrew, who is sold to thee, and hath served thee six years, yea, thou hast sent him out free from thee: but your fathers hearkened not unto Me, nor inclined their ear. ¹⁵ And ye, ye turn back to-day, and do that which is right in Mine eyes, by proclaiming liberty each to his neighbour: and ye make a covenant before Me in the house over which My name is called. ¹⁶ But—ye turn back, and pollute
 My name, and cause each his man-servant and each his maid-servant, whom ye had sent out free, (at their own desire,) to return, and ye force them to be to you for men-servants and for maid-servants.

¹⁷ Therefore thus hath the LORD said, Ye have not hearkened unto Me to proclaim freedom. Each to his brother, and each to his neighbour: lo, I am proclaiming to you liberty, affirmeth the LORD, unto the sword, unto the pestilence, and unto the famine, and I have appointed you for a cause of trembling to all the kingdoms of the earth.
¹⁸ And I have given the men who are transgressing My covenant, who have not established the words of the covenant which they have made before Me, by the calf, which they have cut in two, and pass through between its pieces—¹⁹ the heads of Judah and the heads of Jerusalem, the officers, and the priests, and all the people of the land who pass through between the pieces of the calf:—yea, I have given them into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of those who seek their soul; and thine

carcase hath been for food to the fowl of the heavens, and to the beast of the earth. ²¹And Zedekiah king of Judah, and his heads, I give into the hand of their enemies, and into the hand of those who seek their soul, and into the hand of the forces of the king of Babylon, who are going up from off you. ²²Lo, I command, affirmeth the LORD, and have brought them back unto this city: and they have fought against it, and captured it, and burned it with fire: and the cities of Judah I make a desolation—without inhabitant.

XXXV. ¹THE word which hath been unto Jeremiah from the LORD, in the days of Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah, saying: ²Go unto the house of the Rechabites, then hast thou spoken with them, and brought them into the house of the LORD, unto one of the chambers, and caused them to drink wine. ³And I take Jazaniah son of Jeremiah, son of Habaziah, and his brethren, and all his sons, and all the house of the Rechabites, ⁴and bring them into the house of the LORD, unto the chamber of the sons of Hanan son of Igdaiah, a man of God, which is near to the chamber of the princes, which is above the chamber of Maaseiah son of Shallum, keeper of the threshold. ⁵And I put before the sons of the house of the Rechabites goblets full of wine, and cups, and say unto them, Drink ye wine.

⁶And they say, 'We do not drink wine: for Jonadab son of Rechab, our father, charged us, saying, Ye shall not drink wine, ye or your children—for ever: ⁷And a house ye shall not build, and seed ye shall not sow, and a vineyard ye shall not plant, nor shall ye have any: for in tents shall ye dwell all your days: that ye may live many days on the face of the ground whither ye sojourn. ⁸And we hearken to the voice of Jonadab son of Rechab, our father, to all that he commanded us, not to drink wine all our days, we, our wives, our sons, and our daughters: ⁹nor to build houses for our dwelling: and vineyard, or field, or seed, we have none: ¹⁰and we dwell in tents, and we hearken, and we do according to all that Jonadab our father commanded us. ¹¹And it cometh to pass, in the coming up of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon unto the land, that we say, Come, and we enter Jerusalem, because of the force of the Chaldeans, and because of the force of the Aram: and we dwell in Jerusalem.'

¹²And the word of the LORD is unto Jeremiah, saying: 'Thus hath the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, said:

¹³'Go, then hast thou said to the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, Do ye not receive instruction?—to hearken unto My words, affirmeth the LORD. ¹⁴Performed have been the words of Jonadab son of Rechab, when he commanded his children not to drink wine, and they have not drunk unto this day, for they have obeyed the command of their father; but I—I have spoken unto you, rising early and speaking, and ye have not hearkened unto

Me. ¹⁵And I send unto you all My servants the prophets, rising early and sending, saying: Turn back, I pray you, each from his evil way, and amend your doings; yea, ye shall not walk after other gods, to serve them; and dwell ye on the ground which I have given to you and to your fathers; but ye have not inclined your ear, nor hearkened unto Me. ¹⁶Because the children of Jonadab son of Rechab have performed the command of their father, which he commanded them, and this people have not hearkened unto Me: ¹⁷therefore thus hath the LORD, God of Hosts, God of Israel, said: Lo, I bring in unto Judah, and unto all the inhabitants of Jerusalem, all the evil which I have spoken against them: because I have spoken unto them, and they have not hearkened, yea, I call to them, and they have not answered.'

¹⁸And to the house of the Rechabites hath Jeremiah said: 'Thus hath the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, said: Because that ye have hearkened unto the command of Jonadab your father, and observe all his commands, and do according to all that he commanded you; ¹⁹therefore, thus hath the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, said, Of Jonadab son of Rechab one standing before Me continually is not cut off.'

XXXVI. ¹AND it cometh to pass, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah, this word hath been unto Jeremiah from the LORD, saying:

²'Take to thyself a roll of a book, then hast thou written on it all the words which I have spoken unto thee concerning Israel, and concerning Judah, and concerning all the nations, from the day I spake unto thee, from the days of Josiah, even unto this day. ³If so be the house of Israel will hear all the evil which I think of doing to them: so that they turn back each from his evil way, and I have been propitious to their iniquity and to their sin.'

⁴And Jeremiah calleth Baruch son of Neriah; and Baruch writeth from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the LORD, which He hath spoken unto him, on a roll of a book. ⁵And Jeremiah commandeth Baruch, saying, 'I am restrained: I am not able to enter the house of the LORD: ⁶but thou hast entered, and hast read in the roll, which thou hast written from my mouth, the words of the LORD, in the ears of the people, in the house of the LORD, in the day of the fast: and also in the ears of all Judah who are coming in from their cities thou dost read them. ⁷If so be they will cause their supplication to fall before the LORD, and turn back each from his evil way: for great is the anger and the fury which the LORD hath spoken concerning this people.'

⁸And Baruch son of Neriah doth according to all that Jeremiah the prophet commanded him, by reading in the book the words of the LORD in the house of the LORD.

⁹And it cometh to pass, in the fifth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah, in the ninth month, proclaimed a fast before the LORD have all the people in Jerusalem, and all the people who are coming from the cities of Judah into Jerusalem. ¹⁰And Baruch readeth in the book the words of Jeremiah in the house of the LORD, in the chamber of Gemariah son of Shaphan the scribe, in the higher court, at the opening of the new gate of the house of the LORD, in the ears of all the people.

¹¹And Michaiah son of Gemariah, son of Shaphan, heareth all the words of the LORD from the book, ¹²and he goeth down to the house of the king, unto the chamber of the scribe; and lo, there are all the princes sitting: Elishama the scribe, and Delaiah son of Shemaiah, and Elnathan son of Achbor, and Gemariah son of Shaphan, and Zedekiah son of Hananiah, and all the princes. ¹³And to them Micahiah declareth all the words which he hath heard, when Baruch readeth in the book in the ears of the people. ¹⁴And all the princes send unto Baruch, Jehudi son of Nathaniah, son of Shelemiah, son of Cushi, saying, 'The roll from which thou hast read in the ears of the people take in thy hand, and come.'

And Baruch son of Neriah taketh the roll in his hand, and cometh in unto them. ¹⁵And they say unto him, 'Sit down, we pray thee, and read it in our ears;' and Baruch readeth in their ears. ¹⁶And it cometh to pass, when they hear all the words, they have been afraid one at another, and say unto Baruch, 'We will surely declare to the king all these words.' ¹⁷And they asked Baruch, saying, 'Declare to us, we pray thee, how didst thou write all these words—from his mouth?' ¹⁸And Baruch saith to them, 'From his mouth: he pronounceth unto me all these words, and I write on the book its parts.'

¹⁹And the princes say unto Baruch, 'Go, be hidden, thou and Jeremiah, and let no man know where ye are.' ²⁰And they go in unto the king, to the court, and the roll they have laid up in the chamber of Elishama the scribe, and they declare in the ears of the king all the words.

²¹And the king sendeth Jehudi to take the roll; and he taketh it out of the chamber of Elishama the scribe; and Jehudi readeth it in the ears of the king, and in the ears of all the princes who are standing by the king. ²²And the king is sitting in the winter-house, in the ninth month, and the stove before him is burning; ²³and it cometh to pass, when Jehudi readeth three or four leaves, he cutteth it out with a scribe's knife, and hast cast unto the fire which is on the stove, till the consumption of all the roll by the fire which is on the stove. ²⁴And the king and all his servants who are hearing all these words have not been afraid, nor rent their garments. ²⁵And also Elnathan, and Delaiah, and Gemariah have interceded with the king not to burn the roll, and he hath not hearkened unto them. ²⁶And the king commandeth Jerahmeel son of the king, and Seraiah son of Azriel, and Shelemiah son of Abdeel, to take Baruch the scribe, and Jeremiah the prophet: but the LORD hideth them.

²⁷And the word of the LORD is unto Jeremiah, (after the king's burning the roll, even the words which Baruch hath written from the mouth of Jeremiah,) saying:

²⁸'Turn, take to thyself another roll, and write on it all the former words which were on the first roll, which Jehoiakim king of Judah burnt; ²⁹and unto Jehoiakim king of Judah thou dost say: Thus hath the LORD said: Thou hast burnt this roll, saying, Wherefore hast thou written on it, saying, The king of Babylon surely cometh, and hath destroyed this land, and caused to cease from it man and beast?

³⁰'Therefore, thus hath the LORD said concerning Jehoiakim king of Judah: He hath none sitting on the throne of David; and his carcase is cast out to the heat by day, and to the cold by night. ³¹And I have charged on him, and on his seed, and on his servants, their iniquity; and I have brought on them, and on the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and unto the men of Judah, all the evil that I have spoken unto them, but they hearkened not.'

³²And Jeremiah hath taken another roll, and giveth it unto Baruch son of Neriah the scribe, and he writeth on it from the mouth of Jeremiah all the words of the book which Jehoiakim king of Judah hath burnt in the fire; and again there were added unto them many words like these.

XXXVII. ¹AND king Zedekiah son of Josiah reigneth instead of Coniah son of Jehoiakim whom Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon caused to reign in the land of Judah. ²But he hath not hearkened, he, or his servants, or the people of the land, unto the words of the LORD, which He spake by the hand of Jeremiah the prophet.

³And Zedekiah the king sendeth Jehucal son of Shelemiah, and Zephaniah son of Maaseiah the priest, unto Jeremiah the prophet, saying, 'Pray, we beseech thee, for us unto the LORD our God.' ⁴And Jeremiah cometh in, and goeth out in the midst of the people, (seeing they had not put him in the prison-house); ⁵and the force of Pharaoh hath come out of Egypt, and the Chaldeans, who are laying siege against Jerusalem, hear their report, and they go up from off Jerusalem. ⁶And the word of the LORD is unto Jeremiah the prophet, saying, ⁷'Thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said, Thus do ye say unto the king of Judah, who is sending you unto Me to seek Me: Lo, the force of Pharaoh which cometh out to you for help hath turned back to its own land, to Egypt. ⁸And the Chaldeans have turned back, and fought against this city, and captured it, and burnt it with fire.

⁹'Thus hath the LORD said: Lift not up your souls, saying, Surely the Chaldeans go from off us, for they do not go: ¹⁰for though ye had smitten all the force of the Chaldeans who are fighting with you, and there were left of them wounded men—each in his tent—they rise, and have burnt this city with fire.'

¹¹ And it hath come to pass, in the going up of the force of the Chaldeans from off Jerusalem, because of the force of Pharaoh, ¹² that Jeremiah goeth out from Jerusalem to go to the land of Benjamin, to receive a portion from thence in the midst of the people. ¹³ And it cometh to pass, he is at the gate of Benjamin, and there is a master of the ward, whose name is Irjiah son of Shelemiah, son of Hananiah, and he catcheth Jeremiah the prophet, saying, 'Unto the Chaldeans thou art falling.' ¹⁴ And Jeremiah saith, 'Falseness—I am not falling unto the Chaldeans.' But he hath not hearkened unto him; and Irjiah layeth hold on Jeremiah, and bringeth him in unto the princes. ¹⁵ And the princes are wroth against Jeremiah, and have smitten him, and put him in the prison-house—the house of Jonathan the scribe: for it they had made for a prison-house.

¹⁶ When Jeremiah hath entered into the house of the dungeon, and unto the cells, then Jeremiah dwelleth there many days; ¹⁷ and the king Zedekiah sendeth, and taketh him; and the king asketh him in his house in secret, and saith, 'Is there word from the LORD?' And Jeremiah saith, 'There is;' and he saith, 'Into the hand of the king of Babylon thou art given.'

¹⁸ And Jeremiah saith unto the king Zedekiah, 'What have I sinned against thee, or against thy servants, or against this people, that ye have given me up into a prison-house?' ¹⁹ And where are your prophets who prophesied to you, saying, The king of Babylon cometh not in against you, or against this land. ²⁰ And now, hearken, I pray thee, my lord, O king, let my supplication fall, I pray thee, before thee, and cause me not to return to the house of Jonathan the scribe, that I die not there.'

²¹ And the king Zedekiah commandeth, and they commit Jeremiah into the court of the prison, also to give to him a cake of bread daily from the bakers' street, till the consumption of all the bread of the city; and Jeremiah dwelleth in the court of the prison.

XXXVIII. ¹ AND Shephatiah son of Mattan, and Gedaliah son of Pashur, and Jucal son of Shelemiah, and Pashur son of Malchiah, hear the words which Jeremiah is speaking unto all the people, saying, ² 'Thus hath the LORD said: He who remaineth in this city dieth by sword, by famine, and by pestilence; and he who goeth out unto the Chaldeans liveth; and his soul hath been to him for a prey, and he liveth. ³ Thus hath the LORD said: This city is certainly given into the hand of the force of the king of Babylon, and it hath captured it.'

⁴ And the princes say unto the king, 'Let, we pray thee, this man be put to death, because that he is making feeble the hands of the men of war, who are left in this city, and the hands of all the people, by speaking unto them according to these words: for this man is not seeking for the welfare of this people, but for its misfortune.'

⁵ And the king Zedekiah saith, 'Lo, he is in your hand: for the king is not able for you in anything.' ⁶ And they take Jeremiah, and cast him into the pit of Malchiah son of the king, which is in the court of the prison, and they send down Jeremiah with cords; and in the pit there is no water, but mire; and Jeremiah sinketh in the mire.

¹⁵ And Jeremiah saith unto Zedekiah, 'When I declare to thee, wilt thou not surely put me to death? and when I counsel thee, thou wilt not hearken unto me.'

¹⁶ And the king Zedekiah sweareth unto Jeremiah in secret, saying, 'The LORD liveth, He who made for us this soul, I will not put thee to death, nor give thee unto the hand of these men who seek thy soul.'

¹⁷ And Jeremiah saith unto Zedekiah, 'Thus hath the LORD God of Hosts, God of Israel, said: If thou certainly go out unto the princes of the king of Babylon, then hath thy soul lived, and this city is not burned with fire, yea, thou hast lived, thou and thy house. ¹⁸ And if thou goest not out unto the princes of the king of Babylon, then hath this city been given unto the hand of the Chaldeans, and they have burnt it with fire, and thou dost not escape from their hand.'

¹⁹ And the king Zedekiah saith unto Jeremiah, 'I fear the Jews who have fallen unto the Chaldeans, lest they give me up into their hand, and they have insulted me.' ²⁰ And Jeremiah saith, 'They will not give thee up; hearken, I pray thee, to the voice of the LORD, to that which I am speaking unto thee; and it is well for thee, and thy soul doth live.'

²¹ And if thou refuse to go out, this is the thing which the LORD hath shewn me: ²² That, lo, all the women who have been left in the house of the king of Judah are brought out unto the princes of the king of Babylon, and lo, they are saying:

Thine allies have persuaded thee,
And have prevailed against thee;
Sunk into mire have thy feet,
They have been turned backward.

²³ And all thy wives, and thy children, are brought out unto the Chaldeans; and thou dost not escape from their hand, for by the hand of the king of Babylon thou art caught, and this city is burnt with fire.

²⁴ And Zedekiah saith unto Jeremiah, 'Let no man know of these words, and thou shalt not die.' ²⁵ And when the princes hear that I have spoken with thee, and they have come unto thee, and have said unto thee, Declare to us, we pray thee, what thou didst speak unto the king, hide not from us, and we do not put thee to death: and what the king spake unto thee: ²⁶ Then hast thou said unto them, I cause my supplication to fall before the king, not to cause me to return to the house of Jonathan, to die there.'

²⁷ And all the princes come unto Jeremiah, and ask him: and he declareth to them according to all these words which the king hath commanded; and they keep silent from him, for the matter was not heard. ²⁸ And Jeremiah dwelleth in the court of the prison till the day that Jerusalem hath been captured: and he was there when Jerusalem was captured.

XXXIX. ¹ IN the ninth year of Zedekiah king of Judah, in the tenth month, hath Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon and all his force come unto Jerusalem, and they lay siege against it. ² In the eleventh year of Zedekiah, in the fourth month, in the ninth of the month, hath the city been broken up: ³ and come in do all the princes of the king of Babylon, and sit at the middle gate, Nergal-Sharzer, Samgar-Nebo, Sarsechim, chief of the eunuchs, Nergal-Sharzer, chief of the Magi, and all the rest of the princes of the king of Babylon. ⁴ And it cometh to pass, when Zedekiah king of Judah, and all the men of war, have seen them, that they flee, and go out by night from the city, the way of the king's garden, through the gate between the two walls; and he goeth out the way of the plain. ⁵ And the forces of the Chaldeans pursue after them, and overtake Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho: and they take him, and bring him up to Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, to Riblah, in the land of Hamath, and he speaketh with him—judgments.

⁶ And the king of Babylon slayeth the sons of Zedekiah, in Riblah, before his eyes: yea, all the freemen of Judah hath the king of Babylon slain. ⁷ And the eyes of Zedekiah he hath blinded, and he bindeth him with fetters, to carry him to Babylon. ⁸ And the house of the king, and the house of the people, have the Chaldeans burnt with fire, and the walls of Jerusalem they have broken down. ⁹ And the remnant of the people who are left in the city, and those who fell to him, and the remnant of the people who are left, hath Nebuzar-Adan, chief of the guard, removed to Babylon.

¹⁵ And unto Jeremiah hath the word of the LORD been (in his being detained in the court of the prison), saying: ¹⁶ 'Go, then hast thou spoken to Ebed-Melech the Cushite, saying: Thus said the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel: 'Lo, I bring in My words unto this city for evil, and not for good; and they have been before thee in that day. ¹⁷ And I have delivered thee in that day, affirmeth the LORD: and thou art not given into the hand of the men of whose face thou art afraid. ¹⁸ For I certainly deliver thee, and by the sword thou shalt not, and thy life hath been to thee for a spoil, for thou hast trusted in Me, affirmeth the LORD.'

XL. ¹ THE word which hath been unto Jeremiah from the LORD, after Nebuzar-Adan, chief of the guard, hath sent him from Ramah, in his taking him (and he a prisoner in chains) in the midst of all the removal of Jerusalem and of Judah, who are removed to Babylon. ² And the chief of the guard taketh Jeremiah, and saith unto him, 'The LORD thy God hath spoken this evil concerning this place. ³ And the LORD bringeth it in, and doth, as He spake: because ye have sinned against the LORD, and have not hearkened to His voice, even this thing hath been to you. ⁴ And now, lo, I have loosed thee to-day from the chains which are on thy hand; if good in thine eyes to come with me to Babylon, come, and I keep mine eye upon thee: and if evil in thine eyes to come with me to Babylon, forbear: see, all the land is before thee: whether it be good, and whether it be right in thine eyes to go—go.' ⁵ And while he doth not yet reply—'Or turn back unto Gedaliah son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, whom the king of Babylon hath appointed over the cities of Judah, and dwell with him in the midst of the people: or whithersoever it is right in thine eyes to go—go.' ⁶ And the chief of the guard giveth to him the usual allowance, and a gift, and sendeth him away. ⁶ And Jeremiah cometh unto Gedaliah son of Ahikam, into Mizpah, and dwelleth with him, in the midst of the people who are left in the land.

⁷ And all the princes of the forces which are in the field hear, they and their men, that the king of Babylon hath appointed Gedaliah son of Ahikam over the land, and that he hath charged him with the men, and women, and infants, and with some of the poor of the land, of those who have not been removed to Babylon. ⁸ And they come in unto Gedaliah into Mizpah, even Ishmael son of Nethaniah, and Johanan and Jonathan sons of Kareah, and Seraiah son of Tanhumeth, and the sons of Ephai the Netophathite, and Jezaniah son of a Maachathite, they and their men. ⁹ And swear to them doth Gedaliah son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, and to their men, saying, 'Be not afraid of serving the Chaldeans: abide in the land, and serve the king of Babylon, and it is well for you.' ¹⁰ And I, lo, I dwell in Mizpah, to stand before the Chaldeans who are come in unto us; and ye, gather ye wine, and summer fruit, and oil, and put ye them in your vessels, and dwell in your cities which ye have captured.'

¹¹ And also all the Jews who are in Moab, and among the Children of Ammon, and in Edom, and who are in all the lands, have heard that the king of Babylon hath given a remnant to Judah, and that he hath appointed over them Gedaliah son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan. ¹² And all the Jews from all the places whither they have been driven, turn back and enter the land of Judah, unto Gedaliah, at Mizpah; and they gather wine and summer fruit—very much.

XLI. ¹ AND it cometh to pass, in the seventh month, come hath Ishmael son of Nethaniah, son of Elishama, of the seed royal, and the chiefs of the king, and ten men with him, unto Gedaliah son of Ahikam, into Mizpah; and they eat there bread together in Mizpah. ² And Ishmael son of Nethaniah riseth, with the ten men who have been with him, and they smite Gedaliah son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, with the sword, and he putteth him to death whom the king of Babylon hath appointed over the land. ³ And all the Jews who have been with him, with Gedaliah, in Mizpah, and the Chaldeans who have been found there—the men of war—hath Ishmael smitten. ⁴ And it cometh to pass, on the second day of the putting of Gedaliah to death, (and no man hath known,) ⁵ that men come in from Shechem, from Shiloh, and from Samaria—eighty men—with shaven beard, and rent garments, and cutting themselves, with an offering, and frankincense in their hand, to bring into the house of the LORD. ⁶ And Ishmael son of Nethaniah goeth out to meet them, from Mizpah, going on and weeping; and it cometh to pass, at meeting them, that he saith unto them, 'Come in unto Gedaliah son of Ahikam.' ⁷ And it cometh to pass, at their coming in unto the midst of the city, that Ishmael son of Nethaniah slayeth them, at the midst of the pit, he and the men who are with him. ⁸ And ten men have been found among them, and they say unto Ishmael, 'Put us not to death: for we have things hidden in the field—wheat, and barley, and oil, and honey.' And he forbearth, and hath not put them to death in the midst of their brethren.

⁹ And the pit whither Ishmael hath cast all the carcasses of the men whom he hath smitten along with Gedaliah, is that which the king Asa made because of Baasha king of Israel: it hath Ishmael son of Nethaniah filled with the wounded.

¹⁶ And Johanan son of Kareah, and all the heads of the forces who are with him, take all the remnant of the people whom he hath brought back from Ishmael son of Nethaniah, from Mizpah,—after he had smitten Gedaliah son of Ahikam,—the mighty ones, men of war, and women, and infants, and eunuchs, whom he had brought back from Gibeon: ¹⁷ and they go and abide in the habitations of Chimham, which are near Bethlehem, to go to enter Egypt, ¹⁸ from the presence of the Chaldeans: for they have been afraid of them, for Ishmael son of Nathaniah hath smitten Gedaliah son of Ahikam, whom the king of Babylon had appointed over the land.

XLII. ¹AND they come nigh—all the heads of the forces, and Johanan son of Kareah, and Jezeiah son of Hoshai, and all the people from the least even unto the greatest—²and say unto Jeremiah the prophet, 'Let, we pray thee, our supplication fall before thee, and pray for us unto the LORD thy God, for all this remnant: for we have been left a few out of many, as thine eyes do see us; ³then doth the LORD thy God declare to us the way in which we walk, and the thing which we do.'

⁴And Jeremiah the prophet saith unto them, 'I have heard: lo, I pray unto the LORD your God according to your words; and it hath come to pass, the whole word which the LORD answereth you, I declare to you; I withhold not a word from you.'

⁵And they have said to Jeremiah, 'The LORD be against us for a true and faithful witness, if—according to all the word with which the LORD thy God sendeth thee unto us—we do not so. ⁶Whether good or evil, to the voice of the LORD our God, to whom we are sending thee, we hearken; because it is good for us when we hearken to the voice of the LORD our God.'

¹⁰ 'If ye certainly dwell in this land, then have I builded you up, and throw you not down; and have planted you, and plucked you not up; for I have repented concerning the evil which I have done to you. ¹¹Be not afraid of the king of Babylon, whom ye are afraid of; be not afraid of him, affirmeth the LORD: for I am with you to save you, and to deliver you from his hand. ¹²And I give to you mercies, and he hath pitied you, and caused you to turn back unto your own ground.

¹³ 'And if ye say, We will not dwell in this land—not to hearken to the voice of the LORD your God, ¹⁴saying, No; but the land of Egypt we enter, that we see no war, and the sound of a trumpet hear not, and for bread be not hungry: and there we dwell. ¹⁵And now, therefore, hear ye the word of the LORD, O remnant of Judah: Thus hath the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, said: If ye really set your faces to enter Egypt, and have gone in to sojourn there; ¹⁶then it hath come to pass, the sword which ye are afraid of, doth there overtake you, in the land of Egypt; and the hunger, because of which ye are sorrowful, there cleaveth after you in Egypt, and there ye die.

¹⁷ 'Thus are all the men who have set their faces to enter Egypt to sojourn there: they die by sword, by hunger, and by pestilence, and there is not to them a remnant or an escaped one, because of the evil which I am bringing in upon them. ¹⁸For thus hath the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, said: As poured out hath been Mine anger and My fury on the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so poured out is My fury upon you in your entering Egypt; and ye have been for an execration, and for an astonishment, and for a reviling, and for a reproach, and ye see not any more this place. ¹⁹The LORD hath spoken against you, O remnant of Judah: Enter not Egypt: know certainly that I have testified against you to-day. ²⁰For ye have shewed yourselves perverse in your souls: for ye sent me unto the LORD your God, saying, Pray for us unto the LORD our God, and according to all that the LORD our God saith, so declare to us, and we have done it. ²¹And I declare to you to-day, and ye have not hearkened to the voice of the LORD your God, or to anything with which He hath sent me unto you. ²²And now, know certainly that by sword, by famine, and by pestilence, ye die in the place that ye have desired to go in to sojourn there.'

XLIII. ¹AND it cometh to pass, when Jeremiah doth finish speaking unto all the people all the words of the LORD their God, with which the LORD their God hath sent him unto them—all these words—²that Azariah son of Hoshai, and Johanan son of Kareah, and all the proud men, speak unto Jeremiah, saying, 'Falsehood thou art speaking: the LORD our God hath not sent thee to say, Enter not Egypt to sojourn there. ³For Baruch son of Neriah is moving thee against us, in order to give us up into the hand of the Chaldeans, to put us to death, or to remove us to Babylon.'

⁴And Johanan son of Kareah, and all the heads of the forces, and all the people, have not hearkened to the voice of the LORD, to dwell in the land of Judah. ⁵And Johanan son of Kareah, and all the heads of the forces, take all the remnant of Judah who have turned from all the nations whither they were driven, to sojourn in the land of Judah, ⁶the men, and the women, and the infants, and the daughters of the king, and every person that Nebuzar-Adan, chief of the guard, had left with Gedaliah son of Ahikam, son of Shaphan, and Jeremiah the prophet, and Baruch son of Neriah, ⁷and they enter the land of Egypt: for they have not hearkened to the voice of the LORD; and they enter even unto Tahpanhes.

¹¹and he hath come, and smitten the land of Egypt; they who are for death to death, and they who are for captivity to captivity, and they who are for the sword to the sword. ¹²And I have kindled a fire in the houses of the gods of Egypt, and it hath burned them, and he hath taken them captive, and covered himself with the land of Egypt, as cover himself doth the shepherd with his garment, and hath gone out from thence in peace; ¹³and he hath broken the standing-pillars of the house of the sun, which is in the land of Egypt, and the houses of the gods of Egypt doth he burn with fire.

XLIV. ¹THE word which hath been unto Jeremiah concerning all the Jews who are dwelling in the land of Egypt, (who are dwelling in Migdol, and in Tahpanhes, and in Noph, and in the land of Pathros,) saying, ²Thus hath the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, said: Ye—ye have seen all the evil which I have brought in on Jerusalem, and on all the cities of Judah; and lo, they are a waste this day, and there is none dwelling in them. ³Because of their wickedness that they have done, by provoking Me to anger, by going to make perfume, by serving other gods, which they knew not, they, ye, or your fathers. ⁴And I send unto you all My servants, the prophets, rising early and sending, saying, I pray you, do not this abomination which I have hated—⁵and they hearkened not, nor inclined their ear, to turn back from their wickedness, not to make perfume to other gods; ⁶and poured out is My fury, and Mine anger, and it burneth in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem; and they are for a waste, for a desolation, as at this day.

⁷And, now, thus hath the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, said: Why are ye doing great evil unto your own souls, to cut off to yourselves man and woman, infant and suckling, from the midst of Judah, so as not to leave to you a remnant: ⁸by provoking Me to anger by the works of your hands, by making perfume to other gods in the land of Egypt, whither ye enter to sojourn, so as to cut yourselves off, and so as to your being for a reviling and for a reproach among all the nations of the earth. ⁹Have ye forgotten the wickedness of your fathers, and the wickedness of the kings of Judah, and the wickedness of their wives, and your own wickedness, and the wickedness of your wives, which they did in the land of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem? ¹⁰They have not been humbled unto this day, nor have they been afraid, nor have they walked in My law, or in My statutes, which I have set before you and before your fathers. ¹¹Therefore, thus hath the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, said: Lo, I set my face against you for evil, even to cut off all Judah. ¹²And I have taken the remnant of Judah, who have set their faces to enter the land of Egypt to sojourn there; and they have all been consumed in the land of Egypt: they fall by sword; by famine they are consumed: from the least even to the greatest by sword and by famine they die; and they have been for an execration, for an astonishment, and for a reviling, and for a reproach. ¹³And I have seen after those who are dwelling in the land of Egypt, as I saw after Jerusalem, with sword, with famine, and with pestilence. ¹⁴And there is not an escaped or remaining one of the remnant of Judah, who enter into the land of Egypt to sojourn there, even to turn back to the land of Judah, whither they lift up their soul to return to dwell: for they turn not back, for they escape not.

¹⁵And they answer Jeremiah—all the men who know that their wives are making perfume to other gods, and all the women who remain, a great congregation, even all the people who dwell in the land of Egypt, in Pathros—saying: ¹⁶The word which thou hast spoken unto us in the name of the LORD—we hearken not unto thee: ¹⁷for we certainly do everything which hath gone out of our mouth, to make perfume to the queen of heaven, and to pour out to her libations, as we have done, we, and our fathers, our kings, and our heads, in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem; and we are satisfied with bread, and are well: and evil we have not seen. ¹⁸And from the time we have ceased to make perfume to the queen of heaven, and to pour out to her libations, we have lacked all; and by sword and by famine we have been consumed: ¹⁹and when we are making perfume to the queen of heaven, and pouring out to her libations—without our husbands have we made for her cakes to idolize her, or to pour out to her libations?

²⁰And Jeremiah saith unto all the people, concerning the men and concerning the women, and concerning all the people who are answering him, saying: ²¹The perfume which ye made in the cities of Judah, and in the streets of Jerusalem, ye, and your fathers, your kings, and your heads, and the people of the land, hath not the LORD remembered it? yea, it cometh up on His heart. ²²And the LORD is unable any more to accept you, because of the evil of your doings, because of the abominations which ye have done; and your land is for a waste, and for an astonishment, and for a reviling, without inhabitant, as at this day.

²³Because ye have made perfume, and because ye have sinned against the LORD, and have not hearkened to the voice of the LORD, and in His law, and in His statutes, and in His testimonies, walked not: therefore hath this evil met you as at this day.

²⁴And Jeremiah saith unto all the people, and unto all the women, 'Hear ye a word of the LORD, all Judah who are in the land of Egypt: ²⁵Thus spake the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel, saying: Ye and your wives both speak with your mouth, and with your hands have fulfilled, saying: We certainly execute our vows which we have vowed, to make perfume to the queen of heaven, and to pour out to her libations: ye certainly establish your vows, and certainly execute your vows. ²⁶Therefore, hear ye a word of the LORD, all Judah who are dwelling in the land of Egypt: Lo, I—I have sworn by My great name, said the LORD: My name is no more proclaimed by the mouth of any man of Judah, saying:

Praise doth the Lord Jehovah, in all the land of Egypt. ²⁷Lo, I watch over them for evil, and not for good; and consumed have been all the men of Judah who are in the land of Egypt, by sword and by famine, till their consumption.

²⁸ And the escaped of the sword turn back out of the land of Egypt to the land of Judah, few in number: and known have all the remnant of Judah who come into the land of Egypt to sojourn there, whose word is established, Mine or theirs.

²⁹ And this is to you the sign, affirmeth
the LORD, that I see after you in this place, so that ye know that My words are certainly established against you for evil:
³⁰ Thus hath the LORD said: Lo, I am giving Pharaoh-Hophra king of Egypt into the hand of his enemies, and into the hand of those who seek his life, as I have given Ze-dekiah king of Judah into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, his enemy, and who seeketh his life.

XLV. ¹ THE word which Jeremiah the prophet hath spoken unto Baruch son of Neria, in his writing these words in a book from the mouth of Jeremiah, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah, saying:

² Thus hath the LORD, God of Israel, said concerning thee, O Baruch:

³ Thou hast said, Wo to me, now, for the LORD hath added sorrow to my pain; I have been wearied with my sighing, and have not found rest. ⁴ Thus dost thou say unto him:
Thus hath the LORD said: Lo, that which I have built I am throwing down, and that which I have planted I am plucking up, even this whole land itself. ⁵ And thou—thou seekest for thyself great things—seek not: for lo, I am bringing in evil on all flesh, affirmeth the LORD: but I have given to thee thy life for a spoil, in all places whither thou goest.

XLVI. ¹ THAT which hath been the word of the Lord unto Jeremiah the prophet concerning the nations:

² For Egypt, concerning the force of Pharaoh-Necho king of Egypt, which hath been by the river Euphrates, in Carchemish, which Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon hath smitten, in the fourth year of Jehoiakim son of Josiah king of Judah:

³ Set in array shield and buckler,
And draw nigh to the battle.

⁴ Gird the horses, and go up, ye horsemen,
And station yourselves with helmets;
Polish the javelins,
Put on the coats of mail.

⁵ Wherefore have I seen them dismayed—
Turned backward,
And their mighty ones beaten down,
And to a refuge they have fled,
And turned not the face?

Fear is round about, affirmeth the LORD.

⁶ The swift do not flee,
Nor do the mighty escape:

Northward by the side of the river Euphrates
They have stumbled and fallen. [rates
⁷ Who is this? as a flood he cometh,
As rivers his waters shake themselves!

⁸ Egypt, as a flood cometh up, [selves;
And as rivers the waters shake them—
And he saith, I go up: I cover the land:
I destroy the city and the inhabitants in it.

⁹ Go up, O horses; and boast yourselves, O
And go out let the mighty: [chariots:
Cush and Put, handling the shield:
And Lud, handling—treading the bow.

¹⁰ And that day is to the Lord Jehovah of A day of vengeance, [Hosts
To be avenged of His adversaries:

And the sword hath devoured,
And hath been satisfied,
And hath been watered from their blood;

For a sacrifice is to the Lord Jehovah of
In the land of the north, [Hosts,
Unto the river Euphrates.

¹¹ Go up to Gilead, and take balm,
O virgin, daughter of Egypt:
In vain thou hast multiplied medicines;
Healing there is none for thee.

¹² Nations have heard of thy shame,
And thy cry hath filled the land:
For the mighty on the mighty stumbled,
Together they have fallen—both of them.

¹³ THE word which the LORD hath spoken unto Jeremiah the prophet concerning the coming in of Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon, to smite the land of Egypt:

¹⁴ Declare in Egypt, and sound in Migdol,
Yea, sound in Noph,

And in Tahpanhes say ye:
Station thyself, yea, prepare for thyself;
For a sword hath devoured around thee.

¹⁵ Wherefore hath thy bull been swept away?
He hath not stood,
Because the LORD hath thrust him away.

¹⁶ He hath multiplied the stumbling,
Yea, one hath fallen upon his neighbour;
And they say:

Rise, and we turn back unto our people,
And unto the land of our birth,
Because of the oppressing sword.

¹⁷ They have cried there:
Pharaoh king of Egypt is a desolation;
Passed by hath the appointed time.

¹⁸ I live, affirm doth the King,
The LORD of Hosts is His name,
Surely as Tabor is among mountains,
And as Carmel by the sea—he cometh.

¹⁹ Goods for removal make for thyself,
O inhabitant, daughter of Egypt:
For Noph becometh a desolation,
And hath been burnt up, without in-

Rending from the north cometh into her.

Are as heifers of the stall:
For even they have turned,
They have fled together:

They have not stood,
For the day of their calamity hath come
The time of their inspection. [on them,

²² Its voice as a serpent goeth on;
For with a force they go,
And with axes they have come to her,

As hewers of trees.

- ²³ They have cut down her forest,
Affirmeth the LORD, for it is not searched;
For they have been more than the grass—
And they have no numbering. [hopper,
²⁴ Ashamed hath been the daughter of Egypt;
She hath been given into the hand
Of the people of the north.
²⁵ Said the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel:
Lo, I see after Ammon of No,
And after Pharaoh, and after Egypt,
And after her gods, and after her kings;
And after Pharaoh,
And after those who trust in him:
²⁶ And I have given them into the hand
Of those who seek their life,
And 'into the hand of Nebuchadrezzar
King of Babylon,
And into the hand of his servants;
And afterwards it is inhabited,
As in former days, affirmeth the LORD.
²⁷ And thou, thou shalt not fear, My servant
My servant Jacob,
Nor be dismayed, O Israel:
For lo, I am saving thee from afar.
And thy seed from the land of their cap—
And Jacob hath turned back, [tivity;
And hath been at rest, and been at ease,
And there is none disturbing. [Jacob,
²⁸ Thou, thou shalt not fear, My servant
Affirmeth the LORD: for I am with thee:
For I make an end of all the nations
Whither I have driven thee;
For of thee I make no end,
And have reproved thee in judgment,
And do not entirely acquit thee.'

XLVII. 'THAT which hath been the word of the LORD unto Jeremiah concerning the PHILISTINES, before Pharaoh smiteth Gaza:

- ¹ 'Thus hath the LORD said:
Lo, waters are coming up from the north,
And have become an overflowing stream,
And overflow the land and its fulness,
The city, and the inhabitants in it;
And men have cried out,
Yea, howled hath every inhabitant of the

Of the hoof of his mighty ones,
From the rushing of his chariot,
The noise of his wheels,
Fathers have not turned unto children
From feebleness of hands;
³ Because of the day that cometh
To spoil all the Philistines,
To cut off to Tyre and to Zidon
Every helping remnant;
For the LORD is spoiling the Philistines,
The remnant of the isle of Caphtor.
⁴ Come hath baldness unto Gaza;
Cut off hath been Ashkelon:
O remnant of thy valley,
Till when dost thou cut thyself?
⁵ Ho, sword of the LORD,
Till when art thou not quiet?
Be removed to thy sheath, rest and cease.
⁷ How shall it be quiet,
And the LORD hath laid a charge on it,
Against Ashkelon, and against the sea-
There hath He appointed it.' [shore?

'Thus said the LORD of Hosts, God of Is-

- Wo unto Nebo, for it is spoiled; [thaim:
Put to shame, captured hath been Kiria:
Put to shame hath been the high tower,
Yea, it hath been broken down.
² There is no more praise of Moab:
In Heshbon they devised against it evil;
Come, and we cut it off
From being a nation:
Also, O Madmen, thou art cut off;
After thee goeth a sword.
³ A voice of a cry is from Horonaim,
Spoiling and great destruction.
⁴ Destroyed hath been Moab: [onea.
Caused a cry to be heard have her little ⁵ For the ascent of Luhith with weeping,
Go up doth weeping;
For in the descent of Horonaim
Adversaries a cry of destruction have ⁶ Flee, deliver yourselves, [heard.
Ye are as a naked thing in the wilderness.
⁷ For, because of thy trusting in thy works,
And in thy treasures,
Even thou art captured: [moval,
And gone out hath Chemosh in the re-its priests and its heads together.
⁸ And come in doth a spoiler to every city,
And no city escapeth;
And perished hath the valley,
And destroyed hath been the plain,
As the LORD hath said.
⁹ Give ye wings to Moab,
For it utterly goeth out.
And its cities are for a desolation,
Without an inhabitant in them.
¹⁰ Cursed is he who doth the work of the
And cursed is he [LORD slothfully:
Who withholdeth his sword from blood.
¹¹ Secure is Moab from his youth,
And at rest he is for his preserved things,
And he hath not been emptied out
From vessel unto vessel,
And into captivity he hath not gone
Therefore hath his taste remained in him,
And his fragrance hath not been changed.
¹² Therefore, lo, days are coming,
Affirmeth the LORD,
And I have sent to him wanderers,
And they have caused him to wander,
And his vessels they empty out,
And his bottles dash in pieces.
¹³ And ashamed hath been Moab
Because of Chemosh.
As the house of Israel have been ashamed
Because of Bethel their confidence.
¹⁴ How say ye: We are mighty,
Men of strength for the battle?
¹⁵ Spoiled is Moab, and her cities have gone
And the choice of its young men [up,
Have gone down to the slaughter,
Affirmeth the King,
The LORD of Hosts is His name.
¹⁶ Near is the calamity of Moab to come,
And his affliction hath hastened exceedingly.
¹⁷ Bemoan for him, all ye round about him;
And all who know his name, say ye:
How hath it been broken, the strong staff,
The rod of beauty.
¹⁸ Come down from honour, sit in thirst,
O inhabitant, daughter of Dibon: [thee,
For the spoiler of Moab hath come up to
He hath destroyed thy fenced places

19 On the way stand, and watch,
O inhabitant of Aroer;
Ask the fugitive and the escaped,
Say: What hath happened?
20 Put to shame hath been Moab;
For it hath been broken down:
Howl and cry: declare ye in Arnon,
For Moab is spoiled,
21 And judgment hath come
Unto the land of the plain: unto Holon,
And unto Jahazah, and on Mephaath,
22 And on Dibon, and on Nebo,
And on Beth-Diblathaim,
23 And on Kiriathaim, and on Beth-Gamul,
And on Beth-Moon,
24 And on Kerioth, and on Bozrah,
And on all the cities of the land of Moab,
The far off and the near.
25 Cut down hath been the horn of Moab,
And his arm hath been broken,
Affirmeth the LORD.
26 Declare him drunk: [great:
For against the LORD he made himself
And Moab hath stricken in his vomit,
And he hath become a derision, even he.
27 And was not the derision to thee—Israel?
Among thieves was he found?
For since thy words concerning him,
Thou bemoonest thyself.
28 Forsake the cities, and dwell in the rock,
Ye inhabitants of Moab,
And be as a dove making a nest
In the passages of a pit's mouth.
29 We have heard the arrogance of Moab,
Exceeding proud,
His haughtiness, and his arrogance,
And his pride, and the height of his heart,
30 I—I have known, affirmeth the LORD,
His wrath: but it is not right;
His devices—not right they have done.
31 Therefore for Moab I howl,
Even for Moab—all of it:
I cry unto the men of Kir-Heres:
Let him mourn.
32 With the weeping of Jazer, I weep for
O vine of Sibmah: [thee,
Thy branches have passed over a sea,
Unto the sea of Jazer they have come:
On thy summer fruits, and on thy harvest,
A spoiler hath fallen.
33 And removed hath been joy and gladness
From the fruitful field,
Even from the land of Moab;
And wine from the wine-presses
I have caused to cease:
Shouting proceeded not:
The shouting is no shouting.
34 For the cry of Heshbon is unto Elealeh,
Unto Johaz, they have given their voices,
From Zoar unto Horonaim,
A heifer of the third year: [desolations.
For even the waters of Nimrim become 35 And I have caused to cease to Moab,
Affirmeth the LORD,
He who offereth in the high place,
And he who maketh perfume to his god.
36 Therefore my heart for Moab
As pipes doth sound,
And my heart unto the men of Kir-Heres
As pipes doth sound: [fished.
Therefore the abundance he made per-

37 For every head is bald,
And every head diminished:
On all heads are cuttings,
And on the loins—sackcloth.
38 On all the roofs of Moab,
And in her broad places,
All of it—is lamentation:
For I have broken Moab as a vessel
In which there is no pleasure,
Affirmeth the LORD.
39 How hath it been broken down!
They have howled,
How hath Moab turned the neck ashamed;
And Moab hath been for a derision.
And for a terror to all round about her.
40 For thus hath the LORD said:
Lo, as an eagle he fleeth,
And hath spread his wings toward Moab.
41 Captured have been the cities,
And the strongholds are caught,
And the heart of the mighty of Moab
Hath been in that day
As the heart of a distressed woman.
42 And Moab hath been destroyed
From being a people, [self.
For against the LORD he magnified him-
43 Fear, and a snare, and a gin, are for thee,
O inhabitant of Moab, affirmeth the LORD.
Whoso fleeth because of the fear
Falleth into the snare;
44 And whoso cometh up from the snare
Is captured by the gin:
For I bring in unto her—unto Moab—
The year of their inspection,
Affirmeth the LORD.
45 In the shadow of Heshbon
Stood, powerless, have fugitives:
For a fire hath gone out from Heshbon,
And a flame from within Sihon,
And consumeth the corner of Moab,
And the crown of the Children of Shaon.
46 Wo to thee, O Moab:
Perished hath the people of Chemosh:
For thy sons were taken with the captives,
And thy daughters with the captivity.
47 But I have turned back to the captivity
In the latter end of the days, [of Moab,
Affirmeth the LORD.
Hitherto is the judgment of Moab.
XLIX. 1 CONCERNING THE CHILDREN OF AMMON:
' Thus hath the LORD said:
Children—hath Israel none?
Successor—hath he none?
Wherefore hath Malcom possessed Gad?
And its people in its cities dwelt?
2 Therefore, lo, days are coming,
Affirmeth the LORD,
And I have sounded unto Rabbah of the children of Ammon a shout of battle;
And it hath been for a heap—a desolation,
And her daughters with fire are burnt:
And Israel hath succeeded its possessors,
Said the LORD.
3 Howl, Heshbon; for spoiled is Ai: [cloth:
Cry, daughters of Rabbah, gird on sack-lament, and go to and fro by the hedges:
For Malcom into captivity goeth,
His priests and his princes together.
4 What—boatest thou thyself in valleys?
Flowed hath thy valley,
611

O backsliding daughter,
Who trusteth in her treasures:
Who cometh in unto me?
Lo, I am bringing in upon thee a fear,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah of Hosts,
From all round about thee: [it;
And ye have been driven out each before
And there is no gatherer of the war-
And after this I turn back [derers.
The captivity of the children of Ammon,
Affirmeth the LORD.
7 CONCERNING EDMON:
‘Thus hath the LORD of Hosts said:
Is wisdom no more in Teman?
Perished hath counsel from the intelli-
Vanished hath their wisdom? [gent?
8 Flee, turn, go deep to dwell,
Ye inhabitants of Dedan:
For the calamity of Esau
Have I brought in upon him,
The time I have inspected him.
9 If gatherers have come in to thee,
They leave no gleanings:
If thieves in the night,
They have destroyed their sufficiency.
10 For I have made Esau bare,
I have uncovered his secret places,
And to be hidden he is not able:
Spoiled is his seed, and his brethren,
And his neighbours, and he is not.
11 Leave thine orphans—I keep alive;
And thy widows—on Me let them trust.
12 For thus hath the LORD said:
They whose judgment is not to drink of
Do certainly drink; [the cup
And thou art he that is entirely acquitted:
Thou art not acquitted,
For thou certainly drinkest.
13 For, by Myself, I have sworn,
Affirmeth the LORD,
That for a desolation, for a reproach,
For a waste, and for a reviling—is Bozrah:
All her cities are for everlasting wastes.
14 A report I have heard from the LORD,
And an ambassador among nations is sent:
Gather yourselves together, and come
And rise for battle. [against her, 15 For, lo, little have I made thee among Despised among men. [nations,
16 Thy terriblest hath lifted thee up,
The pride of thy heart,
O dweller in clefts of the rock,
Holding the high place of the height:
For thou makest high as an eagle thy nest:
From thence I bring thee down,
Affirmeth the LORD.
17 And Edom hath been for a desolation,
Every passer by her is astonished,
And doth hiss because of her plagues.
18 As the overthrow of Sodom and Gomor-
And its neighbours, said the LORD, [rah,
None dwelleth there,
Nor sojourn in her doth a son of man.
19 Lo, as a lion he cometh up,
Because of the rising of Jordan,
Unto the enduring habitation:
For I cause to rest—
I cause him to run from off her;
And who is chosen?
Concerning her I lay a charge, [Me?
For who is like Me? and who conveneth

And who is this shepherd,
Who standeth before Me?
20 Therefore, hear the counsel of the LORD,
Which He hath counselled
Concerning Edom:
And His devices which He hath devised
Concerning the inhabitants of Teman:
Draw them out
Do not the little ones of the flock?
Make desolate over them
Doth he not their habitation?
21 From the noise of their fall
Hath the earth shaken: [been heard,
The cry—at the sea of Suph hath its voice
22 Lo, as an eagle he cometh up, and flieth,
And spreadeth his wings over Bozrah:
And the heart of the mighty of Edom
Hath been in that day
As the heart of a distressed woman.
23 CONCERNING DAMASCUS:
Ashamed hath been Hamath and Arpad:
For an evil report have they heard:
They have been melted: in the sea is
To be quiet it is not able. [sorrow;
24 Feeble hath been Damascus
She hath turned to flee,
And fear hath strengthened her:
Distress and pangs have seized her,
As a travelling woman.
25 How is it not left—the city of praise,
The city of my joy! [broad places,
26 Therefore fall do her young men in her
And all the men of war are cut off in that Affirmeth the LORD of Hosts. [day,
27 And I have kindled a fire
Against the wall of Damascus,
And it hath consumed
The palaces of Ben-Hadad.
28 CONCERNING KEDAR, AND CONCERNING
THE KINGDOMS OF HAZOR, which Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon hath smitten:
‘Thus hath the LORD said:
Arise ye, go up unto Kedar,
And spoil the children of the east.
29 Their tents and their flock they take:
Their curtains, and all their vessels,
And their camels,
They bear away for themselves,
And have called concerning them:
Fear is round about.
30 Flee, bemoan mightily, go deep to dwell,
Ye inhabitants of Hazor, affirmeth the
For given counsel against thee. [LORD:
Hath Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon,
Yea, he devised against them a device.
31 Rise, go up unto the nation at rest,
Dwelling confidently, affirmeth the LORD:
It hath no two-leaved doors nor bars,
Alone they dwell.
32 And their camels have been for a prey,
And the multitude of their cattle a spoil:
And I have scattered them to every wind,
Who cut off the corner of the beard;
And from all its passages I bring in their

A desolation for ever: [dragons,
None dwelleth there, nor sojourn in it
Doth a son of man.’

24 THAT which hath been the word of the LORD unto Jeremiah the prophet CONCERNING ELAM, in the beginning of the reign of Zedekiah king of Judah, saying:

25 Thus hath the LORD of Hosts said:

Lo, I am breaking the bow of Elam,
The beginning of their might.

26 And have brought in to Elam four winds,
From the four ends of the heavens;
And scattered them to all the winds;
And there is no nation

Whither the outcasts of Elam come not.

27 And I have affrighted Elam

Before their enemies,

And before those who seek their life:

And have brought in against them evil,

The heat of Mine anger,

Affirmeth the LORD;

And I have sent after them the sword,

Till I have consumed them:

28 And I have set My throne in Elam,

And I have destroyed from thence

Kings and princes, affirmeth the LORD.

29 Yet, it hath come to pass,

In the latter end of the days,

I turn back to the captivity of Elam,

Affirmeth the LORD.

L. THE word which the LORD hath spoken CONCERNING BABYLON, concerning the land of the Chaldeans, by the hand of Jeremiah the prophet:

2 Declare ye among the nations, and sound,

And lift up an ensign; sound, hide not:

Say: Captured hath been Babylon,

Put to shame hath been Bel,

Broken hath been Merodach;

Put to shame have been her idols

Broken have been her idols.

3 For come up against her

Hath a nation from the north,

It maketh her land become a desolation,

And there is none dwelling in it:

From man even unto beast,

They have moved, they have gone on 4 In those days, and at that time,

Affirmeth the LORD,

Come in do the Children of Israel,

They and the Children of Judah together,

Going on and weeping they go,

And the LORD their God they seek.

5 To Zion they ask the way,

Thitherward are their faces:

Come in, and we are joined unto the LORD,

An everlasting covenant—not broken.

6 A perishing flock hath My people been:

Their shepherds caused them to err, (back;

To the mountains they cause them to go

From mountain unto hill they have gone,

They have forgotten their resting-place.

7 All who find them have devoured them;

And their adversaries have said:

'We are not guilty,

Because they sinned against the LORD,

The habitation of righteousness,

And the hope of their fathers—the LORD.'

8 Move ye from the midst of Babylon,

And from the land of Chaldea go out,

And be as he-goats before a flock.

9 For, lo, I am stirring up,

And causing to come up against Babylon,

A congregation of great nations

From the land of the north:

And they have set in array against her:

From thence she is captured:

Its arrows—as a skillful hero—

Return not empty.

10 And Chaldea hath become a spoil:

All her spoilers are satisfied,

Affirmeth the LORD.

11 Because thou rejoicest, because thou exultest, O spoiler of Mine inheritance;

Because thou increasest as a heifer

At the tender grass,

And criest aloud as bulls;

12 Ashamed hath been your mother greatly,

Confounded hath she been that bare you:

Lo, the hinder-part of nations is a wilder-

A dry land, and a desert. [ultest,

13 Because of the wrath of the LORD

It is not inhabited,

And it hath been—all of it—a desolation:

Every passer by at Babylon is astonished,

And doth hiss because of all her plagues.

14 Set yourselves in array

Against Babylon round about:

All who tread a bow,

Shoot at her, have no pity on the arrow;

For against the LORD she hath sinned.

15 Shout against her round about:

She hath given forth her land:

Fallen have her foundations,

Thrown down have been her walls;

For it is the vengeance of the LORD:

Be avenged of her: as she did—do to her.

16 Cut off the sower from Babylon,

And him who handleth the sickle

In the time of harvest:

Because of the oppressing sword,

Each unto his people—they turn,

And each to his land—they flee.

17 A scattered sheep is Israel;

Lions have driven away:

At first, devoured him did the king of Ass-

And now, at last, broken his bone (shur:

Hath Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon.

18 Therefore thus hath the LORD of Hosts,

God of Israel, said:

Lo, I see after the king of Babylon,

And after his land,

As I have seen after the king of Asshur,

19 And brought back Israel to his habitation,

And he hath fed on Carmel,

And on Bashan,

And in mount Ephraim,

And on Gilead is his soul satisfied.

20 In these days, and at that time,

Affirmeth the LORD.

Sought is the iniquity of Israel, but it is not;

And the sin of Judah,

But it is not found:

For I am propitious to those whom I leave.

21 AGAINST THE LAND OF MERATHAIM:

Go up against it,

And unto the inhabitants of Pekod:

Waste and devote their posterity,

Affirmeth the LORD,

And do according

To all that I have commanded thee.

22 A noise of battle is in the land,

And of great destruction.

23 How hath it been cut and broken,

- The hammer of the whole earth !
How hath Babylon become a desolation among nations !
- ³⁴ I have laid a snare for thee,
And also—thou art captured, O Babylon,
And thou—thou hast not known:
Thou hast been found and also art caught,
For against the LORD
Thou hast stirred thyself up.
- ³⁵ The LORD hath opened His treasury,
And He bringeth out
The weapons of His indignation:
For a work is to the LORD, God of Hosts,
In the land of the Chaldeans.
- ³⁶ Come ye in to her from the extremity,
Open her storehouses:
Raise her up as heaps, and devote her:
Let her have no remnant.
- ³⁷ Slay all her kine;
Let them go down to slaughter:
We is on them, for come hath their day,
The time of their inspection.
- ³⁸ A voice of fugitives and escaped ones
Is from the land of Babylon,
To declare in Zion the vengeance of the LORD our God,
The vengeance of His temple.
- ³⁹ Summon unto Babylon archers:
All who tread the bow,
Encamp against her round about;
Let her have no escaped one:
Recompense to her according to her work;
According to all that she did—do to her:
For toward the LORD she hath been proud,
Toward the Holy One of Israel.
- ⁴⁰ Therefore fall do her young men
In her broad places,
And all her men of war are cut off in that Affirmeth the LORD. (day,
- ⁴¹ Lo, I am against thee, O proud one,
Affirmeth the Lord, Jehovah of Hosts:
For thy day hath come,
The time of thy inspection.
- ⁴² And stumbled hath the proud,
And fallen, and he hath no raiser up:
And I have kindled a fire in his cities,
And it hath devoured all round about him.
- ⁴³ Thus hath the LORD of Hosts said:
Oppressed are the Children of Israel,
And the Children of Judah together:
And all their captors
Have kept hold upon them;
They have refused to send them away.
- ⁴⁴ Their Redeemer is strong:
The LORD of Hosts is His name:
He thoroughly pleadeth their cause,
So as to cause the land to rest:
But He hath given trouble
To the inhabitants of Babylon.
- ⁴⁵ A sword is for the Chaldeans,
Affirmeth the LORD,
And is on the inhabitants of Babylon,
And on her heads, and on her wise men.
- ⁴⁶ A sword is on the princes,
And they have become foolish:
A sword is on her mighty ones,
And they have been broken down.
- ⁴⁷ A sword is on his horses,
And on his chariot,
And on all the rabble who are in her midst:
And they have become women:
- A sword is on her treasures,
And they have been spoiled.
- ⁴⁸ A sword is on her waters,
And they have been dried up:
For it is a land of graven images,
And in idols they boast themselves.
- ⁴⁹ Therefore dwell do Zim with him,
Yea, dwell in her have the daughters of the ostriches:
And it is not inhabited any more for ever,
Nor dwell in till many generations.
- ⁵⁰ As overthrown by God with Sodom,
And with Gomorrah,
And with its neighbours,
Affirmeth the LORD: none dwelleth there,
Nor sojourn in her doth a son of man.
- ⁵¹ Lo, a people cometh from the north,
Even a great nation,
And many kings are stirred up
From the sides of the earth.
- ⁵² Bow and halbert they seize:
Cruel are they, and they have no mercy:
Their voice as a sea soundeth,
And on horses they ride,
Set in array as a man for battle,
Against thee, O daughter of Babylon.
- ⁵³ Heard hath the king of Babylon their re-

Distress hath seized him,
Pain as a travelling woman.
- ⁵⁴ Lo, as a lion he cometh up,
Because of the rising of the Jordan,
Unto the enduring habitation:

And who is chosen? on her I lay a charge,
For who is like Me?

And who is this shepherd who standeth

Concerning Babylon,
And His devices which He hath devised
Concerning the land of the Chaldeans:

And the inhabitants of Leb, My with

- ² And I have sent to Babylon fanners,
And they have fanned it, and they empty
For they have been against it, [its laud:
Round about in the day of evil.
- ³ Let not the treader tread his bow,
Nor lift himself up in his coat of mail:
Nor have pity on her young men:
Devote ye to destruction all her host.
- ⁴ And fallen have the wounded
In the land of the Chaldeans,
And the pierced through in her streets.
- ⁵ For, not forsaken is Israel or Judah
By its God—by the LORD of Hosts:
For their land hath been full of guilt
Against the Holy One of Israel.
- ⁶ Flee ye from the midst of Babylon,
And deliver ye each his soul:

- Be not cut off in its iniquity;
For a time of vengeance it is to the LORD;
Recompence He is rendering to it.
- 7 A golden cup is Babylon in the hand of Making drunk all the earth: (the LORD,
From its wine drunk have nations;
Therefore, boast themselves do nations.
- 8 Suddenly hath Babylon fallen,
Yea, it is destroyed: howl ye for it;
Take ye balm for its pain,
If so be it may be healed.
- 9 Healed Babylon, but she was not healed:
Forsake her, and we go, each to his land:
For come unto heaven hath its judgment,
And been lifted up unto the clouds.

The work of the LORD our God.
- 11 Cleanse the arrows; fill the shields:
Stirred up hath the LORD
The spirit of the kings of Media:
For against Babylon is His device to de-

For it is the vengeance of the LORD,
The vengeance of His temple.

- 18 Vanity are they, the work of erring ones:
In the time of their inspection they perish.
- 19 Not like these is the portion of Jacob;
For He is framer of all things:
And Israel is the rod of His inheritance;
The LORD of Hosts is His name.
- 20 An axe art thou to me—weapons of war:
I have broken in pieces by thee nations,
And I have destroyed by thee kingdoms;
- 21 And I have broken in pieces by thee
A horse and its rider;
And I have broken in pieces by thee
A chariot and its charioteer;
- 22 And I have broken in pieces by thee
Man and woman;
And I have broken in pieces by thee
- Old and young;
And I have broken in pieces by thee
Young man and virgin;
- 23 And I have broken in pieces by thee
A shepherd and his drove:
And I have broken in pieces by thee
A husbandman and his team:
And I have broken in pieces by thee
Governor and prefects.
- 24 And I have recompensed to Babylon,
And to all the inhabitants of Chaldaea,
All the evil which they have done in Zion,
Before your eyes, affirmeth the LORD.
- 25 Lo, I am against thee, O destroying mount,
Affirmeth the LORD,
Which is destroying all the earth:
And I have stretched out
My hand against thee,
And I have rolled thee from the rocks,
And given thee for a burning mountain.
- 26 And they take not out of thee a stone for
Or a stone for foundations: [a corner,
For everlasting desolations art thou,

- 27 Lift ye up an ensign in the land,
Blow a trumpet among nations,
Sanctify against it nations,
Summon against it the kingdoms of Ara-
Minni, and Ashchenaz: [rat,
Appoint against it an infant head;
Cause the horse to ascend
As the rough cankerworm.
- 28 Sanctify against it the nations
With the kings of Media,
Its governors and all its prefects,
And all the land of its dominion.
- 29 And shake doth the land, and is pained:
For stood against Babylon
Have the purposes of the LORD,
To make the land of Babylon
As a desolation, without inhabitant.

They have remained in strongholds
Failed hath their might:
They have become women:
They have burnt her tabernacles;
Broken have been her bars.
- 31 Runner to meet runner runneth,
And announcer to meet announcer,
To announce to the king of Babylon:
For, captured hath been his city—at the extremity.
- 32 And the passages have been captured,
And the reeds they have burnt with fire,
And the men of war have been troubled.
- 33 For thus hath the LORD of Hosts,
God of Israel, said: [ing-floor,
The daughter of Babylon is as a thresh-
The time of her threshing—yet a little,
And come hath the time of her harvest.
- 34 Devoured us, crushed us,
Hath Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon,
He hath set us up as an empty vessel,
He hath swallowed us as a dragon,
He hath filled his belly with my dainties,
He hath driven us away. [Babylon,

And my blood is on the inhabitants of

Lo, I am pleading thy cause,
And have avenged thy vengeance;
And have dried up its sea,
And made its fountain dry.
And Babylon hath been for heaps,
A habitation of dragons, [inhabitant.
An astonishment, and a hissing, without
Together as young lions they roar:
They have shaken themselves as lions' whelps.
In their heat I make their banquets,
And I have caused them to drink,
So that they exult,
And have slept an everlasting sleep,
And awake not, affirmeth the LORD.
I cause them to go down as lambs to the
As rams with he-goats. [slaughter,
How hath Sheshach been captured;
Yea, caught is the praise of the whole
How hath Babylon [earth;
Been for an astonishment among nations.
Come up against Babylon hath the sea:
With a multitude of its billows
It hath been covered.
Its cities have been for a desolation,
A dry land, and a wilderness,
A land—none dwelleth in them,
Nor pass over into them doth a son of man.
And I have seen after Bel in Babylon,
And have brought out
That which he swallowed from his mouth;
And flow no more unto him do nations:
Even the wall of Babylon hath fallen.
Go out of its midst, O My people,
And deliver ye, each his soul,
Because of the fierceness
Of the anger of the LORD,
And lest your heart be tender,
And ye be afraid of the report
Which is heard in the land;
And come in a year hath the report,
And after it in a year the report,
And violence is in the land, ruler against
Therefore, lo, days are coming, [ruler.
And I have seen after the graven images
And all its land is ashamed, [of Babylon,
And all its pierced ones fall in its midst.
And cried aloud against Babylon
Have heaven, and earth,
And all that is in them:
For, from the north come to it do spoilers,
Affirmeth the LORD.
Even Babylon is to fall, O ye pierced of Is-Even they of Babylon have fallen, [rael;
ye pierced of all the earth.
Ye escaped of the sword, go on, stand not Remember ye from afar the LORD, [still:
And let Jerusalem come up on your heart.
We have been ashamed, for we have heard
Covered hath shame our faces, [reproach:
For come in have strangers [the LORD.
Against the sanctuaries of the house of
Therefore, lo, days are coming,
Affirmeth the LORD,
And I have seen after its graven images:
And through all its land
Grown doth the wounded.
Because Babylon goeth up to the heavens,
And because it fenced
The high place of its strength,
From Me come into it do spoilers,

Affirmeth the LORD.
A voice of a cry is from Babylon,
And of great destruction
From the land of the Chaldeans:
For the LORD is spoiling Babylon,
And hath destroyed out of it a great voice:
And sounded have its billows as many wa-
Given out a noise hath their voice: [ters,
For come in against it—
Against Babylon—hath a spoiler,
And captured have been its mighty ones,
Broken have been their bows:
For the God of recompences—
The LORD—certainly repayeth.
And I have caused its princes to drink,
And its wise men,
Its governors, and its prefects,
And its mighty ones:
And they have slept an everlasting sleep,
And they awake not, affirmeth the king,
The LORD of Hosts is His Name.
Thus hath the LORD of Hosts said:
The walls of Babylon—the broad one—
Is utterly made bare:
And her high gates with fire are burnt;
And peoples labour in vain,
And nations in fire, and have been weary.
THE word which Jeremiah the prophet hath commanded Seraiah son of Neriah, son of Maaseiah, in his going with Zedekiah king of Judah to Babylon, in the fourth year of his reign, (and Seraiah is a quiet prince.) And Jeremiah writeth all the evil which cometh unto Babylon in one book—all these words which are written concerning Babylon.
And Jeremiah saith unto Seraiah,
When thou enterest Babylon, then hast thou seen, and read all these words, and hast said, LORD, Thou, Thou hast spoken concerning this place, to cut it off, that there be none dwelling in it, from man unto cattle, for it is an everlasting desolation.
And it hath come to pass, when thou dost finish reading this book, thou bindest to it a stone, and hast cast it into the midst of the Euphrates, and hast said, Thus sink doth Babylon, and it ariseth not, because of the evil which I am bringing in against her: and they have been weary.
Hitherto are the words of Jeremiah.
LII. TWENTY and one years old is Ze-dekiah in his reigning, and eleven years hath he reigned in Jerusalem, and the name of his mother is Hamutal daughter of Jeremiah of Libnah. And he doth the evil thing in the eyes of the LORD, according to all that Jehoiakim hath done. For, because of the anger of the LORD, it hath been in Jerusalem and Judah till He hath cast them from before His face; and Zedekiah rebelled against the king of Babylon.
And it cometh to pass, in the ninth year of his reign, in the tenth month, in the tenth of the month, come hath Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon (he and all his force) against Jerusalem, and they encamp against it, and build against it a fortification round about. And the city cometh into siege till the eleventh year of king Zedekiah.

⁶In the fourth month, in the ninth of the month, when the famine is severe in the city, and there hath been no bread for the people of the land, ⁷then is the city broken up, and all the men of war flee, and go out from the city by night, the way of the gate between the two walls, which is by the king's garden, (and the Chaldeans are by the city round about,) and they go the way of the plain. ⁸And the forces of the Chaldeans pursue after the king, and overtake Zedekiah in the plains of Jericho: and all his forces have been scattered from him. ⁹And they capture the king, and bring him up unto the king of Babylon to Riblah, in the land of Hamath: and he speaketh with him—judgments. ¹⁰And the king of Babylon slayeth the sons of Zedekiah before his eyes: and also all the princes of Judah hath he slain in Riblah. ¹¹And the eyes of Zedekiah he hath blinded, and bindeth him in fetters, and the king of Babylon bringeth him to Babylon, and putteth him in the house of inspection till the day of his death.

¹⁷And the pillars of brass which are to the house of the LORD, and the bases, and the brazen sea that is in the house of the LORD, have the Chaldeans broken, and they bear away their brass to Babylon. ¹⁸And the pots, and the shovels, and the snuffers, and the bowls, and the spoons, and all the vessels of brass wherewith they minister, have they taken away. ¹⁹And the basins, and the firepans, and the bowls, and the pots, and the candlesticks, and the spoons, and the cups: the gold of that which is gold, and the silver of that which is silver, hath the chief of the guard taken. ²⁰The two pillars, the one sea, and the twelve brazen oxen which are beneath, the bases which king Solomon made for the house of the LORD, there was no weighing of the brass of all these vessels. ²¹As to the pillars, eighteen cubits is the height of the one pillar, and a cord of sixteen cubits compasseth it: and its thickness is four fingers, hollow. ²²And the chapter upon it is of brass: and the height of the one chapter is five cubits, with network, and pomegranates on the chapters round about, the whole is of brass: and like these have the second pillar, and the pomegranates. ²³And there are ninety and six pomegranates on a side: all the pomegranates are a hundred on the net-work round about.

²⁴And the chief of the guard taketh Seraiah the high priest, and Zeephaniah the second priest, and the three keepers of the threshold: ²⁵and out of the city hath he taken a certain eunuch, who hath been inspector over the men of war: and seven men of those who see the king's face, who have been found in the city, and the head scribe of the host, who mustereth the people of the land, and sixty men of the people of the land, who are found in the midst of the city. ²⁶And Nebuzar-Adan, chief of the guard, taketh them, and bringeth them unto the king of Babylon to Riblah. ²⁷And the king of Babylon smiteth them, and putteth them to death in Riblah, in the land of Hamath: and he removeth Judah from off its own ground.

²⁸This is the people whom Nebuchadrezzar hath removed: in the seventh year, of Jews, three thousand and twenty and three: ²⁹in the eighteenth year of Nebuchadrezzar—from Jerusalem, souls, eight hundred thirty and two: ³⁰in the three and twentieth year of Nebuchadrezzar, hath Nebuzar-Adan, chief of the guard, removed of Jewish souls, seven hundred forty and five: all the souls are four thousand and six hundred.

³¹And it cometh to pass, in the thirty and seventh year of the removal of Jehoiachin king of Judah, in the twelfth month, in the twenty and fifth of the month, hath Evil-Merodach king of Babylon lifted up, in the year of his reign, the head of Jehoiachin king of Judah, and bringeth him out from the house of restraint, ³²and speaketh with him good things, and setteth his throne above the throne of the kings who are with him in Babylon: ³³and he hath changed his prison garments, and he hath eaten bread before him continually, all the days of his life. ³⁴And his allowance, a continual allowance, hath been given to him by the king of Babylon: the matter of a day in its day, till the day of his death—all the days of his life.

LAMENTATIONS.

- I. ¹ HOW hath she sat alone,
The city abounding with people;
She hath been as a widow,
The mighty among nations;
Princess among provinces,
She hath become tributary!
- ² She weepeth sore in the night,
And her tears are on her cheeks;
There is no comforter for her
Out of all her lovers:
All her friends dealt treacherously by her,
They have been to her for enemies.
- ³ Removed hath Judah because of affliction,
And from the abundance of her service;
She hath dwelt among nations,
She hath not found rest:
All her pursuers have overtaken her
Between the straits.
- ⁴ The ways of Zion are mourning, [time:
Without any coming at the appointed
All her gates are desolate; her priests sigh,
Her virgins are afflicted,
And she—hath bitterness.
- ⁵ Her adversaries have become chief,
Her enemies have been at ease;
For the LORD hath afflicted her
For the abundance of her transgressions:
Her infants have gone captive
Before the adversary.
- ⁶ And go out from the daughter of Zion
Doth all her honour:
Her princes have been as harts—
They have not found pasture:
And they go powerless before the pursuer.
- ⁷ Remembered hath Jerusalem
In the days of her affliction and mourn-
All her desirable things [ings,
Which were from the days of old,
In the falling of her people
Into the hand of the adversary,
And she hath no helper:
Seen her have the adversaries,
They have laughed at her cessations.
- ⁸ A sin hath Jerusalem sinned;
Therefore, impure she hath become:
All who honoured her have esteemed her lightly,
For they have seen her nakedness;
Yea, she herself hath sighed,
And turneth backward.
- ⁹ Her uncleanness is in her skirts:
She hath not remembered her latter end;
And she cometh down wonderfully:
There is no comforter for her.
See, O LORD, mine affliction:
For made himself great hath the enemy.
- ¹⁰ His hand spread out hath the adversary
On all her desirable things:
For she hath seen:
Nations have entered her sanctuary,
Concerning which Thou didst command,
'They shall not come
Into the congregation to thee.'
- ¹¹ All her people sigh, they seek bread:
They have given their desirable things
For food to refresh the body:
See, O LORD and behold attentively;
- For I have been lightly esteemed.
¹² Is it nothing to you,
All ye who pass by the way?
Look attentively, and consider,
If there be any pain like my pain,
Which is rolled upon me?
Whom the LORD hath afflicted
In the day of the fierceness of His anger.
¹³ From above He sent fire into my bones,
And it subdueth it:
He hath spread a net for my feet;
He hath turned me backward:
He hath made me desolate—all day sick.
¹⁴ Bound hath been the yoke of my trans-
By His hand; [gressions
They are wrapped together:
They have gone up on my neck;
He hath caused my power to stumble:
The LORD hath given me into hands,
I am unable to rise.
- ¹⁵ Trodden down all my mighty ones
Hath the LORD in my midst:
He proclaimed against me an appointed
To destroy my young men: [time
A wine-press hath the LORD trodden.
Even the virgin, the daughter of Judah.
- ¹⁶ For these I am weeping:
Mine eye, mine eye runneth down waters,
For, far from me hath been a comforter,
Refreshing my soul;
My children have been desolate,
For mighty hath been the enemy.
- ¹⁷ Spread forth hath Zion her hands,
There is no comforter for her:
The LORD hath willed concerning Jacob,
His neighbours are his adversaries
Jerusalem hath become impure among ¹⁸ Righteous is the LORD; [them.
For His mouth have I provoked:
Hear, I pray you, all ye peoples,
And consider my pain:
My virgins and my young men
Have gone into captivity.
- ¹⁹ I have called for my lovers—
They—they have deceived me;
My priests and mine elders
In the city have expired:
When they have sought food for them
Then they give back their soul. [selves.
- ²⁰ See, O LORD, for distress is to me;
My bowels have been troubled:
Turned hath been my heart in my midst:
For I have greatly provoked:
From without bereaved hath the sword,
In the house it is as death.
- ²¹ They have heard that I have sighed:
There is no comforter for me:
All mine enemies heard of my calamity:
They have rejoiced that Thou—
Thou hast done it:
—Thou hast brought in the day Thou hast
And they are like to me. [called,
- ²² Come in doth all their evil before Thee;
And one hath done to them
As Thou hast done to me,
For all my transgressions:
For many my sighs, and my heart is sick.

- II. ¹ HOW doth the Lord cloud in His anger:
The daughter of Zion,
He hath cast from heaven to earth
The beauty of Israel,
And hath not remembered His footstool
In the day of His anger.
- ² Swallowed up hath the Lord:
He hath not pitied any of the pleasant
places of Jacob:
He hath broken down in His wrath
The fortresses of the daughter of Judah:
He caused to come to the earth,
He polluted the kingdom and its princes.
- ³ He hath cut off in the heat of anger
Every horn of Israel:
He hath turned backward His right hand
From the face of the enemy,
And He burneth against Jacob
As a flaming fire,
It hath devoured round about.
- ⁴ He hath trodden His bow as an enemy:
Stood hath His right hand as an adver-
And He slayeth [sary,
All the desirable ones of the eye,
In the tent of the daughter of Zion,
He hath poured out as fire His fury.
- ⁵ The Lord hath been as an enemy;
He hath swallowed up Israel,
He hath swallowed up all her palaces;
He hath destroyed His fortresses,
And multiplieth in the daughter of Judah
Mourning and lamentation.
- ⁶ And He shaketh as a garden his tabernacle;
He hath destroyed His appointed place:
The Lord hath forgotten in Zion
The appointed time and sabbath,
And despiseth, in the indignation of His King and priest. [anger,
- ⁷ The Lord hath cast off His altar,
He hath rejected His sanctuary,
He hath shut up to the hand of the enemy
The walls of her palaces;
A noise they have made in the house of
Like a day—appointed. [the Lord
- ⁸ Devised hath the Lord to destroy
The wall of the daughter of Zion:
He hath stretched out a line, [stroying:
He hath not turned His hand from de-
And causeth bulwark and wall to mourn;
Together they have been weak.
- ⁹ Sunk unto the earth have her gates;
He hath destroyed and broken her bars:
Her king and her princes
Are among the nations:
There is no law; even her prophets
Have not found vision from the Lord.
- ¹⁰ Sit on the earth—keep silent
Do the elders of the daughter of Zion:
They have caused dust to go up on their
They have girded on sackcloth: [head;
Put down to the earth their head
Have the virgins of Jerusalem.
- ¹¹ Consumed by tears have been mine eyes,
Troubled have been my bowels, [liver,
Poured out to the earth hath been my
For the breach of the daughter of my
people;
In infant and suckling being feeble,
In the broad places of the city,
- ¹² To their mothers they say,
‘Where are corn and wine?’

- In their becoming feeble as a pierced one
In the broad places of the city,
In their soul pouring itself out
Into the bosom of their mothers.
- ¹³ What shall I testify to thee?
What shall I liken to thee,
O daughter of Jerusalem?
What shall I equal to thee, and I comfort
O virgin, daughter of Zion? [thee,
For great as a sea is thy breach;
Who shall give healing to thee?
- ¹⁴ Thy prophets have seen for thee
A false and insipid thing;
And have not revealed concerning thine
To turn back thy captivity; [iniquity,
And they see for thee false burdens,
And causes of expulsion.
- ¹⁵ Clapped hands at thee
Have all who pass by the way;
They have hissed—they shake the head
At the daughter of Jerusalem:
‘Is this the city of which they said:
The perfection of beauty,
A joy to all the land?’
- ¹⁶ Opened against thee their mouth
Have all thine enemies:
They have hissed, yea, gnash the teeth:
They said: ‘We have swallowed her up;
Surely this is the day which we looked for;
We have found—we have seen.’
- ¹⁷ The Lord hath done that which He de-
He hath fulfilled His saying [vised;
Which He willed from the days of old:
He hath broken down and pitied not,
And causeth an enemy to rejoice over thee;
He lifted up the horn of thine adversaries.
- ¹⁸ Cried hath their heart unto the Lord:
O wall of the daughter of Zion,
Cause to go down as a stream tears
Daily and nightly:
Give not rest to thyself;
Let not the daughter of thine eye stand
- ¹⁹ Arise, cry aloud in the night: [still.
At the beginning of the watches,
Pour out as water thy heart,
Over-against the face of the Lord
Lift up unto Him thy hands,
For the soul of thine infants,
Who are feeble with hunger
At the head of all the out-places.
- ²⁰ See, O Lord, and look attentively
To whom Thou hast acted thus.
Do women eat their fruit,
Infants of a handbreadth?
Slain in the sanctuary of the Lord
Are priest and prophet?
- ²¹ Laid on the earth in the out-places
Have young and old:
My virgins and my young men
Have fallen by the sword;
Thou hast slain in a day of Thine anger;
Thou hast slaughtered—has not pitied.
- ²² Thou callest, as at an appointed day,
My fears from round about,
And there hath not been
In a day of the anger of the Lord,
An escaped or remaining one:
They whom I stretched out and nourished,
My enemy hath consumed.
- III. ¹ I am the man who hath seen affliction
By the rod of His wrath.

- 1 Me hath He led, and causeth to walk in Without light. [darkness,
 2 Surely against me He turneth back;
 He turneth His hand all the day.
 3 He hath worn out my flesh and my skin,
 He hath broken my bones.
 4 He hath built against me,
 And setteth round poverty and weariness.
 5 In dark places He hath caused me to dwell,
 As the dead of old.
 6 He hath helmed me about, and I go not
 He hath made heavy my fetter. [out:
 7 Even when I call and cry out,
 He hath shut out my prayer.
 8 He hath hedged my ways with hewn work:
 My paths He hath made crooked.
 9 A bear lying in wait He is to me,
 A lion in secret hiding-places.
 10 My ways He is turning aside,
 And pulleth me in pieces:
 He hath made me desolate.
 11 He hath trodden His bow,
 And setteth me up as a mark for an arrow.
 12 He hath caused to enter into my reins
 The arrows of His quiver.
 13 I have been a derision to all my people,
 Their song all the day.
 14 He hath filled me with bitter things,
 He hath filled me with wormwood.
 15 And He breaketh with gravel my teeth,
 He hath covered me with ashes.
 16 And Thou castest off from peace my soul:
 I have forgotten prosperity.
 17 And I say, Perished hath my strength
 And my hope from the Lord:
 18 Remember my affliction and my mourn-
 The wormwood and the gall. [ing,
 19 Remember well, and bow down
 Doth my soul within me.
 20 This I turn to my heart—therefore I hope,
 21 The kindness of the Lord I
 For we have not been consumed,
 For not ended have His mercies.
 22 New every morning:
 Abundant is thy faithfulness.
 23 My portion is the Lord, hath my soul said:
 Therefore I hope for Him.
 24 Good is the Lord to those who wait for
 To the soul that seeketh Him. [Him,
 25 Good, when one stayeth and standeth still
 For the salvation of the Lord.
 26 Good for a man that he bare a yoke in his youth.
 27 He sitteth alone, and is silent,
 For He hath laid it upon him.
 28 He putteth in the dust his mouth,
 If so be there is hope.
 29 He giveth to his smiter the cheek:
 He is filled with reproach.
 30 For the Lord casteth not off for ever.
 31 For though He hath afflicted,
 Yet He hath pitied, [ness.
 According to the abundance of His tender-
 32 For He hath not afflicted with His heart,
 Nor doth He grieve the children of men.
 33 To bruise under one's feet
 Any bound ones of earth,
 34 To turn aside the judgment of a man,
 Over-against the face of the Most High,
 35 To subvert a man in his cause,
 The Lord hath not enjoyed.
- 36 Who is this that hath said, and it is,
 Yet the Lord hath not willed it?
 37 From the mouth of the Most High
 Go not out the evils and the good?
 38 What—sigh habitually shall a living man?
 A man for his sin?
 39 Let us search our ways, and investigate,
 And let us turn back unto the Lord.
 40 Let us lift up our hearts on the hands
 Unto God in the heavens.
 41 We—we have transgressed and rebelled:
 Thou—Thou hast not forgiven.
 42 Thou hast covered Thyself with anger,
 And dost pursue us:
 Thou hast slain, Thou hast not pitied.
 43 Thou hast covered Thyself with a cloud,
 So that prayer passeth not through.
 44 Offscouring and refuse Thou makest us
 In the midst of the peoples.
 45 Opened against us their mouth
 Have all our enemies.
 46 Fear and a snare have been for us,
 Desolation and destruction.
 47 Rivulets of water go down mine eye,
 For the destruction of the daughter of 48 Mine eye hath run out, [my people,
 And ceaseth not, without intermission,
 49 While the Lord looketh
 And seeth from the heavens.
 50 Mine eye acteth on my soul,
 Because of all the daughters of my city.
 51 Hunted me sore as a bird
 Have mine enemies without cause.
 52 They have cut off in a pit my life,
 And they cast a stone against me;
 53 Flowed have waters over my head;
 I have said, I have been cut off.
 54 I have called Thy name, O Lord,
 From the lower pit.
 55 My voice Thou hast heard: [my cry,
 Hide not Thine ear at my breathing—at 56 Thou drewest near in the day I call Thee:
 Thou hast said, Fear not.
 57 Thou hast pleaded, O Lord,
 The pleadings of my soul,
 Thou hast redeemed my life.
 58 Thou hast seen, O Lord, my overthrow:
 Judge Thou my cause.
 59 Thou hast seen all their vengeance,
 All their thoughts against me.
 60 Thou hast heard their reproach, O Lord,
 All their thoughts against me;
 61 The lips of my withstanders,
 Their meditation against me all the day.
 62 Their sitting down, and their rising up
 Behold attentively: I am their song.
 63 Thou returnest to them a recompence, O
 Lord,
 According to the work of their hands.
 64 Thou givest to them a covered heart,
 Thy curse—to them. [them,
 65 Thou pursuest in anger, and destroyest
 From under the heavens of the Lord.
 IV. 1 HOW is the gold become dim,
 Changed the best, the pure gold?
 Poured out are the stones of the sanc-
 At the head of all the out-places. [tuary
 2 The precious sons of Zion,
 Who are comparable with fine gold,
 How were they reckoned earthen bottles,
 The work of the hands of the potter.

- 3 Even dragons have drawn out the breast,
They have suckled their young ones:
The daughter of my people is become cruel,
Like the ostriches in a wilderness.
- 4 Cleaved hath the tongue of the suckling
Unto his palate with thirst:
Infants have asked bread,
A dealer out they have none.
- 5 Those who eat of dainties
Have been desolate in out-places;
Those supported on scarlet
Have embraced dunghills.
- 6 And greater is the iniquity
Of the daughter of my people
Than the sin of Sodom,
Which was overturned as in a moment,
And no hands stayed on her.
- 7 Purer have been her Nazarites than snow,
Whiter than milk, ruddier of body than
Of sapphire their form: [rubies,
- 8 Darker than blackness
Have been their visage;
They have not been known in out-places:
Cleaved hath their skin unto their bone:
It hath withered—it hath been as wood.
- 9 Better have been the pierced of a sword
Than the pierced of famine:
For they flow away, pierced through,
Without the increase of the field.
- 10 The hands of merciful women
Have boiled their own children:
They have been for food to them [people.
In the destruction of the daughter of my
- 11 Completed hath the LORD His fury:
He hath poured out the fierceness of His
And He kindleth a fire in Zion, [anger,
And it devoureth her foundations.
- 12 Believe not did the kings of the earth,
Or any of the inhabitants of the world,
That come should an adversary or enemy
Into the gates of Jerusalem.
- 13 For the sins of her prophets,
The iniquities of her priests,
Who shed in her the blood of the righteous,
- 14 They have wandered naked in out-places,
They have been polluted with blood,
Without any being able
To touch their clothing. [them:
- 15 'Turn aside—unclean:' they called to 'Turn aside, turn aside, touch not:'
For they have fled—
Yea, they have wandered;
They have sulk among the nations,
'They continue not to sojourn.'
- 16 The face of the LORD hath divided them:
He continueth not to behold them:
The face of priests they have not lifted up,
And elders they have not favoured.
- 17 While we exist—consumed are our eyes
For our vain help:
On the watch-tower we have watched
For a nation which saveth not.
- 18 They have hunted our steps
From going in our broad-places:
Near hath been our end,
Fulfilled have been our days;
For come hath our end.
- 19 Swifter have been our pursuers
Than the eagles of heaven:
On the mountains they burned after us,
In the wilderness they laid wait for us.
- 20 The breath of our nostrils,
The anointed of the LORD,
Hath been captured in their pits,
Of whom we said:
'In his shadow we live among the nations.'
- 21 Joy and rejoice, O daughter of Edom,
Dwelling in the land of Uz:
Even unto thee pass over doth a cup;
Thou art drunk,
And makest thyself naked.
- 22 Complete is thine iniquity, O daughter of Zion;
He continueth not to remove thee:
He hath inspected thine iniquity,
O daughter of Edom;
He hath removed thee for thy sins.
- V. 1 REMEMBER, O LORD,
What hath befallen us:
Look attentively, and see our reproof.
2 Our inheritance hath been turned to
Our houses to foreigners. [strangers,
3 Orphans we have been, without a father
Our mothers are as widows.
4 Our water for money we have drunk;
Our wood for a price cometh.
5 For our neck we have been pursued:
We have laboured,
There hath been no rest for us.
6 To Egypt we have given the hand,
To Asshur, to be satisfied with bread.
7 Our fathers have sinned, they are not;
We their iniquities have borne.
8 Servants have ruled over us:
A deliverer there is none from their hand.
9 With our lives we bring in our bread,
Because of the sword of the wilderness.
10 Our skin as an oven hath been burning,
Because of the raging of the famine.
11 Wives in Zion they have humbled,
Virgins, in the cities of Judah.
12 Princes by their hand have been hanged:
The faces of elders
Have not been honoured.
13 Young men to grind they have taken,
Children under the wood have stumbled.
14 The aged from the gate have ceased,
Young men from their song.
15 Ceased hath the joy of our heart: [sing.
Turned to mourning hath been our dance.
16 Fallen hath the crown from our head:
We is now to us, for we have sinned.
17 For this hath our heart been sick:
For these have our eyes been dim.
18 For the mountain of Zion,
That is desolate, foxes have gone up on it.
19 Thou, O LORD, for ever remainest;
Thy throne to generation and generation.
20 Why for ever dost Thou forget us?
Thou forsakest us for length of days.
21 Turn us back, O LORD, unto Thee,
And we turn back; renew our days as of 22 For, hast Thou utterly rejected us? [old.
Thou hast been very wroth against us!

EZEKIEL.

CHAP. I. ¹AND it cometh to pass, in the thirtieth year, in the fourth month, in the fifth of the month, and I am in the midst of the Removal by the river Chebar, the heavens have been opened, and I see visions of God.

²In the fifth of the month—it is the fifth year of the removal of the king Jehoiachin—³the word of the Lord hath certainly been unto Ezekiel son of Buzi the priest, in the land of the Chaldeans, by the river Chebar: and the hand of the Lord is on him there.

⁴And I look, and lo, a tempestuous wind is coming from the north, a great cloud, and fire catching itself, and brightness is to it round about, and out of its midst as the colour of copper, out of the midst of the fire.

⁵And out of its midst is a likeness of four living creatures, and this is their appearance: the likeness of man is to them. ⁶And four faces are to each, and four wings are to each of them. ⁷And their feet are straight feet; and the sole of their feet is as a sole of a calf's foot: and they are sparkling as the colour of bright brass. ⁸And the hands of man under their wings, on their four sides, and their faces, and their wings, are to them four. ⁹Joining one unto another are their wings: they turn not round in their going: each goeth straight forward. ¹⁰As to the likeness of their faces, the face of a man, and the face of a lion toward the right are to them four: and the face of an ox at the left are to them four; and the face of an eagle are to them four. ¹¹And their faces and their wings are separate from above; to each are two joining together, and two are covering their bodies. ¹²And each goeth straight forward: whither the spirit is to go, they go: they turn not round in their going. ¹³As to the likeness of the living creatures, their appearances are as coals of fire—burning as the appearance of lamps: it is going up and down between the living creatures; and brightness is to the fire, and out of the fire goeth out lightning. ¹⁴And the living creatures are running, and turning back, as the appearance of the flash.

¹⁹And in the going of the living creatures, the wheels go beside them: and in the living creatures being lifted up from off the earth, lifted up are the wheels. ²⁰Whither the spirit is to go, they go, thither the spirit is to go; and the wheels are lifted up over-against them: for a living spirit is in the wheels. ²¹In their going, they go; and in their standing, they stand; and in their being lifted up from off the earth, lifted up are the wheels over-against them: for a living spirit is in the wheels.

²²And the likeness of an expanse is over the heads of the living creature, as the colour of the fearful ice, stretched out over their heads from above. ²³And under the expanse their wings are straight, one toward the other: to each are two covering on this side, and to each are two covering on that side, their bodies. ²⁴And I hear the noise of their wings, as the noise of many waters, as the noise of the Mighty One, in their going—the noise of tumult, as the noise of a camp: in their standing they let fall their wings. ²⁵And there is a voice from above the expanse, which is above their head; in their standing they let fall their wings. ²⁶And from above the expanse which is over their head, as an appearance of a sapphire stone, is the likeness of a throne, and on the likeness of the throne a likeness, as the appearance of a man upon it from above. ²⁷And I see as the colour of copper, as the appearance of fire within it round about, from the appearance of his loins and upward, and from the appearance of his loins and downward, I have seen as the appearance of fire, and brightness is to it round about. ²⁸As the appearance of the bow that is in a cloud in a day of rain, so is the appearance of the brightness round about.

II. ¹IT is the appearance of the likeness of the honour of the Lord; and I see, and fall on my face, and hear a voice speaking: and He saith unto me, 'Son of man, stand on thy feet, and I speak with thee.' ²And a spirit cometh into me when He hath spoken unto me, and causeth me to stand on my feet, and I hear Him who is speaking unto me. ³And He saith unto me, 'Son of man, I am sending thee unto the Children of Israel, unto nations who are rebels, who have rebelled against Me: they and their fathers have transgressed against Me, unto this self-same day. ⁴And the children are brazen-faced and hard-hearted to whom I am sending thee: and thou hast said unto them: Thus hath the Lord Jehovah said: and they—whether they hear, or whether they forbear, for a rebellious house they are—have known that a prophet hath been in their midst.

⁵And thou, son of man, thou shalt not be afraid of them, yea, of their words thou shalt not be afraid, for briars and thorns are with thee, and near scorpions thou art dwelling: of their words thou shalt not be afraid, and of their faces thou shalt not be afflicted, for they are a rebellious house. ⁷And thou hast spoken My words unto them, whether they hear or whether they forbear; for they are rebellious.

'And thou, son of man, hear that which I am speaking unto thee: Thou shalt not be rebellious like that rebellious house; open thy mouth, and eat that which I am giving unto thee.' ⁹And I look, and lo, a hand is sent out unto me; and lo, in it a roll of a book, ¹⁰and He spreadeth it before me; and it is written in front and behind; and written on it are lamentations, and mourning, and wo.

III. ¹AND He saith unto me, 'Son of man, that which thou findest eat: eat this roll, and go, speak unto the house of Israel.' ²And I open my mouth, and He causeth me to eat that roll. ³And He saith unto me, 'Son of man, thy belly thou shalt feed, and thy bowels fill with this roll which I am giving unto thee:' and I eat it, and it is in my mouth as honey for sweetness.

⁴And He saith unto me, 'Son of man, go, enter in unto the house of Israel, then hast thou spoken with My words unto them. ⁵For, not unto a people deep of lip and heavy of tongue art thou sent—unto the house of Israel: ⁶not unto many peoples, deep of lip and heavy of tongue, whose words thou dost not understand. If I had not sent thee unto them—they, they would hearken unto thee, ⁷but the house of Israel are not willing to hearken unto thee, for they are not willing to hearken unto Me: for all the house of Israel are brazen-faced and hard-hearted. ⁸Lo, I have made thy face strong against their face, and thy forehead strong against their forehead. ⁹As an adamant harder than a rock have I made thy forehead: thou shalt not fear them, nor be affrighted before them, for a rebellious house are they.'

¹⁰And He saith unto me, 'Son of man, all My words, that I speak unto thee, receive with thy heart, and with thine ears hear. ¹¹And go, enter in unto the Removal, unto the children of thy people, then hast thou spoken unto them, and hast said unto them: Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Whether they hear, or whether they forbear.'

¹²And a spirit lifteth me up, and I hear behind me a noise, a great rushing, (blessed is the honour of the Lord from His place;) ¹³even a noise of the wings of the living creatures touching one another, and a noise of the wheels over-against them, even a noise of a great rushing. ¹⁴And a spirit hath lifted me up, and taketh me away, and I go bitterly, in the heat of my spirit: and the hand of the Lord on me is strong. ¹⁵And I come in unto the Removal, at Tel-Abib, who are dwelling at the river Chebar, and where they are dwelling I also dwell there seven days, causing astonishment in their midst.

¹⁶And it cometh to pass, at the end of seven days, that the word of the Lord is unto me, saying, ¹⁷'Son of man, a watchman have I made thee to the house of Israel: and thou hast heard a word from My mouth, and hast warned them from Me. ¹⁸In My saying to the wicked: Thou shalt surely die; and thou hast not warned him, nor hast spoken to warn the wicked from his wicked way, that he may live; he—the wicked—in his iniquity dieth; and his blood from thy hand I require. ¹⁹And thou, because thou hast warned the wicked, and he hath not turned back from his wickedness, and from his wicked way, he in his iniquity dieth; and thou thine own soul hast delivered.

²⁰'And in the turning back of the righteous from his righteousness, and he hath done perversity, and I have put a stumbling-block before him, he dieth: because thou hast not warned him, in his sin he dieth, and not remembered is his righteousness which he hath done; and his blood from thy hand I require. ²¹And thou, because thou hast warned him—the righteous—that the righteous sin not, and he hath not sinned, he surely liveth, because he hath been warned; and thou thine own soul hast delivered.'

²²And on me there is the hand of the Lord; and He saith unto me: 'Rise, go out unto the valley, and there I speak with thee.' ²³And I rise and go out unto the valley; and lo, there the honour of the Lord is standing as the honour which I had seen by the river Chebar: and I fall on my face. ²⁴And come unto me doth a spirit, and it causeth me to stand on my feet, and He speaketh with me, and saith unto me, 'Go in, be shut up in the midst of thy house. ²⁵And thou, son of man, lo, they have put on thee thick bands, and have bound thee with them, and thou goest not out in their midst; ²⁶and thy tongue I cause to cleave unto thy palate, and thou hast been dumb, and dost not become to them a reprover: for a rebellious house are they. ²⁷And in My speaking with thee, I open thy mouth, and thou hast said unto them: Thus hath the Lord Jehovah said: Let the hearer hear, and let the forbearer forbear: for a rebellious house are they.'

IV. ¹'AND thou, son of man, take to thyself a brick, then hast thou put it before thee, and hast graven on it a city—Jerusalem: ²and hast placed against it a siege, and builded against it a fortification, and poured out against it a mound: and placed against it camps, yea, set thou against it battering-rams round about. ³And thou, take to thyself an iron pan, then hast thou made it a wall of iron between thee and the city: and hast prepared thy face against it, and it hath been in a state of siege, yea, thou hast laid siege against it. A sign it is to the house of Israel.

⁴'And thou, lie on thy left side, then hast thou placed the iniquity of the house of Israel on it: the number of the days which thou liest on it, thou bearest their iniquity. ⁵And I—I have laid on thee the years of their iniquity, the number of days, three hundred and ninety days: and thou hast borne the iniquity of the house of Israel. ⁶And thou hast completed these, and hast lain on thy right side, a second time, and hast borne the iniquity of the house of Judah forty days—a day for a year, a day for a year I have appointed for thee.

⁷'And unto the siege of Jerusalem thou dost prepare thy face, and thine arm is uncovered, and thou hast prophesied concerning it. ⁸ And lo, I have put on thee thick bands, and thou turnest not from side to side till thy completing the days of thy siege.

⁹ And thou, take to thyself wheat, and barley, and beans, and lentiles, and millet, and spelt, then hast thou put them in one vessel, and made them to thyself for bread, the number of the days which thou art lying on thy side—three hundred and ninety days—dost thou eat it. ¹⁰ And thy food which thou dost eat is by weight, twenty shekels daily: from time to time dost thou eat it. ¹¹ And water by measure dost thou drink, a sixth part of a hin: from time to time dost thou drink it. ¹² With a barley-cake dost thou eat it, and of it with dung (the filth of man), dost thou make a cake before their eyes.

¹³ And the Lord saith, 'Thus do the Children of Israel eat their defiled bread among the nations whither I drive them.'

¹⁴ And I say, 'Ah, Lord Jehovah, lo, my soul is not defiled; and carcase, or torn thing, I have not eaten from my youth, even till now: nor come into my mouth hath abominable flesh.'

¹⁵ And He saith unto me, 'See, I have given to thee bullock's dung instead of man's dung, and thou hast made thy bread by it.'

¹⁶ And He saith unto me, 'Son of man, lo, I am breaking the staff of bread in Jerusalem; and they have eaten bread by weight and with fear; and water by measure, and with astonishment, do they drink: ¹⁷ so that they lack bread and water, and have been astonished one with another, and been consumed for their iniquity.'

V. ¹ AND thou, son of man, take to thyself a sharp weapon, a barber's razor dost thou take to thyself, and thou hast caused it to pass over thy head, and over thy beard; and hast taken to thyself weighing scales, and apportioned them. ² A third part with fire thou dost burn in the midst of the city, at the fulness of the days of the siege: and thou hast taken the third part, thou dost smite with a weapon round about it; and the third part thou dost scatter to the wind: and a weapon I draw out after them.

³ And thou hast taken from thence a few in number, and hast bound them in thy skirts. ⁴ And some of them dost thou take again, and hast cast them into the midst of the fire, and hast burned them in the fire: out of it cometh a fire to all the house of Israel.

⁵ Thus hath the Lord Jehovah said:

This is Jerusalem:

In the midst of the nations have I set her, And round about her are the lands.

⁶ And she changeth My judgments

Into wickedness more than the nations, And My statutes more than the lands Which are round about her:

For against My judgments they kicked, And My statutes—

They have not walked in them.

⁷ Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Because of your multiplying

Above the nations which are round you, In My statutes ye have not walked, And My judgments ye have not done, According to the judgments of the nations Which are round about you Have ye not done:

⁸ Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Lo, I am against thee, even I, And have done in thy midst judgments Before the eyes of the nations.

⁹ And I have done in thee That which I have not done, And that which I do not its like again, Because of all thine abominations.

¹⁰ Therefore do fathers eat children in thy And children eat their fathers: [midst, And I have done in thee judgments, And have scattered

The whole of thy remnant to every wind. ¹¹ Therefore, I live,

Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah: Because My sanctuary thou hast defiled, With all thy detestable things, And with all thine abominations, Yea, Mine eye pitieth not, and I spare not. Do not even I also diminish?

¹² Thy third part, by pestilence they die, And by famine are consumed in thy midst; And the third part, by sword they fall Round about thee;

And the third part, to every wind I scatter, And a sword draw out after them.

¹³ And completed hath been Mine anger, And I have caused My fury to rest on them, And have been comforted; And they have known that I the Lord Have spoken in My zeal, In My completing My fury on them.

¹⁴ And I give thee up for a waste, And for a reproach among the nations Which are round about thee, Before the eyes of every passer by.

¹⁵ And it hath been a reproach and a revil—An instruction and an astonishment [ing, To the nations which are round about thee, In My doing in thee judgments, In anger and fury, and in furious reproofs: I the Lord have spoken.

¹⁶ In My sending the evil arrows of famine among them,

Which have been for destruction, Which I send to destroy you: And famine I continue upon you, And have broken to you the staff of bread:

¹⁷ And I have sent upon you Famine and an evil beast, And they have bereaved thee: [thee; And pestilence and blood pass over upon And a sword I bring in against thee: I the Lord have spoken.

VI. ¹ AND the word of the Lord is unto me, saying: ² 'Son of man, set thy face unto the mountains of Israel, and prophesy concerning them:

³ Then hast thou said, Mountains of Israel, Hear a word of the Lord Jehovah: Thus hath the Lord Jehovah said To the mountains, and to the hills, To the streams, and to the valleys: Lo, I, I am bringing in against you a sword, And have destroyed your high places.

4 And desolated have been your altars,
And broken your images,
And I have caused your wounded
To fall before your idols,
5 And put the carcasses of the Children of Before their idols, [Israel
And have scattered your bones
Round about your altars.
6 In all your dwellings the cities are laid
And the high places are desolate, [waste,
So that waste and desolate are your altars,
And broken and ceased have your idols,
And cut down have been your images,
And blotted out have been your works,
7 And fallen the wounded in your midst,
And ye have known that I am the LORD.
8 And I have caused some to remain
In their being to you [tions,
The escaped of the sword among the na-
In your being scattered through the land.
9 And remembered Me
Have your escaped among the nations,
Whither they have been taken captive,
Because I have been broken,
With their heart which goeth a-whoring,
Which hath turned aside from off Me,
And with their eyes,
Which go a-whoring after their idols:
And they have been loathsome
In their own faces,
For the evils which they have done
By all their abominations.
10 And they have known that I am the LORD,
Not for nought have I spoken
Of doing to them this evil.
11 Thus hath the LORD Jehovah said:
'Smite with thy palm,
And stamp with thy foot, and say:
Alas, for all the evil abominations
Of the house of Israel;
For by sword, by famine,
And by pestilence they fall.
12 The sur-off by pestilence dieth;
And the near by sword falleth;
And the left and besieged by famine dieth:
And I have completed my fury upon them.
13 And ye have known that I am the LORD,
In their wounded being in the midst of
Round about their altars, [their idols,
On every high hill, on all tops of mountains,
And under every green tree,
And under every thick oak,
The place where they gave sweet perfume
To all their idols.
14 And I have stretched out My hand against
And made the land a desolation, [them,
A desolation from the wilderness to Dib-
In all their dwellings: [hath,
And they have known that I am the LORD.'

VII. 1 AND the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, 'And thou, son of man, thus said the Lord Jehovah to the ground of Israel:

2 An end: come hath the end
On the four corners of the land.
3 Now is the end on thee,
And I have sent Mine anger upon thee,
And judged thee according to thy ways,
And set against thee all thine abomina-
4 And no pity on thee [tions.
Hath Mine eye, dor do I spare:
For thy ways against thee I set,

And thine abominations are in thy midst,
And ye have known that I am the LORD.
5 Thus hath the Lord Jehovah said:
An evil, a single evil, lo, it hath come.
6 An end hath come, come hath the end:
It hath waked for thee; lo, it hath come.
7 Come hath the morning unto thee,
O inhabitant of the land: [trouble,
Come hath the time, near the day of
And not the shouting of mountains.
8 Now, shortly I pour out My fury against thee, [thee;
And have completed Mine anger against
And judged thee according to thy ways,
And set against thee
All thine abominations.
9 And not pity doth Mine eye, nor do I spare:
According to thy ways I give unto thee,
And thine abominations are in thy midst:
And ye have known
That I the LORD am the smiter
10 Lo, the day, lo, it hath come;
Gone out hath the morning:
Blossomed hath the rod; flourished hath 11 Violence hath risen up [pride.
To a rod of wickedness:
There is none of them, nor of their multi-
Nor of their noise, [tude,
Nor is there waiting for them.
12 Come hath the time, arrived the day:
Let not the buyer rejoice,
Nor let the seller become a mourner;
For wrath is on all its multitude.
13 For the seller to the sold thing turneth
And yet in life is their life: [not,
For the vision is for all its multitude,
He turneth not back; [his life.
And none by his iniquity doth strengthen
14 They have blown with a trumpet,
So as to prepare the whole;
And none is going to battle:
For My wrath is on all its multitude.
15 The sword is without,
And the pestilence and the famine within:
He who is in the field by the sword dieth;
And he who is in the city,
Famine and pestilence devour him.
16 And escaped have their fugitives,
And they have been on the mountains
As the doves of the valleys,
All of them making a noise—each for his 17 All hands are feeble, [iniquity.
And all knees go—winters.
18 And they have girded on sackcloth,
And covered them hath trembling:
And unto all faces is shame,
And on all their heads baldness.
19 Their silver into out-places they throw,
And their gold impurity becometh:
Their silver and their gold
Is unable to deliver them,
In the day of the wrath of the LORD:
Their soul they satisfy not,
And their bowels they fill not,
For the stumbling-block
Of their iniquity it hath been.
20 As to the beauty of his ornament,
For arrogance he hath set it;
And the images of their abominations,
Their detestable things—they made in it:
Therefore I have given it

To them for impurity.

²¹ And I have given it
Unto the hand of strangers for a prey,
And to the wicked of the land for a spoil:
And they have polluted it.

²² And I have turned My face from them,
And they have polluted My hidden place:
Yea, come into it have destroyers, and pol-

²³ Make the chain; for the land [luted it].
Hath been full of bloody judgments,
And the city hath been full of violence.

²⁴ And I have brought in
The wicked of the nations,
And they have possessed their houses:
And I have caused to cease
The arrogance of the strong,
And polluted have been their sanctuaries.

²⁵ Destruction hath come,
And they have sought peace, and there is ²⁶ Mischief on mischief cometh, [nouve.

And report on report; [prophet:
And they have sought a vision from the
And the law doth perish from the priest,
And counsel from the aged.

²⁷ The king becometh a mourner,
And the prince putteth on desolation,
And the hands of the people of the land
are troubled;

From their own way I deal with them,
And with their own judgment judge them;
And they have known that I am the LORD.

VIII. ¹ AND it cometh to pass, in the sixth year, in the sixth month, in the fifth of the month, I am sitting in my house, and the elders of Judah are sitting before me, and fall on me there doth the hand of the Lord Jehovah. ² And I look, and lo, a likeness as the appearance of fire: from the appearance of His loins and downward, fire: and from His loins and upward, as the appearance of brightness, as the colour of copper.

³ And He putteth forth the form of a hand, and taketh me by a lock of my head; and a spirit lifteth me up between the earth and the heavens, and bringeth me to Jerusalem in visions of God, unto the entrance of the inner gate that faceth the north, where is the seat of a figure of jealousy which maketh jealous. ⁴ And lo, there is the honour of the God of Israel, as the appearance which I saw in the valley.

⁵ And He saith unto me, 'Son of man, lift up, I pray thee, thine eyes the way of the north.' ⁶ And I lift up mine eyes the way of the north, and lo, at the north of the gate of the altar this figure of jealousy, at the entrance. ⁷ And He saith unto me,
'Son of man, dost thou see what they are doing? the great abominations which the house of Israel are doing here, to keep far off from My sanctuary; and again thou shalt turn, thou shalt see great abominations.'

⁸ And He bringeth me in unto an entrance of the court; and I look, and lo, a hole in the wall. ⁹ And He saith unto me, 'Son of man, dig, I pray thee, through the wall:'
and I dig through the wall, and lo, an opening. ¹⁰ And He saith unto me, 'Go in, and see the evil abominations which they are doing here.' ¹¹ And I go in, and look, and lo, every form of creeping thing, and detestable beast (even all the idols of the house of Israel) is graven on the wall, all round about. ¹² And seventy men of the elders of the house of Israel—and Jaazaniah son of Shaphan standing in their midst—are standing before them, and each his censer in his hand; and the abundance of a cloud of perfume is going up. ¹³ And He saith unto me, 'Hast thou seen, son of man, that which the elders of the house of Israel are doing in the dark, each in the inner chambers of his imagery: for they are saying, The LORD seeth us not; the LORD hath forsaken the land?'

¹⁴ And He saith unto me, 'Again thou shalt turn, thou shalt see the great abominations which they are doing.' ¹⁵ And He bringeth me in unto the opening of the gate of the house of the LORD, which is at the north;
and lo, there the women are sitting weeping with Tammuz. ¹⁶ And He saith unto me, 'Hast thou seen, son of man? again thou shalt turn, thou shalt see greater abominations than these.'

¹⁷ And He bringeth me in unto the inner court of the house of the LORD: and lo, at the opening of the temple of the LORD, between the porch and the altar, about twenty-five men, their hinder-parts toward the temple of the LORD, and their faces eastward; and they are bowing themselves eastward to the sun. ¹⁸ And He saith unto me,
'Hast thou seen, son of man? hath it been a light thing to the house of Judah the doing the abominations which they have done here: that they have filled the land with violence, and turn back to provoke
Me to anger? and lo, they are putting forth the branch to their nose. ¹⁹ And I also deal in fury: Mine eye pitieth not, nor do I spare: and they have cried in Mine ears—a loud voice—and I hear them not.'

IX. ¹ AND He crieth in mine ears—a loud voice—saying, 'Drawn near have the inspectors of the city, and each his destroying weapon in his hand.' ² And lo, six men coming from the way of the upper gate, which is facing the north, and each his slaughter weapon in his hand; and one man in their midst clothed with linen, and a scribe's inkhorn at his loins; and they come in, and stand near the brazen altar.
³ And the honour of the God of Israel hath gone up from off the cherub, on which He hath been, unto the threshold of the house.

⁴ And He calleth unto the man who is clothed with linen, who hath the scribe's inkhorn at his loins; and the LORD saith unto him, 'Pass on into the midst of the city, into the midst of Jerusalem, then hast thou made a mark on the foreheads of the men who are sighing and who are groaning for all the abominations which are done in its midst.' ⁵ And to the others
He said in my hearing: 'Pass on into the city after him, and smite: your eye shall not pity, nor shall ye spare: aged, young man, and virgin, and infant, and women, shall ye slay—to destruction: and against any man on whom is the mark ye shall not go nigh; and from My sanctuary ye begin.'

⁷And they begin among the aged men who are before the house. And He saith unto them, 'Defile the house, and fill the courts with the wounded: go out.' And they have gone out and smitten in the city.

⁸And it cometh to pass, as they are smiting, and I—I am left—that I fall on my face, and cry, and say, 'Ah, Lord Jehovah, Art Thou destroying the whole remnant of Israel, in Thy pouring out Thy wrath on Jerusalem?' ⁹And He saith unto me, 'The iniquity of the house of Israel and Judah is very very great, and the land is full of blood, and the city hath been full of perverseness: for they have said: The Lord hath forsaken the land, and The Lord seeth not. ¹⁰And I also, Mine eye pitieth not, nor do I spare: their way on their own head I have put.'

¹¹And lo, the man clothed with linen, at whose loins is the inkhorn, bringeth back word, saying, 'I have done as Thou hast commanded me.'

X. ¹AND I look, and lo, on the expanse which is above the head of the cherubs, as a sapphire stone, as the appearance of the likeness of a throne, He hath been seen over them. ²And He speaketh unto the man clothed with linen, and saith, 'Go in unto the midst of the wheel, unto the place of the cherub, and fill thy hands with coals of fire from between the cherubs, and scatter it over the city.' And he goeth in before mine eyes.

³And the cherubs are standing at the right side of the house, at the going in of the man, and the cloud hath filled the inner court. ⁴And become high doth the honour of the Lord above the cherub, over the threshold of the house, and the house is filled with the cloud, and the court hath been filled with the brightness of the honour of the Lord. ⁵And the noise of the wings of the cherubs hath been heard unto the outer court, as the voice of God, the Mighty One, in His speaking.

⁸And there appeareth to the cherubs the form of a hand of man under their wings; ⁹and I look, and lo, four wheels near the cherubs, one wheel near the one cherub, and another wheel near the other cherub; and the appearance of the wheel is as the colour of a beryl stone. ¹⁰As to their appearances: one likeness is to them four, as it were the wheel in the midst of the wheel.

¹¹In their going, on their four sides they go: they turn not round in their going, for to the place whither the head turneth, after it they go, they turn not round in their going.

¹²And all their flesh, and their backs, and their hands, and their wings, and the wheels, are full of eyes round about; to them four are their wheels. ¹³To the wheels, to them is one calling in my hearing, 'Roll on.' ¹⁴And four faces are to each; the face of the one is the face of the cherub, and the face of the second the face of a man, and of the third the face of a lion, and of the fourth the face of an eagle. ¹⁵And the cherubs are high: it is the living creature which I saw by the river Chebar.

¹⁶And in the going of the cherubs, the wheels go beside them; and in the cherubs lifting up their wings to be high above the earth, the wheels turn not round, even they, from being beside them. ¹⁷In their standing they stand, and in their exaltation they are exalted with them, for a living spirit is in them.

¹⁸And go out doth the honour of the Lord from off the threshold of the house, and standeth over the cherubs; ¹⁹and the cherubs lift up their wings, and are high above the earth before mine eyes: in their going out, the wheels also are over-against them, and He standeth at the opening of the east gate of the house of the Lord: and the honour of the God of Israel is over them from above. ²⁰It is the living creature which I saw under the God of Israel, by the river Chebar, and I know that they are cherubs. ²¹Four faces are to each, and four wings to each, and the likeness of the hands of man is under their wings. ²²As to the likeness of their faces, they are the faces which I saw by the river Chebar: their appearances and themselves, each straight forward they go.

XI. ¹AND a spirit lifteth me up, and bringeth me in unto the east gate of the house of the Lord, which is facing the east, and lo, at the opening of the gate twenty-five men, and I see in their midst Jaazaniah son of Azur, and Pelatiah son of Benaiah, heads of the people. ²And He saith unto me, 'Son of man, these are the men who are devising iniquity, and who are giving wicked counsel in this city. ³Who are saying, It is not near—the building of houses: it is the pot, and we the flesh. ⁴Therefore prophesy concerning them, prophesy, O son of man.' ⁵And the Spirit of the Lord falleth upon me, and He saith unto me, 'Say:—Thus hath the Lord said:

Rightly ye have said, O house of Israel:

As to the steps of your spirit,

I—I have known it.

⁶Ye multiplied your wounded in this city,

And filled its out-places with the wounded.

⁷Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:

Your wounded whom ye placed in its midst,

They are the flesh, and it is the pot,

And you ye have brought out from its ⁸A sword ye have feared, [in] midst.

And a sword I bring in against you,

And smiteth the Lord Jehovah.

⁹And I have brought you out of its midst,

And given you into the hand of strangers,

And have done among you judgments.

¹⁰By the sword ye fall;

On the border of Israel I judge you;

And ye have known that I am the LORD.
 11 It is not to you for a pot,
 Nor are ye in its midst for flesh;
 At the border of Israel I judge you.
 12 And ye have known that I am the LORD:
 For in My statutes ye have not walked,
 And My judgments ye have not done:
 According to the judgments of the nations
 Who are round about you—ye have done.
 13 And it cometh to pass at my prophesying,
 That Pelatiah son of Benaiah dieth; and I fall on my face, and cry—a loud voice—and say,
 'Ah, Lord Jehovah, an end art Thou making of the remnant of Israel?' 14 And the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, 15 'Son of man, thy brethren, thy brethren,
 the men of thy kindred, and all the house of Israel—all of it, are they to whom the inhabitants of Jerusalem have said, Keep far off from the LORD: 16 it is ours, the land hath been given for an inheritance: therefore say: Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
 Because I put them afar off among the nations, [the lands,
 And because I scattered them through
 I also am to them for a sanctuary—a little,
 In the lands whither they have gone in.
 17 Therefore say: Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
 I have assembled you from the peoples,
 And gathered you from the lands
 Into which ye have been scattered,
 And given to you the land of Israel.
 18 And they have gone in thither,
 And turned aside all its detestable things,
 And all its abominations—out of it.
 19 And I have given to them one heart,
 And a new spirit I put in your midst:
 And I have turned the heart of stone
 Aside out of their flesh,
 And given to them a heart of flesh.
 20 So that in My statutes they walk,
 And My judgments they keep:
 And they have done them:
 And they have become My people,
 And I am become their God.
 21 As to those whose heart goeth
 Unto the midst of their detestable
 And their abominable things:
 Their way on their own head I have put,
 Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.
 22 And the cherubs lift up their wings, and the wheels are over-against them; and the honour of the God of Israel is over them from above. 23 And the honour of the LORD goeth up from off the midst of the city, and standeth on the mountain, which is at the east of the city.
 24 And a spirit hath lifted me up, and bringeth me to Chaldea, unto the Removed, in a vision, by the Spirit of God: then go up from off me doth the vision which I have seen: 25 and I speak unto the Removed all the matters of the LORD which He hath shewed me.
 XII. 1 And the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, 2 'Son of man, in the midst of a rebellious house thou art dwelling, which have eyes to see, and have not seen; ears have they to hear, and they have not heard:
 for a rebellious house are they. 3 And thou, son of man, make to thyself vessels for a removal, and remove by day before their eyes; when thou hast removed from thy place unto another place before their eyes, it may be they will consider, for a rebellious house they are. 4 And thou hast brought out thy vessels as vessels for a removal by day before their eyes, and thou, thou dost go out at even before their eyes, as the goings-out of a removal. 5 Before their eyes dig for thyself through the wall, then hast thou brought out by it. 6 Before their eyes on the shoulder thou dost bear, in the darkness thou dost bring out; thou dost cover thy face, and thou dost not see the land; for a type I have made thee to the house of Israel.'

7 And I do so, as I have been commanded:
 my vessels I have brought out as vessels for a removal by day; and at even I have dug for myself through the wall with the hand;
 in the darkness I have brought out, on the shoulder borne away, before their eyes.

8 And the word of the LORD is unto me,
 in the morning, saying, 9 'Son of man, have they not said unto thee—the house of Israel—
 the rebellious house, What art thou doing? 10 say unto them: 'Thus hath the Lord Jehovah said:

'The prince is this burden in Jerusalem, and all the house of Israel who are in their midst. 11 Say, I am your type: as I have done, so it is done to them: into a removal, into a captivity they go. 12 As to the prince who is in their midst, on the shoulder he beareth in the darkness, and he goeth out: through the wall they dig to bring out by it; his face he covereth, that he may not look on the very surface of the land. 13 And I have spread My net for him, and he hath been caught in My snare: and I have brought him into Babylon, the land of the Chaldeans; and it he seeth not—and there he dieth. 14 And all who are round about him to help him, and all his bands,
 I scatter to every wind; and a sword I draw out after them. 15 And they have known that I am the LORD, in My scattering them among the nations; and I have spread them through the lands: 16 and I have left some of them, a few in number, from the sword, from the famine, and from the pestilence, so that they account all their abominations among the nations whither they have come;
 and they have known that I am the LORD.'

17 And the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, 18 'Son of man, thy bread in haste thou shalt eat; and thy water with trembling and with fear thou shalt drink: 19 then hast thou said unto the people of the land:
 Thus hath the Lord Jehovah said concerning the land of Israel: Their bread with fear they eat, and their water with astonishment drink, because its land is desolate, because of its fulness, because of the violence of all who are dwelling in it. 20 And the cities which are inhabited are laid waste, and the land is a desolation, and ye have known that I am the LORD.'

21 And the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, 22 'Son of man, what is this simile

to you, concerning the land of Israel, saying, Prolonged are the days, and perished hath every vision; ² therefore say to them:

Thus hath the Lord Jehovah said:
I have caused this simile to cease,
And they use it not as a simile any more
But speak unto them: [in Israel:
Drawn near have the days,
And spoken hath every vision.

²⁴ For there is no more any vain vision,
Or flattering divination
In the midst of the house of Israel.

²⁵ For I am the LORD; I speak,
The word which I speak is done;
It is not prolonged any more:
For, in your days, O rebellious house,
I speak a word, and have done it,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.'

²⁶ And the word of the LORD is unto me, saying: 'Son of man, lo, the house of Israel are saying, The vision which he seeth is for many days, and of times far off he is prophesying: ²⁷ therefore say unto them:

Thus said the Lord Jehovah, [more:
None of my words are prolonged any
When I speak a word then it is done,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.'

XIII. ¹ AND the word of the LORD is with me, saying: 'Son of man, Prophecy concerning the prophets of Israel who are prophesying, then hast thou said to those who are prophets of their own heart;

Hear ye a word of the LORD:
³ Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Wo unto the prophets who are foolish,
Who are going after their own spirit,
And have seen nothing.

⁴ As foxes in the wastes,
Thy prophets, O Israel, have been.
⁵ Ye have not gone up into the breaches,
Nor make a hedge for the house of Israel,
To stand in battle in a day of the LORD.

⁶ They have seen vanity, and lying divination,
Who say, The LORD affirmeth, [tion,
And the LORD hath not sent them;
And hope to establish a word.

⁷ A vain vision have ye not seen,
And a lying divination spoken,
When ye say, The Lord affirmeth,
And I have not spoken?

⁸ Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Because ye have spoken vanity, and seen
Therefore, lo, I am against you, [a lie,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.

⁹ And My hand hath been on the prophets
Who are seeing vanity,
And who are divining a lie;
In the assembly of My people they are not,
And in the writing of the house of Israel
They are not written;

And unto the land of Israel they come not:
And ye have known that I am the Lord
Jehovah. [people to err,

¹⁰ Because, even because, they caused My Saying, Peace, and there is no peace;
And it is building a slight wall,
And lo, they are daubing it with chalk.

¹¹ Say unto those who daub with chalk,
That it falleth:
There hath been an overflowing shower,
And ye, O hailstones, do fall:

And a tempestuous wind rendeth,

¹² And lo, the wall hath fallen;

Doth not one say unto you,

Where is the daubing which ye daubed?

¹³ Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:
I have rent with a tempestuous wind in
My fury, [anger,
And an overflowing shower is in Mine
And hailstones in My fury—to consume.

¹⁴ And I have broken down the wall
Which ye daubed with chalk,
And caused it to come unto the earth,
And revealed hath been its foundation,
And it hath fallen,

And ye have been consumed in its midst;
And ye have known that I am the LORD.

¹⁵ And I have completed My wrath upon the wall,

And on those who daub it with chalk;

And I say to you, The wall is not,

And those who daub it are not:

¹⁶ The prophets of Israel who are prophesying concerning Jerusalem,
And who see for her a vision of peace,
And there is no peace,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.

¹⁷ And thou, son of man, set thy face against the daughters of thy people, who are prophesying out of their own heart.

¹⁸ And prophesy concerning them, then hast thou said: Thus said the Lord Jehovah:

Wo to those who sew pillows
For all joints of the arm,
And to those who make the kerchiefs
For the head of every stature, to hunt souls.

The souls of My people do ye hunt?

Or the souls ye have do ye keep alive?

¹⁹ Yea, ye pierce Me concerning My people
For a handful of barley,
And for pieces of bread, putting to death
Souls that should not die,
And keeping alive souls that should not
By your lying to My people— [live,
Hearkening to lies.

²⁰ Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:

Lo, I am against your pillows.

With which ye are hunting there

The souls of the flourishing:

And I have rent them from off your arms,
And have sent away the souls

Which ye are hunting,

The souls of the flourishing.

²¹ And I have torn your kerchiefs,

And delivered My people out of your
And they are no more [hand,

In your hand for a prey;

And ye have known that I am the LORD.

²² Because of paining the heart.

The heart of the righteous, with falsehood,
And I have not pained it, [wicked,

And of strengthening the hands of the
So as not to turn back from his evil way,
To keep him alive;

²³ Therefore, vanity ye shall not see,
And divination ye shall not divine again:

And I have delivered My people out of your hand,

And ye have known that I am the LORD.'

XIV. ¹ AND come in unto me do certain of the elders of Israel, and sit before me.

“And the word of the LORD is unto me, saying: ² Son of man, these men have caused their idols to go up on their heart, and the stumbling-block of their iniquity have put over-against their face: shall I be inquired of at all by them? ³ Therefore, speak with them, then hast thou said unto them: Thus hath the Lord Jehovah said: Every one of the house of Israel who causeth his idols to go up on his heart, and the stumbling-block of his iniquity setteth over-against his face, and goeth in unto the prophet, I the LORD have given an answer to him for this, for the abundance of his idols: ⁴ in order to catch the house of Israel, by their heart, because they have become estranged from off me by their idols—all of them.

⁵ Therefore, say unto the house of Israel: Thus hath the Lord Jehovah said: Turn back, yea, turn back from your idols, and from all your abominations turn back your faces. ⁶ For every one of the house of Israel, and of the strangers who sojourn in Israel, who is separated from after Me, and causeth his idols to go up on his heart, and the stumbling-block of his iniquity setteth over-against his face, and cometh in unto the prophet to inquire of him concerning Me: I the LORD have answered him for Myself: ⁷ and I have set My face against that man, and made him for a sign, and for similes, and have cut him off from the midst of My people: and ye have known that I am the LORD.

⁸ And the prophet, when he is enticed, and hath spoken a word, I, the LORD, I have enticed that prophet, and have stretched out My hand against him, and have destroyed him from the midst of My people Israel. ⁹ And they have borne their iniquity: as the iniquity of the inquirer, so is the iniquity of the prophet. ¹⁰ So that the house of Israel wander no more from after Me, nor are defiled any more with all their transgressions; and they have become My people, and I am become their God, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.

¹¹ And the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, ¹² Son of man, the land—when it sinneth against Me by committing a trespass, and I have stretched out My hand against it, and broken for it the staff of bread, and sent into it famine, and cut off from it man and beast—¹³ and these three men have been in its midst, Noah, Daniel, and Job,—they by their righteousness deliver their own soul, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.

¹⁴ If an evil beast I cause to pass through the land, and it hath destroyed, and it hath been a desolation, without any passing through because of the beast—¹⁵ these three men in its midst: I live, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah, neither sons nor daughters do they deliver: they alone are delivered, and the land is a desolation.

¹⁶ Or—a sword I bring in against that land, and have said: Sword, pass over through the land, and I have cut off from it man and beast—¹⁷ and these three men in its midst: I live, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah, they deliver not sons or daughters, for they alone are delivered.

¹⁸ Or—pestilence I send unto that land, and have poured out My fury against it in blood, by cutting off from it man and beast—¹⁹ and Noah, Daniel, and Job, in its midst: I live, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah, neither son nor daughter do they deliver: they, by their righteousness, deliver their own soul.

²⁰ For thus said the Lord Jehovah: Although My four sad judgments—sword, and famine, and wild beast, and pestilence—I have sent unto Jerusalem, to cut off from it man and beast: ²¹ yet, lo, there hath been left in it an escape, who are brought out, sons and daughters: lo, they are coming out unto you, and ye have seen their way, and their doings, and have been comforted concerning the evil which I have brought in against Jerusalem, all that which I have brought in against it. ²² And they have comforted you, for ye see their way and their doings, and ye have known that not for nought have I done all that which I have done in her, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.

XV. ¹ AND the word of the LORD is unto me, saying:

² Son of man, What is the vine-tree More than any tree?

The branch which hath been Among the trees of the forest?

³ Is wood taken from it to prepare for Do they take of it a pin [work:] To hang any vessel on it?

⁴ Lo, to the fire it hath been given up for Its two ends hath the fire eaten, [fuel:] And its midst hath been scorched. Is it profitable for work?

⁵ Lo, in its being perfect It is not used for work, How much less when fire hath eaten of it? And it is scorched, Hath it been used yet for work?

⁶ Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah: As the vine-tree among the trees of the forest.

Which I have given to the fire for fuel, So have I given up The inhabitants of Jerusalem.

⁷ And I have set My face against them; From the fire they have gone out, Yet the fire consumeth them:

And ye have known that I am the LORD, In My setting My face against them.

⁸ And I have made the land—a desolation. Because they have committed a trespass, Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.

XVI. ¹ AND the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, ² Son of man, cause Jerusalem to know her abominations, then hast thou said:

³ Thus said the Lord Jehovah to Jerusalem:

Thy birth and thy nativity

Are of the land of the Canaanite;

Thy father an Amorite,

And thy mother a Hittite. [been born.]

⁴ As to thy nativity, in the day thou hast Thou, thy navel hath not been cut, And in water thou hast not been washed for ease:

And thou hast not been salted at all,
Nor hast thou been saddled at all.
5 No eye hath pity on thee,
To do to thee any of these,
To have pity on thee;
And thou art cast on the face of the field,
With loathing of thy person,
In the day thou hast been born—thou !
6 And I pass over by thee,
And see thee trodden down in thy blood,
And I say to thee in thy blood, Live;
Yea, I say to thee in thy blood, Live.
7 A myriad—as the shoot of the field
Have I made thee, [great,
And thou art multiplied, and become
And comest in with desirable ornaments:
Breasts have been formed,
And thy hair hath grown,
And thou, naked and bare!
8 And I pass over by thee, and see thee,
And lo, thy time is a time of loves;
And I spread My skirt over thee,
And cover thy nakedness:
And I swear to thee,
And come into a covenant with thee,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah,
And thou become Mine.
9 And I wash thee with water,
And wash away thy blood from off thee
And anoint thee with perfume.
10 And clothe thee with embroidery,
And shoe thee with blue,
And gird thee with fine linen,
And cover thee with figured silk.
11 And adorn thee with desirable things,
And give bracelets for thy hands,
And an ornament for thy neck.
12 And give a ring for thy nose,
And rings for thine ears,
And a crown of beauty for thy head.
13 And thou puttest on gold and silver;
And thy clothing is fine linen,
And figured silk, and embroidery.
Fine flour, and honey, and oil thou hast
And thou art very very fair, [eaten,
And goest on prosperously to the kingdom.
14 And go out doth thy name among nations
Because of thy beauty:
For it is complete, through My honour
Which I have set upon thee,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.
15 And thou dost trust in thy beauty,
And goest a-whoring because of thy re-
And pourest out thy whoredoms [nown,
On every passer by—to him it is.
16 And thou dost take of thy garments,
And dost make to thyself spotted high-
And dost go a-whoring upon them: [places,
They are not coming in, nor shall it be!
17 And thou dost take thy beautiful vessels
Of My gold and of My silver,
Which I have given to thee,
And dost make to thyself images of a male,
And dost go a-whoring with them.
18 And dost take the garments of thine em-
And dost cover them: [brodery,
And Mine oil and My perfume
Thou hast set before them.
19 And My bread, which I have given to thee,
Fine flour, and oil, and honey,
Which I caused thee to eat.

Thou hast even set it before them
For a sweet fragrance—thus it is,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.
20 And thou dost take thy sons and thy
Which thou hast borne to Me, [daughters
And dost sacrifice them to them for food.
Is it a little thing
Because of thy whoredoms,
21 That thou dost slaughter My children,
And give them up
In causing them to pass over to them?
22 And in all thine abominations,
And thy whoredoms, [thy youth
Thou hast not remembered the days of
When thou wast naked and bare,
Trodden down in thy blood thou wast!
23 And it cometh to pass,
After all thy wickedness, [hovah,
(Wo, wo, to thee, affirmeth the Lord Je-
24 That thou dost build to thyself an arch,
And dost make to thyself a high place
In every broad place.
25 At every head of the way
Thou hast built thine high place,
And dost make thy beauty abominable,
And dost open wide thy feet
To every passer by,
And dost multiply thy whoredoms;
26 And dost go a-whoring
Unto the children of Egypt,
Thy neighbours—great of appetite!
And hast multiplied thy whoredoms,
So as to provoke Me to anger.
27 And lo, I have stretched out My hand
And diminish thy portion, [against thee,
And give thee up unto the desire of those who hate thee,
The daughters of the Philistines,
Who are ashamed of thy wicked way.
28 And thou dost go a-whoring
Unto the Children of Asshur,
Without thy being satiated;
Yea, thou dost go a-whoring with them,
And also thou hast not been satisfied.
29 And thou dost multiply thy whoredoms
On the land of Canaan, toward Chaldean;
And even with this thou hast not been 30 How weak is thy heart, [satisfied,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah,
In thy doing all these, [man.
The work of a domineering whorish wo-31 In thy building thine arch at the head of every way: [broad place,
Thy high place thou hast made in every
And hast not been as a whore,
By deriding a gift.
32 The wife who committeth adultery—
Under her husband—receiveth strangers.
33 To all whores they give a gift:
But thou hast given thy gifts to all thy lovers,
And dost bribe them to come unto thee
From round about—for thy whoredoms.
34 And the contrary is in thee
From women in thy whoredoms,
That after thee none goeth a-whoring:
And in thy giving a gift,
And a gift hath not been given to thee,
Thus thou becomest contrary.
35 Therefore, O whore, hear a word of the 36 Thus hath the Lord Jehovah said: [LORD:

- Because of thy brass being poured out,
And thy nakedness is revealed in thy
Near thy lovers, [whoredoms,
And near all the idols of thine abominations, [dren,
And according to the blood of thy chil-
Whom thou hast given to them;
27 Therefore, lo, I am assembling all thy
To whom thou hast been sweet, [lovers,
And all whom thou hast loved,
Besides all whom thou hast hated;
And I have assembled them near thee round about,
And have revealed thy nakedness to them;
And they have seen all thy nakedness.
28 And I have judged thee—
The judgments of adulteresses,
And of those who shed blood: '
And given thee blood, fury, and jealousy.
29 And I have given thee into their hand,
And they have thrown down thine arch,
And broken down thy high places,
And stript thee of thy garments,
And taken thy beauteous vessels,
And left thee naked and bare.
30 And caused a congregation to come up against thee,
And have stoned thee with stones,
And thrust thee through with their
31 And burnt thy houses with fire, [swords,
And done judgments against thee,
Before the eyes of many women:
And I have caused thee to cease from going a-whoring,
And a gift also thou givest no more.
32 And I have caused My fury against thee to rest, [thee:
And My jealousy hath turned aside from
And I have been quiet,
And am not angry any more.
33 Because thou hast not remembered the days of thy youth,
And dost give trouble to Me in all these:
Lo, even I also thy way at first gave up,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah:
But I did not this thought for all thine abominations.
34 Lo, all who use similes,
Use similes concerning thee, saying:
As the mother—her daughter.
35 Thou art thy mother's daughter,
Loathing her husband and her children;
And thy sisters' sister art thou,
Who have loathed their husbands and
Your mother is a Hittite, [their children:
And your father an Amorite;
36 And thine elder sister is Samaria,
She and her daughters,
Who is dwelling at thy left hand;
And thy younger sister,
Who is dwelling at thy right hand,
Is Sodom and her daughters.
37 Yet in their ways thou hast not walked:
Or according to their abominations done:
As a little thing it hath been loathed:
And thou dost more corruptly than they
In all thy ways.
38 I live, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah:
Sodom thy sister hath not done—
She and her daughters—as thou hast done,
Thou and thy daughters.
- 39 Lo, this hath been the iniquity of Sodom
Arrogancy, fulness of bread, [thy sister:
And quiet ease hath been to her,
And to her daughters,
And the hand of the afflicted and needy
She hath not strengthened.
40 And they are haughty,
And do abomination before Me;
And I turn them aside when I have seen.
41 As to Samaria; as the half of thy sins—
She hath not sinned;
And thou dost multiply thine abominations more than they,
And dost justify thy sisters
By all thine abominations which thou
42 Thou also bear thy shame, [hast done.
Which thou hast adjudged to thy sisters,
Because of thy sins which thou hast done
More abominably than they;
She is more righteous than thou:
Even thou, also, be thou ashamed,
And bear thy shame,
Because of thy justifying thy sisters.
43 And I have turned back to their captivity,
The captivity of Sodom and her daughters,
And the captivity of Samaria and her daughters: [midst,

Turn back to their former state;
And Samaria and her daughters,
Turn back to their former state;
And thou and thy daughters
Turn back to your former state.
46 And thy sister Sodom
Hath not been heard of in thy mouth
In the day of thine arrogancy,
47 Before thy wickedness is revealed,
As at the time of the reproach
Of the daughters of Aram,
And of all her neighbours,
The daughters of the Philistines,
Who are despising thee round about.
48 Thy devices and thine abominations,
Thou hast borne them, affirmeth the Lord.
49 For thus said the Lord Jehovah:
I have dealt with thee as thou hast done,
Because thou hast despised the oath
By breaking covenant.
50 Yet I—I have remembered My covenant
In the days of thy youth, [with thee,
And have established for thee
An everlasting covenant.
51 And thou hast remembered thy ways,
And hast been ashamed,
In thy receiving thy sisters—

with thee:
And thou hast known that I am the Lord.

And hast been ashamed,
And there is not to thee any more
An opening of the mouth,
Because of thy shame
In My receiving atonement for thee,

For all that thou hast done,

XVII. ¹AND the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, ²'Son of man, put forth a riddle, and use a simile unto the house of Israel: ³then hast thou said: Thus said the Lord Jehovah:

The great eagle, great-winged,
Long-plumaged, full of feathers,
Which hath diverse colours,
Hath come in unto Lebanon,
And taketh the foliage of the cedar,
⁴The top of its tender twigs hath cropped,
And bringeth it in unto the land of Canaan:
In a city of merchants he hath placed it.
⁵And he taketh of the seed of the land,
And putteth it in a field of seed;
To take by many waters,
In a conspicuous place he hath set it.
⁶And it springeth up, and becometh a
Humble of stature, [spreading vine,
The turning of its thin shoots is toward
And its roots are under it: [itself,
And it becometh a vine,
And yieldeth boughs,
Yea, it sendeth out beauteous ones.
⁷And there is another great eagle, [ers:
Great-winged, and abounding with feath-
And lo, this vine hath bent its roots to-
And its thin shoots [ward him,
Hath sent out toward him,
To water it from the furrows of its plant.
On a good field, near many waters,
It is planted,
To yield branches, and to bear fruit,
To be for an honourable vine.

⁹Say: Thus said the Lord Jehovah: [out,
It prospereth—its roots doth he not draw
And its fruit cut off, that it is withered?
In all the leaves of its springing up it
And not by great strength, [withereth,
Or by a numerous people,
To lift it up by its roots.
¹⁰And lo, the planted thing—doth it prosper?
When the east wind cometh against it
Doth it not utterly wither? [withereth,
On the furrows of its springing up it ¹¹And the word of the LORD is unto me,
saying:

¹²'Say, I pray thee, to the rebellious house:
Have ye not known what these are?
Say: Lo, come hath the king of Babylon to Jerusalem,
And he taketh its king, and its princes,
And bringeth them to himself to Babylon;
¹³And he taketh of the seed-royal,
And maketh with him a covenant,
And bringeth him into an oath:
And the mighty of the land hath he taken;
¹⁴That the kingdom may be humble,
That it may not lift itself up,
To keep his covenant—that it may stand.
¹⁵And he rebelleth against him,
Sending his messengers to Egypt,
To give to him horses, and much people.
Doth he prosper?
Doth he escape who is doing these things?
Hath he broken the covenant and escaped?
¹⁶I live, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah,
Doth he not—in the place of the king
Who causeth him to reign,

Whose oath he hath despised,
And whose covenant he hath broken,
With him—in the midst of Babylon—die?
¹⁷Not with a great force,
Or with a numerous assembly,
Doth Pharaoh maintain him in battle.
By pouring out a mount,
And by building a fortification,
To cut off many souls:
¹⁸And he hath despised the oath
By breaking covenant,
And lo, he hath given his hand;
All these he hath done: he escapeth not.
¹⁹Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:
I live, Mine oath which he hath despised,
And My covenant which he hath broken,
Have I not put it on his head?
²⁰And I have spread for him My snare,
And he hath been caught in My net;
And I have brought him in unto Babylon,
And plended with him thore his trespass,
Which he hath trespassed against Me.
²¹And all his fugitives, with all his hands,
By sword do fall, and those who remain
To every wind are spread out;
And ye have known
That I the LORD have spoken.
²²Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
I have taken of the foliage of the high
And have set it; [cedar,
From the top of his tender shoots
A tender one I crop,
And I—I have planted it
On a mountain high and lofty.
²³On a mountain—the high place of Israel—
And it hath borne boughs, [I plant it:
And hath yielded fruit.
And hath become an honourable cedar:
And dwelt under it
Have all birds of every wing,
In the shade of its thin shoots they dwell.
²⁴And known have all the trees of the field
That I the LORD have made low the high
Have set on high the low tree, [tree,
Have dried up the moist tree,
And caused the dry tree to flourish:
I the LORD have spoken and done it.'

XVIII. ¹AND the word of the LORD is unto me, saying: ²'What—to you,

Ye—using this simile
Concerning the ground of Israel, saying:
The fathers do eat unripe fruit,
And the children's teeth are blunted?
³I live, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah:
Ye have no more
The use of this simile in Israel.
⁴Lo, all the souls are Mine:
As the soul of the father,
So also the soul of the son: they are Mine;
The soul that sinneth, it shall die.
⁵And a man, when he is righteous, [ness,

His pledge to the debtor he returneth,
Plunder he taketh not away,

And the naked covereth with a garment:

And increase he taketh not,
From perversity he turneth back his hand,
True judgment he doth

And My judgments he hath kept—to deal
Righteous is he, he surely liveth, [truly;

A burglar, a shedder of blood,
Or he hath made a brother of one of these,
And he none of these hath done:
For even on the mountains he hath eaten,
And the wife of his neighbour hath defiled,
12 The afflicted and the needy hath oppressed,
Plunder hath taken violently away,
A pledge he returneth not,
And to the idols hath lifted up his eyes,
Abomination he hath done,
- 13 In usury he hath given,
And increase hath taken—thus he liveth:
He shall not live:
All these abominations he hath done;
He surely dieth: his blood is on him.
- 14 —And lo, he hath begotten a son,
And he seeth all the sins of his father,
That he hath done, and feareth,
And doth not like them;

And his eyes he hath not lifted up

He hath turned back his hand,
Usury and increase he hath not taken,
My judgments he hath done,
In My statutes he hath walked;
He dieth not for the iniquity of his father,
He surely liveth.

Violently plundered a brother,
And that which is not good
Did in the midst of his people,
Lo, he dieth in his iniquity. [son

Borne some of the iniquity of the father?
When the son judgment and righteousness hath done,
All My statutes hath kept,
And doeth them, he surely liveth.
- 20 The soul that sinneth, it shall die.
A son doth not bear
Any of the iniquity of the father,
And a father doth not bear
Any of the iniquity of the son:
The righteousness of the righteous is on him, [him;
And the wickedness of the wicked is on
him.
- 21 And the wicked—when he turneth back
From all his sins that he hath done,
And hath kept all My statutes,
And hath done judgment and righteousness—he surely liveth: he dieth not. [ucss,
- 22 All his transgressions that he hath done
Are not remembered of him:
In his righteousness
That he hath done he liveth.
- 23 Do I at all desire the death of the wicked?
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah;
Is it not in his turning from his way—
And he hath lived?
- 24 And in the turning of the righteous
From his righteousness,
And he hath done perversity,
According to all the abominations
That the wicked hath done, he doth,
Thus he liveth.
All his righteousness that he hath done
Is not remembered:
For his trespass that he hath trespassed,
And for his sin that he hath sinned,
For them he dieth.
- 25 And ye have said: Not pondered
Is the way of the LORD.
Hear, I pray you, O house of Israel;
My way—is it not pondered?
Are not your ways unpondered?

From his righteousness,

And he dieth by them; for his perversity
That he hath done he dieth.

And he doeth judgment and righteousness,

My ways—are they not pondered,
O house of Israel?
Are not your ways unpondered?

O house of Israel, [judge you,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah,
Turn ye back, yea, turn yourselves back,
From all your transgressions;
And iniquity is not to you
For a stumbling-block.
- 31 Cast from off you all your transgressions,
By which ye have transgressed;
And make to yourselves a new heart
And a new spirit:
And why will ye die, O house of Israel?

But turn ye back and live.
- XIX. 1 AND thou, lift up a lamentation
Unto the princes of Israel,
2 Then hast thou said:
What is thy mother?—a lioness:
Among lions she hath crouched down,
In the midst of young lions
She hath multiplied her whelps.
3 And she bringeth up one of her whelps,
A young lion it hath been,
And he learneth to tear prey:
Man he hath devoured.
- 4 And hear of him do nations:
In their pit he hath been caught,
And they bring him with chains
Unto the laud of Egypt.

5 And she seeth, that stayed,
 Perished hath her hope,
 And she taketh one of her whelps,
 A young lion she made him.
 6 And he goeth up and down in the midst
 A young lion he hath been, [of lions,
 And he learneth to tear prey;
 Man he hath devoured.
 7 And he knoweth his forsaken habitations,
 And their cities he hath laid waste;
 And desolate is the land and its fulness,
 Because of the voice of his roaring.
 8 And set against him do the nations
 Round about from the provinces,
 And they spread out for him their net:
 In their pit he hath been caught.
 9 And they put him in prison, in chains,
 And bring him unto the king of Babylon;
 They bring him unto bulwarks,
 So that his voice is not heard any more
 On the mountains of Israel.
 10 Thy mother is as a vine in thy blood,
 By waters planted:
 Fruitful and full of boughs she hath been,
 Because of many waters.
 11 And she hath strong rods
 For the sceptres of rulers,
 And high is its stature above the thick
 And it appeareth in its height [branches,
 In the multitude of its thin shoots.
 12 And she is plucked up in fury,
 To the earth she hath been cast,
 And the east wind hath dried up her fruit;
 Broken and withered
 Have been the rods of her strength,
 Fire hath consumed it.
 13 And now, she is planted in a wilderness,
 In a dry and thirsty land.
 14 And go out doth fire from a rod of her
 Her fruit it hath devoured, [boughs,
 And she hath no rod of strength—
 A sceptre to rule.
 Lamentation it is, yea, it is lamentation.
 XX. 1 AND it cometh to pass, in the seventh year, in the fifth month, in the tenth of the month, come in have certain of the elders of Israel to seek the LORD, and they sit before me. 2 And the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, 3 Son of man, speak with the elders of Israel, then hast thou said unto them, Thus hath the Lord Jehovah said: To seek Me are ye come in? I live, I am not sought by you, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah. 4 Wilt thou judge them? Wilt thou judge, son of man? The abominations of their fathers cause them to know:
 5 then hast thou said unto them, Thus hath the Lord Jehovah said:
 In the day of My fixing on Israel,
 I lift up My hand
 To the seed of the house of Jacob,
 And become known to them in the land
 And I lift up My hand to them, [of Egypt,
 Saying, I am the LORD your God;
 6 In that day I lifted up My hand to them,
 To bring them out from the land of Egypt,
 Unto a land which I spied out for them,
 Flowing with milk and honey,
 The beauty it is of all lands;
 7 And I say unto them, Let each cast away
 The detestable things of his eyes,

And with the idols of Egypt be not defiled;
 I am the LORD your God.
 8 —And they rebel against Me, [Me:
 And have not been willing to hearken to Each, the detestable thing of their eyes
 They have not cast away,
 And the idols of Egypt have not forsaken;
 And I speak of pouring out
 My fury upon them,
 To complete Mine anger against them,
 In the midst of the land of Egypt.
 9 And I do it for My name's sake,
 Not to pollute it before the eyes of the
 In whose midst they are, [nations,
 Before whose eyes I have become known
 In bringing them out [to them,
 From the land of Egypt.

 To consume them.

 Not to pollute it
 Before the eyes of the nations, [out.
 Before whose eyes I have brought them.
 15 And also, I, I have lifted up My hand
 To them in the wilderness,
 Not to bring them in
 Unto the land which I had given,
 Flowing with milk and honey,
 The beauty it is of all lands:
 16 Because against My statutes they kicked,
 And in My statutes have not walked,
 And My sabbaths have polluted:
 For after their idols doth their heart go.
 17 And Mine eye hath pity on them—
 Against destroying them,
 And I have not made an end of them in the wilderness.
 18 And I say to their children in the wilder-

 And their judgments ye shall not observe,
 And with their idols ye shall not be defiled:

 In My statutes walk,

In the wilderness,
To scatter them among the nations,

So that they know that I am the LORD.

I am not sought by you.

It is not at all—in that ye are saying:
We will be as the nations,
As the families of the lands,
To serve wood and stone.

And they who transgress against Me;
From the land of their sojournings
I bring them out:
And unto the land of Israel they come not;
And ye have known that I am the LORD.

Afterwards, also, if ye will not hearken unto me, [by your gifts,
And My holy name ye shall pollute no more
And by your idols.

In a mountain—the height of Israel,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah,
There serve Me do all the house of Israel,
All of it in the lands:
There I accept them,
And there I seek your heave-offerings,
And the first-fruits of your gifts,
With all your holy things.
- ⁴¹ With sweet fragrance I accept you,
In my bringing you out from the peoples:
And I have assembled you from the lands
In which ye have been scattered;
And have been sanctified in you
Before the eyes of the nations.
- ⁴² And ye have known that I am the LORD,
In My bringing you in unto the ground of Israel,
Unto the land which I lifted up My hand
To give to your fathers:
- ⁴³ And ye have remembered there your ways,
And all your doings,
In which ye have been defiled:
And ye have been loathsome in your own faces,
For all your evils that ye have done.
- ⁴⁴ And ye have known that I am the LORD.
In My dealing with you,
For My name's sake, not according to your evil ways,
Or according to your corrupt doings,
O house of Israel,

saying: ⁴⁶ Son of man, set thy face the way of Teman, and prophesy unto the south, and prophesy unto the forest of the field—
the south. ⁴⁷ Then hast thou said to the forest of the south: Hear the word of the LORD; Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, I am kindling in thee a fire;
And it hath devoured in thee every moist
And every dry tree: [tree,
Not quenched is the glowing flame,
And burnt by it have been all faces,
From south to north.

Righteous and wicked, [scabbard,
Therefore go out doth My sword from its
Unto all flesh, from south to north.

⁵And known have all flesh that I the LORD
Have brought out My sword
From its scabbard:

It turneth not back any more.

Yea, with bitterness [of loins;
Dost thou sigh before their eyes.

Because of the report, for it is coming:
And melted hath every heart,
And feeble have been all hands,
And weak is every spirit,
And all knees go—waters:

It is among all the princes of Israel:
Cast to the sword have been My people:
Therefore strike on thy thigh.

And what if even the sceptre it despise?
It shall not be, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.

¹⁴And thou, son of man, prophesy,

Each according to his arm—
Have been in thee to shed blood.

They have made light of in thee;
To the sojourner
They have dealt oppressively in thy midst:

And My sabbaths thou hast polluted.

They have eaten in thee;
Wickedness they have done in thy midst.

10 The nakedness of a father
Hath one uncovered in thee;
The defiled of impurity
They have humbled in thee.

Hath defiled through wickedness;

Are thy hands strong,
For the days that I deal with thee?
I the LORD have spoken and done it.

15 And I have scattered thee among nations,
And spread thee out among the lands,
And consumed thine uncleanness out of thee.

16 And thou hast been polluted by thyself
Before the eyes of nations,
And hast known that I am the LORD.

17 And the word of the LORD is unto me,
saying, 'Son of man,
The house of Israel hath been to Me for
All of them are brass, and tin, [dross:
And iron, and lead, [dross:
In the midst of a furnace silver hath been

18 Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Because of your all becoming dross,

Therefore, lo, I am gathering you
Unto the midst of Jerusalem.

20 A gathering of silver, and brass,
And iron, and lead, and tin,
Into the midst of a furnace,
To blow on it fire, to melt it:

So I gather in Mine anger and in My fury,
And have let rest, and melted you.

21 And I have heaped you up,
And blown on you in the fire of My wrath,
And ye have been melted in its midst.

22 As the melting of silver in the midst of a

And ye have known that I the LORD
Have poured out My fury upon you.

23 And the word of the LORD is unto me,
saying:

24 'Son of man, say to it, Thou art the land:
It is not cleansed nor rained on
In the day of indignation.

25 A conspiracy of its prophets
Is in its midst, as a roaring lion,
Tearing prey: the soul they devoured:
Wealth and glory they have taken:

Its widows have multiplied in its midst.
26 Its priests have wronged My law,
And they pollute My holy things:

Between holy and common
They have not made a separation,
And between the unclean and the clean
They have not made known,

And from My sabbaths
They have hidden their eyes,
And I am pierced in their midst.

27 Its princes in its midst are as wolves,
Tearing prey, to shed blood,
To destroy souls,

For the sake of gaining dishonest gain.
28 Its prophets have daubed for them chalk,
Seeing a vain thing,
And divining for them a lie, saying:

Thus said the Lord Jehovah,
And Jehovah hath not spoken.

And have taken plunder violently away
And the humble and needy oppressed:
And the stranger oppressed without judg-

A man—making a hedge,
And standing in the breach before Me,
In behalf of the land, not to destroy it;

And I have not found.

31 And I pour out on them Mine indignation;
By the fire of My wrath
I have consumed them:

Their way on their own head I have put,

XXIII. 1 AND the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, 'Son of man, [mother:
2 Two women have been daughters of one

3 And they commit fornication in Egypt:
In their youth they committed fornication:
There they bruised their breasts,
And there they have dealt

With the loves of their virginity.
4 And their names are Aholah the elder,
And Aholibah her sister:

And they become Mine,
And bear sons and daughters.
As to their names—Samaria is Aholah,
And Jerusalem is Aholibah.

- 5 And go a-whoring doth Aholah under Me;
And doth on her lovers,
On the neighbouring Assyrians,
6 Clothed with blue, governors and prefects,
Desirable young men all of them,
Horsemen, riding on horses,
7 And she giveth her whoredoms on them,
The choice of the Children of Asshur,
All of them—even all on whom she dotheth:
By all their idols she hath been defiled.
8 And her whoredoms out of Egypt
She hath not forsaken:
For with her they lay in her youth,
And dealt with the loves of her virginity,
They pour out their whoredoms on her.
9 Therefore have I given her
Into the hand of her lovers,
Into the hand of the Children of Asshur,
On whom she hath doted.
10 They have uncovered her nakedness:
Her sons and her daughters have taken,
And her by a sword they have slain;
And she is a name for women;
And judgments they have done with her.
11 And see doth her sister Aholibah,
And she maketh her doting love
More corrupt than she,
And her whoredoms
Than the whoredoms of her sister.
12 On the Children of Asshur she hath doted,
Governors and prefects,
Neighbouring ones, clothed in perfection,
Horsemen, riding on horses,
Desirable young men all of them.
13 And I see that she hath been defiled:
One way have they both.
14 And she addeth unto her whoredoms:
And she seeth graved men on the wall:
Pictures of Chaldeans, graved with red
15 Girded with a girdle on their loins, [lead,
Dyed attire spread out on their heads,
The appearance of rulers—all of them,
The likeness of the Children of Babylon;
Chaldea is the land of their birth:
16 And she dotheth on them, at the sight of her eyes, [Chaldea.
And sendeth messengers unto them,
17 And come in unto her do the Children of
To the bed of loves; [Babylon,
And defile her with their whoredoms,
And she is defiled with them,
And her soul is alienated by them.
18 And she revealeth her whoredoms,
And revealeth her nakedness:
And alienated is My soul from her,
As alienated was My soul from her sister.
19 And she multiplieth her whoredoms,
By remembering the days of her youth,
When she went a-whoring in the land of 20 And dotheth on their paramours, [Egypt.
Whose flesh is the flesh of asses,
And the issue of horses—their issue.
21 Thou missest the wickedness of thy youth,
In dealing out of Egypt thy loves,
For the sake of the breasts of thy youth.
22 Therefore, O Aholibah,
Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, I stir up thy lovers against thee,
By whom thy mind hath been alienated,
And have brought them in against thee
From round about.
- 23 Children of Babylon, and of all Chaldea
Pekod, and Shoa, and Koa,
All the Children of Asshur with them;
Desirable young men,
Governors and prefects all of them,
Rulers and proclaimed ones,
Riding on horses, all of them.
24 And they have come in against thee,
Armed with chariot and wheel,
And with an assembly of peoples:
Target, and shield, and helmet,
They set against thee round about:
And I have set before them judgment,
They have judged thee by their judgments.
25 And I have set My jealousy against thee,
And they have dealt with thee in fury:
Thy nose and thine ears they turn aside;
And thy posterity by the sword falleth:
They, thy sons and thy daughters take away,
And thy posterity is devoured by fire.
26 And they have stripped thee of thy gar-
And taken thy beautiful jewels. [ments, 27 And I have caused thy wickedness to cease from thee, [Egypt:
And thy whoredoms out of the land of
And thou liftest not up thine eyes to them,
And Egypt thou rememberest not again.
28 For thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, I am giving thee into a hand which thou hast hated,
Into hands by which thou wast alienated.
29 And they have dealt with thee in hatred,
And have taken all thy labour:
And have left thee naked and bare;
And revealed hath been the nakedness of thy whoredoms,
And the wickedness of thy whoredoms.
30 Doing these things to thee,
Because of thy going a-whoring after nations, [idols.
Because thou hast been defiled with their 31 In the way of thy sister thou hast walked;
And I have given her cup into thy hand.
32 Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
The cup of thy sister thou drinkest,
The deep and the wide one:
Thou art for a laughter and for a scorn;
Too abundant to contain. [filled;
33 With drunkenness and sorrow thou art
A cup of astonishment and desolation,
The cup of thy sister Samaria.
34 And thou hast drunk and drained it,
And its earthen ware thou gnawest,
And thine own breasts thou drawest out:
For I have spoken,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah,
35 Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah,
Because thou hast forgotten Me,
And dost cast Me behind thy back:
Even thou also bear thy wickedness,
And thy whoredoms.
36 And the LORD saith unto me:
'Son of man, dost thou judge Aholah and Aholibah?
Declare then to them their abominations.
37 For they have committed adultery,
And blood is on their hands:
With their idols they committed adultery,
And even their children whom they bore
to Me

They caused to pass over to them for food.
 38 Again, this have they done to Me:
 They defiled My sanctuary in that day,
 And My sabbaths they have polluted.
 39 And in their slaughtering their children to their idols,
 They also come in unto My sanctuary
 In that day to pollute it:
 And lo, thus have they done
 In the midst of My house. [from afar,
 40 And also that ye send to men coming
 Unto whom a messenger is sent:
 And lo, they have come in for whom thou hast washed,
 Painted thine eyes, and put on ornaments,
 41 And thou hast sat on a couch of honour,
 And a table arrayed before it,
 And My perfume and Mine oil placed on it.
 42 And the voice of a multitude
 At ease is with her: [are brought in
 And with certain of the common people
 Sabaeans from the wilderness:
 And they put bracelets on their hands,
 And a beauteous crown on their heads.
 43 And I say of the worn-out one in adulteries: [she also?
 Now do they commit her whoredoms—
 44 And they come in unto her,
 As the coming in unto a whorish woman:
 So have they come in unto Aholah,
 And unto Aholbah, the wicked woman.
 45 As to righteous men,
 They judge them with the judgment of adulteresses,
 And the judgment of women shedding
 For they are adulteresses, [blood;
 And blood is on their hands.
 46 For thus said the Lord Jehovah:
 Bringing up against them a congregation,
 And giving them up to trembling,
 And to spoiling. [congregation,
 47 They have cast at them the stone of the
 And cut them with their swords:
 Their sons and their daughters they slay,
 And their houses with fire they burn.
 48 I have also caused wickedness to cease
 from the land;
 And instructed have been all the women,
 And they do not according to your wickedness: [you,
 49 And they have put your wickedness upon
 And the sins of your idols ye bear:
 And ye have known that I am the Lord
 Jehovah.
 XXIV. 1 And the word of the LORD is unto me, in the ninth year, in the tenth month, in the tenth of the month, saying, 2 'Son of man, write for thyself the name of the day, this self-same day, [leaned hath the king of Babylon toward Jerusalem in this self-same day:] 3 and use a simile unto the rebellious house, then hast thou said unto them:
 Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
 Set on the pot, set it on,
 And also pour into it water.
 4 Gather its pieces unto it,
 Every good piece, thigh and shoulder,
 The choice of the bones fill in.
 5 The choice of the flock take,
 And also the pile of the bones under it:
 Boil it thoroughly,

Yea, cook its bones in its midst.
 6 Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:
 Wo to the city of blood,
 The pot whose scum is in it,
 And its scum hath not come out of it;
 On its every piece bring it out;
 Not fallen on it hath the lot.
 7 For her blood in her midst hath been,
 On the clear place of a rock she set it:
 She hath not poured it on the earth,
 To cover it over with dust.
 8 Causing fury to come up to take vengeance:
 I have put her blood on the clear place of a rock—not to be covered.
 9 Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:
 Wo to the city of blood,
 Yea, I—I make great the pile.
 10 Make the wood abundant,
 Kindle the fire, consume the flesh,
 And make the compound,
 And let the bones be burnt.
 11 And cause it to stand on its coals empty,
 So that its brass is hot and burning.
 Melted hath been in its midst its unclean-
 Consumed is its scum. [ness,
 12 With sorrows she hath wearied herself,
 And the abundance of her scum
 Goeth not out of her: in the fire is her 13 In thine uncleanness is wickedness: [scum.
 Because I have cleansed thee,
 And thou hast not been cleansed
 From thine uncleanness,
 Thou art not cleansed any more
 Till I have caused My fury to rest on thee.
 14 I the LORD hath spoken:
 It hath come, and I have done it;
 I free not, nor do I spare, nor do I repent:
 According to thy ways,
 And according to thine acts they have
 Affirmed the Lord Jehovah: [judged thee,
 15 And the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, 16 'Son of man, lo, I am taking from thee the desire of thine eyes by a stroke:
 and thou shalt not mourn, nor weep, nor let thy tear come. 17 Cease to groan, for the dead make no mourning, thy bonnet bind on thee, and thy shoes thou shalt put on thy feet, and thou shalt not cover over the upper lip, and the bread of men thou shalt not eat.' 18 And I speak unto the people in the morning; and my wife dieth in the evening; and I do in the morning as I have been commanded. 19 And the people say unto me, 'Wilt thou not declare to us what these are to us, that thou art doing?'
 20 And I say unto them, 'The word of the LORD hath been unto me, saying: 21 Say to the house of Israel, Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
 Lo, I am polluting My sanctuary,
 The excellency of your strength,
 The desire of your eyes,
 And the pitied of your soul:
 And your sons and your daughters
 Whom ye have left, by the sword do fall.
 22 And ye have done as I have done:
 On the upper lip ye are not covered,
 And bread of men ye do not eat.
 23 And your bonnets are on your heads,
 And your shoes on your feet:
 Ye do not mourn nor weep:

Ye have wasted away for your iniquities,
And have howled one unto another.
24 And Ezekiel hath been to you for a type:
According to all that he hath done ye do;
In its coming, then ye have known
That I am the Lord Jehovah.
25 And thou, O son of man,
Is it not in the day of My taking from them their strength,
The joy of their beauty, the desire of their
And the song of their soul? [eyes,
Their sons and their daughters,
26 In that day come doth the escaped one to
To cause the ears to hear? [thice,
27 In that day opened is thy mouth
With the escaped, and thou speakest,
And are not silent any more:
And thou hast been to them for a type;
And they have known that I am the Lord.
XXV. 1 AND the word of the Lord is unto me, saying: 2 'Son of man, set thy face unto the Children of Ammon, and prophesy against them; 3 then hast thou said to the Children of Ammon:
Hear the word of the Lord Jehovah:
Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Because of thy saying, Aha, unto My sanc-
Because it hath been polluted: [tuary,
And unto the ground of Israel,
Because it hath been desolate;
And unto the house of Judah,
Because they have gone into captivity:
4 Therefore, lo, I am giving thee
To children of the east for a possession,
And they have set their towers in thee,
And have placed in thee their tabernacles:
They—they eat thy fruit,
And they—they drink thy milk.
5 And I have given Rabbah
For a habitation of camels,
And the Children of Ammon
For the crouching of a flock;
And ye have known that I am the Lord.
6 For, said the Lord Jehovah,
Because of thy clapping the hand,
And of thy stamping with the foot,
Yea, thou rejoicest with all thy despite in
Against the ground of Israel, [soul
7 Therefore, lo, I—I have stretched out
My hand against thee,
And given thee for a portion to nations,
And have cut thee off from the peoples,
And caused thee to perish out of the lands;
I destroy thee,
And thou hast known that I am the Lord.
8 Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Because of the saying of Moab and Seir,
Lo, as all the nations & the house of Judah,
9 Therefore, lo, I am opening
The shoulder of Moab—from the cities,
From his cities, from his ends,
The beauty of the land,
Beth-Jeshimoth, Baal-Meon, and Kiriaht-
10 To the children of the east, [aim,
With the Children of Ammon;
And I have given it for a possession,
So that the Children of Ammon
Are not remembered among nations;
11 And in Moab I do judgments,
And they have known that I am the Lord.
12 Thus said the Lord Jehovah:

Because of the doings of Edom,
In taking vengeance on the house of Ju-
Yea, they are very guilty, [dah,
They have taken vengeance on them;
13 Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:
I have stretched out My hand against
And cut off from it man and beast: [Edom,
And have given it up—a waste,
From Teman even to Dedan;
By the sword they do fall.
14 And I have given out My vengeance on
By the hand of My people Israel, [Edom,
And they have done in Edom
According to Mine anger,
And according to My fury,
And they have known My vengeance,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.
15 Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Because of the doings
Of the Philistines in vengeance,
And they take vengeance with despite in
To destroy—the old enmity! [soul,
16 Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, I am stretching out My hand
Against the Philistines,
And have cut off the Cherethim,
And destroyed the remnant of the haven
of the sea;
17 And done upon them great vengeance,
With furious reproofs:
And they have known that I am the Lord,
In My giving out My vengeance on them.
XXVI. 1 AND it cometh to pass, in the eleventh year, in the first of the month,
the word of the Lord hath been unto me,
saying, 'Son of man,
2 Because that Tyre hath said of Jerusalem:
Aha, she hath been broken,
The gates of the peoples,
It hath turned round unto me,
I am filled—she hath been laid waste;
3 Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, I am against thee, O Tyre,
And have caused to come up against thee
many nations,
As the sea causeth its billows to come up.
4 And have destroyed the walls of Tyre,
And have broken down her towers:
And I have scraped her dust from her,
And made her for the clear place of a rock.
5 A spreading place of nets she is
In the midst of the sea:
For I—I have spoken, affirmeth the Lord
And she hath been for a spoil [Jehovah:
To the nations.
6 And her daughters who are in the country
By the sword are slain:
And they have known that I am the Lord
7 For, thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, I am bringing in unto Tyre
Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon,
From the north, a king of kings,
With horse, and with chariot,
And with horsemen, even a congregation,
And a numerous people.
8 Thy daughters in the country
By the sword he slayeth;
And he hath made against thee a fort,
And poured out against thee a mount,
And raised against thee a buckler.
9 And a battering-ram before him

He placeth against thy walls,
And thy towers lie breaketh by its wea-

11 With the hoofs of his horses
He treadeth all thine out-places:
Thy people by the sword he slayeth,
And the pillars of thy strength
To the earth come down.
12 And they have spoiled thy wealth,
And plundered thy merchandise,
And thrown down thy walls,
And thy desirable houses they break down;
And thy stones, and thy wood, and dust,
In the midst of the waters they place.
13 And I have caused the noise of thy songs
And the voice of thy harps [to cease:

A spreading-place of nets thou art;
Thou art not built up any more:
For I the LORD have spoken,

Do not—from the noise of thy fall,
In the groaning of the wounded,
In the slaying of the slaughter in thy

Have all the princes of the sea.
And have turned aside their robes,
And their embroidered garments strip off:
Trembling they put on;
On the earth they sit,
And have trembled every moment,
And been astonished at thee,
17 And have lifted up for thee a lamentation,
And have said to thee:
How hast thou perished,
That art inhabited from the seas,
The praised city which was strong in the

Who put their terror on all her inhabitants!
18 Now they tremble:
Is it not the day of thy fall?
Troubled have been the isles that are in
At thine outgoing. [the sea
19 For thus said the LORD Jehovah:
In my making thee a wasted city,
Like cities which have not been inhabited:
In bringing up against thee the deep.
Then covered thee have the great waters.
20 And I have caused thee to go down
With those going down to the pit,
Unto the people of old,
And have caused thee to dwell in the land,
The lower parts, in the wastes of old,
With those going down to the pit,
So that thou art not inhabited;
And I have given beauty
In the land of the living:
21 Wastes I make thee, and thou art not:
And thou art sought,
And thou art not found any more for ever,
Affirmeth the LORD Jehovah.
XXVII. 1 AND the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, 2 And thou, son of man, lift up concerning Tyre a lamentation, then hast thou said to Tyre:

3 O dweller at the entrances of the sea,
Merchant of the peoples unto many isles,
Thus said the LORD Jehovah:
O Tyre, thou—thou hast said,
I am the perfection of beauty.
4 In the heart of the seas are thy borders,
Thy builders have perfected thy beauty.
5 Of firs of Senir they have built for thee
All thy double-boarded ships:
Of cedars of Lebanon they have taken
To make a mast for thee:
6 Of oaks of Bashan they made thine oars:
Thy benches they have made of ivory,
Branches of Ashurim from isles of Chittim.
7 Of fine linen with embroidery
From Egypt hath been thy sail,
To be to thee for an ensign;
Of blue and purple from isles of Elishah
Hath been thy covering.
8 The inhabitants of Zidon and Arvad
Have been rowers for thee:
Thy wise men, O Tyre, have been in thee
They are thy pilots.
9 The elders of Gebal and its wise men
Have been in thee,
Strengthening thy breaches,
All ships of the sea and thy mariners
Have been in thee.
To trade with thy merchandise.
10 Persians and Ludim and Phutim
Have been in thy forces, thy men of war:
Shield and helmet they hung up in thee,
They—they have given out thine honour.
11 The Children of Arvad, and thy forces,
Are on thy walls round about,
And short swordsmen have been in thy
Their shields they have hung up [towers,
On thy walls round about,
They—they have perfected thy beauty.
12 Tarshish is thy merchant,
Because of the abundance of all wealth,
For silver, iron, tin, and lead.
They have given out thy remnants.
13 Javan, Tubal, and Meshech,
They are thy merchants,
For persons of men and vessels of brass.
They have given out thy merchandise.
14 They of the house of Togarmah,
For horses, and riding steeds, and mules,
They have given out thy remnants.
15 Children of Dedan are thy merchants:
Many isles are the mart of thy hand:
Horns of ivory and ebony
They have sent back—thy reward.
16 Aram is thy merchant,
Because of the abundance of thy works,
For emeralds, purple, and embroidery,
And fine linen, and coral, and agate,
They have given out thy remnants.
17 Judah and the land of Israel,
They are thy merchants,
For wheat of Minnith, and Pannag,
And honey, and oil, and balm,
They have given out thy merchandise.
18 Damascus is thy merchant,
For the abundance of thy works,
Because of the abundance of all thy wealth,
For the wine of Helbon, and white wool,
19 Vedan and Javan

Go about with thy remnants;
They have given out shining iron,
Cassia, and cane,
In thy merchandise—It hath been.
³⁰ Dedan is thy merchant,
For clothes of freedom for riding.
³¹ Arabia, and all the princes of Kedar,
They are the traders of thy hand,
For lambs, and rams, and he-goats,
In these thy merchants.
³² Merchants of Sheba and Raamah,
They are thy merchants:
For the chief of all spices,
And for all precious stones, and gold
They have given out thy remnants.
³³ Haran, and Canneh, and Eden,
Merchants of Sheba,
Asshur—Chilmad—are thy merchants,
³⁴ They are thy merchants for perfect things,
For wrappings of blue, and embroidery,
And for treasures of rich apparel,
With cords bound, and girded,
For thy merchandise.
³⁵ Ships of Tarshish are thy double walls
Of thy merchandise:
And thou art filled and honoured greatly,
In the heart of the seas.
³⁶ Into great waters have they brought thee,
Who row thee:
The east wind hath broken thee
In the heart of the seas.
³⁷ Thy wealth, and thy remnants,
Thy merchandise, thy mariners,
And thy pilots, strengthening thy breach,
And the traders of thy merchandise,
And all thy men of war, who are in thee,
And in all thy congregation
Which is in thy midst,
Fall into the heart of the seas,
In the day of thy fall.
³⁸ At the voice of the cry of thy pilots
Shake do the suburbs.
³⁹ And come down from their ships
Have all who handle an oar,
Mariners, all the pilots of the sea
On the land they stand,

And cause dust to go up on their heads,
In ashes they roll themselves.
⁴¹ And they have made for thee baldness,
And have girded on sackcloth,
And they have wept for thee,
In bitterness of soul—a bitter mourning.
⁴² And lifted up for thee have their children
a lamentation;
And they have lamented over thee:
Who is as Tyre?
As the cut-off one in the midst of the sea?
⁴³ With the outgoing of thy remnants from Thou hast filled many peoples: [the seas,
With the abundance of thy riches,
And thy merchandise,
Thou hast made rich the kings of earth.
⁴⁴ The time of thy being broken by the seas
In the depths of the waters,
Thy merchandise and all thy congregation
In thy midst have fallen.
⁴⁵ All the inhabitants of the isles
Have been astonished at thee,
And their kings have been sore afraid;

They have been troubled in countenance.
³⁶ The merchants among the peoples
Have shrieked for thee;
Wastes thou hast been,
And thou shalt not be for ever!
XXVIII. 'AND the word of the Lord is unto me, saying:
¹ Son of man, say to the leader of Tyre:
Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Because thy heart hath been high,
And thou sayest, A god I am,
The habitation of God I have inhabited,
In the heart of the seas;
And thou art man, and not God,
And thou givest out thy heart
As the heart of God:
² Lo, thou art wiser than Daniel:
No hidden thing have they concealed from thee.
³ By thy wisdom and thine understanding
Thou hast made for thyself wealth:
Thou makest gold and silver in thy treasure.
⁴ By the abundance of thy wisdom, [riches,
Through thy merchandise,
Thou hast multiplied thy wealth.
⁵ And high is thy heart through thy wealth.
⁶ Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Because of thy giving out thy heart
As the heart of God,
⁷ Therefore, lo, I am bringing against thee
The terrible of the nations: [strangers,
And they have drawn out their swords
Against the beauty of thy wisdom,
And have pierced thy brightness.
⁸ To destruction they bring thee down,
Thou diest by the deaths of the wounded,
In the heart of the seas.
⁹ Dost thou really say, 'I am God'
Before him who slayeth thee?
And thou art man, and not God,
In the hand of him who pierceth thee.
¹⁰ The deaths of the uncircumcised thou diest
by the hand of strangers:
For I have spoken,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.'
¹¹ And the word of the Lord is unto me,
saying:
¹² Son of man, lift up a lamentation
For the king of Tyre,
Then hast thou said to him:
Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Thou art sealing up the measurement,
Full of wisdom, and perfect in beauty.
¹³ In Eden, the garden of God, thou hast been:
Every precious stone thy covering,
Ruby, topaz, and diamond,
Beryl, onyx, and jasper,
Sapphire, emerald, and carbuncle, gold,
The workmanship of thy tabrets,
And of thy females,
For thee in the day of thy being created
Have been prepared. [est:
¹⁴ Thou art the anointed cherub who cover:
And I have set thee in the holy mount:
God thou hast been:
In the midst of the stones of fire
Thou hast walked up and down.
¹⁵ Perfect art thou in thy ways,
From the day of thy being created,
Till perversity hath been found in thee.
¹⁶ By the abundance of thy merchandise

They have filled thy midst with violence,
And thou dost sin: [God,
And I thrust thee from the mountain of
And destroy thee, O covering cherub,
From the midst of the stones of fire.
17 High hath been thy heart,
Because of thy beauty:
Thou hast corrupted thy wisdom
Because of thy brightness:
On the earth I have cast thee,
Before kings I have set thee,
To look upon thee.
18 From the abundance of thine iniquity,
By the perversity of thy traffic,
Thou hast polluted thy sanctuaries:
And I bring out fire from thy midst.
It hath devoured thee, [earth.
And I make thee become ashes on the
Before the eyes of all who behold thee.
19 All who know thee among the peoples
Have been astonished at thee:
Wastes thou hast been,
And thou shalt not be for ever.
20 And the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, 21 'Son of man, set thy face unto Zidon, and prophesy concerning it; 22 then hast thou said:
Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, I am against thee, O Zidon:
And I have been honoured in thy midst.
And they have known that I am the LORD,
In my doing judgments in her,
And I have been sanctified in her.
23 And I have sent into her pestilence,
And blood into her out-places: [midst.
The wounded hath been in her
By the sword upon her round about:
And they have known that I am the LORD.
24 And there is no more to the house of Isa pricking brier, [rael
Or pricking thorn, of all round about them,
Who are despising them:
And they have known that I am the Lord
25 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: [Jehovah.
In My gathering the house of Israel
From the peoples among whom they have been scattered,
I have been sanctified in them,
Before the eyes of the nations,
And they have dwelt on their ground
Which I gave to My servant, to Jacob,
26 And they have dwelt on it confidently:
And they have builded houses,
And they have planted vineyards,
And they have dwelt confidently,
In my doing judgments
On all who are despising them round about; [their God.]
And they have known that I am the LORD
XXIX. 1 IN the tenth year, in the tenth month, in the twelfth of the month, hath the word of the LORD been unto me, saying, 2 'Son of man, set thy face against Pharaoh king of Egypt, and prophesy concerning him, and concerning Egypt—all of it.
Speak, then hast thou said:
Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, I am against thee, Pharaoh king of
The great dragon that croucheth [Egypt,
In the midst of his floods,
Who hath said, My flood is my own,

And I have made it for myself.
4 And I have put hooks in thy jaws
And have caused the fish of thy floods
To cleave unto thy scales;
And have caused thee to come up
From the midst of thy floods,
And every fish of thy floods
To thy scales doth cleave.
5 And I have left thee in the wilderness,
Thou and all the fish of thy floods:
On the face of the field thou fallest;
Thou art not gathered nor assembled;
To the beast of the earth
And to the fowl of the heavens
I have given thee for food.
6 And known have all the inhabitants of
That I am the LORD, [Egypt
Because of their being a staff of reed
To the house of Israel.
7 In their taking hold of thee by the shoul-
—Thou art bruised, [der.
And hast rent for them all the shoulder:
In their leaning on thee thou art broken,
And hast caused all their thighs to stand.
8 Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, I am bringing in upon thee a sword,
And have cut off from thee man and beast.
9 And the land of Egypt hath been
For a desolation and a waste:
And they have known that I am the LORD.
Because he hath said:
The flood is mine, and I made it.
10 Therefore, lo, I am against thee,
And against thy floods,
And have given up the land of Egypt for
A waste, a desolation, [wastes:
From Migdol to Syene,
And unto the border of Cush.
11 Not pass over into it doth the foot of man,
Yea, the foot of beast passeth not into it,
Nor is it inhabited forty years.
12 And I have made the land of Egypt a deso-
In the midst of desolate lands, [lation,
And her cities, in the midst of waste cities.
Are a desolation forty years: [nations.
And I have scattered the Egyptians among
And have dispersed them through lands.
13 But thus said the Lord Jehovah:
At the end of forty years
I gather the Egyptians out of the peoples
Whither they have been scattered.
14 And have turned back to the captivity of
And have brought them back [Egypt.
To the land of Pathros, to the land of their birth,
And they have been there a low kingdom.
15 Of the kingdoms it is lowest;
And it lieth not up itself
Any more above the nations:
And I have made them few,
So as not to rule among nations.
16 And it is no more to the house of Israel
For a confidence,
Bringing iniquity to remembrance,
By their turning after them:
And they have known that I am the Lord
Jehovah.
17 And it cometh to pass, in the twenty and seventh year, in the first month, in the first of the month, the word of the LORD hath been unto me, saying:

- ¹⁸ 'Son of man, Nebuchadrezzar king of Babylon caused his force [Babylon]
To serve a great service against Tyre:
Every head is bald, every shoulder peeled:
And reward he hath had none,
Nor his force out of Tyre,
For the service which he served against it.
- ¹⁹ Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, I am giving to Nebuchadrezzar king of
The land of Egypt, [Babylon]
And he hath taken away its store,
And taken its spoil, and taken its prey:
And it hath been a reward to his force.
- ²⁰ His wage for which he laboured
I have given to him,
The land of Egypt—because they wrought
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah. [for Me,
- ²¹ In that day I cause to shoot up a horn
To the house of Israel,
And to thee I give an opening of the month in their midst:
And they have known that I am the LORD.'
- XXX. 'AND the word of the LORD is unto
me, saying:
- ² 'Son of man, prophesy, then hast thou said,
Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Howl ye, ha! for the day!
- ³ For near is the day, year, near is the day of the LORD. [it is.
A day of clouds, the time of the nations
- ⁴ And come in hath a sword to Egypt;
And great pain hath been in Cush,
In the falling of the wounded in Egypt:
And they have taken its store: [tions.
And broken down have been its founda-
- ⁵ Cush, and Phut, and Lud,
And all the mixture, and Chub,
And the children of the land of the covenant with them.
By the sword do fall.
- ⁶ Thus hath the LORD said:
Fallen have the supporters of Egypt;
And come down hath the arrogance of
From Migdol to Syene, [her strength:
By the sword they fall in her,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.
- ⁷ And they have been desolated
In the midst of desolate lands: [cities.
And its cities are in the midst of wasted
- ⁸ And they have known that I am the LORD,
In My giving out fire against Egypt,
And broken have been all her helpers.
- ⁹ In that day go out do messengers
From before Me in ships
To trouble confident Cush;
And great pain hath been on them,
As the day of Egypt: for lo, it hath come.
- ¹⁰ Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
I have caused the multitude of Egypt to cease, [Babylon].
By the hand of Nebuchadrezzar king of
- ¹¹ He and his people with him—
The terrible of the nations,
Are brought in to destroy the land,
And they have drawn their swords against Egypt,
And filled the land with the wounded.
- ¹² And I have made floods a dry place,
And have sold the land
Into the hand of evil doers;
And I have made desolate the land,

- And its fulness by the hand of strangers:
I the LORD have spoken.
- ¹³ Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
I have also destroyed idols,
And caused vain things to cease from
Noph: [is no more:
And a prince of the land of Egypt there
And I give out fear in the land of Egypt.
- ¹⁴ And I have made Pathros desolate,
And have given out fire against Zoan,
And have done judgments on No.
- ¹⁵ And have poured out My fury on Sin,
The stronghold of Egypt,
And have cut off the multitude of No.
- ¹⁶ And have given out fire against Egypt:
Greatly pained is Sin;
And No is to be rent,
And Noph hath daily distresses.
- ¹⁷ The youths of Aven and Pi-Beseth
By the sword do fall:
And these into captivity go. [dark,
And in Tephlahnehs hath the day been
In My breaking there the yokes of Egypt:
And ceased in her hath the excellence of
She, a cloud doth cover her, [her strength:
And her daughters into captivity go.
- ¹⁸ And I have done judgments on Egypt;
And they have known that I am the LORD.'
- ¹⁹ And it cometh to pass, in the eleventh year, in the first month, in the seventh of the month, the word of the LORD hath
been unto me, saying:
- ²⁰ 'Son of man, the arm of Pharaoh, king of
I have broken; [Egypt,
And lo, it hath not been bound up to give
Putting a bandage to bind it, [healing:
To strengthen it, to hold the sword.
- ²¹ Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, I am against Pharaoh, king of Egypt,
And have broken his arms,
The strong one and the broken one;
And have caused the sword to fall out of his hand. [tions,
And scattered the Egyptians among na-
And have spread them through lands.
- ²² And have strengthened the arms of the
king of Babylon,
And have given My sword into his hand:
And have broken the arms of Pharaoh,
And he hath groaned
The groans of a pierced one—before him.
- ²³ And I have strengthened the arms of the king of Babylon,
And the arms of Pharaoh fall down:
And they have known that I am the LORD,
In My putting My sword
Into the hand of the king of Babylon:
And he hath stretched it out toward the land of Egypt. [among nations,
- ²⁴ And I have scattered the Egyptians
And spread them through lands:
And they have known that I am the LORD.'
- XXXI. 'AND it cometh to pass, in the eleventh year, in the third month, in the first of the month, the word of the LORD hath been unto me, saying: ² 'Son of man, say unto Pharaoh king of Egypt, and unto his multitude:
To whom hast thou been like in thy great-
³ Lo, Asshur, a cedar in Lebanon, [ness?
Fair branches, and shading bough,

And high in stature,
Between the thickets hath his foliage been.
4 Waters have made him great,
The deep exalted him with its flowings,
Going round about its planting,
And its conduits hath it sent out
Unto all the trees of the field.
5 Therefore higher hath been his stature
Than all the trees of the field,
And multiplied are his boughs,
And long are his branches,
Because of many waters in his shooting
6 In his boughs made nests [forth].
Have all the fowls of the heavens,
And under his branches brought forth
Have all the beasts of the field,
And in his shade dwell do all great nations.
7 And he is fair in his greatness,
In the length of his thin shoots,
For his root hath been by great waters.
8 Cedars have not hid him
In the garden of God:
Firs have not been like unto his boughs,
And chesnut-trees
Have not been as his branches:
No tree in the garden of God
Hath been like unto him in his beauty.
9 Fair I have made him
By the multitude of his thin shoots:
And envy him do all the trees of Eden
Which are in the garden of God.
10 Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Because thou hast been high in stature,
And he yieldeth his foliage
Between the thickets,
And high is his heart in his haughtiness:
11 I give him into the hand
Of the god of the nations,
He dealeth sorely with him:
For his wickedness, I have cast him out.
12 And cut him off do strangers.
The terrible of the nations, and leave him:
On the mountains and in all valleys
Have his thin shoots fallen,
And broken are his boughs
Near all the streams of the land;
And go down from his shade
Do all peoples of the land, and leave him.
13 On his ruins dwell
Do all the fowls of the heavens,
And on his branches have been
All the beasts of the field:
14 In order that none of the trees of the waters
May become haughty
Because of their stature,
Nor yield their foliage between the
Nor any who drink waters, [thickets],
Stand up in their haughtiness:
For all of them are given up to death,
Unto the lower part of earth,
In the midst of the children of men,
Unto those going down to the pit.
15 Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
In the day of his going down to Sheol
I have caused mourning:
I have covered for him the deep,
And diminish its flowings.
And restrained are the great waters;
And I make Lebanon black for him,
And all the trees of the field

Have been covered for him.
16 From the sound of his fall
I have caused nations to shake,
In My causing him to go down to Sheol,
With those going down to the pit:
And comforted in the lower part of earth
Are all the trees of Eden,
The choice and the good of Lebanon,
All who drink water.
17 Even they with him have gone down to Unto the pierced of the sword: [Sheol],
And—his arm—they dwell in his shade
In the midst of the nations.
18 Unto whom hast thou been thus like
In honour and in greatness
Among the trees of Eden?
And thou hast been brought down
With the trees of Eden
Unto the lower part of earth:
In the midst of the uncircumcised
Thou liest with the pierced of the sword.
It is Pharaoh, and all his multitude,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.
XXXII. 1 AND it cometh to pass, in the twelfth year, in the twelfth month, in the first of the month, the word of the Lord hath been unto me, saying, 2 'Son of man, lift up a lamentation for Pharaoh king of Egypt, then hast thou said unto him:
Thou hast been like the young lion of nations,
And thou art as the dragon in the seas:
And thou comest forth with thy flowings,
And troublest the waters with thy feet,
And thou foulest thy flowings.
3 Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
I have spread out for thee My net,
With a congregation of many peoples;
And they have brought thee up in My net.
4 And I have left thee on the land,
On the face of the field I cast thee out,
And have caused to remain upon thee
Every fowl of the heavens,
And have satisfied out of thee
The beasts of the whole earth.
5 I have put thy flesh on the mountains,
And filled the valleys with thy hugeness.
6 And watered the land with thy flowing,
From thy blood—unto the mountains,
And the streams are filled from thee.
7 And in quenching thee
I have covered the heavens,
And have made black their stars,
The sun with a cloud I cover,
The moon causeth not its light to shine.
8 All the luminaries of light in the heavens
I have made black over thee,
And have put darkness over thy land,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah,
9 And vexed the heart of many peoples,
In My bringing in
Thy destruction among nations,
Unto lands which thou hast not known.
10 And I have made many peoples
Astonished at thee,
And their kings are afraid for thee with
In My brandishing [trembling],
My sword before their faces,
And they have trembled every moment,
Each for his life, in the day of thy fall.
11 For thus said the Lord Jehovah:

The sword of the king of Babylon enter-
 13 By the swords of the mighty [eth thee.
 I cause thy multitude to fall,
 The terrible of the nations—all of them,
 And they have spoiled the excellency of
 And destroyed hath been [Egypt,
 All her multitude.

13 And I have destroyed all her beasts,
 From beside the great waters,
 And trouble them not
 Doth the foot of man any more.
 Yea, the hoofs of beasts trouble them not.

14 Then I cause their waters to sink,
 And their rivers as oil I cause to go,
 Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.

15 In My making the land of Egypt a desola-
 And desolated hath been the land [tion,
 Of its fulness,

In My smiting all the inhabitants in it:
 And they have known that I am the LORD.

16 It is a lamentation,
 And they have lamented her:
 The daughters of the nations lament her:
 For Egypt, and for all her multitude,
 They lament her,
 Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.

17 And it cometh to pass, in the twelfth year, in the fifteenth of the month, the word of the LORD hath been unto me, saying, ¹⁸ Son of man,

Wail for the multitude of Egypt,
 And cause it to go down,
 It—and the daughters of honourable na-unto the lower parts of earth, [tions,
 With those going down to the pit.

18 Than whom hast thou been pleasant?
 Go down, and be laid
 With the uncircumcised. [they fall:

20 In the midst of the pierced of the sword
 To the sword she hath been given up:
 They drew her out, and all her multitude.

21 Speak to him do the gods of the mighty
 From the midst of Sheol,
 With his helpers they have gone down:
 They have lain with the uncircumcised,
 The pierced of the sword.

22 There is Asshur, and all her assembly:
 Round about him are his graves;
 All of them are wounded,
 Who are falling by the sword:

23 Whose graves are appointed
 In the sides of the pit,
 Her company is round about her grave:
 All of them wounded,
 Falling by the sword,
 Because they gave out terror
 In the land of the living.

24 There is Elam, and all her multitude,
 Round about is her grave:
 All of them wounded,
 Who are falling by the sword,
 Who have gone down uncircumcised
 Unto the lower parts of earth,
 Because they gave out their terror
 In the land of the living:
 And they bear their shame
 With those going down to the pit.

25 In the midst of the wounded
 They have appointed a bed for her
 With all her multitude:
 Round about him are her graves:

All of them uncircumcised,
 Pierced of the sword:
 For their terror was given out
 In the land of the living,
 And they bear their shame
 With those going down to the pit:
 In the midst of the pierced he hath been

And all her multitude:
 Round about him are her graves;
 All of them uncircumcised,
 Pierced of the sword,
 For they gave out their terror
 In the land of the living.

27 And they lie not with the mighty
 Who are falling of the uncircumcised,
 Who have gone down to Sheol
 With their weapons of war: [heads:
 And they put their swords under their
 And their iniquities are on their bones,
 For the terror of the mighty
 Is in the land of the living.

28 And thou, in the midst of the uncircumcised art broken,
 And liest with the pierced of the sword.

29 There is Edom, her kings,
 And all her princes,
 Who have been given up in their might
 With the pierced of the sword:
 They with the uncircumcised lie,
 And with those going down to the pit.

30 There are princes of the north,
 All of them, and all the Zidonians,
 Who have gone down
 With the pierced in their terror:
 Ashamed of their might:
 And they lie uncircumcised
 With the pierced of the sword,
 And they bear their shame
 With those going down to the pit.

31 Them doth Pharaoh see,
 And hath been comforted
 For all his multitude,
 The pierced of the sword,
 Pharaoh and all his force,
 Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.

32 For I have given out his terror
 In the land of the living:
 And he hath been laid down
 In the midst of the uncircumcised,
 With the pierced of a sword—
 Pharaoh, and all his multitude,
 Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.

XXXIII. ¹ AND the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, ² Son of man, speak unto the children of thy people, then hast thou said unto them:

A land—when I bring against it a sword,
 And the people of the land
 Have taken a certain man out of their borders, [man:

And made him to themselves for a watch-
 3 And he hath seen the sword coming against the land,
 And hath blown with the trumpet,
 And hath warned the people:

4 And the hearer hath heard the voice of the trumpet,
 And hath not taken warning;
 And come in doth the sword,
 And taketh him away:

- His blood on his own head shall be;
 The voice of the trumpet he hath heard,
 And hath not taken warning;
 His blood is on himself;
 And he who taketh warning
 His soul hath delivered.
- And the watchman,
 When he seeth the sword coming in,
 And hath not blown with the trumpet,
 And the people hath not been warned;
 And come in doth the sword,
 And taketh away from them—a soul,
 He in his iniquity is taken away;
 And his blood from the hand of the watchman I require.
- And thou, son of man, [Israel:
 A watchman I made thee to the house of

 O wicked one, thou surely diest:
 And thou hast not spoken
 To warn the wicked from his way,
 He—the wicked—in his iniquity dieth;
 And his blood from thy hand I require.
- And thou, when thou hast warned the wicked of his way,
 To turn back from it:
 And he hath not turned back from his way,
 He in his iniquity dieth:
 And thou thine own soul hast delivered.
- And thou, son of man,
 Say unto the house of Israel:
 Rightly ye have spoken, saying, [on us,
 Surely our transgressions and our sins are
 And in them we are wasting away,
 How, then, shall we live? [Jehovah,

 I delight not in the death of the wicked:
 But in the turning of the wicked from his
 And he hath lived: [way,
 Turn back, turn back, from your evil way,
 Yea, why will ye die, O house of Israel?
- And thou, son of man,
 Say unto the children of thy people:
 The righteousness of the righteous
 Doth not deliver him in the day of his transgression:
 And the wickedness of the wicked,
 He stumbleth not for it [ness:
 In the day of his turning from his wicked-
 And the righteous is not able to live in it
 In the day of his sinning.
- In My saying to the righteous:
 He surely liveth:
 And he hath trusted on his righteousness,
 And hath done perversity; [bered;
 All his righteousnesses are not remem-
 For his perversity which he hath done,
 For it he dieth.
- And in My saying to the wicked:
 Thou surely diest:
 And he hath turned back from his sin.
 And hath done judgment and righteous-
 (The pledge the wicked restoreth, [ness; Plunder he repayeth.)
 In the statutes of life he hath walked,
 So as not to do perversity;
 He surely liveth—he dieth not.
- None of his sin which he hath sinned
 Is remembered of him:

- Judgment and righteousness he hath
 He surely liveth. [done:
 And the children of My people have said:
 The way of the Lord is not pondered:
 As to them—their way is not pondered.
- In the turning back of the righteous
 From his righteousness,
 And he hath done perversity,
 Then he dieth for it.
- And in the turning back of the wicked
 From his wickedness,
 And he hath done judgment and right-
 By them he liveth. [eousness,

 The way of the Lord is not pondered:
 Each according to his ways
 Do I judge you, O house of Israel.'

 year (in the tenth month, in the fifth of the month) of our captivity, come in unto me

 the hand of the Lord hath been unto me in the evening, before the coming in of the till his coming in unto me in the morning:

 and opened is my mouth, and I have not been silent again.
- And the word of the Lord is unto me,
 saying, 'Son of man, the inhabitants of these wastes on the land of Israel are speaking, saying: Abraham hath been alone, yet he possesseth the land: and we are many: to us hath the land been given for a possession.' Therefore say unto them:
 Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
 With the blood ye eat,
 And your eyes ye lift up unto your idols,
 And blood ye shed, and the land inherit.
 Ye have stood on your swords,
 Ye have done abomination,
 Each the wife of his neighbour hath de-

 Thus shalt thou say unto them:
 Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
 I live, do not they who are in the wastes
 By the sword fall?
 And they who are on the face of the field
 To the beast have I given for food;
 And they who are in strongholds
 And in caves by pestilence die.
- And I have made the land a desolation,
 And an astonishment,
 And ceased hath the excellency of its strength: [of Israel,
 And desolated have been the mountains
 Because there is none passing through.

 In My making the land a desolation
 And an astonishment,

 And hear what is the word
 Which cometh out from the Lord.

And they sit before thee—My people,
And have heard thy words,
But they do them not:
For doting loves with their mouth they

And playing well on an instrument:
And they have heard thy words,
And are not doing them.

They have known that a prophet hath been in their midst.
XXXIV. 1 AND the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, 2 'Son of man, prophesy concerning the shepherds of Israel, prophesy, then hast thou said unto them:
To the shepherds, thus said the Lord Je-ho: Wo to the shepherds of Israel [hovah:
Who have been feeding themselves;
The flock do not the shepherds feed?
3 The fat ye eat, and the wool ye put on,
The fed ones ye slaughter:
The flock ye feed not.
4 The weak ye have not strengthened,
And the sick ye have not healed,
And the broken ye have not bound up,
And the driven away have not brought
And the lost ye have not sought, [back,
And with might ye have ruled them,
And with rigour. [herd.
5 They are scattered from want of a sheep-
And are for food to every beast of the field:
Yea, they are scattered.
6 Go astray do My flock on all mountains,
And on every high hill;
And on all the face of the land
Hath My flock been scattered:
And there is none inquiring,
And there is none seeking. [the Lord:
7 Therefore, O shepherds, hear the word of
I live, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah:
8 If not, because of My flock being for a prey:
Yea, My flock is for food to every beast
of the field,
Because there is no shepherd:
My shepherds have not sought My flock;
And the shepherds feed themselves,
And My flock they have not fed.
9 Therefore, O shepherds,
Hear the word of the Lord:
10 Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, I am against the shepherds,
And have required My flock from their hand, [the flock;
And caused them to cease from feeding
And no more do the shepherds feed themselves: [mouth,
And I have delivered My flock from their
And they are not to them for food.
11 For thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, I—even I,
Have required My flock, and sought it out.
12 As a shepherd's searching of his drove
In the day of his being in the midst of his scattered flock,
So do I seek out My flock,
And have delivered them out of all places

Whither they have been scattered,
In a day of clouds and thick darkness,
13 And brought them out from the peoples,
And gathered them from the lands,
And brought them unto their own ground,
And fed them on the mountains of Israel,
By the streams, and by all the dwellings of 14 With good pasture I feed them: [the land,
And on the mountains of the high place
Is their habitation: [of Israel
There they lie down in a good habitation,
And fat pasture they enjoy on the mountains of Israel.
15 I feed My flock, and cause them to lie down,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.
16 The lost I seek, and the driven away bring
And the broken I bind up, [back,
And the sick I strengthen:
And the fat and the strong I destroy,
I feed them with judgment.
17 As to you, O My flock,
Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, I am judging between sheep and sheep,
Between rams and he-goats.
18 Is it a little thing for you—
The good pasture ye enjoy,
And the remnant of your pasture
Ye tread down with your feet:
And depths of waters ye drink,
And the remainder with your feet ye trample, [feet consumeth;
19 And My flock the trodden thing of your
And the trampled thing of your feet
drinketh? [to them:
20 Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah
Lo, I—even I, have judged
Between fat sheep and lean sheep.
21 Because with side and with shoulder ye

Push all the diseased, [places;
Till ye have scattered them into the out-
22 And I have given deliverance to My flock,
And they are not any more for prey;
And I have judged
Between sheep and sheep.
23 And raised up over them one shepherd,
And he hath fed them, my servant David;
He feedeth them, and is their shepherd;
24 And I the LORD, I am their God;
And My servant David
Is prince in their midst: I the LORD have 25 And I have made for them [spoken.
A covenant of peace,
And have caused evil beasts
To cease out of the land:
They have dwelt in the wilderness confi-
And have slept in the forests. [dently,
26 And I have made them,
And the suburbs of my hill, a blessing:
And I have caused the shower
To come down in its season:
Showers of blessing they are.
27 And given hath the tree of the field its
And the land giveth her increase: [fruit,
They have been in their land confident;
And they have known that I am the LORD,
In My breaking the bands of their yoke,
And I have delivered them
From the hand of those
Who are laying service on them.
28 And they are no more a prey to nations,

And the beast of the earth devoureth them
And they have dwelt confidently, [not,
And there is none troubling.
20 And I have raised up for them
A Plant for renown,
And they are no more consumed
By hunger in the land,
And they bear no more the shame of the

That I the LORD their God am with them,
And they—the house of Israel—My peo-

21 And ye, My flock,
The flock of My pasture, men ye are,
I am your God,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.
XXXV. 1 AND the word of the LORD is unto me, saying: 2 'Son of man, set thy face against mount Seir, and prophecy against it; 3 then hast thou said to it:
Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, I am against thee, O mount Seir,
And have stretched out My hand against
And have made thee [thee,
A desolation and an astonishment.
4 Thy cities a waste I make,
And thou art a desolation,
And thou hast known that I am the LORD.
5 Because of thy having
An everlasting enmity,
And thou dost saw the Children of Israel
By the hands of the sword,
In the time of their calamity,
In the time of the iniquity of the end:
6 Therefore, I live, affirmeth the Lord Je-
Surely for blood I appoint thee, [hovah:
And blood pursueth thee:
Seeing thou hast not hated blood,
Blood also pursueth thee.
7 And I have given up mount Seir
For a desolation and an astonishment,
And have cut off from it [turneth,
Him who passeth over and him who re-
8 And filled his mountains with his wound-
Thy hills, and thy valleys, [ed;
And all thy streams,
The pierced of the sword fall into them.
9 Everlasting desolations I make thee,
And thy cities do not return;
And ye have known that I am the LORD.
10 Because of thy saying: These two nations
And these two lands are mine,
And we have possessed it:
And the LORD hath been there: [hovah,
11 Therefore, I live, affirmeth the Lord Je-
I have done according to thine anger,
And according to thine envy,
With which thou hast wrought,
Because of thy hatred against them:
And I have become known among them
When I judge thee.
12 And thou hast known that I, the LORD,
I have heard all thy despisings
Which thou hast spoken
Against the mountains of Israel,
Saying: A desolation;
To us they have been given for food.
13 And ye magnify yourselves against Me
With your mouth,
And have made abundant against Me
Your words: I—I have heard.

14 Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
According to the rejoicing of the whole
A desolation I make of thee: [land,
15 According to thy joy
At the inheritance of the house of Israel,
Because of desolation,
So I do to thee: a desolation thou art,
O mount Seir, and all Edom, all of it:
And they have known that I am the LORD.
XXXVI. 1 AND thou, son of man, prophecy unto the mountains of Israel, then hast thou said: O mountains of Israel, hear the word of the LORD. 2 Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Because the enemy hath said against you, Aha, even the high places of old for a possession hath been to us:
3 therefore, prophecy, then hast thou said:
Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Because, even because, of desolating,
And swallowing you up from round about,
For your being a possession
To the remnant of the nations
Ye are taken up on the tip of the tongue,
And are an evil report of the people;
4 Therefore, O mountains of Israel,
Hear a word of the Lord Jehovah:
Thus said the Lord Jehovah
To the mountains, and to the hills,
To the streams, and to the valleys,
And to the wastes which are desolate,
And to the cities which are forsaken,
Which have been for a prey,
And a scorn to the remnant of the nations
Who are round about:
5 Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Have I not, in the fire of My jealousy,
Spoken against the remnant of the nations,
And against Edom—all of it,
Who have given My land
To themselves for a possession,
With the joy of the whole heart,
With despite of soul,
For the sake of casting it out for a prey?
6 Therefore, prophecy
Concerning the ground of Israel,
Then hast thou said to the mountains,
And to the hills, and to the streams,
And to the valleys,
Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, I, in My jealousy, and in My fury,
I have spoken: [borne,
Because the shame of nations ye have
7 Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:
I, I have lifted up My hand.
Do not—the nations who are with you
From round about—
They their own shame bear?
8 And ye, O mountains of Israel,
Your branches shall give out,
And your fruits ye shall bear
For My people Israel:
For they have drawn near to come.
9 For, lo, I am for you,
And I have turned unto you,
And ye have been tilled and sown.
10 And I have multiplied on you men,
All the house of Israel, all of it:
And the cities have been inhabited,
And the wastes are built.
11 I have multiplied on you man and beast;
And they have multiplied,

- And been fruitful;
And I have caused you to dwell
According to your former states,
And have done better
Than at your beginning:
And ye have known that I am the LORD.
- 12 And I have caused men to walk over you,
My people Israel,
And they possess thee, and thou hast
For an inheritance, [been to them
And thou addest no more to bereave them.
- 13 Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Because they are saying to you:
A devourer of men art thou,
A bereaver of thy nations thou hast been:
14 Therefore, thou devourerest man no more,
And thy nations thou causest not
To stumble any more,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.
- 15 And I proclaim not unto thee any more
The shame of the nations,
And the reproach of peoples
Thou bearest no more,
And thy nations stumble not any more,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.
- 16 And the word of the LORD is unto me,
saying: 17 'Son of man,
The house of Israel dwell on their land,
And they defile it by their way
And by their doings:
As the uncleanness of a separated one
Hath been their way before Me.
- 18 And I pour out My fury on them
For the blood which they shed on the land,
And with their idols they defile it:
19 And I scatter them among the nations,
And they are spread through the lands:
According to their way,
And according to their doings,
I have judged them.
- 20 And one goeth in unto the nations
Whither they have gone,
And they pollute My holy name
By saying to them:
The people of the LORD are these,
And from His land they have come out.
- 21 And I have pity on My holy name
Which the house of Israel
Have polluted among the nations
Whither they have gone in:
22 Therefore, say to the house of Israel:
Thus saith the Lord Jehovah:
Not for your sake am I working,
O house of Israel,
But for Mine own holy name,
Which ye have polluted among nations
Whither ye have gone in.
- 23 And I have sanctified My great name,
Which is profaned among nations,
Which ye have polluted in your midst;
And known have the nations
That I am the LORD,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah, [eyes.
In My being sanctified in you before you.
- 24 And I have taken you out of the nations,
And gathered you out of all the lands,
And brought you in unto your own land,
25 And sprinkled over you clean water,
And ye have been clean:
From all your uncleannesses,
And from all your idols, I cleanse you.
- 26 And I have given to you a new heart,
And a new spirit I give in your midst,
And have turned aside
The heart of stone out of your flesh,
And have given to you a heart of flesh
27 And My Spirit I give in your midst,
And I have done this,
So that in My statutes ye walk,
And My judgments ye keep,
And have done them.
- 28 And ye have dwelt in the land
That I have given to your fathers:
And ye have become My people,
And I am become your God.
- 29 And I have saved you
From all your uncleannesses;
And I have called unto the corn,
And have multiplied it,
And I put no famine upon you.
- 30 And I have multiplied the fruit of the tree,
And the increase of the field,
So that ye receive not any more
The reproach of famine among nations.
- 31 And ye have remembered
Your ways which are evil,
And your doings which are not good,
And have been loathsome in your own
For your iniquities, [faces.
And for your abominations.
- 32 Not for your sake am I working,
Said the Lord Jehovah,
Be it known to you:
Be ashamed and confounded,
Because of your ways, O house of Israel.
- 33 Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
In the day of My cleansing you
From all your iniquities,
I have caused the cities to be inhabited,
And the wastes have been built,
34 And the desolated land is tilled,
Instead of which it was a desolation,
Before the eyes of every passer by
- 35 And they have said:
This land, which was desolated,
Hath been as the garden of Eden;
And the cities—the wasted,
And the desolated, and the broken down,
Fenced places have remained.
- 36 And known have the nations
Who are left round about you
That I the LORD have built the thrown
I have planted the desolated: [down,
I the LORD have spoken,
And I have done it.
- 37 Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Yet this I am required
By the house of Israel to do to them:
I multiply them as a flock of men.
- 38 As the flock of holy ones,
As the flock of Jerusalem,
In her appointed seasons,
So are the waste cities full of flocks of men;
And they have known that I am the LORD.
- XXXVII. THE hand of the LORD hath been upon me, and He tooketh me out in the Spirit of the LORD, and placeth me in the midst of the valley, and it is full of bones;
2 and He causeth me to pass over by them, all round about: and lo, very many are on the face of the valley; and lo, very dry.
3 And He saith unto me: 'Son of man, shall these bones live?' And I say, 'O Lord Jehovah, Thou—Thou hast known.' ⁴And He saith unto me, 'Prophecy concerning these bones, and say unto them: O dry bones, hear the word of the LORD. ⁵Thus said the Lord Jehovah to these bones: Lo, I am bringing in a spirit into you, and ye have lived: ⁶And I have put on you sinews, and caused flesh to come up on you, and covered you over with skin, and put in you spirit, and ye have lived; and ye have known that I am the LORD.'

⁷And I have prophesied as I have been commanded: and there is a noise, as I am prophesying, and lo, a rushing, and draw near do the bones, bone unto its bone. ⁸And I beheld, and lo, on them are sinews, and flesh hath come up, and cover them doth skin over above; but spirit there is none in them. ⁹And He saith unto me: 'Prophecy unto the Spirit, prophecy, son of man, then hast thou said unto the Spirit: Thus said the Lord Jehovah: From the four winds come in, O Spirit, and breathe on these slain, and they live.' ¹⁰And I prophesy as He commanded me, and the Spirit cometh into them, and they live, and stand on their feet, a very very great force.

¹¹And He saith unto me, 'Son of man, these bones are the whole house of Israel: lo, they are saying:

Dried up have our bones,
And perished hath our hope;
We have been cut off by ourselves.

¹²Therefore, prophecy, then hast thou said unto them, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Lo, I am opening your graves, and have brought you up out of your graves, O My people, and have brought you in unto the land of Israel.

¹³And ye have known that I am the LORD, In My opening your graves, And in My bringing you up out of your graves, O My people.

¹⁴And I have put My Spirit in you, And ye have lived: And have caused you to rest on your land: And ye have known that I am the LORD: I have spoken, and done it, Affirmeth the LORD.'

¹⁵And the word of the LORD is unto me, saying: ¹⁶'And thou, son of man, take to thyself one stick, and write on it, For Judah, and for the Children of Israel, his companions: and take another stick, and write on it, For Joseph, the stick of Ephraim, and all the house of Israel, his companions: ¹⁷and bring them near one to another, to thyself, for one stick; and they have become one in thy hand.

¹⁸'And when the children of thy people speak unto thee, saying, Wilt thou not tell to us what these are to thee? ¹⁹Speak unto them, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Lo, I am taking the stick of Joseph, which is in the hand of Ephraim, and the tribes of Israel his companions, and have given them unto him, with the stick of Judah, and have made them become one stick, and they have been one in My hand. ²⁰And the sticks on which thou writest have been in thy hand before thine eyes. ²¹And speak Thou unto them:

Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, I am taking the Children of Israel
From among the nations
And have gathered them from round
Whither they have gone, [about
And brought them in unto their own land.

²²And I have made them become
One nation in the land,
On the mountains of Israel:
And one king is to them all for king:
And they are no more as two nations,
Nor are they divided any more into two kingdoms again, [idols,

²³Nor are they defiled any more with their
Or with their abominations,
Or with any of their transgressions;
And I have saved them out of all their
In which they have sinned, [dwellings,
And have cleansed them:
And they have become My people,
And I am become their God,

²⁴And My servant David is king over them;
And one shepherd have they all:
And in My judgments they go,

And My statutes they keep, and have done
²⁵And they have dwelt on the land [them,
Which I gave to My servant, to Jacob,
In which your fathers have dwelt;
And they have dwelt on it,
They and their children,
And their children's children, for ever:
And David My servant is their prince for ever. [peace;

²⁶And I have made for them a covenant of
An everlasting covenant it is with them,
And I have placed them,
And have multiplied them,
And have placed My sanctuary
In their midst for ever.

²⁷And My tabernacle hath been over them:
And I have become their God,
And they have become My people.

²⁸And known have the nations
That I the LORD am sanctifying Israel,
In My sanctuary being in their midst for ever.'

XXXVIII. ¹And the word of the LORD is unto me, saying: ²'Son of man, set thy face unto Gog of the land of Magog, prince of Rosh, Meshech, and Tubal, and prophecy concerning him, ³then hast thou said: Thus saith the Lord Jehovah:

Lo, I am against thee, O Gog,
Prince of Rosh, Meshech, and Tubal:

⁴And have turned thee back,
And put hooks in thy jaws,
And brought thee out, and all thy force,
Horses and horsemen,
Clothed in perfection all of them,
A numerous assembly,
With buckler and shield,
Handling swords—all of them.

⁵Persia, Cush, and Phut, with them:
All of them with shield and helmet.

⁶Gomer and all its bands:
The house of Togarmah of the sides of the north, [thee.
And all its bands: many peoples are with ⁷Be prepared, yea, prepare for thyself,

Thou and all thine assemblies
Who are assembled unto thee,
And thou hast been to them for a guard.
2 After many days thou art appointed:
In the latter end of the years
Thou comest in unto a land
Brought back from the sword,
A people gathered out of many peoples,
Upon the mountains of Israel,
Which have been for a perpetual waste:
And it from the peoples hath been brought out,
And dwell safely have all of them.
3 And thou hast gone up,
As wasting thou comest in;
As a cloud to cover the land art thou,
Thou and all thy bands,
And many peoples with thee.
10 Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
It hath come to pass in that day,
Come up do things on thy heart,
And thou hast thought an evil thought:
11 And hast said, I go up against the land of unwalled villages;
I go in to those at rest, dwelling confidently,
All of them dwelling without walls,
And bars or doors they have none.
12 To take a spoil, and to take a prey:
To turn back thy hand on inhabited wastes, (tions,
And on a people gathered out of the na-
Getting cattle and substance,
Dwelling on the high part of the land.
13 Sheba, and Dedan,
And the merchants of Tarshish:
And all its young lions say to thee:
To take a spoil art thou come in?
To take a prey assembled thine assembly?
To bear away silver and gold?
To take away cattle and substance?
To take a great spoil?
14 Therefore, prophecy, son of man, then hast thou said to Gog:
Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
In that day, in the dwelling of My people
Dost thou not know? (Israel safely,
15 And thou hast come in out of thy place,
From the sides of the north,
Thou and many peoples with thee,
Riding on horses all of them:
A great assembly, and a numerous force.
16 And thou hast come up against My peo-
As a cloud to cover the land; (ple Israel,
In the latter end of the days it is: (land,
And I have brought thee in against My
In order that the nations may know Me;
In My being sanctified in thee
Before their eyes, O Gog.
17 Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Art thou he of whom I spake in former
By the hand of My servants, (days,
The prophets of Israel,
Who are prophets in those days—years,
To bring thee in against them.
18 And it hath come to pass in that day,
In the day of the coming in of Gog
Against the land of Israel,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah,
Come up doth My fury in My face,
19 And in My zeal, in the fire of My wrath,
I have spoken:

Is there not in that day
A great rushing on the land of Israel?
20 And rushed from My presence
Have the fishes of the sea, (=
And the fowl of the heavens,
And the beast of the field,
And every creeping thing
Which creepeth on the ground, (ground;
And all men who are on the face of the
And thrown down have been mountains,
And fallen have the ascents,
And every wall to the earth falleth.
21 And I have called a sword against him
To all My mountains,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah:
The sword of each is against his brother.
22 And I have been judged with him
With pestilence and with blood:
And an overflowing rain and hail stones,
Fire and brimstone,
I rain on him, and on his bands,
And on the many peoples who are with 23 And I have magnified Myself, (him.
And have sanctified Myself;
And I have been known
Before the eyes of many nations;
And they have known that I am the Lord.
XXXIX. 1 AND thou, son of man, prophesy concerning Gog, then hast thou said:
Thus said the Lord Jehovah:
Lo, I am against thee, O Gog.
Prince of Rosh, Meshech, and Tubal:
2 And I have turned thee back,
And have enticed thee,
And caused thee to come up
From the sides of the north,
And have brought thee in
Against the mountains of Israel
3 And smitten thy bow out of thy left hand,
Yea, thine arrows out of thy right
I cause to fall.
4 On the mountains of Israel thouallest,
Thou, and all thy bands,
And the peoples who are with thee:
To the ravenous fowl,
The bird of every wing,
And to the beast of the field,
I have given thee for food.
5 On the face of the field thouallest:
For I have spoken,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.
6 And I have sent a fire against Magog,
And against the confident inhabitants
Of the isles;
And they have known that I am the Lord.
7 And My holy name I make known
In the midst of My people Israel;
And I pollute not My holy name any more;
And known have the nations (Israel.
That I, the Lord, the Holy One, am in 8 Lo, it hath come, and hath been done,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah:
This is the day of which I spake.
9 And gone out have the inhabitants
Of the cities of Israel,
And they have burned and kindled a fire,
With the armour, and shield, and buckler,
With the bow, and with arrows,
And with hand-staves, and with javelins,
And they have caused a fire to burn
With them seven years:

¹⁰ And they take no wood out of the field,
Nor do they hew out of the forests:
For with armour they cause the fire to
And have spoiled their spoilers, [burn:
And plundered their plunderers,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.

¹¹ And it hath come to pass, in that day, I give to Gog a place there, a grave in Israel, the valley of those who pass by, east of the sea; and it stoppeth those who pass by; and there they have buried Gog, and all his multitude; and they have cried, O valley of the multitude of Gog. ¹² And the house of Israel have buried them, in order to cleanse the land, seven months. ¹³ Yea, all the people of the land have buried them; and it hath been to them for a name, the day of My being honoured, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah. ¹⁴ And men for continual employment they separate, who pass on through the land, burying with those who pass by those who are left on the face of the earth, to cleanse it: at the end of seven months they search. ¹⁵ And those who pass by have passed through the land, and have seen a bone of man, and have constructed near it a sign till the buriers have buried it in the valley of the multitude of Gog. ¹⁶ And also the name of the city is The multitude.
And they have cleansed the land. ¹⁷ And thou, son of man, thus said the Lord Jehovah: Say to every winged bird, and to every beast of the field:

Be assembled and come in,
Be gathered from round about,
For My sacrifice which I sacrifice for you,
A great sacrifice on mountains of Israel.
And ye have eaten flesh, and drunk blood.
¹⁸ The flesh of the mighty ye eat,
And the blood of princes
Of the earth ye drink,
Of rams, of lambs, and of he-goats,
Of calves, fatlings of Bashan—all of them.
¹⁹ And ye have eaten fat to satiety,
And have drunk blood to drunkenness.
Of My sacrifice which I sacrificed for you:
²⁰ And ye have been satisfied at My table
With horse and rider,
Mighty man, and with every man of war,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.
²¹ And I have given out My honour
Among the nations,
And seen have all the nations
My judgment which I have done,
And My hand that I have laid on them.
²² And known have the house of Israel
That I am the Lord their God,
From that day and henceforth.
²³ And known have the nations
That for their iniquity
Removed have the house of Israel:
Because they have trespassed against Me,
And I hid My face from them,
And give them into the hand
Of their adversaries;
And they fall by a sword—all of them.
²⁴ According to their uncleanness,
And according to their transgressions,
I have done with them,
And I hid My face from them.
²⁵ Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:

Now I bring back the captivity of Jacob,
And have pitied all the house of Israel,
And have been zealous for My holy name.
²⁶ And they have forgotten their shame,
And all their trespass
Which they have trespassed against Me,
In their dwelling in their land confidently,
And none troubling.
²⁷ In My bringing them back from the peo-
I have assembled them [ples,
From the lands of their enemies,
And have been sanctified in them
Before the eyes of many nations:
²⁸ And they have known
That I am the Lord their God,
In My removing them unto the nations:
And I have gathered them
Unto their own land,
And leave none of them any more there.
²⁹ And I hide not any more
My face from them:
Because I have poured out My spirit
On the house of Israel,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.

XL. ¹ IN the twenty and fifth year of our removal, in the beginning of the year, in the tenth of the month, in the fourteenth year after that the city was smitten, in this self-same day hath the hand of the Lord been upon me, and He bringeth me in thither.
² In visions of God He hath brought me in unto the land of Israel, and causeth me to rest on a very high mountain, and upon it is as the frame of a city at the south,

³ And He bringeth me in thither, and lo,
a man, his appearance as the appearance of brass, and a thread of flax in his hand, and a measuring-reed, and he is standing at the gate. ⁴ And the man saith unto me:
Son of man, see with thine eyes,
And with thine ears hear,
And set thy heart to all that I shew thee:
For, in order to show it thee,
Thou hast been brought in hither:
Declare all that thou seest to the house of Israel.

⁵ And lo, a wall at the outside of the house all round about, and in the man's hand a measuring-reed, six cubits by the cubit and a handbreadth: and he measur-eth the breadth of the building one reed, and the height one reed.

⁶ And he cometh in unto the gate whose front is eastward, and goeth up by its steps, and measureth the threshold of the gate one reed broad, even the one threshold one reed broad: ⁷ and the little chamber one reed long and one reed broad: and between the little chambers five cubits, and the threshold of the gate, from the side of the porch of the gate from within, one reed.

⁸ And he measureth the porch of the gate from within one reed: ⁹ and he measur-eth the porch of the gate eight cubits, and its posts two cubits: and the porch of the gate from within: ¹⁰ and the little chambers of the gate eastward, three on this side, and three on that side: one measure is to them three, and one measure is to the posts, on this side and on that side.

¹¹ And he measureth the breadth of the opening of the gate ten cubits; the length of the gate thirteen cubits: ¹² and a border before the little chambers, one cubit and one cubit is the border on the other side; and the little chamber is six cubits on this side, and six cubits on that side.

²⁰ As to the gate of the outer court, whose front is northward, he hath measured its length and its breadth. ²¹ And its little chambers are three on this side, and three on that side; and its posts and its arches have been according to the measure of the first gate, fifty cubits its length, and the breadth five and twenty by the cubit. ²² And their windows, and their arches, and their palm-trees are according to the measure of the gate whose face is eastward; and by seven steps they go up on it: and its arches are before them. ²³ And the gate of the inner court is over-against the gate at the north and at the east; and he measureth from gate unto gate a hundred cubits.

²⁴ And he causeth me to go southward, and lo, a gate southward, and he hath measured its posts and its arches according to these measures. ²⁵ And windows are to it and to its arches all round about, like those windows, fifty cubits the length, and the breadth five and twenty cubits. ²⁶ And seven steps are its ascent, and its arches are before them; and palm-trees are to it, one on this side, and another on that side, at its posts. ²⁷ And the gate of the inner court is southward; and he measureth from gate unto gate southward a hundred cubits.

²⁸ And he bringeth me in unto the inner court by the south gate, and measureth the south gate according to these measures. ²⁹ And its little chambers, and its posts, and its arches are according to these measures; and windows are to it and to its arches all round about: fifty cubits the length, and the breadth twenty and five cubits. ³⁰ As to the arches all round about, the length five and twenty cubits, and the breadth five cubits. ³¹ And its arches are toward the outer court, and palm-trees are toward its posts; and eight steps are its ascent.

³² And he bringeth me in unto the inner court eastward, and measureth the gate according to these measures. ³³ And its little chambers, and its posts, and its arches are according to these measures: and windows are to it and to its arches all round about: the length fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits. ³⁴ And its arches are toward the outer court; and palm-trees are toward its posts, on this side and on that side; and eight steps are its ascent.

³⁵ And he bringeth me in unto the north gate, and hath measured according to these measures. ³⁶ Its little chambers, its posts, and its arches; and windows are to it all round about: the length fifty cubits, and the breadth five and twenty cubits. ³⁷ And its posts are toward the outer court; and palm-trees are toward its posts, on this side and on that side; and eight steps are its ascent.

³⁸ And the chamber and its opening is by the posts of the gates: there they purge the burnt-offering. ³⁹ And in the porch of the gate are two tables on this side, and two tables on that side, to slaughter on them the burnt-offering, and the sin-offering, and the guilt-offering. ⁴⁰ And at the side without, at the going up to the opening of the north gate, are two tables; and at the other side, which is at the porch of the gate, are two tables. ⁴¹ Four tables are on this side, and four tables on that side, at the side of the gate: eight tables on which they slaughter. ⁴² And the four tables for the burnt-offering are of hewn stone: the length a cubit and a half, and the breadth a cubit and a half, and the height a cubit: on them they place the instruments with which they slaughter the burnt-offering and the sacrifice. ⁴³ And the boundaries are a hand-breadth, prepared within all round about; and on the tables is the flesh of the offering.

⁴⁸ And he bringeth me in unto the porch of the house, and measureth the post of the porch, five cubits on this side, and five cubits on that side: and the breadth of the gate, three cubits on this side, and three cubits on that side; ⁴⁹ the length of the porch twenty cubits, and the breadth eleven cubits; and by the steps whereby they go up unto it: and pillars are near the posts, one on this side, and one on that side.

XLI. ¹AND he bringeth me in unto the temple, and measureth the posts, six cubits the breadth on this side, and six cubits the breadth on that side—the breadth of the tent. ²And the breadth of the opening is ten cubits; and the sides of the opening are five cubits on this side, and five cubits on that side; and he measureth its length forty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits.

³And he hath gone inward, and measureth the posts of the opening two cubits, and the opening six cubits, and the breadth of the opening seven cubits. ⁴And he measureth its length twenty cubits, and the breadth twenty cubits, at the front of the temple, and he saith unto me, 'This is the holy of holies.'

⁵And he measureth the wall of the house six cubits; and the breadth of the side-chamber four cubits, all round the house round about. ⁶And the side-chambers are side-chamber over-against side-chamber, three and thirty times; and they enter into the wall, (which the house hath for the side-chambers all round about,) to be taken hold of, and they are not taken hold of by the wall of the house. ⁷And a broad place and a turning place still upwards are to the side-chambers; for the turning round of the house is still upwards all round about the house: therefore the breadth of the house is upwards, and so in the lower one goeth up unto the higher by the midst. ⁸And I have looked on the house, the height all round about: the foundations of the side-chambers are the fulness of a reed, six cubits by the joining.

⁹The breadth of the wall which is to the side-chamber at the outside is five cubits; and that which is left is the place of the side-chambers which are to the house. ¹⁰And between the chambers is a breadth of twenty cubits round about the house, all round about. ¹¹And the opening of the side-chamber is to the place left, one opening northward, and one opening southward; and the breadth of the place that is left is five cubits all round about. ¹²As to the building which is at the front of the separate place at the corner westward, the breadth is seventy cubits; and the wall of the building is five cubits broad, all round about, and its length ninety cubits.

¹⁵And he hath measured the length of the building over-against the separate place which is at its hinder part, and its galleries on this side and on that side, a hundred cubits, and the inner temple and the porches of the court, ¹⁶the thresholds, and the narrow windows, and the galleries round about them three, over-against the threshold, a ceiling of wood all round about, and the ground unto the windows and the covered windows; ¹⁷over above the opening, even unto the inner-house, and at the outside, and by all the wall all round about within and without by measure.

¹⁸And it is made with cherubs, and palm-trees, and a palm-tree is between every cherub. ¹⁹And two faces are to the cherub; and the face of man is toward the palm-tree on this side, and the face of a young lion toward the palm-tree on that side: it is made throughout all the house all round about. ²⁰From the earth unto above the opening are the cherubs and the palm-trees made, and on the wall of the temple. ²¹Of the temple the side post is square; and of the front of the sanctuary, the appearance is as the appearance.

²²Of the altar, the wood is three cubits in height, and its length two cubits; and its corners to it, and its length, and its walls are of wood: and he saith unto me, 'This is the table which is before the LORD.' ²³And two doors are to the temple and to the sanctuary. ²⁴And two leaves are to the doors, two turning leaves are to the doors; two to the one door, and two leaves to the other. ²⁵And made on them, on the doors of the temple, are cherubs and palm-trees as are made on the walls, and a thickness of wood is on the front of the porch at the outside. ²⁶And narrow windows and palm-trees are on this side, and on that side, at the sides of the porch, and the side-chambers of the house, and the thick places.

XLII. ¹AND he bringeth me out unto the outer court, the way northward, and bringeth me in unto the chamber that is over-against the separate place, and that is over-against the building at the north. ²At the front is a length of a hundred cubits at the north opening, and the breadth fifty cubits. ³Over-against the twenty cubits which are to the inner court, and over-against the pavement which is to the outer court, is gallery over-against gallery, in the three storeys. ⁴And at the front of the chambers is a walk of ten cubits in breadth unto the inner part, a way of one cubit; and their openings are at the north. ⁵And the upper chambers are short, for the galleries contain more than these, than the lower, or than the middle one of the building. ⁶For they are threefold; and they have no pillars as the pillars of the court; therefore, it hath been kept back—more than the lower or than the middle one—from the ground.

⁷As to the wall which is at the outside, over-against the chambers, the way of the outer-court at the front of the chambers, its length is fifty cubits. ⁸For the length of the chambers which are to the outer court is fifty cubits, and of those on the front of the temple a hundred cubits.

⁹And under these chambers is the entrance from the east, in one's going into them from the outer court. ¹⁰In the breadth of the wall of the court eastward, unto the front of the separate place, and unto the front of the building, are chambers. ¹¹And the way before them is as the appearance of the chambers which are northward, according to their length so is their breadth; and all their outlets, and according to their fashions, and according to their openings. ¹⁴And according to the openings of the chambers that are southward is an opening at the head of the way, the way directly in the front of the wall eastward in entering them.

¹⁵And he saith unto me, 'The north chambers, the south chambers, which are at the front of the separate place, they are holy chambers, where the priests (who are near to the LORD) eat the most holy things, there they place the most holy things, and the present, and the sin-offering, and the guilt-offering; for the place is holy. ¹⁴In the priests' going in, they come not out from the sanctuary unto the outer court; and there they lay their garments with which they minister: for they are holy, and have put on other garments, and have drawn near to that which is for the people.'

XLIII. ¹AND he causeth me to go unto the gate, the gate that looketh eastward. ²And lo, the honour of the God of Israel hath come from the way of the east, and His voice is as the noise of many waters; and the earth shone from His honour. ³And according to the appearance is the appearance which I saw, as the appearance which I saw in my coming to destroy the city; and the appearances are as the appearance which I saw by the river Chebar: and I fall on my face.

⁴And the honour of the LORD hath come in unto the house, the way of the gate, whose face is eastward. ⁵And the Spirit taketh me up, and bringeth me in unto the inner court; and lo, the honour of the LORD hath filled the house. ⁶And I hear one speaking unto me from the house, and a man hath been standing near me, ⁷and he saith unto me: 'Son of man,

—The place of My throne,

And the place of the soles of My feet,

Where I dwell in the midst of the Children of Israel for ever:

And defile no more do the house of Israel My holy name.

They, or their kings, by their whoredom; Or by the carcases of their kings—

Their high places. [threshold,

⁸In their putting their threshold with My And their door-posts with My door-posts,

And the wall between Me and them, They have even defiled My holy name By their abominations that they did; And I consume them in Mine anger.

⁹Now do they put far off their whoredom, And the carcases of their kings from Me: And I have dwelt in their midst for ever.

¹⁰Thou, son of man, Shew the house of Israel the house, And they are ashamed of their iniquities, And have measured the measurement.

¹¹And since they have been ashamed Of all that they have done,

The form of the house, And its measurement, and its outlets, And its inlets, and all its forms, And all its statutes:

Even all its forms, and all its laws Cause them to know,

And write it before their eyes;

And they observe all its forms, And all its statutes, and have done them.

¹²This is the law of the house; on the top of the mountain, all its border all round about is most holy; lo, this is the law of the house.

¹³And these are the measures of the altar by cubits: The cubit is a cubit and a handbreadth, and the centre is a cubit, and a cubit the breadth; and its border on its edge round about is a span; and this is the upper part of the altar. ¹⁴And from the centre of the ground unto the lower border is two cubits, and the breadth one cubit; and from the lesser border unto the greater border four cubits, and the breadth a cubit.

¹⁸And he saith unto me, 'Son of man, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: These are the statutes of the altar in the day of its being made, to cause burnt-offering to go up on it, and to sprinkle on it blood. ¹⁹And thou hast given unto the priests, the Levites, who are of the seed of Zadok, (who are near unto Me, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah, to serve Me,) a calf from the herd, for a sin-offering. ²⁰And thou hast taken of its blood, and hast put it on its four horns, and on the four corners of the border, and on the border round about, and hast cleansed it, and purified it. ²¹And thou hast taken the bullock of the sin-offering, and hast burnt it in the appointed place of the house, at the outside of the sanctuary. ²²And on the second day thou dost bring near a kid of the goats, a perfect one, for a sin-offering; and they have cleansed the altar, as they cleansed it with the bullock. ²³In thy finishing cleansing, thou dost bring near a calf from the herd, a perfect one, and a ram out of the flock, a perfect one. ²⁴And thou hast brought them near before the LORD, and the priests have cast salt upon them, and have caused them to go up, a burnt-offering to the LORD. ²⁵Seven days thou dost prepare a goat for a sin-offering daily; and a bullock from the herd, and a ram out of the flock, perfect ones do they prepare. ²⁶Seven days they purify the altar, and have cleansed it, and consecrated their hand. ²⁷And the days are completed; and it hath come to pass on the eighth day, and henceforth, the priests prepare on the altar your burnt-offerings and your peace-offerings; and I have accepted you, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.

²⁸XLIV. ¹AND he causeth me to turn back the way of the gate of the outer sanctuary which looketh eastward, and it is shut. ²And the LORD saith unto me, 'This gate is shut; it is not opened, and none goeth in by it, for the LORD, the God of Israel, hath come in by it, and it hath been shut. ³The prince, who is prince, he sitteth by it to eat bread before the LORD: by the way of the porch of the gate he cometh in, and by its way he goeth out.'

⁵And the LORD saith to me, 'Son of man, set thy heart, and see with thine eyes, and with thine ears hear, all that I am speaking with thee, of all the statutes of the house of the LORD, and of all its laws; then hast thou set thy heart to the entrance of the house, with all the outlets of the sanctuary, ⁶and hast said unto the rebellious, unto the house of Israel, Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Enough to you—of all your abominations, O house of Israel. ⁷In your bringing in the children of a stranger, uncircumcised of heart, and uncircumcised of flesh, to be in My sanctuary, to pollute it, even My house, in your bringing near My bread, fat, and blood; and they break My covenant by all your abominations, ⁸even ye have not kept the charge of My holy things: and ye set them for keepers of My charge in My sanctuary for yourselves.

⁹Thus said the Lord Jehovah: No son of a stranger, uncircumcised of heart, and uncircumcised of flesh, cometh in unto My sanctuary: no son of a stranger, who is in the midst of the Children of Israel; ¹⁰but the Levites who have gone far off from me, in the wandering of Israel when they went astray from Me after their idols; and they have borne their iniquity. ¹¹And they have been in My sanctuary ministers, overseers at the gates of the house, and serving the house: they slay the burnt-offering and the sacrifice for the people, and stand before them to serve them. ¹²Because they serve them before their idols, and have been to the house of Israel for a stumbling-block of iniquity, therefore have I lifted up My hand against them, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah: and they have borne their iniquity. ¹³And they draw not nigh unto Me to act as My priest, or to draw nigh unto any of My holy things, unto the holy of holies: and they have borne their shame and their abominations which they have done: ¹⁴I made them keepers of the charge of the house, for all its service and for all that is done in it.

¹⁵And the priests, the Levites, sons of Zadok, who have kept the charge of My sanctuary in the wandering of the Children of Israel from off Me, they draw near unto Me to serve Me, and have stood before Me, to bring near to Me fat and blood, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah: ¹⁶they come in unto My sanctuary, and they draw near unto My table to serve Me, and they have kept My charge. ¹⁷And it hath come to pass, in their going in unto the gates of the inner court, linen garments they put on; and no wool cometh up on them in their ministering in the gates of the inner court and within. ¹⁸Linen bonnets are on their head, and linen trousers are on their loins: they are not restrained with sweat. ¹⁹And in their going out unto the outer court—unto the outer court unto the people—they strip off their garments, in which they minister, and have placed them in the holy chambers, and have put on other garments; and they sanctify not the people in their own garments. ²⁰And their head they shave not, and the lock they send not forth: they certainly poll their heads. ²¹And no priest drinketh wine in their coming in unto the inner court. ²²And a widow or divorced woman they take not to themselves for wives: but virgins of the seed of the house of Israel, or a widow who is the widow of a priest do they take.

²³And My people they direct between holy and common, and between unclean and clean they cause them to discern. ²⁴And concerning controversy, they stand up for judgment; with My judgments they judge it: and My law and My statutes in all My appointed places they keep; and My sabbaths they sanctify. ²⁵And unto any dead person they come not for uncleanness: but for father, or for mother, or for son, or for daughter, for brother, for sister, who hath not been a man's, they defile themselves.

³²XLV. ¹AND in your causing the land to fall for an inheritance, ye lift up a heave-offering to the LORD, a holy portion of the land: the length—five and twenty thousand is the length, and the breadth ten thousand; it is holy in all its border round about; ²There is of this for the sanctuary five hundred by five hundred, square, round about; and fifty cubits of suburb is to it round about. ²And by this measure thou dost measure: the length is five and twenty thousand, and the breadth ten thousand: and in it is the sanctuary, the holy of holies. ³The holy portion of the land it is: for the priests, ministers of the sanctuary, it is, who draw near to serve the LORD: and it hath been to them a place for houses, and a holy place for the sanctuary.

⁴And of the five and twenty thousand of length, and of the ten thousand of breadth, there is to the Levites, ministers of the house, for themselves—for a possession—twenty chambers.

⁵And of the possession of the city do ye give five thousand of breadth, and of length five and twenty thousand, over-against the heave-offering of the holy portion: to the whole house of Israel it is. ⁶As to the prince, on this side, and on that side, of the heave-offering of the holy place, and of the possession of the city, at the front of the heave-offering of the holy place, and at the front of the possession of the city, from the west corner westward, and from the east corner eastward: and the length is over-against one of the portions from the west border unto the east border. ⁷Of the land he hath a possession for himself in Israel, and My princes oppress no more My people: and the land they give to the house of Israel according to their tribes.

⁸Thus said the Lord Jehovah: Enough to you—O princes of Israel: violence and spoil turn aside, and judgment and righteousness do: lift up your exactions from off My people, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah. ⁹Just balances, and a just ephah, and a just bath—shall ye have. ¹⁰The ephah and the bath shall be of one measure, that the bath bear the teuth of a homer, and the ephah the tenth of a homer: according to the homer is its measurement. ¹¹And the shekel is twenty gerah: twenty shekels, five and twenty shekels, fifteen shekels, is your maneh.

¹²This is the heave-offering that ye lift up: the sixth part of the ephah of a homer of wheat, then have ye given the sixth part of an ephah of a homer of barley, ¹³and the portion of oil, the bath of oil, the tenth part of the bath out of the cor, a homer of ten baths, for ten baths are a homer: ¹⁴and one lamb out of the flock, out of two hundred, out of the watered country of Israel, for a present, and for a burnt-offering, and for peace-offerings, to make atonement by them, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah. ¹⁵All the people of the land are at this heave-offering for the prince in Israel. ¹⁶And on the prince are the burnt-offerings, and the present, and the libation, in feasts, and in new moons, and in sabbaths, in all the appointed times of the house of Israel: he maketh the sin-offering, and the present, and the burnt-offering, and peace-offerings, to make atonement for the house of Israel.

¹⁷Thus said the Lord Jehovah: In the first month, in the first of the month, thou dost take a bullock from the herd, a perfect one, and hast cleansed the sanctuary: ¹⁸and the priest hath taken of the blood of the sin-offering, and hath put it on the door-post of the house, and on the four corners of the border of the altar, and on the post of the gates of the inner court. ¹⁹And so dost thou on the seventh of the month, because of each erring one, and because of the simple one: and ye have purified the house.

²⁰In the first month, in the fourteenth day of the month, ye have the passover: a feast of seven days, unleavened food is eaten. ²¹And the prince hath prepared on that day, for himself, and for all the people of the land, a bullock, a sin-offering. ²²And the seven days of the feast he prepareth a burnt-offering to the LORD, seven bullocks, and seven rams, perfect ones, daily seven days, and a sin-offering, a kid of the goats, daily. ²³And a present of an ephah for a bullock, and an ephah for a ram, doth he prepare, and of oil a hin for an ephah. ²⁴In the seventh month, in the fifteenth day of the month, in the feast, he doth thus, seven days: as the sin-offering so the burnt-offering, and as the meat-offering so also the oil.

XLVI. ¹THUS said the Lord Jehovah: The gate of the inner court which looketh eastward is shut the six days of work; and on the day of rest it is opened, and in the day of the new moon it is opened. ²And come in hath the prince the way of the porch of the gate at the outside, and hath stood by the post of the gate, and the priests have made his burnt-offering, and his peace-offerings, and he hath bowed himself at the opening of the gate, and hath gone out; and the gate is not shut till the evening. ³And bowed themselves have the people of the land at the opening of that gate, on the sabbaths, and on the new moons, before the LORD.

⁴And the burnt-offering which the prince bringeth near to the LORD on the day of rest is six lambs, perfect ones, and a ram, a perfect one. ⁵And the present is an ephah for a ram, and for the lambs a present, the gift of his hand, and of oil a hin for an ephah. ⁶And on the day of the new moon a bullock, from the herd, a perfect one, and six lambs and a ram: they are perfect. ⁷And an ephah for a bullock, and an ephah for a ram, he prepareth a present, and for the lambs as his hand attaineth, and of oil a hin for an ephah.

⁸And in the coming in of the prince, the way of the porch of the gate he cometh in, and by its way he goeth out. ⁹And in the coming in of the people of the land before the LORD at the appointed times, he who cometh in the way of the north gate, to bow himself, goeth out the way of the south gate; and he who cometh in the way of the south gate, goeth out by the way of the north gate: he turneth not back the way of the gate by which he came in, but over-against it he goeth out. ¹⁰And the prince in their midst in their coming in cometh in, and in their going out goeth out.

¹¹And in the feasts, and in the appointed times, the present is an ephah for a bullock, and an ephah for a ram, and for lambs the gift of his hand, and of oil a hin for an ephah.

¹² And when the prince maketh a free-will burnt-offering, or free-will peace-offerings to the LORD, then he hath opened for himself the gate which looketh eastward, and he hath made his burnt-offerings or his peace-offerings as he doth in the day of rest, and hath gone out, and hath shut the gate after his going out.

¹³ And a lamb, a year old, a perfect one, dost thou make a burnt-offering daily to the LORD: morning by morning dost thou make it. ¹⁴ And a present thou dost make for it morning by morning, the sixth part of an ephah, and of oil the third part of a hin, to temper with the fine flour, a present to the LORD, by an everlasting statute—continually. ¹⁵ Thus prepare ye the lamb, and the present, and the oil, morning by morning, a continual burnt-offering.

¹⁹ And he bringeth me in through the entrance, which is at the side of the gate, unto the holy chambers of the priests, which look northward, and lo, there is a place in their two sides westward. ²⁰ And he saith unto me, 'This is the place where the priests boil the guilt-offering and the sin-offering, where they bake the present: so as not to bring out if unto the outer court, to sanctify the people.'

²¹ And he bringeth me out unto the outer court, and causeth me to pass over unto the four corners of the court, and lo, a court in a corner of the court, a court in a corner of the court. ²² In the four corners of the court are perfume courts, forty long, and thirty broad: one measure are to the four corners. ²³ And a row is round about in them, round about to them four, and made with boilers under the rows round about. ²⁴ And he saith unto me, 'These are the houses of those who boil, where the ministers of the house boil the sacrifice of the people.'

XLVII. ¹ And he causeth me to turn back unto the opening of the house: and lo, water coming out from under the threshold of the house eastward: for the front of the house is eastward, and the water is coming down from beneath, from the right side of the house, from the south of the altar.

² And he causeth me to go out the way of the gate northward, and causeth me to turn round the way without, unto the gate which is without, the way that looketh eastward; and lo, water coming out from the right side.

³ In the going out of the man eastward, and a line in his hand, he measureth a thousand by the cubit, and causeth me to pass over into water—water to the ankles. ⁴ And he measureth a thousand, and causeth me to pass over into water—water to the knees. And he measureth a thousand, and causeth me to pass over into water—to the loins. ⁵ And he measureth a thousand—a stream which I am unable to pass over: for risen have the waters—waters to swim in—a stream which is not passed over.

⁶ And he saith unto me, 'Hast thou seen, son of man?' and he leadeth me, and bringeth me back unto the edge of the stream.

⁷ In my turning back, then, lo, at the edge of the stream are very many trees, on this side and on that side. ⁸ And he saith unto me, 'These waters are going out unto the east circuit, and have gone down unto the desert, and have entered the sea; unto the sea they are brought out, and the waters have been healed.' ⁹ And it hath come to pass, every living creature, which teemeth, whithersoever the streams come, doth live: and there hath been great abundance of fish, for these waters have come thither: and they are healed; and every thing whither the stream cometh hath lived.

¹⁰ And it hath come to pass, fishers stand by it, from En-Gedi even unto En-Eglaim: a spreading place of nets they are: according to their own kind is their fish, as the fish of the great sea, very many. ¹¹ Its miry and its marshy places are not healed; to salt they are given up. ¹² And by the stream there cometh up on its edge, on this side and on that side, every kind of fruit-tree whose leaf fadeth not, and not consumed is its fruit, according to its months it yieldeth first-fruits, for its waters from the sanctuary are coming out: and its fruit hath been for food, and its leaf for medicine.

¹³ Thus said the Lord Jehovah: This is the border whereby ye inherit the land, according to the twelve tribes of Israel: Joseph hath portions. ¹⁴ And ye have inherited it, one as well as another, because I have lifted up My hand to give it to your fathers; and this land hath fallen to you for inheritance.

¹⁵ And this is the border of the land at the north quarter: from the great sea, the way of Hethlon, at the coming in to Zedad: ¹⁶ Hamath, Berothab, Silbairim, which is between the border of Damascus and the border of Hamath: Hazar-Hatticon, which is at the coast of Hauran. ¹⁷ And the border from the sea hath been Hazar-Enan, the border of Damascus, and Zaphon at the north, and the border of Hamath: and this is the north quarter.

¹⁸ And the east quarter is from between Hauran, and Damascus, and Gilead, and the land of Israel, to the Jordan; from the border over-against the eastern sea do ye measure: and this is the east quarter.

¹⁹ And the south quarter southward is from Tamar unto the waters of Meriboth-Kadesh, the stream unto the great sea; and this is the south quarter southward.

²⁰ And the west quarter is the great sea, from the border till over-against the coming in to Hamath: this is the west quarter.

²¹ And ye have divided this land to yourselves, according to the tribes of Israel. ²² And it hath come to pass, ye separate it for an inheritance to yourselves, and to the sojourners who are sojourning in your midst, who have begotten children in your midst; and they have been to you as natives, with the Children of Israel: with you they are separated for an inheritance in the midst of the tribes of Israel. ²³ And it hath come to pass, that in the tribe with which the sojourner sojourneth, there ye give him his inheritance, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.

XLVIII. ¹ AND these are the names of the tribes: From the north end unto the side of the way of Hethlon, at the coming in to Hamath, Hazar-Enan, the border of Damascus northward, unto the side of Hamath, and they have been his side east and west, Dan one; ² and by the border of Dan, from the east side unto the west side, Asher one; ³ and by the border of Asher, from the east side even unto the west side, Naphtali one; ⁴ and by the border of Naphtali, from the east side unto the west side, Manasseh one; ⁵ and by the border of Manasseh, from the east side unto the west side, Ephraim one; ⁶ and by the border of Ephraim, from the east side even unto the west side, Reuben one; ⁷ and by the border of Reuben, from the east side unto the west side, Judah one; ⁸ and by the border of Judah, from the east side unto the west side is the heave-offering which ye lift up, five and twenty thousand broad and long, as one of the parts from the east side unto the west side: and the sanctuary hath been in its midst. ⁹ The heave-offering which ye lift up to the Lord is five and twenty thousand long, and broad ten thousand. ¹⁰ And of these is the holy heave-offering for the priests: northward five and twenty thousand, and westward in breadth ten thousand, and eastward in breadth ten thousand, and southward in length five and twenty thousand: and the sanctuary of the Lord hath been in its midst. ¹¹ For the priests who are sanctified of the sons of Zadok, who have kept My charge, who erred not in the erring of the Children of Israel, as the Levites erred: ¹² even the heave-offering hath been to them, out of the heave-offering of the land, most holy, by the border of the Levites.

¹³ And to the Levites over-against the border of the priests are five and twenty thousand in length, and ten thousand in breadth: all the length is five and twenty thousand, and the breadth ten thousand. ¹⁴ And they sell not of it, nor exchange, nor cause to pass away the first-fruit of the land: for it is holy to the Lord. ¹⁵ And the five thousand that is left in the breadth, at the front of the five and twenty thousand, is common—for the city, for dwellings, and for suburbs; and the city hath been in its midst. ¹⁶ And these are its measures: the north side, five hundred, and four thousand, and the south side five hundred, and four thousand, and the east side five hundred, and four thousand, and the west side five hundred, and four thousand. ¹⁷ And the suburb of the city hath been northward two hundred and fifty, and southward two hundred and fifty, and eastward two hundred and fifty, and westward two hundred and fifty.

¹⁸ And the residue in length over-against the heave-offering of the holy portion is ten thousand eastward, and ten thousand westward; and it hath been over-against the heave-offering of the holy portion; and its increase hath been for food to the servants of the city, ¹⁹ even to him who serveth the city; they serve it out of all the tribes of Israel. ²⁰ All the heave-offering is five and twenty thousand by five and twenty thousand square do ye lift up the heave-offering of the holy portion with the possession of the city.

²³ As to the rest of the tribes, from the east side unto the west side, Benjamin one; ²⁴ and by the border of Benjamin, from the east side unto the west side, Simeon one; ²⁵ and by the border of Simeon, from the east side unto the west side, Issachar one; ²⁶ and by the border of Issachar, from the east side unto the west side, Zebulun one; ²⁷ and by the border of Zebulun, from the east side unto the west side, Gad one; ²⁸ and by the border of Gad, at the south side southward, the border hath been from Tamar unto the waters of Meriboth-Kadesh, the stream by the great sea. ²⁹ This is the land which ye separate by inheritance to the tribes of Israel; and these are their portions, affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.

³⁰ And these are the outgoings of the city on the north side, five hundred, and four thousand measures. ³¹ And the gates of the city are according to the names of the tribes of Israel—three gates northward: the gate of Reuben one, the gate of Judah one, the gate of Levi one. ³² And at the east side five hundred, and four thousand; and three gates: the gate of Joseph one, the gate of Benjamin one, the gate of Dan one. ³³ And at the south side five hundred, and four thousand measures; and three gates: the gate of Simeon one, the gate of Issachar one, the gate of Zebulun one. ³⁴ And at the west side five hundred, and four thousand; their gates three: the gate of Gad one, the gate of Asshur one, the gate of Naphtali one. ³⁵ Round about is eighteen thousand; and the renown of the city is from the day the Lord is there.

DANIEL.

CHAP. I. ¹IN the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah, come hath Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon to Jerusalem, and layeth siege against it. ²And the Lord giveth into his hand Jehoiakim king of Judah, and some of the vessels of the house of God, and he bringeth them to the land of Shinar, to the house of his god; even the vessels he hath brought into the treasure-house of his god.

³And the king saith to Ashpenaz master of his eunuchs, to bring in out of the children of Israel, (even of the royal seed, and of the chiefs,) 'young men in whom there is no blemish, and of good appearance, and skilful in all wisdom, and possessing knowledge, and teaching thought, and who have ability to stand in the palace of the king, and to teach them the literature and language of the Chaldeans.' ⁴And the king appointeth for them a rate, day by day, of the king's portion of food, and of the wine of his drinking, so as to nourish them three years, that at the end thereof they may stand before the king.

⁵And there are among them out of the children of Judah, Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah; ⁶and the chief of the eunuchs set names on them: and he set on Daniel, Belteshazzar; and on Hananiah, Shadrach; and on Mishael, Meshach; and on Azariah, Abed-Nego.

⁷And Daniel purposeth in his heart that he will not pollute himself with the king's portion of food, or with the wine of his drinking; and he seeketh of the chief of the eunuchs that he may not pollute himself. ⁸And God giveth Daniel kindness, and mercies before the chief of the eunuchs. ⁹And the chief of the eunuchs saith to Daniel, 'I fear my lord the king, who hath appointed your food and your drink: for why should he see your faces sadder than those of the young men of your circle? then have ye made my head indebted to the king.'

¹⁰And Daniel saith unto the Meltzar, whom the chief of the eunuchs hath appointed over Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, ¹¹'Try, I pray thee, thy servants, ten days; and let them give us of the vegetables, and we eat, and water, and we drink. ¹²And let our appearance be seen before thee, and the appearance of the young men who are eating of the king's portion of food; and as thou seest, deal with thy servants.'

¹³And he hearkeneth to them, to this word, and trieth them ten days. ¹⁴And at the end of ten days their appearance hath appeared better and fatter in flesh than any of the young men who are eating the king's portion of food.

¹⁵And the Meltzar taketh away their portion of food, and the wine of their drink, and giveth to them vegetables.

¹⁶As to these four young men, God hath given to them knowledge and understanding in every kind of literature, and wisdom and Daniel gave instruction about every kind of vision and dreams.

¹⁷And at the end of the days that the king had said to bring them in, bring them in doth the chief of the eunuchs before Nebuchadnezzar. ¹⁸And the king speaketh with them: and there hath been none found among them all like Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah: and they stand before the king. ¹⁹And in any matter of wisdom and understanding which the king hath sought of them, he findeth them ten hands above all the scribes, the enchanters, who are in all his kingdom. ²⁰And Daniel liveth unto the first year of Cyrus the king.

II. ¹AND in the second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, dreamed hath Nebuchadnezzar dreams, and his spirit moveth itself, and his sleep hath been against him. ²And the king commandeth to call for scribes, and for enchanters, and for sorcerers, and for Chaldeans, to declare to the king his dreams. And they come in and stand before the king. ³And the king saith to them, 'A dream I have dreamed, and moved is my spirit to know the dream.'

⁴And the Chaldeans speak to the king in Aramaean, 'O king, for ages live: tell the dream to thy servants, and the interpretation we will shew.' ⁵The king answereth and saith to the Chaldeans, 'The thing from me is gone: if ye do not cause me to know the dream, and its interpretation, ye are made—pieces, and your houses are made dunghills. ⁶And if the dream and its interpretation ye shew, gifts, and fee, and great glory ye receive from before me: therefore the dream and its interpretation shew me.'

⁷They have answered a second time, and say, 'Let the king tell the dream to his servants, and the interpretation we will shew.'

⁸The king answereth and saith, 'Of a truth I know that time ye are gaining, because ye have seen that the thing is gone from me, ⁹so that if the dream ye cause me not to know—one is your sentence, seeing a word lying and corrupt ye have prepared to speak before me, till that the time be changed: therefore the dream tell ye to me, and I will know that its interpretation ye will shew me.'

¹⁰The Chaldeans have answered before the king, and say, 'There is not a man on the earth who is able to shew the king's matter: therefore no king, chief, or ruler, hath asked such a thing as this of any scribe, or enchanter, or Chaldean. ¹¹And the thing which the king is asking is precious, and other there is none that will show it before the king, save the gods, whose dwelling is not with flesh.'

¹²Therefore the king hath been angry and very wroth, and hath commanded to destroy all the wise men of Babylon. ¹³And the sentence hath gone forth, and the wise men are slain: and they have sought Daniel and his companions to be slain.

¹⁴Then Daniel hath replied with counsel and discretion to Arioch chief of the executioners of the king, who hath gone forth to slay the wise men of Babylon. ¹⁵He answereth and saith unto Arioch the king's captain, 'Wherefore is the sentence so urgent from the king?' Then Arioch hath made the thing known to Daniel; ¹⁶and Daniel hath gone up, and sought of the king that he would give him time, so as to shew to the king the interpretation.

Then hath Daniel blessed the God of heaven. ²⁰Daniel answereth and saith, 'Let the name of God be blessed from age unto age, for wisdom and might: for they are His. ²¹And He changeth the times and the seasons: He causeth kings to pass away, and He raiseth up kings: He giveth wisdom to the wise, and knowledge to those who possess understanding. ²²He revealeth deep and hidden things: He hath known what is in the darkness, and the light with Him hath dwelt. ²³Thee, O God of my fathers, I thank and praise, for wisdom and might Thou hast given to me; and now, Thou hast caused me to know that which we have sought from thee, for the king's matter Thou hast caused us to know.'

²⁴Therefore Daniel hath gone up unto Arioch, whom the king hath appointed to destroy the wise men of Babylon: he hath gone, and thus hath said to him, 'The wise men of Babylon thou shalt not destroy: bring me up before the king, and the interpretation to the king I shew.'

²⁵Then Arioch in haste hath brought up Daniel before the king, and thus hath said to him, 'I have found a man of the children of the Removed of Judah, who the interpretation to the king will make known.' ²⁶The king answereth and saith to Daniel, whose name is Belteshazzar, 'Art thou able to cause me to know the dream which I have seen, and its interpretation?'

²⁷Daniel answereth before the king and saith, 'The secret which the king asketh, the wise men, the enchanters, the scribes, the soothsayers, are not able to shew to the king; ²⁸but there is a God in heaven, a revealer of secrets; and He hath made known to the king Nebuchadnezzar that which is to be in the latter end of the days.'

'Thy dream and the visions of thy head on thy bed are these: ²⁹Thou, O king, thy thoughts on thy bed came concerning that which is to be after this, and the Reveler of secrets hath caused thee to know that which is to be. ³⁰As for me—not for any wisdom which is in me above any living hath this secret been revealed to me; but for the intent that the interpretation to the king they should make known, and that the thoughts of thy heart thou mayest know.

³¹'Thou, O king, wast looking, and lo, a certain great image. This image is mighty, and its brightness excellent: it standeth over-against thee, and its appearance is terrible. ³²This image: its head is of gold, its breasts and its arms of silver, its belly and its thighs of brass; ³³its legs of iron, its feet, part of them of iron, and part of them of clay. ³⁴Thou wast looking till that a stone hath been cut out without hands, and it hath smitten the image on its feet, which are of iron and of clay, and hath broken them small. ³⁵Then broken small as one have been the iron, the clay, the brass, the silver, and the gold, and they have been as chaff of the summer threshing-floors, and carried them away hath the wind, and no place hath been found for them: and the stone which hath smitten the image hath become a great mountain, and hath filled the whole land. ³⁶This is the dream, and its interpretation we will tell before the king.

³⁷'Thou, O king, art a king of kings, for the God of heaven a kingdom, strength, and might, and glory hath given to thee. ³⁸And wheresoever the children of men dwell, the beast of the field, and the fowl of the heavens he hath given unto thy hand, and hath caused thee to rule over them all. Thou art this head of gold. ³⁹And after thee standeth up another kingdom lower than thee, and another third kingdom of brass, which ruleth over all the earth. ⁴⁰And the fourth kingdom is strong as iron, because that iron breaketh small, and maketh feeble all things: even as iron which breaketh all these, it beatech small and breaketh. ⁴¹As to that which thou hast seen: the feet and toes, part of them potter's clay, and part of them iron, the kingdom is divided: but some of the standing of the iron is to be in it, because that thou hast seen the iron mixed with miry clay. ⁴²As to the toes of the feet, part of them iron, and part of them clay: some part of the kingdom is strong, and some part of it is brittle. ⁴³Because thou hast seen iron mixed with miry clay, they mix themselves with the seed of men: and they adhere not one with another, even as iron is not mixed with clay.

⁴⁴'And in the days of these kings raise up doth the God of heaven a kingdom which is not destroyed for ever, and its kingdom to another people is not left: it beatech small and endeth all these kingdoms, and it standeth for ever. ⁴⁵Because that thou hast seen that out of the mountain cut hath been a stone without hands, and that it hath beaten small the iron, the brass, the clay, the silver, and the gold; the great God hath made known to the king that which is to be after this, and the dream is true, and its interpretation faithful.'

⁴⁶Then hath king Nebuchadnezzar fallen on his face, and before Daniel hath done obeisance, and present, and sweet things, hath he commanded to pour out to him. ⁴⁷The king answereth Daniel and saith,

'Of a truth it is that your God is a God of gods, and a lord of kings, and a revealer of secrets, since thou hast been able to reveal this secret.'

¹⁶Then the king hath made Daniel great, and many great gifts hath given to him, and hath caused him to rule over all the province of Babylon, and chief of the prefects over all the wise men of Babylon. ¹⁷And Daniel hath sought from the king, and he appointed over the work of the province of Babylon, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego: and Daniel is in the gate of the king.

III. ¹NEBUCHADNEZZAR the king hath made an image of gold, its height sixty cubits, its breadth six cubits: he hath raised it up in the valley of Dura, in the province of Babylon. ²And Nebuchadnezzar the king hath sent to gather the satraps, the prefects, the governors, the honourable judges, the treasurers, the counsellors, the sheriffs, and all the rulers of the province, to come to the dedication of the image which Nebuchadnezzar the king hath raised up.

⁸Therefore at that time, certain Chaldeans have drawn near, and accused the Jews. ⁹They have answered, yea, they say to Nebuchadnezzar the king: 'O king, for ages live. ¹⁰Thou, O king, hast made a decree that every man who heareth the sound of the cornet, the flute, the harp, the sackbut, the psaltery, and the symphony, and all kinds of music, shall fall down and do obeisance to the golden image: ¹¹and whoso falleth not down and doth obeisance, shall be cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace. ¹²There are certain Jews whom thou hast appointed over the work of the province of Babylon, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego: these men have not made of thee, O king, any regard: thy gods they serve not, and to the golden image which thou hast raised up they make no obeisance.'

¹³Then Nebuchadnezzar, in anger and fury, hath commanded to bring in Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego. Then these men have been brought in before the king. ¹⁴Nebuchadnezzar answereth and saith to them, 'Is it a laid plan, O Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego—my gods ye serve not, and to the golden image which I have raised up ye do no obeisance? ¹⁵Now, lo, ye are ready, so that at the time that ye hear the voice of the cornet, the flute, the harp, the sackbut, the psaltery, and the symphony, and all kinds of music, ye fall down and do obeisance to the image which I have made—and lo, ye do no obeisance—in that hour ye are cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace: and who is that God who delivereth you out of my hands?'

¹⁶Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego have answered, yea, they say to the king Nebuchadnezzar, 'We have no need concerning this matter to answer thee. ¹⁷Lo, it is so; our God whom we serve, He is able to deliver us out of the burning fiery furnace; and from thy hand, O king, He will deliver. ¹⁸And lo—not; let it be known to thee, O king, that thy gods we do not serve, and to the golden image thou hast raised up we will not do obeisance.'

¹⁹Then Nebuchadnezzar hath been full of fury, and the expression of his face hath been changed concerning Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego: he answereth, and commandeth to heat the furnace seven times above that which it is ever seen to be heated. ²⁰And certain mighty men who are in his force hath he commanded to bind Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego, to cast into the burning fiery furnace.

²¹Then these men have been bound in their coats, their tunics, and their turbans, and their clothing, and have been cast into the midst of the burning fiery furnace. ²²Therefore, because that the word of the king is urgent, and the furnace heated exceedingly, those men who have taken up Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego—killed them hath the spark of the fire. ²³And these three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego, have fallen down bound in the midst of the burning fiery furnace.

²⁴Then Nebuchadnezzar the king hath been astonished, and hath risen up in haste: he answereth and saith to his counsellors, 'Have we not cast three men into the midst of the fire—bound? They answer and say to the king, 'Certainly, O king.' ²⁵He answereth and saith, 'Lo, I see four men loose, walking in the midst of the fire, and they have no hurt: and the appearance of the fourth is like to a son of the gods.'

²⁶Then Nebuchadnezzar hath drawn near to the gate of the burning fiery furnace: he answereth and saith: 'Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego, servants of God Most High, come forth, yea, come.' Then come forth do Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego, from the midst of the fire. ²⁷And gathering themselves together, the satraps, the prefects, and the governors, and the counsellors of the king, see these men, that the fire hath no power over their bodies, and the hair of their head hath not been singed, and their coats have not been changed, and the smell of fire hath not passed on them.

²⁸ Nebuchadnezzar answereth and saith: 'Blessed is the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego, who hath sent His angel, and hath delivered His servants who trusted on Him, and the word of the king changed, and gave up their bodies that they might not serve nor do obeisance to any god except their own God. ²⁹ And by me a decree is made, that any people, nation, or language, which speaketh erroneously concerning the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego, shall be made—pieces, and its house be made a dunghill, because there is no other god who is able thus to deliver.' ³⁰ Then the king hath caused Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-Nego to prosper in the province of Babelylon.

IV. ¹ NEBUCHADNEZZAR the king to all peoples, nations, and languages, who are dwelling in all the earth: Your peace be great! ² The signs and wonders which God Most High hath done with me, it is good before me to shew. ³ His signs how great! and His wonders how mighty! His kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and His rule is with generation and generation.

⁴ I, Nebuchadnezzar, have been at rest in my house, and flourishing in my palace: ⁵ a dream I have seen, and it maketh me afraid, and the conceptions on my bed, and the visions of my head, trouble me. ⁶ And by me a decree is made, to cause all the wise men of Babelylon to come up before me, that the interpretation of the dream they may cause me to know. ⁷ Then come up do the scribes, the enchanters, the Chaldeans, and the soothsayers: and the dream I have told before them, but its interpretation they do not make known to me. ⁸ And at last come up before me hath Daniel, whose name is Belteshazzar (according to the name of my god), and in whom is the spirit of the holy gods, and the dream before him I have told:

⁹ O Belteshazzar, master of the scribes, as I have known that the spirit of the holy gods is in thee, and no secret presseth thee, the visions of my dream which I have seen, and its interpretation, tell. ¹⁰ As to the visions of my head on my bed: I was looking, and lo, a tree in the midst of the earth, and its height is great. ¹¹ Become great hath the tree, yea, strong, and its height reacheth to the heavens, and its vision to the end of the whole land. ¹² Its leaves are fair, and its budding great, and food for all is in it; under it take shade doth the beast of the field, and in its boughs dwell do the birds of the heavens, and of it fed are all flesh.

¹³ I was looking in the visions of my head on my bed, and lo, a sifter, even a holy one, from the heavens coming down. ¹⁴ He calleth mightily, and thus saith: ¹⁵ Cut down the tree, and cut off its branches, shake off its leaves, and scatter its budding; move away let the beast from under it, and the birds from off its branches. ¹⁶ But the stump of its roots leave in the earth, even with a band of iron and brass, in the tender grass of the field, and with the dew of heaven let it be wet, and with the beasts is his portion in the herb of the earth. ¹⁷ Let his heart from man's be changed, and let the heart of a beast be given to him, and let seven times pass over him. ¹⁸ By the decree of the sifters is the sentence, and by the saying of the holy ones the requirement, to the intent that the living may know that the Most High is ruler over the kingdom of men, and to whom He willeth He giveth it, and the lowest of men raiseth up over it.

¹⁹ This dream I have seen, I, king Nebuchadnezzar. And thou, O Belteshazzar, the interpretation tell, because all the wise men of my kingdom are not able to cause me to know the interpretation: but thou art able, for the spirit of the holy gods is in thee.

²⁰ Then Daniel, whose name is Belteshazzar, hath been astonished about an hour, and his thoughts trouble him. The king answereth and saith: O Belteshazzar, let not the dream and its interpretation trouble thee. Belteshazzar answereth and saith: My lord, the dream—to those who hate thee, and its interpretation—to thine enemies. ²¹ The tree which thou hast seen, which hath become great and strong, and its height reacheth to the heavens, and its vision to all the land, ²² and its leaves are fair, and its budding great, and food for all is in it, under it dwell doth the beast of the field, and on its boughs sit do the birds of the heavens:

²³ It is thou, O king, for thou hast become great and mighty; and thy greatness hath become great, and hath reached to the heavens, and thy dominion to the end of the earth. ²⁴ And that which the king hath seen—a sifter, even a holy one, coming down from the heavens, and saying: Cut down the tree, and destroy it; but the stump of its roots leave in the earth, even with a band of iron and brass, in the tender grass of the field, and with the dew of heaven let it be wet, and with the beast of the field is his portion, till that seven times pass over him.

²⁸ Therefore, O king, let my counsel be acceptable unto thee, and thy sins by righteousness break off, and thy perversity by pitying the poor; lo, it may be a lengthening of thine ease.

²⁹ All—hath come on Nebuchadnezzar the king.

²⁵ And at the end of the days I, Nebuchadnezzar, to heaven have lifted up mine eyes, and mine understanding unto me returneth, and the Most High I have blessed, and the Eternal Living One I have praised and honoured, whose dominion is an everlasting dominion, and His kingdom with generation and generation. ²⁶ And all who dwell on the earth as nothing are reckoned; and according to his will He doth among the forces of heaven and those who dwell on the earth: and there is none that clappeth with his hand, and saith to Him, What hast thou done?

²⁷ At that time my understanding returneth unto me, and for the glory of my kingdom, my honour and my brightness return unto me, and to me my counsellors and my great men seek, and over my kingdom I have been made right, and abundant greatness hath been added to me.

²⁸ Now I, Nebuchadnezzar, praise and exalt and honour the King of heaven, for all His works are truth, and His paths judgment; and they who walk in pride He is able to humble.

V. ¹ BELSHAZZAR the king hath made a great feast to a thousand of his great men, and before the thousand he drinketh wine. ² Belshazzar hath commanded (while tasting the wine) to bring in the vessels of gold and of silver which Nebuchadnezzar his father had taken from the temple which is in Jerusalem, that drink with them may the king and his great men, his wives and his concubines.

³ Then have they brought in the vessels of gold which had been taken out of the temple of the house of God which is in Jerusalem, and drunk with them have the king and his great men, his wives and his concubines. ⁴ They have drunk wine, and praised the gods of gold, and of silver, of brass, of iron, of wood, and of stone.

⁵ In that hour come forth have the fingers of a man's hand, and are writing over-against the candlestick, on the plaster of the wall of the king's palace: and the king seeth the extremity of the hand which is writing. ⁶ Then the king's countenance hath changed, and his thoughts trouble him, and the joints of his loins are loosed, and his knees are smiting one against another.

⁷ Call doth the king mightily, to bring up the enchanters, the Chaldeans, and the soothsayers. Answer doth the king, and say to the wise men of Babylon: 'Any man who readeth this writing, and its interpretation sheweth me, purple he putteth on, and a bracelet of gold on his neck, and third in the kingdom he ruleth.'

¹⁰ The queen, on account of the words of the king and his great men, to the banquet-house hath come up. Answer doth the queen, and say, 'O king, for ages live; let not thy thoughts trouble thee, nor thy countenance be changed: ¹¹ there is a man in thy kingdom in whom is the spirit of the holy gods: and, in the days of thy father, light, and understanding, and wisdom—as the wisdom of the gods—hath been found in him: and king Nebuchadnezzar thy father, chief of the scribes, enchanters, Chaldeans, soothsayers, hath established him,—thy father, O king: ¹² because that an excellent spirit, and knowledge, and understanding, interpreting of dreams, and showing of enigmas, and loosing of knots have been found in him, in Daniel, whose name the king made Belteshazzar: now let Daniel be called, and the interpretation he will show.'

¹⁵ And now, caused to come up before me have been the wise men, the enchanters, that this writing they may read, and its interpretation to cause me to know: and they are not able to shew the interpretation of the thing: ¹⁶ and I—I have heard of thee, that thou art able to give interpretations, and to loose knots: now, lo—thou art able to read the writing, and its interpretation to cause me to know—purple thou putteth on, and a bracelet of gold on thy neck, and third in the kingdom thou rulest.'

¹⁷ Then doth Daniel answer and say before the king, 'Thy gifts be to thyself, and thy fee to another give: nevertheless, the writing I read to the king, and the interpretation I cause him to know: ¹⁸ O thou king, God Most High, a kingdom, and greatness, and glory, and honour, gave to Nebuchadnezzar thy father: ¹⁹ and because of the greatness which He gave to him, all peoples, nations, and languages were trembling and fearing before him: whom he willed he slew, and whom he willed he kept alive, and whom he willed he raised up, and whom he willed he made low. ²⁰And when his heart was high, and his spirit was strong to act proudly, he hath been caused to come down from the throne of his kingdom, and his glory they have caused to pass away from him, ²¹and from the sons of men he is driven, and his heart with the beasts hath been like, and with the wild ass is his dwelling: the herb like oxen they cause him to eat, and by the dew of heaven is his body wet, till he hath known that God Most High is ruler over the kingdom of men, and whom He willeth He raiseth up over it.

²²And thou, his son, O Belshazzar, hast not humbled thy heart, though all this thou hast known ²³and against the Lord of heaven thou hast lifted up thyself; and the vessels of His house have they brought in before thee, and thou, and thy great men, thy wives and thy concubines, are drinking wine with them, and the gods of silver, and of gold, of brass, of iron, of wood, and of stone, which see not, nor hear, nor know, thou hast praised: and the God in whose hand is thy breath, and all thy ways, Him thou hast not honoured.

²⁴Then from before Him sent is the extremity of the hand; and this writing is noted down. ²⁵And this is the writing which is noted down: NUMBERED, WEIGHED, and DIVIDED. ²⁶This is the interpretation of the thing: NUMBERED—God hath numbered thy kingdom, and finished it. ²⁷WEIGHED—Thou art weighed in the balances, and hast been found lacking. ²⁸DIVIDED—Divided is thy kingdom, and it hath been given to the Medes and Persians.

VI. ¹IT hath been good before Darius, and he hath established over the kingdom a hundred and twenty satraps, that they may be throughout the whole kingdom. ²And higher than they are three presidents, of whom Daniel is first, that these satraps may give to them an account, and the king have no loss. ³Then this Daniel hath been overseer over the presidents and satraps, because an excellent spirit is in him; and the king hath thought to establish him over the whole kingdom.

⁴Then the presidents and the satraps have sought to find a cause of complaint against Daniel concerning the kingdom; but any cause of complaint or corruption they are not able to find, because he is faithful, and no error or corruption hath been found in him. ⁵Then these men say, 'We shall not find against this Daniel any cause of complaint, except we have found it against him through the law of his God.'

⁶Then these presidents and satraps have assembled near the king, and thus they say to him: 'O king Darius, for ages live! ⁷Taken counsel have all the presidents of the kingdom, the prefects, and the satraps, the counsellors, and the governors, to establish a royal statute, and to strengthen an interdict, that any who seeketh a petition from any god or man during thirty days, save of thee, O king, shall be cast into a den of lions. ⁸Now, O king, thou dost establish the interdict, and sign the writing, that it be not changed, as a law of Media and Persia, which passeth not away.'

⁹Therefore king Darius hath signed the writing and interdict.

¹⁰And Daniel, when he hath known that the writing is signed, hath gone up to his house; and the window being opened for him, in his upper chamber, over-against Jerusalem, then three times in the day he kneeleth on his knees, and prayeth, and confesseth before his God, because he did so before this.

¹⁴Then the king, when he hath heard the matter, is greatly displeased at himself, and on Daniel hath set his heart to deliver him; and till the going up of the sun he arranged to deliver him. ¹⁵Then these men have assembled near the king, and say to the king, 'Know, O king, that the law of Media and Persia is: That no interdict or statute which the king establisheth is to be changed.'

¹⁶Then the king hath commanded, and they have brought Daniel, and have cast him into a den of lions. The king answereth and saith to Daniel, 'Thy God, whom thou servest continually, Himself will deliver thee.' ¹⁷And a stone hath been brought and placed at the mouth of the den; and the king hath sealed it with his signet, and with the signet of his great men, that the purpose be not changed concerning Daniel.

¹⁸Then hath the king gone to his palace, and hath passed the night fasting; and Dabavau have not been brought up before him, and his sleep hath fled from off him.

¹⁹Then the king riseth in the early morning, at the light, and in haste to the den of lions he hath gone. ²⁰And at his coming near to the den, to Daniel, with a grieved voice, he crieth. The king answereth and saith to Daniel, 'O Daniel, servant of the living God—thy God whom thou servest continually—is He able to deliver thee from the lions?'

²¹ Then hath Daniel spoken with the king: 'O king, for ages live: ²² my God hath sent His messenger, and shut the lions' mouths, and they have not injured me: because before Him purity hath been found in me: and also before thee, O king, injury I have not done.' ²³ Then was the king very glad for him, and hath commanded Daniel to be taken up out of the den: and Daniel hath been taken up out of the den, and no injury hath been found in him, because he hath believed in his God. ²⁴ And the king hath commanded, and they have brought those men who had accused Daniel, and into the den of lions they have cast them, they, their children, and their wives; and they have not come to the lower part of the den till the lions have power over them, and all their bones have broken small.

²⁵ Then hath Darius the king written to all the peoples, nations, and languages, who dwell in all the land: 'Your peace be great! ²⁶ From before me made is a decree, that in every dominion of my kingdom they tremble and fear before the God of Daniel, for He is the living God, and abiding for ever, and His kingdom that which is not destroyed, and His dominion is till the end. ²⁷ A deliverer, and a rescuer, and a doer of signs and wonders in heaven and in earth is He who hath delivered Daniel from the paw of the lions.' ²⁸ And this Daniel hath prospered in the reign of Darius, and in the reign of Cyrus the Persian.

VII. ¹ IN the first year of Belshazzar king of Babylon, Daniel hath seen a dream, and the visions of his head on his bed: then hath he written the dream: the chief of the things he hath told. ² Answer doth Daniel and say, 'I was seeing in my vision by night, and lo, the four winds of heaven are coming forth to the Great Sea. ³ And four great beasts are coming up from the sea, diverse one from another. ⁴ The first is like a lion, and it hath an eagle's wings. I was seeing till that its wings have been plucked, and it hath been lifted up from the earth, and on feet as a man hath been caused to stand, and the heart of man is given to it. ⁵ And lo, another beast, a second, like to a bear, and to the same authority it hath been raised, and three ribs are in its mouth, between its teeth: and thus they say to it: Rise, consume much flesh.

⁶ After this I was seeing, and lo, another like a leopard, and it hath four wings of a fowl on its back; and four heads hath the beast: and dominion is given to it.

⁷ After this I was seeing in the visions of the night, and lo, a fourth beast, terrible and fearful, and exceedingly strong; and it hath iron teeth, very great: it hath consumed, yea, it breaketh small, and the remnant with its feet it hath trampled; and it is diverse from all the beasts which are before it; and it hath ten horns.

⁸ 'I was considering concerning the horns, and lo, another horn, a little one, hath come up between them, and three of the first horns have been eradicated from before it: and lo, eyes as the eyes of man are in this horn, and a mouth speaking great things.

¹¹ 'I was seeing: then because of the voice of the great words which the horn is speaking, I was seeing till that the beast is slain, and his body hath been destroyed, and given to the burning fire. ¹² And the rest of the beasts have caused their dominion to pass away, and a prolongation in life is given to them, during a season and a time.

¹³ 'I was seeing in the visions of the night, and lo, with the clouds of heaven as a son of man was one coming, and unto the Ancient of Days he hath come, and before Him they have brought him near. ¹⁴ And to him is given dominion, and glory, and a kingdom, and all peoples, nations, and languages do serve him: his dominion is an everlasting dominion, which passeth not away, and his kingdom that which is not destroyed.

¹⁵ Pierced hath been my spirit (I, Daniel) in the midst of the sheath, and the visions of my head trouble me. ¹⁶ I have drawn near unto one of those standing, and the certainty I seek from him of all this. And he hath told to me, yea, the interpretation of the things he causeth me to know:—

¹⁹ 'Then I wished for certainty concerning the fourth beast, which was diverse from them all, fearful exceedingly: its teeth of iron, and its nails of brass; it hath devoured, it breaketh small, and the remnant with its feet it hath trampled. ²⁰ And concerning the ten horns which are in its head, and of the other which came up, and before which three have fallen, even of that horn which hath eyes, and a mouth speaking great things, and whose appearance is great above its companions:

²¹ 'I was beholding, and this horn is making war with the saints, and hath prevailed over them: ²² till the Ancient of Days hath come, and judgment is given to the saints of the Most High, and the time hath come, and the saints have strengthened the kingdom.

²³ 'Thus he said: The fourth beast is the fourth kingdom on the earth, which is diverse from all kingdoms, and it consumeth

the whole earth, and treadeth it down, and breaketh it small. ²⁴And the ten horns out of this kingdom are ten kings; they rise, and another riseth after them, and it is diverse from the former, and three kings it humbleth. ²⁵And words as an adversary of the Most High it speaketh, and the saints of the Most High it weareth out, and hopeth to change seasons and laws; and they are given into its hand, during a time, and thence, and a division of a time.

²⁶And the judges are sent, and its dominion they cause to pass away, to cut off, and to destroy—to the end. ²⁷And the kingdom, and the dominion, even the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heavens, is given to the people, the saints of the Most High: His kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and all dominions serve and obey Him.

²⁸Hitherto is the end of the matter. I Daniel, greatly do my thoughts trouble me, and my countenance is changed on me, and the matter in my heart I have kept.

VIII. ¹IN the third year of the reign of Belshazzar the king, a vision hath appeared unto me, (I Daniel,) after that which had appeared unto me at the beginning. ²And I see in a vision; and it cometh to pass, in my seeing, and I am in Shushan the palace, which is in the province of Elam; and I see in a vision, and I have been by the stream Ulai. ³And I lift up mine eyes, and look, and lo, a certain ram standing before the stream, and it hath two horns, and the two horns are high: and the one is higher than the other, and the high one cometh up last. ⁴I have seen the ram pushing westward, and northward, and southward, and no living creatures stand before it, and there is none delivering out of its hand: and it hath done according to its will, and hath exerted itself.

⁵And I have been considering, and lo, a young he-goat coming from the west, over the face of the whole earth, whom none toucheth in the earth: as to the young he-goat, a conspicuous horn is between its eyes. ⁶And it cometh in unto the ram possessing two horns, which I had seen standing before the stream, and runneth toward it in the fury of its power. ⁷And I have seen it coming near the ram, and it becometh embittered at it, and smiteth the ram, and shivereth its two horns: and there hath been no power in the ram to stand before it, and it casteth it to the earth, and trampleth it down: and there hath been no deliverer to the ram from its power.

⁸And the young he-goat hath done very great things: and when it is strong, broken hath been the great horn: and come up doth a vision of four in its place, at the four winds of heaven. ⁹And from the one of them come out hath a little horn, and it maketh itself very great towards the south, and towards the east, and towards the beautiful land. ¹⁰Yea, it maketh itself great—unto the host of heaven, and causeth to fall to the earth some of the host, and of the stars, and trampleth them down. ¹¹And unto the Prince of the host it maketh itself great, and by it taken away hath been the daily sacrifice, and thrown down the base of His sanctuary. ¹²And the host is given up, with the daily sacrifice, through transgression, and it throweth down truth to the earth, and it worked, and prospered.

¹³And I hear a certain holy one speaking, and a certain holy one saith to the wonderful numberer who is speaking: Till when is the vision of the daily sacrifice, and of the transgression, an astonishment, of making both sanctuary and host a treading down? ¹⁴And he saith unto me, Till evening—morning two thousand and three hundred: then justified is the holy place.

¹⁵And it cometh to pass in my seeing (I, Daniel), the vision, that I require understanding, and lo, standing over-against me is as the appearance of a mighty one. ¹⁶And I hear a voice of man between the banks of Ulai, and he calleth and saith: Gabriel, cause this one to understand the appearance. ¹⁷And he cometh in near my station, and at his coming in I have been afraid, and I fall on my face: and he saith unto me: Understand, son of man; for at the time of the end is the vision. ¹⁸And in his speaking with me, I have been in a trance on my face, on the earth: and he striketh at me, and causeth me to stand on my station, ¹⁹and saith: Lo, I—I cause thee to know that which is in the latter end of the indignation: for, at the appointed time is the end:

²³And in the latter end of their kingdom, about the perfecting of the transgressors, stand up doth a king, fierce of face, and understanding hidden things. ²⁴And his power hath been mighty, but not by his own power: and wonderful things he destroyeth, and hath prospered, and wrought, and destroyed mighty ones, even the people of the Holy Ones.

²⁵And by his understanding he hath also caused deceit to prosper in his hand: and in his heart he maketh himself great, and by ease he destroyeth many: and against the Prince of princes he standeth up—and without hand he is broken. ²⁶And the appearance of the evening and of the morning, which is told, is true: and thou, hide thou the vision: for it is after many days.

²⁷And I, Daniel, have been, yea, I became sick for days: but I rise, and do the king's work, and am astonished at the appearance, but none understandeth.

[X. ¹IN the first year of Darius, son of Ahasuerus, of the seed of the Medes, who hath been made king over the kingdom of the Chaldeans: ²In the first year of his reign, I, Daniel, have understood by books the number of the years, (because the word of the Lord hath been unto Jeremiah the prophet,) concerning the fulfilling of the wastes of Jerusalem—seventy years. ³ And I set my face unto the Lord God, to seek by prayer and supplications, with fasting, and sackcloth, and ashes.

⁴ And I pray to the Lord my God, and confess, and say: I beseech Thee, O Lord God, the great and fearful, keeping covenant and kindness to those who love Him, and to those keeping His commands: ⁵ we have sinned, and done perversely, and done wickedly, and rebelled, turning aside from Thy commands, and from Thy judgments: ⁶ and we have not hearkened unto Thy servants, the prophets, who have spoken in Thy name unto our kings, our princes, and our fathers, and to all the people of the land.

⁷ To Thee, O Lord, is righteousness, and to us shame of face, as at this day: to the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and to all Israel, who are near, and who are far off, in all the lands whither Thou hast driven them, for their trespass which they have transgressed against Thee.

⁸ O Lord, to us is shame of face, to our kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because we have sinned against Thee.

⁹ To the Lord our God are mercies and forgivenesses, for we have rebelled against Him, ¹⁰ and have not hearkened to the voice of the Lord our God, to walk in His laws, which He hath set before us by the hand of His servants the prophets. ¹¹ And all Israel have transgressed Thy law, turning aside so as not to hearken to Thy voice; and poured on us is the execration, and the oath, that is written in the law of Moses, the servant of God, for we have sinned against Him.

¹² And He confirmeth His words which He hath spoken against us, and against our judges who have judged us, bringing in upon us great evil: for it hath not been done under the whole heavens as it hath been done in Jerusalem. ¹³ As it is written in the law of Moses: All this evil hath come upon us: and we have not appeased the face of the Lord our God, turning back from our iniquities, and acting wisely through Thy truth. ¹⁴ And the Lord watcheth for the evil, and bringeth it in upon us: for righteous is the Lord our God concerning all His works that He hath done: and we have not hearkened to His voice. ¹⁵ And now, O Lord our God, who hast brought out Thy people from the land of Egypt by a strong hand, and dost make for Thyself a name as at this day, we have sinned, we have done wickedly.

¹⁶ O Lord, according to all Thy righteousness, let turn back, I pray Thee, Thine anger and Thy fury from Thy city Jerusalem, Thy holy mount: for by our sins, and by the iniquities of our fathers, Jerusalem and Thy people are for a reproach to all our neighbours. ¹⁷ And now, hearken, O our God, unto the prayer of Thy servant, and unto his supplications, and cause Thy face to shine on Thy sanctuary, which is desolate, for the Lord's sake.

¹⁸ Incline, O my God, Thine ear, and hear; open Thine eyes, and see our desolations, and the city on which Thy name is called: for not for our righteousness are we causing our supplications to fall before Thee, but for Thine own mercies which are many. ¹⁹ O Lord, hear: O Lord, forgive: O Lord, attend and do; delay not, for Thine own sake, O my God: for Thy name is called on Thy city, and on Thy people.

²⁰ And while I am speaking, and praying, and confessing my sin, and the sin of my people Israel, and causing my supplication to fall before the Lord my God, for the holy mount of my God, ²¹ yea, while I am speaking in prayer, even that one Gabriel, whom I had seen in vision at the beginning, being caused to fly swiftly, cometh unto me at the time of the evening offering.

²² And he giveth understanding, and speaketh with me, and saith: 'O Daniel, now have I come out to cause thee to consider understanding wisely. ²³ At the beginning of thy supplications hath the word come forth, and I have come to declare it, for thou art greatly desired; and understand thou concerning the matter, and consider concerning the appearance.

²⁴ Seventy weeks are determined for thy people, and for thy holy city, to shut up the transgression, and to seal up sins, and to cover iniquity, and to bring in an everlasting righteousness, and to seal up vision, and prophet, and to anoint the holy of holies. ²⁵ And thou shalt know, and consider wisely: from the going out of the word to restore and to build Jerusalem till Messiah the Leader is seven weeks, and sixty and two weeks: the broad place hath been built again, and the rampart, even in the distress of the times. ²⁶ And after the sixty and two weeks, cut off is Messiah: and the city and the holy place are not his: the Leader who cometh destroyeth the people: and its end is with a flood, and till the end is war, determined are desolations. ²⁷ And he hath strengthened a covenant with many one week, and in the midst of the week he causeth sacrifice and offering to cease, and by the wing of abominations he maketh desolate, even till the consummation, and that which is determined is poured on the desolate one.'

X. ¹ IN the third year of Cyrus king of Persia, a thing is revealed to Daniel, whose name is called Belteshazzar, and the thing is true, and the warfare is great: and he hath understood the thing, and hath understanding about the appearance.

² In those days, I, Daniel, have been mourning three weeks of days: ³ desirable bread I have not eaten, and flesh or wine hath not come unto my mouth: and I have not anointed myself at all, till the completion of three weeks of days.

⁴ And in the twenty and fourth day of the first month, I have been by the side of the great river, which is Hiddekel: ⁵ and I lift up mine eyes, and look, and lo, a certain one clothed in linen, and his loins girt with pure gold of Uphaz: ⁶ and his body as a heryl, and his face as the appearance of lightning, and his eyes as lamps of fire, and his arms and his feet as the aspect of bright brass, and the voice of his words as the voice of a multitude.

7 And I have seen (I, Daniel, by myself) the appearance: the men who have been with me have not seen the appearance; but a great trembling hath fallen on them, and they flee to be hidden. 8 And I have been left by myself, and I see this great appearance, and there hath been no power left in me, and my honour hath been turned in me to corruption, yea, I have not retained power.

9 And I hear the voice of his words; and when I hear the voice of his words, then I have been in a trance on my face, and my face is to the earth. 10 And lo, a hand hath come against me, and shaketh me on my knees, and the palms of my hands.

11 And he saith unto me: Daniel, man greatly desired, attend to the words which I am speaking unto thee, and stand on thy station, for now have I been sent unto thee.

And when he speaketh with me this word, I have stood trembling. 12 And he saith unto me: Fear not, Daniel, for from the first day that thou didst give thy heart to understand, and to humble thyself before thy God, thy words have been heard, and I have come because of thy words.

13 And the prince of the kingdom of Persia is standing over-against me twenty-one days, and lo, Michael, first of the chief princes, hath come in to help me; and I have remained there near the kings of Persia. 14 And I have come to cause thee to understand that which doth happen to thy people in the latter end of the days, for yet the vision is after days.

15 And when he speaketh with me about these things, I have set my face toward the earth, and have been silent. 16 And lo, as the manner of the children of men, he striketh against my lips, and I open my mouth, and speak, and say unto him who is standing over-against me: My lord, by the appearance my pangs have been turned against me, and I have retained no power.

17 And how is the servant of this my lord able to speak with this my lord? as for me, henceforth, there remaineth in me no power, yea, breath hath not been left in me.

18 And he continueth, and striketh at me, as the appearance of a man, and strengtheneth me, 19 and saith: Fear not, O man greatly desired: peace to thee; be strong, yea, be strong. And when he speaketh with me, I have strengthened myself, and I say, Let my lord speak; for thou hast strengthened me. 20 And he saith, Hast thou known why I have come unto thee? even now I turn back to fight with the prince of Persia: yea, I am going out, and lo, the prince of Javan cometh. 21 But I declare to thee that which is noted down in the Writing of Truth: and there is no one strengthening himself with me, concerning these, except Michael your prince.

XI. 1 AND I, in the first year of Darius the Mede, my standing is for a strengthener, and for a stronghold to him. 2 And, now, truth I declare to thee: Lo, yet three kings are standing for Persia; and the fourth becometh far richer than all: and according to his strength by his riches he stirreth up the whole of the kingdom of Javan. 3 And a mighty king hath stood, and ruled a great dominion, and hath done according to his will. 4 And according to his standing is his kingdom broken, and divided to the four winds of the heavens; and not to his posterity, nor according to his dominion which he hath ruled: for his kingdom is plucked up—even for others beside these.

5 And a king of the south (even of his princes) becometh strong, and prevaileth against him, and hath ruled: a great dominion is his dominion.

6 And at the end of years they join themselves together; and a daughter of the king of the south cometh in unto the king of the north to do upright things: and she retaineth not the power of the arm; and he standeth not, nor his power: and she is given up, she, and those who bring her in, and her child, and he who strengtheneth her in these times.

7 And one hath stood up from a branch of her roots, in his station, and he cometh unto the bulwark, yea, he cometh into a stronghold of the king of the south, and hath wrought against them, and done mightily. 8 And even their gods, with their princes, with their desirable vessels of silver and gold, into captivity he bringeth into Egypt: and he standeth more years than the king of the north.

9 And the king of the south cometh unto the kingdom, and he turneth back unto his own land. 10 And his sons stir themselves up, and have gathered a multitude of great forces: and he certainly cometh in, and hath overflowed, and hath passed through; and he turneth back, and they stir themselves up unto his stronghold. 11 And the king of the south becometh embittered, and hath gone out and hath fought with him, with the king of the north, and hath caused a great multitude to stand: and the multitude hath been given into his hand, 12 and he hath carried away the multitude; his heart is high, and he hath caused myriads to fall, but he becometh not strong.

13 And the king of the north hath turned back, and hath caused a multitude greater than the first to stand, and at the end of the times a second time he certainly cometh in with a great force, and with much substance. 14 And in those times many stand up against the king of the south: and the children of the destroyers of thy people lift themselves up to establish the vision—and they have stumbled.

15 And the king of the north cometh in, and poureth out a mount, and hath captured the fenced cities: and the arms of the south stand not, nor the people of his choice, yea, there is no power to stand. 16 And he who cometh unto him doth according to his will, and there is none standing before him: and he standeth in the desirable land, and it is wholly in his hand.

17 And he setteth his face to go in with the strength of his whole kingdom, and the up-right with him: and he hath wrought, and the daughter of women he giveth to him, to corrupt her: but she standeth not, nor is for him.

18 And he turneth back his face to the isles, and hath captured many; but a prince hath caused his reproach of himself to cease: without his reproach he turneth it back to him. 19 And he turneth back his face to the strongholds of his land, and hath stumbled and fallen, and is not found.

20 And stood up on his station hath one causing an exactor to pass over the honour of the kingdom: and in a few days he is destroyed, but not in anger, nor in battle.

21 And on his station hath a despicable one stood up, and they have not given unto him the honour of the kingdom: and he hath come in quietly, and hath strengthened the kingdom by flatteries. 22 And the arms of the flood are overflowed from before him, and are broken: yea, also the leader of the covenant. 23 And after they have joined themselves unto him, he worketh deceit, and hath increased, and been strong by a few of the nation. 24 Peaceably even into the fertile places of the province he cometh, and hath done that which his fathers did not, nor his fathers' fathers; prey, and spoil, and substance, to them he scattereth: and against fenced places he deviseth his devices, even for a time.

25 And he stirreth up his power and his heart against the king of the south with a great force: and the king of the south stirreth himself up to battle with a very great and mighty force, but standeth not, for they devise devices against him: 26 and those who eat his portion of food destroy him, and his force overfloweth; and fallen have many wounded.

27 And both of the kings' hearts are to do evil, and at the same table they speak lies, and it prospereth not, for yet the end is at the time appointed. 28 And he turneth back to his own land with great substance, and his heart is against the holy covenant; and he hath wrought, and turned back to his own land. 29 At the appointed time he turneth back, and cometh against the south: and it is not as the former, or as the latter.

30 And ships of Chittim have come in against him: and he hath been pained, and hath turned back, and hath been insolent towards the holy covenant, and hath wrought, and turned back, and he understandeth concerning those who forsake the holy covenant. 31 And strong ones out of him stand up, and have polluted the sanctuary, the stronghold, and have turned aside the continual sacrifice, and appointed the desolating abomination. 32 And those who act wickedly against the covenant, he deliveth by flatteries: but the people who know their God are strong, and have wrought. 33 And the teachers of the people give understanding to many: and they have stumbled by the sword, and by flame, by captivity, and by spoil—days. 34 And in their stumbling, they are helped—a little help: and joined to them have been many with flatteries. 35 And some of the teachers stumble for refining by them, and for purifying, and for making white—till the end of the time: for it is yet for a time appointed.

36 And the king hath done according to his will, and exalteth himself, and magnifieth himself against every god: and against the God of gods he speaketh wonderful things, and hath prospered till the indignation hath been completed: for that which is determined hath been done. 37 And unto the God of his fathers he attendeth not, nor to the desire of women: yea, to any god he attendeth not, for against all he magnifieth himself. 38 Yet to the god of strongholds, on his station, he giveth honour: yea, to a god whom his fathers knew not he giveth honour with gold, and with silver, and with precious stones, and with desirable things. 39 And he hath dealt in the fortresses of the strongholds with a strange god whom he hath acknowledged: he multiplieth honour, and hath caused them to rule over many, and the ground he apporioneth at a price.

40 And at the time of the end, push himself forward with him doth the king of the south, and storm against him doth the king of the north, with chariot and with horse-men, and with many ships: and he hath come into the lands, and hath overflowed and passed over, 41 and hath come into the desirable land, and many stumble: but these escape from his hand: Edom, and Moab, and the chief of the Children of Ammon.

42 And he sendeth out his hand upon the lands, and the land of Egypt is not for an escape: 43 and he hath ruled over treasures of gold and of silver, and over all the desirable things of Egypt, and Lubim and Cushim are at his steps.

44 And reports trouble him out of the east and out of the north: and he hath gone out in great fury to destroy, and to devote many to destruction. 45 And he planteth the tents of his palace between the seas and the holy desirable mountain: and he cometh unto his end, and he hath no helper.

XII. 1 AND at that time stand up doth Michael the great prince, who standeth up for the children of thy people, and there hath been a time of distress, such as hath not been since there hath been a nation till that time: and at that time thy people escape, every one who is found written in the book.

2 And the multitude of those who sleep in the dust of the ground awake, some to life everlasting, and some to reproaches—to everlasting abhorrence. 3 And those who teach shine as the brightness of the expanse, and those who justify the multitude as stars for ever and ever. 4 And thou, O Daniel, hide the things, and seal the book till the time of the end: many shall go to and fro, and knowledge shall be multiplied.

5 And I have looked, I, Daniel, and lo, two others are standing, one here at the edge of the flood, and one there at the edge of the flood. ⁶And he saith to the one clothed in linen, who is upon the waters of the flood, 'Till when is the end of these wonders?'

⁷And I hear the one clothed in linen, who is upon the waters of the flood, and he lifteth up his right hand and his left unto the heavens, and sweareth by Him who liveth for ever, that 'After a time, times, and a half, and at the completion of the scattering of the power of the holy people, all these are finished.' ⁸And I have heard, and understand not, and I say, 'O my lord, what is the latter end of these?'

⁹And He saith, 'Go, Daniel; for hidden and sealed are the things till the time of the end. ¹⁰Purify themselves, yea, make themselves white, yea, refined are many; and the wicked have done wickedly, and none of the wicked understand; but those who act wisely understand. ¹¹And from the time of the turning aside of the perpetual sacrifice, and to the giving out of the desolating abomination, are days a thousand, two hundred, and ninety. ¹²O the blessedness of him who waiteth earnestly, and cometh to the days, a thousand, three hundred, thirty and five. ¹³And thou, go on to the end, then dost thou rest, and stand in thy lot at the end of the days.'

HOSEA.

CHAP. I. ¹THE word of the LORD which hath been unto Hosea son of Beeri, in the days of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah, kings of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam son of Joash, king of Israel:

²THE BEGINNING OF THE LORD'S SPEAKING BY HOSEA.

And the LORD saith unto Hosea, 'Go, take to thee a woman of whoredoms, and children of whoredoms, for utterly go a-whoring doth the land from after the LORD.'

³And he goeth and taketh Gomer daughter of Diblaim, and she conceiveth and beareth to him a son. ⁴And the LORD saith unto him, 'Call his name Jezreel, for yet a little, and I have charged the bow of Jezreel against the house of Jchu, and have caused to cease the kingdom of the house of Israel. ⁵And it hath come to pass in that day that I have broken the bow of Israel in the valley of Jezreel.'

⁶And she conceiveth again, and beareth a daughter, and he saith to him, 'Call her name Lo-Ruhamah, for I continue no more to pity the house of Israel, for I do utterly take them away. ⁷And the house of Judah I pity, and have saved them by the LORD their God, and save them not by bow, or by sword, by battle, by horses, or by horsemen.'

⁸And she weaneth Lo-Ruhamah, and conceiveth, and beareth a son. ⁹And He saith, 'Call his name Lo-Ammi, for ye are not My people, and I am not for you. ¹⁰Yet the number of the Children of Israel hath been as the sand of the sea, which is not measured or numbered, and it hath come to pass in the place where it is said to them, 'Ye are not My people, it is said to them, Children of the Living God. ¹¹And gathered have been the Children of Judah and the Children of Israel together; and they have appointed for themselves one head, and have gone up from the land, for great is the day of Jezreel.'

II. ¹SAY ye to your brethren, Ammi, and to your sisters, Ruhamah.

²Plead with your mother, plead, (For she is not My wife,

And I am not her husband,) [her,

That she turn her whoredoms from before And her adulteries from between her ³Lest I strip her naked, [breasts,

And have set her up as in the day of her And made her as a wilderness, [birth,

And have set her as a dry land,

And have put her to death with thirst.

⁴And her children I pity not,

For children of whoredoms are they:

⁵For gone a-whoring hath their mother,

Acted shamefully hath their conceiver,

For she hath said, I go after my lovers,

Who give my bread, and my water.

My wool, my flax, mine oil, and my drink.'

⁶Therefore, lo, I hedge up thy way with

And have made a wall, [thorns,

And her paths she findeth not.

⁷And she hath pursued her lovers,

And overtaken them not,

And she sought them, and findeth not.

And she hath said:

I go, and turn back to my first husband,

For better to me than now.

⁸And she knew not that I had given to her

The corn, and the new wine, and the oil;

Silver also I multiplied to her,

And the gold they prepared for Baal.

⁹Therefore I turn back,

And have taken My corn in its season,

And My new wine in its appointed time,

And have taken away My wool,

And My flax, covering her nakedness.

¹⁰And now, I reveal her dishonour

Before the eyes of her lovers,

And none delivereth her out of My hand.

¹¹And I have caused all her joy to cease,

Her festival, her new moon, her sabbath,

Even all her appointed times, [tree,

¹²And made desolate her vine and her fig-

Of which she said, A gift they are to me,

Which my lovers gave to me.

And I have made them become a forest;

And consumed them hath the beast of the field. [of the Baalim,

¹³And I have charged against her the days

To whom she maketh perfume,

And putteth on her ring and her ornament,

And goeth after her lovers,

And Me forgat, affirmeth the LORD.
 14 Therefore, lo, I am enticing her,
 And have caused her to go to the wilder-
 And have spoken to her heart. [ness.
 15 And given to her her vineyards from thence,
 And the valley of Achor for an opening of
 And she hath responded there [hope,
 As in the days of her youth,
 And as in the day of her coming up out of the land of Egypt.
 16 And it hath come to pass, in that day,
 Affirmeth the LORD,
 Thou callest Me, My husband,
 And callest Me not any more My lord.
 17 And I have turned aside the names of the lords from her mouth,
 And they are not remembered any more
 by their name.
 18 And I have made for them a covenant on
 With the beast of the field, [that day,
 And with the fowl of the heavens,
 And the creeping thing of the ground:
 And bow, and sword, and war
 I break from off the land. [silently.
 And have caused them to lie down con-
 19 And have betrothed thee to Me for ever,
 And have betrothed thee to Me in righteousness, [mercies.
 And in judgment, and kindness, and 20 And betrothed thee to Me in faithfulness,
 And thou hast known the LORD.
 21 And it hath come to pass in that day,
 I answer, affirmeth the LORD,
 I answer the heavens,
 And they answer the earth.
 22 And the earth answereth the corn,
 And the new wine, and the oil;
 And they answer Jezreel.
 23 And I have sowed her for Myself in the
 And have pitied Lo-Ruhamah, [land,
 And have said to Lo-Ammi:
 My people thou; and it saith, My God!
 III. 1 AND the LORD saith unto me: 'Again, go, love a woman, loved of a friend, and an adulteress, like the loved of the LORD, the Children of Israel, though they turn unto other gods, and are lovers of grape cakes.' 2 And I buy her to myself for fifteen silverlings, and a homer and a letch of barley; 3 and I say unto her: 'Many days shalt thou remain for Me: thou shalt not go a-whoring, nor become any one's; and I also am for thee.' 4 For many days remain do the Children of Israel without a king, and without a prince, and without a sacrifice, and without a standing-pillar, and without an ephod or teraphim. 5 Afterwards turned back have the Children of Israel, and sought the LORD their God, and David their king, and have hastened unto the LORD, and unto
 His goodness in the latter end of the days.
 IV. 1 HEAR the word of the LORD,
 O Children of Israel,
 For a strife hath the LORD
 With the inhabitants of the land,
 For there is no truth, nor kindness,
 Nor knowledge of God, in the land:
 2 Swearing, and lying, and murdering,
 And stealing, and committing adultery,
 —have increased,

And blood against blood hath touched.
 3 Therefore mourn doth the land,
 And weak is every dweller in it;
 With the beast of the field,
 And with the fowl of the heavens,
 And even with the fishes of the sea
 They are removed.
 4 Only, let no one strive, nor reprove a man:
 And thy people are as those
 Who strive with a priest.
 5 And thou hast stumbled in the day,
 And stumbled hath even a prophet
 With thee in the night,
 And I have cut off thy mother.
 6 Cut off have been My people
 For lack of knowledge:
 Because thou knowledge hast rejected.
 I also reject thee from being My priest:
 And thou forgettest the law of thy God,
 I forget thy children, even I.
 7 According to their abundance
 So have they sinned before Me:
 Their honour into shame I change.
 8 The sin of My people they eat,
 And unto their iniquity lift up their soul.
 9 And it hath come to pass,
 Like people, like priest:
 And I have charged against it its ways,
 And its habitual doings I return to it.
 10 And they have eaten, and are not satisfied:
 Have gone a-whoring, and increase not:
 For they have left off taking heed to the 11 Whoredom, and wine, [LORD.
 And new wine take the heart.
 12 My people ask at its staff,
 And its rod declareth to it:
 For a spirit of whoredoms hath caused to
 And they go a-whoring [err,
 From under their God.
 13 On the tops of mountains they sacrifice,
 And on the hills they make perfume,
 Under oak, and poplar, and terebinth,
 For good is its shade:
 14 Therefore commit fornication
 Do your daughters,
 And your spouses commit adultery:
 I see not after your daughters
 When they commit fornication,
 Or after your spouses
 When they commit adultery, [pared,
 For they themselves with harlots are se-
 And with whores they sacrifice:
 A people which understandeth not kick-
 15 Though a harlot thou art, O Israel, [eth.
 Let not Judah become guilty:
 And come not ye into Gilgal,
 Nor go ye up to Beth-Aven,
 Nor swear ye, The LORD liveth.
 16 For as a refractory heifer
 Israel hath turned aside:
 Now doth the LORD feed them
 As a lamb in a large place.
 17 Joined to idols is Ephraim: let him alone.
 18 Sour is their drink:
 They have gone diligently a-whoring:
 Her protectors loved shame thoroughly.
 19 Distressed her hath wind with its wings,
 And they are ashamed of their sacrifices.
 V. 1 HEAR this, O priests:
 And attend, O house of Israel:
 And, O house of the king, give ear:

For the judgment is for you;
 For, a snare ye have been on Mizpah,
 And a net spread out on Tabor.
 2 And sinners to slaughter have gone deep,
 And I am a fetter to them all.
 3 I have known Ephraim,
 And Israel hath not been hid from me:
 For now—hast thou gone a-whoring, O
 Defiled is Israel. [Ephraim,
 4 They give not up their habitual doings,
 To turn back unto their God: [midst,
 For a spirit of whoredoms is in their
 And the Lord they have not known.
 5 And humbled hath been
 The excellency of Israel to his face:
 And Israel and Ephraim
 Stumble by their iniquity:
 Stumbled also hath Judah with them.
 6 With their flock and with their herd,
 They go to seek the Lord, and find not;
 He hath withdrawn from them.
 7 Against the Lord
 They have dealt treacherously:
 For strange children they have begotten:
 Now consume them
 Doth a month with their portions.
 8 Blow ye a cornet in Gibeah,
 A trumpet in Ramah:
 Shout, O Beth-Aven,
 After thee, O Benjamin.
 9 Ephraim becometh a desolation
 In a day of reproof:
 Among the tribes of Israel
 I have made known a sure thing.
 10 The princes of Judah have been
 As those who remove a border:
 On them I pour out My wrath as water.
 11 Oppressed is Ephraim,
 Broken in judgment:
 When he pleased he went after the com-
 12 And I am as a moth to Ephraim, [mand.
 And as a rotten thing
 To the house of Judah.
 13 And see doth Ephraim his sickness,
 And Judah his wound,
 And Ephraim goeth unto Asshur,
 And sendeth unto a warlike king:
 And he is unable to give healing to you,
 Nor doth he remove from you a scar.
 14 For I am as a lion to Ephraim,
 As a young lion to the house of Judah:
 I—I tear and go; I bear away,
 And there is no deliverer.
 15 I go—I turn back unto My place,
 Till they become desolate,
 And have sought My face:
 In their distress they seek Me speedily.
 VI. 1 COME, and we turn back to the Lord,
 For He hath torn, and He healeth us:
 He smiteth, and He bindeth us up.
 2 He reviveth us after two days:
 On the third day He raiseth us up,
 And we live before Him. [LORD:
 3 And we know—we pursue to know thee
 As the dawn prepared is His going forth;
 And He cometh in as a shower to us,
 As gathered rain, sprinkling the earth.
 4 What shall I do to thee, O Ephraim?
 What shall I do to thee, O Judah?
 Your goodness is as a morning cloud,
 And as dew rising early—going.

5 Therefore have I hewed by the prophets;
 I have slain them by sayings of My mouth:
 And My judgment as light goeth out.
 6 For kindness I have desired, and not
 And the knowledge of God [sacrifice;
 Above burnt-offerings.
 7 They, as Adam, transgressed a covenant,
 There they dealt treacherously against me.
 8 Gilead is a city of workers of iniquity,
 Slippery from blood.
 9 And as bands wait for a man,
 A company of priests do murder,
 The way to Shechem:
 For wickedness they have done.
 10 In the house of Israel
 I have seen a horrible thing:
 There is the whoredom of Ephraim,
 Defiled is Israel.
 11 Also, O Judah, appointed is a harvest for
 In My turning back [thee,
 To the captivity of My people.
 VII. 1 WHEN I give healing to Israel,
 Then revealed is the iniquity of Ephraim,
 And the wickedness of Samaria:
 For they have wrought falsehood:
 Even a thief cometh in;
 Stript off hath a troop in the street:
 2 And they say not to their heart,
 That all their evil I have remembered:
 Now compassed them have their doings:
 Before My face they have been.
 3 With their wickedness
 They make glad the king!
 And with their lies the princes.
 4 All of them are adulterers,
 Like a burning oven of a baker,
 He ceaseth from stirring up
 After kneading the dough, till its leaven-
 5 The day of our king, [ing.
 Princes have polluted themselves
 With the poison of wine:
 He hath drawn out his hand to scornors.
 6 For they have drawn near,
 As an oven is their heart:
 In their lying in wait all the night
 Sleep doth their baker:
 At morning, he burneth as a flaming fire.
 7 All of them are warm as an oven,
 And have devoured their judges:
 All their kings have fallen:
 There is none calling on Me among them.
 8 Ephraim! among the peoples
 He mixeth himself:
 Ephraim hath been a cake unturned.
 9 Devoured have strangers his power,
 And he hath not known;
 Even old age hath sprinkled itself on him,
 And he hath not known.
 10 And humbled hath been
 The excellency of Israel to his face:
 And they have not turned back
 Unto the Lord their God,
 Nor have they sought Him for all this.
 11 Ephraim is as a simple dove without heart:
 Egypt they have called on,
 To Asshur they have gone.
 12 When they go I spread over them My net:
 As the fowl of the heavens
 I bring them down; [heard.
 I chastise them as their congregation hath 13 Wo to them, for they wandered from Me:

Destruction to them,
 For they have transgressed against Me :
 And I—I ransom them,
 And they have spoken lies against Me :
 14 And cried not unto me with their heart,
 But howl on their beds :
 For corn and new wine
 They assemble themselves,
 They turn aside against Me.
 15 And I instructed—I strengthened their
 Yet concerning Me they think evil [arms,
 16 They turn back—not to the Most High :
 They have been as a deceitful bow :
 Fall by the sword do their princes,
 By the insolence of their tongue :
 This their derision in the land of Egypt.
 VIII. ¹ A TRUMPET to thy mouth :
 As an eagle against the LORD's house,
 Because they transgressed My covenant,
 And against My law have rebelled.
 2 To Me they cry, ' My God,
 We, Israel, have known Thee.'
 3 Cast off good hath Israel :
 An enemy pursueth him.
 4 They have made kings, but not by Me ;
 They have made princes,
 But I have not known :
 Their silver and their gold
 They have made to themselves idols,
 So that they are cut off.
 5 Cast off hath thy calf, O Samaria :
 Burned hath Mine anger against them :
 Till when are they incapable of purity ?
 6 For even it is of Israel : an artificer made
 And it is not God : [it ;
 For the calf of Samaria is fragments.
 7 For wind they sow,
 And a hurricane they reap : [grain :
 Stalk it hath none—a shoot not yielding
 If so be it yield—strangers swallow it up.
 Israel hath been swallowed up :
 Now have they been among the nations
 As a vessel in which is no delight.
 8 For they—they have gone up to Asshur :
 A wild ass alone by himself is Ephraim :
 They have hired lovers.
 10 And though they hire among the nations :
 Now do I gather them,
 And they are pained a little,
 From the burden of a king of princes.
 11 Because Ephraim multiplied altars to sin,
 They have been to him altars to sin.
 12 I write for him the numerous things of
 As a strange thing [My law,
 They have been reckoned.
 13 The sacrifice of Mine offerings !
 They sacrifice flesh, and eat ;
 The LORD hath not accepted them :
 Now He remembereth their iniquity,
 And inspecteth their sin :
 They—they turn back to Egypt.
 14 And forget doth Israel his Maker,
 And buildeth temples :
 And Judah multiplied cities of defence :
 And I have sent a fire into his cities,
 And it hath consumed their palaces.
 IX. ¹ REJOICE not, O Israel,
 Be not joyful like the peoples ;
 For thou hast gone a-whoring from thy Thou hast loved a gift [God ;
 Near all floors of corn,

2 Floor and wine-press delight them not,
 And new wine faileth in her,
 3 They abide not in the land of the LORD ;
 And turned back hath Ephraim to Egypt,
 And in Asshur an unclean thing they eat.
 4 They pour not out wine to the LORD,
 Nor are they sweet to Him :
 Their sacrifices are as bread of mourners
 All who eat it are unclean : [to them ;
 For their bread is for themselves,
 It cometh not into the house of the LORD.
 5 What do ye at the day appointed ?
 And at the day of the LORD's festival ?
 6 For, lo, they have gone
 Because of destruction : [them :
 Egypt gathereth them, Memphis burieth
 The desirable things of their silver,
 Nettles possess them :
 The thorn is in their tents.
 7 Come have the days of inspection :
 Come have the days of recompence :
 Israel knoweth : a fool is the prophet,
 Mad is the spiritual man,
 For the abundance of thine iniquity,
 And great is the hatred.
 8 Look doth Ephraim away from My God :
 The prophet ! the snare of a fowler
 Is over all his ways :
 Hatred is in the house of his God.
 9 They have gone deep—done corruptly,
 As in the days of Gibeah :
 He remembereth their iniquity,
 He inspecteth their sins.
 10 As grapes in a wilderness I found Israel :
 As the first-fruit in a fig-tree, at its begin-
 I have seen your fathers, [ning :
 They—they have gone in to Baal-Peor.
 And are separated to that shameful thing,
 And become abominable like their love.
 11 Ephraim is as a fowl :
 Fly away doth their honour,
 Without birth, and without womb,
 And without conception.
 12 For though they nourish their children,
 Yet I have made them childless, without Surely also, wo to them, [man :
 When I turn aside from them.
 13 Ephraim ! when I look to the rock,
 Is planted in comeliness :
 And Ephraim hath to bring out
 Unto the slayer his children.
 14 Give to them, LORD—what wilt Thou give ?
 Give to them a miscarrying womb,
 And dry breasts.
 15 All their wickedness is in Gilgal :
 Surely there have I hated them :
 Because of the wickedness of their doings,
 Out of My house I drive them,
 I continue not to love them :
 All their princes are apostates.
 16 Ephraim hath been smitten,
 Their root hath dried up,
 Fruit they yield not :
 Yea, though they bring forth,
 I have put to death the desired of their

 Because they have not hearkened to Him :
 And they are wanderers among nations.
 X. ¹ AN empty vine is Israel :
 Fruit he maketh like to himself :
 According to the abundance of his fruit

He hath multiplied for the altars;
According to the goodness of his land
They have made goodly standing pillars.
2 Their heart hath been divided:
Now they are guilty:
He breaketh down their altars,
He destroyeth their standing-pillars.
3 For now they say: 'We have no king,
For we have not feared the LORD;
And the king—what doth he for us?'
4 They have spoken words,
Swearing falsehood in making a covenant:
And flourished as a poisonous herb hath
On the furrows of a field. [Judgment,
5 For the calves of Beth-Aven
Fear do the inhabitants of Samaria:
Surely mourned on account of it
Hath its people,
And its priests on account of it leap about,
Because of its honour,
For it hath removed from it.
6 Even it to Asshur is carried,
An offering to a warlike king:
Shame Ephraim receiveth,
And ashamed is Israel of its own counsel.
7 Cut off is Samaria! its king is as a chip
On the face of the waters.
8 And destroyed have been
The high places of Aven, the sin of Israel:
Thorn and bramble go up on their altars;
And they have said to hills, 'Cover us:'
And to heights, 'Fall on us.'
9 From the days of Gibeah
Thou hast sinned, O Israel:
There they have stood:
Not overtake them in Gibeah doth battle,
Because of the children of perverseness.
10 When I desire, then I bind them;
And gathered against them have peoples,
When they bind themselves
To their two iniquities.
11 And Ephraim is a trained helper—loving
And I—I have passed over [to thresh;
On the goodness of its neck:
I cause one to ride Ephraim;
Plough doth Judah,
Harrow for him doth Jacob.
12 Sow for yourselves in righteousness,
Reap according to loving-kindness:
Till for yourselves tillage of knowledge:
By seeking the LORD,
Till He come and shew righteousness to 13 Ye have ploughed wickedness, [you.
Perversity ye have reaped;
Ye have eaten the fruit of lying:
For thou hast trusted in thy way,
In the abundance of thy might.
14 And rise doth a tumult among thy people,
And all thy fortresses are spoiled,
As the spoiling by Shalman of Beth-Arbel,
In the day of battle,
Mother against children dashed in pieces.
15 Thus hath Bethel done to you,
Because of the evil of your wickedness:
In the dawn cut off utterly
Is the king of Israel.
XI. 1 BECAUSE Israel is a youth,
And because I love him,
Out of Egypt I have called for My Son.
2 They have called to them rightly,
They have gone from before them:

To lords they sacrifice,
And to graven images they make perfume.
And I have caused Ephraim to go on foot,
Taking them by their arms;
And they have not known
That I have strengthened them.
3 With the cords of a man I draw them,
With thick cords of love:
I am to them as the raiser up of a yoke
On their jaws,
And I incline towards him—I feed him.
4 He turneth not back to the land of Egypt,
And Asshur—he is his king,
For they have refused to return.
5 Grievous hath been the sword on his cities,
And it hath ended his bars,
And consumed, from their own counsels.
6 And My people hang in suspense
About My returning:
And unto the Most High they call not,
Together they exalt not.
7 How shall I give thee up, O Ephraim?
Shall I deliver thee up, O Israel?
How shall I make thee as Admah?
Shall I set thee as Zeboim?
Turned in Me is My heart,
Kindled together have been My repentings.
8 I execute not the fierceness of Mine anger,
I turn not back to destroy Ephraim:
For God I am, and not man;
In thy midst the Holy One:
And I come not in enmity.
9 After the LORD they go—as a lion He
When He roareth, then tremble [roareth:
Do the children from the west.
10 They tremble as a sparrow out of Egypt,
And as a dove out of the land of Asshur:
And I have caused them
To dwell in their own houses,
Affirmeth the LORD. [raim,

And with deceit the house of Israel:
But Judah again ruleth with God,
And with the Holy Ones is faithful.
XII. 1 EPHRAIM enjoyeth wind,
And pursueth an east wind; [plith;
All the day lying and spoiling he multi-
And a covenant with Asshur they make,
And oil to Egypt is carried.
2 A controversy hath the LORD with Judah,
Laying a charge on Jacob
According to his ways: [him.
According to his doings He returneth to 3 In the womb he took his brother by the
And by his strength [heel,
He was a prince with God:
4 Yea, he is a prince unto the Messenger;
And overcometh by weeping,
And he maketh supplication to Him:
He findeth him at Bethel,
And there He speaketh with us;
5 Even the LORD, God of Hosts,
The LORD is His memorial.
6 And thou, through thy God, dost turn;
Kindness and judgment keep thou,
And wait on thy God continually.
7 Canaan! in his hand balances of deceit!
To oppress he hath loved.
8 And Ephraim saith:
'Surely I have become rich,
I have found wealth for myself;

- All my labours—they find not against me
Iniquity which is sin.
 9 And I—the LORD thy God
From the land of Egypt,
Again I turn thee back unto tents,
As in the days of the appointed time.
 10 And I have spoken unto the prophets.
And I have multiplied visions,
And by the hand of the prophets I use
 11 Surely Gilead & iniquity, [similes.
Only, vanity have they been;
In Gilead bullocks they have sacrificed;
Even their altars are as heaps
On the furrows of the field.
 12 And Jacob fleeth to the country of Aram,
And Israel serveth for a wife,
Yea, for a wife he hath kept watch.
 13 And by a prophet hath the LORD
Brought up Israel out of Egypt,
And by a prophet hath it been watched.
 14 Ephraim hath provoked most bitterly:
And his blood on himself he leaveth,
And his reproach turn back to him
Doth his Lord.
 XIII. 1 WHEN Ephraim speaketh trem-
He hath been lifted up in Israel: [blingly,
When he becometh guilty in Baal he dieth.
 2 And now they continue to sin,
And make to themselves
A molten image of their silver,
By their own understanding idols,
The work of artificers all of it:
Of them they say,
Who are sacrificers among men,
'The calves let them kiss.'
 3 Therefore they are as a morning cloud,
And as dew, rising early, going away:
As chaff tossed about out of the floor,
And as smoke out of the window.
 4 And I am the LORD thy God
From the land of Egypt,
And a God besides Me thou knowest not:
And a Saviour there is none save Me.
 5 I—I have known thee in the wilderness,
In the land of draughts.
 6 According to their feelings so they are
They have been satiated, [satiated:
And their heart is lifted up:
Therefore have they forgotten Me.
 7 And I am to them as a lion:
As a leopard by the way I look out:
 8 I meet them as a bereaved bear,
And I rend the enclosure of their heart.
 9 And I consume them there as a lioness:
The beast of the field rendeth them.
 10 Thou hast destroyed thyself, O Israel:
But in Me is thy help.
Where is thy king now—
That he may save thee in all thy cities?
And thy judges of whom thou didst say:
 'Give to me a king and princes?'
 11 I give to thee a king in Mine anger,
And I take away in My wrath.
 12 Bound up is the iniquity of Ephraim:
Hidden is his sin:
 13 Pangs of a travelling woman come to him:
He is a son not wise:
For he remaineth not the time
For the breaking forth of children.
 14 From the hand of Sheol I ransom them:
From death I redeem them:
Where is thy plague, O death?
Where thy destruction, O Sheol?
Repentance is hid from Mine eyes.
 15 Though he among brethren produce fruit,
Come in doth an east wind,
A wind of the LORD,
From the wilderness it cometh up,
And drieth up his fountain,
And become dry doth his spring:
It—it spoileth the treasure—
Every destruable vessel.
 16 Become desolate doth Samaria:
Because she hath rebelled against her God:
By the sword they fall:
Their sucklings are dashed in pieces,
And its pregnant ones ripped up.
 XIV. 1 TURN back, O Israel,
Unto the LORD thy God:
For thou hast stumbled by thine iniquity.
 2 Take with you words, and turn to the Say ye unto Him. [LORD:
'Take away all iniquity, and give good:
And we render the fruit of our lips.
 3 Asshur doth not save us;
On horses we ride not:
Nor say any more, Our God,
To the work of our hands: [less:
For in Thee find mercy doth the father-
 4 Heal their backsliding, I love them freely:
For turned back hath Mine anger from 5 I am as the dew to Israel: [him.
He flourisheth as the lily,
And striketh forth his roots as Lebanon.
 6 Go on do his sucklings,
And his beauty is as an olive,
And he hath fragrance as Lebanon.
 7 Return do the dwellers under his shadow:
They revive as corn,
And flourish as a vine:
His memorial is as the wine of Lebanon.
 8 O Ephraim, what to Me any more with
I afflicted, and I cause him to sing: [idols:
'I am as a green fir-tree.'
From Me is thy fruit found.
 9 Who is wise, and understandeth these?
Prudent, and knoweth them?
For upright are the ways of the LORD,
And the righteous go on in them,
And the transgressors stumble therein.

JOEL.

CHAP. I. 1 THE word of the LORD, which hath been unto Joel, son of Pethuel:

2 Hear ye this, O aged ones,
Give ear, all ye inhabitants of the land:

Hath this been in your days?

Or in the days of your fathers?

3 Concerning it to your children talk ye,
And your children to their children;

- And their children to another generation.
 4 What is left of the palmerworm,
 Eaten hath the locust;
 And what is left of the locust,
 Eaten hath the cankerworm;
 And what is left of the cankerworm,
 Eaten hath the caterpillar.
 5 Awake, ye drunkards, and weep:
 And howl all ye who drink wine,
 Because of the juice,
 For it hath been cut off from your mouth.
 6 For a nation hath come up on my land,
 Strong, and without number:
 Its teeth are the teeth of a lion;
 And it hath the jaw-teeth of a lioness.
 7 It hath made my vine become a desolation,
 And my fig-tree become a chip: [tion,
 It hath made it thoroughly bare,
 And hath cast down;
 Made white have been its branches.
 8 Wail, as a virgin girdeth with sackcloth,
 For the husband of her youth.
 9 Cut off hath been present and libation
 From the house of the LORD:
 Mourned have the priests,
 The ministers of the LORD.
 10 Spoiled is the field, mourned hath the
 For spoiled is the corn, [ground;
 Dried up hath been the new wine:
 Languish doth the oil.
 11 Be ashamed, O husbandmen:
 Howl, O vine-dressers, for wheat and barley,
 For perished hath the harvest of the field.
 12 The vine hath been dried up,
 And the fig-tree languisheth,
 Pomegranate, also palm, and apple-tree:
 All the trees of the field have withered:
 For dried up hath been joy from the sons
 13 Gird, and lament, O priests: [of men.
 Howl, O ministers of the altar:
 Come in, lodge in sackcloth,
 O ministers of my God;
 For withheld from the house of your God
 Hath been present and libation.
 14 Sanctify a fast, proclaim a restraint;
 Gather the elders,
 All the inhabitants of the land,
 Into the house of the LORD your God,
 15 And cry unto the LORD: 'Alas for the day!
 For near is a day of the LORD,
 As destruction from the Mighty it cometh.
 16 Is not before our eyes food cut off?
 From the house of our God joy and rejoicing?

 Desolated have been store-houses, [cloths;
 Broken down have been granaries,
 For withered hath the corn.
 18 How have cattle sighed!
 Perplexed have been droves of oxen:
 For there is no pasture for them;
 Yea, droves of sheep have been desolated.
 19 Unto Thee, O LORD, I cry:
 For fire hath consumed the comely places of the wilderness, [of the field.
 And a flame hath set on fire all the trees
 20 Even the cattle of the field long for Thee,
 For dried up have been the streams of water: [of the wilderness.
 And fire hath consumed the comely places
 II. 1 BLOW ye a trumpet in Zion,
 And shout ye in My holy hill:
 Tremble let all the inhabitants of earth:
 For come doth the day of the LORD;
 For it is near!
 2 A day of darkness and thick darkness,
 A day of cloud and thick darkness;
 As darkness spread on the mountains:
 A people numerous and mighty:
 Like it there hath not been from of old,
 And after it there is not again
 Till the years of many generations.
 3 Before it consumed hath fire;
 And after it burn doth a flame:
 As the garden of Eden is the land before it,
 And after it a wilderness—a desolation;
 And also, an escape there hath been none
 from it.
 4 As the appearance of horses is its appear-
 And as horsemen, so they run; [ance;
 5 As the noise of chariots
 On the tops of mountains they skip:
 As the noise of a flame of fire devouring stubble;
 As a mighty people set in battle array.
 6 From its presence pained are the peoples:
 All faces have gathered paleness.
 7 As mighty ones they run,
 As men of war they go up a wall;
 And each in his own ways they go on,
 And they embarrass not their paths.
 8 And each his brother they press not:
 Each in his way they go on:
 If by the missile they fall, they are not cut
 9 In the city they run to and fro; [off.
 On the wall they run,
 Into houses they go up by the windows,
 They go in as a thief.
 10 At their presence trembled hath earth;
 Shaken have the heavens:
 Sun and moon have been black,
 And stars have lost their shining.
 11 And the LORD hath given forth His voice
 Before His forces:
 For very great is His camp:
 For mighty is the doer of His word:
 For great is the day of the LORD, and very
 And who shall bear it? [fearful,
 12 And even now, affirmeth the LORD,
 Turn back unto Me with all your heart,
 And with fasting, and with weeping,
 And with lamentation:
 13 And rend your hearts, not your garments.
 And turn back unto the LORD your God:
 For gracious and merciful is He,
 Slow to anger, and great in kindness,
 And hath repented concerning the evil.
 14 Who knoweth—He turneth back,
 Yea—hath repented,
 And hath left behind Him a blessing:
 A present and libation of the LORD your

'Have pity, O LORD, on Thy people,
Give not up Thine inheritance to reproach,
To the ruling over them of nations:
Why do they say among the peoples,
Where is their God?
15 And let the LORD be zealous for His land,
And have pity on His people.
16 Let the LORD answer and say to His people,
'Lo, I am sending to you the corn,
And the new wine, and the oil,
And ye have been satisfied with it:
And I make you no more a reproach
among the nations.
20 And the northern I put far off from you,
And have driven him unto a land,
Dry and desolate,
With his face unto the eastern sea,
And his rear unto the western sea,
And come up hath his stink,
And come up doth his stench,
For He hath exerted himself to work.
21 Fear not, O land! joy and rejoice:
For the LORD hath exerted Himself to 22 Fear not, O cattle of the field! [work.
For sprung forth have the pastures of the wilderness:
For the tree hath borne its fruit,
Fig-tree and vine given their strength!

Joy and rejoice in the LORD your God:
For He hath given to you the Teacher for 25 And I have recompensed to you the years

Which consumed hath the locust,
The cankerworm, and the caterpillar,
And the palmerworm,
My great force which I sent against you.
26 And ye have eaten—eating and being satisfied, [your God,
And have praised the name of the LORD
Who hath dealt with you wonderfully:
And not ashamed are My people for ever.
27 And ye have known
That in the midst of Israel am I,
And I am the LORD your God,
And there is none else;
And not ashamed are My people for ever.
28 And it hath come to pass afterwards,
I pour out My Spirit on all flesh:
And prophesied have your sons and your
Your old men dream dreams, [daughters,
Your young men see visions.
29 And also on the men-servants,
And on the maid-servants,
In these days I pour out My Spirit.
30 And I have given wonders
In the heaven, and in the earth,
Blood and fire, and columns of smoke.
31 The sun is turned to darkness,
And the moon to blood,
Before the coming of the day of the LORD,
The great and the fearful.
32 And it hath come to pass,
Every one who calleth on the name of the LORD is delivered:

For in mount Zion and in Jerusalem there
As the LORD hath said, [is an escape,
Even among the remnants whom the LORD is calling.

III. 1 FOR lo, in those days, and in that time,
When I turn back to the captivity of Judah and Jerusalem,

2 And have gathered all the nations,
And caused them to go down
Unto the valley of Jehoshaphat,
Then have I been judged with them there,
Concerning My people,
And Mine inheritance—Israel,
Whom they scattered among the nations,
And My land they have appropriated.
3 And for My people they cast lots:
And give the young man for an harlot;
And the young woman have sold for wine,
That they may drink.

4 And, also, what are ye to Me,
O Tyre and Zidon,
And all the circuits of Philistia?
Recompence do you render unto Me?
And if ye give recompence to Me,
Swiftly, hastily, I turn back your recompence on your own head.

5 Because My silver and gold ye have taken,
And My desirable things, which are good,
Ye have brought into your temples.

6 And the Children of Judah,
And the Children of Jerusalem,
Ye have sold to the Children of Javan,
To put them far off from their own border.

7 Lo, I am stirring them up out of the place
Whither ye have sold them;
And I have turned back your recompence
on your own head:

8 And sold your sons and your daughters
Into the hand of the Children of Judah;
And they have sold them to Sabeaus,
Unto a nation far off:
For the LORD hath spoken.

9 Proclaim ye this among the nations:
Sanctify a war, stir up the mighty ones:
Come nigh, come up let all the men of war.

10 Beat your ploughshares to swords,
And your pruning-hooks to javelins:
Let the weak say 'I am mighty.'

11 Haste and come in all nations round,
And be gathered together:
Thither cause to come down, O LORD,
Thy mighty ones.

12 Wake and come up let the nations
Unto the valley of Jehoshaphat:
For there I sit to judge all the nations

13 Send ye forth a sickle, [around.
For the harvest hath ripened:
Come in—come down,
For filled hath been the press:
Overflowed have the wine-presses:
For great is their wickedness.

14 Multitudes, multitudes, are in the valley of decision:
For near is the day of the LORD
In the valley of decision.

15 Sun and moon have been black,
And stars have lost their shining.

16 And the LORD from Zion roareth,
And from Jerusalem giveth forth His voice,
And shaken have heaven and earth:
And the LORD is a refuge to His people,

And a stronghold to the Children of Israel.
 17 And ye have known that I am the LORD
 Dwelling in Zion, My holy mountain,
 And Jerusalem hath been holy,
 And strangers pass not over into it again.
 18 And it hath come to pass in that day,
 Drop down do the mountains juice,
 And the hills flow with milk; (water:
 And all the streams of Judah flow with
 And a fountain from the house of the LORD goeth out,

And hath watered the valley of Shittim.
 19 Egypt a desolation hecometh,
 And Edom a desolation, a wilderness, be-cometh,
 For violence to the Children of Judah,
 Whose innocent blood they shed in their land.
 20 And Judah for ever dwelleth,
 And Jerusalem to many generations.
 21 And I have declared their blood innocent,
 Which I did not declare innocent:
 And the LORD dwelleth in Zion

AMOS.

CHAP. I. THE words of Amos, (who hath been among the herdsmen of Tekoa,) which he hath seen concerning Israel, in the days of Uzziah king of Judah, and in the days of Jeroboam son of Joash king of Israel, two years before the earthquake.

2 And he said:

The LORD from Zion roareth,
 And from Jerusalem giveth forth His voice;
 And mourned have the pastures of the shepherds,

And withered the top of Carmel.

3 Thus said the LORD:

For three transgressions of Damascus.

And for four, I reverse it not:

Because of their threshing Gilead

With sharp-pointed irons,

4 I have also sent a fire

Against the house of Hazael,

And it hath consumed

The palaces of Ben-Hadad.

And cut off the inhabitant from Bikat-

Because of his pursuing

And he hath destroyed his mercies,

And tear perpetually doth his anger,

And his wrath—he hath kept it for ever,

12 I have also sent a fire against Teman,

And it hath consumed palaces of Bozrah.

13 Thus said the LORD:

For three transgressions

Of the children of Ammon,

And for four, I reverse it not;

Because of their ripping up

The pregnant ones of Gilead,

To enlarge their border,

14 I have also kindled a fire

Against the wall of Rabbah,

And it hath consumed her palaces,

With a shout in a day of battle,

With a whirlwind in a day of a hurricane:

15 And gone hath their king into captivity,

He and his princes together, said the LORD.

II. 1 THUS said the LORD:

For three transgressions of Moab,

And for four, I reverse it not;

Because of his burning the bones

Of the king of Edom to lime,

2 I have also sent a fire against Moab,

And it hath consumed

The palaces of Kerioth:

And dead with noise is Moab,

With shouting, with voice of a trumpet:

Whose height is as the height of cedars,
And strong he is as the oaks;
And I destroy his fruit from above,
And his roots from beneath.
- And I—I have brought you up from the land of Egypt, [forty years,
And cause you to go in the wilderness
To possess the land of the Amorite.
- And I raise of your children for prophets,
And of your choice ones for Nazarites:
Is this not true, O Children of Israel,
Affirmeth the LORD.
- And ye cause the Nazarites to drink wine,
And on the prophets ye have laid a charge,
Saying, 'Prophecy not.'
- Lo, I am pressing you under,
As the full cart presseth for itself a sheaf.
- And perished hath refuge from the swift,
The strong strengtheneth not his power,
And the mighty delivereth not his soul.

And the swift with his feet delivereth not himself: [his soul.
And the rider of the horse delivereth not

- III. HEAR ye this word which the LORD hath spoken concerning you, O Children of Israel, concerning all the family which I brought up from the land of Egypt, saying:
- Only you have I known
Of all the families of the land: [iniquities.
Therefore I charge against you all your

Doth a snare go up from the ground,

The LORD Jehovah hath spoken—
Who doth not prophesy?

And unto the palaces in the land of Egypt,
And say ye:
Be ye gathered on mountains of Samaria;
And see many troubles within her,
And oppressed ones in her midst.

- Therefore, thus said the Lord Jehovah:

And hath brought down from thee thy

And spoiled have been thy palaces.
- Thus said the LORD:
As the shepherd delivereth from the lion's

So delivered are the Children of Israel,
Who sit in Samaria on the corner of a bed,
And in Damascus on that of a couch.

Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah, God of Hosts.

I have laid a charge against the altars of

With the summer-house:
Perished have the houses of ivory;
And consumed have been many houses,
Affirmeth the LORD.
- IV. HEAR ye this word, O kine of Bashan,
Who are in the mountain of Samaria,
Who are oppressing the poor,
Who are bruising the needy,
Who are saying to their masters:
'Bring in, and let us drink.' [holiness,
Sworn hath the Lord Jehovah by His
That lo, days are coming upon you,
And he hath taken you away with hooks,
And your posterity with fish-hooks.
- And by breaches ye go out,
Each at that over-against him:
And ye have cast down the high place,
Affirmeth the LORD.
- Enter Beth-El, and transgress,
At Gilgal multiply transgression:
And bring every morning your sacrifices,
Every third year your tithes,
- And perfume with leaven a thank-offering,
And proclaim willing gifts: sound ye!
For so have ye loved, O Children of Israel,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah.
- And I also—I have given to you cleanness
In all your cities, [of teeth
And lack of bread in all your places:
And ye have not turned back unto Me,
Affirmeth the LORD. [rain.
- I have withheld from you the
While yet three months to the harvest:
And I have sent rain on one city,
And on another city I send no rain:
One portion is rained on, [withereh,
And the portion on which it raineth not
- And wandered have two or three cities
To the same city to drink water,
And are not satisfied:
And ye have not turned back unto Me,
Affirmeth the LORD.
- I have smitten you with blasting and with
The abundance of your gardens, [mildew,
And of your vineyards,
And of your figs, and of your olives,
Eat doth the palmerworm:
And ye have not turned back unto Me,
Affirmeth the LORD.

- ¹⁰ I have sent among you pestilence
By the way of Egypt:
I have slain by the sword your choice ones
With your captive horses;
And I cause the stink of your camps
To come up even into your nostrils;
And ye have not turned back unto Me,
Affirmeth the LORD.
- ¹¹ I have overturned among you,
Like the overturn by God of Sodom and Gomorrhah: [burning:
And ye are as a brand delivered from the
And ye have not turned back unto Me,
Affirmeth the LORD.
- ¹² Therefore, thus I do to thee, O Israel, at Because this I do to thee, [last:
Prepare to meet thy God, O Israel.
- ¹³ For lo, He formeth mountains,
And createth wind:
And declareth to man what is His thought;
He maketh dawn obscurity,
And treadeth on the high places of earth:
The LORD, God of Hosts is His name:
- V. ¹ HEAR ye this word which I bear unto
A lamentation, O house of Israel: [you,
² Fallen, not again to rise,
Hath the virgin of Israel:
Left on her hand, she hath no raiser up.
³ For thus said the Lord Jehovah:
The city which goeth out a thousand,
Leaveth an hundred:
And that which goeth out an hundred,
Leaveth ten—to the house of Israel.
- ⁴ For thus said the LORD to the house of Seek ye Me, and live; [Israel:
⁵ And seek not Beth-El, and Gilgal enternot,
And Beer-Sheba pass not through;
For Gilgal utterly removeth,
And Beth-El becometh vaulty.
- ⁶ Seek ye the LORD, and live,
Lest He prosper as fire
Against the house of Joseph;
And it hath consumed,
And there be no quencher for Beth-El.
- ⁷ O ye who turn to wormwood judgment,
Who righteousness to the earth have put
⁸ He maketh Kimah and Kesil, [down,
And turneth to morning death-shade;
And day as night He maketh dark:
He calleth to the waters of the sea,
And poureth them on the face of the earth:
The LORD is His name:
- ⁹ Who brighteneth up the spoiled against the strong,
And the spoiled against a fortress cometh.
- ¹⁰ They have hated a reprove in the gate,
And a plain speaker they abominate.
- ¹¹ Therefore, because of your trampling on the poor,
And the tribute of corn ye take from him;
Houses of hewn stone ye have built,
But ye dwell not in them:
Desirable vineyards ye have planted,
But ye drink not their wine.
- ¹² For I have known—many your transgres-
And mighty your sins: [sions,
Adversaries of the righteous one,
Taking ransoms,
And the needy ye turned aside in the gate.
- ¹³ Therefore, the wise at that time is silent,
For an evil time it is.

- ¹⁴ Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live,
And it shall be so:
The LORD, God of Hosts, is with you, as ye
[said.
¹⁵ Hate evil, and love good,
And set up judgment in the gate:
It may be the LORD, God of Hosts,
Will pity the remnant of Joseph.
- ¹⁶ Therefore, thus said the LORD, God of Hosts, the LORD:
In all broad places is lamentation,
And in all out-places they say, 'Alas, alas'
And they called the husbandman to mourning,
And the skilful of walling to lamentation.
- ¹⁷ And in all vineyards is lamentation:
For I pass into thy midst, said the LORD.
- ¹⁸ Ho, ye who desire the day of the LORD,
Why is this to you? [light,
The day of the LORD is darkness, and not
¹⁹ As when one fleeth from the face of a lion,
And a bear hath met him:
And he cometh into the house,
And hath leant his hand on the wall,
And a serpent hath bitten him.
- ²⁰ Is not the day of the LORD darkness, and Even thick darkness, [not light,
Which hath no brightness?
- ²¹ I have hated,—loathed your festivals:
Nor am I refreshed by your restraints.
- ²² For though ye cause burnt-offerings and presents to ascend to Me,
I am not pleased; [behold not.
And the peace-offering of your fatlings I
- ²³ Turn aside from Me the noise of thy songs,
Yea, the praise of thy psaltery I hear not.
- ²⁴ And let judgment roll on as waters,
And righteousness as a perennial stream.
- ²⁵ Sacrifices and offerings did ye bring near
In the wilderness forty years, [to Me,
O house of Israel?
- ²⁶ Yet ye bare Succoth your king,
And Chion your images:
The star of your god,
Which ye made for yourselves.
- ²⁷ And I removed you beyond Damascus,
Said the LORD: God of Hosts is His name.
- VI. ¹ WO to those secure in Zion, [Samaria:
And to those confident in the mount of

And come to them hath the house of Is-
² Pass ye over to Calneh and see; [rael.
And go from thence to Hamath the great:
And go down to Gath of the Philistines:
Are they better than these kingdoms?
Or greater their border than your border?
- ³ Who are putting away the day of evil,
And ye bring nigh the seat of violence;
- ⁴ Who are lying on beds of ivory,
And are spread out on their couches,
And are eating lambs from the flock,
And calves from the midst of the stall:
- ⁵ Who are taking part according to the psaltery: [selves
Like David, they are inventing for them-
Instruments of music:
- ⁶ Who are drinking with bowls of wine,
And with chief perfumes anoint themselves;
And have not been pained
For the breach of Joseph.
- ⁷ Therefore, now they remove
At the head of the captives,

And turned aside is the mourning-feast
Of the stretched-out ones.

⁸ Sworn hath the Lord Jehovah by Himself,
Affirmeth the LORD, God of Hosts:
I abominate the excellency of Jacob,
And his high places I have hated:
And I have delivered up the city and its fulness. [house,

⁹ And if there be left ten persons in one
It hath come to pass that they have died.

¹⁰ And lifted him up hath his loved one,
Even his burner,
To bring out the bones from the house;
And he hath said to him
Who is in the sides of the house,
'Is there any yet with thee?'
And he hath said, 'None.'
Then hath he said, 'Hush!
Save to make mention of the name of the LORD.' [LORD.]

¹¹ For lo, the LORD willeth,
And hath smitten the great house with
And the little house with clefts. [breaches,

¹² Do horses run on a rock?
Doth one plough it with oxen?
For ye have turned judgment to gall,
The fruit of righteousness to wormwood.

¹³ O ye who rejoice at nothing,
Who say, 'Have we not by our strength
Taken to ourselves horns?'

¹⁴ Surely, lo, I raise up against you a nation,
O house of Israel,
Affirmeth the LORD, God of Hosts;
And they have oppressed you
From the coming in to Hamath,
Unto the stream of the desert.

VII. 1 THUS hath the Lord Jehovah shewed me, and lo, He is forming locusts at the beginning of the ascending of the latter growth, and lo, the latter growth is after the mowings of the king. ² And it hath come to pass, when it hath finished consuming
the herb of the land, that I say:
'Lord Jehovah, forgive, I pray Thee;
How shall Jacob arise, for he is small?'

³ The LORD hath repented of this;
'It shall not be,' said the LORD.

⁴ Thus hath the Lord Jehovah shewed me:
and lo, the Lord Jehovah is calling to contend by fire, and it consumeth the great deep, yea, it hath consumed the portion.
And I said:
Lord Jehovah, cease, I pray Thee;
How shall Jacob arise, for he is small?'

⁶ The LORD hath repented of this;
'It also shall not be,'
Said the Lord Jehovah.

⁷ Thus hath He shewed me; and lo, the Lord standing by a wall made according to a plumb-line, and in his hand a plumb-line.

⁸ And the LORD saith unto me, 'What seest thou, Amos?' And I say, 'A plumb-line.'
And the Lord saith:
'Lo, I am setting a plumb-line
In the midst of My people Israel;
I continue not any more to pass over to it.
And desolated have been the high places
of Isaac,
And the sanctuaries of Israel are wasted,
And I have risen against the house of Jeroboam with a sword.'

¹⁰ And Amaziah priest of Beth-El sendeth unto Jeroboam king of Israel, saying,

'Amos hath conspired against thee in the midst of the house of Israel; the land is not able to bear all his words; ¹¹ for thus said
Amos:

By the sword die doth Jeroboam,
And Israel certainly removeth
From off its own land.'

¹² And Amaziah saith unto Amos, 'Seer, go flee for thyself unto the land of Judah, and eat there bread, and there shalt thou prophesy.'
¹³ And at Beth-El continue not to prophesy any more, for it is the king's sanctuary, and it is the royal house.'

¹⁴ And Amos answereth and saith unto Amaziah, 'I am no prophet, nor a prophet's son am I; but a herdsman I am, and a cultivator of sycamores; ¹⁵ and the LORD taketh me from after the flock, and the LORD saith unto me, Go, prophesy unto My people Israel. ¹⁶ And now, hear the word of the LORD: thou art saying, Prophesy not against Israel, nor drop any thing against the house of Isaac; ¹⁷ therefore, thus said
the LORD:

Thy wife in the city goeth a-whoring,
And thy sons and thy daughters
By a sword do fall:
And thy land by line is apportioned;
And thou on an unclean land diest;
And Israel certainly removeth
From off its own land.'

VIII. 1 THUS hath the Lord Jehovah shewed me; and, lo, a basket of summer-fruit.

² And He saith, 'What seest thou, Amos?'

And I say, 'A basket of summer-fruit.'
And the LORD saith unto me:
'The cup hath come to My people Israel;
I continue not any more to pass over to it.'

³ And howl have the songstresses of the palace in that day,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah;

Many are the carcases;
Into any place throw—hush!

⁴ Hear this, ye who swallow up the needy,
To cause to cease the poor of the land:

⁵ Saying, 'When shall the new moon pass,
That we may sell ground corn?

And the sabbath, that we may open out
To make little the ephah, [pure corn?
And to make great the shekel;

⁶ And to use perversely balances of deceit.
⁷ To purchase with money the poor,
And the needy for a pair of sandals:

Yea, the refuse of the pure corn we sell.'

⁸ Sworn hath the LORD
By the excellency of Jacob:

'I forget not for ever any of their works.
⁹ For this doth not the land tremble,
And mourned hath every dweller in it?

And come up as a flood hath all of it.
And it hath been cast out, and hath sunk,
Like the flood of Egypt.

¹⁰ And it hath come to pass in that day,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah,

I have caused the sun to go in at noon,
And caused darkness on the land
In a day of light,

¹¹ And turned your festivals to mourning,
And all your songs to lamentation; [joins,
And caused sackcloth to come up on all

- And on every head baldness;
And made it as a mourning of an only one,
And its latter end as a day of bitterness.
- ¹¹ Lo, days are coming,
Affirmeth the Lord Jehovah,
And I have sent a famine into the land;
Not a famine of bread,
Nor a thirst of water;
But of hearing the words of the Lord.
- ¹² And they have wandered from sea to sea,
And from the north even unto the east,
They go to and fro to seek the word of the Lord,
But they find not. (LORD,
- ¹³ In that day faint do the fair virgins,
And the young men, with thirst.
- ¹⁴ They who swear by the guilt of Samaria,
And have said,
'Live doth thy god, O Dan;
And 'Live doth the way of Bear-Sheba.'
And they have fallen, and rise not again.'
- IX. ¹ I HAVE seen the LORD standing by the altar, and He saith:
'Smite the knob,
And let the thresholds shake;
And cut them off by the head, all of them:
And their posterity with the sword I slay:
Not flee to them doth the flier,
Nor escape to them doth the fugitive.
- ² If they dig through into Sheol,
From thence My hand taketh them;
And if they go up the heavens,
From thence I cause them to come down;
- ³ And if they be hidden in the top of Carmel,
From thence I search out,
And have taken them;
And if they be hid from Mine eyes
In the bottom of the sea,
From thence I command the serpent,
And he hath bitten them:
- ⁴ And if they go into captivity
Before their enemies,
From thence I command the sword,
And it hath slain them:
And I have set Mine eye on them for evil,
And not for good.
- ⁵ And it is the Lord, Jehovah of Hosts,
Who striketh against the land,
And it melteth,
And mourned have all its inhabitants,
And come up as a flood hath all of it;
And it hath sunk, like the flood of Egypt.
- ⁶ Who buildeth in the heavens His upper
As to His troop: (chambers;

- Upon the earth He hath founded it;
Who calleth for the waters of the sea,
And poureth them out on the land:
The LORD is His name. [Me ?
- ⁷ As children of the Cushim are ye not to O Children of Israel, affirmeth the LORD.
Israel did I not bring up
Out of the land of Egypt?
And the Philistines from Caphtor,
And Aram from Kir?
- ⁸ Lo, the eyes of the Lord Jehovah
Are on the sinful kingdom,
And I have destroyed it
From off the face of the ground;
Only, I destroy not utterly the house of Affirmeth the LORD. (Jacob,
- ⁹ For lo, I am commanding,
And have shaken among all the nations
The house of Israel:
As one shaketh with a sieve,
And there falleth not a grain to the earth.
- ¹⁰ By sword all the sinners of My people die,
Who are saying:
'Not overtake, or go before,
For our sakes, shall evil.'
- ¹¹ In that day I raise the tabernacle of David,
Which is fallen,
And have repaired their breaches:
And its ruins I raise up,
And have built it up as the days of old:
- ¹² So that they possess the remnant of Edom,
And all the nations
On whom My name is called,
Affirmeth the LORD, the doer of this.
- ¹³ Lo, days are coming, affirmeth the LORD,
And come nigh hath the ploughman to the
And the treader of grapes [reaper,
To the scatterer of seed;
And the mountains have dropt juice,
And all the hills do melt.
- ¹⁴ And I have turned back
To the captivity of My people Israel,
And they have built desolate cities, and inhabited;
And have planted vineyards,
And drunk their wine;
And made gardens, and eaten their fruit.
- ¹⁵ And I have planted them
On their own ground;
And they are not plucked up any more
From off their own ground
Which I have given to them,
Said the LORD thy God.

OBADIAH.

A VISION OF OBADIAH.

- ¹ Thus hath the Lord Jehovah said to Edom:
A report we have heard from the LORD,
And an ambassador among the nations
Hath been sent,
'Rise, yea, let us rise against her for battle.'
- ² Lo, little I have made thee among nations:
Despised thou art exceedingly.
- ³ The pride of thy heart hath lifted thee
O dweller in the cliffs of a rock, [up,
(A high place is his habitation;

- He saith in his heart,
'Who doth bring me down to earth?')
- ⁴ If thou goest up high as the eagle,
And if between stars thou set thy nest,
From thence I bring thee down,
Affirmeth the LORD.
- ⁵ If thieves have come in to thee,
If spoilers of the night,
How hast thou been cut off!
Do they not steal their sufficiency?
If gatherers have come in to thee,
Said the LORD thy God.

- Do they not leave gleanings?
 * How hath Esau been searched out!
 His hidden things have flowed out.
 7 Unto the border sent thee
 Have all thine allies;
 Forgotten thee, prevailed over thee,
 Have thy friends;
 Thy bread they make a snare for thee:
 There is no understanding in him!
 * Is it not in that day, affirmeth the LORD,
 I have destroyed the wise out of Edom,
 And understanding
 Out of the mount of Esau?
 * And broken down have been thy mighty ones, O Teman,
 So that every one of the mount of Esau is 10 —For slaughter, for violence [cut off.
 To thy brother Jacob,
 Cover thee doth shame,
 And thou hast been cut off for ever.
 11 In the day of thy standing over-against,
 In the day of strangers
 Taking captive his force,
 And foreigners have entered his gates,
 And for Jerusalem have cast lots,
 * Even thou art as one of them!
 12 —But, thou shalt not look
 On the day of thy brother,
 On the day of his alienation;
 Nor shalt thou rejoice over the children of
 In the day of their destruction: [Judah
 Nor make great thy mouth
 In the day of distress.
 13 Nor come into a gate of My people
 In the day of their calamity:
 Nor look, even thou, on its misfortune
 In the day of its calamity:
 Nor send out against its force
- In the day of its calamity;
 14 Nor stand by the breach to cut off its Nor deliver up its remnant [escaped;
 In the day of distress.
 15 For near is the day of the LORD
 On all the nations;
 As thou hast done, it is done to thee,
 Thy deed turneth back on thine own head.
 16 For as ye have drunk on My holy mount,
 Drink do all the nations continually,
 And they have drunk and swallowed,
 And have been as they have not been.
 17 And on mount Zion there is an escape,
 And it hath been holy:
 And the house of Jacob
 Have possessed their possessions.
 18 And the house of Jacob hath been a fire,
 And the house of Joseph a flame,
 And the house of Esau for stubble,
 And they have burned among them,
 And have consumed them;
 And there is not a remnant to the house
 For the LORD hath spoken. [of Esau,
 19 And they have possessed the south
 With the mountain of Esau:
 And the low country with the Philistines;
 And they have possessed the field of Eph-
 And the field of Samaria: [raim,
 And Benjamin with Gilead.
 20 And the captivity of this force
 Of the Children of Israel,
 Which is with the Canaanites to Zaraphat,
 And the captivity of Jerusalem
 Which is with the Sepharad,
 Possess the cities of the south.
 21 And saviours have gone up mount Zion
 To judge the mount of Esau:
 And the kingdom hath become the LORD's.

JONAH.

CHAP. I. 1 AND the word of the LORD is unto Jonah son of Amittai, saying: 2 'Rise, go unto Nineveh, the great city, and proclaim unto it that their wickedness hath come up before Me.'

* And Jonah riseth to flee to Tarshish from the presence of the LORD, and goeth down to Joppa, and findeth a ship going to Tarshish, and giveth its fare, and goeth down into it, to go with them to Tarshish from the presence of the LORD.

* And the LORD hath cast a great wind on the sea, and there is a great tempest in the sea, and the ship hath reckoned on being broken. 4 And the mariners are afraid, and cry each unto his god, and cast the goods which are in the ship into the sea, to make it light of them; and Jonah hath gone down unto the sides of the vessel, and lieth down, and is fast asleep. 6 And the chief of the company draweth near to him, and saith to him, 'What—to thee, O sleeper? rise, call unto thy God; it may be God will bethink Himself of us, and we perish not.'

7 And they say each unto his neighbour, 'Come, and let us cast lots, and let us know on whose account this evil is on us.' And they cast lots, and the lot falleth on Jonah.

* And they say unto him, 'Declare to us, we pray thee, on what account this evil is on us? what is thine occupation, and whence comest thou? what is thy country, seeing thou art not of this people?' 9 And he saith unto them, 'A Hebrew I am: and the LORD, God of heaven, I reverence, who made the sea and the dry land.'

10 And the men fear a great fear, and say unto him, 'What is this thou hast done!' for the men have known that he is fleeing from the presence of the LORD, for he hath told them. 11 And they say unto him, 'What shall we do to thee that the sea may cease from us, for the sea is more and more tempestuous?' 12 And he saith unto them, 'Lift me up, and cast me into the sea, and the sea shall cease from you: for I know that on my account this great tempest is upon you.'

13 And the men row to turn back unto the dry land, and are not able: for the sea is more and more tempestuous against them.

14 And they cry unto the LORD, and say:

'We pray Thee, O LORD, let us not, we pray thee, perish for this man's life, and lay not on us innocent blood: for Thou, LORD, as Thou hast pleased, Thou hast done.' ¹²And they lift up Jonah, and cast him into the sea: and the sea ceaseth from its raging. ¹³And the men fear the LORD—a great fear, and sacrifice a sacrifice to the LORD, and vow vows.

¹⁴And the LORD appointeth a great fish to swallow up Jonah, and Jonah is in the bowels of the fish three days and three nights.

II. ¹AND Jonah prayeth unto the LORD his God from the bowels of the fish.

²And he saith:

I called, because of my distress to the LORD,
And He answereth me;
From the belly of Sheol I cried:
Thou hast heard my voice.

³When Thou dost cast me into the deep,
Into the heart of the seas,
Then the flood doth compass me,
All Thy breakers and Thy billows
Have passed over me.

⁴And I—I said: 'I have been cast out
From before Thine eyes;
(Yet I continue to look Toward Thy holy temple.)

⁵Compass me have the waters to the soul,
The deep doth compass me,
The weed is bound to my head.

⁶To the cuttings of the mountains
I have come down:
'The earth, her bars are behind me for ever.'
But Thou bringest up from the pit my life,
O LORD my God.

⁷In the feebleness of my soul within me
The LORD I have remembered:
And come in unto Thee doth my prayer,
Unto Thy holy temple.

⁸Those who observe lying vanities
Their own mercy forsake.

⁹But I—with the voice of thanksgiving—
I sacrifice to thee;
That which I vowed I complete:
Salvation is of the LORD.

¹⁰And the LORD speaketh to the fish, and it vomiteth out Jonah upon the dry land.

III. ¹AND the word of the LORD is unto Jonah a second time, saying, ²'Rise, go unto Nineveh, the great city, and proclaim unto it the proclamation which I speak unto thee.' ³And Jonah riseth, and goeth unto Nineveh, according to the word of LORD. And Nineveh hath been a great city before God, a journey of three days. ⁴And Jonah beginneth to go into the city a journey of one day, and proclaimeth, and saith, 'Yet forty days, and Nineveh is overthrown.'

⁵And the men of Nineveh believe in God, and proclaim a fast, and put on sackcloth, from their greatest even unto their least: ⁶seeing the word cometh unto the king of Nineveh, and he riseth from his throne, and removeth his honourable robe from off him, and spreadeth out sackcloth, and sitteth on the ashes: ⁷and he proclaimeth and commandeth in Nineveh by the decree of the king and his great ones, saying, 'Man or beast, herd or flock—let them not taste anything: let them not feed, even water let them not drink: ⁸and cover themselves with sackcloth let man and beast, and let them cry unto God mightily: and let them turn back each from his evil way, and from the violence that is in their hands. ⁹Who knoweth? He may turn back; when God hath repented, then hath He turned back from the heat of His anger, and we perish not.' ¹⁰And God seeth their works, that they have turned back from their evil way; and God repenteth concerning the evil which He spake of doing to them; and he hath not done it.

IV. ¹AND it is grievous unto Jonah—a great evil—and he is displeased at it. ²And he prayeth unto the LORD, and saith, 'I pray Thee, O LORD, is not this my word while I was in mine own land, (therefore I was beforehand in fleeing to Tarshish,) that I have known that Thou art a God, gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and abundant in kindness, and repenting concerning evil? ³And now, O LORD, take, I pray Thee, my soul from me: for better is my death than my life.' ⁴And the LORD saith, 'Is doing good displeasing to thee?'

⁵And Jonah goeth out of the city, and sitteth at the east of the city, and maketh to himself there a booth, and sitteth under it, in the shade, till he see what shall be in the city. ⁶And the LORD God appointeth a gourd, and causeth it to come up over Jonah, to be a shade over his head, to give deliverance to him from his affliction; and Jonah rejoiceth because of the gourd with great joy.

⁷And God appointeth a worm at the going up of the dawn on the morrow, and it smiteth the gourd, and it drieth up. ⁸And it cometh to pass, about the rising of the sun, that God appointeth a cutting east wind, and the sun smiteth on the head of Jonah, and he wrappeth himself up, and asketh his soul to die, and saith, 'Better is my death than my life.'

⁹And God saith unto Jonah, 'Is doing good displeasing to thee, because of the gourd?' and he saith, 'To do good is displeasing to me—unto death.' ¹⁰And the LORD saith: 'Thou hast had pity on the gourd, for which thou didst not labour, neither didst thou nourish it: which the son of a night was, and the son of a night perished: ¹¹and I—have not I pity on Nineveh, the great city, in which there are more than twelve myriads of human beings, who have not known between their right hand and their left—and much cattle?'

MICAH.

CHAP. I. ¹THE word of the LORD which hath been unto Micah the Morasthite in the days of Jotham, Ahaz, Hezekiah, kings of Judah, which he hath seen concerning Samaria and Jerusalem:

² Hear, O peoples, all of you:
Attend, O earth, and its fulness:
The Lord Jehovah is for a witness against The Lord from His holy temple. [you:]

³ For lo, the LORD goeth out from His And hath come down, [place,
And trodden on the high places of earth.

⁴ Melted have been the mountains under And the valleys rend themselves, [him,
As wax from the presence of fire,
As waters cast down by the slope.

⁵ For the transgression of Jacob is all this, And for the sins of the house of Israel.
What is the transgression of Jacob?
Is it not Samaria?

And what the high place of Judah?
Is it not Jerusalem?

⁶ And I have set Samaria for a heap of the For plantations of a vineyard, [field,
And poured out into the valley her stones:
And her foundations I uncover. [down,

⁷ And all her graven images are beaten And all her gifts are burnt with fire,
And all her idols I make a desolation:
For, from the hire of a harlot she gathered,
And unto the hire of a harlot they return.

⁸ For this I lament and howl,
I go spoiled and naked:
I make a lamentation like the dragons,
And a mourning like daughters of the owl.

⁹ For mortal are her wounds;
For it hath come unto Judah:
It hath come unto a gate of My people,
Unto Jerusalem.

¹⁰ In Gath tell ye not—In Acco weep not—
In Beth-Aphrah, in dust roll thyself.

¹¹ Pass over for thee, O inhabitant of Saphir,
Naked one of shame.
Not gone out hath the inhabitant of The lamentation of Beth-Ezel [Zaanan, Taketh from you its standing.

¹² For stayed for good hath the inhabitant of Maroth:
For evil hath come down from the LORD To the gate of Jerusalem.

¹³ Bind the chariot to the swift beast,
O inhabitant of Lachish: [ter of Zion:
The beginning of sin is she to the daughter in thee have been found
The transgressions of Israel.

¹⁴ Therefore thou givest presents To Moresheth-Gath:
The houses of Achizib become a lying thing To the kings of Israel.

To Aullam come in doth the honour of Is-

For thy delightful children:
Enlarge thy baldness as the eagle:

For they have been removed from thee.

II. ¹WO to those who devise iniquity,

And who work evil on their beds:
By the light of morning they do it,
For their hand is to God.

² And they have desired fields,
And they have taken violently:
And houses, and they have taken away:
They have oppressed a man and his house,
Even a man and his inheritance.

³ Therefore, thus said the LORD:
Lo, I am devising against this family evil,
From which ye remove not your necks,
Nor walk loftily: for it is a time of evil.

⁴ In that day one taketh up for you a simile,
And hath wailed a wailing of woe:
He hath said, 'We have been utterly spoiled:

The portion of my people He changeth:
How doth He move towards me! [eth.]
To the backslider our fields He apportion-

⁶ Ye shall not prophesy—they prophesy:
They prophesy not to these,
It removeth not shame.

⁷ Doth the house of Jacob say,
'Hath the Spirit of the LORD been short—
Are these His doings?' [ened:]
Do not My words benefit the people
Who walk uprightly?

⁸ Even yesterday My people for an enemy Raiseth himself up;
From the outer garment
The honourable ornament ye strip off:
From the confident passers by,
Ye who turn back from war.

⁹ The women of My people
Ye cast out from its delightful house:
From its sucklings ye take away
My honour for ever.

¹⁰ Rise and go, for this is not the rest:
Because of uncleanness it corrupteth,
And the corruption is powerful.

¹¹ If one go with the wind,
And with falsehood hath lied:
'I prophesy to thee of wine,
And of strong drink.'

He hath been the prophet of this people.
¹² I surely gather thee, O Jacob, all of thee:
I surely bring together the remnant of Israel:

Together I set it as the flock of Bozrah,
As the drove in the midst of its pasture,
It maketh a noise because of man:

¹³ Gone up hath the breaker before them:
They have broken through,
Yea, they pass through the gate:
Yea, they go out through it:
And pass on doth their king before them,
Even the LORD at their head.

III. ¹AND I say, 'Hear, I pray you,
Ye heads of Jacob,
And ye judges of the house of Israel:
Is it not for you to know judgment?

² Ye who hate good, and love evil:
Taking violently their skin from off them,
And their flesh from off their bones.

³ Who have eaten the flesh of My people,

And their skin from off them have stript,
 And their bones have broken,
 And have spread them out as for a pot,
 And as flesh in the midst of a caldron.
 4 Then they cry unto the LORD,
 And He answereth them not;
 He hideth His face from them at that time,
 As they have made evil their doings.
 5 Thus said the LORD of the prophets
 Who are causing My people to err,
 Who are biting with their teeth,
 And have cried, 'Peace';
 And he who giveth not unto their mouth,
 They have sanctified a war against him:
 6 'Therefore ye have a night without vision,
 And ye have darkness without divination;
 And gone in hath the sun on the prophets,
 And black over them hath been the day.
 7 And ashamed have been the seers,
 And confounded the diviners,
 And covered their lip have all of them;
 For there is no answer, O God.
 8 And yet I have been full of power
 By the Spirit of the LORD;
 And of judgment, and of might,
 To declare to Jacob his transgression,
 And to Israel his sin.
 9 Hear this, I pray you,
 Ye heads of the house of Jacob,
 And ye judges of the house of Israel,
 Who are making judgment abominable,
 And all uprightness pervert;
 10 Building up Zion with blood;
 And Jerusalem with iniquity.
 11 Her heads judge for a bribe,
 And her priests for hire teach,
 And her prophets for silver divine:
 And on the LORD they lean, saying,
 'Is not the LORD in our midst?
 Evil cometh not in upon us.'
 12 Therefore, for your sake,
 Zion is ploughed a field,
 And Jerusalem is heaps;
 And the mountain of the house
 Is for the high places of a forest.
 IV. 1 AND it hath come to pass,
 In the latter end of the days,
 The mountain of the house of the LORD
 Is established above the top of the mounts,
 And hath been lifted up above the hills,
 And flowed unto it have peoples.
 2 And gone have many nations and said:
 'Come and we go up unto the mountain of the LORD,
 And unto the house of the God of Jacob;
 And He doth teach us of His ways,
 And we walk in His paths:
 For from Zion goeth out the law,
 And the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.
 3 And He hath judged between many peoples,
 [as far off;
 And given a decision to mighty nations
 They have beaten their swords to plough-
 And their spears to pruning-hooks; [shares,
 Nation lifteth not up sword against nation,
 Nor do they learn war any more.
 4 And they have sat each under his vine,
 And under his fig-tree,
 And there is none troubling; [spoken.
 For the mouth of the LORD of Hosts hath
 5 For all the peoples walk,

Each in the name of its god: we also,
 We walk in the name of the LORD our God,
 For ever and ever.
 6 In that day, affirmeth the LORD,
 I gather the halting one;
 And the driven away one I bring together,
 And she whom I have afflicted.
 7 And I have set the halting for a remnant,
 And the far-off for a mighty nation:
 And reigned hath the LORD over them in mount Zion,
 From henceforth, and even for ever.
 8 And thou, O tower of Eder,
 The fort of the daughter of Zion,
 Unto thee it cometh,
 Yea, come in doth the former rule,
 The kingdom of the daughter of Jerusa-
 9 Now, why dost thou shout aloud? [Iem.
 A king, is there none in thee?
 Hath thy counsellor perished?
 That taken hold of thee
 Hath pain as a travelling woman?
 10 Be pained, and bring forth, O daughter of
 As a travelling woman: [Zion,
 For now, thou goest out of the city,
 And hast dwelt in the field,
 And hast gone unto Babylon,
 There thou art delivered:
 There redeem thee doth the LORD
 From the hand of thine enemies.
 11 And now, gathered against thee
 Have been many nations, who say:
 'Let her be defiled,
 And let our eyes look on Zion.'
 12 They have not known the thoughts of the Nor understood His counsel: [LORD,
 For he hath gathered them as a sheaf
 Into a threshing-floor.
 13 Arise, and thresh, O daughter of Zion:
 For thy horn I make iron,
 And thy hoofs I make brass:
 And thou hast beaten small many peoples:
 And I have devoted to the LORD their gain,
 And their wealth to the Lord of the whole
 V. 1 NOW gather thyself together, [earth.
 O daughter of troops:
 A siege he hath laid against us:
 With a rod they smite on the cheek
 The Judge of Israel.
 2 And thou, Beth-Lehem Ephratah,
 Little to be among the chiefs of Judah!
 From thee to Me he cometh forth,
 To be ruler in Israel:
 And his comings forth are of old,
 From the days of antiquity.
 3 Therefore he giveth them out till the time
 She who bringeth forth hath brought forth;
 And the remnant of his brethren
 Return to the Children of Israel.
 4 And he hath stood and delighted
 In the strength of the LORD,
 In the excellency of the name of the LORD
 And they have remained: [his God;
 For now he is become great
 Unto the ends of earth.
 5 And this one hath been peace,
 Asshur, when he cometh into our land;
 And when he treadeth in our palaces,
 We have raised up against him seven shep-
 And eight anointed of man. [herds,
 6 And they have afflicted the land of Asshur

With the sword,
And the land of Nimrod at its openings;
Then hath he delivered from Asshur
When he cometh into our land,
And when he treadeth in our borders.
7 And the remnant of Jacob
Hath been in the midst of many peoples,
As dew from the LORD—
As showers on the herb,
Which waiteth not for man,
Nor stayeth for the children of men.
8 Yea, the remnant of Jacob
Hath been among the nations,
In the midst of many peoples,
As a lion among the beasts of a forest,
As a young lion among the ranks of a
Which if it hath passed through, [flock;
Hath both trodden down and torn,
And there is no deliverer.
9 High is thy hand above thine adversaries,
And all thine enemies are cut off.
10 And it hath come to pass, in that day,
Affirmeth the LORD,
I have cut off thy horses from thy midst,
And have destroyed thy chariots,
11 And have cut off the cities of thy land,
And have thrown down all thy fortresses,
12 And cut off sorcerers out of thy land;
And observers of clouds thou hast none.
13 And I have cut off thy graven images,
And thy standing-pillars out of thy midst;
And thou bowest not thyself any more
To the work of thy hands:
14 And I have plucked up thy shrines
Out of thy midst,
And have destroyed thine enemies.
15 And I have done vengeance,
In anger and in fury,
On the nations who have not hearkened.
VI. 1 HEAR, I pray you,
That which the LORD saith:
'Rise—strive thou with the mountains,
And cause the hills to hear thy voice.'
2 Hear, O mountains, the strife of the LORD,
Ye strong ones—foundations of the earth:
For a strife hath the LORD
With His people,
And with Israel He reasoneth:
3 O My people, what have I done to thee?
And what—have I wearied thee?
Testify against Me.
4 For I have brought thee up
From the land of Egypt,
And from the house of servants
I have ransomed thee; [Miriam.
And I send before thee Moses, Aaron, and 5 O My people, remember, I pray you,
What Balaam king of Moab counselled,
What Balaam son of Beor answered him,
(From Shittim unto Gilgal;)
In order to know
The righteous acts of the LORD.
6 'Where with shall I come before the LORD?
Bow before God Most High?
Shall I come before Him with burnt-offer-
With calves a year old? [ings?
7 Is the LORD pleased
With thousands of rams?
With myriads of streams of oil?
8 Shall I give my first-born
For my transgression?

The fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?
9 He hath declared to thee, O man,
What is good:
Yea, what doth the LORD require of thee,
Save to do judgment, and love kindness,
And lowly to walk with thy God?
10 The voice of the LORD to the city calleth;
And wisdom feareth thy name:
Hear ye the rod,
And Him who hath appointed it.
11 Nor there yet in the house of the wicked
Treasures of wickedness,
And the abhorred scanty ephah?
12 Shall I reckon it pure
With the balances of wickedness?
And with the bag of deceitful weights?
13 Whose rich ones have been full of viol-
And its inhabitants [ence,
Have spoken falsehood,
Their tongue is deceitful in their mouth.
14 And I also, I have begun to smite thee,
To make desolate, because of thy sins.
15 Thou—thou eatest, and art not satisfied:
And thy pit is in thy midst:
And thou removest, and deliverest not;
And that which thou deliverest,
To the sword I give.
16 Thou—thou sowest, and thou reapest not;
Thou—thou treadest the olive,
And thou pourest not out oil:
New wine also, and thou drinkest not wine.
17 And kept are the statutes of Omri,
And all the work of the house of Ahab,
And ye walk in their counsels;
For My making thee become a desolation,
And its inhabitants become a hissing;
And the reproach of My people ye bear.
VII. 1 MY wo is on me, for I have been
As the gathering of summer fruit,
As the gleanings of harvest:
There is no cluster to eat:
The first-ripe fruit desired hath my soul.
2 Perished hath the kind out of the land:
And upright among men there are none:
All of them for blood lie in wait:
Each his brother they hunt with a net.
3 On evil are both hands to do it well.
The prince asketh—the judge also—for
And the great— [recompence;
He speaketh the mischief of his soul:
And they wrap it up.
4 Their best one is as a brier,
The upright one—than a thorn hedge:
5 The day of thy watchmen—
Thy visitation—hath come;
Now is their perplexity.
6 Believe not in a friend,
Trust not in a leader:
From her who lieth in thy bosom
Keep the openings of thy mouth.
7 For a son dishonoureth a father,
A daughter hath stood against her mother,
A daughter-in-law against her mother-in-
The enemies of each [law:
Are the men of his own house.
8 And I—for the LORD I watch,
I wait for the God of my salvation:
Hear me doth My God.
9 Thou dost not rejoice over me, O mine
10 When I have fallen, I have risen; [enemy:
When I sit in darkness,

- The LORD is my light.
 * The indignation of the LORD I bear,
 For I have sinned against Him,
 Till He plead my cause,
 And execute my judgment:
 He bringeth me forth to the light,
 I look on His righteousness.
 10 And see doth mine enemy,
 And cover her doth shame,
 Who saith unto me,
 'Where is the LORD thy God?'
 Mine eyes do look on her:
 Now, she is for a treading-place,
 As the mire of the out-places.
 11 The day of the building of thy walls!
 That day—removed is the limit.
 12 That day—even unto thee it cometh,
 From Asshur and the cities of the fortress,
 And from the fortress even unto the river,
 And from sea to sea,
 And from mountain to mountain.
 13 And the land hath been for a desolation,
 Because of its inhabitants,
 Because of their doings.
 14 Rule Thy people with Thy rod,
 The flock of Thine inheritance,
 Dwelling alone in the forest,
 In the midst of Carmel:
- They enjoy Bashan and Gilead
 As the days of old.
 15 According to the days of thy coming
 Out of the land of Egypt,
 I shew it wonderful things.
 16 See do the nations,
 And they are ashamed of all their might:
 They lay the hand on the mouth,
 Their ears are deaf.
 17 They lick dust as the serpent,
 As fearful things of earth
 They tremble from their enclosures:
 Of the LORD our God they are afraid,
 Yea, they are afraid of Thee.
 18 Who is a God like Thee?
 Taking away iniquity,
 And passing by the transgression
 Of the remnant of His inheritance:
 Who hath not retained His anger for ever,
 Because He—He delighteth in kindness.
 19 He turneth back, He pitieth us;
 He subdueth our iniquities:
 Thou castest into the depths of the sea
 All their sins.
 20 Thou givest truth[†] to Jacob,
 Kindness to Abraham,
 Which thou hast sworn to our fathers,
 From the days of antiquity:

NAHUM.

CHAP. I. ¹THE BURDEN OF NINEVEH.

THE BOOK OF THE VISION OF NAHUM THE ELKOSHITE.

- * A God jealous and avenging is the LORD;
 An avenger is the LORD,
 And possessing fury:
 An avenger the LORD on His adversaries,
 And He is watching for His enemies.
 3 The LORD is slow to anger,
 And great in power,
 And the LORD doth not entirely acquit:
 In the hurricane and tempest is His way,
 And the cloud is the dust of His feet.
 4 He pusheth against the sea,
 And drieth it up:
 Yea, all the floods He hath made dry:
 Languishing are Bashan and Carmel,
 Yea, the flower of Lebanon is languishing.
 6 Mountains have shaken because of Him,
 And the hills have been melted;
 And lifted up is the earth at His presence,
 And the world, and all dwelling in it.
 6 Before His indignation who standeth?
 And who riseth in the heat of His anger?
 His fury hath been poured out like fire,
 And the rocks have been broken by Him.
 7 Good is the LORD,
 For a strong place in a day of distress:
 And He knoweth those trusting in Him.
 8 And with a flood passing over,
 An end He maketh of its place:
 And pursue doth darkness His enemies.
 9 What devise ye against the LORD?
 An end He maketh:
 Arise not twice doth distress.
 10 For while princes are perplexed,
 And with drink are drunken: [dried.
 They have been consumed as stubble fully 11 From thee hath come out a deviser of evil
 Against the LORD, a worthless counsellor.
 12 Thus said the LORD:
 Though complete, and thus many,
 Yet thus have they been cut off,
 And he hath passed away.
 I have also afflicted thee,
 I afflict thee no more.
 13 And now I break his rod from off thee,
 And thy bands I draw away.
 14 And the LORD hath commanded concerning thee: [abroad:
 'Let no more of thy renown spread
 From the house of thy gods
 I cut off the graven and the molten image:
 I appoint thy grave: for thou hast been 15 Lo, on the mountains [vile.]
 The feet of one proclaiming tidings,
 Sounding peace!
 Celebrate, O Judah, thy festivals,
 Complete thy vows:
 For continue no more to 'pass over into thee doth the worthless:
 He hath been completely cut off.
 II. ¹COME UP hath a scatterer to thy face:
 Keep the bulwark, watch the way,
 Strengthen the loins, strengthen power
 2 For turned back hath the LORD [mightily].
 To the excellency of Jacob,
 As to the excellency of Israel:
 For emptied them out have emptiers,
 And their branches they have marred.
 3 The shield of his mighty ones is become
 The men of might are in scarlet: [red,

- With fiery torches is the chariot
In the day of his preparation,
And the fire have been caused to tremble.
- 4 In the out-places shine do the chariots,
They go to and fro in the broad places;
Their appearances are like torches,
As lightnings they run.
- 5 Ho remembereth his honourable ones:
They stumble in their goings;
They hasten to its wall,
And prepared is the covering.
- 6 The gates of the rivers have been opened,
And the palace is dissolved.
- 7 And it is established—she hath removed,
She hath been brought up,
Her handmaids lead as the voice of doves,
Tabering on their hearts.
- 8 And Nineveh is as a pool of water;
From of old it is; yet they are fleeing.
'Stand ye, stand:' but none is turning.
- 9 Seize silver, seize gold:
There is no end to the prepared things,
To the abundance of all desirable vessels.
- 10 She is empty, yea, emptiness and waste;
And the heart hath melted,
And the knees have smitten together,
And great pain is in all loins,
And all their faces have gathered paleness.
- 11 Where is the habitation of lionesses?
A feeding-place it is for young lions,
Where walked hath a lion, an old lion,
A lion's whelp, and there is none troubling.
The lion is tearing parts for his whelps,
And strangling for his lionesses:
And he filleth his holes with prey,
And his habitations with rapine.
- 12 Lo, I am against thee,
Affirmeth the LORD of Hosts:
And have burned in smoke its chariot,
Thy young lions consume doth the sword;
And I have cut off from the land thy prey,
And not heard any more
Is the voice of thy messengers.
- III. 1 WO to the city of blood:
She is all with lies—burglary—full;
Prey departeth not.
- 2 The sound of a whip,
And the sound of the rattling of a wheel,
And of a prancing horse,
And of a bounding chariot,
Of a horseman mounting.
- 3 And the flame of a sword,
And the lightning of a spear;
And the abundance of the wounded,
And the weight of carcasses;
Yea, there is no end to the bodies,
They stumble over their bodies.
- 4 Because of the abundance of the fornications of an harlot, [witchcrafts,
The goodness of the grace of the lady of
Who selleth nations by her fornications,
And families by her witchcrafts.

Affirmeth the LORD of Hosts,

And kingdoms thy shame,
And cast upon thee abominations,
And dishonoured thee, and made thee as thee, and hath said: 'Spoiled is Nineveh;

Who bemoaneth for her?'
Whence shall I seek comforters for thee?

Which dwelleth among brooks?

HABAKKUK.

I. THE BURDEN WHICH HABAKKUK THE PROPHET HATH SEEN:

- ² Till when, O LORD, have I cried,
And Thou hearkenest not?
³ I cry unto Thee—'Violence,'
And Thou savest not.
- ⁴ Why dost Thou shew me iniquity,
And perversity cause to behold?
And spoiling and violence are before me:
And there is strife,
And contention lifteth itself up.
- ⁵ Therefore law ceaseth, and judgment
goeth not forth for ever:
For the wicked compasseth the righteous,
Therefore wrong judgment goeth forth.
- ⁶ Look ye on the nations, and behold,
And marvel greatly:
For a work he worketh in your days,
Ye believe not though it is declared.
- ⁷ For, lo, I am raising up the Chaldeans,
The bitter and hasty nation,
Which goeth to the broad places of earth,
To occupy tabernacles not its own.
- ⁸ Terrible and fearful it is:
From itself its judgment
And its excellency go out.
- ⁹ Swifter than leopards have been its horses,
And sharper than evening wolves:
And increased have its horsemen,
Even its horsemen from afar come in:
They fly as the eagle, hasting to consume.
- ¹⁰ Wholly for violence it cometh in:
Their faces swallowing up the east wind,
And it gathereth as the sand a captivity.
- ¹¹ And at kings it scoffeth,
And princes are a laughter to it:
At every fenced place it laugheth;
And heapeth up dust, and capturcth it.
- ¹² Then hath the spirit passed on,
Yea, he transgresseth,
And ascribeth this his power to his god.
- ¹³ Art not Thou of old?
O LORD, my God, my Holy One.
We will not die, O LORD;
For judgment Thou hast appointed it,
And, O Rock, for reproof hast founded it.
- ¹⁴ Purer of eyes than to behold evil,
To look on perverseness Thou art unable:
Why beholdest thou the treacherous?
Thou keepest silent when the wicked swalloweth the more righteous than he,
- ¹⁵ And Thou makest man
As the fishes of the sea,
As a creeping thing: none ruleth over him.
- ¹⁶ Each of them with a hook
Hath he brought up,
He catcheth it in his net,
And gathereth it in his drag:
Therefore doth he joy and rejoice.
- ¹⁷ Therefore doth he sacrifice to his net,
And make perfume to his drag:
For by them is his portion fertile,
And his food fat.
- ¹⁸ Shall he therefore empty his net,
And continually to slay nations spare not?

II. I ON my charge I stand, and station myself on a bulwark, and watch to see what He shall speak against me, and what I shall reply to my reproof. ² And the LORD an-swereth me and saith:

- ³ Write a vision, and explain on the tables,
That he may run who readeth it.
- ⁴ For the vision is yet for a season,
And it breatheth for the end, and lieth not:
If it tarry, wait for it:
For surely it cometh: it is not late.
- ⁵ Lo, the presumptuous!
Not right is his soul within him:
And the righteous by his faith liveth.
- ⁶ And also, because wine is treacherous,
A man is haughty,
And remaineth not at home,
Who hath enlarged as Sheol his soul,
And is as death which is not satisfied,
And gathereth unto itself all the nations,
And assemblETH unto itself all the peoples:
- ⁷ Do not these—all of them
Against him a simile take up?
A moral of acute sayings concerning him,
And say, Wo to him
Who multiplieth what is not his;
Till when also is he multiplying
To himself heavy pledges?
- ⁸ Do not thy usurers instantly rise up,
And those who shake thee awake up,
And thou hast been to them for a spoil?
- ⁹ Because thou hast spoiled many nations,
Spoil thee do all the remnant of the people: Because of man's blood, [pleas;
And of violence to the land,
To the city, and to all dwelling in it.
- ¹⁰ Wo to him who gaineth evil gain for his
To set on high his nest, [house,
To be delivered from the hand of evil;
- ¹¹ Thou hast counselled
A shameful thing to thy house,
To cut off many peoples,
And sinful is thy soul.
- ¹² For a stone from the wall crieth out, [it.
And a holdfast from the wood answereth
- ¹³ Wo to him who buildeth a city by blood,
And who establisheth a city by iniquity.
- ¹⁴ Lo, is it not from the LORD of Hosts
That the peoples are fatigued for fire,
And the nations for vanity are weary?
- ¹⁵ For full is the earth of the knowledge
Of the honour of the LORD,
As waters cover over the bottom of a sea.
- ¹⁶ Wo to him who giveth drink to his neighbour, Pouring out thy bottle, [bourn,
And also making drunk,
In order to look on their nakedness.
- ¹⁷ Thou hast been filled—
Shame without honour:
Drink thou also, and be uncircumcised:
Turn round unto thee
Doth the cup of the right hand of the LORD,
And shameful spewing is on thine honour.
- ¹⁸ For violence to Lebanon covereth thee,
And the spoil of beasts afrighteth them,
Because of man's blood,
And of violence to the land,

- To the city, and to all dwelling in it.
 12 What profit hath a graven image given
 That its former hath graven it?
 A molten image and teacher of falsehood,
 That trusted hath the former
 On his own formation,
 So as to make dumb idols?
 13 To lo him who saith to wood 'Awake:'
 'Stir up,' to the dumb stone, [silver,
 It a teacher! lo, it is overlaid—gold and
 And there is no spirit in its midst.
 14 And the LORD is in His holy temple:
 Be silent before him, all the earth.

III. 1 A PRAYER OF HABAKKUK THE PROPHET CONCERNING ERRING ONES:

- 2 LORD, I have heard Thy report,
 I have been afraid:
 LORD, Thy work! in midst of years revive it,
 In the midst of years Thou makest known,
 In anger Thou rememberest mercy.
 3 God from Teman cometh,
 The Holy One from mount Paran. Pause!
 Covered the heavens hath His majesty,
 And His praise hath filled the earth.
 4 And the brightness is as the light;
 He hath rays out of His hand:
 And there—the hiding of His strength.
 5 Before Him goeth pestilence,
 And a burning flame goeth out at His feet.
 6 He hath stood, and measureth earth:
 He hath seen, and shaketh off nations:
 And scatter themselves
 Do the mountains of antiquity:
 Bowed have the hills of eternity:
 The ways of eternity are His. [Cushan:
 7 Under sorrow I have seen the tents of Tremble do curtains of the land of Midian.
 8 Against rivers hath the LORD been wroth?
 Against rivers is Thine anger?
 Against the sea is Thy wrath?
 For Thou ridest on Thy horses—
 Thy chariots of salvation?
 9 Utterly naked Thou makest Thy bow,
 Sworn are the tribes, saying, 'Pause!'

- With rivers—Thou cleavest the earth.
 10 Seen thee—pained are mountains:
 An inundation of waters hath passed over:
 Given forth hath the deep its voice,
 High its hands it hath lifted up.
 11 Sun—moon—have stood—a habitation:
 At the light thine arrows go on, [spear.
 At the brightness, the glittering of thy 12 In indignation Thou dost tread earth,
 In anger Thou dost thresh nations.
 13 Thou hast gone forth
 For the salvation of Thy people,
 For salvation with Thine anointed:
 Thou hast smitten the head
 Of the house of the wicked,
 Laying bare the foundation
 Unto the neck. Pause!
 14 Thou hast pierced with his own staves
 The head of his leaders:
 They are tempestuous to scatter me:
 Their exultation is
 As to consume the poor in secret.
 15 Thou hast proceeded through the sea
 With Thy horses, the clay of many waters.
 16 I have heard, and my belly trembleth,
 At the noise have my lips quivered:
 Rottenness cometh into my bones,
 And in my place I tremble,
 That I rest for the day of distress:
 At the coming up of the people,
 He overcometh it.
 17 Though the fig-tree flourish not,
 And there be no produce in the vines:
 Failed hath the work of the olive,
 And the fields have not yielded food:
 Cut off hath been the flock from the fold,
 And there be no herd in the stalls:
 18 Yet I, in the LORD I exult,
 I joy in the God of my salvation.
 19 Jehovah the Lord is my strength,
 And He maketh my feet like hinds,
 And on my high-places causeth me to tread.
 To the overseer on my stringed instruments.

ZEPHANIAH.

CHAP. I. 1 THE word of the LORD which hath been unto Zephaniah son of Cushi, son of Gedaliah, son of Amariah, son of Hiz-kiah, in the days of Josiah son of Amon
 king of Judah:

- 2 I utterly consume all
 From off the face of the ground,
 Affirmeth the LORD.
 3 I consume man and beast:
 I consume the fowl of the heavens,
 And the fishes of the sea,
 And the stumbling-blocks—the wicked:
 And I have cut off man
 From the face of the ground,
 Affirmeth the LORD.
 4 And stretched out My hand against Judah,
 And against all inhabiting Jerusalem,
 And cut off from this place the remnant of
 The name of the idolatrous priests [Baal,
 With the other priests;

- 5 And those who bow themselves
 On the roofs to the host of the heavens:
 And those who bow themselves,
 Swearing to the LORD, and swearing by 6 And those who remove [Malcham;
 From after the LORD:
 And those who have not sought the LORD,
 Nor besought him.
 7 Hush! because of the Lord Jehovah:
 For near is a day of the LORD:
 For prepared hath the LORD a sacrifice,
 He hath sanctified His invited ones.
 8 And it hath come to pass,
 In the day of the sacrifice of the LORD,
 That I have laid a charge on the princes,
 And on the children of the king,
 And on all who put on strange clothing.
 9 And I have laid a charge on every one
 Who leapeth over the threshold in that
 Who fill the house of their masters [day,

With violence and deceit.

- ¹⁰ And there hath been in that day,
Affirmeth the LORD,
The noise of a cry from the fish-gate,
And of a howling from the second,
And of great destruction from the hills.
- ¹¹ Howl, ye inhabitants of the hollow place,
For cut off hath been all the merchant-
people,
Cut off have been all who bear silver.
- ¹² And it hath come to pass, at that time, ¹³
I search Jerusalem with lights,
And have laid a charge on the men
Who are hardened
On their preserved things:
Who are saying in their heart:
The LORD doth no good, nor doth He evil.
- ¹² And their wealth hath been for a spoil,
And their houses have been for desolation:
And they have built houses,
And inhabit not;
And they have planted vineyards,
And drink not their wine.
- ¹⁴ Near is the great day of the LORD,
Near, and hasting exceedingly,
A noise of the day of the LORD:
Bitterly shriek there doth a mighty one.
- ¹⁵ A day of wrath that day,
A day of adversity and distress,
A day of waste and desolation,
A day of darkness and gloominess,
A day of cloud and thick darkness,
- ¹⁶ A day of trumpet and shouting
Against the fenced cities,
And against the corners of the heights.
- ¹⁷ And I have sent distress on men,
And they have walked as the blind,
For against the LORD they have sinned:
And poured out is their blood as dust,
And their flesh is as dung.
- ¹⁸ Even their silver, even their gold,
Is not able to deliver them
In the day of the wrath of the LORD;
And in the fire of His jealousy
Consumed is the whole land:
For only a husted one He maketh
Of all the inhabitants of the land.
- II. ¹ BEND yourselves, yea bend ye,
O nation not desired,
² Before the bringing forth of a statute,
As chaff hath the day passed on,
While yet not come in upon you
Doth the heat of the anger of the LORD,
While yet not come in upon you
Doth the day of the anger of the LORD,
- ³ Seek the LORD, all ye humble of the land,
Who have done His judgment:
Seek righteousness, seek humility:
It may be ye shall be hidden
In the day of the anger of the LORD.
- ⁴ For Gaza is forsaken,
And Ashkelon is for a desolation:
Ashdod! at noon they cast her out;
And Ekron is rooted up.
- ⁵ Ho! O inhabitants of the sea-coast,
Nation of the Cherethites:
The word of the LORD is against you,
Canaan, land of the Philistines;
And I have destroyed thee
Without an inhabitant.
- ⁶ And the sea-coast hath been habitations,

- Cottages for shepherds, folds for a flock.
- ⁷ And the coast hath been
For the remnant of the house of Judah;
By it they have pleasure: [down:]
In the houses of Ashkelon at even they lie
For inspect them doth the LORD their God,
And He turneth back to their captivity.
- ⁸ I have heard the reproach of Moab,
The revilings of the Children of Ammon,
Wherewith they reproached My people:
And magnify themselves against their border.
- ⁹ Therefore, I live, [der.]
Affirmeth the LORD of Hosts, God of Israel;
Surely, Moab is as Sodom,
And the Children of Ammon as Gomorrah;
An overrunning of nettles and salt-pits,
And an everlasting desolation:
A residue of My people do seize them,
And a remnant of My nation inherit them.
- ¹⁰ This they have for their arrogance,
Because they have reproached,
And they magnify themselves
Against the people of the LORD of Hosts.
- ¹¹ Fearful is the LORD unto them:
For He made bare all the gods of the land:
And bow themselves to Him,
Each from his place,
Do all the islanders of the nations.
- ¹² Ye also, O Cushim,
The pierced of My sword are they.
- ¹³ And He stretcheth His hand against the
And destroyeth Asshur, [north],
And setteth Nineveh for a desolation,
A dry land like the wilderness.
- ¹⁴ And lain down in her midst have droves,
Every beast of the nation:
Both pelican and hedge-hog in her knobs
A voice singeth at the window: [lodge:]
'Destruction is at the threshold,
For the cedar-work is exposed.'
- ¹⁵ This is the exulting city which dwelleth
Which saith in her heart, [confidently],
'I am, and besides me there is none.'
How hath she been for a desolation,
A crouching-place for beasts:
Every one passing by her doth hiss,
He shaketh his hand.
- III. ¹ WO to the rebellious and the polluted,
The oppressing city!
² She hath not hearkened to the voice;
She hath not accepted instruction;
In the LORD she hath not trusted,
Unto her God she hath not drawn near.
- ³ Her princes in her midst are roaring lions,
Her judges are evening wolves;
They have not gnawn the bone in the morning.
- ⁴ Her prophets unstable—men of treachery:
Her priests have polluted the sanctuary,
They have violated law.
- ⁵ The LORD is righteous in her midst;
He doth no perverseness;
Morning by morning His judgment
He giveth out to the light,
It hath not been lacking;
But the perverse knoweth not shame.
- ⁶ I have cut off nations:
Desolated have been their chief ones;
I have laid waste their out-places
Without any passing by:
Destroyed have been their cities,

- Without man, without inhabitant.
 7 I have said: Only, ye shall fear Me,
 Ye shall accept instruction;
 And her habitation is not cut off,
 All that I have appointed concerning her:
 And they have risen early,
 They have corrupted all their doings.
 8 Therefore, wait for Me, affirmeth the LORD,
 For the day of My rising for prey:
 For My judgment is to gather nations,
 To assemble kingdoms,
 To pour out on them Mine indignation,
 All the heat of Mine anger:
 For by the fire of My jealousy
 Consumed is all the earth.
 9 For then I turn to the peoples a pure lip,
 To call them all by the name of the LORD,
 To serve Him with one shoulder. (plants)
 10 From beyond the rivers of Cush, my sup-
 (the daughter of My scattered ones.)
 Bring Mine offering.
 11 In that day thou art not ashamed
 Because of any of thine actions, [Me,
 Wherewith thou hast transgressed against
 For then I turn aside from thy midst
 The exulting ones of thine excellency,
 And thou addest no more to be haughty
 In My holy mountain.
 12 And I have left in thy midst
 A people humble and poor,
 And they have trusted in the name of the 13 The remnant of Israel [LORD.
 Do no perversity, nor speak lies;
 Nor found in their mouth
 Is a deceitful tongue:
 For they have delight, and have lain
 And there is none troubling. [down,
 14 Cry aloud, O daughter of Zion,
 Shout, O Israel:
 Rejoice and exult with the whole heart,
 O daughter of Jerusalem.
 15 The LORD hath turned aside thy judg-
 He hath faced thine enemy: [ments,
 The king of Israel, the LORD,
 Is in thy midst: thou seest evil no more.
 16 In that day it is said to Jerusalem, 'Fear
 O Zion, let not thy hands be feeble. [not;
 17 The LORD thy God is in thy midst,
 A mighty one saveth;
 He rejoiceth over thee with joy,
 He worketh in His love,
 He joyeth over thee with singing.'
 18 Mine afflicted from the appointed place
 I have gathered,
 From thee they have been,
 Bearing for her sake reproach.
 19 Lo, I am dealing with all
 Who afflict thee at that time,
 And have saved the halting one,
 And the driven out ones I gather,
 And set them for a praise and for a name,
 In all the land of their shame.
 20 At that time I bring you in,
 At the time of My assembling you:
 For I give you for a name, and for a praise,
 Among all the peoples of the land,
 In My turning back to your captivity
 Before your eyes, said the LORD.

HAGGAI.

CHAP. I. 1 IN the second year of Darius the king, in the sixth month, on the first day of the month, hath the word of the LORD been by the hand of Haggai the prophet, unto Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and unto Joshua son of Josedech, the high priest, saying: 2 Thus hath the LORD of Hosts spoken, saying:

This people—they have said,
 'The time hath not come, [built.
 The time the house of the LORD is to be
 3 And the word of the LORD is by the hand of Haggai the prophet, saying:

4 Is it time for you—you!
 To dwell in your covered houses,
 And this house to lie waste?

5 And now, thus said the LORD of Hosts:
 Set your heart to your ways.

6 Ye have sown much, and brought in little;
 To eat, but not to satiety;
 To drink, but not to drunkenness;
 To clothe, but none hath heat:
 And he who hireth himself out,
 Hireth himself for a bag pierced through.

7 Thus said the LORD of Hosts:
 Set your heart to your ways.

8 Go up the mountain, and bring wood,
 And build the house;
 And I am pleased with it,
 And I am honoured, said the LORD.

9 Looking for much, and lo, little;
 And ye brought it home,
 And I have blown on it.
 Wherefore, affirmeth the LORD of Hosts,
 Because of My house which is waste,
 And ye are running each to his own house, 10 Therefore, over you refrained have the heavens from dew,

And the land hath refrained its increase.
 11 And I proclaim draught on the land,
 And on the mountains, and on the corn,
 And on the new wine, and on the oil,
 And on what the ground bringeth forth;
 And on men, and on beast,
 And on all the labour of the hands.

12 And Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, and Joshua son of Josedech, the high priest, and all the remnant of the people, hearken to the voice of the LORD their God, and unto the words of Haggai the prophet, as the LORD their God had sent him; and the people are afraid of the presence of the LORD.

13 And Haggai, the messenger of the LORD, in the messages of the LORD, speaketh to the people, saying: 'I am with you, affirmeth the LORD.'

14 And the LORD stirreth up the spirit of Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and the spirit of Joshua son of Josedech, the high priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people; and they come in, and do work in the house of the LORD of Hosts their God, ¹³ In the twenty and fourth day of the sixth month, in the second year of Darius the king.

II. ¹ IN the seventh month, in the twenty and first of the month, hath the word of the LORD been by the hand of Haggai the prophet, saying: ² Speak, I pray thee, unto Zerubbabel son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and unto Joshua son of Josedech, the high priest, and unto the remnant of the people, saying:

³ Who among you hath been left That saw this house in its former honour? And what do you see it now? Is it not, compared with it, As nothing in your eyes?

⁴ And now, be strong, O Zerubbabel, Affirmeth the LORD: And be strong, O Joshua, son of Josedech, the high priest:

And be strong, all ye people of the land, Affirmeth the LORD: And do ye—(for I am with you, Affirmeth the LORD of Hosts)—

⁵ The thing which I covenanted with you, (In your coming out from Egypt; And My Spirit is remaining in your midst:

⁶ For thus said the LORD of Hosts: [fear not. Once more—it is a little, And I shake the heavens, and the earth, And the sea, and the dry land;

⁷ And I have shaken all the nations; And they have come to the desire of all the nations:

And I have filled this house with honour, Said the LORD of Hosts.

⁸ Mine is the silver, and mine the gold, Affirmeth the LORD of Hosts.

⁹ Greater is the honour of this latter house, Than of the former, said the LORD of Hosts; And in this place I give peace, Affirmeth the LORD of Hosts.

¹⁰ On the twenty and fourth of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius, hath the word of the LORD been by the hand of Haggai the prophet, saying: ¹¹ Thus said the LORD of Hosts: 'Ask, I pray thee, the priests about the law, saying: ¹² Lo, one carrieth holy flesh in the skirt of his garment, and hath come with his skirt against bread, or against pottage, or against wine, or against oil, or against any food—is it holy?' And the priests answer and say, 'No.'

¹³ And Haggai saith, 'If the unclean of body come against any of these, is it unclean?' And the priests answer and say, 'It is unclean.'

¹⁴ And Haggai answereth and saith, 'So is this people, and so is this nation before Me, affirmeth the LORD; and so is every work of their hands; and that which they bring near there is unclean.

¹⁵ And now, lay it, I pray you, to your heart, From this day, and onwards; Before the laying of stone to stone In the temple of the LORD.

¹⁶ From that time one hath come to a heap And it hath been ten: [of twenty, He hath come unto the press-fat To draw out fifty purahs, And it hath been twenty.

¹⁷ I have smitten you with blasting, And with mildew, and with hail— All the work of your hands: And there is none of you with Me, Affirmeth the LORD.

¹⁸ Set it, I pray you, to your heart, from this day and onwards, from the twenty and fourth day of the ninth month, even from the day that the temple of the LORD hath been founded, lay it to your heart:

¹⁹ Is the seed yet in the barn? And hitherto the vine and the fig, And the pomegranate, and the olive-tree, Have borne nothing: From this day I bless.'

²⁰ And the word of the LORD is a second time unto Haggai, on the twenty and fourth of the month, saying: ²¹ 'Speak to Zerubbabel governor of Judah, saying:

I am shaking the heavens and the earth; ²² And have overturned the throne of king— And have destroyed the strength [doms, Of the kingdoms of the nations, And overturned the chariot and its charioteers;

And come down have horses and their Each by the sword of his brother.

²³ In that day, affirmeth the LORD of Hosts, I take thee, Zerubbabel, son of Shealtiel, My servant, affirmeth the LORD; And have set thee as a signet, For on thee I have fixed, Affirmeth the LORD of Hosts.

ZECHARIAH.

CHAP. I. ¹ IN the eighth month, in the second year of Darius, hath the word of the LORD been unto Zechariah, son of Berechiah, son of Iddo, the prophet, saying:

² 'The LORD hath been wroth Against your fathers—wrath!

³ And thou hast said unto them: Thus said the LORD of Hosts: Turn back unto Me, Affirmeth the LORD of Hosts, And I turn back unto you,

Said the LORD of Hosts.

⁴ Ye shall not be as your fathers, To whom the former prophets called, saying: Thus said the LORD of Hosts: [ing: Turn back, we pray you,

From your evil way, and your evil doings: And they hearkened not, Nor attended to Me, affirmeth the LORD.

⁵ Your fathers—where are they? And the prophets—for ever do they live?

⁶ Only, My words, and My statutes,

Which I commanded My servants the prophets,
Have they not overtaken you fathers,
That they turn back, and say:
As the LORD of Hosts designed to do to us,
According to our ways,
And according to our doings,
So hath He done with us?

⁷ On the twenty and fourth day of the eleventh month, (it is the month of Sebat,) in the second year of Darius, hath the word of the LORD been unto Zechariah, son of Berechiah, son of Iddo, the prophet, saying:

⁸ I have seen by night, and lo, one riding on a red horse, and he is standing between the myrtles which are in the shade; and behind him are horses, red, bay, and white.

⁹ And I say, 'What are these, my lord?' And the messenger who is speaking with me saith unto me, 'I will shew thee what these are.' ¹⁰ And the one who is standing between the myrtles answereth and saith, 'These are they whom the LORD hath sent to walk up and down in the land.'

¹¹ And they answer the messenger of the LORD who is standing between the myrtles, and say, 'We have walked up and down in the land, and lo, all the land is sitting still, and at rest.'

¹² And the messenger of the LORD answereth and saith, 'LORD of Hosts, till when dost Thou not pity Jerusalem, and the cities of Judah, which Thou hast abhorred these seventy years?' ¹³ And the LORD answereth the messenger, who is speaking with me, good words, comfortable words.

¹⁴ And the messenger who is speaking with me speaketh unto me, Call, saying:

Thus said the LORD of Hosts:
I have been zealous for Jerusalem,
And for Zion with great zeal.

¹⁵ And with great wrath I am wroth against the nations who are at ease:
For I was a little wroth,
And they assisted—for evil.

¹⁶ Therefore, thus said the LORD:
I have turned to Jerusalem with mercies:
My house is built in it,
Affirmeth the LORD of Hosts,
And a line is stretched out over Jerusalem.

¹⁷ Again call, saying:
Thus said the LORD of Hosts:
Again do my cities overflow from good,
And again hath the LORD comforted Zion,
And again hath He fixed on Jerusalem.

¹⁸ And I lift up mine eyes, and look, and lo, four horns. ¹⁹ And I say unto the messenger who is speaking with me, 'What are these?' And he saith unto me, 'These are the horns which have scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem.'

²⁰ And the LORD sheweth me four artizans.
²¹ And I say, 'What are these coming in to do?' And he speaketh, saying: 'These are the horns which have scattered Judah, so that no one hath lifted up his head: and these come in to trouble them, to cast down the horns of the nations who are lifting up the horn against the land of Judah—to scatter it.'

II. ¹ AND I lift up mine eyes, and look, and lo, a man, and in his hand a measuring-line. ² And I say, 'Whither art thou going?' And he saith unto me, 'To measure Jerusalem: to see how much is its breadth, and how much its length.' ³ And lo, the messenger who is speaking with me goeth out, and another messenger goeth out to meet him; and he saith unto him,

'Run, speak unto this young man, saying: Unwalled villages inhabit doth Jerusalem, From the abundance of man And beast in her midst.'

⁴ And I—I am to her, affirmeth the LORD, A wall of fire round about, And for honour am I in her midst.

⁵ Ho, ho, flee from the land of the north, Affirmeth the LORD:

For, as the four winds of the heavens, I have spread you abroad, Affirmeth the LORD.

⁷ Ho, Zion, be delivered, who dwellest With the daughter of Babylon.

⁸ For thus said the LORD of Hosts:

After honour—hath He sent me Unto the nations who are spoiling you; For he who cometh against you Cometh against the pupil of His eye.

⁹ For lo, I wave my hand against them, And they have been a spoil to their ser— And ye have known [vants: That the LORD of Hosts hath sent me.

¹⁰ Sing, and rejoice, O daughter of Zion: For lo, I am coming, and have dwelt in thy Affirmeth the LORD. [midst,

¹¹ And joined have been many nations Unto the LORD in that day, And they have become My people; And I have dwelt in thy midst;

And thou hast known [thee. That the LORD of Hosts hath sent me unto ¹² And the LORD hath inherited Judah, His portion on the holy ground, And hath fixed again on Jerusalem.

¹³ Hush, all flesh, because of the LORD, For He hath been roused up From His holy habitation.'

III. ¹ AND he sheweth me Joshua the high priest standing before the messenger of the LORD, and the Adversary standing at his right hand, to be an adversary to him. ² And the LORD saith unto the Adversary: [versary:

'The LORD doth push against thee, O Ad— Yea, push against thee cloth the LORD, Who is fixing on Jerusalem:

Is not this a brand delivered from fire?'

³ And Joshua was clothed with filthy garments, and he is standing before the messenger. ⁴ And he answereth and speaketh unto those who are standing before him, saying: 'Turn aside the filthy garments from off him.' And he saith unto him,

'See, I have caused thine iniquity to pass away from off thee, so as to clothe thee with costly apparel.' ⁵ He said also, 'Let them set a pure diadem on his head.' And they set the pure diadem on his head, and clothe him with garments. And the messenger of the LORD is standing, ⁶ and the messenger of the LORD protesteth to Joshua, saying: ⁷ Thus said the LORD of Hosts:

If in My ways thou walk,
And if My charge thou keep,
Then even thou dost judge My house,
And even thou dost keep My courts;
And I have given to thee conductors
Among those standing by.

⁸ Hear, I pray thee, Joshua the high priest,
Thou and thy companions
Who sit before thee,
(For men of type are they.)
For lo, I bring in My servant—The Shoot.

⁹ For lo, the stone
Which I have put before Joshua,
On one stone are seven eyes,
Lo, I am graving its graving,
Affirmeth the LORD of Hosts,
And I have removed
The iniquity of that land in one day.

¹⁰ In that day, affirmeth the LORD of Hosts,
Ye call each unto his neighbour,
Unto the place of the vine,
And unto the place of the fig-tree.

IV. ¹ AND the messenger who is speaking with me, turneth back, and stirreth me up, as one who is stirred up out of his sleep; ² and he saith unto me, 'What dost thou see?' And I say, 'I have looked, and lo, a candlestick of gold—all of it, and its bowl is on its top, and its seven lamps are upon it, and twice seven pipes are to the lights which are on its top; ³ and two olive-trees are by it, one at the right of the bowl, and one on its left.'

⁴ And I answer and speak unto the messenger who is speaking with me, saying, 'What are these, my lord?' ⁵ And the messenger who is speaking with me answereth and saith unto me, 'Hast thou not known what these are?' And I say, 'No, my lord.' ⁶ And he answereth and speaketh unto me, saying, 'This is the word of the LORD unto Zerubbabel, saying:

Not by a force, nor by power,
But by My Spirit, saith the LORD of Hosts.

⁷ Who art thou, O great mountain?
Before Zerubbabel—a plain
And he hath brought out the top-stone,
Cries of 'Grace, grace are to it.'

⁸ And the word of the LORD is to me, saying:

⁹ The hands of Zerubbabel founded this
And his hands do finish it; [house,
And thou hast known that the LORD of Hath sent me unto you. [Hosts

¹⁰ For they who trampled
On the day of small things have rejoiced,
And have seen the tin weight
In the hand of Zerubbabel:
These seven are the eyes of the LORD,
They are going to and fro in all the land.

¹¹ And I answer and say unto him, 'What are these two olive-trees, on the right of the candlestick, and on its left?' ¹² And I answer a second time, and say unto him, 'What are the two branches of the olive-trees which, by means of the two golden pipes, empty the oil out of themselves?' ¹³ And he speaketh unto me, saying, 'Hast thou not known what these are?' And I say, 'No, my lord.' ¹⁴ And he saith, 'These are the two shining ones, who are standing by the LORD of the whole earth.'

V. ¹ AND I turn, and lift up mine eyes, and look, and lo, a flying roll. ² And he saith to me, 'What seest thou?' And I say, 'I see a flying roll, its length twenty by the cubit, and its breadth ten by the cubit.'

³ And he saith unto me, 'This is the excommunication which is going out over the face of all the land: for every one who stealeth, on the one side, according to it, hath been declared innocent, and every one who hath sworn, on the other side, according to it, hath been declared innocent.'

⁴ I have brought it out, affirmeth the LORD of Hosts; and it hath come in unto the house of the thief, and into the house of him who hath sworn in My name to a falsehood: and it hath remained in the midst of his house, and hath consumed it, both its wood and its stones.'

⁵ And the messenger who is speaking with me goeth out, and saith unto me, 'Lift up, I pray thee, thine eyes, and see what is this which is coming forth.' ⁶ And I say, 'What is it?'

And he saith, 'This is the ephah which is coming forth.' And he saith, 'This is their aspect through all the land. ⁷ And lo, a cake of lead lifted up; and this is a woman sitting in the midst of the ephah. ⁸ And he saith, 'This is the wicked woman.' And he casteth her into the midst of the ephah, and casteth the weight of lead on its mouth.

⁹ And I lift up mine eyes, and see, and lo, two women are coming forth, and wind in their wings; and they have wings like the wings of the stork: and they lift up the ephah between the earth and the heavens.

¹⁰ And I say unto the messenger who is speaking with me, 'Whither are they causing the ephah to go?' ¹¹ And he saith to me, 'To build for it a house in the land of Shinar.'

And it hath been prepared and placed there on its own base.

VI. ¹ AND I turn, and lift up mine eyes, and look, and lo, four chariots coming forth from between two of the mountains; and the mountains are mountains of brass. ² In the first chariot are red horses, and in the second chariot brown horses; ³ and in the third chariot white horses; and in the fourth chariot strong grised horses. ⁴ And I answer and say unto the messenger who is speaking to me, 'What are these, my lord?'

⁵ And the messenger answereth and saith unto me, 'These are four spirits of heaven coming forth from presenting themselves before the LORD of the whole earth. ⁶ The brown horses which are therein, are coming forth unto the land of the north; and the white have come forth unto their hinder part; and the grised have come forth unto the land of the south; ⁷ and the strong ones have come forth, and they seek to go to walk up and down in the earth;' and he saith, 'Go, walk up and down in the earth;' and they walk up and down in the earth.

⁹ And the word of the LORD is unto me, saying, ¹⁰ 'Taking some of the captivity (who have come from Babylon) from Heldai, from Tobijah, and from Jedaiah, then hast thou come in—thou, in that day: yea, thou hast come into the house of Josiah son of Zephaniah; ¹¹ and thou hast taken silver and gold, and hast made crowns, and hast placed on the head of Joshua son of Josedeck, the high priest; ¹² and hast spoken unto him, saying, Thus spake the LORD of Hosts, saying: Lo, the man! 'The Shoot'—is his name; And from his own place he shooteth up, And hath built the temple of the LORD. ¹³ Yea, he buildeth the temple of the LORD; And he beareth away honour: And hath sat and ruled on His throne; And hath been a priest on His throne: And the counsel of peace is between them both. ¹⁴ And the crown is to Helem, and to Tobijah, and to Jedaiah, and to Hen son of Zephaniah, for a memorial in the temple of the LORD. ¹⁵ And the far-off come in, and have built in the temple of the LORD; and ye have known that the LORD of Hosts hath sent me unto you: yea, it hath come to pass, if ye certainly hearken to the voice of the LORD your God.'

VII. ¹ AND it cometh to pass, in the fourth year of Darius the king, the word of the LORD hath been unto Zechariah, on the fourth of the ninth month in Chisleu. ² And Beth-el sendeth Sherezer and Regem-melech, and its men, to appease the face of the LORD, ³ speaking unto the priests who are at the house of the LORD of Hosts, and unto the prophets, saying, 'Shall I weep in the fifth month—being separated—as I have done these so many years?'

⁴ And the word of the LORD of Hosts is unto me, saying: ⁵ 'Speak unto all the people of the land, and unto the priests, saying: ⁶ When ye fasted with mourning in the fifth and in the seventh months—even these seventy years—did ye keep the fast to Me—Me? And when ye eat, and when ye drink, is it not ye who are eating, and ye who are drinking?'

⁷ Are not these the words which the LORD proclaimed by the hand of the former prophets, in Jerusalem being inhabited, and in safety, and its cities round about it, and the south and the plain—abiding?'

⁸ And the word of the LORD is unto Zechariah, saying:

⁹ 'Thus spake the LORD of Hosts, saying: True judgment judge ye; And kindness and mercy do one with another. And widow, and fatherless, [other. Stranger, and poor, ye shall not oppress; And the calamity of one another Ye shall not devise in your heart. ¹¹ And they refuse to attend, And give the refractory shoulder; And their ears have made heavy against ¹² And their heart made adamant [hearing Against hearing the law, and the words, Which the LORD of Hosts hath sent By His Spirit, by the former prophets: And there is great wrath

From the LORD of Hosts. ¹³ And it cometh to pass, as He called, And they hearkened not, So they call, and I hearken not, Said the LORD of Hosts.

¹⁴ And I toss them on all the nations, Whom they have not known: The land hath been desolate behind them Of any passing by or turning back; And they set the desirable land For a desolation.'

VIII. ¹ AND the word of the LORD of Hosts is, saying:

² 'Thus said the LORD of Hosts: I have been zealous for Zion—great zeal, With great heat I have been zealous for ³ Thus said the LORD: [her.

I have turned back unto Zion, And have dwelt in the midst of Jerusalem; And Jerusalem hath been called 'The truthful city;' And the mountain of the LORD of Hosts 'The holy mountain.'

⁴ Thus said the LORD of Hosts: Again dwell do old men and old women In the broad places of Jerusalem, And each his staff in his hand, Because of abundance of days.

⁵ And the broad places of the city Are full of boys and girls, Playing in its broad places.

⁶ Thus said the LORD of Hosts: Surely it is wonderful in the eyes Of the remnant of this people, in these Even in Mine eyes it is wonderful, [days, Affirmeth the LORD of Hosts.

⁷ Thus said the LORD of Hosts: Lo, I am saving My people From the land of the rising, And from the land of the going in of the ⁸ And I have brought them in, [sun; They have dwelt in the midst of Jerusalem; And they have become My people, And I am become their God, In truth and in righteousness.

⁹ Thus said the LORD of Hosts: Let your hands be strong, Ye who hear in these days these words From the mouth of the prophets, That in the day the house of the LORD of Hosts hath been founded, [Hosts The temple is to be built.

¹⁰ For, before these days There hath been no hiring of man, Yea, a hiring of beasts there is none; And to him who goeth out, And to him who cometh in, There is no peace because of the adversary: And I send out all men— Each against his neighbour.

¹¹ And now, not as in the former days Am I to the remnant of this people, Affirmeth the LORD of Hosts.

¹² Because of the sowing of peace, The vine giveth her fruit, And the earth giveth her increase, And the heavens give their dew: And I have caused the remnant of this To inherit all these. [people

¹³ And it hath come to pass, As ye have been a reviling among nations,

- O house of Judah, and house of Israel;
So I save you, and ye have been a blessing:
Fear not, let your hands be strong.
- 14 For, thus said the LORD of Hosts:
As I purposed to do evil to you,
When your fathers made Me wroth,
Said the LORD of Hosts, and repented not:
15 So have I turned back,
I have purposed, in these days,
To do good with Jerusalem,
And with the house of Judah: fear not.
- 16 These are the things which ye shall do:
Speak truth each with his neighbour;
Truth and peaceful judgment
Judge in your gates;
17 And each the calamity of his neighbour
Ye shall not devise in your heart;
And a false oath ye shall not love:
For all these are things that I have hated,
Affirmeth the LORD.
- 18 And the word of the LORD of Hosts is unto me, saying: 19 Thus said the LORD of Hosts: The fast of the fourth, and the fast of the fifth, and the fast of the seventh, and the fast of the tenth months, are to the house of Judah for joy and rejoicing, and for pleasant appointed seasons: and truth and peace they have loved.
- 20 Thus said the LORD of Hosts:
Yet come do the peoples,
And the inhabitants of many cities,
21 Yea, gone have the inhabitants of one
To another, saying: 'Let us go diligently
To appease the face of the LORD,
To seek the LORD of Hosts—I go, even I.'
22 Yea, come in have many peoples,
And mighty nations,
To seek the LORD of Hosts in Jerusalem,
And to appease the face of the LORD.
- 23 Thus said the LORD of Hosts:
In those days take hold do ten men
Of all the languages of the nations,
Yea, they have taken hold
On the skirt of a man, a Jew, saying:
'Let us go with you;
For we have heard—God is with you.'
- IX. 1 THE burden of the word of the LORD against the land of Hadrach, and Damascus—his place of rest:
(When to the LORD is the eye of man,
And of all the tribes of Israel.)
2 And also Hamath bordereth thereon;
Tyre and Zidon, for—very wise!
3 And Tyre buildeth a bulwark for herself,
And heapeth up silver as dust,
And gold as mire of the out-places.
4 Lo, the Lord dispossesseth her,
And hath smitten her force in the sea;
And she with fire is consumed.
5 Ashkelon seeth and feareth; Gaza also,
And is exceedingly pained:
Ekron also, for her expectation dried up:
And perished hath the king from Gaza,
And Ashkelon remaineth not.
6 And dwelt hath a foreigner in Ashdod;
And I have cut off
The excellency of the Philistines.
7 And I have turned aside
His blood from his mouth,
His abominations from between his teeth;
And he hath remained,
- Even he, for our God;
And he hath been as a leader in Judah,
And Ekron as a Jebusite.
8 And I have pitched for My house a camp,
Because of the passer through,
And because of the returner:
And pass not through against them again
Doth an exactor:
For, now, have I seen with Mine eyes.
9 Rejoice exceedingly, O daughter of Zion:
Shout, O daughter of Jerusalem;
Lo, thy King cometh to thee;
Righteous, and saved is He;
Afflicted and riding on an ass,
And on a colt, the foal of she-asses.
10 I have cut off the chariot from Ephraim,
And the horse from Jerusalem,
Yea, cut off hath been the bow of battle:
And he hath spoken peace to the nations;
And his rule is from sea unto sea,
And from the river unto the ends of earth.
11 Thou, also, by the blood of thy covenant,
I have sent thy prisoners from the pit;
There is no water in it.
12 Turn back to the fenced place,
Ye prisoners of this hope:
Even to-day a second announcer I restore to thee;
13 For I have trode for Me Judah,
The bow filled with Ephraim,
And stirred up thy sons, O Zion,
Against thy sons, O Javan,
And have set thee as the sword of a hero.
14 And the LORD appareth for them,
And gone out as lightning hath His arrow;
And the Lord Jehovah with a trumpet
bloweth, [south]
And hath gone with whirlwinds of the 15 The LORD of Hosts covereth them over;
And they have consumed,
And have subdued the sling-stones;
Yea, they have drunk,
16 They have made a noise as wine;
And have been full as the bowl,
As the corners of an altar.
17 And saved them hath the LORD their God
In that day, as a flock of His people:
For the stones of a crown
Display themselves over His ground.
17 For what His goodness! what His beauty!
Corn the young men,
And wine the maidens—make fruitful.
- X. 1 THEY have asked of the LORD
Rain in the time of the latter rain:
'The LORD maketh lightnings,
And rain in showers He giveth to them,
To each—the herb in the field.
2 Because the teraphim spake iniquity,
And the diviners have seen a falsehood:
And dreams of vanity they speak,
With vanity they give comfort,
Therefore they have journeyed as a flock:
They are afflicted,
For there is no shepherd.
3 Against the shepherd Mine anger burned,
And against the he-goats I lay a charge;
For inspected hath the LORD of Hosts
His flock, the house of Judah,
And set them as His beautiful horse in

 And I answer them.
 And Ephraim hath been as a hero,
 And rejoiced hath their heart as wine:
 And their children see, and have rejoiced;
 Rejoice doth their heart in the LORD.
 I list for them, and gather them;
 For I have redeemed them:
 And they have multiplied
 As they did multiply.
 And I sow them among the peoples,
 And in far-off places they remember Me;
 And have lived with their children,
 And have turned back.
 And I have brought them back
 From the land of Egypt,
 And from Asshur I gather them,
 And unto the land of Gilead and Lebanon
 I bring them in:
 And space is not found for them.

 He hath pressed and smitten the billows

 And lo, I am causing man to come out,
 Each into the hand of his neighbour,
 And into the hand of his king:
 And they have beaten down the land,
 And I deliver it not out of their hand.
 And I feed the flock of slaughter, even you,
 ye afflicted of the flock; and I take to myself
 two slaves, the one I have called Pleasantness, and the other I have called Bands, and I feed the flock. And I cut off three shop-herds in one month; and my soul is grieved with them, and their soul also hath abhorred me. And I say, 'I will not feed you:

 the dying, let die; and the cut off, let be cut off; as to the remaining ones, let each eat the flesh of its neighbour.' And I take My staff Pleasantness, and cut it asunder, to make void My covenant which I had made with all the peoples: and it is broken in that day: and the afflicted of the flock who observe me, know well that it is the word of the LORD. And I say unto them: 'If good in your eyes, give my hire; and if not, forbear;' and they weigh out my hire, thirty silverlings.

And the LORD saith unto me, 'Cast it unto the potter: the goodly price which I have been prized at by them, and I take the thirty silverlings, and cast them to the house of the LORD, unto the potter. And I cut asunder my second staff, Bands, to break the unity between Judah and Israel.

And the LORD saith unto me, 'Again take to thyself the instrument of a foolish shepherd.'

For lo, I raise up a shepherd in the land,
 The cut off he inspecteth not,
 The shaken off he seeketh not,
 And the broken he healeth not,
 The standing he sustaineth not,
 And the flesh of the fat he eateth,
 And their hoofs he breaketh off.

Wo to the worthless shepherd
 Forsaking the flock:
 A sword on his arm, and on his right eye:
 His arm is utterly dried up,
 And his right eye very dim.'

XII. 'THE BURDEN of the word of the LORD concerning Israel,
 Affirm doth the LORD,
 Stretching out heaven, founding earth,
 Forming the spirit of man in his midst.

Lo, I make Jerusalem a cup of reeling
 To all the peoples round about:
 And also against Judah it is,
 In the siege against Jerusalem.

And it hath come to pass, in that day,
 I make Jerusalem a burdensome stone
 To all the peoples:

All who load it are completely pressed
 And gathered against it [down,
 Have been all the nations of the earth.

In that day, affirmeth the LORD,
 I smite every horse with astonishment,
 And its rider with madness;
 On the house of Judah I open Mine eyes,
 And every horse of the peoples
 I smite with blindness.

And the leaders of Judah
 Have said in their heart: [Jerusalem,
 'Strength to me are the inhabitants of
 Through the LORD of Hosts their God.'

In that day I make the leaders of Judah
 As a hearth of fire among the trees,
 And as a torch of fire in a sheaf;
 And they have consumed—
 On the right and on the left—
 All the peoples round about,
 And Jerusalem hath inhabited again
 Her own place in Jerusalem.

And saved hath the LORD

- The tents of Judah first,
So that become not great against Judah
Both the beauty of the house of David,
And the beauty of the inhabitants of Jerusalem.
- ⁸ In that day cover over doth the LORD
The inhabitant of Jerusalem:
And the stumbling among them shall been in that day as David;
And the house of David as God—
As a messenger of the LORD—before them.
- ⁹ And it hath come to pass, in that day,
I seek to destroy all the nations
Who are coming in against Jerusalem.
Who are coming in against Jerusalem.
- ¹⁰ And have poured on the house of David,
And on the inhabitant of Jerusalem,
The spirit of grace and supplications;
And they have looked unto Me
Whom they have pierced,
And have mourned because of it,
Like the mourning over an only one;
And have been in bitterness for it,
Like the bitterness over the first-born.
- ¹¹ In that day, great is the mourning in Jerusalem,
As the mourning of Hadadrinmon,
In the valley of Megiddon.
- ¹² And mourned hath the land,
Every family apart:
The family of the house of David apart,
And their women apart;
The family of the house of Nathan apart,
And their women apart;
¹³ The family of the house of Levi apart,
And their women apart;
The family of Simeai apart,
And their women apart;
- ¹⁴ All the families which are left,
Every family apart, their women apart.
- XIII. ¹ IN that day, there is a fountain
For the house of David [opened]
And for the inhabitants of Jerusalem,
For sin and for impurity.

In his prophesying.

Ashamed are the prophets,
Each of his vision, in his prophesying;
And they put not on a hairy robe
In order to deceive.

I am a man, a tiller of the ground;

⁸ And it hath come to pass, [little ones,
In all the land, affirmeth the LORD,
Two parts in it are cut off, they expire;
And the third is left in it.
- ⁹ And I have brought the third into fire,
And have refined them
Like the refining of silver,
And tried them like the trying of gold:
It calleth on My name, and I answer it:
I have said, 'It is My people:'
And it saith, 'The LORD is my God.'
- XIV. ¹ LO, a day hath come to the LORD,
Divided hath been thy spoil in thy midst.
- ² And I have gathered all the nations
Unto Jerusalem to battle;
And captured hath been the city,
And spoiled have been the houses:
And the women are slain with,
Gone out hath half the city in the removal,
And the remnant of the people
Are not cut off from the city.
- ³ And gone out hath the LORD,
And hath fought against those nations,
As in the day of Ilis fighting
In the day of conflict.
- ⁴ And stood have His feet, in that day,
On the mount of Olives,
Which is before Jerusalem eastward:
And cleft hath been the mount of Olives
At its midst,
Toward the east, and toward the west,
A very great valley:
And removed hath the half of the mount
Towards the north,
And its half towards the south.
- ⁵ And ye have fled,
To the valley of My mountains;
For join doth the valley of the mountains
And ye have fled [to Azal:
As ye fled before the earthquake,
In the days of Uzziah king of Judah;
And come in hath the LORD my God,
All the holy ones are with Thee.
- ⁶ And it hath come to pass, in that day,
The precious light is not,
It is dense darkness.
- ⁷ And there hath been one day,
It is known to the LORD, not day nor night:
And it hath come to pass
At evening-time there is light.
- ⁸ And it hath come to pass, in that day,
Go out do living waters from Jerusalem:
Half of them toward the eastern sea,
And half of them toward the western sea:
In summer and in winter it shall be:
- ⁹ And the LORD hath become king over all
the land:
In that day there is one LORD,
And His name one.
- ¹⁰ Changed is all the land as a plain,
From Geba to Rimmon, south of Jerusalem:
And she hath been high, [Jem:
And hath dwelt in her place,
Even from the gate of Benjamin

To the place of the first gate, to the front
And from the tower of Hananeel, [gate:
Unto the wine-vats of the king.

And Jerusalem hath dwelt confidently.

In great abundance.

Who are coming in against Jerusalem,

They have gone up from year to year,
To bow themselves to the King,
The LORD of Hosts,
And to celebrate the feast of booths.
17 And it hath come to pass,
That he who goeth not up
Of the families of the land, to Jerusalem,
To bow himself to the king,
The LORD of Hosts,
Even on them there is no shower.

MALACHI.

CHAP. I. 1 THE burden of the word of the LORD unto Israel by the hand of Malachi:

2 I have loved you, said the LORD:
And ye have said, 'Wherein hast Thou loved us?' [the LORD:

'We have been made poor,
But we turn back and build the wastes;'
Thus said the LORD of Hosts:
They build, and I destroy,
And men have called to them,
'O region of wickedness,' and
'O people whom the LORD defied for ever.'

5 And your own eyes see, and ye say,
'Magnified is the LORD beyond the border
of Israel.'

6 A son honoureth a father,
And a servant his master:
And if I am a father, where Mine honour?
And if I am a master, where My fear?
Said the LORD of Hosts to you,
O priests, despising My name:
And ye have said:
'Wherein have we despised Thy name?'

7 Ye bring nigh on Mine altar polluted
And ye have said: [bread;
'Wherein have we polluted Thee?'

In your saying:
'The table of the LORD is despicable;'

8 And when ye bring nigh the blind for
'There is no evil;' [sacrifice,
And when ye bring nigh the lame and sick,

9 And now, appease, I pray thee, the face
And He will favour us: [of God,
From your own hand hath this been:
Will He accept appearances of you?

Said the LORD of Hosts.

11 For, from the rising of the sun,
Even to its going in,
Great is My name among the nations;
And in every place perfume
Is brought nigh for My name,
And a pure offering:
For great is My name among the nations,
Said the LORD of Hosts.

12 And ye are polluting it in your saying:
'The table of the LORD is polluted;
As to its fruit,—despicable is its food.'

13 And ye said, 'Lo, what a weariness;'
And ye have puffed at it,
Said the LORD of Hosts:

- And ye have brought in plunder,
And the lame and the sick;
And ye have brought in the offering!
Shall I accept it from your hand?
Said the LORD.
- ¹⁴ And cursed is the deceiver,
Who hath in his drove a male,
And voweth, and sacrificeth
A marred thing to the Lord:
For a great king am I,
Said the LORD of Hosts,
And My name is revered among nations.
- II. ¹ AND now, unto you
Is this charge, O priests.
- ² If ye hearken not,
And if ye lay it not to heart,
To give honour to My name,
Said the LORD of Hosts,
I also have sent against you the curse,
And I have cursed your blessings;
Yea, I have even cursed it,
Because ye are not laying it to heart.
- ³ Lo, I am pushing away
Before you the seed,
And have scattered dung before your faces,
The dung of your festivals,
And it hath taken you away with it.
- ⁴ And ye have known
That I have sent unto you this charge,
For My covenant being with Levi,
Said the LORD of Hosts.
- ⁵ My covenant hath been with him
Of life and of peace;
And I make them to him a fear,
And he feareth Me,
And because of My name
He hath been affrighted.
- ⁶ The law of truth hath been in his mouth,
And perverseness hath not been found in
In peace and in uprightness [his lips:
He hath walked with Me,
And many brought back from iniquity.
- ⁷ For the lips of the priest
Preserve knowledge,
And law they seek from his mouth:
For he is messenger of the LORD of Hosts.
- ⁸ And ye, ye have turned from the way,
Ye have caused many
To stumble at the law:
Ye have corrupted the covenant of Levi,
Said the LORD of Hosts.
- ⁹ And I also, I have made you despised
And low before all the people,
According as ye are not keeping My ways,
And are accepting persons in the law.
- ¹⁰ Have we not all one father?
Hath not our God created us?
Wherefore have we dealt treacherously
Each against his brother,
To pollute the covenant of our fathers?
¹¹ Dealt treacherously hath Judah,
And abomination hath been done in Israel,
And in Jerusalem;
For polluted hath Judah
The holy thing of the LORD,
Which He hath loved, and hath married
The daughter of a strange god.
- ¹² Cut off doth the LORD the man who doth
—Tempter and tempted— [it,
From the tents of Jacob,
Even he who is bringing nigh

Covering with tears the altar of the LORD,
With weeping and groaning,
Because there is no more

Or receiving of a pleasing thing from your ¹⁴ And ye have said, 'Wherefore?' [hand.
Because the LORD testified between thee
And the wife of thy youth,
That thou hast dealt
Treacherously against her:
And she thy companion,
And thy covenant-wife.

And He had the remnant of the Spirit.
And what is one alone?
He seeketh a godly seed.
When ye have been watchful over your
Then with the wife of thy youth [spirit,
None dealth treacherously.
- ¹⁶ For I hate sending away,
Said the LORD, God of Israel:
And he who hath covered violence
With his clothing, said the LORD of Hosts:
When ye have been watchful over your
Then ye deal not treacherously. [spirit,
¹⁷ Ye wearied the LORD with your words:
And ye have said:
'Wherewith have we wearied Him?
In your saying: 'Every evil-doer
Is good in the eyes of the LORD,
And in them He delighteth.'
Or, 'Where is the God of judgment?'
- III. ¹ LO, I am sending My messenger,
And he hath prepared a way before Me:
And suddenly come in unto his temple
Doth the Lord, whom ye seek,
Even the messenger of the covenant,
Whom ye are desiring,
Lo, he cometh, said the LORD of Hosts.
- ² And who beareth the day of his coming?
And who standeth in his appearing?
For he is as the fire of a refiner,
And as the soap of a fuller. [silver;
³ And he hath sat, a refiner and purifier of
And he hath purified the children of Levi,
And refined them as gold and as silver,
And they have been to the LORD
Bringing nigh an offering in righteous-
⁴ And sweet to the LORD [ness.
Hath been the offering of Judah and
As in days of old, [Jerusalem,
And as in former years.
- ⁵ And I have drawn near unto you for judg-
And I have been a witness, [ment;
Making haste against sorcerers,
And against adulterers,
And against swearers to a falsehood,
And against oppressors
Of the hire of an hireling,
Of a widow, and of a fatherless one,
And those who turn aside a sojourner,
Who fear Me not, said the LORD of Hosts.
- ⁶ For I am the LORD; I have not changed;
And ye are the children of Jacob;
Ye have not been consumed.
- ⁷ Even from the days of your fathers
Ye have turned aside from My statutes,
And have not taken heed.
Turn back to Me, and I turn back to you,

- Said the LORD of Hosts.
And ye have said, 'Wherein shall we turn
6 Will man deceive God? [back?]
But ye are deceiving Me!
And ye have said:
'Wherein have we deceived Thee?'
The tithe and the heave-offering!
9 With a curse are ye cursed:
Me ye deceive—this nation—all of it.
10 Bring in all the tithe
Unto the treasure-house,
And let there be food in My house,
When ye have tried Me now, with this,
Said the LORD of Hosts,
Do I not open for you the windows of heaven?
Yea, I have emptied on you a blessing
Till there is no space.
11 Yea, I have pushed for you
Against the consumer,
And he destroyeth not to you
The fruit of the ground:
Nor miscarry to you doth the vine in the 12 And declared you happy

Have all the nations:
For ye are a delightful land,
Said the LORD of Hosts.
13 Hard against Me have been your words,
Said the LORD; and ye have said:
'What have we spoken against Thee?'
14 Ye have said: 'A vain thing to serve God!
And what gain when we kept His charge,
And when we have gone in black,
Because of the LORD of Hosts:
15 And now, we declare the proud happy:
And built up have been those who do wickedness,
And they have tempted God, and escape.'
16 Then have those who fear the LORD
Spoken one to another:
And the LORD attendeth and heareth,

- And written is a book of memorial before
Of those who fear the LORD, [Him
And of those who esteem His name.
17 And they have been to Me,
Said the LORD of Hosts,
In the day that I appoint—a peculiar treasure,
And I have had pity on them.
As one hath pity on his own son
Who serveth him.
18 And ye have turned back and considered
Between the righteous and the wicked;
Between the servant of God
And him who is not His servant.
IV. 1 FOR, lo, the day hath come,
Burning as a furnace:
And all the proud, and every wicked doer,
Hath been stubble:
Then burnt them hath the day that hath
Said the LORD of Hosts, [come,
That there is not left of them root or 2 And risen for you, [branch.
Ye who fear My name,
Hath the sun of righteousness,
And healing is in its wings:
And ye have gone out,
And have increased as calves of the stall.
3 And ye have trodden down the wicked:
For they are ashes under the soles of your
In the day that I appoint, [feet,
Said the LORD of Hosts.
4 Remember the law of Moses My servant,
Which I commanded him in Horeb.
For all Israel—statutes and judgments.
5 Lo, I send to you Elijah the prophet,
Before the coming of the day of the LORD,
The great and the fearful.
6 And he hath turned back
The heart of fathers to children,
And the heart of children to their fathers,
Before I come and have utterly smitten
the land.

NOTICES OF THE NEW TRANSLATION OF THE BIBLE.

*The Rev. W. G. Blaikie, A.M., F.R.S.E. (Editor of the North British Review), writes: "I have often felt that a translation of the Scriptures would be of invaluable use to ordinary readers (not as superseding our time-honoured version, but as supplementary to it), that would be an exact counterpart of the Hebrew—rendering the Hebrew words and phrases uniformly (or as nearly so as possible), by the same English words and phrases; giving the tenses and moods exactly as they are in the original; in a word, causing the Scriptures to present to the English reader not only the same general meaning, but even the same minute shades of thought and feeling which they present to those familiar with the original tongues. Mr Young's translation seems to me admirably adapted to meet this want, and I hope to see it, in the sense I have indicated, a Standard Work. I am not Hebraist enough to decide whether Uau conversee is to be condemned, but I have always thought it an unlikely theory; I have often noticed the confusion and the feebleness it gives rise to in some of the finest descriptive passages, and I admire the simplicity and uniformity which Mr Young obtains by discarding it."*

The Rev. Robert Scrimgeour, Leith, writes: "I have carefully examined the Specimen Number of Mr Young's Translation of the Holy Scriptures, and most thoroughly do I concur in every word of the Rev. W. G. Blaikie's recommendation."

The Rev. Adam Stuart Muir, Leith, writes: "Having examined, with much care, the New Translation of the Holy Scriptures by Mr Robert Young, I have much pleasure in testifying to its close adherence to the original Hebrew. The style throughout is strikingly picturesque, and frequently dramatic, while many of the emendations are peculiarly felicitous. Not a few of the arguments usually brought by infidel authors against some of the leading doctrines of our most holy faith are at once answered simply by the correct rendering of the Hebrew phrases. Whilst this New Translation is by no means intended as a rival to the Common (or King James') version, still it cannot fail to be hailed as a great gift by all who desire to know correctly what is the teaching of the Holy Spirit."

The Rev. John Harrison, Sheffield, writes: "I have looked over the first No. with much interest. I feel assured, with God's blessing, it will tend to promote a more enlightened study of the Scriptures; and if you translate the New Testament on the same principles, I cannot but think a good deal of erroneous interpretation will be dissipated. As your principles of translation are altogether new to the mere English reader, and also to many of those who can read Hebrew, I feel almost certain that if your Translation and Commentary were published simultaneously, you would have a larger circulation of both. I have fully adopted Lee's principle of the tenses."

The Rev. Robert Nisbet, D.D., Edinburgh, writes: "While transmitting my name as a Subscriber to Mr Young's Translation and Commentary, I cannot help saying that I regard their publication as the most valuable contribution to Biblical learning the Church has received for many years, and you will have the satisfaction, I trust, of finding, that no Minister or Student of the Holy Scriptures fails to provide himself with a copy."

The Rev. C. T. Adley, Rudbaxton, Pembrokeshire, writes: "I quite agree with you, as far as I know anything of the subject, in the propriety of preserving the precise form and meaning of the Tenses in translation, and hope your New Translation will have a good effect on the public mind, and throw light on many passages of Scripture. I am engaged in Biblical studies, and am glad to refer to the original words, and get the benefit of the superior knowledge of others."

The Rev. G. W. Bridges, Beachley, writes: "I will do my best to disseminate my own conviction that your translation of the Bible—so accurate and truthful—is a work of infinite utility to the great cause of the Christian Church; worthy of the highest patronage, and demanding for yourself the most honourable as well as substantial reward."

The Rev. W. P. Bennet, Dorsetshire, writes: "Mr Young's Translation of the Scriptures and Critical Commentary will, I think, be a great boon, judging from the portions I have seen; and I trust his labours will be appreciated, so that he may be encouraged to undertake other ancient versions, and give them to the public in a like style of excellence."

*The Rev. Henry Marjett, Huntingdon, writes: "Your remarks on the Conversive War I relish—they give hope of the ultimate return of common sense in the mode of teaching the sacred language."*

The Rev. A. Robb, A.M., of Calabar, writes: "I think that most of the changes which you have introduced, in so far as I have examined them, are improvements; this remark is meant to apply to one or two knotty passages in the earlier part of Genesis."

The Rev. James Smith, Neshells, writes: "I have to thank you for sending me a specimen number of Mr Young's Translation of the Scriptures. It has pleased me so much that I wrote a commendatory notice of it for the 'Aberdeen Herald' of to-day."

The Rev. W. C. Badger, Seend, Wiltshire, writes: "So far as I have read it I much like it, and think it calculated to remove many difficulties."

The Rev. James Grierson, D.D., Errol, writes: "I am struck with what is justly called its lively, picturesque, dramatic style."

The Rev. Charles Baber, Cookham, writes: "The first six numbers of your New Edition of the Bible, so far as I have had occasion to examine them, have pleased me much."

The Rev. A. C. Bland, M.A., Burnhall, writes: "I wish you every success and encouragement in your exertions to improve the Translation of the Scriptures."

The Rev. G. W. Banks, Worth, writes: "The work is just what I have wanted for years past."

The Rev. D. M'Innes, Cromdale, writes: "I admire very much the specimen you sent me."

The Rev. H. S. Warleigh, Hertford, writes: "I quite agree in what you say of the Waw Conversive; and the principle you announce that the sacred writers put themselves into the time of the things they narrate, whether as historians or prophets, is sufficient to clear many obscurities."

The Rev. Richard Burnet, B.A., Leves, Sussex, writes: "Such a Literal and Idiomatic Translation of the Holy Scriptures is exceedingly valuable, not as a Substitute for the Common Version, but as a Companion to it, and it is especially interesting to persons like myself who, having some little knowledge of the Original Languages, endeavour to draw divine truth from the Fountain itself rather than from any secondary source, however excellent."

The Rev. John Latham, B.D., Presb. of Lichfield, writes: "I most heartily wish you success in your important labours. If you can bring the Hebrew within the rules of legitimate criticism, you will indeed accomplish a great and good work. In a philological point of view, I have always regarded the study of Hebrew as most unsatisfactory, and I am glad to find that you see the lax and unsatisfactory rules hitherto laid down by Hebrew scholars, and that you are searching in the right direction—viz., in the study of the cognate languages—for rules more definite and intelligible. I should probably have known more of Hebrew than I do, but for such difficulties as the Waw Conversive continually occurring."

"We have especial pleasure in receiving this first instalment of a very remarkable work. Perhaps nowhere could be found any person equally fitted to grapple with such an enormous undertaking as that which Mr Robert Young has set himself to accomplish; and when we think on all the circumstances of his active literary life, and the triumphs over difficulties which he has already attained, we state not only our opinion but that of many far more influential and learned, when we pronounce him to be a man of the rarest order of culture; one who is likely to be regarded by after times as an erudite student, whom his own day failed, possibly, to appreciate, but who did his work with honesty and indefatigable perseverance, and single-handedly accomplished what could not be gained from wealthy and learned companies. It is quite certain that the scholarship and industry of Mr Young are such as cannot easily be paralleled. In these days of copartnership delusion, when every kind of work is subdivided and intrusted piecemeal to a multitude of inferior handicraftsmen, the sight of a brave self-educated man taking rank with the very highest scholars, is, of itself, a gratifying spectacle. We recognize the dignity of an individual and integral mind, and not merely the mechanical product of a fractional taskworker. We doubt not that, whatever imperfections may be discovered in the first issue of his New Translation, there will be found, both in it and his proposed Commentary, a certain compensation, in the homogeneity which is to be obtained in no way so fully as in the giving unrestricted scope to the workings of an enlarged individuality. When a superior mind has subjected itself voluntarily to such a course of training and varied culture, it acts and labours by definite rules; the result of its systematic exercise is seen in the works which it leaves for posterity, as well as for the contemporaries of the passing hour. Smaller, but still valuable faculties may be therefore employed judiciously, in revising, correcting, enlarging, and annotating whatsoever has been given for use, until the entire fabric has become as nearly perfect as is possible. But no accumulation of minute workers could compensate for the total absence of such men as those who, almost unaided, have fought their way to eminence in the pursuit of knowledge, and the erection of a landmark to encourage other aspirants after excellence."—Macphail's Edinburgh Ecclesiastical Journal. (January 1862.)

THE HEBREW TENSES—IMPORTANT ADMISSIONS.

GESENIUS writes: "The Preterite serves to express what is finished and past, whether it actually belongs to the past, or properly lies in the present, or even in the future, and is only represented as past, that it may thus appear as certain as if it had already happened, or that it may stand, as relatively earlier, in comparison with a subsequent event."—Ileb. Gr. p. 203.

The Preterite is used, "even for the future, in protestations and assurances, in which the mind of the speaker views the action as already accomplished, being as good as done. In German [and English] the present is sometimes used in this case for the future. So in stipulations or promises in the way of a compact. Gen. 23. 11, 'I give (lit. have given) to thee the field,' v. 13, 'I give (lit. have given) money for the field,' particularly in promises made by God, Gen. 1. 29, 15. 18, 17. 20. Also in confident discourse, especially when God is said to be about to do something; e.g. 'Thou deliverest [lit. hast delivered] me, O Jehorah,' Ps. 31. 6; hence frequently used in lively representations of the future, and in prophecies, e.g. Isa. 9. 1, 'the people who walk in darkness see [lit. have seen] a great light,' v. 13, 'therefore my people goes [lit. hath gone] into captivity,' 14, 17, 25, 26; 11. 1, 2, 4, 6, 10.

"In Arabic . . . they say, 'I have already given it to thee, meaning, it is as good as done . . . In Arabic, also, the preterite is employed in wishes and obtestations."—Ibid. p. 205.

DR SAMUEL LEE writes: "As it is now placed beyond doubt that the Hebrew tense formerly termed future is an indefinite or unlimited present, i.e. expresses the action, &c., of the verb, as present with any time intimated by the context; and as the preterite does, according to Oriental usage, even now, imply futurity in prophetic and other similar announcements, no possible difficulty can remain in discovering—as it is the case with the Arabic, &c.—how the tenses ought to be taken, or how this particle (taar) is to be applied. And if our indefinite present should happen to be connected by it with a preceding preterite, and so make its action, &c., contemporaneous with that of this preterite; then, indeed, and in that acceptance, it might fairly be called conversive of such present tense, to that of such preterite, but even then, restrictive would be a better term. Ewald prefers relative."—Ileb. Lex. p. 164.

MATTHEW.

CHAP. I. ¹AN account of the genealogy of Jesus Christ, son of David, son of Abraham.

²Abraham begat Isaac: and Isaac begat Jacob: and Jacob begat Judah and his brethren.

³And Judah begat Pharez and Zarah of Tamar: and Pharez begat Hezron: and Hezron begat Ram: ⁴and Ram begat Aminadab: and Aminadab begat Nahshon: and Nahshon begat Salmon: ⁵and Salmon begat Boaz of Rahab: and Boaz begat Obed of Ruth: and Obed begat Jesse: ⁶and Jesse begat David the king.

And David the king begat Solomon, of her who had been Uriah's: ⁷and Solomon begat Rehoboam: and Rehoboam begat Abijah: and Abijah begat Asa: ⁸and Asa begat Jehoshaphat: and Jehoshaphat begat Joram: and Joram begat Uzziah: ⁹and Uzziah begat Jotham: and Jotham begat Ahaz: and Ahaz begat Hezekiah: ¹⁰and Hezekiah begat Manasseh: and Manasseh begat Amon: and Amon begat Josiah: ¹¹and Josiah begat Jechoniah and his brethren, at the Babylonian removal.

¹²And after the Babylonian removal, Jechoniah begat Shealtiel: and Shealtiel begat Zerubbabel: ¹³and Zerubbabel begat Abiud: and Abiud begat Eliakim: and Eliakim begat Azor: ¹⁴and Azor begat Sadok: and Sadok begat Achim: and Achim begat Eliud: ¹⁵and Eliud begat Eleazar: and Eleazar begat Matthan: and Matthan begat Jacob: ¹⁶and Jacob begat Joseph, the husband of Mary, of whom was born Jesus, who is called Christ.

¹⁷Therefore all the generations from Abraham unto David are fourteen generations: and from David unto the Babylonian removal, fourteen generations: and from the Babylonian removal unto the Christ, fourteen generations.

¹⁸And the birth of Jesus Christ was thus: For his mother Mary having been betrothed to Joseph, before their coming together she was found with child of the Holy Spirit: ¹⁹and Joseph her husband being righteous, and not willing to make her an example, wished privately to send her away.

²⁰And while he was thinking of these things, lo, a messenger of the Lord in a dream appeared to him, saying: 'Joseph, son of David, thou mayest not fear to receive Mary thy wife: for that which is begotten in her is of the Holy Spirit: ²¹and she shall bring forth a son, and thou shalt call his name Jesus: for he shall save his people from their sins.'

²²And all this came to pass, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Lord through the prophet, saying, ²³'Lo, the virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel: which is, being interpreted, 'With us—God.'

²⁴And Joseph, having risen from the sleep, did as the messenger of the Lord directed him, and received his wife, ²⁵and knew her not till she brought forth her son—the first-born: and he called his name Jesus.

¹¹AND Jesus having been born in Beth-Lehem of Judea, in the days of Herod the king, lo, mages from the east came to Jerusalem, ²saying: 'Where is he who is born king of the Jews? for we saw his star in the east, and came to bow to him.'

³And Herod the king having heard, was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him, ⁴and having gathered all the chief priests and scribes of the people, was inquiring of them where the Christ may be born?

⁵And they said to him, 'In Beth-Lehem of Judea: for thus it hath been written by the prophet, ⁶And thou Beth-Lehem, the land of Judah, art by no means the least among the leaders of Judah: for out of thee shall come one leading, who shall feed My people Israel.'

⁷Then Herod, having privately called the mages, inquired exactly of them the time of the appearing star: ⁸and having sent them to Beth-Lehem, he said: 'Having gone—inquire exactly for the child: and whenever ye may have found, bring me back word, that I also having come may bow to him.'

⁹And they, having heard the king, departed: and lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till, having come, it stood over where the child was.

¹⁰And having seen the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy: ¹¹and having come into the house, they found the child with Mary his mother, and having fallen down, howed to him, and having opened their treasures, presented to him offerings, gold, and frankincense, and myrrh: ¹²and having been divinely warned in a dream not to turn back to Herod, by another way they withdrew to their own region.

¹³And they having withdrawn, lo, a messenger of the Lord appeared in a dream to Joseph, saying, 'Having risen, take the child and his mother, and flee to Egypt, and be thou there till I may speak to thee: for Herod is about to seek the child to destroy him.'

¹⁴And he, having risen, took the child and his mother by night, and withdrew into Egypt: ¹⁵and he was there till the death of Herod, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Lord through the prophet, saying, 'Out of Egypt I called My Son.'

¹⁶Then Herod, having seen that he was mocked by the mages, was very wroth, and having sent forth, slew all the male children in Beth-Lehem, and in all its borders, from two years and under, according to the time that he inquired exactly of the mages.

¹⁷Then was fulfilled that which was spoken by Jeremiah the prophet, saying, ¹⁸'A voice in Ramah was heard—lamentation, and weeping, and much mourning—Rachel weeping for her children, and would not be comforted, because they are not.'

¹⁹And Herod having died, lo, a messenger of the Lord in a dream appeareth to Joseph in Egypt, ²⁰saying, 'Having risen, take the child and his mother, and go thou to the land of Israel: for they have died who were seeking the life of the child.'

²¹And he, having risen, took the child and his mother, and came to the land of Israel: ²²but, having heard that Archelaus doth reign over Judea instead of Herod his father, he was afraid to go thither: and having been divinely warned in a dream, withdrew to the parts of Galilee: ²³and coming, he dwelt in a city called Nazareth, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophets, that—'A Nazarene shall he be called.'

III. ¹AND in those days cometh John the Baptist, proclaiming in the wilderness of Judea, ²and saying, 'Reform ye, for the reign of the heavens hath come.' ³for this is he who was spoken of by Isaiah the prophet, saying, 'A voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord: straight make ye His paths.'

'And this John had his clothing of camels' hair, and a girdle of skin about his loins: and his nourishment was locusts and honey of the field.'

⁵Then were going out to him Jerusalem, and all Judea, and all the region of the Jordan, ⁶and were baptized in the Jordan by him, confessing their sins.

⁷But having seen many of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees coming for his baptism, he said to them, 'Brood of vipers! who shewed you to flee from the coming wrath? ⁸bring forth, therefore, fruits worthy of reformation: ⁹and think not to say to yourselves, We have a father—Abraham: for I say to you, that God is able of these stones to raise children to Abraham: ¹⁰and now also the axe is laid at the root of the trees: every tree therefore not bearing good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.'

¹¹'I indeed baptize you with water for reformation, but he who is coming after me is mightier than I, whose sandals I am not worthy to hear: he shall baptize you with the Holy Spirit and fire: ¹²whose fan is in his hand, and he will thoroughly cleanse his floor, and will gather his wheat into the store-house; but the chaff he will burn with fire unquenchable.'

¹³Then cometh Jesus from Galilee unto Jordan, to John, to be baptized by him, ¹⁴But John was forbidding him, saying, 'I have need to be baptized by thee—and thou comest unto me!' ¹⁵But Jesus answering said to him, 'Suffer, now, for thus it is becoming to us to fulfil all righteousness: then he suffers him,

¹⁶And having been baptized, Jesus went up immediately from the water: and lo, opened to him were the heavens, and he saw the Spirit of God descending as a dove, and coming upon him: ¹⁷and lo, a voice from the heavens, saying: 'This is My Son—the Beloved, in whom I have delighted.'

IV. ¹THEN Jesus was set forth into the wilderness by the Spirit, to be tempted by the Devil: ²and having fasted forty days and forty nights, he afterwards hungered.

³And the Tempter having come to him, said, 'If Son thou art of God—speak that these stones may be bread.' ⁴But he answering said, 'It hath been written, Not by bread alone shall man live, but by every word coming out of the mouth of God.'

⁵Then doth the Devil take him into the holy city, and setteth him on the pinnacle of the temple, ⁶and saith to him, 'If thou art of God—cast thyself down, for it hath been written, that His messengers He shall charge concerning thee, and on the hands they shall bear thee up, that thou mayest not dash thy foot against a stone.' ⁷Jesus said to him again, 'It hath been written, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God.'

⁸Again the Devil taketh him to a very high mountain, and sheweth to him all the kingdoms of the world and their glory, ⁹and saith to him, 'All these will I give to thee, if falling down thou mayest bow to me.' ¹⁰Then saith Jesus to him, 'Go—Adversary: for it hath been written, The Lord thy God shalt thou bow to, and Him alone shalt thou serve.'

¹¹Then the Devil leaveth him, and lo, messengers came and were ministering to him.

¹²And Jesus having heard that John was delivered up, withdrew to Galilee: ¹³and having left Nazareth, having come, dwelt in Capernaum, which is by the sea, in the borders of Zebulun and Naphtali, ¹⁴that it might be fulfilled which was spoken through Isaiah the prophet, saying: ¹⁵'The land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, the way of the sea, beyond the Jordan, Galilee of the nations, ¹⁶the people that is sitting in darkness, hath seen a great light, and to those sitting in the region and shadow of death, light hath risen.'

¹⁷From that time began Jesus to proclaim and to say, 'Reform: for the reign of the heavens hath come.'

¹⁸And Jesus, walking by the sea of Galilee, saw two brothers, Simon called Peter, and Andrew his brother, casting a drag into the sea, for they were fishers: ¹⁹and he saith to them, 'Come after me, and I will make you fishers of men: ²⁰and they immediately, having left the nets, followed him.'

²¹And having advanced from thence, he saw other two brothers, James, of Zebedee, and John his brother, in the boat with Zebedee their father, perfecting their nets, and he called them: ²²and they immediately, having left the boat and their father, followed him.

²³And Jesus was going about all Galilee teaching in their synagogues, and proclaiming the good news of the reign, and healing every sickness, and every malady among the people; ²⁴and his fame went out into all Syria, and they brought to him all who were ill, pressed with manifold sicknesses and afflictions, and demoniacs, and lunatics, and paralytics, and he healed them.

²⁵And there followed him great multitudes from Galilee, and Decapolis, and Jerusalem, and Judea, and from beyond the Jordan.

V. ¹AND having seen the multitudes, he went up to the mountain: and while he sat down, his disciples came to him; ²and having opened his mouth, he was teaching them, saying:

³Happy the poor in spirit—for theirs is the reign of the heavens.

⁴Happy the mourning—for they shall be comforted.

⁵Happy the meek—for they shall inherit the land.

⁶Happy those hungering and thirsting for righteousness—for they shall be filled.

⁷Happy the kind—for they shall find kindness.

⁸Happy the clean in heart—for they shall see God.

⁹Happy the peacemakers—for they shall be called sons of God.

¹⁰Happy those persecuted for righteousness' sake—for theirs is the reign of the heavens.

¹¹Happy are ye when they may reproach you, and persecute, and shall say any evil thing against you falsely, for my sake—¹²rejoice ye and be glad, for your reward is great in the heavens: for so persecuted they the prophets who were before you.

¹³Ye are the salt of the land: but if the salt lose savour, with what shall it be salted? for nothing it is good henceforth, except to be cast without, and to be trodden by men.

¹⁴Ye are the light of the world: a city set upon a hill cannot be hid; ¹⁵nor do they light a lamp, and put it under the measure, but on the lamp-stand; and it shineth to all who are in the house; ¹⁶so let your light shine before men, that they may see your good works, and may glorify your Father who is in the heavens.

¹⁷Suppose not that I came to throw down the law or the prophets: I came not to throw down, but to fulfil; ¹⁸for, verily I say to you, till the heaven and the earth may pass away, one iota or one tittle may not pass away from the law, till all may come to pass.

¹⁹Whoever therefore may throw down one of these commands—the least—and may teach men so, shall be called least in the reign of the heavens: but whoever may do and teach them, he shall be called great in the reign of the heavens.

²⁰For I say to you, that if your righteousness abound not above that of the scribes and Pharisees, ye shall not enter into the reign of the heavens.

²¹Ye have heard that it was said to the ancients: Thou shalt not kill; and whoever may kill shall be in danger of the judgment: ²²but I say to you, that every one who is angry with his brother without cause, shall be in danger of the judgment: and whoever may say to his brother, Empty fellow! shall be in danger of the sanhedrim: and whoever may say, Rebel! shall be in danger of the Gehenna of fire.

²³Therefore, if thou mayest bring thine offering to the altar, and there may remember that thy brother hath anything against thee, ²⁴leave there thine offering before the altar, and go: first be reconciled to thy brother, and then having come bring thine offering.

²⁵Be agreeing with thine opponent quickly, while thou art in the way with him, that the opponent may not deliver thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and into prison thou be cast; ²⁶verily I say to thee, thou mayest not come out thence till thou mayest pay the last farthing.

²⁷Ye have heard that it was said to the ancients: Thou shalt not commit adultery; ²⁸but I say to you, that every one who is looking on a woman in order to desire her, hath already committed adultery with her in his heart.

²⁹But if thy right eye cause thee to stumble, pluck it out and cast from thee: for it is good for thee that one of thy members may perish, and not thy whole body be cast into Gehenna.

³⁰And if thy right hand cause thee to stumble, cut it off and cast from thee: for it is good for thee that one of thy members may perish, and not thy whole body be cast into Gehenna.

³¹And it hath been said: That whoever may send away his wife, let him give to her a writing of divorce; ³²but I say to you, that whoever may send away his wife, save for the matter of whoredom, maketh her to commit adultery: and whoever may marry her who hath been sent away committeth adultery.

³³Again, ye have heard that it was said to the ancients: Thou shalt not swear falsely, but shalt pay to the Lord thine oaths; ³⁴but I say to you, not to swear at all; neither by heaven, for it is the throne of God: ³⁵nor by the earth, for it is His footstool: nor by Jerusalem, for it is the city of the great king; ³⁶nor by the head mayest thou swear, for thou art not able one hair to make white or black; ³⁷but let your word be, Yes, Yes, No, No, and that which is more than these is of evil.

³⁸Ye have heard that it was said: Eye for eye, and tooth for tooth; ³⁹but I say to you, not to resist the evil: but whoso shall slap thee on thy right cheek, turn to him also the other; ⁴⁰and whoso wisheth to take thee to law, and thy coat to take—suffer him also the cloak.

⁴¹And whoso shall impress thee one mile, go with him two; ⁴²to him who asketh of thee give; and him who wisheth to borrow from thee thou mayest not turn away.

⁴³Ye have heard that it was said: Thou shalt love thy neighbour, and shalt hate thine enemy: ⁴⁴but I say to you, love your enemies, bless those cursing you, do good to those hating you, and pray for those arraigning you, and persecuting you: ⁴⁵that ye may be sons of your Father in the heavens: for His sun He causeth to rise on evil and good, and sendeth rain on righteous and unrighteous.

⁴⁶For, if ye may love those loving you, what reward have ye? do not also the tax-gatherers that? ⁴⁷and if ye may salute your brethren only, what do ye abundantly? do not also the tax-gatherers so? ⁴⁸ye shall therefore be perfect, as your Father who is in the heavens is perfect.

VI. ¹TAKE heed not to do your kindness before men, in order to be seen by them; and if not—ye have no reward from your Father who is in the heavens: ²when, therefore, thou mayest do kindness, thou mayest not sound a trumpet before thee, as the hypocrites do, in the synagogues, and in the streets, that they may have glory of men: verily I say to you—they have their reward.

³But thou, doing kindness, let not thy left hand know what thy right hand doth, ⁴that thy kindness may be in secret, and thy Father who seeth in secret Himself shall reward thee manifestly.

⁵And when thou mayest pray, thou shalt not be as the hypocrites, for they love in the synagogues and in the corners of the broad places—standing—to pray, that they may be seen of men: verily I say to you—they have their reward.

⁶But thou, when thou mayest pray, go into thy chamber, and having shut thy door, pray to thy Father who is in secret, and thy Father who seeth in secret, shall reward thee manifestly.

⁷And—praying—ye may not use vain repetitions like the nations, for they think that in their much speaking they shall be heard: ⁸he ye not therefore like to them, for your Father knoweth that which ye have need of before your asking him. ⁹Thus therefore pray ye:

Our Father who art in the heavens; hallowed be Thy name.

¹⁰Thy reign come; Thy will come to pass, as in heaven also on the earth.

¹¹Our appointed bread give us to-day.

¹²And forgive us our debts, as also we forgive our debtors.

¹³And mayest Thou not lead us into temptation, but deliver us from the evil: for Thine is the reign, and the power, and the glory—for the ages. Amen.

¹⁴For, if ye may forgive men their trespasses, He also will forgive you—your Father who is in the heavens: ¹⁵but if ye may not forgive men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses.

¹⁶And when ye may fast, he ye not as the hypocrites, of a sour countenance; for they disfigure their faces, that they may appear to men fasting: verily I say to you—they have their reward.

¹⁷But thou, fasting, anoint thy head, and wash thy face, ¹⁸that thou mayest not appear to men fasting, but to thy Father who is in secret: and thy Father who seeth in secret, shall reward thee manifestly.

¹⁹Treasure not up for yourselves treasures on the earth, where moth and rust disfigure, and where thieves break through and steal: ²⁰but treasure up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust disfigureth, and where thieves do not break through nor steal: ²¹for where your treasure is, there will be also your heart.

²²The lamp of the body is the eye: if, therefore, thine eye be perfect, all thy body shall be enlightened: ²³but if thine eye be evil, all thy body shall be dark: if, therefore, the light which is in thee be darkness—the darkness, how great!

²⁴None is able to serve two lords: for either he will hate the one, and love the other: or he will hold to the one, and despise the other: ye are not able to serve God and mammon.

²⁵Therefore I say to you, be not careful for your life, what ye may eat, and what ye may drink; nor for your body, what ye may put on. Is not the life more than nourishment, and the body than clothing? ²⁶look to the fowls of the heaven: for they sow not, nor do they reap, nor gather into storehouses, and your heavenly Father nourisheth them: are ye not much better than they?

²⁷And who of you, being careful, is able to add to his age one cubit? ²⁸and about clothing why are ye careful? consider the lilies of the field—how do they grow? they labour not, nor do they spin: ²⁹but I say to you, that not even Solomon in all his glory was arrayed as one of these.

³⁰And if the herb of the field, which to-day is, and to-morrow is cast into the oven, God so clothe—not much more you, O ye of little faith? ³¹therefore ye may not be careful, saying, What may we eat? or, What may we drink? or, With what may we be clothed? ³²for all these the nations seek after: for your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these: ³³but seek first the reign of God and His righteousness, and all these shall be added to you. ³⁴Be not therefore careful for the morrow: for the morrow shall be careful for its own things: sufficient for the day is its own evil.

VII. ¹JUDGE not, that ye may not be judged: ²for with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: and with what measure ye measure, it shall be measured to you again.

³And why dost thou behold the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but the beam that is in thine own eye considerest not? ⁴or, how wilt thou say to thy brother, Suffer, I may take out the mote from thine eye; and lo, the beam is in thine own eye? ⁵Hypocrite, take first the beam out of thine own eye, and then thou shalt see clearly to take out the mote from thy brother's eye.

⁶Ye may not give that which is holy to the dogs, nor cast your pearls before the swine, that they trample them not with their feet, and having turned rend you.

7 'Ask, and it shall be given to you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened to you; ⁸for every one who is asking receiveth; and he who is seeking findeth; and to him who is knocking it shall be opened.

⁹ 'Or what man is of you, of whom, if his son may ask bread—a stone will he give to him? ¹⁰and if a fish he may ask—a serpent will he give to him? ¹¹if ye, therefore, being evil, have known to give good gifts to your children, how much more shall your Father who is in the heavens give good things to those asking Him?

¹² 'All things, therefore, whatever ye may wish that men may be doing to you, so also do ye to them: for this is the law and the prophets.

¹³ 'Go ye in by the strait gate, for wide the gate, and broad the way that is leading to destruction, and many are those going in by it; ¹⁴for strait the gate, and narrow the way that is leading to life, and few are those finding it.

²¹ 'Not every one who is saying to me, Lord, lord, shall come into the kingdom of the heavens: but he who is doing the will of my Father who is in the heavens. ²²Many will say to me in that day, Lord, lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name cast out demons? and in thy name done many mighty things? ²³and then will I profess to them, that—I never knew you, depart from me ye who are working iniquity.

²⁴ 'Therefore, every one who heareth of me these words, and doeth them, I will liken him to a wise man, who built his house upon the rock; ²⁵and the rain descended, and the streams came, and the winds blew, and beat on that house, and it fell not: for it had been founded on the rock.

²⁶ 'And every one who is hearing of me these words, and not doing them, shall be likened to a foolish man, who built his house upon the sand; ²⁷and the rain descended, and the streams came, and the winds blew, and beat on that house, and it fell, and its fall was great.'

²⁸ 'And it came to pass, when Jesus ended these words, the multitudes were astonished at his teaching: ²⁹for he was teaching them as having authority, and not as the scribes.

VIII. ¹AND when he came down from the mountain, great multitudes followed him; ²and lo, a leper having come, was bowing to him, saying, 'Sir, if thou be willing, thou art able to cleanse me:' ³and having put forth the hand, Jesus touched him, saying, 'I will, be thou cleansed,' and immediately his leprosy was cleansed.

⁴ 'And Jesus saith to him, 'See, thou mayest tell no one; but go, thyself shew to the priest, and bring the offering that Moses commanded, for a testimony to them.'

⁵ 'And Jesus having entered into Capernaum, there came to him a centurion calling upon him, ⁶and saying, 'Sir, my servant hath been laid in the house a paralytic, fearfully afflicted:' ⁷and Jesus saith to him, 'I having come, will heal him.'

⁸ 'And the centurion answering said, 'Sir, I am not worthy that thou mayest enter under my roof, but only say a word, and my servant shall be healed: ⁹for I also am a man under authority, having under myself soldiers, and I say to this one, Go, and he goeth; and to another, Be coming, and he cometh; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it.'

¹⁰ 'And Jesus having heard, wondered, and said to those following, 'Verily I say to you, not even in Israel so great faith have I found: ¹¹and I say to you, that many from east and west shall come, and recline (at meat) with Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, in the reign of the heavens. ¹²but the sons of the kingdom shall be cast out into the outer darkness—there shall be the weeping and the gnashing of the teeth.'

¹³ 'And Jesus said to the centurion, 'Go; and as thou didst believe let it be to thee: and his servant was healed in that hour.'

¹⁴ 'And Jesus having come into the house of Peter, saw his mother-in-law laid and fevered; ¹⁵and he touched her hand, and the fever left her, and she arose and was ministering to them. ¹⁶And evening having come, they brought to him many demoniacs, and he cast out the spirits with a word, and healed all who were ill, ¹⁷that it might be fulfilled which was spoken through Isaiah the prophet, saying, 'Himself took our infirmities, and our sicknesses bore.'

¹⁸ 'And Jesus having seen great multitudes about him, commanded to depart to the other side; ¹⁹and a certain scribe having come, said to him, 'Teacher, I will follow thee wherever thou mayest go:' ²⁰and Jesus saith to him, 'The foxes have holes, and the birds of the heaven nests, but the Son of Man hath not where he may lay the head.'

²¹ 'And another of his disciples said to him, 'Sir, permit me first to depart and to bury my father:' ²²and Jesus said to him, 'Follow me, and suffer the dead to bury their own dead.'

²³ 'And when he entered into the boat his disciples followed him, ²⁴and lo, a great tempest arose in the sea, so that the boat was being covered by the waves, but he was sleeping, ²⁵and his disciples having come, awoke him, saying, 'Lord, save us; we perish.'

²⁶ 'And he saith to them, 'Why are ye fearful. O ye of little faith?' Then having risen, he rebuked the winds and the sea, and there was a great calm; ²⁷and the men wondered, saying, 'What kind is this, that even the wind and the sea obey him?'

²⁰ And when he came to the other side, to the region of the Gergesenes, there met him two demoniacs, coming out from the tombs, very fierce, so that no one was able to pass by that way; ²¹ and lo, they cried out, saying, 'What—to us and to thee, Jesus, Son of God? hast thou come hither before the time to afflict us?'

²² And there was far off from them a herd of many swine feeding; ²³ and the demons were calling on him, saying, 'If thou cast us out, permit us to go into the herd of swine;' ²⁴ and he said to them, 'Go.' And having come out, they went into the herd of swine; and lo, the whole herd of swine rushed down the steep into the sea, and died in the waters; ²⁵ and those feeding them fled, and having gone into the city, declared all, and what had been done to the demoniacs.

²⁶ And lo, all the city came out to meet Jesus, and seeing him, called on him that he might depart from their borders.

IX. ¹ AND having gone into the boat, he passed over, and came into his own city; ² and lo, they were bringing to him a paralytic, laid on a couch; and Jesus having seen their faith, said to the paralytic, 'Be of good courage, son; thy sins have been forgiven thee.'

³ And lo, certain of the scribes said within themselves, 'This one speaketh evil.' ⁴ And Jesus, having known their thoughts, said, 'Why do ye think evil in your hearts? ⁵ for which is easier: to say, Sins have been forgiven to thee; or to say, Rise, and walk?'

⁶ But that ye may know that the Son of Man hath power on the earth to forgive sins—(then saith he to the paralytic)—having risen, take up thy couch, and go to thy house.' ⁷ And he, having risen, went to his house; ⁸ and the multitudes having seen, wondered, and glorified God, who had given such power to men.

⁹ And Jesus passing by from thence, saw a man sitting at the custom-house, named Matthew, and saith to him, 'Follow me;' and he, having risen, followed him.

¹⁰ And it came to pass, at his lying (at meat) in the house, that lo, many tax-gatherers and sinners having come, were lying (at meat) with Jesus and his disciples; ¹¹ and the Pharisees having seen, said to his disciples, 'Wherefore with tax-gatherers and sinners doth your teacher eat?'

¹² And Jesus having heard, said to them: 'They who are whole have no need of a physician, but they who are ill; ¹³ but having gone, learn ye what is: Kindness I wish, and not sacrifice: for I came not to call righteous men, but sinners to reformation.'

¹⁴ Then come to him do the disciples of John, saying, 'Wherefore do we and the Pharisees fast much, and thy disciples fast not?'

¹⁵ And Jesus said to them, 'Can the sons of the bride-chamber mourn, so long as the bridegroom is with them? but days shall come when the bridegroom may be taken from them, and then shall they fast.

¹⁶ And none putteth a patch of undressed cloth on an old garment, for its filling up taketh from the garment, and the rent is made worse.

¹⁷ Nor do they put new wine into old skins, and if not—the skins burst, and the wine runneth out, and the skins are destroyed! but they put new wine into new skins, and both are preserved together.'

¹⁸ While he is speaking these things to them, lo, a ruler having come, was bowing to him, saying—'My daughter hath just now died: but having come, lay thy hand on her, and she shall live.'

¹⁹ And Jesus having risen, followed him, also his disciples; ²⁰ and lo, a woman having an issue of blood twelve years, having come behind, touched the fringe of his garment: ²¹ for she said within herself, 'If only I may touch his garment, I shall be saved.' ²² And Jesus having turned about and seen her, said, 'Be of good courage, daughter: thy faith hath saved thee;' and the woman was saved from that hour.

²³ And Jesus having come into the house of the ruler, and seen the minstrels and the multitude making a tumult, ²⁴ saith to them, 'Withdraw, for the damsel did not die, but is asleep;' and they were deriding him; ²⁵ but when the multitude was put out, having gone in, he took hold of her hand, and the damsel arose; ²⁶ and the fame of this went out into all that land.

²⁷ And when Jesus passed on from thence, two blind men followed him, calling and saying, 'Deal kindly with us, Son of David.' ²⁸ And having come into the house, the blind men came to him, and Jesus saith to them, 'Believe ye that I am able to do this?' They say to him, 'Yes, sir.'

²⁹ Then touched he their eyes, saying, 'According to your faith let it be to you;' ³⁰ and their eyes were opened; and Jesus strictly charged them, saying, 'See, let no one know:' ³¹ but they having gone out, spread his fame in all that country.

³² And as they were coming out, lo, they brought to him a man dumb, a demoniac: ³³ and the demon having been cast out, the dumb spake; and the multitudes wondered, saying—'It was never so seen in Israel:' ³⁴ but the Pharisees said, 'By the ruler of the demons he casteth out the demons.'

³⁵ And Jesus was going up and down all the cities and the villages, teaching in their synagogues, and proclaiming the good news of the reign, and healing every sickness and every malady among the people.

³⁶ And having seen the multitudes, he was moved with compassion for them, that they were faint and cast down, as sheep not having a shepherd: ³⁷ then saith he to his disciples: 'The harvest indeed is abundant, but the labourers few: ³⁸ beseech ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that He may put forth labourers into His harvest.'

X. ¹ AND having called to his twelve disciples, he gave to them power over unclean spirits, so as to be casting them out, and to be healing every sickness, and every malady.

² And the names of the twelve apostles are these: first, Simon, who is called Peter, and Andrew his brother; James son of Zebedee, and John his brother; ³ Philip and Bartholomew; Thomas, and Matthew the tax-gatherer; James, the son of Alphaeus; and Lebbeus who was surnamed Thaddeus; ⁴ Simon the Cananite, and Judas Iscariot, who also delivered him up.

⁷ And, going, proclaim, saying, that, the reign of the heavens hath come; ⁸ the infirm be healing, lepers be cleansing, dead be raising, demons be casting out: freely ye received, freely give.

⁹ Provide not gold, nor silver, nor copper in your girdles, ¹⁰ no scrip for the way, nor two coats, nor sandals, nor staff: for the labourer is worthy of his nourishment.

¹¹ And into whatever city or village ye may enter, inquire who in it is worthy, and there abide, till ye may go forth. ¹² And coming into the house salute it; ¹³ and if indeed the house be worthy, let your peace come upon it; and if it be not worthy, let your peace turn back to you.

¹⁴ And whoever may not receive you nor hear your words, coming out of that house or city, shake off the dust of your feet: ¹⁵ verily I say to you, It shall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom and Gomorrah in the day of judgment than for that city.

¹⁶ Lo, I send you forth as sheep in the midst of wolves: be ye therefore wise as the serpents, and simple as the doves. ¹⁷ But take ye heed of men, for they will give you up to synagogues, and in their synagogues they will scourge you, ¹⁸ and before governors also and kings ye shall be brought for my sake, for a testimony to them and to the nations.

¹⁹ And whenever they may give you up, be not careful how or what ye may speak, for it shall be given you in that hour what ye shall speak; ²⁰ for ye are not the speakers, but the Spirit of your Father who is speaking in you.

²¹ And brother will give up brother to death, and father child, and children will rise up against parents, and will cause them to be put to death: ²² and ye shall be hated by all because of my name, but he who hath endured to the end—he shall be saved.

²³ But whenever they may persecute you in this city, flee into the other; for verily I say to you, ye may not have completed the cities of Israel till the Son of Man may come.

²⁴ A disciple is not above the teacher, nor a servant above his lord: ²⁵ sufficient to the disciple that he may be as his teacher, and the servant as his lord; if the master of the house they called Beelzebul, how much more those of his household?

²⁶ Therefore ye may not fear them: for there is nothing covered, that shall not be revealed; and hid, that shall not be known. ²⁷ That which I tell you in the darkness, speak in the light: and that which ye hear at the ear, proclaim on the house-tops.

²⁸ And ye may not be afraid of those who kill the body, but are unable to kill the soul; but fear rather Him who is able both soul and body to destroy in Gehenna.

³² Every one, therefore, who shall confess me before men, I also will confess him before my Father who is in the heavens: ³³ but whoever shall deny me before men, I also will deny him before my Father who is in the heavens.

³⁴ Ye may not suppose that I came to put peace on the earth; I came not to put peace, but a sword; ³⁵ for I came to set at variance a man against his father, and a daughter against her mother, and a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law: ³⁶ and the enemies of a man are those of his own household.

³⁷ He who is loving father or mother above me, is not worthy of me; and he who is loving son or daughter above me, is not worthy of me; ³⁸ and whoso doth not take his cross and follow after me, is not worthy of me.

³⁹ He who hath found his life shall lose it, and he who hath lost his life for my sake shall find it.

⁴⁰ He who is receiving you receiveth me; and he who is receiving me receiveth Him who sent me; ⁴¹ he who is receiving a prophet in the name of a prophet, shall receive a prophet's reward; and he who is receiving a righteous man in the name of a righteous man, shall receive a righteous man's reward; ⁴² and whoever may give to drink to one of these little ones a cup of cold water only in the name of a disciple, verily I say to you, he may not lose his reward.

XI. ¹ AND it came to pass, when Jesus ended commanding his twelve disciples, he departed thence to teach and to preach in their cities.

² And John having heard in the prison the works of the Christ, having sent two of his disciples, ³ said to him, 'Art thou he who art coming, or for another do we look?'

⁴ And Jesus answering said to them, 'Having gone, declare to John the things which ye hear and see: ⁵ blind men receive sight, and lame walk, lepers are cleansed, and deaf hear, dead are raised, and poor have the good news proclaimed; ⁶ and happy is he who may not be stumbled at me.'

⁷ And as they were going, Jesus began to say to the multitudes concerning John,

'What went ye out to the wilderness to look at? a reed shaken by the wind?

⁸ But what went ye out to see? a man clothed in soft garments? lo, those hearing the soft things are in the kings' houses.

⁹ But what went ye out to see? a prophet? yes, I say to you, and more than a prophet; ¹⁰ for this is he of whom it hath been written: Lo, I send My messenger before thy face, who shall prepare thy way before thee. ¹¹ Verily I say to you, there hath not risen, among those born of women, a greater than John the Baptist; but he who is least in the reign of the heavens is greater than he.

¹² And from the days of John the Baptist till now, the reign of the heavens suffereth violence, and violent men take it by force: ¹³ for all the prophets and the law prophesied till John; and if ye are willing to receive it, he is Elijah who was about to come; ¹⁴ he who hath ears to hear—let him hear.

¹⁵ But to what shall I liken this generation? it is like to children in the markets, sitting and calling to their fellows, ¹⁷ and saying, We piped to you, and ye danced not; we lamented, and ye smote not the breast.

¹⁸ For John came neither eating nor drinking, and they say, 'He hath a demon; ¹⁹ the Son of Man came eating and drinking, and they say, Lo, a man, a glutton, and a wine-drinker, a friend of tax-gatherers and sinners; and wisdom was justified of her children.'

²⁰ Then began he to reprove the cities in which most of his mighty works were done, because they reformed not:

²¹ Wo to thee, Chorazin! wo to thee, Bethsaida! for if in Tyre and Sidon had been done the mighty works that were done in you, long ago in sackcloth and ashes they had reformed; ²² but I say to you, For Tyre and Sidon it shall be more tolerable in the day of judgment than for you.

²³ And thou, Capernaum, which unto the heaven hast been exalted, unto Hades shalt be brought down: for if in Sodom had been done the mighty works that were done in thee, it had remained unto this day; ²⁴ but I say to you, that for the land of Sodom it shall be more tolerable in the day of judgment than for thee.'

²⁵ At that time Jesus answering said, 'I confess Thee, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that thou didst hide these things from wise and prudent ones, and didst reveal them to babes. ²⁶ Yes, Father: for so it was the good pleasure before Thee.

²⁷ All things were given to me by my Father: and none knoweth the Son, except the Father; nor doth any know the Father, except the Son, and he to whom the Son may will to reveal Him.

²⁸ Come to me, all ye labouring and burdened ones, and I will give you rest: ²⁹ take up my yoke upon you, and learn from me; for I am meek, and humble in heart: and ye shall find rest to your souls. ³⁰ for my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.'

XII. ¹ AT that time Jesus went on the sabbaths through the corn, and his disciples were hungry, and began to pluck ears, and to eat; ² and the Pharisees having seen, said to him, 'Lo, thy disciples do that which it is not lawful to do on the sabbath.'

³ And he said to them, 'Have ye not read what David did, when he was hungry, himself, and those with him—how he went into the house of God, and did eat the loaves of the presentation, which it was not lawful for him to eat, nor for those with him, except for the priests alone?

⁴ Or have ye not read in the Law, that on the sabbaths the priests in the temple profane the sabbath, and are blameless? ⁵ but I say to you, that a greater than the temple is here; ⁷ but if ye had known what is: Kindness I wish, and not sacrifice—ye had not condemned the blameless: ⁸ for the Son of Man is lord also of the sabbath.'

⁹ And having departed from thence, he went into their synagogue: ¹⁰ and lo, there was a man having the hand withered, and they questioned him, saying, 'Is it lawful to heal on the sabbaths?' that they might accuse him.

¹¹ And he said to them, 'What man shall be of you, who shall have one sheep, and if this may fall on the sabbaths into a ditch, will not lay hold on it and raise it? ¹² How much better, therefore, is a man than a sheep? so that it is lawful on the sabbaths to do good.' ¹³ Then saith he to the man, 'Stretch forth thy hand.' and he stretched it forth, and it was restored whole as the other.

¹⁴ And the Pharisees having gone out, held a consultation against him, that they might destroy him: ¹⁵ and Jesus having known, withdrew from thence, and great multitudes followed him, and he healed them all, ¹⁶ and charged them that they might not make him manifest: ¹⁷ that it might be fulfilled which was spoken through Isaiah the prophet, saying, ¹⁸ Lo, My servant, whom I chose: My beloved, in whom My soul hath delighted; I will put My Spirit upon him, and judgment to the nations he shall declare: ¹⁹ he shall not strive nor cry, nor shall any hear his voice in the broad places: ²⁰ a bruised reed he shall not break, and smoking flax he shall not quench, till he may put forth judgment to victory: ²¹ and in his name shall nations hope.'

²² Then was brought to him a demoniac, blind and dumb, and he healed him, so that the blind and dumb both spake and saw. ²³ And all the multitudes were amazed, and said, 'Is this the Son of David?' ²⁴ but the Pharisees having heard, said, 'This one doth not cast out the demons, except by Beelzeboul, ruler of the demons.'

²⁵ But Jesus knowing their thoughts, said to them, 'Every kingdom having been divided against itself, is desolated: and no city or house having been divided against itself, shall stand: ²⁶ and if the Adversary casteth out the Adversary, against himself he was divided; how then shall his kingdom stand?

27 And if I, by Beelzeboul, cast out the demons, your sons—by whom do they cast out? therefore they—they shall be your judges.

28 But if I, by the Spirit of God, cast out the demons, then come unto you hath the reign of God.

29 Or how is one able to go into the house of the strong man, and to plunder his goods, if first he may not bind the strong man? and then his house he will plunder.

30 He who is not with me is against me; and he who is not gathering with me, scattereth! 31 Therefore I say to you: all sin and evil speaking shall be forgiven to men; but the evil speaking of the Spirit shall not be forgiven to men. 32 And whoever may speak a word against the Son of Man it shall be forgiven to him; but whoever may speak against the Holy Spirit, it shall not be forgiven to him, neither in this age, nor in that which is coming.

33 Either make the tree good, and its fruit good, or make the tree bad, and its fruit bad; for by the fruit is the tree known.

34 Brood of vipers! how are ye able to speak good things, being evil? for, out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. 35 The good man out of the good treasure of the heart putteth forth the good things; and the evil man out of the evil treasure putteth forth the evil things.

36 But I say to you, that every idle word which men may speak, they shall give for it an account in the day of judgment: 37 for by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned.

38 Then answered certain of the scribes and Pharisees, saying, 'Teacher, we wish to see a sign from thee.' 39 But he answering said to them, 'A generation, evil and adulterous, seeketh a sign, but a sign shall not be given to it, except the sign of Jonah the prophet: 40 for, as Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights, so shall the Son of Man be in the heart of the earth three days and three nights.'

41 Men of Nineveh shall rise in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it, for they reformed at the proclamation of Jonah, and lo, something greater than Jonah here.

42 A queen of the south shall rise in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it, for she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon and lo, something greater than Solomon here.

43 But when the unclean spirit may go out from the man, it walketh through dry places seeking rest, and findeth not: 44 then it saith, I will turn back to my house whence I came out; and having come, it findeth it unoccupied, swept, and adorned: 45 then it goeth, and taketh with it seven other spirits more evil than itself, and having gone in they dwell there; and the last of that man becometh worse than the first: so shall it be also to this evil generation.'

46 And while he was yet speaking to the multitudes, lo, his mother and brethren had stood without, seeking to speak to him: 47 and one said to him, 'Lo, thy mother and thy brethren stand without, seeking to speak to thee.'

48 And he answering said to him who spake to him, 'Who is my mother? and who are my brethren?' 49 And having stretched forth his hand toward his disciples, he said, 'Lo, my mother and my brethren! 50 for whoever may do the will of my Father who is in the heavens, he is my brother, and sister, and mother.'

XIII. 1 AND in that day Jesus having gone out from the house, sat by the sea, 2 and gathered together unto him were great multitudes, so that having gone into the boat he sat down, and all the multitude on the beach were standing: 3 and he spake to them many things in similes, saying:

'Lo, the sower went forth to sow: 4 and in his sowing, some fell by the way, and the fowls came and devoured them: 5 and others fell on the rocky places, where they had not much earth, and immediately they sprang up, by not having depth of earth: 6 and the sun having risen, they were scorched, and by not having root, they withered: 7 and others fell on the thorns, and the thorns came up and choked them: 8 and others fell on the good ground, and were giving fruit, some indeed a hundred-fold, and some sixty, and some thirty. 9 He who hath ears to hear—let him hear.'

10 And the disciples having come, said to him, 'Wherefore in similes dost thou speak to them?' 11 And he answering said to them that—'To you it is given to know the mysteries of the reign of the heavens, but to these it is not given: 12 for whoso hath, to him shall be given, and he shall have abundance: but whoso hath not, even that which he hath shall be taken from him.'

13 Therefore, in similes speak I to them, for seeing they see not, and hearing they hear not, nor understand: 14 and fulfilled in them is the prophecy of Isaiah, which saith, With hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand, and seeing ye shall see, and shall not perceive: 15 for the heart of this people was made gross, and with the ears they heard heavily, and their eyes they closed, that they might not see with the eyes, and with the ears hear, and with the heart understand, and turn back, and I might heal them.

16 But happy your eyes that they see, and your ears that they hear: 17 for verily I say to you, that many prophets and righteous men desired to see that which ye look on, and they saw not, and to hear that which ye hear, and they heard not.

18 Ye, therefore, hear ye the simile of the sower: 19 Every one hearing the word of the reign and not understanding—the evil one cometh, and catcheth that which hath been sown in his heart: this is that sown by the way.

20 And that sown on the rocky places:

this is he who is hearing the word, and immediately with joy receiving it, ²¹and he hath no root in himself, but is temporary; and persecution or tribulation having risen because of the word, immediately he is stumbled.

²²And that sown among the thorns; this is he who is hearing the word, and the care of this age, and the deceitfulness of riches, choke the word, and it becometh unfruitful.

²³And that sown on the good ground: this is he who is hearing the word and understanding, who really beareth fruit, and produceth, some indeed a hundredfold, and some sixty, and some thirty.

²⁴Another simile put he forth to them, saying, 'The reign of the heavens was likened to a man sowing good seed in his field, ²⁵and while men were sleeping, his enemy came and sowed darnel in the midst of the wheat, and went away; ²⁶but when the herb sprang up, and yielded fruit, then appeared also the darnel.

²⁷And the servants of the householder having come, said to him, Sir, didst thou not sow good seed in thy field? whence then hath it the darnel? ²⁸And he said to them, An enemy did this; and the servants said to him, Wilt thou, then, that having gone we may gather them?

²⁹And he said, No, lest—gathering up the darnel—ye root up the wheat with it; ³⁰suffer both to grow together till the harvest, and in the time of the harvest I will say to the reapers, Gather first the darnel, and bind it in bundles to burn it, but gather up the wheat into my storehouse.'

³¹Another simile put he forth to them, saying: 'The reign of the heavens is like to a grain of mustard, which a man having taken, sowed in his field; ³²which, indeed, is less than all seeds, but when it may be grown, is greatest of the herbs, and becometh a tree, so that the birds of the heaven come and lodge in its branches.'

³³Another simile spake he to them: 'The reign of the heavens is like to leaven, which a woman having taken, hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened.'

³⁴All these spake Jesus in similes to the multitudes, and without a simile he was not speaking to them; ³⁵that it might be fulfilled which was spoken through the prophet, saying, 'I will open in similes my mouth; I will utter things hidden from the foundation of the world.'

³⁶Then having let away the multitudes, Jesus came into the house, and his disciples came to him, saying, 'Explain to us the simile of the darnel of the field.'

³⁷And he answering said to them, 'He who is sowing the good seed is the Son of Man; ³⁸and the field is the world; and the good seed, these are the sons of the kingdom; and the darnel are the sons of the evil one; ³⁹and the enemy who sowed them is the devil; and the harvest is the end of the age; and the reapers are messengers.

⁴⁰As, therefore, the darnel is gathered and burned with fire, so shall it be in the end of this age; ⁴¹the Son of Man shall send forth his messengers, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all the stumbling-blocks, and those who do iniquity, ⁴²and shall cast them into the furnace of the fire: there shall be the weeping and the gnashing of the teeth.

⁴³Then shall the righteous shine forth as the sun in the kingdom of their Father. He who hath ears to hear—let him hear.

⁴⁴Again, the reign of the heavens is like to a treasure hid in the field, which a man having found did hide, and from his joy goeth and all that he hath selleth, and buyeth that field.

⁴⁵Again, the reign of the heavens is like to a merchant seeking goodly pearls, ⁴⁶who having found one pearl of great price, having gone, hath sold all that he had, and bought it.

⁴⁷Again, the reign of the heavens is like to a net that was cast into the sea, and gathered together of every kind, ⁴⁸which, when it was filled, having drawn up on the shore, and having sat down, they gathered the good into vessels, and the bad they cast out; ⁴⁹so shall it be in the end of the age: the messengers shall come forth and separate the evil from the midst of the righteous, ⁵⁰and shall cast them into the furnace of fire: there shall be the weeping and the gnashing of the teeth.'

⁵¹Jesus saith to them, 'Have ye understood all these? They say to him, 'Yes, sir.' ⁵²And he said to them, 'Therefore, every scribe having been instructed as to the reign of the heavens, is like to a householder who bringeth out of his treasure things new and old.'

⁵³And it came to pass, when Jesus finished these similes, he removed thence, ⁵⁴and having come into his own country, was teaching them in their synagogue, so that they were astonished, and were saying, 'Whence hath this one this wisdom and the mighty works? ⁵⁵Is not this the carpenter's son? is not his mother called Mary, and his brethren James, and Joses, and Simon, and Judas? ⁵⁶and his sisters—are they not all with us? whence, then, hath this one all these?' ⁵⁷and they were stumbled at him.

But Jesus said to them, 'A prophet is not without honour except in his own country, and in his own house: ⁵⁸and he did not there many mighty works, because of their unbelief.'

XIV. ¹AT that time Herod the tetrarch heard the fame of Jesus, ²and said to his servants, 'This is John the Baptist, he hath risen from the dead, and because of this the working of mighty deeds is in him.'

³For Herod having laid hold of John, bound him, and put him in prison, because of Herodias his brother Philip's wife: ⁴for John was saying to him, 'It is not lawful for thee to have her.' ⁵and wishing to kill him, he feared the multitude: for as a prophet they were holding him.

⁶But the birth-day of Herod being kept, the daughter of Herodias danced in the midst, and pleased Herod, ⁷whereupon with an oath he professed to give her whatever she might ask.

⁸And she, having been instigated by her mother—'Give me (says she) here on a plate the head of John the Baptist:' ⁹and the king was grieved, but because of the oaths and those reclining with him, he commanded it to be given; ¹⁰and having sent, beheaded John in the prison; ¹¹and his head was brought on a plate, and given to the damsel, and she brought it to her mother.

¹²And his disciples having come, took up the body, and buried it, and having come, told Jesus; ¹³and Jesus having heard, withdrew from thence in a boat into a desolate place by himself, and the multitudes having heard, followed him on land from the cities.

¹⁴And Jesus having come out, saw a great multitude, and was moved with compassion on them, and healed their infirm; ¹⁵and evening having come, his disciples came to him, saying, 'The place is desolate, and the hour hath now past, let the multitudes away, that having gone into the villages, they may buy themselves food.'

¹⁶But Jesus said to them, 'They have no need to go: give ye them to eat.' ¹⁷And they say to him, 'We have not here except five loaves, and two fishes.' ¹⁸And he said, 'Bring ye them to me hither.' ¹⁹And having commanded the multitudes to recline on the grass, and having taken the five loaves and the two fishes, having looked up to the heaven, he blessed, and having broken, he gave the loaves to the disciples, and the disciples to the multitudes, ²⁰and they all ate, and were filled; and they took up what was over of the broken pieces twelve baskets full, ²¹and those eating were about five thousand men, besides women and children.

²²And immediately Jesus constrained his disciples to go into the boat, and to go before him to the other side, till he might let the multitudes away; ²³and having let the multitudes away, he went up into the mountain by himself to pray; and evening having come, he was there alone; ²⁴but the boat was now in the midst of the sea, distressed by the waves: for the wind was contrary.

²⁵And in the fourth watch of the night Jesus went to them, walking on the sea; ²⁶and the disciples having seen him walking on the sea, were troubled, saying—'It is an apparition;' and from fear they cried out; ²⁷and immediately Jesus spake to them, saying, 'Be of good courage; it is I; be not afraid.'

²⁸And Peter answering him said, 'Lord, if it is thou, bid me to come to thee on the waters.' ²⁹and he said, 'Come.' and having gone down from the boat, Peter walked on the waters to come to Jesus; ³⁰but seeing the wind vehement, he was afraid; and having begun to sink, cried out, saying, 'Lord, save me.'

³¹And immediately Jesus, having stretched forth the hand, laid hold of him, and saith to him, 'Little faith! wherefore didst thou doubt?' ³²and they having gone into the boat the wind lulled; ³³and those in the boat having come, bowed to him, saying, 'Truly—Son of God art thou.'

³⁴And having passed over, they came into the country of Genesareth; ³⁵and having known him, the men of that place sent forth into all that region round about, and brought to him all who were ill, ³⁶and were calling on him that they might only touch the fringe of his garment; and as many as touched were saved.

XV. ¹THEN come to Jesus do they from Jerusalem—scribes and Pharisees—saying, ²'Wherefore do thy disciples transgress the tradition of the elders?' for they wash not their hands when they may eat bread.'

³And he answering said to them, 'Wherefore also do ye transgress the command of God because of your tradition?' ⁴for God commanded, saying, Honour thy father and mother; and he who speaketh evil of father or mother—let him die the death: ⁵but ye say, 'Whoever may say to father or mother, An offering, whatever thou mayest be profited by me:—' he may not honour his father or his mother, and ye set aside the command of God because of your tradition.

⁷Hypocrites, well did Isaiah prophesy of you, saying, ⁸'This people draweth nigh to Me with their mouth, and with the lips it honoureth Me, but their heart is far off from Me; ⁹but in vain do they worship Me, teaching teachings, commands of men.'

¹⁰And having called the multitude to him, he said to them, 'Hear and understand: ¹¹not that which cometh into the mouth defileth the man, but that which cometh out from the mouth, this defileth the man.'

¹²Then his disciples having come to him, said to him, 'Didst thou know that the Pharisees, having heard the word, were stumbled?' ¹³And he answering said, 'Every plant which my heavenly Father did not plant shall be rooted up: ¹⁴let them alone: guides are they—blind of blind; and if blind guide blind, both shall fall into the ditch.'

¹⁵And Peter answering said to him, 'Explain to us this simile.' ¹⁶And Jesus said, 'Are ye also yet without understanding? ¹⁷do ye not understand that all that goeth into the mouth is received into the belly, and is cast out into the drain? ¹⁸but the things coming forth from the mouth come out from the heart, and these defile the man: ¹⁹for out of the heart come forth evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, whoredoms, thefts, false witnessings, evil speakings: ²⁰these are the things defiling the man: but to eat with unwashed hands doth not defile the man.'

²¹And Jesus having come out from thence, withdrew into the parts of Tyre and Sidon, ²²and lo, a woman, a Canaanitess, from those borders having come out, called to him, saying, 'Deal kindly with me, lord, Son of David, my daughter is miserably demonized.'

²³But he answered her not a word; and his disciples having come to him, were asking him, saying—'Let her away, for she crieth after us'; ²⁴and he answering said, 'I was not sent except to the lost sheep of the house of Israel.'

²⁵And having come, she was bowing to him, saying, 'Lord, help me.' ²⁶and he answering said, 'It is not good to take the children's bread, and to cast to the little dogs.'

²⁷And she said, 'Yea, lord, for even the little dogs eat of the crumbs which are falling from their lords' table.' ²⁸then answering, Jesus said to her, 'Woman, great is thy faith, let it be to thee as thou wilt;' and her daughter was healed from that hour.

²⁹And Jesus having passed from thence, came by the sea of Galilee, and having gone up to the mountain, he was sitting down there; ³⁰and great multitudes came to him, having with them lame, blind, dumb, maimed, and many others, and they cast them at the feet of Jesus, and he healed them, ³¹so that the multitudes wondered, seeing dumb ones speaking, maimed whole, lame walking, and blind seeing; and they glorified the God of Israel.

³²And Jesus having called to him his disciples, said, 'I have compassion on the multitude, for now three days they continue with me, and have not what they may eat; and to let them away fasting I wish not, lest they faint in the way.'

³³And his disciples say to him, 'Whence to us in a wilderness so many loaves as to fill so great a multitude?'

³⁴And Jesus saith to them, 'How many loaves have ye?' and they said, 'Seven, and a few little fishes.' ³⁵And he commanded the multitudes to sit down on the ground, ³⁶and having taken the seven loaves and the fishes, having given thanks, he brake, and gave to his disciples, and the disciples to the multitude.

³⁷And they did all eat, and were filled, and they took up of what was over of the broken pieces seven hand-baskets full: ³⁸and those eating were four thousand men, besides women and children.

³⁹And having let away the multitudes, he went into the boat, and came into the borders of Magdala.

XVI. ¹AND the Pharisees and the Sadducees having come, tempting, questioned him, to shew to them a sign from the heaven: ²and he answering said to them, 'Evening having come, ye say, Fair weather, for the heaven is red; ³and at morning, Foul weather to-day, for the heaven is red and gloomy; hypocrites, the face of the heavens indeed ye know to discern, but the signs of the times ye are unable!'

⁴'A generation, evil and adulterous, seeketh a sign, and no sign shall be given to it, except the sign of Jonah the prophet;' and having left them he departed.

⁵And his disciples having come to the other side, forgot to take loaves: ⁶and Jesus said to them, 'Beware, and take heed of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees;' ⁷and they were reasoning in themselves, saying, '—Because we took no loaves.'

⁸And Jesus having known, said to them, 'Why reason ye in yourselves, ye of little faith, because ye took no loaves? ⁹do ye not yet understand, nor remember the five loaves of the five thousand, and how many baskets ye took up? ¹⁰nor the seven loaves of the four thousand, and how many hand-baskets ye took up? ¹¹how do ye not understand that I spake not to you of bread—to take heed of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees?'

¹²Then they understood that he said not to take heed of the leaven of bread, but of the teaching of the Pharisees and Sadducees.

¹³And Jesus having come into the parts of Cesarea Philippi, was asking his disciples, saying, 'Whom do men say me—the Son of Man—to be?' ¹⁴and they said, 'Some, John the Baptist; and others, Elijah; and others, Jeremiah, or one of the prophets.'

¹⁵He saith to them, 'But ye—whom do ye say me to be?' ¹⁶and Simon Peter answering said, 'Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.'

¹⁷And Jesus answering said to him, 'Happy art thou, Simon Bar-jona, for flesh and blood revealed it not to thee, but my Father who is in the heavens.'

¹⁸'And I also say to thee, that thou art a rock, and on this rock I will build mine assembly, and the gates of Hades shall not prevail against it: ¹⁹and I will give to thee the keys of the reign of the heavens; and whatever thou mayest bind on the earth shall have been bound in the heavens; and whatever thou mayest loose on the earth shall have been loosed in the heavens.'

²⁰Then charged he his disciples that they may tell no one that he is Jesus the Christ.

²¹From that time began Jesus to shew to his disciples that it is necessary for him to go to Jerusalem, and to suffer many things from the elders and chief priests and scribes, and to be put to death, and the third day to rise.

²²And having taken him aside, Peter began to rebuke him, saying, 'Spare thyself, lord: this shall not be to thee:' ²³but he having turned, said to Peter, 'Get thee behind me, adversary! thou art a stumbling-block to me; for thou mindest not the things of God, but the things of men.'

²⁴Then said Jesus to his disciples, 'If any one willet to come after me, let him disown himself, and take up his cross, and follow me: ²⁵for whoever may will to save his life, shall lose it; and whoever may lose his life for my sake, shall find it: ²⁶for what is a man profited if he may gain the whole world, but of his life suffer loss? or what shall a man give as an exchange for his life?'

²⁷'For, the Son of Man is about to come in the glory of his Father, with his angels, and then will he reward each one according to his work. ²⁸Verily I say to you, there are certain of those standing here who shall not taste of death till they may see the Son of Man coming in his kingdom.'

XVII. ¹AND after six days Jesus taketh Peter, and James, and John his brother, and bringeth them up to a high mountain by themselves: ²and he was transfigured before them, and his face shone as the sun, and his garments became white as the light: ³and lo, Moses and Elijah appeared to them, talking together with him.

⁴And Peter answering said to Jesus, 'Sir, it is good for us to be here: if thou wilt, we may make here three booths: for thee one, for Moses one, and one for Elijah.'

⁵While he is yet speaking, lo, a bright cloud overshadowed them, and lo, a voice out of the cloud, saying, 'This is My Son.—the Beloved, in whom I have delighted: hear ye him.'

⁶And the disciples having heard, fell on their face, and were exceedingly afraid: ⁷and Jesus having come, touched them, and said, 'Rise, and be not afraid: ⁸and having lifted up their eyes, they saw no one, except Jesus only.

⁹And as they were coming down from the mountain, Jesus charged them, saying, 'Tell no one the vision till the Son of Man be risen from the dead.'

¹⁰And his disciples questioned him, saying, 'Why then do the scribes say that it is necessary that Elijah come first?' ¹¹And Jesus answering said to them, 'Elijah indeed cometh first, and shall restore all things: ¹²but I say to you, that Elijah hath already come, and they knew him not, but did with him whatever they would; so also the Son of Man is about to suffer by them.'

¹³Then understood the disciples that concerning John the Baptist he spake to them.

¹⁴And when they came to the multitude, there came to him a man, kneeling down to him, and saying, ¹⁵'Sir, deal kindly with my son, for he is lunatic, and suffers miserably, for often he falleth into the fire, and often into the water: ¹⁶and I brought him to thy disciples, and they were unable to heal him.'

¹⁷And Jesus answering said, 'O generation, unbelieving and perverse, till when shall I be with you? till when shall I bear you? bring him to me hither: ¹⁸and Jesus rebuked him, and the demon went out of him, and the youth was healed from that hour.

¹⁹Then the disciples having come to Jesus by himself, said, 'Wherefore were we unable to cast him out?' ²⁰And Jesus said to them, 'Through your want of faith: for verily I say to you, if ye may have faith as a grain of mustard, ye shall say to this mountain, Remove to yonder place, and it shall remove, and nothing shall be impossible to you: ²¹but this kind goeth not out, except with prayer and fasting.'

²²And as they were living in Galilee, Jesus said to them, 'The Son of Man is about to be delivered into the hands of men: ²³and they shall put him to death, and the third day he shall rise: and they were exceeding sorry.

²⁴And they having come to Capernaum, those receiving the didrachms came to Peter, and said, 'Your teacher—doth he not pay the didrachms?' He saith, 'Yes: ²⁵And when he came into the house, Jesus anticipated him, saying, 'What thinkest thou, Simon? the kings of the earth—from whom do they receive custom or tribute? from their own sons or from the others?'

²⁶Peter saith to him, 'From the others.' Jesus said to him, 'Then are the sons free: ²⁷but, that we may not cause them to stumble, having gone to the sea, cast a hook, and the fish that hath come up first take up, and having opened its mouth, thou shalt find a stater, that having taken, give to them for me and thee.'

XVIII. ¹AT that hour came the disciples to Jesus, saying, 'Who, then, is greatest in the reign of the heavens?'

²And Jesus having called up a child, set him in their midst, ³and said, 'Verily I say to you, if ye may not be turned and become as the children, ye may not enter into the reign of the heavens: ⁴whoever then may humble himself as this child, he is the greatest in the reign of the heavens.

⁵And he who may receive one such child in my name, receiveth me: ⁶but whoever may cause one of these little ones who believe in me to stumble, it is better for him that a weighty mill-stone may be hanged upon his neck, and he may be sunk in the depth of the sea.

⁷Wo to the world from the stumbling-blocks! for there is a necessity that the stumbling-blocks come: but wo to that man by whom the stumbling-block cometh!

⁸But, if thy hand or thy foot cause thee to stumble, cut them off and cast from thee: it is good for thee to enter into life lame or maimed, rather than having two hands or two feet, to be cast into the age during fire.

⁹And if thine eye cause thee to stumble, pluck it out and cast it from thee: it is good for thee having one eye to enter into life, rather than having two eyes to be cast into the Gehenna of fire.

¹⁰Beware!—ye may not despise one of these little ones, for I say to you, that their messengers in the heavens always do behold the face of my Father who is in the heavens: ¹¹for the Son of Man came to save that which is lost.

¹²What think ye? if a man may have an hundred sheep, and one of them may go astray, doth he not, having left the ninety-nine, having gone on the mountains, seek that which is gone astray? ¹³and if it come to pass that he find it, verily I say to you, that he rejoiceth over it more than over the ninety-nine which have not gone astray: ¹⁴so it is not the will in presence of your Father who is in the heavens, that one of these little ones may perish.

¹⁵And if thy brother may sin against thee, go and show him his fault between thee and him alone: if he may hear thee, thou didst gain thy brother: ¹⁶and if he may not hear, take with thee yet one or two, that by the mouth of two or three witnesses every word may stand.

¹⁷And if he may not hear them, tell it to the assembly; and if also the assembly he may not hear, let him be to thee as the heathen man and the tax-gatherer.

¹⁸ Verily I say to you, Whatever ye may bind on the earth shall have been bound in the heaven, and whatever ye may loose on earth shall have been loosed in the heaven.

¹⁹ Again, I say to you, that, if two of you may agree on the earth concerning whatever they may ask, it shall be done for them from my Father who is in the heavens; ²⁰ for where there are two or three gathered together in my name, there am I in their midst.

²¹ Then Peter having come to him, said, 'Sir, how often shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him,—till seven times?' ²² Jesus saith to him, 'I say not to thee till seven times, but till seventy times seven.'

²³ Therefore was the reign of the heavens likened to a man, a king, who wished to take account with his servants; ²⁴ and he having begun to take account, there was brought to him one debtor of ten thousand talents, ²⁵ and he having nothing to pay, his lord commanded him to be sold, and his wife, and the children, and all that he had, and payment to be made. ²⁶ The servant then, having fallen down, was bowing to him, saying, Lord, have patience with me, and I will pay thee all; ²⁷ and the lord of that servant having been moved with compassion released him, and the debt forgave him.

²⁸ But, that servant having come out, found one of his fellow-servants, who was owing him an hundred denaries, and having laid hold he took him by the throat, saying, Pay me that which thou owest. ²⁹ His fellow-servant then, having fallen down at his feet, was calling on him, saying, Have patience with me, and I will pay thee all; ³⁰ and he would not, but having gone, cast him into prison, till he might pay that which was owing.

³¹ And his fellow-servants having seen the things that had been done, were grieved exceedingly, and having come, explained to their lord all the things that had been done; ³² then having called him, his lord saith to him, Evil servant! all that debt I forgave thee, seeing thou didst call upon me; ³³ was it not necessary also for thee to have dealt kindly with thy fellow-servant, as I also dealt kindly with thee?

³⁴ And having been wroth, his lord delivered him to the inquisitors, till he might pay all that was owing to him; ³⁵ so also my heavenly Father will do to you, if ye may not forgive each one his brother from your hearts their trespasses.

XIX. ¹ AND it came to pass, when Jesus finished these words, he removed from Galilee, and came to the borders of Judæa, beyond the Jordan; ² and great multitudes followed him, and he healed them there.

³ And the Pharisees came to him, tempting him, and saying to him, 'Is it lawful for a man to send away his wife for every cause?' ⁴ And he answering said to them, 'Did ye not read, that He who made them from the beginning made them male and female, ⁵ and said, For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and cleave to his wife, and the two shall be as one flesh; ⁶ so that they are no more two, but one flesh; what therefore God joined together, let not man put asunder.'

⁷ They say to him, 'Why then did Moses command to give a bill of divorce, and to send her away?' ⁸ He saith to them—'Moses for your hardness of heart suffered you to send away your wives; but from the beginning it hath not been so.'

⁹ And I say to you, that, whoever may send away his wife, if not for whoredom, and may marry another, committeth adultery; and he who hath married her that hath been sent away committeth adultery.'

¹⁰ His disciples say to him, 'If the case of the man with the woman is so, it is not good to marry.'

¹¹ And he said to them, 'All do not receive this word, but those to whom it is given: ¹² for there are eunuchs who from the mother's womb were so born; and there are eunuchs who were made eunuchs by men; and there are eunuchs who made themselves eunuchs for the sake of the kingdom of the heavens: he who is able to receive it, let him receive it.'

¹³ Then were brought to him children that he might put hands on them, and might pray, but the disciples rebuked them.

¹⁴ But Jesus said, 'Suffer the children, and forbid them not, to come to me, for for such is the reign of the heavens;' ¹⁵ and having laid his hands on them, he departed thence.

¹⁶ And lo, one having come up, said to him, 'Good teacher, what good thing shall I do, that I may have age-during life?'

¹⁷ And he said to him, 'Why dost thou call me good? none is good except One—God; but if thou dost wish to enter into life, keep the commands.'

¹⁸ He saith to him, 'What kind?' And Jesus said, 'Thou shalt not kill: thou shalt not commit adultery: thou shalt not steal: thou shalt not bear false witness: ¹⁹ honour thy father and mother; and, thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.'

²⁰ The young man saith to him, 'All these I kept from my youth; what yet do I lack?'

²¹ Jesus said to him, 'If thou dost wish to be perfect, go, sell what thou hast, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven, and come, follow me.'

²² And the young man having heard the word, went away sorrowful, for he had many possessions; ²³ and Jesus said to his disciples, 'Verily I say to you, that hardly shall a rich man enter into the reign of the heavens; ²⁴ and again I say to you, it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to enter into the reign of God.'

²⁵ And his disciples having heard, were amazed exceedingly, saying, 'Who, then, is able to be saved?' ²⁶ But Jesus having earnestly beheld, said to them, 'With men this is impossible, but with God all things are possible.'

²⁷ Then Peter answering said to him, 'Lo, we left all, and followed thee, what then shall we have?' ²⁸ And Jesus said to them, 'Verily I say to you, that ye who followed me, in the renovation, when the Son of Man may sit on the throne of his glory, shall sit—ye also—on twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel; ²⁹ and every one who left houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or fields, for my name's sake, an hundredfold shall receive, and age-during life shall inherit; ³⁰ but many first shall be last, and last first.

XX. ¹ FOR the reign of the heavens is like to a householder, who went out with the morning to hire labourers for his vineyard; ² and having agreed with the labourers for a denary a day, he sent them into his vineyard.

³ And having gone out about the third hour, he saw others standing in the market idle, ⁴ and to these he said, Go ye also into the vineyard, and whatever may be just I will give you; ⁵ and they went away.

Again, having gone out about the sixth and ninth hour, he did in like manner. ⁶ And about the eleventh hour, having gone out, he found others standing idle, and saith to them, Why here stand ye all the day idle? ⁷ they say to him, Because no one hired us; he saith to them, Go ye also into the vineyard, and whatever may be just ye shall receive.

⁸ And evening having come, the lord of the vineyard saith to his steward, Call the labourers, and pay them the reward, having begun from the last—unto the first. ⁹ And they of about the eleventh hour having come, received each a denary.

¹⁰ And the first having come, supposed that they shall receive more; and they also received each a denary, ¹¹ and having received it, were murmuring against the householder, saying, ¹² that these, the last, wrought one hour, and thou hast made them equal to us, who bore the burden of the day, and the heat.

¹³ And he answering said to one of them, Comrade, I do thee no injustice: didst not thou agree with me for a denary? ¹⁴ take that which is thine, and go; and I will give to this last also as to thee; ¹⁵ is it not lawful for me to do what I will with mine own? is thine eye evil because I am good? ¹⁶ So the last shall be first, and the first last: for many are called, but few chosen.

¹⁷ And Jesus going up to Jerusalem, took the twelve disciples by themselves in the way, and said to them, ¹⁸ Lo, we go up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man shall be delivered to the chief priests and scribes, ¹⁹ and they shall condemn him to death, and deliver him to the nations for to mock, and to scourge, and to crucify; and the third day he will rise again.

²⁰ Then came to him the mother of the sons of Zebedee, with her sons, bowing and asking something from him; ²¹ and he said to her, 'What wilt thou?' She saith to him, 'Speak, that they may sit—these my two sons—one on the right hand and one on the left, in thy kingdom.'

²² But Jesus answering said, 'Ye know not what ye ask: are ye able to drink of the cup which I am about to drink? and with the baptism which I am baptized with, to be baptized?' They say to him, 'We are able.'

²³ And he saith to them, 'Of my cup in deed ye shall drink, and with the baptism I am baptized with ye shall be baptized; but to sit on my right hand and on my left is not mine to give, but to those for whom it hath been prepared by my Father.'

²⁴ And the ten having heard, were much displeased with the two brethren: ²⁵ but Jesus having called them up, said, 'Ye know that the rulers of the nations exercise lordship over them, and those who are great exercise authority upon them; ²⁶ but not so shall it be among you, but whoever may wish among you to be great, let him be your minister; ²⁷ and whoever may wish among you to be first, let him be your servant; ²⁸ even as the Son of Man came not to be ministered to, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many.'

²⁹ And as they were going out from Jericho, there followed him a great multitude, ³⁰ and lo, two blind men sitting by the way, having heard that Jesus passeth by, cried, saying, 'Deal kindly with us, Lord, Son of David.' ³¹ But the multitude charged them that they might be silent, but they cried out the more, saying, 'Deal kindly with us, Lord, Son of David.'

³² And having stood, Jesus called them, and said, 'What wish ye that I may do to you?' ³³ they say to him, 'Lord, that our eyes may be opened:' ³⁴ and, moved with compassion, Jesus touched their eyes, and immediately their eyes received sight, and they followed him.

XXI. ¹ AND when they came near to Jerusalem, and came to Bethphage, to the mount of the olives, then Jesus sent two disciples, ² saying to them, 'Go ye into the village before you, and immediately ye shall find an ass bound, and a colt with her; having loosed, bring to me; ³ and if any one may say anything to you, ye shall say, that the Lord hath need of them; and immediately he will send them.'

⁶ And the disciples having gone and done as Jesus commanded them, ⁷ brought the ass and the colt, and put on them their garments, and set him on them; ⁸ and the great multitude spread their own garments in the way; and others were cutting branches from the trees, and were strewing in the way; ⁹ and the multitudes who were going before, and who were following, were crying, saying, 'Hosanna to the Son of David; blessed is he who is coming in the name of the Lord: Hosanna in the highest.'

¹⁰ And as he was going into Jerusalem, all the city was moved, saying, 'Who is this?' ¹¹ And the multitudes said, 'This is Jesus the prophet, who is from Nazareth of Galilee.'

¹² And Jesus entered into the temple of God, and cast out all who were selling and buying in the temple, and the tables of the money-changers he overturned, and the seats of those who were selling the doves: ¹³ and he saith to them, 'It hath been written, My house a house of prayer shall be called, but ye have made it a den of robbers.'

¹⁴ And there came to him blind and lame men in the temple, and he healed them; ¹⁵ but the chief priests and the scribes having seen the wonders that he did, and the children crying in the temple, and saying, 'Hosanna to the Son of David,' were much displeased. ¹⁶ And said to him, 'Hearest thou what these say?' And Jesus saith to them, 'Yes: did ye never read, that, Out of the mouth of babes and sucklings Thou didst prepare praise?'

¹⁷ And having left them, he went out from the city to Bethany, and lodged there; ¹⁸ and in the morning turning back to the city, he hungered, ¹⁹ and having seen a fig-tree on the way, he came to it, and found nothing on it except leaves only: and he saith to it, 'No more from thee may fruit be—for the age;' and forthwith the fig-tree withered.

²⁰ And the disciples having seen, wondered, saying, 'How did the fig-tree forthwith wither?' ²¹ And Jesus answering said to them, 'Verily I say to you, If ye may have faith, and may not doubt, not only this of the fig-tree shall ye do, but even if to this mountain ye may say, Be lifted up and be cast into the sea, it shall come to pass: ²² and all—whatever—ye may ask in prayer, believing, ye shall receive.'

²³ And he having come into the temple, the chief priests and the elders of the people came to him when teaching, saying, 'By what authority doest thou these things? and who gave to thee this authority?'

²⁴ And Jesus answering said to them, 'I will ask you—I also—one word, which if ye may tell me, I also will tell you by what authority I do these things: ²⁵ the baptism of John, whence was it?—from heaven, or from men?'

And they were reasoning with themselves, saying, 'If we should say, From heaven: he will say to us, Wherefore, then, did ye not believe him? ²⁶ and if we should say, From men: we fear the multitude, for all hold John as a prophet.'

²⁷ And answering Jesus they said, 'We know not.' He said to them—he also—'Neither do I tell you by what authority I do these things.'

²⁸ But what think ye? A man had two children, and having come to the first, he said, Child, go, to-day work in my vineyard.'

²⁹ But he answering said, 'I will not: but afterwards having repented, he went,

³⁰ And having come to the second, he said in like manner; and he answering said, I will, sir, and went not: ³¹ which of the two did the will of the father? They say to him, 'The first.'

Jesus saith to them, 'Verily I say to you, that the tax-gatherers and the harlots go before you into the kingdom of God, ³² for John came to you in the way of righteousness, and ye believed him not, but the tax-gatherers and the harlots believed him, and ye, having seen, repented not afterwards—to believe him.'

³³ Hear another simile: There was a certain man, a householder, who planted a vineyard, and put a hedge round it, and digged in it a wine-press, and built a tower, and let it out to husbandmen, and went abroad.

³⁴ And when the season of the fruits came nigh, he sent his servants to the husbandmen, to receive its fruits: ³⁵ and the husbandmen having taken his servants, one they scourged, and one they killed, and one they stoned.

³⁶ Again he sent other servants more than the first, and they did to them in like manner.

³⁷ And afterwards he sent to them his son, saying, They will reverence my son: ³⁸ but the husbandmen having seen the son, said among themselves, This is the heir, come, we may kill him, and possess his inheritance: ³⁹ and having taken him, they cast him out of the vineyard, and killed him: ⁴⁰ whenever therefore the lord of the vineyard may come, what will he do to these husbandmen?'

⁴¹ They say to him, 'Evil men—he will miserably destroy them, and the vineyard will let out to other husbandmen, who will give back to him the fruits in their seasons.'

⁴² Jesus saith to them, 'Did ye not, then, read in the Writings, A stone which the builders disallowed, it became the head of a corner: from the Lord hath this come to pass, and it is wonderful in our eyes.'

⁴³ Therefore I say to you, that the reign of God shall be taken from you, and given to a nation bringing forth its fruit: ⁴⁴ and he who falleth on this stone shall be broken, but on whomsoever it may fall it will crush him to pieces.'

⁴⁵ And the chief priests and the Pharisees having heard his similes, knew that of them he speaketh: and seeking to lay hold on him, they feared the multitudes, seeing they were holding him as a prophet.

XXII. ¹ And Jesus answering, again spake to them in similes, saying, ² The reign of the heavens was likened to a man, a king, who made marriage-feasts for his son: ³ and he sent forth his servants to call those who have been called to the marriage-feasts, and they would not come.

⁴ Again he sent forth other servants, saying, Say to those who have been called, lo, my dinner I have prepared: my oxen and the fatlings have been killed, and all things are ready: come to the marriage-feasts: ⁵ but they, having disregarded it, went away, the one to his own farm, and the other to his own merchandise: ⁶ and the rest, having laid hold of his servants, insulted and slew them.

7 And the king having heard, was wroth, and having sent forth his soldiers, destroyed those murderers, and their city set on fire: 8 then saith he to his servants, The marriage-feast indeed is ready, but those called were not worthy: 9 go ye, then, on to the cross-ways, and as many as ye may find, call to the marriage-feast.

10 And those servants having gone out into the ways, gathered all, as many as they found, both bad and good: and the marriage-feast apartment was filled with guests.

11 And the king having come in to view the guests, saw there a man not clothed with clothing of the marriage-feast, 12 and saith to him, Comrade, how camest thou in hither, not having the clothing of the marriage-feast? and he was speechless.

13 Then said the king to the attendants, Having bound his feet and hands, take him up and cast him out into the outer darkness: there shall be the weeping and the gnashing of the teeth: 14 for many are called, but few chosen.

15 Then the Pharisees having gone, took council that they might ensnare him in words: 16 and they send to him their disciples with the Herodians, saying, 'Teacher, we have known that thou art true, and the way of God in truth thou teachest, and art not caring for any one, for thou lookest not to the face of men: 17 tell us therefore what thou thinkest, is it lawful to give tribute to Cesar or not?'

18 But Jesus having known their wickedness, said, 'Why me do ye tempt, hypocrites? 19 show me the tribute-coin?' and they brought to him a denary: 20 and he saith to them, 'Whose this image and the inscription?' 21 they say to him, 'Cesar's:' then saith he to them, 'Render therefore the things of Cesar to Cesar, and the things of God to God:' 22 and having heard they wondered, and having left him went away.

23 In that day came to him Sadducees, who say there is not to be a rising again, and they questioned him, saying, 24 'Teacher, Moses said, If any one may die not having children, his brother shall marry his wife, and raise up seed to his brother.

25 But there were with us seven brothers, and the first having married, died, and not having seed, left his wife to his brother: 26 in like manner also the second, and the third, unto the seventh: 27 and last of all died also the woman: 28 therefore in the rising again of which of the seven shall she be wife, for all had her?'

29 And Jesus answering said to them, 'Ye go astray, not knowing the Writings, nor the power of God: 30 for in the rising again they marry not, nor are given in marriage, but are as the messengers of God in heaven.

31 And concerning the rising again of the dead, have ye not read that which was spoken to you by God, saying, 32 I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob? God is not a God of dead men, but of living.'

33 And having heard, the multitudes were astonished at his teaching: 34 but the Pharisees, having heard that he silenced the Sadducees, were gathered together to him, 35 and one of them, a lawyer, questioned, tempting him and saying, 36 'Teacher, which is the great command in the Law?'

37 And Jesus said to him, 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thine understanding: 38 this is the first and great command: 39 but the second is like to it, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself: 40 on these—the two commands—all the law and the prophets do hang.

41 And the Pharisees having been gathered together, Jesus questioned them, 42 saying, 'What do ye think concerning the Christ? of whom is he son?' They say to him, 'Of David.'

43 He saith to them, 'How then doth David in the Spirit call him Lord, saying, 44 The Lord said to my lord, Sit at my right hand, till I may make thine enemies thy footstool? 45 If then David doth call him lord, how is he his son?' 46 And none was able to answer him a word, nor durst any from that day question him any more.

XXIII. 1 THEN Jesus spake to the multitudes and to his disciples, 2 saying, 'On the seat of Moses sat down the scribes and the Pharisees: 3 all, then, whatever they may say to you to observe, observe and do, but according to their works do not, for they say, and do not: 4 for they bind together burdens heavy and grievous to be borne, and lay on the shoulders of men, but with their finger they will not move them.

5 But all their works they do to be seen by men, and make broad their phylacteries, and enlarge the fringes of their garments, 6 and love the chief couches at the suppers, and the first seats in the synagogues, 7 and the salutations in the markets, and to be called by men, Rabbi, Rabbi.

8 But ye—be not ye called Rabbi: for one is your director—the Christ, and all ye are brethren: 9 and call not any your father on the earth, for one is your Father, who is in the heavens: 10 nor be ye called directors, for one is your director—the Christ. 11 But the greater of you shall be your minister: 12 and whoever shall exalt himself shall be humbled, and whoever shall humble himself shall be exalted.

13 Wo to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! that ye shut up the reign of the heavens in the face of men, for ye go not in, and those who are going ye suffer not to enter.

14 Wo to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! that ye devour the houses of the widows, and for a pretence pray a long time: therefore ye shall receive more abundant judgment.

15 Wo to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! that ye go round the sea and the dry land to make one proselyte, and whenever it may come to pass—ye make him a son of Gehenna twofold more than yourselves.

¹⁶ Wo to you, blind guides, who are saying, Whoever may swear by the temple, it is nothing; but whoever may swear by the gold of the temple—is debtor. ¹⁷ Fools and blind! for which is greater, the gold, or the temple which is sanctifying the gold?

¹⁸ And whoever may swear by the altar, it is nothing; but whoever may swear by the offering that is upon it—is debtor. ¹⁹ Fools and blind! for which is greater, the offering, or the altar which is sanctifying the offering?

²⁰ He therefore who hath sworn by the altar, sweareth by it, and by all things on it; ²¹ and he who hath sworn by the temple, sweareth by it, and by Him who is dwelling in it; ²² and he who hath sworn by the heaven, sweareth by the throne of God, and by Him who is sitting on it.

²³ Wo to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! that ye give tithes of the mint and the anise and the cummin, and have neglected the weightier things of the Law—judgment, and kindness, and faith; these it behoved you to do, and those not to neglect.

²⁴ Blind guides! who are straining out the gnat, but the camel are swallowing.

²⁵ Wo to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! that ye make clean the outside of the cup and the plate, but within they are full of rapine and incontinence.

²⁶ Blind Pharisees! cleanse first the inside of the cup and the plate, that their outside also may become clean.

²⁹ Wo to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! that ye build the sepulchres of the prophets, and adorn the tombs of the righteous, ³⁰ and say, If we had been in the days of our fathers, we would not have been partakers with them in the blood of the prophets. ³¹ So that ye testify to yourselves, that ye are sons of them who killed the prophets; ³² and ye—fill ye up the measure of your fathers.

³³ Serpents, brood of vipers! how may ye escape from the judgment of Gehenna?

³⁴ Therefore, lo, I send to you prophets, and wise men, and scribes, and some of them ye will kill and crucify, and some of them ye will scourge in your synagogues, and will pursue from city to city; ³⁵ that on you may come all the righteous blood poured out on the earth from the blood of Abel the righteous, unto the blood of Zacharias son of Barachias, whom ye slew between the temple and the altar: ³⁶ verily I say to you, all these things shall come upon this generation.

³⁷ Jerusalem, Jerusalem, that art killing the prophets, and stoning those sent to thee, how often did I wish to gather thy children together, as a hen gathereth her chickens under the wings, and ye would not. ³⁸ Lo, left desolate to you is your house: ³⁹ for I say to you, ye may not see me henceforth, till ye may say, Blessed is he who is coming in the name of the Lord.

XXIV. ¹ AND having gone out, Jesus departed from the temple: and his disciples came up to show him the buildings of the temple: ² but Jesus said to them, 'Do ye not see all these? verily I say to you, There may not be left here a stone upon a stone, which shall not be thrown down.'

³ But when he was sitting on the mount of the olives, the disciples came to him by himself, saying, 'Tell us, when shall these be? and what the sign of thy coming, and of the end of the age?'

⁴ And Jesus answering said to them, 'Take heed that no one may lead you astray, ⁵ for many shall come in my name, saying, I am the Christ, and shall lead many astray: ⁶ and ye shall begin to hear of wars, and reports of wars; see, he not troubled; for it is necessary for all these to come to pass, but the end is not yet.'

⁷ For nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and there shall be famines, and pestilences, and earthquakes, in divers places; ⁸ and all these are the beginning of sorrows: ⁹ then shall they deliver you up into tribulation, and shall kill you, and ye shall be hated by all the nations because of my name; ¹⁰ and then shall many be stumbled, and shall deliver up one another, and hate one another.

¹⁵ Whenever therefore ye may see the abomination of desolation, which was spoken of through Daniel the prophet, standing in the holy place (whoso readeth let him observe) ¹⁶ those in Judea—let them flee to the mountain; ¹⁷ he on the house-top—let him not go down to take up any thing out of his house; ¹⁸ and he in the field, let him not turn back to take his garments.

¹⁹ And wo to those with child, and to those giving suck in those days; ²⁰ and pray ye that your flight may not be in winter, nor on a sabbath; ²¹ for there shall be then great tribulation, such as hath not been from the beginning of the world till now, no, nor may be. ²² And if those days were not shortened, no flesh would have been saved; but because of the chosen, those days shall be shortened.

²³ Then if any one may say to you, Lo, here is the Christ! or here! believe not; ²⁴ for there shall arise false Christs, and false prophets, and they shall give great signs and wonders, so as to lead astray, if possible, even the chosen. ²⁵ Lo, I have told you beforehand.

²⁶ If therefore they may say to you, Lo, in the wilderness he is; ye may not go forth: lo, in the inner chambers, ye may not believe: ²⁷ for as the lightning cometh forth from the east, and appeareth unto the west, so shall be also the coming of the Son of Man: ²⁸ for wherever the carcase may be, there shall the eagles be gathered together.

²⁹ And immediately after the tribulation of those days, the sun shall be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, and the stars shall fall from the heaven, and the powers of the heavens shall be shaken; ³⁰ and then shall appear the sign of the Son of Man in the heaven: and then shall all the tribes of the earth smite the breast, and they shall see the Son of Man coming on the clouds of the heaven, with power and great glory: ³¹ and he will send his messengers with a great sound of a trumpet, and they shall gather together his chosen from the four winds, from the end of the heavens unto the ends thereof.

³² But from the fig-tree learn ye the simile: When already its branch may have become tender, and the leaves it may put forth, ye know that the summer is near, ³³ so also ye, when ye may see all these, know ye that it is near—at the doors. ³⁴ Verily I say to you, this generation may not pass away till all these come to pass. ³⁵ The heaven and the earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.

³⁶ But concerning that day and hour no one knoweth, (not even the messengers of the heavens,) except my Father only: ³⁷ but as the days of Noah—so shall be also the coming of the Son of Man; ³⁸ for as they were, in the days before the flood, eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, till the day that Noah entered into the ark, ³⁹ and they knew not till the flood came and took all away; so shall be also the coming of the Son of Man. ⁴⁰ Then two men shall be in the field, the one is received, and the one is left; ⁴¹ two women grinding in the mill, one is received, and one is left.

⁴⁵ Who, then, is the faithful and wise servant whom his lord set over his household, to give them the nourishment in due season? ⁴⁶ Happy that servant, whom his lord, having come, shall find doing so: ⁴⁷ verily I say to you, that over all his substance he will set him.

⁴⁸ But, if that evil servant may say in his heart, My lord delayeth to come, ⁴⁹ and may begin to beat the fellow-servants, and to eat and to drink with the drunken, ⁵⁰ the lord of that servant will come in a day when he expecteth not, and in an hour of which he knoweth not, ⁵¹ and will cut him asunder, and his portion with the hypocrite will appoint: there shall be the weeping and the gnashing of the teeth.

XXV. ¹ THEN shall the reign of the heavens be likened to ten virgins, who, having taken their lamps, went forth to meet the bridegroom; ² and five of them were wise, and the five foolish; ³ those foolish having taken their lamps, took no oil with them: ⁴ but the wise took oil in their vessels, with their lamps.

⁵ But the bridegroom tarrying, they all slumbered and were sleeping; ⁶ but in the middle of the night a cry was made, Lo, the bridegroom cometh; go forth to meet him.

⁷ Then rose all those virgins, and trimmed their lamps; ⁸ but the foolish said to the wise, Give us of your oil, for our lamps are going out; ⁹ but the wise answered, saying—Lest there may not be sufficient for us and you: but go rather to those selling, and buy for yourselves.

¹⁰ But while they went to buy, the bridegroom came; and those ready went in with him to the marriage-feast, and the door was shut; ¹¹ but afterwards came the rest of the virgins, saying, Lord, lord, open to us; ¹² but he answering said, Verily I say to you, I do not know you.

¹³ Watch therefore, for ye know not the day nor the hour in which the Son of Man cometh.

¹⁴ For—as a man going abroad called his own servants, and delivered to them his substance, ¹⁵ and to one gave five talents, and to another two, and to another one, to each according to his several ability, and went abroad immediately.

¹⁶ And he who received the five talents having gone, wrought with them, and made other five talents; ¹⁷ in like manner also he who received the two, he gained also other two; ¹⁸ but he who received the one, having gone away, digged in the earth, and hid his lord's money.

¹⁹ But after a long time cometh the lord of those servants, and taketh account with them; ²⁰ and he who received the five talents having come, brought other five talents, saying, Lord, five talents didst thou deliver to me; lo, other five talents have I gained besides them.

²¹ And his lord said to him, Well done, good and faithful servant, over a few things thou wast faithful, over many things will I set thee: enter into the joy of thy lord.

²² And he also who received the two talents having come, said, Lord, two talents didst thou deliver to me; lo, other two talents have I gained besides them.

²³ His lord said to him, Well done, good and faithful servant, over a few things thou wast faithful, over many things will I set thee: enter into the joy of thy lord.

²⁴ And he also who hath received the one talent having come, said, Lord, I knew thee, that thou art a hard man, reaping where thou didst not sow, and gathering from where thou didst not scatter: ²⁵ and having become afraid, having gone away, I hid thy talent in the earth; lo, thou hast thine own.

²⁶ And his lord answering said to him, Evil and slothful servant, thou knewest that I reap where I sowed not, and gather from where I scattered not! ²¹ it behoved thee then to put my money to the exchangers, and having come I had received mine own with interest.

²² Take therefore from him the talent, and give to him having the ten talents; ²³ for to every one having shall be given, and he shall have abundance, but from him who hath not, even that which he hath shall be taken from him; ²⁴ and the unprofitable servant cast ye out into the outer darkness; there shall be the weeping and the gnashing of the teeth.

²⁵ And when the Son of Man may come in his glory, and all the holy messengers with him, then shall he sit on the throne of his glory; ²⁶ and gathered before him shall be all the nations, and he shall separate them from one another, as the shepherd separateth the sheep from the goats; ²⁷ and he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left.

²⁸ Then shall the king say to those on his right hand, Come ye, the blessed of my Father, inherit the reign that hath been prepared for you from the foundation of the world; ²⁹ for I hungered, and ye gave me to eat; I thirsted, and ye gave me to drink; I was a stranger, and ye received me in; ³⁰ naked, and ye put around me; I was infirm, and ye looked over me; I was in prison, and ye came to me.

³¹ Then shall the righteous answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee hungering, and we nourished? or thirsting, and we gave to drink? ³² when saw we thee a stranger, and we received in? or naked, and we put around? ³³ and when saw we thee infirm, or in prison, and we came to thee?

³⁴ And the king answering, shall say to them, Verily I say to you, inasmuch as ye did it to one of these my brethren—the least—ye did it to me.

³⁵ Then shall he say also to those on the left hand, Go ye from me, the cursed, into the age-during fire, which hath been prepared for the Devil and his messengers; ³⁶ for I hungered, and ye gave me not to eat; I thirsted, and ye gave me not to drink; ³⁷ I was a stranger, and ye received me not in; naked, and ye put not around me; infirm, and in prison, and ye looked not over me.

³⁸ Then shall they answer him, they also, saying, Lord, when saw we thee hungering, or thirsting, or a stranger, or naked, or infirm, or in prison, and we did not minister to thee?

³⁹ Then shall he answer them, saying, Verily I say to you, Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to me. ⁴⁰ And these shall go away to age-during punishment, but the righteous to age-during life.

XXVI. 1 AND it came to pass, when Jesus finished all these words, he said to his disciples, ² Ye know that after two days is the passover, and the Son of Man is delivered up to be crucified.

³ Then were gathered together the chief priests, and the scribes, and the elders of the people, to the court of the chief priest, who was named Caiaphas. ⁴ And they consulted together that they might take Jesus by guile, and put him to death, ⁵ but they said, 'Not during the feast, that there may not be a tumult among the people.'

⁶ And Jesus having been in Bethany, in the house of Simon the leper, ⁷ there came to him a woman having an alabaster box of myrrh, very precious, and poured it on his head as he was reclining at meat. ⁸ And having seen it, his disciples were much displeased, saying, 'To what purpose this waste? ⁹ for this myrrh could have been sold for much, and given to the poor.'

¹⁰ But Jesus having known, said to them, 'Why do ye give trouble to the woman? for a good work she wrought for me; ¹¹ for the poor ye have always with you, but me ye have not always; ¹² for she having put this myrrh on my body—for my burial she did it. ¹³ Verily I say to you, Wherever this good news may be proclaimed in the whole world, what this one did shall also be spoken of for her memorial.'

¹⁴ Then one of the twelve, who is called Judas Iscariot, having gone to the chief priests, ¹⁵ said, 'What are ye willing to give me, and I will deliver him up to you?' and they weighed out to him thirty silverlings; ¹⁶ and from that time he was seeking a convenient season to deliver him up.

¹⁷ And on the first day of the unleavened food came the disciples to Jesus, saying to him, 'Where wilt thou that we may prepare for thee to eat the passover?' ¹⁸ and he said, 'Go into the city, to such a one, and say to him, The Teacher saith, My time is near; with thee I keep the passover, with my disciples;' ¹⁹ and the disciples did as Jesus appointed them, and prepared the passover.

²⁰ And evening coming, he was reclining (at meat) with the twelve; ²¹ and while they were eating, he said, 'Verily I say to you, that one of you shall deliver me up.'

²² And being exceedingly grieved, they began to say to him, each of them, 'Is it I, Sir?'

²³ And he answering said, 'He who dipped with me the hand in the dish, he will deliver me up; ²⁴ the Son of Man indeed goeth, as it hath been written concerning him, but wo to that man by whom the Son of Man is delivered up: good it were for him if that man had not been born.'

²⁵ And Judas (he who delivered him up) answering said, 'Is it I, Rabbi?' He saith to him, 'Thou hast said it.'

²⁶ And while they were eating, Jesus having taken the bread, and having blessed, brake, and was giving to the disciples, and said, 'Take, eat, this is my body;' ²⁷ and having taken the cup, and given thanks, he gave to them, saying, 'Drink ye of it—all; ²⁸ for this is my blood—that of the new covenant—which is poured out for many—for remission of sins; ²⁹ but I say to you, that I may not drink henceforth of this produce of the vine, till that day when I may drink it with you new in the reign of my Father.'

³⁰ And having sung a hymn, they went out to the mount of the olives: ³¹ then saith Jesus to them, 'All ye will be stumbled at me this night; for it hath been written, I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock shall be scattered abroad: ³² but after my having risen, I will go before you to Galilee.'

³³ But Peter answering said to him, 'Even if all shall be stumbled at thee, I will never be stumbled.' ³⁴ Jesus said to him, 'Verily I say to thee, that, this night, before a cock crows, thrice wilt thou deny me.' ³⁵ Peter saith to him, 'Even if it may be necessary for me to die with thee, I will not deny thee:' in like manner also said all the disciples.

³⁶ Then cometh Jesus with them to a place called Gethsemane, and saith to the disciples, 'Sit ye here, till, having gone, I may pray yonder.'

³⁷ And having taken Peter, and the two sons of Zebedee, he began to be sorrowful, and to be very heavy: ³⁸ then saith he to them, 'Exceedingly sorrowful is my soul—unto death: abide here, and watch with me.'

³⁹ And having gone forth a little, he fell on his face, praying, and saying, 'My Father, if it is possible, let this cup pass from me: nevertheless, not as I will, but as Thou.'

⁴⁰ And he cometh to the disciples, and findeth them sleeping, and he saith to Peter, 'So I ye were not able for one hour to watch with me: ⁴¹ watch and pray, that ye may not enter into temptation: the spirit indeed is forward, but the flesh weak.'

⁴² Again, a second time, having gone, he prayed, saying, 'My Father, if this cup cannot pass from me except I drink it, let Thy will be done.' ⁴³ And having come, he findeth them again sleeping, for their eyes were heavy.

⁴⁴ And having left them, having gone away again, he prayed a third time saying the same words. ⁴⁵ Then cometh he to his disciples, and saith to them, 'Sleep on henceforth, and rest! lo, the hour hath come, and the Son of Man is delivered up into the hands of sinners. ⁴⁶ Rise, let us go: lo, he hath come near who delivereth me up.'

⁴⁷ And while he is yet speaking, lo, Judas, one of the twelve, came, and with him a great multitude with swords and sticks, from the chief priests and elders of the people.

⁴⁸ And he who delivered him up gave them a sign, saying, 'Whoever I shall kiss, it is he: lay hold on him!' ⁴⁹ and immediately, having come to Jesus, he said, 'Hail, Itabbi,' and kissed him: ⁵⁰ and Jesus said to him, 'Comrade, for what art thou present?' Then having come, they laid hands on Jesus, and kept hold on him.

⁵¹ And lo, one of those with Jesus having stretched out the hand, drew his sword, and striking the servant of the chief priest, took off his ear.

⁵² Then saith Jesus to him, 'Turn back thy sword to its place: for all who have taken the sword, by the sword shall perish: ⁵³ thinkest thou that I am not able now to call upon my Father, and He will place beside me more than twelve legions of messengers? ⁵⁴ how then may the Scriptures be fulfilled, that thus it must be?'

⁵⁵ In that hour said Jesus to the multitudes, 'As against a robber ye have come out, with swords and sticks, to take me! daily with you I was sitting teaching in the temple, and ye laid not hold on me: ⁵⁶ but all this hath come to pass, that the writings of the prophets may be fulfilled:' then all the disciples, having left him, fled.

⁵⁷ And those laying hold on Jesus led him away to Caiaphas the chief priest, where the scribes and the elders were gathered together: ⁵⁸ and Peter was following him afar off, unto the court of the chief priest, and having gone within, he was sitting with the officers, to see the end.

⁵⁹ And the chief priests, and the elders, and all the council, were seeking false testimony against Jesus, that they might put him to death, ⁶⁰ and they found not: and many false witnesses having come up, they found not: but at last two false witnesses having come up, ⁶¹ said, 'This one said, I am able to throw down the temple of God, and in three days to build it.'

⁶² And the chief priest having stood up, said to him, 'Thou dost not then answer! what do these testify against thee?' ⁶³ but Jesus was silent. And the chief priest answering said to him, 'I adjure thee, by the living God, that thou mayest tell us, if thou art the Christ, the Son of God.'

⁶⁴ Jesus saith to him, 'Thou hast said it; nevertheless I say to you, hereafter ye shall see the Son of Man sitting on the right hand of power, and coming on the clouds of the heaven.'

⁶⁵ Then the chief priest rent his garments, saying—'He hath spoken evil: what need have we yet of witnesses? lo, now ye heard his evil speaking: ⁶⁶ what think ye?' and they answering said, 'He is worthy of death.'

⁶⁷ Then did they spit in his face, and buffet him, and others slapped him, ⁶⁸ saying, 'Divine to us, O Christ, who is he that struck thee?'

⁶⁹ And Peter without was sitting in the court, and there came to him a maid, saying, 'And thou wast with Jesus of Galilee!' ⁷⁰ And he denied before all, saying, 'I know not what thou sayest.'

⁷¹ And he having gone out to the porch, another female saw him, and saith to those there, 'And this one was with Jesus of Nazareth:' ⁷² and again he denied with an oath—'I know not the man.'

⁷³ And after a little those standing by having come, said to Peter, 'Truly thou also art one of them; for even thy speech maketh thee manifest.' ⁷⁴ Then began he to anathematize, and to swear—'I know not the man:' and immediately a cock crew: ⁷⁵ and Peter remembered the word of Jesus, he having said to him, 'Before a cock crew, thrice wilt thou deny me:' and having gone out without, he wept bitterly.

XXVII. 1 AND morning having come, all the chief priests and the elders of the people took counsel against Jesus, so as to put him to death: ²and having bound him, they led him away, and delivered him up to Pontius Pilate the governor.

³Then Judas (he who delivered him up) having seen that he was condemned, having repented, brought back the thirty silverlings to the chief priests and to the elders, saying, 'I sinned, having delivered up innocent blood: and they said, "What—to us? thou shalt see!"' ⁴and having cast down the silverlings in the temple, he departed, and having gone away, strangled himself.

⁵And the chief priests having taken the silverlings, said, 'It is not lawful to put them into the treasury, seeing it is the price of blood: ⁶and having taken counsel, they hought with them the field of the potter, for the burial of strangers; ⁷therefore was that field called, 'Field of blood,' unto this day.

⁸Then was fulfilled that spoken through Jeremiah the prophet, saying, 'And I took the thirty silverlings, the price of him who had been priced, whom they of the Children of Israel did price, ⁹and gave them for the field of the potter, as the Lord appointed me.'

¹¹And Jesus stood before the governor, and the governor questioned him, saying, 'Art thou the King of the Jews?' And Jesus said to him, 'Thou sayest it.'

¹²And when he was accused by the chief priests and the elders, he did not answer; ¹³then saith Pilate to him, 'Hearest thou not how many things they witness against thee?' ¹⁴And he answered him not, not even to one word; so that the governor wondered greatly.

¹⁵Now at the feast the governor had been accustomed to release one to the multitude, a prisoner, whom they wished: ¹⁶and they had then a noted prisoner, called Barabbas; ¹⁷they therefore having been gathered together, Pilate said to them, 'Whom will ye that I shall release to you? Barabbas, or Jesus who is called Christ?' ¹⁸for he knew that for envy they delivered him up.

¹⁹And as he was sitting on the judgment-seat, his wife sent to him, saying, 'Nothing—to thee and to that righteous one; for I suffered much to-day in a dream because of him.'

²⁰And the chief priests and the elders persuaded the multitudes that they might ask for themselves Barabbas, and might destroy Jesus: ²¹and the governor answering said to them, 'Which of the two will ye that I may release to you?' And they said, 'Barabbas.'

²²Pilate saith to them, 'What then shall I do with Jesus who is called Christ?' They all say to him, 'Let him be crucified.' ²³And the governor said, 'Why, what evil did he?' but they cried out the more, saying, 'Let him be crucified.'

²⁴And Pilate having seen that it profiteth nothing, out rather a tumult is made, having taken water, washed his hands before the multitude, saying, 'I am innocent from the blood of this righteous one: ye—ye shall see: ²⁵and all the people answering said, 'His blood on us, and on our children!'

²⁶Then he released to them Barabbas, but having scourged Jesus, he delivered him up that he might be crucified: ²⁷then the soldiers of the governor having taken Jesus into the Praetorium, gathered to him all the band: ²⁸and having unclothed him, they put around him a crimson cloak: ²⁹and having plaited a crown of thorns, put it on his head, and a reed in his right hand, and having kneeled before him, were mocking him, saying, 'Hail, the King of the Jews.'

³⁰And having spit on him, they took the reed, and were smiting on his head: ³¹and when they had mocked him, they took off from him the cloak, and put on him his own garments, and led him away to crucify him.

³²And coming out, they found a man, a Cyrenian, Simon by name: him they impressed that he might bear his cross: ³³and having come to a place called Golgotha, which is called Place of a Skull, ³⁴they gave him to drink vinegar mixed with gall, and having tasted, he would not drink.

³⁵And having crucified him, they divided his garments, casting a lot, that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, 'They divided my garments among them, and for my vesture they cast a lot: ³⁶and sitting down, they watched him there: ³⁷and they put up over his head, his accusation written, 'This is Jesus, the King of the Jews.'

³⁸Then crucified with him are two robbers, one on the right hand, and one on the left: ³⁹and those passing by were speaking evil of him, wagging their heads, ⁴⁰and saying, 'Thou that art throwing down the temple, and in three days building it, save thyself: if Son thou art of God, come down from the cross.'

⁴¹And in like manner also the chief priests mocking, with the scribes and elders, said, ⁴²'Others he saved; himself he is unable to save! If he is King of Israel, let him come down now from the cross, and we will believe him: ⁴³he hath trusted on God, let Him now deliver him, if He wish him, for he said—Son of God I am: ⁴⁴with this also the robbers, who were crucified with him, reproached him.

⁴⁵But from the sixth hour darkness was over all the land unto the ninth hour: ⁴⁶and about the ninth hour Jesus cried out with a great voice, saying, 'Eli, Eli, lama sabachthau?' that is, 'My God, my God, why didst Thou forsake me?'

⁴⁷And certain of those standing there having heard, said—'For Elijah he calleth: ⁴⁸and immediately, one of them having run, and having taken a sponge, having filled it with vinegar, and having put it on a reed, was giving him to drink: ⁴⁹but the rest said, 'Let alone, we may see if Elijah cometh—about to save him.'

⁵⁰And Jesus having again cried out with a great voice, let away the spirit: ⁵¹and lo, the vail of the temple was rent in two from top unto bottom, and the earth quaked, and the rocks were rent; ⁵²and the tombs were opened, and many bodies of the saints who had fallen asleep, arose; ⁵³and having come forth out of the tombs after his rising again, they went into the holy city, and appeared to many.

⁵⁴And the centurion, and those with him watching Jesus, having seen the earthquake, and the things that were done, were exceedingly afraid, saying, 'Truly this was Son of God.'

⁵⁵And there were there many women beholding from afar, who followed Jesus from Galilee, ministering to him, ⁵⁶among whom was Mary the Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James and of Joses, and the mother of the sons of Zebedee.

⁵⁷And evening having come, there came a rich man of Arimathea, named Joseph, who also himself was a disciple of Jesus, ⁵⁸he having gone to Pilate, asked for himself the body of Jesus; then Pilate commanded the body to be given up.

⁵⁹And having taken the body, Joseph wrapped it in clean linen, ⁶⁰and laid it in his own new tomb, which he hewed in the rock; and having rolled a great stone to the door of the tomb, he departed; ⁶¹and there were there Mary the Magdalene, and the other Mary, sitting over-against the sepulchre.

⁶²And on the morrow which is after the preparation, were gathered together the chief priests and the Pharisees to Pilate, ⁶³saying, 'Sir, we have remembered that that deceiver said while yet living, After three days I rise; ⁶⁴command, then, the sepulchre to be made secure till the third day, lest perhaps his disciples, having come by night, may steal him away, and may say to the people, He rose from the dead; and the last error shall be worse than the first.'

⁶⁵And Pilate said to them, 'Ye have a watch; go, make it secure—as ye know;' ⁶⁶and they having gone, made the sepulchre secure, having sealed the stone, together with the watch.

XXVIII. ¹AND on the eve of the sabbaths, at the dawn, towards the first of the sabbaths, came Mary the Magdalene, and the other Mary, to see the sepulchre, ²and lo, there was a great earthquake, for a messenger of the Lord having descended from heaven, having come, rolled away the stone from the door, and was sitting upon it; ³and his countenance was as lightning, and his clothing white as snow, ⁴and from fear of him the keepers shook, and became as dead men.

⁵And the messenger answering said to the women, 'Fear not ye: for I know that Jesus, who hath been crucified, ye seek; ⁶he is not here, for he rose, as he said; come, see the place where the Lord was lying; ⁷and having gone quickly, say to his disciples, that he rose from the dead; and lo, he goeth before you into Galilee, there shall ye see him; lo, I have told you.'

⁸And having gone out quickly from the tomb, with fear and great joy, they ran to tell it to his disciples; ⁹and as they were going to tell it to his disciples, then lo, Jesus met them, saying, 'Hail!' and having come, they laid hold of his feet, and bowed to him. ¹⁰Then saith Jesus to them, 'Fear not: go, tell to my disciples that they may go away to Galilee, and there shall they see me.'

¹¹And while they were going, lo, certain of the watch having come into the city, told to the chief priests all the things that were done; ¹²and having been gathered together with the elders, having also taken counsel, they gave much money to the soldiers, ¹³saying, 'Say ye, that his disciples having come by night, stole him—we being asleep; ¹⁴and if this be heard by the governor, we will persuade him, and make you free from anxiety.' ¹⁵And they having taken the money, did as they were taught; and this account was spread abroad by the Jews till this day.

¹⁶And the eleven disciples went to Galilee, to the mountain where Jesus appointed them; ¹⁷and having seen him, they bowed to him, even those who doubted.

¹⁸And having come, Jesus spake to them, saying, 'Given to me was all power in heaven and on earth; ¹⁹having gone, then, disciple all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit; ²⁰teaching them to observe all, whatever I commanded you, and lo, I am with you all the days—till the full end of the age.' Amen.

CHAP. I. 1 THE beginning of the good news of Jesus Christ, Son of God:

2 As it hath been written in the prophets, 'Lo, I send My messenger before thy face, who shall prepare thy way before thee,'—
3 'a voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord: straight make ye His paths,'—'John came baptizing in the wilderness, and proclaiming a baptism of reformation for remission of sins; 4 and there was going out to him all the region of Judea, and they of Jerusalem, and they were all baptized by him in the river of Jordan, confessing their sins.

5 And John was clothed with camel's hair, and a girdle of skin about his loins, and eating locusts and honey of the field: 7 and he proclaimed, saying, 'He cometh—who is mightier than I—after me: I am not worthy—having stooped down—to loose the latchet of his sandals: 8 I indeed have baptized you with water, but he shall baptize you with the Holy Spirit.'

9 And it came to pass in those days, Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was baptized by John in the Jordan; 10 and immediately coming up from the water, he saw the heavens parted, and the Spirit as a dove coming down upon him: 11 and a voice came out of the heavens, 'Thou art My Son—the Beloved, in whom I have delighted.'

12 And immediately the Spirit putteth him forth into the wilderness; 13 and he was there in the wilderness forty days, tempted by the Adversary, and was with the beasts, and the messengers were ministering to him.

14 And after the delivering up of John, Jesus came to Galilee, proclaiming the good news of the reign of God: 15 and saying—'Fulfilled hath been the time, and the reign of God hath come near: reform ye, and believe in the good news.'

16 And, walking by the sea of Galilee, he saw Simon, and Andrew his brother, casting a drag into the sea, for they were fishers, 17 and Jesus said to them, 'Come after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men;' 18 and immediately, having left their nets, they followed him.

19 And having gone on from thence a little, he saw James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, and they were in the boat perfecting the nets; 20 and immediately he called them, and, having left their father Zebedee in the boat with the hired servants, they went away after him.

21 And they go on to Capernaum, and immediately, on the sabbaths, having gone into the synagogue, he was teaching: 22 and they were astonished at his teaching, for he was teaching them as having authority, and not as the scribes.

23 And there was in their synagogue a man with an unclean spirit, and he cried out, 24 saying, 'Away: what—to us and to thee, Jesus the Nazarene? thou art come to destroy us; I know thee who thou art—the Holy One of God.'

25 And Jesus rebuked him, saying, 'Be silenced, and come out of him:' 26 and the unclean spirit having torn him, and having cried with a great voice, came out of him: 27 and they were all amazed, so as to reason among themselves, saying, 'What is this? what new teaching is this? that with authority even the unclean spirits he commandeth, and they obey him!' 28 And the fame of him went forth immediately into all the region round about of Galilee.

29 And immediately, having come out of the synagogue, they went into the house of Simon and Andrew, with James and John: 30 and the mother-in-law of Simon was lying fevered, and immediately they tell him about her: 31 and having come, he raised her up, having laid hold of her hand, and the fever left her immediately, and she was ministering to them.

32 And evening having come, when the sun did set, they brought to him all who were ill, and who were demoniacs: 33 and the whole city was gathered together at the door: 34 and he healed many who were ill of manifold diseases, and many demons he cast out, and was not suffering the demons to speak, because they knew him.

35 And in the morning, very early yet in the night, having risen, he went out, and went away to a desolate place, and was there praying. 36 And Simon and those with him went in quest of him, 37 and having found him, they say to him—'All do seek thee:' 38 and he saith to them, 'Let us go to the next towns, that there also I may preach, for for this have I come forth.'

39 And he was preaching in their synagogues, throughout all Galilee, and casting out the demons; 40 and there cometh to him a leper, calling on him, and kneeling to him, and saying to him—'If thou be willing, thou art able to cleanse me.'

41 And Jesus having been moved with compassion, having stretched forth the hand, touched him, and saith to him, 'I will; be thou cleansed;' 42 and he having spoken, immediately the leprosy went away from him, and he was cleansed. 43 And having sternly charged him, immediately he put him forth, 44 and saith to him, 'See then say nothing to any one, but go, thyself shew to the priest, and bring for thy cleansing the things Moses directed, for a testimony to them.'

⁴³ But he, having gone out, began to proclaim it much, and to spread abroad the thing, so that he was no more able openly to enter into the city, but was without in desolate places: and they were coming to him from every quarter.

II. ¹ AND again he entered into Capernaum, after some days, and it was heard that he is in the house, ² and immediately many were gathered together, so that there was no more room, not even at the door, and he was speaking the word to them.

³ And they come to him, bringing a paralytic, borne by four, ⁴ and not being able to come near to him because of the multitude, they uncovered the roof where he was, and, having broken it up, they let down the couch on which the paralytic was lying; ⁵ and Jesus having seen their faith, saith to the paralytic, 'Child, thy sins have been forgiven thee.'

⁷ And immediately, Jesus having known in his spirit that they thus reasoned in themselves, said to them, 'Why these things reason ye in your hearts? ⁸ which is easier: to say to the paralytic, Sins have been forgiven to thee? or to say, Rise, and take up thy couch, and walk?'

¹⁰ But, that ye may know that the Son of Man hath power on the earth to forgive sins—(he saith to the paralytic)—¹¹ I say to thee, Rise, and take up thy couch, and go away to thy house.' ¹² And he rose immediately, and having taken up the couch, went forth before all, so that all were astonished, and glorified God, saying—'Never thus did we see it!'

¹³ And he went forth again by the sea, and all the multitude was coming to him, and he was teaching them; ¹⁴ and passing by, he saw Levi the son of Alphaeus sitting at the custom-house, and saith to him, 'Follow me;' and he having risen, followed him.

¹⁵ And it came to pass, at his reclining (at meat) in his house, that many tax-gatherers and sinners were also reclining (at meat) with Jesus and his disciples, for there were many, and they followed him.

¹⁶ And the scribes and the Pharisees, having seen him eating with the tax-gatherers and sinners, said to his disciples, 'Why—that with the tax-gatherers and sinners he eateth and drinketh?' ¹⁷ And Jesus having heard, saith to them, 'They who are well have no need of a physician, but they who are ill: I came not to call righteous men, but sinners to reformation.'

¹⁸ And the disciples of John and of the Pharisees were fasting, and they come and say to him, 'Wherefore do the disciples of John and of the Pharisees fast, but thy disciples fast not?' ¹⁹ And Jesus said to them, 'Are the sons of the bride-chamber able, while the bridegroom is with them, to fast? so long time as they have the bridegroom with them they are unable to fast: ²⁰ but days shall come when the bridegroom may be taken from them, and then shall they fast in those days.'

²¹ And no one a patch of undressed cloth seweth on an old garment, and if not—the new which filleth it up taketh from the old, and the rent becometh worse; ²² and no man putteth new wine into old skins, and if not—the new wine doth burst the skins, and the wine is poured out, and the skins will be destroyed; but new wine into new is to be put.'

²³ And it came to pass, as he was going along on the sabbaths through the corn, that his disciples began to make a way, plucking the ears: ²⁴ and the Pharisees said to him, 'Lo, why do they on the sabbaths that which is not lawful?'

²⁵ And he said to them, 'Did ye never read what David did when he had need, and was hungry, himself and those with him? ²⁶ how he went into the house of God, unto Abiathar the chief priest, and the loaves of the presentation did eat, which it is not lawful to eat, except for the priests, and gave also to those who were with him?'

²⁷ And he said to them, 'The sabbath for man was made, not man for the sabbath: ²⁸ so that the Son of Man is lord also of the sabbath.'

III. ¹ AND he entered again into the synagogue, and there was there a man having the hand withered; ² and they were watching him, whether on the sabbaths he will heal him, that they might accuse him. ³ And he saith to the man having the hand withered, 'Stand up in the midst.'

⁴ And he saith to them, 'Is it lawful on the sabbaths to do good, or to do evil? to save life, or to kill?' but they were silent.

⁹ And he spake to his disciples, that a little boat might wait on him, because of the multitude, that they might not press upon him, ¹⁰ for he healed many, so that they threw themselves on him, in order to touch him—as many as had plagues; ¹¹ and the unclean spirits, when they were seeing him, were falling down before him, and were crying, saying—'Thou art the Son of God.'

¹²and he strictly charged them that they might not make him manifest.

¹³And he goeth up to the mountain, and calleth up whom he wished, and they went to him: ¹⁴and he appointed twelve, that they might be with him, and that he might send them forth to preach, ¹⁵and to have power to heal the sicknesses, and to cast out the demons.

¹⁶And he put on Simon the name Peter: ¹⁷and James the son of Zebedee, and John the brother of James, and he put on them names—Boanerges, which is, 'Sons of thunder.' ¹⁸and Andrew, and Philip, and Bartholomew, and Matthew, and Thomas, and James the son of Alphaeus, and Thaddeus, and Simon the Cananite, ¹⁹and Judas Iscariot, who also delivered him up; and they come into a house.

²⁰And come together again doth a multitude, so that they are unable even to eat bread; ²¹and his friends having heard, went out to lay hold on him, for they said that he was beside himself; ²²and the scribes who are from Jerusalem having come down, said—'He hath Beelzebul,' and—'By the ruler of the demons he casteth out the demons.'

²³And having called them up, in similes he said to them, 'How is an adversary able to cast out an adversary? ²⁴and if a kingdom against itself be divided, that kingdom cannot be made to stand; ²⁵and if a house against itself be divided, that house cannot be made to stand; ²⁶and if the Adversary rise up against himself, and hath been divided, he cannot be made to stand, but hath an end.

²⁷'No one is able the vessels of the strong man—having entered into his house—to spoil, if first he may not bind the strong man, and then his house he will spoil.

²⁸'Verily I say to you—all the sins shall be forgiven to the sons of men, and evil speakings with which they may speak evil; ²⁹but whoever may speak evil of the Holy Spirit, hath not forgiveness—for the age, but is in danger of age-during judgment; ³⁰because they said, 'He hath an unclean spirit.'

³¹Then come do his brethren and mother, and standing without, they sent to him, calling him; ³²and a multitude was sitting about him, and they said to him, 'Lo, thy mother and thy brethren without seek thee.'

³³And he answered them, saying, 'Who is my mother—or my brethren?' ³⁴And having looked round in a circle on those sitting about him, he saith, 'Lo, my mother and my brethren: ³⁵for whoever may do the will of God, he is my brother, and my sister, and mother.'

IV. ¹AND again he began to teach by the sea, and there was gathered to him a great multitude, so that he, having gone into the boat, sat in the sea, and all the multitude was before the sea, on the land: ²and he taught them many things in similes, and said to them in his teaching:

³'Hearken, lo, the sower went forth to sow; ⁴and it came to pass, in the sowing, some fell by the way, and the fowls of the heaven came and devoured it; ⁵and other fell on the rocky ground, where it had not much earth, and immediately it sprang up, because of not having depth of earth, ⁶but the sun having risen, it was scorched, and because of not having root it withered: ⁷and other fell toward the thorns, and the thorns came up, and choked it, and fruit it gave not; ⁸and other fell on the good ground, and was giving fruit, coming up and increasing, and it bare, one grain thirty-fold, and one sixty, and one an hundred.' ⁹And he said to them, 'He who hath ears to hear—let him hear.'

¹⁰And when he was alone, those about him, with the twelve, asked him of the simile; ¹¹and he said to them, 'To you it is given to know the mystery of the reign of God; but to those who are without, in similes are all the things done: ¹²that, seeing they may see, and not perceive; and hearing they may hear, and not understand, lest they may turn, and the sins be forgiven them.'

¹³And he saith to them, 'Know ye not this simile? and how shall ye know all the similes? ¹⁴He who soweth soweth the word; ¹⁵and they by the way are those where the word is sown, and when they may hear, immediately cometh the Adversary, and taketh away the word which hath been sown in their hearts.

¹⁶And in like manner these are they who on the rocky ground are sown: who, when they may hear the word, immediately with joy receive it, ¹⁷and have not root in themselves, but are temporary: afterward tribulation or persecution having come because of the word, immediately they are stumbled.

¹⁸And these are they who among the thorns are sown: they who are hearing the word, ¹⁹and the cares of this age, and the deceitfulness of riches, and the desires concerning the other things, entering in, choke the word, and it becometh unfruitful.

²⁰And these are they who on the good ground have been sown: who hear the word, and receive it, and bear fruit, one thirty-fold, and one sixty, and one an hundred.

²¹And he said to them, 'Doth the lamp come that under the measure it may be put, or under the couch—not that it may be put on the lamp-stand? ²²for there is not anything hid which may not be manifested, nor was anything kept hid but that it may come into light. ²³If any have ears to hear hear—let him hear.'

²⁴And he said to them, 'Take heed what ye hear: with what measure ye measure, it shall be measured to you; and to you who hear shall be added; ²⁵for whoever may have, to him shall be given; and whose hath not, even that which he hath shall be taken from him.'

²⁶And he said, 'Thus is the reign of God: as if a man should cast the seed on the earth, ²⁷and sleep, and rise night and day, and the seed spring and grow, as he knoweth not how; ²⁸for of itself the earth beareth fruit, first a blade, afterwards a full ear, afterwards full corn in the ear: ²⁹and when the fruit may yield itself, immediately he sendeth forth the sickle, for the harvest hath come.

³⁰And he said, 'To what may we liken the reign of God, or with what simile may we compare it? ³¹*It is as a grain of mustard, which, when it may be sown on the earth, is less than all the seeds which are on the earth: ³²and when it may be sown, it cometh up, and becometh greater than all the herbs, and maketh great branches, so that under its shadow the fowls of the heaven are able to lodge.*

³³And with many such similes was he speaking to them the word, as they were able to hear: ³⁴but without a simile he was not speaking to them, and by themselves, to his disciples he was expounding all.

³⁵And he saith to them on that day, evening having come, 'Let us pass over to the other side: ³⁶and having sent away the multitude, they take him up as he was into the boat; and other little boats also were with him.

³⁷And there cometh a great storm of wind, and the waves were beating into the boat, so that it is now being filled; ³⁸and he himself was on the stern, on the pillow sleeping, and they wake him up, and say to him, 'Teacher, dost thou not care that we perish?'

³⁹And having waked up, he rebuked the wind, and said to the sea, 'Peace, be stilled;' and the wind lulled, and there was a great calm: ⁴⁰and he said to them, 'Why are ye so fearful? how have ye not faith?' ⁴¹and they feared a great fear, and said one to another, 'Who then is this, that even the wind and the sea obey him?'

V. ¹AND they came to the other side of the sea, to the region of the Gadarenes; ²and he having come out of the boat, immediately there met him out of the tombs a man with an unclean spirit, ³who had his dwelling in the tombs, and not even with chains was any one able to bind him: ⁴because that he many times with fetters and chains had been bound, and pulled in pieces by him had been the chains, and the fetters broken, and none was able to tame him, ⁵and always, night and day, he was in the mountains, and in the tombs, crying, and cutting himself with stones.

⁶But, having seen Jesus from afar, he ran and bowed before him, ⁷and having cried with a loud voice, said, 'What—to me and to thee, Jesus, Son of God the Most High? I adjure thee by God, thou mayest not afflict me: ⁸(for he said to him, 'Come out, spirit unclean, from the man,') ⁹and he was questioning him, 'What is thy name?' and he answered, saying, 'Legion is my name, for we are many: ¹⁰and he was calling on him much, that he might not send them out of the region.

¹¹And there was there, towards the mountains, a great herd of swine feeding, ¹²and all the demons called upon him, saying, 'Send us to the swine, that into them we may enter: ¹³and immediately Jesus gave them leave, and having come out, the unclean spirits entered into the swine, and the herd rushed down the steep place into the sea, (and they were about two thousand,) and were choked in the sea.

¹⁴And those feeding the swine fled, and told it in the city, and in the fields, and they came out to see what it is that hath been done. ¹⁵And they come to Jesus, and see the demoniac, sitting, and clothed, and right-minded—him having had the legion—and they were afraid: ¹⁶and those having seen it, declared to them how it had come to pass to the demoniac, and concerning the swine: ¹⁷and they began to call upon him to depart from their borders.

¹⁸And he having gone into the boat, the demoniac was calling on him that he might be with him, ¹⁹but Jesus suffered him not, but saith to him, 'Go away to thy house, to thine own friends, and tell them how great things the Lord did for thee, and dealt kindly with thee: ²⁰and he went away, and began to proclaim in Decapolis how great things Jesus did to him; and all were wondering.

²¹And Jesus having passed over in the boat again to the other side, there was gathered a great multitude to him, and he was beside the sea; ²²and lo, there cometh one of the chiefs of the synagogue, Jairus by name, and having seen him, falleth at his feet, ²³and was calling upon him much, saying—'My little daughter is at the last extremity—that having come, thou mayest lay on her thy hands, so that she may be saved, and she shall live: ²⁴and he went away with him.

And there was following him a great multitude, and they were thronging him: ²⁵and a certain woman, having an issue of blood twelve years, ²⁶and many things having suffered under many physicians, and having spent all that she had, and having profited nothing, but rather having come to the worse, ²⁷having heard about Jesus, having come in the multitude behind, touched his garment, ²⁸for she said—'If I also his garments may touch, I shall be saved: ²⁹and immediately was the fountain of her blood dried up, and she knew in body that she hath been healed of the plague.

³⁰And immediately Jesus, having known in himself that power had gone out of him, having turned about in the multitude, said, 'Who touched my garments?' ³¹and his disciples said to him, 'Thou seest the multitude thronging thee, and thou sayest, Who touched me?'

³²And he was looking round to see her who did this, ³³and the woman, fearing and trembling, knowing what was done on her, came and fell down before him, and told him all the truth: ³⁴and he said to her, 'Daughter, thy faith saved thee; go in peace, and be whole from thy plague.'

³⁵As he is yet speaking, there come from the chief of the synagogue's house, certain, saying—'Thy daughter hath died, why still doest thou harass the Teacher? ³⁰ But Jesus immediately, having heard the word that was being spoken, saith to the chief of the synagogue, 'Be not afraid; only believe.'

³¹ And he suffered no one to follow with him, except Peter, and James, and John the brother of James; ³² and he cometh to the house of the chief of the synagogue, and seeth a tumult, many weeping and wailing; ³³ and having come in he saith to them, 'Why make ye a tumult, and weep? the child did not die, but sleepeth;' ³⁴ and they were laughing at him.

But he, having put all out, taketh the father of the child, and the mother, and those with him, and goeth in where the child was lying; ³⁵ and, having taken the hand of the child, he saith to her, 'Talitha cumi;' which is, being interpreted, 'Damsel (I say to thee), rise.'

³⁶ And immediately the damsel arose, and was walking, for she was twelve years old; and they were amazed with a great amazement; ³⁷ and he charged them much, that no one might know this thing, and he said that there be given to her to eat.

VII. ¹ AND he went out thence, and came into his own country, and his disciples follow him; ² and sabbath having come, he began in the synagogue to teach, and many hearing him were astonished, saying, 'Whence hath this one these things? and what wisdom that hath been given to him, that even such mighty works by his hands are done?' ³ Is not this the carpenter, the son of Mary, and brother of James, and Joseph, and Judas, and Simon? and are not his sisters here with us?—and they were being stumbled at him.

⁴ But Jesus said to them—'A prophet is not without honour, except in his own country, and among his own kindred, and in his own house:' ⁵ and he was unable there any mighty work to do, except on a few infirm people having put his hands he healed them; ⁶ and he wondered because of their unbelief.

And he was going round the villages in a course, teaching; ⁷ and he calleth up the twelve, and began to send them forth two by two, and was giving them power over the unclean spirits, ⁸ and he commanded them that they might take nothing for the way, except a staff only; no scrip, no bread, no copper in the girdle, ⁹ but shod with sandals, and not to put on two coats.

¹⁰ And he said to them, 'Whenever ye may enter into a house, there abide till ye may depart thence: ¹¹ and, as many as may not receive you, nor hear you, departing thence, shake off the dust which is under your feet for a testimony to them: verily I say to you, It shall be more tolerable for Sodom or Gomorrah in a day of Judgment than for that city.'

¹² And having gone out, they were preaching that men might reform, ¹³ and were casting out many demons, and were anointing with oil many infirm, and were healing them.

¹⁴ And king Herod heard, (for his name became public,) and he said—'John the Baptist from the dead hath risen, and therefore the mighty works are wrought by him.' ¹⁵ Others said—'It is Elijah;' and others said—'It is a prophet, or as one of the prophets.' ¹⁶ But Herod having heard, said—'He whom I beheaded—John—this is he; he hath risen from the dead.'

¹⁷ For Herod himself, having sent forth, laid hold on John, and bound him in the prison, because of Herodias the wife of Philip his brother, for he married her: ¹⁸ for John said to Herod—'It is not lawful for thee to have the wife of thy brother:' ¹⁹ and Herodias was having a quarrel with him, and was wishing to kill him, and was unable, ²⁰ for Herod was fearing John, knowing him to be a man, righteous and holy, and was keeping watch over him, and having heard him, was doing many things, and was hearing him gladly.

²¹ And a seasonable day having come, when Herod on his birth-day was making a supper to his great men, and to the chiefs of thousands, and to the first men of Galilee, ²² and the daughter of that Herodias having come in, and danced, and pleased Herod, and those reclining (at meat) with him, the king said to the damsel, 'Ask of me whatever thou wilt, and I will give to thee;' ²³ and he swore to her—'Whatever thou mayest ask me, I will give thee—unto the half of my kingdom.'

²⁴ And she, having gone out, said to her mother, 'What shall I ask for myself?' and she said, 'The head of John the Baptist:' ²⁵ and having come in immediately with haste to the king, she asked, saying, 'I wish that thou mayest give me presently, on a plate, the head of John the Baptist.'

³⁰ And the apostles are gathered together to Jesus, and told him all, both how many things they did, and how many things they taught; ³¹ and he said to them, 'Come ye yourselves apart into a desert place, and rest a little:' for those coming and those going were many, and not even to eat had they opportunity; ³² and they went away to a desert place, in the boat, by themselves.

³³ And the multitudes saw them going away, and many knew him, and by land from all the cities ran there, and went before them, and came together to him; ³⁴ and having come out, Jesus saw a great multitude, and was moved with compassion toward them, that they were as sheep not having a shepherd; and he began to teach them many things.

³⁵ And now the hour being advanced, his disciples having come before him, say,—

'The place is desolate, and the hour is now advanced; ³⁰let them away, that having gone into the surrounding fields and villages, they may buy themselves loaves, for what they may eat they have not.'

³¹And he answering said to them, 'Give ye them to eat;' and they say to him, 'Having gone away, may we buy two hundred denaries' worth of loaves, and give to them to eat?' ³²And he saith to them, 'How many loaves have ye? go and see;' and having known, they say, 'Five, and two fishes.'
³³And he commanded them to make all recline in companies on the green grass;
³⁴and they sat down in squares, by hundreds, and by fifties.

³⁵And having taken the five loaves and the two fishes, having looked up to the heaven, he blessed, and brake the loaves, and was giving to his disciples, that they might set before them; and the two fishes divided he to all; ³⁶and they did all eat, and were filled; ³⁷and they were taking up of the broken pieces twelve baskets full, and of the fishes: ³⁸and those eating of the loaves were, as it were, five thousand men.

³⁹And immediately he constrained his disciples to go into the boat, and to go before to the other side, to Bethsaida, till he might let the multitude away; ⁴⁰and having taken leave of them, he went away to the mountain to pray.

⁴¹And evening having come, the boat was in the midst of the sea, and himself alone on the land; ⁴²and he saw them harassed in the rowing, for the wind was against them, and about the fourth watch of the night he cometh to them walking on the sea, and wished to pass by them.

⁴³And they having seen him walking on the sea, thought it to be an apparition, and cried out; ⁴⁴for they all saw him, and were troubled; and immediately he spake with them, and saith to them, 'Take courage, it is I; be not afraid.'

⁴⁵And he went up to them into the boat, and the wind lulled; and greatly beyond measure were they amazed in themselves, and wondered, ⁴⁶for they understood not concerning the loaves, for their heart hath been hard.

⁴⁷And having passed over, they came to the land of Gennesaret, and drew to the shore; ⁴⁸and when they were come out of the boat, immediately having known him, ⁴⁹having run through all that region round about, they began on the couches to carry about those ill, where they were hearing that he is; ⁵⁰and wherever he was going, to villages, or cities, or fields, in the markets they were laying the infirm, and were calling upon him, that they might touch if it were but the fringe of his garment; and as many as were touching him were saved.

VII. ¹AND gathered together to him are the Pharisees, and certain of the scribes, having come from Jerusalem, ²and having seen certain of his disciples with defiled hands (that is, unwashed) eating bread, they found fault. ³For the Pharisees and all the Jews, if they wash not the hands to the wrist, eat not, holding the tradition of the elders, ⁴and coming from the market, if they baptize not, they eat not; and many other things there are which they received to hold, baptisms of cups, and pots, and brazen vessels, and couches.

⁵Then question him do the Pharisees and the scribes, 'Wherefore do thy disciples not walk according to the tradition of the elders, but with unwashed hands eat the bread?' ⁶and he answering said to them—'Well did Isaiah prophesy concerning you, hypocrites, as it hath been written, This people with the lips doth honour Me, but their heart is far from Me; ⁷but in vain do they worship Me, teaching teachings, commands of men; ⁸for, having put away the command of God, ye hold the tradition of men, baptisms of pots and cups; and many other such like things ye do.'

⁹And he said to them, 'Well do ye put away the command of God that your tradition ye may keep; ¹⁰for Moses said, Honour thy father and thy mother; and, He who speaketh evil of father or mother—let him die the death; ¹¹but ye say, If a man may say to father or to mother, Korban (that is, an offering), whatever thou mightest be profited by me; ¹²—no more do ye suffer him to do anything for his father or for his mother; ¹³setting aside the word of God for your tradition, which ye delivered; and many such like things ye do.'

¹⁴And having called up all the multitude, he said to them, 'Hearken ye all to me, and understand; ¹⁵there is nothing from without the man entering into him that is able to defile him, but the things coming out from him, those are the things defiling the man. ¹⁶If any have ears to hear—let him hear.'

¹⁷And when he entered into a house from the multitude, his disciples were questioning him about the simile; ¹⁸and he saith to them, 'So also ye are without understanding! Do ye not perceive that nothing from without entering into the man is able to defile him? ¹⁹that it entereth not into his heart, but into the belly, and into the drain goeth out, purifying all the meats.'

²⁰And he said—'That which is coming out from the man, that defileth the man; ²¹for from within, out of the heart of men, the evil reasonings come forth, adulteries, whoredoms, murders, ²²thefts, covetous desires, wickednesses, deceit, arrogance, an evil eye, evil speaking, pride, foolishness; ²³all these evils come forth from within, and they defile the man.'

²⁴And from thence having risen, he went away to the borders of Tyre and Sidon, and having entered into the house, wished none to know; and he was unable to be hid, ²⁵for a woman having heard about him, whose little daughter had an unclean spirit, having come, fell at his feet, ²⁶(but the woman was a Greek, a Syro-Phœnician by nation,) and was asking him, that the demon might be cast forth out of her daughter.

²⁷ But Jesus said to her, 'Suffer first the children to be filled: for it is not good to take the children's bread, and to cast it to the little dogs.' ²⁸ But she answered and saith to him, 'Yes, sir: for the little dogs also under the table do eat of the children's crumbs.' ²⁹ And he said to her, 'For this word go: the demon hath gone out of thy daughter.' ³⁰ And having come to her house, she found the demon gone out, and the daughter laid on the couch.

³¹ And again, having departed from the coasts of Tyre and Sidon, he came to the sea of Galilee, through the midst of the coasts of Decapolis: ³² and they bring to him a deaf, stuttering man, and they call on him that he may put his hand on him.

³³ And having taken him away from the multitude by himself, he put his fingers into his ears, and having spit, touched his tongue: ³⁴ and having looked to the heaven, groaned, and saith to him, 'Ephphatha,' that is, 'Be thou opened.' ³⁵ and immediately his ears were opened, and the string of his tongue was loosed, and he was speaking plain.

³⁶ And he charged them that they might tell no one: but the more he was charging them, the more abundantly they were proclaiming it, ³⁷ and were being beyond measure astonished, saying, 'Well hath he done all things: both the deaf he hath made to hear, and the dumb to speak.'

VIII. ¹ IN those days the multitude being very great, and not having what they may eat, Jesus having called up his disciples, saith to them, ² 'I have compassion on the multitude, for now three days they continue with me, and have not what they may eat: ³ and if I shall let them away fasting to their homes, they will faint in the way, for certain of them are come from far.'

⁴ And his disciples answered him, 'Whence shall any one be able these to feed here with bread in a wilderness?' ⁵ And he was questioning them, 'How many loaves have ye?' and they said, 'Seven.'

⁶ And he commanded the multitude to sit down on the ground, and having taken the seven loaves, having given thanks, he brake, and was giving to his disciples, that they may set before them; and they did set them before the multitude.

⁷ And they had a few small fishes, and having blessed, he said to set them also before them; ⁸ and they did eat, and were filled, and they took up that which was over of the broken pieces—seven baskets; ⁹ and those eating were about four thousand.

And he let them away, ¹⁰ and immediately having entered into the boat with his disciples, he came to the parts of Dalmanutha: ¹¹ and the Pharisees came forth, and began to dispute with him, seeking from him a sign from the heaven, tempting him: ¹² and having sighed deeply in his spirit, he saith, 'Why doth this generation seek after a sign? Verily I say to you, no sign shall be given to this generation.'

¹³ And having left them, having entered again into the boat, he went to the other side: ¹⁴ and they forgot to take loaves, and except one loaf had nothing with them in the boat: ¹⁵ and he was charging them, saying, 'Take heed, beware of the leaven of the Pharisees, and of the leaven of Herod: ¹⁶ and they were reasoning with one another, saying—'Because we have no loaves.'

¹⁷ And Jesus having known, saith to them, 'Why reason ye, because ye have no loaves: do ye not yet perceive, nor understand, yet have ye your heart hard? ¹⁸ Having eyes, do ye not see? and having ears, do ye not hear? and do ye not remember? ¹⁹ When the five loaves I brake to the five thousand, how many baskets full of broken pieces took ye up?' they say to him, 'Twelve.' ²⁰ And when the seven to the four thousand, how many baskets full of broken pieces took ye up?' and they said, 'Seven.' ²¹ And he said to them, 'How do ye not understand?'

²² And he cometh to Bethsaida, and they bring to him one blind, and call upon him that he may touch him; ²³ and having taken the hand of the blind man, he led him forth without the village, and having spit into his eyes, having put his hands on him, he was questioning him if he doth see anything: ²⁴ and he having looked up, said, 'I behold the men, as I see trees, walking.'

²⁵ Afterwards again he put his hands on his eyes, and made him look up, and he was restored, and discerned all things clearly: ²⁶ and he sent him away to his house, saying, 'Neither to the village mayest thou go, nor tell it to any one in the village.'

²⁷ And Jesus went out, and his disciples, to the villages of Cesarea Philippi: and in the way he was questioning his disciples, saying to them, 'Whom do men say me to be?' ²⁸ And they answered, 'John the Baptist: and others, Elijah: but others, one of the prophets.'

²⁹ And he saith to them, 'But ye—whom do ye say me to be?' And Peter answering saith to him, 'Thou art the Christ: ³⁰ and he strictly charged them that they might tell no one concerning him, ³¹ and began to teach them, that it is necessary for the Son of Man to suffer many things, and to be rejected by the elders, and chief priests, and scribes, and to be put to death, and after three days to rise: ³² and openly he was speaking the word.

And Peter having taken him aside, began to rebuke him: ³³ but he having turned, and having looked on his disciples, rebuked Peter, saying, 'Get behind me, adversary: for thou mindest not the things of God, but the things of men.'

³⁴ And having called up the multitude, with his disciples, he said to them, 'Whoever wisheth to come after me—let him disown himself, and take up his cross, and follow me: ³⁵ for whoever may wish to save his life shall lose it: but whoever may lose his life for my sake and for the good news, he shall save it: ³⁶ for what shall it profit a man, if he may gain the whole world, and forfeit his life? ³⁷ Or what shall a man give as an exchange for his life? ³⁸ for whoever may be ashamed of me, and of my words, in this adulterous and sinful generation, the Son of Man also shall be ashamed of him, when he may come in the glory of his Father, with the holy messengers.

IX. ¹AND he said to them, 'Verily I say to you, That there are certain of those standing here, who may not taste of death till they may see the reign of God having come in power.'

²And after six days Jesus taketh Peter, and James, and John, and bringeth them up to a high mountain by themselves, alone, and he was transfigured before them; ³and his garments became glittering, white exceedingly, as snow, so as a fuller on the earth is not able to whiten them.

⁴And there appeared to them Elijah, with Moses; and they were talking with Jesus. ⁵And Peter answering saith to Jesus, 'Rabbi, it is good for us to be here; and we may make three booths, for thee one, and for Moses one, and for Elijah one.' ⁶For he was not knowing what he might say, for they were greatly afraid.

⁷And there came a cloud overshadowing them, and there came a voice out of the cloud, saying, 'This is My Son—the Beloved, hear ye him;' ⁸and suddenly, having looked around, they saw no one any more, but Jesus only with themselves.

⁹And as they were coming down from the mountain, he charged them that they might declare to no one the things which they saw, except when the Son of Man may rise from the dead; ¹⁰and the thing they kept to themselves, questioning together what that is—to rise from the dead.

¹¹And they were questioning him, saying, that the scribes say that Elijah it behoves first to come. ¹²And he answering said to them, 'Elijah indeed having come first, restoreth all things; and how hath it been written concerning the Son of Man, that many things he may suffer, and be set at nought?' ¹³But I say to you, That also Elijah hath come, and they did to him what they wished, as it hath been written concerning him.'

¹⁴And having come to the disciples, he saw a great multitude about them, and scribes questioning with them; ¹⁵and immediately, all the multitude having seen him, were amazed, and running up, were saluting him.

¹⁶And he questioned the scribes, 'What dispute ye with them?' ¹⁷and one of the multitude answering said, 'Teacher, I brought my son to thee, having a dumb spirit; ¹⁸and wherever it seizeth him, it teareth him, and he foameth, and gnasheth his teeth, and pineth away; and I spake to thy disciples that they might cast it out, and they were unable.'

¹⁹And he answering said, 'O unbelieving generation, till when shall I be with you? till when shall I suffer you? bring him to me.' ²⁰and they brought him to him, and having seen him, immediately the spirit tare him, and having fallen on the earth, he was wallowing—foaming.

²¹And he questioned his father, 'How long time is it since this came to him?' and he said, 'From childhood; ²²and many times also it cast him into fire, and into water, that it might destroy him; but if thou art able to do anything, help us, having taken compassion on us.'

²³And Jesus said to him, 'If thou art able to believe; all things are possible to the one that believeth.' ²⁴and immediately the father of the child, having cried out, with tears said, 'I believe, sir: be thou helping mine unbelief.'

²⁵And Jesus having seen that a multitude runneth together, rebuked the unclean spirit, saying to it, 'Spirit—dumb and deaf—I charge thee, come out of him, and no more mayest thou enter into him;' ²⁶and having cried, and rent him much, it came out, and he became as dead, so that many said that he was dead; ²⁷but Jesus, having taken him by the hand, lifted him up, and he arose.

²⁸And when he was come into the house, his disciples were questioning him by himself, 'Why were we not able to cast it out.' ²⁹And he said to them, 'This kind is able to come forth with nothing except with prayer and fasting.'

³⁰And having gone out from thence, they were passing through Galilee, and he did not wish that any might know, ³¹for he was teaching his disciples, and said to them—'The Son of Man is being delivered into the hands of men, and they shall put him to death, and having been put to death, the third day he shall rise;' ³²but they were not understanding the saying, and were afraid to question him.

³³And he came to Capernaum, and being in the house, was questioning them, 'What were ye reasoning in the way among yourselves?' ³⁴but they were silent, for one with another they reasoned in the way who is greatest; ³⁵and having sat down, he called the twelve, and saith to them, 'If any wish to be first, he shall be last of all, and minister of all.'

³⁶And having taken a child, he set him in their midst, and having taken him in his arms, said to them, ³⁷'Whoever may receive one of such children in my name, receiveth me, and whoever may receive me, receiveth not me, but Him who sent me.'

³⁸And John answered him, saying, 'Teacher, we saw a certain one in thy name casting out demons, who followeth not us, and we hindered him because he followeth not us.' ³⁹But Jesus said, 'Hinder him not: for there is no one who shall do a mighty work in my name, and shall be able readily to speak evil of me; ⁴⁰for he who is not against us is for us; ⁴¹for whoever may give you to drink a cup of water in my name, because ye are Christ's, verily I say to you, he may not lose his reward; ⁴²and whoever may cause to stumble one of the little ones believing in me, good were it for him if a millstone were hanged about his neck, and he were cast into the sea.'

⁴³'And if thy hand may cause thee to stumble, cut it off: it is better for thee maimed to enter into life, than having the two hands, to go away into the Gehenna, into the fire—the unquenchable.—“where their worm is not dying, and the fire is not quenched.

“⁴⁵ And if thy foot may cause thee to stumble, cut it off: it is better for thee to enter into life lame, than having the two feet, to be cast into the Gehenna, into the fire—the unquenchable.—“where their worm is not dying, and the fire is not quenched.

“⁴⁷ And if thine eye may cause thee to stumble, pull it out: it is better for thee having one eye to enter into the kingdom of God, than having two eyes, to be cast into the Gehenna of fire: “where their worm is not dying, and the fire is not quenched: “⁴⁹ for every one with fire shall be salted, and every sacrifice with salt shall be salted. “⁵⁰ Salt is good, but if the salt may become saltless, with what will ye season it? Have salt in yourselves, and have peace with one another.”

X. “¹ And having risen from thence, he cometh into the coasts of Judea, through the other side of the Jordan, and again multitudes come together to him, and, as he had been accustomed, again he was teaching them. “² And the Pharisees having come up, questioned him, if it is lawful for a husband to send away a wife, tempting him: “³ but he answering said to them, ‘What did Moses command you?’ “and they said, ‘Moses suffered to write a bill of divorce, and to send away.’

“⁵ And Jesus answering said to them, ‘For the hardness of your hearts he wrote you this command, “but from the beginning of the creation, male and female God made them: “⁷ on this account shall a man leave his father and mother, and cleave to his wife, “and they two shall be one flesh: so that they are no more two, but one flesh: “⁹ what therefore God joined together, let not man put asunder.’

“¹⁰ And in the house his disciples again of the same thing questioned him: “¹¹ and he saith to them, ‘Whoever may send away his wife, and may marry another, committeth adultery against her: “¹² and if a woman may send away her husband, and he married to another, she committeth adultery.’

“¹³ And they were bringing to him children, that he might teach them, but the disciples were rebuking those bringing them: “¹⁴ but Jesus having seen, was much displeased, and said to them, ‘Suffer the children to come to me, and hinder them not, for of such is the reign of God: “¹⁵ verily I say to you, whoever may not receive the reign of God as a child, he may not enter into it:’ “¹⁶ and having taken them in his arms, having put his hands upon them, he was blessing them.

“¹⁷ And as he was going forth into the way, one having run and having kneeled to him, was questioning him, ‘Good teacher, what shall I do, that age-during life I may inherit it?’

“¹⁸ And Jesus said to him, ‘Why me dost thou call good? none is good except one—God: “¹⁹ the commands thou hast known: Thou mayest not commit adultery, Thou mayest do no murder, Thou mayest not steal, Thou mayest not bear false witness. Thou mayest do no wrong, Honour thy father and mother.’ “²⁰ And he answering said to him, ‘Teacher, all these I kept from my youth.’

“²¹ And Jesus having looked on him, loved him, and said to him, ‘One thing thou lackest: go away, whatever thou hast—sell, and give to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven, and come, he following me, having taken up the cross.’

“²² But he—gloomy at the word—went away sorrowing, for he was one having many possessions: “²³ and Jesus having looked round, saith to his disciples, ‘How hardly shall they who have riches enter into the reign of God!’

“²⁴ And the disciples were astonished at his words, but Jesus again answering saith to them, ‘Children, how hard is it for those who are trusting on riches to enter into the reign of God! “²⁵ It is easier for the camel through the eye of the needle to go, than for a rich man to enter into the reign of God.’

“²⁶ And they were astonished beyond measure, saying to themselves, ‘And who is able to be saved?’ “²⁷ But Jesus, having looked on them, saith, ‘With men it is impossible, but not with God: for all things are possible with God.’

“²⁸ And Peter began to say to him, ‘Lo, we left all, and followed thee.’ “²⁹ And Jesus answering said, ‘Verily I say to you, there is no one who left house, or brothers, or sisters, or father, or mother, or wife, or children, or fields, for my sake and for the good news, “³⁰ but shall receive an hundred-fold now in this time, houses, and brothers, and sisters, and mothers, and children, and fields, with persecutions, and in the age which cometh, life age-during: “³¹ but many first shall be last, and the last first.’

“³² And they were in the way going up to Jerusalem, and Jesus was going before them, and they were amazed, and following they were afraid.

And having again taken the twelve, he began to tell them the things about to happen to him, “³³—‘Lo, we go up to Jerusalem, and the Son of Man shall be delivered to the chief priests and to the scribes, and they shall condemn him to death, and deliver him to the nations, “³⁴ and they shall mock him, and scourge him, and spit upon him, and put him to death, and the third day he shall rise.’

“³⁵ And there came to him James and John, the sons of Zebedee, saying, ‘Teacher, we wish that whatever we may ask, thou mayest do for us:’ “³⁶ and he said to them, ‘What do ye wish me to do for you?’ “³⁷ and they said to him, ‘Grant to us that, one on thy right hand and one on thy left, we may sit in thy glory:’ “³⁸ but Jesus said to them, ‘Ye know not what ye ask: are ye able to drink of the cup, which I drink of, and with the baptism which I am baptized with, to be baptized?'

³⁹And they said to him, 'We are able;' but Jesus said to them, 'Of the cup indeed which I drink of, ye shall drink, and with the baptism which I am baptized with, shall ye be baptized; ⁴⁰but to sit on my right and on my left, is not mine to give, but—to those for whom it hath been prepared.'

⁴¹And the ten having heard, began to be much displeased at James and John; ⁴²but Jesus having called them up, saith to them, 'Ye know that they who are considered to rule the nations exercise lordship over them, and their great ones exercise authority upon them; ⁴³but not so shall it be among you; but whoever may wish to become great among you, shall be your minister, ⁴⁴and whoever of you may wish to become first, shall be servant of all: ⁴⁵for even the Son of Man came not to be ministered to, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many.'

⁴⁶And they come to Jericho, and as he was going out from Jericho, with his disciples and a great multitude, a son of Timeus—Bartimæus the blind—was sitting beside the way begging; ⁴⁷and having heard that it is Jesus the Nazarene, he began to cry out, and to say, 'The Son of David—Jesus! deal kindly with me;' ⁴⁸and many were rebuking him, that he might keep silent, but the more abundantly he cried, 'Son of David, deal kindly with me.'

⁴⁹And Jesus having stood, commanded him to be called; and they call the blind man, saying to him, 'Take courage, rise, he calleth thee;' ⁵⁰and he having cast away his garment, having risen, came to Jesus.

⁵¹And answering, Jesus saith to him, 'What wilt thou I may do to thee?' and the blind man said to him, 'Rabboni, that I may receive sight;' ⁵²and Jesus said to him, 'Go, thy faith hath saved thee;' and immediately he received sight, and was following Jesus in the way.

XI. ¹AND when they come nigh to Jerusalem, to Bethphage, and Bethany, to the mount of the olives, he sendeth forth two of his disciples, ²and saith to them, 'Go to the village which is over-against you, and immediately, entering into it, ye shall find a colt tied, on which no one of men hath sat, having loosed it, bring it; ³and if any one say to you, Why do ye this? say ye—The Lord hath need of it, and immediately he will send it hither.'

⁴And they went away, and found the colt tied at the door without, by the two ways, and they loose it; ⁵and certain of those standing there said to them, 'What do ye—loosing the colt?' ⁶and they said to them as Jesus commanded, and they suffered them.

⁷And they brought the colt to Jesus, and cast on it their garments, and he sat upon it; ⁸and many spread their garments on the way, and others were cutting down branches from the trees and strowing on the way.

⁹And those going before and those following were crying, saying, 'Hosanna! blessed is he who is coming in the name of the Lord; ¹⁰blessed is the coming reign of our father David, in the name of the Lord: Hosanna in the highest.'

¹¹And Jesus entered into Jerusalem, and into the temple, and having looked round on all things, it being now evening, he went out to Bethany with the twelve. ¹²And on the morrow, as they were coming from Bethany, he hungered, ¹³and having seen a fig-tree at a distance having leaves, he came, if perhaps he shall find anything on it; and having come to it, he found nothing except leaves, for it was not the time of figs; ¹⁴and Jesus answering said to it, 'No more from thee—for the age—may any eat fruit;' and his disciples were hearing.

¹⁵And they come to Jerusalem, and Jesus having gone into the temple, began to cast out those selling and buying in the temple, and the tables of the money-changers and the seats of those selling the doves he overthrew; ¹⁶and suffered not that any might bear a vessel through the temple; ¹⁷and was teaching, saying to them, 'Hath it not been written—My house a house of prayer shall be called for all the nations, but ye have made it a den of robbers?'

¹⁸And the scribes and the chief priests heard it, and were seeking how they shall destroy him, for they were afraid of him, because all the multitude was astonished at his teaching; ¹⁹and when evening came, he was going out of the city.

²⁰And in the morning, passing by, they saw the fig-tree dried up from the roots; ²¹and Peter having remembered, saith to him, 'Rabbi, lo, the fig-tree which thou didst curse is dried up.'

²²And Jesus answering saith to them, 'Have God's faith; ²³for verily I say to you, that whoever may say to this mountain, Be taken up, and be cast into the sea, and may not doubt in his heart, but may believe that the things which he saith come to pass, he shall have whatever he may say. ²⁴Therefore I say to you, all whatever praying, ye do ask, believe that ye receive, and ye shall have.'

²⁵And when ye may stand praying, forgive, if ye have anything against any one, that your Father also who is in the heavens may forgive you your trespasses; ²⁶but, if ye do not forgive, neither will your Father who is in the heavens forgive you your trespasses.'

²⁷And they come again to Jerusalem, and in the temple, as he was walking, there came to him the chief priests, and the scribes, and the elders, ²⁸and they say to him, 'By what authority doest thou these things? and who gave thee this authority that these things thou mayest do?'

²⁹And Jesus answering said to them, 'I will question you, I also, one word; and answer me, and I will tell you by what authority I do these things: ³⁰the baptism of John—from heaven was it? or from men? answer me.'

³¹ And they were reasoning with themselves, saying, 'If we may say, From heaven, he will say, Wherefore then did ye not believe him?' ³² But if we may say, From men, they were fearing the people, for all were holding John that he was indeed a prophet: ³³ and answering they say to Jesus, 'We do not know;' and Jesus answering saith to them, 'Neither do I tell you by what authority I do these things.'

XII. ¹ AND he began to speak to them in similes: 'A man planted a vineyard, and put a hedge about it, and digged an underwine-vat, and built a tower, and let it out to husbandmen, and went abroad: ² and he sent to the husbandmen at the due time a servant, that from the husbandmen he might receive from the fruit of the vineyard: ³ but they, having taken him, severely beat him, and sent him away empty.'

⁴ And again he sent to them another servant, and at that one having cast stones, they wounded him in the head, and sent away, dishonoured.

⁵ And again he sent another, and that one they killed; also many others, some beating, and some killing.

⁶ Having yet therefore one son—his beloved—he sent also him to them last, saying—They will reverence my son: ⁷ but those husbandmen said among themselves—This is the heir, come, we may kill him, and ours shall be the inheritance. ⁸ And having taken him, they killed, and cast him out of the vineyard.

⁹ What therefore shall the lord of the vineyard do? he will come and destroy the husbandmen, and will give the vineyard to others. ¹⁰ And this writing have ye not read: A stone which the builders rejected, it hath become the head of a corner: ¹¹ from the Lord hath this been, and it is wonderful in our eyes.'

¹² And they were seeking to lay hold on him, and feared the multitude, for they knew that against them he spake the simile, and having left him, they went away: ¹³ and they sent to him certain of the Pharisees and of the Herodians, that they might catch him in discourse: ¹⁴ and they having come, say to him, 'Teacher, we have known that thou art true, and art not caring for any one, for thou lookest not to the face of men, but in truth the way of God dost teach: is it lawful to give tribute to Cæsar or not? may we give or may we not give?'

¹⁵ And he, knowing their hypocrisy, said to them, 'Why me do ye tempt? bring me a denary, that I may see it: ¹⁶ and they brought it; and he saith to them, 'Whose is this image, and the inscription?' and they said to him, 'Cæsar's: ¹⁷ and Jesus answering said to them, 'Render the things of Cæsar to Cæsar, and the things of God to God;' and they wondered at him.

¹⁸ And the Sadducees come to him, who say there is not a rising again, and they questioned him, saying, ¹⁹ 'Teacher, Moses wrote to us, that if any one's brother may die, and leave a wife, and leave no children —his brother may take his wife, and raise up seed to his brother.

²⁰ There were then seven brothers: and the first took a wife, and dying, left no seed: ²¹ and the second took her, and died, neither left he seed: and the third in like manner: ²² and the seven took her, and left no seed: last of all died also the woman: ²³ in the rising again, then, when they may rise, of which of them shall she be wife, for the seven had her as wife?'

²⁴ And Jesus answering said to them, 'Do ye not therefore go astray, not knowing the Writings, nor the power of God? ²⁵ for when they may rise from the dead, they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but are as messengers who are in the heavens.'

²⁶ And concerning the dead, that they rise: have ye not read in the book of Moses (concerning the bush), how God spake to him, saying, I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. ²⁷ he is not the God of dead men, but God of living men: ye then go greatly astray.'

²⁸ And one of the scribes having come up, having heard them disputing, knowing that he answered them well, questioned him, 'Which is the first command of all? ²⁹ and Jesus answered him—The first of all the commands is, Hear, O Israel, the Lord is our God, the Lord is one: ³⁰ and thou shalt love the Lord thy God out of all thy heart, and out of all thy soul, and out of all thine understanding, and out of all thy strength: this is the first command: ³¹ and a second is like it, this, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself:—greater than these there is no other command.'

³² And the scribe said to him, 'Well, Teacher, in truth thou hast spoken: for there is one God, and there is no other but He: ³³ and to love Him out of all the heart, and out of all the understanding, and out of all the soul, and out of all the strength, and to love one's neighbour as one's-self, is more than all the whole burnt-offerings and the sacrifices.'

³⁴ And Jesus having seen him that he answered with understanding, said to him, 'Thou art not far from the reign of God: and no one any more durst question him.'

³⁵ And Jesus answering said, teaching in the temple, 'How say the scribes that the Christ is son of David? ³⁶ for David himself said in the Holy Spirit, The Lord said to my lord, Sit thou on My right hand, till I place thine enemies as thy footstool: ³⁷ therefore David himself saith of him Lord, and whence is he his son?'

And the great multitude were hearing him gladly: ³⁸ and he was saying to them in his teaching, 'Beware of the scribes, who affect to walk in long robes, and salutations in the markets, ³⁹ and first seats in the synagogues, and first couches at the suppers: ⁴⁰ who are devouring the widows' houses, and for a pretence are praying a long time: these shall receive more notable judgement.'

⁴¹ And Jesus having sat down over-against the treasury, was beholding how the multitude put copper into the treasury, and many rich were putting in much; ⁴²and having come, a poor widow put in two mites, which are a farthing.

⁴³And having called up his disciples, he saith to them, 'Verily I say to you, this poor widow hath put in more than all those who have put into the treasury: ⁴⁴for all, out of their abundance, did put in, but she, out of her want, all that she had did put in—all her living.'

XIII. ¹AND as he was going out of the temple, one of his disciples saith to him, 'Teacher, see what stones! and what buildings!' ²and Jesus answering said to him, 'Seest thou these great buildings? there may not be left a stone upon a stone, which may not be thrown down.'

³And as he was sitting on the mount of the olives, over-against the temple, Peter, and James, and John, and Andrew, were questioning him by himself, ⁴'Tell us when these things shall be, ⁵and what the sign when all these may be about to be fulfilled?'

⁶And Jesus answering them, began to say, 'Take heed lest any lead you astray: ⁷for many shall come in my name, saying, I am he, and many shall they lead astray: ⁸and when ye may hear of wars and reports of wars, be not troubled, for it must be so; but the end is not yet: ⁹for nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, and there shall be earthquakes in divers places, and there shall be famines and troubles: ¹⁰beginnings of sorrows are these.

'But take heed to yourselves, for they shall deliver you up to synagogues, and in synagogues ye shall be beaten, and before governors and kings ye shall be set for my sake, for a testimony to them: ¹¹and to all the nations it behoveth first to proclaim the good news.

¹²But when ye may lead you, delivering you up, be not careful beforehand what ye may speak, nor premeditate: but whatever may be given to you in that hour, that speak ye, for it is not ye who are speaking, but the Holy Spirit.'

¹³And brother shall deliver up brother to death, and father child, and children shall rise up against parents, and shall put them to death: ¹⁴and ye shall be hated by all because of my name: but he who hath endured to the end—he shall be saved.

¹⁵But when ye may see the abomination of the desolation, which was spoken of through Daniel the prophet, standing where it ought not, (whoso is reading let him observe,) then those in Judea, let them flee to the mountains: ¹⁶and he on the housetop, let him not go down into the house, nor come in to take anything out of his house: ¹⁷and he who is in the field, let him not turn to the things behind, to take up his garment.

¹⁸But we to those with child, and to those giving suck, in those days: ¹⁹and pray ye that your flight may not be in the winter, ²⁰for those days shall be tribulation, such as hath not been from the beginning of the creation which God created, till now, and may not be: ²¹and if the Lord shortened not the days, no flesh had been saved: but because of the chosen, whom He chose for Himself, He shortened the days.

²²'And then, if any may say to you, Lo, here is the Christ, or, Lo, there, ye may not believe: ²³for there shall rise false Christs and false prophets, and they shall give signs and wonders, to seduce, if possible, even the chosen: ²⁴but ye, take heed: lo, I have foretold you all.

²⁵'But in those days, after that tribulation, the sun shall be darkened, and the moon shall not give her light, ²⁶and the stars of the heaven shall be falling, and the powers that are in the heavens shaken.

²⁷'And then shall they see the Son of Man coming in clouds with much power and glory, ²⁸and then shall he send his messengers, and gather together his chosen from the four winds, from the end of earth unto the end of heaven.

²⁹'But from the fig-tree learn ye the simile: when her branch is already become tender, and may put forth the leaves, ye know that near is the summer: ³⁰so ye, also, when these ye may see coming to pass, ye know that it is near, at the doors. ³¹Verily I say to you, that this generation may not pass away till all these things may be: ³²the heaven and the earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.

³³'But concerning that day and the hour no one hath known, (not even the messengers who are in heaven, not even the Son,) except the Father. ³⁴'Take heed, watch and pray, for ye know not when the time is: ³⁵as a man who is gone abroad, having left his house, and given to his servants the authority, and to each one his work, commanded also the porter that he may watch: ³⁶watch ye therefore, (for ye know not when the lord of the house cometh, at evening, or at midnight, or at cock-crowing, or in the morning: ³⁷lest, having come suddenly, he may find you sleeping: ³⁸and what I say to you, I say to all, Watch.'

XIV. ¹BUT the passover and the unleavened food were after two days, and the chief priests and the scribes were seeking how, by guile, having taken hold of him, they might put him to death: ²but they said, 'Not during the feast, lest there shall be a tumult of the people.'

³And he, being in Bethany, in the house of Simon the leper, at his reclining (at meat), there came a woman having an alabaster box of ointment, of spikenard, very precious, and having broken the alabaster box, poured it on his head: ⁴and there were certain much displeased within themselves, and saying, 'For what hath this waste of the ointment been made? ⁵for this could have been sold for more than three hundred denaries, and have been given to the poor: ⁶and they were murmuring at her.

⁷And Jesus said, 'Let her alone: why are ye giving her trouble? ⁸a good work she wrought on me: ⁹for the poor always ye have with you, and whenever ye may wish ye are able to do them good, but me ye have not always: ¹⁰what she could she did she brought it beforehand to anoint my body for the burial. ⁹Verily I say to you, wherever this good news may be proclaimed in the whole world, what also this woman did shall be spoken of, for her memorial.'

¹⁰And Judas the Iscariot, one of the twelve, went away to the chief priests to deliver him up to them: ¹¹and having heard, they were glad, and promised to give him money: and he was seeking how, conveniently, he might deliver him up.

¹²And the first day of the unleavened food, when they were killing the passover, his disciples say to him, 'Where wilt thou that, having gone, we may prepare, that thou mayest eat the passover?'

¹³And he sendeth forth two of his disciples, and saith to them, 'Go ye into the city, and there shall meet you a man bearing a pitcher of water, follow him: ¹⁴and wherever he may go in, say ye to the master of the house—The Teacher saith, Where is the guest-chamber, where the passover, with my disciples, I may eat? ¹⁵and he will shew you a large upper-room, furnished, prepared: there make ready for us.'

¹⁶And his disciples went forth, and came into the city, and found as he said to them, and made ready the passover. ¹⁷And evening having come, he cometh with the twelve: ¹⁸and as they were reclining and eating, Jesus said, 'Verily I say to you—one of you, who is eating with me—shall deliver me up.'

¹⁹And they began to be sorrowful, and to say to him, one by one, 'Is it I?' and another, 'Is it I?' ²⁰And he answering said to them, 'One of the twelve who is dipping with me in the dish: ²¹the Son of Man indeed goeth, as it hath been written concerning him, but wo to that man by whom the Son of Man is delivered up: good were it to him if that man had not been born.'

²²And as they were eating, Jesus having taken bread, having blessed, brake, and gave to them, and said, 'Take, eat: this is my body.'

²³And having taken the cup, having given thanks, he gave to them, and they drank of it—all: ²⁴and he said to them, 'This is my blood of the new covenant, which for many is being shed: ²⁵verily I say to you, that no more may I drink of the produce of the vine till that day when I am drinking it new in the reign of God.'

²⁶And having sung an hymn, they went out to the mount of the olives: ²⁷and Jesus saith to them—'All ye shall be stumbled at me this night: for it hath been written, I will smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered abroad: ²⁸but after my having risen, I will go before you into Galilee.'

²⁹And Peter said to him, 'Even if all shall be stumbled, yet not I: ³⁰and Jesus saith to him, 'Verily I say to thee, to-day, this night, before the cock shall crow twice, thrice shalt thou deny me.' ³¹But he spake the more vehemently, 'If it may be necessary for me to die with thee—I will in no wise deny thee: and in like manner also said they all.

³²And they come to a spot, the name of which is Gethsemane: and he saith to his disciples, 'Sit ye here till I may pray: ³³and he taketh Peter, and James, and John with himself, and began to be amazed, and to be much troubled: ³⁴and he saith to them, 'Exceeding sorrowful is my soul—unto death: abide ye here, and watch.'

³⁵And having gone forward a little, he fell on the earth, and was praying, that, if it were possible, the hour might pass from him: ³⁶and he said, 'Abba, Father: all things are possible to Thee: turn aside this cup from me: but, not what I will, but what Thou.'

³⁷And he cometh, and findeth them sleeping, and saith to Peter, 'Simon, thou dost sleep: thou wast unable to watch one hour.

³⁸Watch ye and pray, that ye may not enter into temptation: the spirit indeed is forward, but the flesh weak.'

³⁹And again having gone away, he prayed, the same words saying: ⁴⁰and having returned, he found them again sleeping, for their eyes were heavy, and they knew not what they might answer him.

⁴¹And he cometh the third time, and saith to them, 'Sleep on henceforth, and rest—it is enough: the hour hath come; lo, the Son of Man is delivered up into the hands of the sinful: ⁴²rise, let us go: lo, he who is delivering me up hath come near.'

⁴³And immediately—while he is yet speaking—cometh Judas, one of the twelve, and with him a great multitude, with swords and sticks, from the chief priests, and the scribes, and the elders: ⁴⁴and he who is delivering him up had given a token to them, saying, 'Whomsoever I shall kiss, it is he, lay hold of him, and lead away safely.'

⁴⁵and having come, immediately, having gone to him, he saith, 'Rabbi, Rabbi,' and kissed him.

⁴⁶And they laid their hands on him, and held him fast: ⁴⁷and a certain one of those standing by, having drawn the sword, struck the servant of the chief priest, and took off his ear.

⁴⁸And Jesus answering said to them, 'As against a robbery ye come out, with swords and sticks, to take me: ⁴⁹daily I was with you in the temple teaching, and ye laid not hold of me—but that the Writings may be fulfilled.'

⁵⁰And having left him they all fled: ⁵¹and a certain young man was following him, having cast a linen cloth about his naked body, and the young men lay hold on him: ⁵²and he, having left the linen cloth, fled from them naked.

⁵³And they led away Jesus to the chief priest, and come together to him are all the chief priests, and the elders, and the scribes: ⁵⁴and Peter afar off followed him, to the inside of the hall of the chief priest, and was sitting with the officers, and warming himself at the fire.

⁵⁵And the chief priests and all the scribes were seeking against Jesus testimony—to put him to death, and they were not finding, ⁵⁶for many were bearing false testimony against him, and their testimonies were insufficient.

⁵⁷ And certain having arisen, were bearing false testimony against him, saying, ⁵⁸ 'We heard him saying, I will throw down this temple made with hands, and by three days, another made without hands I will build.' ⁵⁹ and neither so was their testimony sufficient.

⁶⁰ And the chief priest having risen up in the midst, questioned Jesus, saying, 'Thou answerest nothing: what do these testify against thee?' ⁶¹ but he was keeping silent, and answered nothing.

Again the chief priest was questioning him, and saith to him, 'Art thou the Christ—the Son of the Blessed?' ⁶² and Jesus said, 'I am; and ye shall see the Son of Man sitting on the right hand of the power, and coming with the clouds of the heaven.'

⁶³ And the chief priest, having rent his garments, saith, 'What need have we yet of witnesses?' ⁶⁴ Ye heard the evil speaking: what appeareth to you?' and they all condemned him to be guilty of death; ⁶⁵ and certain began to spit on him, and to cover his face, and to buffet him, and to say to him, 'Divine!': and the officers were striking him with their palms.

⁶⁶ And Peter being in the hall beneath, there cometh one of the maids of the chief priest, ⁶⁷ and having seen Peter warming himself, having looked on him, she said, 'And thou wast with Jesus of Nazareth?' ⁶⁸ but he denied, saying, 'I have not known him, nor even understand what thou sayest:' and he went out without to the porch, and a cock crew.

⁶⁹ And the maid having seen him again, began to say to those standing by, 'This is one of them;' ⁷⁰ and he was again denying.

And after a little again, those standing by said to Peter, 'Truly thou art of them: for thou also art a Galilean, and thy speech is alike.' ⁷¹ but he began to anathematize, and to swear, 'I have not known this man of whom ye speak:' ⁷² and the second time a cock crew, and Peter remembered the word that Jesus said to him, 'Before the cock is to crow twice, thou mayest deny me thrice:' and having thought thereon,—he was weeping.

XV. ¹ AND immediately, in the morning, the chief priests having held a consultation, with the elders and scribes, and the whole sanhedrim, having bound Jesus, they led him away, and delivered him to Pilate; ² and Pilate questioned him, 'Art thou the king of the Jews?' and he answering said to him, 'Thou sayest it.'

³ And the chief priests were accusing him of many things, but he answered nothing. ⁴ And Pilate again questioned him, saying, 'Thou answerest nothing: lo, how many things they testify against thee?' ⁵ but Jesus no more answered anything, so that Pilate wondered.

⁶ And at every feast he was releasing to them one prisoner, whomsoever they were asking: and there was one named Barabbas, bound with those making insurrection with him, who had in the insurrection committed murder.

⁷ And the multitude having cried out, began to ask him to do as he was always doing to them: ⁸ but Pilate answered them, saying, 'Will ye that I shall release to you the king of the Jews?' ⁹ for he knew that because of envy the chief priests had delivered him up; ¹⁰ but the chief priests moved the multitude, that he might rather release Barabbas to them.

¹¹ And Pilate answering, again said to them, 'What, then, will ye that I shall do to him whom ye call king of the Jews?' ¹² and they again cried out, 'Crucify him.'

¹³ And Pilate said to them, 'Why, what evil did he?' and they cried out the more vehemently, 'Crucify him:' ¹⁴ and Pilate, willing to content the multitude, released to them Barabbas, and delivered up Jesus—having scourged him—to be crucified.

¹⁵ And the soldiers led him away into the hall, which is the Prætorium, and they call together the whole band; ¹⁶ and they clothe him with purple, and having plaited a crown of thorns, put it on him; ¹⁷ and began to salute him, 'Hail, king of the Jews.'

¹⁸ And they were smiting him on the head with a reed, and were spitting on him, and having kneeled, were bowing to him: ¹⁹ and when they had mocked him, they took the purple from off him, and clothed him with his own garments, and lead him out, that they may crucify him.

²⁰ And they impress a certain one passing by, Simon, a Cyrenian, coming out from the country, the father of Alexander and Rufus, that he may bear his cross; ²¹ and they bring him to the place Golgotha, which is, being interpreted, 'Place of a skull:' ²² and they were giving him to drink wine mingled with myrrh, but he received it not.

²³ And having crucified him, they were dividing his garments, casting a lot upon them, what each may take: ²⁴ and it was the third hour, and they crucified him: ²⁵ and the inscription of his accusation was written over, 'The King of the Jews.'

²⁶ And with him they crucify two robbers, one on the right hand, and one on his left: ²⁷ and the writing was fulfilled which saith, 'And with lawless ones he was numbered.'

³⁰ And in like manner also the chief priests, mocking, one with another, with the scribes, said, 'Others he saved: himself he is unable to save. ³¹ The Christ! the king of Israel!—let him come down now from the cross, that we may see and believe:' and they who were crucified with him were reproaching him.

³² And the sixth hour having come, darkness was over the whole land till the ninth hour: ³³ and at the ninth hour Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, 'Eloi, Eloi, lama sabachthan!' which is, being interpreted, 'My God, my God, why didst Thou forsake me?'

³⁵ And certain of those standing by, having heard, said, 'Lo, Elijah he calleth:' ³⁶ and one having run, and filled a sponge with vinegar, and put it on a reed, was giving him to drink, saying, 'Let alone, let us see if Elijah doth come to take him down.'

³⁷ And Jesus having uttered a loud cry, gave up the spirit. ³⁸ and the veil of the temple was rent in two, from top to bottom; ³⁹ and the centurion who was standing over-against him, having seen that, having so cried out, he gave up the spirit, said, 'Truly this man was Son of God.'

⁴⁰ And there were also women afar off looking on, among whom was also Mary the Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James the less and of Joseph, and Salome: ⁴¹ (who also, when he was in Galilee, were following him, and ministering to him,) and many other women who came up with him to Jerusalem.

⁴² And now evening having come, (seeing it was the preparation, that is, the fore-sabbath,) ⁴³ Joseph of Arimathæa, an honourable counsellor, who also himself was waiting for the reign of God, came, boldly entered in unto Pilate, and asked the body of Jesus.

⁴⁴ And Pilate wondered if he were already dead, and having called up the centurion, questioned him if he were long dead: ⁴⁵ and having known it from the centurion, he granted the body to Joseph.

⁴⁶ And he, having brought fine linen, and having taken him down, wrapped him in the linen, and laid him in a sepulchre which had been hewn out of a rock, and he rolled a stone on to the door of the sepulchre: ⁴⁷ and Mary the Magdalene, and Mary mother of Joseph, were beholding where he is laid.

XVI. ¹ AND the sabbath having past, Mary the Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James, and Salome, bought spices, that having come, they might anoint him: ² and early in the morning of the first of the sabbaths, they came unto the sepulchre, at the rising of the sun: ³ and they said among themselves, 'Who shall roll away for us the stone from the door of the sepulchre?'

⁴ And having looked, they see that the stone hath been rolled away: for it was very great: ⁵ and having entered into the sepulchre, they saw a young man sitting on the right hand, arrayed in a long white robe, and they were alarmed.

⁶ And he saith to them, 'Be not alarmed: ye seek Jesus the Nazarene, the crucified: he is risen; he is not here: lo, the place where they laid him: ⁷ but go, tell his disciples, and Peter, that he goeth before you to Galilee: there shall ye see him, as he said to you.'

⁸ And having gone out quickly, they fled from the sepulchre, and trembling and amazement had seized them, and to no one said they anything, for they were afraid.

⁹ And he, having risen in the morning of the first of the sabbaths, appeared first to Mary the Magdalene, out of whom he had cast seven demons: ¹⁰ she having gone, told it to those who had been with him, mourning and weeping: ¹¹ and they, having heard that he is alive, and was seen by her, did not believe.

¹² And after these things, to two of them, as they were going into the country, walking, he was manifested in another form: ¹³ and they having gone, told it to the rest: not even then did they believe.

¹⁴ Afterwards, as they are reclining (at meat), he was manifested to the eleven, and reproached their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not those having seen him being raised: ¹⁵ and he said to them, 'Having gone into all the world, proclaim the good news to the whole creation: ¹⁶ he who hath believed, and hath been baptized, shall be saved: but he who hath not believed, shall be condemned.'

¹⁷ And signs shall accompany those believing these things: in my name demons they shall cast out; with new tongues they shall speak; ¹⁸ serpents they shall take up; and if any deadly thing they may drink, it shall not hurt them: on the infirm they shall lay hands, and they shall be well.'

¹⁹ The Lord, then, after speaking to them, was received up into the heaven, and sat on the right hand of God: ²⁰ and they, having gone forth, preached everywhere, the Lord working with them, and confirming the word through the signs following. Amen.

CHAP. I. ¹SEEING that many took in hand to set in order a narration concerning the matters which have been fully assured among us, ²as they delivered them to us, who from the beginning became eye-witnesses, and officers of the Word, ³it seemed good also to me, having traced from the first all things exactly, to write to thee in order, most noble Theophilus, ⁴that thou mayest know the certainty of those things wherein thou wast instructed.

⁵There was in the days of Herod the king of Judea, a certain priest, Zacharias by name, of the course of Abijah: and his wife of the daughters of Aaron, and her name Elizabeth; ⁶and they were both righteous before God, walking in all the commands and righteousnesses of the Lord blameless; ⁷and they had no child, because that Elizabeth was barren, and both were advanced in their days.

⁸And it came to pass, in his executing the priest's office, in the order of his course, before God, ⁹according to the custom of the priest's office, his lot was to make perfume, having gone into the sanctuary of the Lord; ¹⁰and all the multitude of the people were praying without, at the hour of the perfume.

¹¹And there appeared to him a messenger of the Lord standing on the right side of the altar of the perfume; ¹²and Zacharias having seen, was troubled, and fear fell on him; ¹³but the messenger said to him, 'Fear not, Zacharias, for thy supplication was heard, and thy wife Elizabeth shall bear a son to thee, and thou shalt call his name John.' ¹⁴And there shall be joy to thee and gladness, and many at his birth shall joy; ¹⁵for he shall be great before the Lord, and wine and strong drink he may not drink, and with the Holy Spirit he shall be filled, even from his mother's womb; ¹⁶and many of the children of Israel shall he turn to the Lord their God; ¹⁷and he shall go before Him, in the spirit and power of Elijah, to turn the hearts of fathers to children, and disobedient ones to the wisdom of the righteous, to make ready for the Lord, a people prepared.'

¹⁸And Zacharias said to the messenger, 'Whereby shall I know this? for I am old, and my wife advanced in her days?'

¹⁹And the messenger answering said to him, 'I am Gabriel, who am standing near in the presence of God, and I was sent to speak to thee, and to proclaim these good news to thee; ²⁰and, lo, thou shalt be silent, and not able to speak, till the day that these things shall come to pass, because thou didst not believe my words, which shall be fulfilled in their season.'

²¹And the people were waiting for Zacharias, and wondering at his tarrying in the sanctuary; ²²and having come out, he was unable to speak to them, and they knew that a vision he hath seen in the sanctuary, and he was beckoning to them, and continued dumb.

²³And it came to pass, when the days of his ministration were fulfilled, he went away to his own house; ²⁴and after those days, his wife Elizabeth conceived, and hid herself five months, saying, ²⁵'Thus hath the Lord done to me, in the days in which he looked on me, to take away my reproach among men.'

²⁶And in the sixth month was the messenger Gabriel sent by God, to a city of Galilee, the name of which was Nazareth, ²⁷to a virgin betrothed to a man, whose name was Joseph, of the house of David, and the name of the virgin was Mary.

²⁸And the messenger having come in to her, said, 'Hail, favoured one; the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou among women;' ²⁹and she having seen, was troubled at his word, and was reasoning of what kind this salutation might be.

³⁰And the messenger said to her, 'Fear not, Mary, for thou hast found favour with God; ³¹and lo, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shalt call his name Jesus. ³²He shall be great, and Son of the Highest shall he be called, and the Lord God shall give him the throne of David his father; ³³and he shall reign over the house of Jacob—unto the ages; and of his reign there shall be no end.'

³⁴And Mary said to the messenger, 'How shall this be, seeing a husband I know not?'

³⁵And the messenger answering said to her, 'The Holy Spirit shall come upon thee, and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee, therefore also the holy-begotten thing shall be called Son of God; ³⁶and lo, Elizabeth, thy kinswoman, she also hath conceived a son in her old age, and this is the sixth month to her who was called barren: ³⁷for nothing shall be impossible with God.'

³⁸And Mary said, 'Lo, the maid-servant of the Lord; let it be to me according to thy word;' and the messenger went away from her.

³⁹And Mary having arisen in those days, went to the hill-country with haste, to a city of Judea, ⁴⁰and entered into the house of Zacharias, and saluted Elizabeth.

⁴¹And it came to pass, when Elizabeth heard the salutation of Mary, the babe leaped in her womb; and Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Spirit, ⁴²and spake out with a loud voice, and said, 'Blessed art thou among women, and blessed the fruit of thy womb; ⁴³and whence is this to me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me? ⁴⁴For, lo, when the voice of thy salutation came into mine ears, leap for gladness did the babe in my womb: ⁴⁵and happy is she who believed, for there shall be a completion to the things spoken to her from the Lord.

⁴⁶And Mary said:

'My soul doth magnify the Lord,

⁴⁷And my spirit was glad in God my Saviour,

⁴⁸For He looked on the lowliness of His maid-servant;

For, lo, from henceforth call me happy
Shall all the generations:

⁴⁹For He who is mighty did for me great
And holy is His name;

⁵⁰And His kindness is to generations of
To those fearing Him:

⁵¹He did powerfully with His arm;
He scattered abroad the proud

In the imagination of their heart:

⁵²He brought down the mighty from thrones,
And exalted the lowly;

⁵³The hungry He filled with good,
And the rich He sent away empty;

⁵⁴He laid hold of Israel His servant,
To remember kindness:

⁵⁵As He spake to our fathers, to Abraham,
And to his seed—for the age.

⁵⁶And Mary abode with her about three months, and turned back to her own house.

⁵⁷And to Elizabeth, the time was fulfilled for her bringing forth, and she bare a son:

⁵⁸and her neighbours and her kindred heard that the Lord was making His kindness great with her, and they rejoiced with her.

⁵⁹And it came to pass, on the eighth day, they came to circumcise the child, and were calling him by the name of his father, Zacharias;

⁶⁰and his mother answering said,
'No, but he shall be called John.'

⁶¹And they said to her, 'There is none among thy kindred who is called by this name,' ⁶²and were making signs to his father, what he would wish him to be called;

⁶³and having asked for a tablet, he wrote, saying, 'John is his name'; and they all wondered. ⁶⁴And his mouth was opened presently, and his tongue, and he was speaking, praising God.

⁶⁵And fear was on all those dwelling around them; and in all the hill-country of Judea were all these sayings spoken of;

⁶⁶and all who heard, laid them up in their hearts, saying, 'What child then shall this be?' and the hand of the Lord was with him.

⁶⁷And Zacharias his father was filled with the Holy Spirit, and prophesied, saying,

⁶⁸'Blessed is the Lord, the God of Israel,
For He hath looked upon,

And wrought redemption for His people;

⁶⁹And raised an horn of salvation for us,
In the house of David His servant.

⁷⁰As He spake by the mouth of His holy prophets, which have been from of old,

⁷¹Salvation from our enemies,
And from the hand of all who hate us;

⁷²To do kindness with our fathers,
And to be mindful of His holy covenant:

⁷³The oath which He swore to Abraham

our father,

⁷⁴To give to us, without fear,

Out of the hand of our enemies being delivered, ⁷⁵To serve Him, in holiness and righteousness Before Him, all the days of our life.

⁷⁶And thou, child, Prophet of the Highest

Shalt thou be called;

For thou shalt go before the face of the

Lord

To prepare His ways.

⁷⁷To give knowledge of salvation to His people In remission of their sins.

⁷⁸Through the tender mercy of our God,

In which the rising from on high looked upon us;

⁷⁹To give light to those sitting in darkness

and death-shade,

To guide our feet into the way of peace.'

⁸⁰And the child grew, and was strengthened in spirit, and was in the deserts till the day of his shewing to Israel.

II. ¹AND it came to pass in those days,

there went out a decree from Cæsar Augustus, that all the world be enrolled; ²this enrolment first came to pass when Cyrenius was governor of Syria, ³and all were going to be enrolled, each to his own city: ⁴and

Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, to Judea, to the city of David, which is called Bethlehem, because of his being of the house and family of David: ⁵to enrol himself with Mary his betrothed wife, being with child.

⁶And it came to pass, in their being there,

the days were fulfilled for her bringing forth, ⁷and she brought forth her son—the first-born, and wrapped him up, and laid him down in the manger, because there was not for them a place in the inn.

⁸And there were shepherds in the same region, lodging in the field, and keeping the night-watches over their flock: ⁹and lo,

a messenger of the Lord stood over them,

and the glory of the Lord shone round

them, and they feared a great fear.

¹⁰And the messenger said to them, 'Fear not, for lo, I bring you good news of great joy, which shall be to all the people—¹¹be-cause there was born to you to-day a Saviour, who is Christ the Lord, in the city of David;

¹²and this is to you the sign: Ye shall find a babe wrapped up, lying in a manger.'

¹³And suddenly there was with the messenger a multitude of the heavenly host, praising God, and saying, ¹⁴'Glory in the highest to God, and on earth peace, among men—good will.'

¹⁵And it came to pass, as the messengers were gone away from them to heaven, that the men, the shepherds, said to one another,

'Let us go over really to Bethlehem, and see this thing which hath come to pass,

which the Lord made known to us.'

¹⁶And they came, having hastened, and found both

Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in the manger; ¹⁷and having seen, they made known abroad concerning the saying spoken to them concerning the child.

¹⁸And all who heard, wondered concerning the things spoken by the shepherds to them; ¹⁹but Mary was preserving all these things, pondering in her heart: ²⁰and the shepherds turned back, glorifying and praising God, for all those things they heard and saw, as it was spoken to them.

²¹And when eight days were fulfilled for the circumcising of the child, then was his name called Jesus, which was so called by the messenger before his being conceived in the womb.

²²And when the days of her purification were fulfilled, according to the law of Moses, they brought him up to Jerusalem, to present to the Lord, ²³as it hath been written in the law of the Lord,—'Every male opening the womb shall be called holy to the Lord,' ²⁴and to give a sacrifice, according to that said in the law of the Lord, 'A pair of turtle-doves, or two young pigeons.'

²⁵And lo, there was a man in Jerusalem, whose name was Simeon, and this man was righteous and devout, looking for the comforting of Israel, and the Holy Spirit was on him; ²⁶and it hath been divinely told him by the Holy Spirit—not to see death before he may see the Lord's Christ.

²⁷And he came in the Spirit into the temple, and in the parents' bringing in the child Jesus, for their doing according to the custom of the law for him; ²⁸then he took him in his arms, and blessed God, and said, ²⁹'Now Thou dost send away Thy servant, Lord, according to Thy word, in peace, ³⁰for mine eyes have seen Thy salvation, ³¹which Thou didst prepare before the face of all the peoples, ³²a light for the revealing of nations, and the glory of Thy people Israel.'

³³And Joseph and his mother were wondering at the things spoken concerning him; ³⁴and Simeon blessed them, and said to Mary his mother, 'Lo, this one is set for the falling and rising of many in Israel, and for a sign spoken against; ³⁵and also thine own soul shall a sword pass through, that the reasonings of many hearts may be revealed.'

³⁶And there was one Anna, a prophetess, daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Asher; she was advanced in days, having lived with an husband seven years from her virginity; ³⁷and she was a widow of about eighty-four years, who departed not from the temple, with fasts and supplications serving night and day; ³⁸and she, having stood by at that hour, was confessing to the Lord, and was speaking concerning him, to all those looking for redemption in Jerusalem.

³⁹And when they had finished all things, according to the law of the Lord, they turned back to Galilee, to their city Nazareth; ⁴⁰and the child grew, and became strong in spirit, being filled with wisdom, and the grace of God was upon him.

⁴¹And his parents were going yearly to Jerusalem, at the feast of the passover; ⁴²and when he was twelve years old, they having gone up to Jerusalem, according to the custom of the feast, ⁴³and having finished the days, in their returning the child Jesus tarried behind in Jerusalem, and Joseph and his mother knew not; ⁴⁴but having supposed him to be in the company, they went a day's journey, and were seeking him among the kindred and the acquaintances, ⁴⁵and not having found him, they turned back to Jerusalem seeking him.

⁴⁶And it came to pass, after three days, they found him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the teachers, both hearing them and questioning them; ⁴⁷and all those hearing him were astonished at his understanding and answers.

⁴⁸And having seen him, they were amazed, and his mother said to him, 'Child, why didst thou thus to us? lo, thy father and I, sorrowing, were seeking thee.'

⁴⁹And he said to them, 'Why is it that ye were seeking me? did ye not know that in the house of my Father it becometh me to be?' ⁵⁰and they understood not the saying which he spake to them; ⁵¹and he went down with them, and came to Nazareth, and was subject to them; and his mother was keeping all these sayings in her heart; ⁵²and Jesus was advancing in wisdom, and stature, and in favour with God and men.

III. ¹AND in the fifteenth year of the government of Tiberius Cæsar, Pontius Pilate being governor of Judea, and Herod tetrarch of Galilee, and Philip his brother tetrarch of Iturea, and of the region of Trachonitis, and Lysanias tetrarch of Abilene—²Annas and Caiaphas being chief priests, the word of God came unto John the son of Zacharias, in the wilderness; ³and he came into all the region about the Jordan, proclaiming the baptism of reformation for remission of sins; ⁴as it hath been written in the roll of the words of Isaiah the prophet, saying, 'A voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord: straight make ye His paths; ⁵every valley shall be filled, and every mountain and hill shall be made low, and the crooked shall become straight, and the rough smooth ways; ⁶and all flesh shall see the salvation of God.'

⁷Then said he to the multitudes coming out to be baptized by him, 'Brood of vipers! who prompted you to flee from the coming wrath? ⁸bring forth, therefore, fruits worthy of reformation, and begin not to say within yourselves, We have a father—Abraham; for I say to you, that God is able out of these stones to raise children to Abraham; ⁹and already also the axe to the root of the trees is laid, every tree, therefore, not bringing forth good fruit is cut down, and into fire is cast.'

¹⁰And the multitudes were questioning him, saying, 'What, then, shall we do?' ¹¹and he answering saith to them, 'He having two coats—let him impart to him having none, and he having victuals—let him do in like manner.'

¹²And there came also tax-gatherers to be baptized, and they said to him, 'Teacher, what shall we do?' ¹³and he said to them, 'Exact no more than that appointed you.'

¹⁴And questioning him also were those making war, saying, 'And we, what shall we do?' and he said to them, 'Do violence to no one, nor accuse falsely, and be content with your wages.'

¹⁵And while the people are looking, and all are reasoning in their hearts concerning John, whether or not he may be the Christ, ¹⁶John answered, saying to all, 'I indeed with water baptize you, but he cometh who is mightier than I, of whom I am not worthy to loose the latchet of his shoes—he shall baptize you with the Holy Spirit and fire; ¹⁷whose fan is in his hand, and he will thoroughly purge his floor, and will gather the wheat into his store-house, but the chaff he will burn with fire unquenchable.'

¹⁸And therefore indeed with many other things, exhorting, he was proclaiming good news to the people; ¹⁹but Herod the tetrarch, being reproved by him concerning Herodias the wife of Philip his brother, and concerning all the evils which Herod did, ²⁰added also this to all, that he shut up John in the prison.

²¹And it came to pass, In all the people being baptized, Jesus also being baptized, and praying, the heaven was opened, ²²and the Holy Spirit descended in a bodily appearance, as if a dove, upon him, and a voice came out of heaven, saying, 'Thou art My Son—the Beloved, in thee I have delighted.'

²³And Jesus himself was beginning to be about thirty years of age, being, as was supposed, son of Joseph.

²⁴son of Heli, son of Matthat, son of Levi, son of Melchi,

son of Janna, son of Joseph,

²⁵son of Mattathias, son of Amos,

IV. ¹AND Jesus, full of the Holy Spirit, turned back from the Jordan, and was led in the Spirit into the wilderness, ²forty days being tempted by the Devil, and he did eat nothing in those days; and they having been ended, he afterward hungered; ³and the Devil said to him, 'If Son thou art of God, speak to this stone that it may become bread.'

⁴And Jesus answered him saying, 'It hath been written, that not on bread alone shall man live, but on every saying of God.'

⁵And the Devil having brought him up into an high mountain, shewed to him all the kingdoms of the world in a moment of time; ⁶and the Devil said to him, 'To thee will I give all this power, and their glory: for to me it hath been delivered, and to whomsoever I will, I give it; ⁷thou, then, if thou mayest bow before me, all shall be thine.'

⁸And Jesus answering him said, 'Get thee behind me, Adversary, for it hath been written, Thou shalt bow before the Lord thy God, and Him only shalt thou serve.'

⁹And he brought him to Jerusalem, and set him on the pinnacle of the temple, and said to him, 'If the Son thou art of God, cast thyself down hence: ¹⁰for it hath been written,—To His messengers He will give charge concerning thee, to keep thee; ¹¹and —On the hands they shall bear thee up, lest thou mayest dash against a stone thy foot.'

¹²And Jesus answering said to him,— 'It hath been said, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God.'

¹³And having ended all temptation, the Devil departed from him till a convenient season: ¹⁴and Jesus turned back in the power of the Spirit to Galilee, and a fame went out through all the region round about concerning him; ¹⁵and he was teaching in their synagogues, being glorified by all.

¹⁶And he came to Nazareth, where he had been brought up, and he went in, according to his custom, on the sabbath-day, to the synagogue, and stood up to read; ¹⁷and there was delivered to him the roll of Isaiah the prophet, and having unfolded the roll, he found the place where it was written:

¹⁸ 'The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, Wherefore He anointed me, To proclaim good news to the poor, Sent me to heal the broken of heart, To proclaim to captives deliverance, And to blind receiving of sight, To send away the bruised with deliverance;

¹⁹ To proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord.'

²⁰And having folded the roll, having given it back to the officer, he sat down, and the eyes of all in the synagogue were gazing on him.

²¹ And he began to say to them,—"To-day hath this writing been fulfilled in your ears;" ²² and all were bearing testimony to him, and were wondering at the words of grace which are proceeding out of his mouth, and they said, "Is not this the son of Joseph?"

²³ And he said to them, "Certainly ye will say to me this simile, Physician, heal thyself: as great things as we heard done in Capernaum, do also here in thy country;" ²⁴ but he said, "Verily I say to you,—No prophet is acceptable in his own country;" ²⁵ but of a truth I say to you, Many widows were in the days of Elijah, in Israel, when the heaven was shut for three years and six months, when great famine came on all the land; ²⁶ and to none of them was Elijah sent, except to Sarepta of Sidon, to a woman, a widow; ²⁷ and many lepers were in the time of Elisha the prophet, in Israel, and none of them was cleansed except Naaman the Syrian."

²⁸ And all in the synagogue were filled with wrath, hearing these things, ²⁹ and having risen, they thrust him out without the city, and brought him unto the brow of the hill on which their city had been built—to cast him down headlong; ³⁰ but he, having passed through their midst, went away.

³¹ And he came down to Capernaum, a city of Galilee, and was teaching them on the sabbaths; ³² and they were astonished at his teaching, for his word was with authority.

³³ And in the synagogue was a man having a spirit of an unclean demon, and he cried out with a great voice, ³⁴ saying, "Away, what—to us and to thee, Jesus the Nazarene? thou art come to destroy us; I have known thee who thou art, the Holy One of God."

³⁵ And Jesus rebuked him, saying, "Be silenced, and come out of him;" and the demon having cast him into the midst, came out from him, having hurt him not; ³⁶ and amazement came upon all, and they were speaking together, one with another, saying, "What is this word, that with authority and power he commandeth the unclean spirits, and they come out?" ³⁷ and there was going out a fame concerning him to every place of the region round about.

³⁸ And having risen out of the synagogue, he entered into the house of Simon, and the mother-in-law of Simon was oppressed with a great fever, and they asked him about her; ³⁹ and having stood over her, he rebuked the fever, and it left her; and presently having risen, she was ministering to them.

⁴⁰ And at the setting of the sun, all, as many as had any infirm with manifold sicknesses, brought them to him, and he on each one of them his hands having put, healed them.

⁴¹ And demons also were coming out from many, crying out and saying,—Thou art the Christ, the Son of God;—and rebuking, he suffered them not to speak, for they knew him to be the Christ.

⁴² And day having come, having gone out, he went on into a desolate place, and the multitudes were seeking him, and came unto him, and stayed him—not to go on from them; ⁴³ and he said to them,—"Also to the other cities it behoveth me to proclaim good news of the reign of God, for for this have I been sent;" ⁴⁴ and he was preaching in the synagogues of Galilee.

V. ¹ AND it came to pass, while the multitude was pressing on him to hear the word of God, that he was standing beside the lake of Gennesaret, ² and he saw two boats standing beside the lake, but the fishermen having gone away from them, were washing the nets; ³ and having entered into one of the boats, which was Simon's, he asked him to put back a little from the land, and having sat down, he was teaching the multitudes out of the boat.

⁴ And when he left off speaking, he said to Simon, "Put back into the deep, and let down your nets for a draught;" ⁵ and Simon answering said to him, "Master, through the whole night having laboured, we have taken nothing, but at thy saying I will let down the net."

⁶ And having done this, they inclosed a great multitude of fishes, and their net was breaking; ⁷ and they beckoned to the partners, who were in the other boat, having come to help them; and they came, and filled both the boats, so as to be sinking them.

⁸ And Simon Peter having seen, fell down at the knees of Jesus, saying, "Depart from me, for I am a sinful man, O Lord;" ⁹ for astonishment seized him and all those with him at the draught of the fishes which they took, ¹⁰ and in like manner also James and John, sons of Zebedee, who were partners with Simon; and Jesus said to Simon, "Fear not: from henceforth thou shalt be catching men;" ¹¹ and they, having brought the boats to the land, having left all, followed him.

¹² And it came to pass, in his being in one of the cities, and lo, a man full of leprosy, and having seen Jesus, having fallen on his face, besought him, saying, "Sir, if thou mayest will, thou art able to cleanse me;" ¹³ and having stretched out his hand, he touched him, having said, "I will; be thou cleansed;" and immediately the leprosy went away from him.

¹⁴ And he charged him to tell no one, "But, having gone away, shew thyself to the priest, and bring in regard to thy cleansing according as Moses directed, for a testimony to them;" ¹⁵ but the more was the report going abroad concerning him, and great multitudes were coming together to hear, and to be healed by him from their infirmities; ¹⁶ and he was withdrawing himself in the desolate places, and praying.

¹⁷ And it came to pass, on one of the days that he was teaching, that there were sitting by Pharisees and teachers of the law, who were come out of every village of Galilee, and Judea, and Jerusalem; and the power of the Lord was—to heal them.

¹⁸ And lo, men hearing on a couch a man, who was paralytic, and they were seeking to bring him in, and to place him before him: ¹⁹ and not having found by what way they might bring him in because of the multitude, having gone up on the housetop, through the tiles they let him down, with the little couch, into the midst before Jesus: ²⁰ and having seen their faith, he said to him, 'Man, thy sins have been forgiven thee.'

²¹ And the scribes and the Pharisees began to reason, saying, 'Who is this that speaketh evil words? who is able to forgive sins, except God alone?'

²² But Jesus having known their reasonings, answering said to them, 'What reason ye in your hearts? ²³ which is easier—to say, Thy sins have been forgiven thee? or to say, Arise, and walk?'

²⁴ But that ye may know that the Son of Man hath power on the earth to forgive sins—(he said to the paralytic)—I say to thee, Arise, and having taken up thy couch, he going on to thy house.'

²⁵ And presently having risen before them, having taken up that on which he was lying, he went away to his own house, glorifying God: ²⁶ and astonishment took all, and they were glorifying God, and were filled with fear, saying, 'We saw strange things to-day.'

²⁷ And after these things he went forth, and beheld a tax-gatherer, by name Levi, sitting at the custom-house, and said to him, 'Follow me.' ²⁸ And he, having left all, having arisen, followed him.

²⁹ And Levi made a great entertainment for him in his own house, and there was a great multitude of tax-gatherers and others who were with them reclining (at meat): ³⁰ and their scribes and the Pharisees were murmuring at his disciples, saying, 'Wherefore with the tax-gatherers and with sinners do ye eat and drink?'

³¹ And Jesus answering said to them, 'They who are well have no need of a physician, but they that are ill: ³² I came not to call righteous men, but sinners to reformation.'

³³ And they said to him, 'Wherefore do the disciples of John fast often, and make prayers—in like manner also those of the Pharisees—but thine eat and drink?' ³⁴ And he said to them, 'Are ye able to make the sons of the bride-chamber—while the bridegroom is with them—to fast?' ³⁵ But days will come, even when the bridegroom may be taken away from them: then shall they fast in those days.'

³⁶ And he spake also a simile to them, 'No one a patch of new clothing putteth on old clothing; and if otherwise, the new also maketh a rent, and with the old the patch agreeth not, which is from the new.'

³⁷ And no one putteth new wine into old skins; and if otherwise, the new wine will burst the skins, and itself will be poured out, and the skins will be destroyed: ³⁸ but new wine into new skins is to be put, and both are preserved: ³⁹ and no one having drunk old wine, immediately wisheth new, for he saith, The old is better.'

VI. ¹ AND it came to pass, on the second-first sabbath, as he was going through the corn, that his disciples were plucking the ears, and were eating, rubbing with the hands: ² and certain of the Pharisees said to them, 'Why do ye that which it is not lawful to do on the sabbaths?'

³ And Jesus answering said to them, 'Did ye not read even this what David did, when he hungered, himself and those who were with him, how he went into the house of God, and the loaves of the presentation did take, and eat, and gave also to those with him, which it is not lawful to eat, except only for the priests?' ⁴ and he said to them, 'The Son of Man is Lord also of the sabbath.'

⁵ And it came to pass, also on another sabbath, that he went into the synagogue, and was teaching, and there was there a man, and his right hand was withered: ⁶ and the scribes and the Pharisees were watching, if on the sabbath he will heal, that they might find an accusation against him.

⁷ But he himself knew their reasonings, and said to the man having the withered hand, 'Rise, and stand in the midst:' and he having risen, stood.

⁸ Then said Jesus to them, 'I will question you something: Is it lawful on the sabbaths to do good, or to do evil? to save life, or to kill?' ⁹ And having looked round on them all, he said to the man, 'Stretch forth thy hand:' and he did so, and his hand was restored as the other: ¹⁰ and they were filled with madness, and were speaking one with another what they might do to Jesus.

¹¹ And it came to pass in those days, he went out to the mountain to pray, and was passing the night in the prayer of God: ¹² and when it became day, he called up his disciples, and having chosen from them twelve, whom also he named apostles, ¹³ (Simon, whom also he named Peter, and Andrew his brother, James and John, Philip and Bartholomew, ¹⁴ Matthew and Thomas, James son of Alphaeus, and Simon who is called Zelotes, ¹⁵ Judas brother of James, and Judas Iscariot, who also became he who delivered him up): ¹⁶ and having come down with them, he stood on a level spot, and a company of his disciples, and a great multitude of the people from all Judea, and Jerusalem, and the maritime Tyre and Sidon, who came to hear him, and to be healed of their sicknesses, ¹⁷ and those pressed by unclean spirits, and they were healed: ¹⁸ and all the multitude were seeking to touch him, for power was going out from him, and was healing all.

¹⁹ And he, having lifted up his eyes to his disciples, said, 'Happy the poor, for yours is the reign of God.'

²⁰ Happy those hungering now, for ye shall be filled.

²¹ Happy those weeping now, for ye shall laugh.

²² Happy are ye when men shall hate you, and when they shall separate you, and reproach, and cast out your name as evil, for the Son of Man's sake; ²¹ 'rejoice in that day, and leap, for lo, your reward is great in the heaven, for according to these things were their fathers doing to the prophets.

²⁴ 'But wo to you—the rich, for ye have your comfort.

²⁵ 'Wo to you who are filled, for ye shall hunger.

²⁶ 'Wo to you who are laughing now, for ye shall mourn and weep.

²⁷ 'Wo to you when all men shall speak well of you, for according to these things were their fathers doing to false prophets.

²⁸ 'But I say to you who are hearing, Love your enemies, do good to those hating you, ²⁹ 'bless those cursing you, and pray for those who are arraigning you; ³⁰ 'and to him smiting thee on the one cheek, give also the other; and from him who taketh from thee the mantle, even the coat thou mayest not keep back.

³¹ 'And to every one who is asking of thee, be giving; and from him who is taking away thy goods, ask not again; ³² 'and as ye wish that men may do to you, do ye also to them in like manner; ³³ 'and—if ye love those loving you, what thank have ye? for even the sinful love those loving them; ³⁴ 'and if ye do good to those doing good to you, what thank have ye? for even the sinful do the same; ³⁵ 'and if ye lend to those of whom ye hope to receive back, what thank have ye? for the sinful lend to sinners—that they may receive again as much.

³⁶ 'But love your enemies, and do good, and lend, hoping for nothing again, and your reward shall be great, and ye shall be sons of the Highest; for He is kind to the unthankful and evil; ³⁷ 'be ye therefore merciful, as also your Father is merciful.

³⁸ 'And judge not, and ye may not be judged; condemn not, and ye may not be condemned; release, and ye shall be released.

³⁹ 'Give, and it shall be given to you; good measure, pressed, and shaken, and running over, shall they give into your bosom; for with the same measure with which ye measure, it shall be measured to you again.'

⁴⁴ 'For there is no good tree bringing forth bad fruit, nor bad tree bringing forth good fruit; ⁴⁵ 'for each tree from its own fruit is known, for not from thorns do they gather figs, nor from a bramble crop a grape.

⁴⁶ 'The good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is good; and the evil man out of the evil treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is evil: for out of the abounding of the heart doth his mouth speak.

⁴⁷ 'And why do ye call me, Lord, Lord, and do not what I say? ⁴⁸ 'Every one who is coming to me, and hearing my words, and doing them, I will shew you to whom he is like; ⁴⁹ 'he is like to a man building a house, who digged, and deepened, and laid a foundation on the rock, and a flood having come, the stream broke forth on that house, and was unable to shake it, for it had been founded on the rock.

⁵⁰ 'But he who heard and did not, is like to a man having builded a house on the earth, without a foundation, against which the stream brake forth, and immediately it fell, and the ruin of that house was great.'

VII. ¹ AND when he completed all his sayings in the hearing of the people, he went into Capernaum; ² and a certain centurion's servant being ill, was about to die, who was much valued by him; ³ and having heard about Jesus, he sent to him elders of the Jews, beseeching him, that having come he might save his servant.

⁴ And they having come to Jesus, were calling upon him earnestly, saying, 'He is worthy to whom thou shalt do this, ⁵ 'for he loveth our nation, and it was he who built the synagogue to us.'

⁶ And Jesus was going with them; and now when he was not far distant from the house, the centurion sent to him friends, saying to him, 'Sir, trouble not thyself, for I am not worthy that under my roof thou mayest enter; ⁷ 'wherefore not even myself thought I worthy to come to thee, but say in a word, and my boy shall be healed; ⁸ 'for even I am a man placed under authority, having under myself soldiers, and I say to this one, Go, and he goeth; and to another, Be coming, and he cometh; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it.'

⁹ And Jesus having heard these things, wondered at him, and having turned, said to the multitude following him, 'I say to you, not even in Israel so much faith did I find; ¹⁰ 'and those sent, turning back to the house, found the sick servant in health.

¹¹ And it came to pass, on the morrow, he was going into the city called Nain; and there were going with him many of his disciples, and a great multitude; ¹² but as he came near to the gate of the city, then, lo, one dead was being carried out, an only son of his mother, and she was a widow, and a great multitude of the city was with her.

¹³ And the Lord having seen her, was moved with compassion towards her, and said to her, 'Weep not; ¹⁴ 'and having come near, he touched the bier, and those bearing it stood still, and he said, 'Young man, to thee I say, Arise; ¹⁵ 'and the dead sat up, and began to speak; and he gave him to his mother. ¹⁶ 'And fear took hold of all, and they were glorifying God, saying, 'A great prophet hath risen among us,' and, 'God hath looked upon His people.' ¹⁷ And the account of this went forth into all Judea about him, and into all the region around.

¹⁸ And the disciples of John told him about all these things; ¹⁹ and John having called up certain two of his disciples, sent to Jesus, saying, 'Art thou he who cometh, or for another do we look?' ²⁰ And having come near to him, the men said, 'John the Baptist sent us to thee, saying, Art thou he who cometh, or for another do we look?' ²¹ and in that hour he cured many from sicknesses, and plagues, and evil spirits, and to many blind he granted sight.

²² And Jesus answering said to them, 'Having gone, report to John what ye saw and heard, that blind men receive sight, lame walk, lepers are cleansed, deaf hear, dead are raised, poor have the good news proclaimed; ²³ and happy is he whoever may not be stumbled at me.'

²⁶ But what went ye out to see? a prophet? Yes, I say to you, and much more than a prophet; ²⁷ this is he concerning whom it hath been written, Lo, I send My messenger before thy face, who shall prepare thy way before thee; ²⁸ for I say to you, among those born of women, a greater prophet than John the Baptist there is none; but the least in the reign of God is greater than he.'

²⁹ And all the people having heard, with the tax-gatherers, justified God, having been baptized with the baptism of John; ³⁰ but the Pharisees and the lawyers, the counsel of God put away for themselves, not having been baptized by him.

³¹ And the Lord said, 'To what, then, shall I liken the men of this generation? and to what are they like? ³² they are like to children, those sitting in the market, and calling one to another, and saying, We piped to you, and ye danced not; we mourned to you, and ye wept not.'

³⁶ And a certain one of the Pharisees was asking him that he might eat with him, and having gone into the house of the Pharisee he reclined (at meat), ³⁷ and lo, a woman in the city, who was a sinner, having known that he reclined (at meat) in the house of the Pharisee, having brought an alabaster box of ointment, ³⁸ and having stood behind, beside his feet, weeping, began to wet his feet with tears, and with the hairs of her head she was wiping them off, and was kissing his feet, and was anointing them with the ointment.

³⁹ But the Pharisee who called him, seeing, spake within himself, saying, 'This one, if he were a prophet, would have known who and of what kind is the woman who toucheth him, that she is a sinner.'

⁴⁰ And Jesus answering said to him, 'Simon, I have something to say to thee; and he saith, 'Teacher, say on.' ⁴¹ 'Two debtors were to a certain creditor; the one was owing five hundred denaries, and the other fifty; ⁴² and they not having wherewith to pay, he forgave both; which then of them, say thou, will love him most?' ⁴³ And Simon answering said, 'I suppose that he to whom he forgave the most; and he said to him, 'Rightly thou dost judge.'

⁴⁴ And having turned to the woman, he said to Simon, 'Seest thou this woman? I entered into thy house: water for my feet thou gavest not, but this woman with tears did wet my feet, and with the hairs of her head did wipe them off; ⁴⁵ a kiss to me thou gavest not, but this woman, from what time I came in, ceased not kissing my feet; ⁴⁶ with oil my head thou anointedst not, but this woman with ointment anointed my feet; ⁴⁷ therefore I say to thee, her many sins have been forgiven, for she loved much; but to whom little is forgiven, little he loveth.'

⁴⁸ And he said to her, 'Thy sins have been forgiven; ⁴⁹ and those reclining with him (at meat) began to say within themselves, 'Who is this, who also forgiveth sins?' ⁵⁰ but he said to the woman, 'Thy faith hath saved thee, go in peace.'

VIII. ¹ AND it came to pass thereafter, that he was going through every city and village, preaching and proclaiming the good news of the reign of God, and the twelve are with him, ² and certain women, who were healed of evil spirits and infirmities, Mary who is called Magdalene, from whom seven demons had gone out, ³ and Joanna wife of Chuza, Herod's steward, and Susanna, and many others, who were ministering to him from their substance.

⁴ And a great multitude having gathered, and those who from city and city were coming to him, he spake by a simile: ⁵ The sower went forth to sow his seed, and in his sowing the one fell beside the way, and it was trodden down, and the fowls of the heaven devoured it.

⁶ And another fell on the rock, and having sprung up, it withered, by not having moisture.

⁷ And another fell midst the thorns, and the thorns having sprung up with it, choked it.

⁹ And his disciples were questioning him, saying, 'What may this simile be?' ¹⁰ And he said, 'To you it hath been given to know the mysteries of the reign of God, but to the rest in similes: that seeing, they may not see; and hearing, they may not understand.'

¹¹ And this is the simile: The seed is the word of God: ¹² and those beside the way are they who hear; afterwards cometh the devil, and taketh up the word from their heart, lest believing, they may be saved.

¹³ And those on the rock: They who, when they may hear, with joy receive the word, and these have no root, who for a time believe, and in time of temptation fall away.

¹⁴ And that which fell into the thorns: These are they who have heard, and going forth, by cares, and riches, and pleasures of life are choked, and bear not to completion.

¹⁵ And that in the good ground: These are they, who on an honest and good heart, having heard the word, retain it, and bear fruit in patience.

¹⁶ And no one having lighted a lamp covereth it with a vessel, or under a couch putteth it; but on a lampstand he putteth it, that those coming in may see the light: ¹⁷ for nothing is secret, which shall not be made manifest: nor hid, which shall not be known, and become manifest.

¹⁸ See, therefore, how ye hear; for whoever may have, there shall be given to him, and whoever may not have, even what he thinketh to have, shall be taken from him.

¹⁹ And there came to him his mother and brethren, and they were not able to get to him because of the multitude: ²⁰ and it was told him, saying, 'Thy mother and thy brethren stand without, wishing to see thee.' ²¹ And he answering said to them, 'My mother and my brethren! they are those who are hearing the word of God, and are doing it.'

²² And it came to pass, on one of the days, that he himself went into a boat with his disciples, and he said to them, 'Let us go over to the other side of the lake;' and they set forth, ²³ but as they were sailing he fell asleep, and there came down a storm of wind on the lake, and they were filling, and were in peril.

²⁴ And having come near, they awoke him, saying, 'Master, Master, we perish;' and he having arisen, rebuked the wind and the tossing of the water, and they ceased, and there came a calm: ²⁵ and he said to them, 'Where is your faith?' and they being afraid, wondered, saying to one another, 'Who, then, is this, that even the winds he commandeth, and the water, and they obey him?'

²⁶ And they sailed down to the region of the Gadarenes, which is over-against Galilee: ²⁷ and on his having gone forth on the land, there met him a certain man, out of the city, who had demons from a long time, and was not clothed with any garments, and was not abiding in any house, out in the tombs: ²⁸ and having seen Jesus, and cried out, he fell before him, and with a loud voice, said, 'What—to me and to thee, Jesus, Son of God Most High? I beseech thee, mayest thou not afflict me!'

²⁹ For he commanded the unclean spirit to come out from the man, for many times it had caught him, and he was bound with chains and fetters—guarded; and breaking asunder the bonds he was driven by the demons into the desolate places.

³⁰ And Jesus questioned him, saying, 'What is thy name?' and he said, 'Legion,' because many demons were entered into him; ³¹ and he was calling on him, that he may not command them to go away into the deep: ³² and there was there an herd of many swine feeding in the mountain, and they were calling on him, that he might suffer them to enter into these, and he suffered them: ³³ and the demons having gone out from the man, entered into the swine, and the herd rushed down the steep into the lake, and were choked.

³⁴ And those feeding them, having beheld what was come to pass, fled, and having gone, told it in the city, and in the fields: ³⁵ and they came out to see what was come to pass, and they came to Jesus, and found the man sitting, out of whom the demons had gone out, clothed, and right-minded, at the feet of Jesus: and they were afraid: ³⁶ those also having seen it, told them how the demoniac was saved.

³⁷ And the whole multitude of the region of the Gadarenes round about asked of him to go away from them, for with great fear were they pressed; and having entered into the boat, he turned back.

³⁸ And the man from whom the demons had gone out was beseeching of him to be with him; but Jesus sent him away, saying, ³⁹ 'Turn back to thy house, and tell how great things God did to thee;' and he went away through all the city proclaiming how great things Jesus did to him.

⁴⁰ And it came to pass, in the turning back of Jesus, the multitude received him, for they were all looking for him: ⁴¹ and lo, there came a man, whose name was Jairus, and he was chief of the synagogue, and having fallen at the feet of Jesus, was calling on him to come into his house: ⁴² for he had an only daughter about twelve years old, and she was dying.

But in his going away, the multitudes were thronging him: ⁴³ and a woman having an issue of blood for twelve years, who having spent on physicians all her living, was unable to be healed by any, ⁴⁴ having come up behind, touched the fringe of his garment, and presently the issue of her blood stood.

⁴⁵ And Jesus said, 'Who is it that touched me?' and all denying, Peter and those with him said, 'Master, the multitudes press thee, and throng thee, and thou sayest, Who is he who touched me?' ⁴⁶ And Jesus said, 'Some one touched me; for I knew power went out from me.'

⁴⁷ And the woman having seen that she was not hid, trembling, came, and having fallen before him, for what cause she touched him declared to him in the presence of all the people, and how she was healed presently: ⁴⁸ and he said to her, 'Take courage, daughter; thy faith saved thee; go in peace.'

⁴⁹ While he is yet speaking, there cometh a certain one from the chief of the syna-gogue's house, saying to him, 'Thy daughter hath died, harass not the Teacher.' ⁵⁰but Jesus hearing, answered him, saying, 'Fear not; only believe, and she shall be saved.'

⁵¹And having come into the house, he suffered no one to go in except Peter, and James, and John, and the father of the child, and the mother: ⁵²and they were all weeping, and beating themselves for her, and he said, 'Weep not: she did not die, but sleepeth;' ⁵³and they were deriding him, knowing that she did die: ⁵⁴and he having put them all out without, and having taken hold of her hand, called, saying, 'Child, arise;' ⁵⁵and her spirit came back, and she arose presently, and he directed that there be given to her to eat: ⁵⁶and her parents were amazed, but he charged them to tell to no one what was come to pass.

IX. ¹AND having called together his twelve disciples, he gave them power and authority over all the demons, and to heal sicknesses: ²and he sent them to proclaim the reign of God, and to heal the infirm.

³And he said to them, 'Take nothing for the way, neither staff, nor scrip, nor bread, nor money; neither have two coats each: ⁴and into whatever house ye may enter, there abide, and thence depart: ⁵and as many as may not receive you, going out from that city even the dust from your feet bludge off, for a testimony against them.'

⁶And they going out were going through the several villages, proclaiming the good news, and healing everywhere.

⁷And Herod the tetrarch heard of all the things being done by him, and was perplexed, for that it was said by certain, that John hath been raised from the dead: ⁸and by certain, that Elijah hath appeared: and by others, that a prophet, one of the ancients, was risen: ⁹and Herod said, 'John I beheaded, but who is this concerning whom I hear such things?' and he was seeking to see him.

¹⁰And the apostles having turned back, declared to him how great things they had done; and having taken them, he withdrew by himself to a desert place of a city called Bethsaida: ¹¹and the multitudes having known, followed him, and having received them, he was speaking to them concerning the reign of God, and those having need of healing he cured.

¹²And the day began to decline, and the twelve having come near, said to him, 'Let the multitude away, that having come into the villages and the fields round about, they may lodge and find provision: for here we are in a desert place.' ¹³But he said to them, 'Give ye them to eat:' and they said, 'We have no more than five loaves, and two fishes: except, having gone, we may buy for all this people victuals;' ¹⁴for they were about five thousand men.

And he said to his disciples, 'Cause them to recline in companies, in each fifty:' ¹⁵and they did so, and made all to recline: ¹⁶and having taken the five loaves, and the two fishes, having looked up to the heaven, he blessed them, and brake, and was giving to the disciples to set before the multitude: ¹⁷and they did eat, and were all filled: and there was taken up of what was over to them of broken pieces, twelve baskets.

¹⁸And it came to pass, as he is praying alone, the disciples were with him, and he questioned them, saying, 'Whom do the multitudes say me to be?' ¹⁹And they answering said, 'John the Baptist; and others, Elijah; and others, that a prophet, one of the ancients, hath risen:' ²⁰and he said to them, 'But ye—whom do ye say me to be?' Peter answering said, 'The Christ of God.'

²¹And he charging them, commanded them to say this to no one. ²²saying, 'It becometh the Son of Man to suffer many things, and to be rejected by the elders, and chief priests, and scribes, and to be killed, and the third day to be raised.'

²³And he said to all, 'If any one doth wish to come after me, let him disown himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me: ²⁴for whoever may wish to save his life, shall lose it: but whoever may lose his life for my sake, he shall save it: ²⁵for what is a man profited having gained the whole world, but having lost or having forfeited himself?

²⁶For whoever may be ashamed of me, and of my words, of this one shall the Son of Man be ashamed, when he may come in his glory, and the Father's, and the holy messengers'. ²⁷But I say to you truly, there are certain of those here standing, who shall not taste of death till they may see the reign of God.'

²⁸And it came to pass after these words, as it were eight days, that having taken Peter, and John, and James, he went up to the mountain to pray: ²⁹and it came to pass, in his praying, the appearance of his face became altered, and his garment white—sparkling.

³⁰And lo, two men were speaking with him, who were Moses and Elijah: ³¹who having appeared in glory, spake of his departure which he was about to accomplish in Jerusalem: ³²but Peter and those with him were heavy with sleep, and having waked, they saw his glory, and the two men who were standing with him.

³³And it came to pass, in their parting from him, Peter said to Jesus, 'Master, it is good for us to be here: and let us make three booths, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elijah,' not knowing what he saith: ³⁴but as he was speaking these things, there came a cloud, and overshadowed them, and they were afraid in their entering into the cloud: ³⁵and a voice came from the cloud, saying, 'This is My Son—the Beloved: hear ye him:' ³⁶and when the voice was past, Jesus was found alone; and they were silent, and told no one in those days anything of what they saw.

³⁷And it came to pass on the next day, on their having come down from the mountain, there met him a great multitude. ³⁸and lo, a man from the multitude cried out, saying, 'Teacher, I beseech thee, look upon my son, for he is mine only one; ³⁹and lo, a spirit taketh him, and suddenly he crieth out, and it teareth him, with foaming, and hardly withdraweth from him, bruising him: ⁴⁰and I besought thy disciples that they might cast it out, and they were not able.

⁴¹And Jesus answering said, 'O generation, unbelieving and perverse, till when shall I be with you, and suffer you? bring near hither thy son:.' ⁴²and as he was yet coming near, the demon rent him, and tore him; and Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, and healed the youth, and gave him back to his father.

⁴³And they were all amazed at the greatness of God, but while all are wondering at all things which Jesus did, he said to his disciples, ⁴⁴'Lay ye into your ears these words, for the Son of Man is about to be delivered up into the hands of men.'

⁴⁵But they were not knowing this saying: and it was veiled from them, that they might not perceive it; and they were afraid to ask him about this saying.

⁴⁶And there entered a reasoning among them: this, Who may be greatest of them? ⁴⁷And Jesus having seen the reasoning of their heart, having taken hold of a child, set him beside him, ⁴⁸and said to them, 'Whoever may receive this child in my name, receiveth me; and whoever may receive me, receiveth Him who sent me: for he who is least among you all—this one—shall be great.'

⁴⁹And John answering said, 'Master, we saw a certain one in thy name casting out the demons, and we forbade him, because he followeth not with us:.' ⁵⁰and Jesus said to him, 'Forbid not; for whoso is not against us, is for us.'

⁵¹And it came to pass, in the completing of the days of his being taken up, that he fixed his face to proceed to Jerusalem, ⁵²and sent messengers before his face, and having proceeded, they entered into a village of Samaritans, so as to make ready for him: ⁵³and they did not receive him, for his face was as proceeding to Jerusalem.

⁵⁴And his disciples James and John having seen, said, 'Sir, wilt thou that we may command fire to come down from the heaven, and to consume them, as also Elijah did?.' ⁵⁵but having turned, he rebuked them, and said, 'Ye know not of what spirit ye are; ⁵⁶for the Son of Man came not to destroy men's lives, but to save:.' and they proceeded to another village.

⁵⁷And it came to pass, as they were proceeding in the way, a certain one said to him, 'I will follow thee wherever thou goest, sir:.' ⁵⁸and Jesus said to him, 'The foxes have holes, and the fowls of the heaven nests, but the Son of Man hath not where he may recline the head.'

⁵⁹And he said to another, 'Follow me:.' but he said, 'Sir, permit me, having gone away, first to bury my father:.' ⁶⁰but Jesus said to him, 'Suffer the dead to bury their own dead, but thou, having gone away, declare the reign of God.'

⁶¹And another also said, 'I will follow thee, sir, but first permit me to bid farewell to those in my house:.' ⁶²and Jesus said to him, 'No one having put his hand on the plough, and looking back, is fit for the reign of God.'

X. ¹AND after these things, the Lord appointeth also other seventy, and sent them by twos before his face, into every city and place, where he himself was about to come: ²then said he to them, 'The harvest indeed is abundant, but the labourers few: beseech ye then the Lord of the harvest, so that He may put forth labourers into His harvest.'

³'Go away: lo, I send you forth as lambs in the midst of wolves: carry no purse, no scrip, nor sandals: and salute no one on the way: ⁴and into whatever house ye enter, first say, Peace to this house: ⁵and if indeed there may be there the son of peace, rest on it shall your peace: but if not so, to you it shall turn back.'

⁷And in that house remain, eating and drinking the things they have, for worthy is the labourer of his hire: go not from house to house: ⁸and into whatever city ye may enter, and they receive you, eat the things set before you: ⁹and heal the infirm in it, and say to them, The reign of God hath come near to you.

¹⁰But into whatever city ye enter, and they receive you not, having gone out into its broad places, say, ¹¹'Even the dust from your city, which hath cleaved to us, we do wipe off against you, yet this know ye, that the reign of God hath come near to you: ¹²but I say to you, for Sodom in that day it shall be more tolerable than for that city.'

¹³'Wo to thee, Chorazin: wo to thee, Bethsaida: for if in Tyre and Sidon had been done the mighty works which were done in you, long ago, sitting in sackcloth and ashes, they would have reformed: ¹⁴but, for Tyre and Sidon it shall be more tolerable in the judgment, than for you.'

¹⁵'And thou, Capernaum, which unto the heaven wast exalted, unto hades shall be brought down.'

¹⁶'He who is hearing you, heareth me: and he who is putting you away, putteth me away: and he who is putting me away, putteth away Him who sent me.'

¹⁷And the seventy turned back with joy, saying, 'Sir, even the demons are subject to us in thy name:.' ¹⁸and he said to them, 'I was beholding the Adversary having fallen as lightning from the heaven: ¹⁹lo, I give to you the authority to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy, and nothing by any means may hurt you: ²⁰yet, in this rejoice not, that the spirits are subject to you, but rejoice rather that your names were written in the heavens.'

²¹In that hour Jesus was glad in the Spirit, and said, 'I confess to thee, Father, Lord of the heaven and of the earth, that Thou didst hide these things from wise men and prudent, and didst reveal them to babes: yea, Father, for so it was good pleasure before Thee.'

²³ 'All things were delivered up to me by my Father, and no one knoweth who the Son is, except the Father, and who the Father is, except the Son, and to whomsoever the Son may will to reveal Him.'

²⁴ And having turned to the disciples, he said by themselves, 'Happy the eyes which are perceiving the things ye perceive: ²⁵ for I say to you, that many prophets and kings wished to see the things ye perceive, and saw not, and to hear the things ye hear, and heard not.'

²⁶ And lo, a certain lawyer stood up, tempting him, and saying, 'Teacher, on doing what—shall I inherit age-during life?'

²⁷ And he said to him, 'In the law what hath been written? how readest thou?'

²⁸ And he answering said, 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God out of all thy heart, and out of all thy soul, and out of all thy strength, and out of all thine understanding; and thy neighbour as thyself.'

²⁹ And he said to him, 'Rightly didst thou answer: this do, and thou shalt live.'

³⁰ But he, willing to justify himself, said to Jesus, 'And who is my neighbour?'

³¹ And Jesus having taken up the word, said, 'A certain man was going down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among robbers, and they having stripped him, and inflicted wounds, went away, leaving him half dead.'

³² And by coincidence a certain priest was going down in that way, and having seen him, he passed by on the opposite side: ³³ and in like manner also a Levite, having been about the place, having come, and seen, passed by on the opposite side.

³⁴ And a certain Samaritan, journeying, came along him, and having seen him, was moved with compassion. ³⁵ And having gone near, bound up his wounds, pouring on oil and wine, and having lifted him up on his own beast, brought him to an inn, and took care of him: ³⁶ and on the morrow, going forth, taking out two denaries, he gave them to the innkeeper, and said to him, 'Take care of him, and whatever thou mayest spend more, I, in my returning, will repay thee.'

³⁷ 'Who, then, of these three, thinkest thou to have been neighbour of him who fell among the robbers?' ³⁸ And he said, 'He who did the kindness to him.' And Jesus said to him, 'Proceed and do in like manner.'

³⁹ And it came to pass in their proceeding, that he entered into a certain village, and a certain woman, by name Martha, received him into her house: ⁴⁰ and she had a sister, called Mary, who also, having seated herself near the feet of Jesus, was hearing his word: ⁴¹ but Martha was distracted about much serving; and having stood by him, she said, 'Sir, dost thou not care that my sister left me alone to serve? speak then to her, that she may help with me.'

⁴² And Jesus answering said to her, 'Martha, Martha, thou art careful and troubled about many things: ⁴³ but of one thing there is need, and Mary the good part chose, which shall not be taken away from her.'

XI. ¹ AND it came to pass, in his being in a certain place praying, as he ceased, a certain one of his disciples said to him, 'Sir, teach us to pray, as also John taught his disciples.'

² And he said to them, 'When ye may pray, say ye: Our Father who art in the heavens: hallowed be Thy name: Thy reign come: Thy will come to pass, as in heaven also on the earth: ³ our necessary bread be giving us daily: ⁴ and forgive us our sins, for also we ourselves forgive every one indebted to us; and mayest Thou not lead us into temptation; but do Thou deliver us from the evil.'

⁵ And he said to them, 'Who of you shall have a friend, and shall proceed to him at midnight, and may say to him, Friend, lend me three loaves, ⁶ seeing a friend of mine came out of the way to me, and I have nothing to set before him: ⁷ and he from within answering may say, Do not give me trouble, already the door hath been shut, and my children with me are in bed: I am unable, having risen, to give to thee.'

⁸ I say to you, even if he will not give to him, having risen, because of his being his friend, yet because of his importunity, having risen, he will give him as many as he needeth: ⁹ and I say to you, Ask, and it shall be given to you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened to you: ¹⁰ for every one who is asking receiveth; and he who is seeking findeth; and to him who is knocking it shall be opened.'

¹¹ And of which of you—a father—if the son shall ask a loaf, a stone will he present to him? and if a fish, will he for a fish a serpent present to him? ¹² and if he may ask an egg, will he present to him a scorpion? ¹³ If, then, ye, being evil, know good gifts to give to your children, how much more shall the Father who is from heaven give the Holy Spirit to those asking Him?'

¹⁴ And he was casting out a demon, and it was dumb, and it came to pass, on the demon's having gone out, the dumb spake, and the multitudes wondered: ¹⁵ but certain of them said, 'By Beelzeboul, the ruler of the demons, he casteth out the demons:' ¹⁶ and others, tempting, a sign out of heaven from him were asking.

¹⁷ And he, knowing their thoughts, said to them, 'Every kingdom having been divided against itself is made desolate: and house against house falleth: ¹⁸ and if also the Adversary against himself be divided, how shall his kingdom be made to stand? for ye say, By Beelzeboul I cast out the demons.'

¹⁹ But if I by Beelzeboul cast out the demons,—your sons, by whom do they cast out? therefore your judges they shall be: ²⁰ but if by the finger of God I cast out the demons, then come suddenly upon you hath the reign of God.

²¹ When the strong man armed may keep his hall, in peace are his goods: ²² but when the stronger than he, having come upon him, may overcome him, his whole armour he taketh away in which he had trusted, and his spoils he distributeth: ²³ he who is not with me is against me, and he who is not gathering with me scattereth.

²⁴ When the unclean spirit may go out from the man, it walketh through dry places seeking rest; and not finding, it saith, I will turn back to my house whence I came out; ²⁵ and having come, it findeth it swept and adorned; ²⁶ then it proceedeth, and taketh to it seven other spirits more evil than itself, and having entered, they dwell there; and the last of that man becometh worse than the first.

²⁷ And it came to pass, on his saying these things, a certain woman having lifted up the voice out of the multitude, said to him, 'Happy the womb that bare thee, and the paps which thou didst suck!' ²⁸ But he said, 'Yea rather, happy those hearing the word of God, and doing it!'

²⁹ And the multitudes being crowded together, he began to say, 'This generation is wicked; a sign it seeketh after, and a sign shall not be given to it, except the sign of Jonah the prophet; ³⁰ for as Jonah became a sign to the Ninevites, so also shall the Son of Man be to this generation.'

³¹ A queen of the south shall rise in the judgment with the men of this generation, and shall condemn them, for she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and lo, greater than Solomon here!

³² Men of Nineveh shall stand up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it, for they reformed at the proclamation of Jonah; and lo, greater than Jonah here!

³³ And no one having lighted a lamp, putteth it in a secret place, nor under the measure, but on the lampstand, that those coming in may see the light.

³⁴ The lamp of the body is the eye; when then thine eye may be simple, thy whole body also is lightened; but when it may be evil, thy body also is darkened; ³⁵ take heed, then, that the light which is in thee be not darkness; ³⁶ if then thy whole body be lightened, not having any part darkened, the whole shall be lightened, as when the lamp by the shining may give thee light.'

³⁷ And in his speaking, a certain Pharisee was asking him that he might dine with him, and having gone in, he reclined (at meat); ³⁸ and the Pharisee having seen it, wondered, that he did not first baptize himself before the dinner.

³⁹ And the Lord said to him, 'Now do ye, the Pharisee, the outside of the cup and of the plate make clean, but your inward part is full of rapine and wickedness; ⁴⁰ unthinking! did not He who made the outside also the inside make?' ⁴¹ But the what ye have given as alms, and, lo, all things are clean to you.

⁴² But wo to you, the Pharisees, for ye tithe the mint, and the rue, and every herb, and pass by judgment, and the love of God; these things it becometh you to do, and those not to neglect.

⁴³ Wo to you, the Pharisees, for ye love the first seats in the synagogues, and the salutations in the markets.

⁴⁴ Wo to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites, for ye are as the unseen tombs, and the men who are walking upon them do not know.'

⁴⁵ And one of the lawyers answering, saith to him, 'Teacher, these things saying, us also thou insultest;' ⁴⁶ and he said, 'And to you, the lawyers, wo! for ye burden men with burdens unbearable, and ye with one of your fingers touch not the burdens.'

⁴⁷ Wo to you, for ye build the tombs of the prophets, and your fathers killed them.

⁴⁸ Then do ye testify, and consent to the works of your fathers; for they indeed killed them, and ye—ye build their tombs; ⁴⁹ therefore also the wisdom of God said: I will send to them prophets, and apostles, and some of them they shall kill and persecute; ⁵⁰ that the blood of all the prophets, which is being poured out from the foundation of the world, may be required from this generation; ⁵¹ from the blood of Abel unto the blood of Zacharias, who perished between the altar and the house; yes, I say to you it shall be required from this generation.'

⁵² Wo to you, the lawyers, for ye took away the key of knowledge; yourselves ye entered not; and those going in ye hindered.

⁵³ And in his speaking these things to them, the scribes and the Pharisees began fearfully to urge and to provoke him to speak about many things; ⁵⁴ laying wait for him, and seeking to catch something out of his mouth, that they might accuse him.

XII. 'AT which time the myriads of the multitude having been gathered together, so as to tread one upon another, he began to say to his disciples, first, 'Take heed to yourselves of the leaven of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy; ² but there is nothing covered, which shall not be revealed; and hid, which shall not be known; ³ because whatever in the darkness ye said, in the light shall be heard; and what in the ear ye spake in the inner-chambers, shall be proclaimed on the house-tops.

⁴ And I say to you, my friends, be not afraid of those killing the body, and after these things have not anything over to do; ⁵ but I will show to you beforehand whom ye may fear: Fear Him who, after the killing, hath power to cast into the gehenna; yes, I say to you, Fear Him.

⁶ Are not five sparrows sold for two assars? and not one of them is forgotten before God; ⁷ but even the hairs of your head have been all numbered; therefore fear not, than many sparrows ye are of more value.

⁸ And I say to you, Whosoever may confess me before men, the Son of Man also shall confess him before the messengers of God; ⁹ and he who hath denied me before men, shall be denied before the messengers of God; ¹⁰ and every one who ever shall say a word against the Son of Man, it shall be forgiven to him, but to him who against the Holy Spirit speaketh evil, it shall not be forgiven.

¹¹ And when they bring you to the synagogues, and to the rulers, and to the powers, be not careful how or what ye may plead, or what ye may say: ¹²for the Holy Spirit shall teach you in that hour what things it is necessary to say.

¹³And a certain one said to him, out of the multitude, 'Teacher, say to my brother to divide with me the inheritance.' ¹⁴And he said to him, 'Man, who set me a judge or a divider over you?' ¹⁵And he said to them, 'Observe, and beware of covetousness, for not in the abundance of the things which one hath doth his life consist.'

¹⁶And he spake a simile to them, saying, 'Of a certain rich man the field brought forth well: ¹⁷and he was reasoning within himself, saying, What shall I do, for I have not where I shall gather in my fruits: ¹⁸and he said, This will I do, I will take down my store-houses, and greater ones will build, and will gather together there all my products and my good things: ¹⁹and I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast many good things laid up for many years, be resting, eat, drink, and be merry.'

²⁰But God said to him, Fool, this night thy soul shall be asked back; and what things thou hast prepared, to whom shall they be? ²¹so is he who is treasuring up for himself, and is not rich towards God.'

²²And he said to his disciples, 'Therefore, to you I say, Be not careful for your life, what ye may eat; nor for the body, what ye may put on: ²³the life is more than the nourishment, and the body than the clothing.'

²⁴Consider the ravens, that they sow not, nor reap, to whom there is no barn nor store-house, and God nourisheth them: how much more are ye better than the fowls? ²⁵and who of you, being careful, is able to add to his age one cubit? ²⁶If, then, ye be not able for the least—why for the rest are ye careful?

²⁷Consider the lilies, how do they increase? they labour not, nor do they spin; but I say to you, not even Solomon in all his glory was arrayed as one of these. ²⁸And if the herbage in the field, which to-day is, and to-morrow is cast into an oven, God so clothe, how much more you—ye of little faith?

²⁹And ye—seek not what ye may eat, or what ye may drink, and be not in suspense: ³⁰for all these things do the nations of the world seek after, but your Father hath known that ye have need of these things. ³¹Hut, seek ye the reign of God, and all these things shall be added to you.

³²Fear not, little flock, for your Father delighted to give you the reign: ³³sell the things ye have, and give alms: make for yourselves bags which become not old, a treasure unfailing in the heavens, where thief cometh not near, nor moth destroyeth: ³⁴for where your treasure is, there also your heart will be.

³⁵Let your loins be girded, and the lamps burning, ³⁶and ye like to men waiting for their lord, when he shall return from the marriage, that he having come and knocked, immediately they may open to him.

³⁷Happy those servants, whom the lord, having come, shall find watching: verily I say to you, that he will gird himself, and will cause them to recline (at meat), and having come near, will minister to them: ³⁸and if he may come in the second watch, and in the third watch may come, and find it so, happy are those servants.

³⁹And this know, that if the master of the house had known what hour the thief cometh, he would have watched, and would not have suffered his house to be broken through: ⁴⁰and ye, then, be ye ready, for at the hour ye think not, the Son of Man cometh.'

⁴¹And Peter said to him, 'Sir, to us this simile dost thou speak, or also to all?'

⁴²And the Lord said, 'Who, then, is the faithful and wise steward whom the lord shall set over his household, to give in due season the measure of food? ⁴³Happy that servant, whom his lord, having come, shall find doing so: ⁴⁴truly I say to you, that over all his goods he will set him.'

⁴⁵But if that servant may say in his heart, My lord delayeth to come: and may begin to beat the men-servants and the maid-servants, to eat also, and to drink, and to be drunken: ⁴⁶the lord of that servant will come in a day on which he looketh not for him, and in an hour which he knoweth not, and will cut him asunder, and his portion with the unfaithful will appoint.

⁴⁷And that servant who, having known his lord's will, and not having prepared, nor having done according to his will shall be beaten with many stripes: ⁴⁸but he who, not having known, but having done things worthy of stripes, shall be beaten with few: but to every one to whom much was given, much shall be required from him: and to whom men committed much, more abundantly they will ask of him.

⁴⁹Fire I came to put on the earth, and what will I if already it be kindled? ⁵⁰but I have a baptism to be baptized with, and how am I pressed till it be ended!

⁵¹Think ye that peace I came to give on the earth? no, I say to you, but rather division: ⁵²for there shall be henceforth five in one house divided, three against two, and two against three: ⁵³a father shall be divided against a son, and a son against a father, a mother against a daughter, and a daughter against a mother, a mother-in-law against her daughter-in-law, and a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law.'

⁵⁴And he said also to the multitudes, 'When ye may see the cloud rising from the west, immediately ye say, A shower cometh, and it cometh so: ⁵⁵and when ye see a south wind blowing, ye say, that there will be heat, and it cometh to pass: ⁵⁶hypocrites! the face of the earth and of the heaven, ye have known to discern, but this time—how do ye not discern it?'

⁵⁷And why, even of yourselves, judge ye not what is right? ⁵⁸for, as thou art going away with thine opponent to the ruler, in the way give diligence to be released from him, that he may not drag thee before the judge, and the judge may deliver thee to the officer, and the officer may cast thee into prison: ²⁹I say to thee, thou mayest not come out thence till the last mite thou mayest give.

XIII. ¹AND there were present certain at that time, telling him about the Galileans, whose blood Pilate mingled with their sacrifices: ²and Jesus answering said to them, 'Think ye that these Galileans were sinners beyond all the Galileans, because they suffered such things? ³No; I say to you, but, if ye may not reform, all ye even so shall perish.'

⁴Or those eighteen, on whom the tower of Siloam fell, and killed them; think ye that these were debtors beyond all men who were dwelling in Jerusalem? ⁵No; I say to you, but, if ye may not reform, all ye in like manner shall perish.'

⁶And he spake this simile: 'A certain one had a fig-tree planted in his vineyard, and he came seeking fruit on it, and did not find: ⁷and he said to the vine-dresser, Lo, three years I come seeking fruit on this fig-tree, and do not find, cut it down, why even the ground doth it cumber?'

⁸And he answering saith to him, Sir, suffer it also this year, till I may dig about it, and cast in dung: ⁹and if indeed it may bear fruit—: and if not, thereafter thou shalt cut it down.'

¹⁰And he was teaching in one of the synagogues on the sabbath: ¹¹and lo, there was a woman having a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and she was bowed together, and not able to bend back at all: ¹²and Jesus having seen her, called her, and said to her, 'Woman, thou hast been loosed from thine infirmity:' ¹³and he laid on her his hands, and presently she was set upright, and was glorifying God.

¹⁴And the chief of the synagogue answering, (much displeased that on the sabbath Jesus healed,) said to the multitude, 'Six days there are in which it is necessary to work: in these, then, coming, be healed, and not on the sabbath-day.'

¹⁵Then the Lord answered him and said, 'Hypocrites, doth not each of you on the sabbath loose his ox or ass from the stall, and having led it away, water it? ¹⁶and this one, being a daughter of Abraham, whom the Adversary bound, lo, eighteen years, was it not necessary for her to be loosed from this bond on the sabbath-day?'

¹⁷And on his saying these things, all who were opposed to him were ashamed, and all the multitude were rejoicing at all the glorious things done by him.

¹⁸And he said, 'To what is the reign of God like? and to what shall I liken it? ¹⁹It is like to a grain of mustard, which a man having taken, cast into his garden, and it increased, and came to a great tree, and the fowls of heaven lodged in its branches.'

²⁰And again he said, 'To what shall I liken the reign of God? ²¹It is like leaven, which a woman, having taken, hid in three measures of meal, till all was leavened.'

²²And he was going through cities and villages, teaching, and making progress towards Jerusalem: ²³and a certain one said to him, 'Sir, are those saved few?' and he said to them, ²⁴'Strive to enter in through the strait gate: for many, I say to you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able.'

²⁵'From the time the master of the house may have risen up, and shut the door, and ye may begin outside to stand, and to knock at the door, saying, Lord, lord, open to us; and he answering shall say to you, I do not know you whence ye are: ²⁶then shall ye begin to say, We did eat in thy presence, and did drink, and in our broad places thou didst teach: ²⁷and he shall say, I say to you, I do not know you whence ye are; depart from me, all ye workers of unrighteousness.'

²⁸'There shall be there the weeping and the gnashing of the teeth, when ye may see Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the prophets in the reign of God, and ye yourselves cast out without: ²⁹and they shall come from east and west, and from north and south, and shall recline in the reign of God; ³⁰and lo, there are last who shall be first, and there are first who shall be last.'

³¹On that day there came near certain Pharisees, saying to him, 'Go out, and go away hence, for Herod wisheth to kill thee:' ³²and he said to them, 'Having gone, say to this fox, Lo, I cast out demons, and accomplish cures to-day and to-morrow, and the third day I am perfected: ³³but it becometh me to-day, and to-morrow, and the day following, to go on, for it is not possible for a prophet to perish out of Jerusalem.'

³⁴'Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which is killing the prophets, and stoning those sent to her; how often did I wish to gather thy children together, as a hen her brood under the wings, and ye would not.

³⁵'Lo, your house is left to you desolate: and verily I say to you—ye may not see me, till it come, when ye may say, Blessed is he who is coming in the name of the Lord.'

XIV. ¹AND it came to pass, on his going into the house of a certain one of the chiefs of the Pharisees, on a sabbath, to eat bread, that they were watching him: ²and lo there was a certain dropsical man before him: ³and Jesus answering spake to the lawyers and Pharisees, saying, 'Is it lawful on the sabbath-day to heal? ⁴and they were silent: and having taken hold of him, he healed him, and sent him away: ⁵and answering them said, 'Of which of you shall the ass or ox fall into a pit, and he will not immediately draw it out on the sabbath-day? ⁶and they were not able to answer him again to these things.'

⁷And he spake a simile to those called, marking how they were choosing out the first couches, saying to them, ⁸'When thou mayest be called by any one to marriage-feasts, thou mayest not recline on the first couch, lest perhaps a more honourable than thou may have been called by him: ⁹and he who called thee and him having come shall say to thee, 'Give to this one—place, and then thou mayest begin with shame to take the last place'

¹⁰'But when thou mayest be called, having gone, recline on the last place, that when he who called thee may come, he may say to thee, Friend, come up higher: then shalt thou have glory in the presence of those reclining with thee: ¹¹for every one who is exalting himself shall be humbled, and he who is humbling himself shall be exalted.'

¹²And he said also to him who called him, 'When thou mayest make a dinner or a supper, call not thy friends, nor thy brethren, nor thy kindred, nor rich neighbours, lest perhaps they also may call thee again, and a recompense may be made thee: ¹³but when thou mayest make a feast, call poor, maimed, lame, blind, ¹⁴and thou shalt be happy, for they have not to recompense thee: for it shall be recompensed to thee in the rising again of the righteous.'

¹⁵And one of those reclining with him having heard these things, said to him, 'Happy is he who shall eat bread in the reign of God: ¹⁶and he said to him, 'A certain man made a great supper, and called many, ¹⁷and sent his servant at the hour of the supper to say to those called, Come, for now are all things ready.'

¹⁸And they all began with one consent to excuse themselves: The first said to him, A field I bought, and I have to go out and see it: I beg of thee, have me excused.

¹⁹And another said, Five yoke of oxen I bought, and I proceed to prove them: I beg of thee, have me excused: ²⁰and another said, A wife I married, and therefore I am not able to come.

²¹And that servant having come, told to his lord these things: then the master of the house, having been angry, said to his servant, Go out quickly to the broad places and lanes of the city, and the poor, and maimed, and lame, and blind, bring in hither.

²²And the servant said, Sir, it hath been done as thou didst command, and still there is place.

²³And the lord said to the servant, Go out into the ways and hedges, and constrain to come in, that my house may be filled: ²⁴for I say to you, that none of those men who were called shall taste of my supper.'

²⁵And there were going on with him great multitudes, and having turned, he said to them, ²⁶If any one doth come to me, and doth not hate his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brothers, and sisters, and yet even his own life, he is not able to be my disciple: ²⁷and whoever doth not bear his cross, and come after me, cannot be my disciple.

²⁸For who of you, wishing to build a tower, doth not first, having sat down, count the expense, whether he have the things for finishing? ²⁹lest perhaps, on his having laid a foundation, and not being able to finish, all who are beholding may begin to mock him, ³⁰saying, This man began to build, and was not able to finish.

³¹Or what king going to engage with another king in war, doth not, having sat down, first consult if he is able with ten thousand to meet him who with twenty thousand is coming against him? ³²and if not—the other being yet far off—sending ambassadors, he asketh the things for peace.

³³So, then, every one of you who doth not bid farewell to all that he hath, is not able to be my disciple.

³⁴Salt is good: but if the salt become tasteless, with what shall it be seasoned? ³⁵whether for land nor for manure is it fit—they cast it out. He who hath ears to hear, let him hear.'

XV. ¹AND all the tax-gatherers and the sinners were coming near to him, to hear him: ²and the Pharisees and the scribes were murmuring, saying, 'This one receiveth sinners, and eateth with them.'

³And he spake to them this simile, saying, ⁴What man of you, having an hundred sheep, and having lost one of them, doth not leave behind the ninety-nine in the wilderness, and go after the lost one, till he may find it? ⁵and having found, he layeth it upon his shoulder rejoicing: ⁶and having come into the house, he calleth together the friends, and the neighbours, saying to them, Rejoice with me, for I found my sheep—the lost one.

⁷I say to you, that, thus joy shall be in the heaven over one sinner reforming, rather than over ninety-nine righteous men who have no need of reformation.

⁸Or what woman having ten drachms, if she may lose one drachm, doth not light a lamp, and sweep the house, and seek carefully till she may find it? ⁹and having found, she calleth together the female friends and neighbours, saying, Rejoice with me, for I found the drachm which I lost.

¹⁰So I say to you, Joy cometh in the presence of the messengers of God over one sinner reforming.'

¹¹And he said, 'A certain man had two sons: ¹²and the younger of them said to the father, Father, give me the portion of the substance falling to me; and he divided to them the living.'

¹³And not many days after, having gathered all together, the younger son went abroad to a far country, and there scattered his substance, living riotously: ¹⁴and on his having spent all, there came a mighty famine on that country, and he himself began to be in want: ¹⁵and having gone, he joined himself to one of the citizens of that country, and he sent him into the fields to feed swine: ¹⁶and he was desirous of filling his belly from the husks which the swine were eating, and no one was giving to him.

¹⁷And having come to himself, he said, How many hired servants of my father have a superabundance of bread, and I here with hunger perish: ¹⁸having arisen, I will go to my father, and will say to him, Father, I sinned against heaven, and before thee, ¹⁹and no more am I worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants.

²⁰And having risen, he went to his father, and he being yet far distant, his father saw him, and was moved with compassion, and having ran, fell upon his neck and kissed him: ²¹and the son said to him, Father, I sinned against heaven, and before thee, and no more am I worthy to be called thy son.

22 But the father said to his servants, Bring ye forth the first robe, and clothe him, and give a ring for his hand, and sandals for the feet: 23 and having brought the fatted calf, kill it, and having eaten, let us be merry, 24 for this my son was dead, and he hath lived again, and was lost, and hath been found; and they began to be merry.

25 And his elder son was in the field, and as, coming, he drew near to the house, he heard music and dancing; 26 and having called near one of the young men, he was inquiring what these things might be, 27 and he said to him—Thy brother is come, and thy father killed the fatted calf, because in health he received him back.

28 And he was angry, and would not go in; therefore his father, having gone out, was entreating him: 29 and he answering said to the father, Lo, so many years do I serve thee, and never did I transgress thy command, and to me thou didst never give a kid, that with my friends I might make merry: 30 but when thy son—this one who devoured thy living with harlots—came, thou didst kill for him the fatted calf.

31 And he said to him, My child, thou art always with me, and all my things are thine; 32 but to be merry, and to be glad, it was needful, for this thy brother was dead, and hath lived again, and he was lost, and hath been found.

XVI. 1 AND he said also to his disciples, A certain man was rich, who had a steward, and he was accused to him as scattering his goods: 2 and having called him, he said to him, What is this I hear about thee? render the account of thy stewardship, for thou mayest not be any longer steward.

3 And the steward said in himself, What shall I do, for my lord taketh away the stewardship from me? to dig I am not able; to beg I am ashamed:—4 I know what I shall do, that, when I may be removed from the stewardship, they may receive me into their houses.

5 And having called near each one of his lord's debtors, he said to the first, How much owest thou to my lord? 6 and he said, An hundred baths of oil; and he said to him, Take thy bill, and having sat down quickly, write fifty.

7 Afterward to another he said, And thou, how much owest thou? and he said, An hundred homers of wheat; and he saith to him, Take thy bill, and write eighty.

8 And the lord commended the unrighteous steward that he did wisely, for the sons of this age are wiser than the sons of the light, in respect to their generation: 9 and I say to you, Make to yourselves friends out of the riches of unrighteousness, that when ye may fail, they may receive you into the age—during tabernacles.

10 He who is faithful in the least, is also faithful in much; and he who in the least is unrighteous, is also unrighteous in much;

11 if, then, in the unrighteous riches ye were not faithful—the true who will entrust to you? 12 and if in another's ye were not faithful—your own, who shall give to you?

13 No domestic is able to serve two lords: for either the one he will hate, and the other will love; or one he will hold to, and the other will slight; ye are not able to serve God and riches.

14 And the Pharisees also, being lovers of money, were hearing all these things, and were deriding him; 15 and he said to them, Ye are those justifying yourselves before men, but God knoweth your hearts: for that which among men is high, is abomination before God; 16 the law and the prophets were till John; since then the reign of God is proclaimed as good news, and every one presseth into it; 17 but it is easier for the heaven and the earth to pass away, than of the law one tittle to fail.

18 Every one who is sending away his wife, and marrying another, committeth adultery: and every one who is marrying her who is sent away from a husband, committeth adultery.

19 But a certain man was rich, and was clothed in purple and fine linen, making merry sumptuously every day; 20 and there was a certain poor man, by name Lazarus, who was laid at his porch, full of sores, 21 and desiring to be filled from the crumbs which are falling from the table of the rich man; yea, even the dogs, coming, were licking his sores.

22 And it came to pass, that the poor man died, and that he was carried away by the messengers into the bosom of Abraham,—but the rich man also died, and was buried: 23 and in hades having lifted up his eyes, being in torments, he seeth Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom; 24 and having cried, he said, Father Abraham, deal kindly with me, and send Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and may cool my tongue, for I am sorrowing in this flame.

25 But Abraham said, Child, remember that thou didst receive thy good things during thy life, and Lazarus in like manner the evil things; but now he is comforted, and thou art sorrowing: 26 and besides all these things, between us and you a great chasm is fixed, so that they who are wishing to go over from hence to you are unable, nor do they from thence to us pass through.

27 Then he said, I pray thee, then, father, that thou mayest send him to the house of my father; 28 for I have five brothers, so that he may thoroughly testify to them, lest they also come into this place of torment.

29 Abraham saith to him, They have Moses and the prophets, let them hear them; 30 and he said, No, father Abraham, but if any one from the dead may go to them, they will reform. 31 But he said to him, If to Moses and to the prophets they hearken not, neither if one may rise from the dead will they be persuaded.

XVII. 1 AND he said to the disciples, It is not possible for stumbling-blocks not to come, but we to him through whom they come: ²it is better for him if a weighty millstone is hanged about his neck, and he is cast into the sea, than that he may cause one of these little ones to stumble.

³'Take heed to yourselves, and if thy brother may sin against thee, rebuke him: and if he reform, forgive him: ⁴and if seven times in the day he sin against thee, and seven times in the day turn back to thee, saying, I reform: thou shalt forgive him.'

⁵And the apostles said to the Lord, 'Add faith to us: ⁶and the Lord said, 'If ye had faith as a grain of mustard, ye would have said to this sycamore, Be thou uprooted, and be planted in the sea, and it would have obeyed you.

⁷But who of you having a servant ploughing or feeding, to whom, coming from the field, he will say, Having come near, recline at meat? ⁸but will not rather say to him, Prepare wherewith I may sup, and having girded thyself about, minister to me, till I eat and drink: and after these things thou shalt eat and drink? ⁹Doth he thank that servant because he did the things commanded? I think not.

¹⁰So also ye, when ye may have done all the things commanded you, say—We are unprofitable servants: that which we ought to do—we have done.'

¹¹And it came to pass, in his proceeding to Jerusalem, that he passed through the midst of Samaria and Galilee: ¹²and on his entering into a certain village, there met him ten leprous men, who stood afar off: ¹³and they lifted up the voice, saying, 'Jesus, master, deal kindly with us: ¹⁴and having seen them, he said to them, 'Having proceeded, shew yourselves to the priests: and it came to pass, in their going, they were cleansed: ¹⁵and one of them, having seen that he was healed, turned back, with a loud voice glorifying God, ¹⁶and fell on his face at his feet, giving thanks to him: and he was a Samaritan.

¹⁷And Jesus answering said, 'Were not the ten cleansed, but the nine—where?'

¹⁸There were not found who turned back to give glory to God, except this alien: ¹⁹and he said to him, 'Having risen, proceed; thy faith hath saved thee.'

²⁰And having been questioned by the Pharisees, when the reign of God cometh, he answered them, and said, 'The reign of God cometh not with observation: ²¹nor shall they say, Lo, here, or lo, there: for lo, the reign of God is within you.'

²²And he said to his disciples, 'Days will come, when ye shall desire to see one of the days of the Son of Man, and ye shall not behold it: ²³and they shall say to you, Lo, here, or lo, there: ye may not go away, nor follow: ²⁴for as the lightning that lighteth out of one part under heaven, to another part under heaven shineth, so shall be also the Son of Man in his day: ²⁵but first it behoveth him to suffer many things, and be rejected by this generation.

²⁶And, as it came to pass in the days of Noah, so shall it be also in the days of the Son of Man: ²⁷they were eating, they were drinking, they were marrying, they were given in marriage, till the day that Noah entered into the ark, and the deluge came, and destroyed all: ²⁸in like manner also, as it came to pass in the days of Lot: they were eating, they were drinking, they were buying, they were selling, they were planting, they were building: ²⁹but on the day that Lot went out from Sodom, He rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed all.

³⁰'According to these things shall it be in the day the Son of Man is revealed: ³¹in that day, he who shall be on the house-top, and his vessels in the house, let him not come down to take them away: and he in the field, in like manner, let him not turn backward: ³²Remember the wife of Lot. ³³Whoever may seek to save his life, shall lose it; and whoever may lose his life, shall preserve it.

³⁴'I say to you, In that night, there shall be two men on one couch, one shall be taken, and the other shall be left: ³⁵two women shall be grinding at the same place, the one shall be taken, and the other shall be left: ³⁶two men shall be in the field, one shall be taken, and the other shall be left.'

³⁷And they answering say to him, 'Where, sir?' and he said to them, 'Where the body is, there will the eagles be gathered.'

XVIII. ¹AND he spake also a simile to them, that it is necessary always to pray, and not to faint: ²saying, 'A certain judge was in a certain city, God not fearing, and man not regarding: ³and a widow was in that city, and she was coming to him, saying, Do me justice on the unrighteous one: ⁴and he would not for a time, but after these things he said within himself, Even if God I fear not, and man regard not, yet because this widow giveth me trouble, I will do her justice, lest for ever coming, she may plague me.'

⁵And the Lord said, 'Hear ye what the unrighteous judge saith: ⁶and shall not God execute the justice to His chosen, who are crying to Him day and night, bearing long in regard to them? ⁷I say to you, that He will execute the justice quickly: but the Son of Man having come, shall he find the faith on the earth?'

⁸And he spake also, to certain who were trusting in themselves that they were righteous, and despising the rest, this simile:

⁹'Two men went up into the temple to pray, the one a Pharisee, and the other a tax-gatherer: ¹⁰the Pharisee having stationed himself, thus prayed: God, I thank Thee, that I am not as the rest of men, rapacious, unrighteous, adulterers, or even as this tax-gatherer: ¹¹I fast twice in the week, I give tithes of all things—as many as I possess.

¹²'And the tax-gatherer, standing afar off, would not even the eyes lift up to the heaven, but was smiting on his breast, saying, God be propitious to me—the sinner! ¹³I say to you, this one went down justified to his house, rather than that one: for every one who is exalting himself shall be humbled, but he who is humbling himself shall be exalted.'

¹³ And they were bringing near also the babes, that he might touch them: and the disciples having seen, rebuked them: ¹⁴ but Jesus having called them near, said, 'Suffer the little children to come to me, and forbid them not, for the reign of God belongeth to such: ¹⁵ verily I say to you, Whoever may not receive the reign of God as a little child, may not enter into it.'

¹⁶ And a certain ruler questioned him, saying, 'Good teacher, on doing what—shall I obtain age-during life?' ¹⁷ And Jesus said to him, 'Why me dost thou call good? none is good, except one—God: ¹⁸ the commands thou knowest: Thou mayest not commit adultery, Thou mayest do no murder, Thou mayest not steal, Thou mayest not bear false witness, Honour thy father and thy mother.'

¹⁹ And he said, 'All these I kept from my youth: ²⁰ and having heard these things, Jesus said to him, 'Yet one thing in thee is lacking: all things—as many as thou hast—sell, and distribute to the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven, and come, be following me: ²¹ and he, having heard these things, became very sorrowful, for he was exceeding rich.'

²² And Jesus having seen him become very sorrowful, said, 'How hardly shall they who have riches enter into the reign of God! ²³ for it is easier for a camel through the eye of a needle to enter, than for a rich man into the reign of God to enter.'

²⁴ And those who heard, said, 'And who is able to be saved?' ²⁵ and he said, 'The things impossible with men are possible with God.'

²⁶ And Peter said, 'Lo, we left all and followed thee: ²⁷ and he said to them, 'Verily I say to you, that there is no one who left house, or parents, or brothers, or wife, or children, for the sake of the reign of God, ²⁸ who may not receive back manifold more in this time, and in the coming age age-during life.'

²⁹ And having taken the twelve aside, he said to them, 'Lo, we go up to Jerusalem, and all things shall be completed—which have been written through the prophets—upon the Son of Man, ³⁰ for he shall be delivered up to the nations, and shall be mocked, and insulted, and spit on, ³¹ and having scourged they shall put him to death, and on the third day he shall rise again.'

³² And they none of these things understood, and this saying was hid from them, and they were not knowing the things said.

³³ And it came to pass, in his coming near to Jericho, a certain blind man was sitting beside the way begging, ³⁴ and having heard a multitude passing by, was inquiring what this might be: ³⁵ and they brought him word that Jesus the Nazarene passeth by: ³⁶ and he cried out, saying, 'Jesus, Son of David, deal kindly with me: ³⁷ and those going before were rebuking him, that he might be silent, but he was much more crying out, 'Son of David, deal kindly with me.'

³⁸ And Jesus having stood, commanded him to be brought to him, and he having come near, he questioned him, ³⁹ saying, 'What wilt thou that I shall do to thee?' and he said, 'Sir, that I may receive sight.'

⁴⁰ And Jesus said to him, 'Receive thy sight: thy faith hath saved thee: ⁴¹ and presently he received sight, and was following him, glorifying God: and all the people, having seen, gave praise to God.'

⁴² XIX. ¹ AND having entered, he was passing through Jericho, ² and lo, a man by name called Zaccheus: and he was a chief tax-gatherer, and he was rich: ³ and he was seeking to see Jesus, who he is, and was not able for the multitude, for in stature he was small: ⁴ and having run forward before, he went up on a sycamore, that he might see him, for through that way he was about to pass by.

⁵ And as Jesus came to the place, having looked up, he saw him, and said to him, 'Zaccheus, having hastened, come down: for to-day in thy house it behoveth me to remain: ⁶ and he having hastened, came down, and received him rejoicing: ⁷ and having seen it, they were all murmuring, saying,— With a sinful man he went in to lodge!'

⁸ And Zaccheus having stood, said to the Lord, 'Lo, the half of my substance, sir, I give to the poor, and if of any one anything I have wrongfully taken, I give back four-fold.'

⁹ And Jesus said to him— 'To-day salvation came to this house, inasmuch as he also is a son of Abraham: ¹⁰ for the Son of Man came to seek and to save the lost.'

¹¹ And on their hearing these things, adding he spake a simile, because of his being near to Jerusalem, and of their thinking that the reign of God is about presently to be made manifest. ¹² He said therefore, 'A certain man of birth proceeded into a distant region to take to himself a kingdom, and to return, ¹³ and having called ten of his servants, he gave to them ten pounds, and said to them, Do business—till I come: ¹⁴ and his citizens were hating him, and sent an embassy after him, saying, We do not wish this one to reign over us.'

¹⁵ And it came to pass on his turning back, having taken the kingdom, that he commanded these servants to be called to him, to whom he gave the money, that he might know what each had done in business.

¹⁶ And the first came near, saying, Sir, thy pound gained ten pounds: ¹⁷ and he said to him, Well done, good servant, because in a very little thou wast faithful, have thou authority over ten cities.

¹⁸ And the second came, saying, Sir, thy pound made five pounds: ¹⁹ and he said also to this one, And thou, be thou over five cities.

²⁰ And another came, saying, Sir, lo, thy pound, which I had laid away in a napkin: ²¹ for I was afraid of thee, because thou art an austere man: thou takest up what thou didst not lay down, and reapest what thou didst not sow.

²² And he saith to him, Out of thy mouth will I judge thee, evil servant: Thou knewest that I am an austere man, taking up what I laid not down, and reaping what I did not sow: ²²and wherefore didst thou not give my money into the bank, and I, having come, with interest might have received it?

²³And to these standing by he said, Take from him the pound, and give it to him having the ten pounds.—²⁴And they said to him, Sir, he hath ten pounds.—²⁵For I say to you, that to every one who hath shall be given, and from him who hath not, even what he hath shall be taken from him, ²⁶but those mine enemies, who did not wish me to reign over them, bring hither and slay before me.

²⁷And having said these things, he went on before, going up to Jerusalem: ²⁸and it came to pass, as he came near to Bethphage and Bethany, at the mount called of the olives, he sent two of his disciples, ²⁹having said, Go away into the village over-against, in which, entering, ye shall find a colt bound, on which no one of men ever sat, having loosed it, bring it; ³⁰and if any one question you, Wherefore do ye loose it? thus shall ye say to him—The Lord hath need of it.

³¹And those sent, having gone away, found according as he said to them; ³²and on their loosing the colt, its owners said to them, Why loose ye the colt? ³³and they said, The Lord hath need of it: ³⁴and they brought it to Jesus, and having cast their garments on the colt, they set Jesus on it.

³⁵And as he is proceeding, they were spreading their garments in the way, ³⁶and as he is come near now at the descent of the mount of the olives, the whole multitude of the disciples began rejoicing to praise God with a great voice for all the mighty works they had seen, ³⁷saying, Blessed is he who is coming, a king, in the name of the Lord: peace in heaven, and glory in the highest.

³⁸And certain of the Pharisees from the multitude said to him, Teacher, rebuke thy disciples: ³⁹and he answering said to them, I say to you, that, if these shall be silent, the stones will cry out!

⁴⁰And as he came near, having seen the city, he wept over it, ⁴¹saying,—If thou hadst known, even thou, at least in this day, the things for thy peace; but now they have been hid from thine eyes.

⁴²For days shall come upon thee, that thine enemies shall cast around thee a rampart, and compass thee round, and press thee on every side, ⁴³and level thee, and thy children within thee, and they shall not leave in thee a stone upon a stone, because thou knewest not the time of thy visitation.

⁴⁴And having entered into the temple, he began to cast out those selling in it, and those buying, ⁴⁵saying to them, It hath been written, My house is a house of prayer, but ye made it a den of robbers.

⁴⁶And he was teaching daily in the temple, but the chief priests and the scribes were seeking to destroy him—also the chief of the people: ⁴⁷and they were not finding what they shall do, for all the people were hanging on him, hearing him.

⁴⁸XX. AND it came to pass, on one of those days, as he is teaching the people in the temple, and proclaiming the good news, the chief priests and the scribes, with the elders, stood by him, and spake to him, saying, Tell us by what authority thou doest these things? or who he is who gave to thee this authority?

⁴⁹And he answering said to them, I will question you—I also—one thing, and tell me: The baptism of John, from heaven was it, or from men?

⁵⁰And they reasoned with themselves, saying,—If we may say, From heaven, he will say, Wherefore, then, did ye not believe him? but if we may say, From men, all the people will stone us, for they have been persuaded John to be a prophet.

⁵¹And they answered, that they knew not whence it was, ⁵²and Jesus said to them, Neither do I say to you by what authority I do these things.

⁵³And he began to speak to the people this simile: A certain man planted a vineyard, and let it out to husbandmen, and went abroad for a long time; ⁵⁴and at the due season he sent to the husbandmen a servant, that from the fruit of the vineyard they may give to him, but the husbandmen having beat him, sent him away empty.

⁵⁵And he proceeded to send another servant, and they that one also, having beaten and dishonoured, sent away empty: ⁵⁶and he proceeded to send a third; and this one also, having wounded, they cast out.

⁵⁷And the owner of the vineyard said, What shall I do? I will send my son—the beloved, perhaps having seen this one, they will do reverence; ⁵⁸and having seen him, the husbandmen reasoned among themselves, saying, This is the heir: come, let us kill him, that the inheritance may become ours; ⁵⁹and having cast him outside of the vineyard, they killed him; what, then, shall the owner of the vineyard do to them? ⁶⁰He will come, and destroy these husbandmen, and will give the vineyard to others.

And having heard, they said, Let it not be! ⁶¹and he, having looked upon them said, What, then, is this that hath been written: A stone which the builders rejected—this became head of a corner? ⁶²every one who hath fallen on that stone shall be broken, and on whom it may fall, it will crush him to pieces.

⁶³And the chief priests and the scribes sought to lay hands on him in that hour, and they feared the people, for they knew that against them he spake this simile.

⁶⁴And, having watched him, they sent forth liars in wait, feigning themselves to be righteous, that they might take hold of his word, to deliver him up to the power and to the authority of the governor: ⁶⁵and they questioned him, saying, Teacher, we have known that thou sayest and teachest rightly, and acceptest not person, but in truth the way of God dost teach: ²²Is it lawful for us to give tribute to Caesar or not?

²³But he, having perceived their craftiness, said to them, 'Why me do ye tempt? ²⁴Show me a denary: of whom hath it an image and superscription?' and they answering said, 'Of Caesar.' ²⁵And he said to them, 'Render, therefore, the things of Caesar to Caesar, and the things of God to God.' ²⁶And they were not able to take hold of his saying before the people, and having wondered at his answer, they were silent.

²⁷And certain of the Sadducees, who deny there is a rising again, having come near, questioned him, ²⁸saying, 'Teacher, Moses wrote to us, If any one's brother may die, having a wife, and he may die childless—that his brother take the wife, and raise up seed to his brother.

²⁹There were, then, seven brothers, and the first having taken a wife, died childless: ³⁰and the second took the wife, and he died childless: ³¹and the third took her; and in like manner also the seven—they left no children, and they died: ³²and afterward died also the woman: ³³in the rising again, then, of which of them is she wife?—for the seven had her as wife.'

³⁴And Jesus answering said to them, 'The sons of this age marry and are given in marriage: ³⁵but those accounted worthy to obtain that age, and the rising again of the dead, neither marry, nor are given in marriage: ³⁶for neither are they able to die any more, (for they are like messengers,) and are sons of God, being sons of the rising again.

³⁷But that the dead are raised, even Moses shewed at the bush, since he calleth the Lord, the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob: ³⁸but He is not a God of dead men, but of living, for all live to Him.'

³⁹And certain of the scribes answering said, 'Teacher, thou hast well said.' ⁴⁰and no more durst they question him anything.

⁴¹And he said to them, 'How do they say the Christ to be the son of David, ⁴²and David himself saith in the Book of Psalms, The Lord said to my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, ⁴³till I shall make thine enemies thy footstool: ⁴⁴David, then, calleth him lord, and how is he his son?

⁴⁵And, all the people hearing, he said to his disciples, ⁴⁶'Take heed of the scribes, who are wishing to walk in long robes, and are loving salutations in the markets, and first seats in the synagogues, and first couches at the suppers: ⁴⁷who devour the houses of the widows, and for a pretence pray long: these shall receive more abundant judgment.'

XXI. ¹And having looked up, he saw those who put their offerings into the treasury—rich men: ²and he saw also a certain poor widow putting there two mites: ³and he said, 'Truly I say to you, that this poor widow put in more than all: ⁴for all these out of their superabundance put in gifts to God, but this one out of her want, all the living that she had, did put in.'

⁵And certain saying about the temple, that with goodly stones and offerings it hath been adorned, he said, ⁶'These things which ye behold! days will come, in which there shall not be left a stone upon a stone, that shall not be thrown down.'

⁷And they questioned him, saying, 'Teacher, when, then, shall these things be? and what the sign when these things may be about to come to pass?

⁸And he said, 'See—ye may not be led astray, for many shall come in my name, saying—I am he, and the time hath come near; go not then after them; ⁹but when ye shall hear of wars and tumults, be not terrified: for it behoveth these things to come to pass first, but the end is not immediately.'

¹⁰Then said he to them, 'Nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom, ¹¹and great shakings in every place, and famines, and pestilences, shall there be; fearful things also, and great signs from heaven shall there be; ¹²but before all these, they shall lay on you their hands, and persecute, delivering up to synagogues and prisons, being brought before kings and governors for my name's sake: ¹³but it shall turn out to you for a testimony.

¹⁴Settle it, then, in your hearts, not to meditate before hand to make a defence, ¹⁵for I will give to you a mouth and wisdom which all your opposers shall not be able to gainsay nor resist.

¹⁶And ye shall be delivered up both by parents, and brothers, and kindred, and friends, and they shall put some of you to death: ¹⁷and ye shall be hated by all for my name's sake—¹⁸and a hair of your head shall not perish: ¹⁹in your patience possess your souls.

²⁰And when ye shall see Jerusalem surrounded by an encampment, then know that come near hath her desolation: ²¹then those in Judea, let them flee to the mountains; and those in her midst, let them depart out; and those in the countries, let them not enter into her: ²²for these are days of vengeance, for the fulfilling of all things that have been written.

²³But wo to those with child, and to those giving suck—in those days: for there shall be great distress on the land, and wrath on this people: ²⁴and they shall fall by the mouth of the sword, and shall be led captive into all the nations, and Jerusalem shall be trodden down by the nations, till the times of the nations be fulfilled.

²⁵And there shall be signs in sun, and moon, and stars, and on the land distress of nations with perplexity, sea and billow roaring: ²⁶men fainting at heart from fear, and looking for the things coming on the world, for the powers of the heavens shall be shaken.

²⁷And then shall they see the Son of Man, coming in a cloud, with power and much glory: ²⁸and these things beginning to come to pass, look up, and lift up your heads, for your redemption draweth near.'

29 And he spake a simile to them: 'See the fig-tree, and all the trees, 30 when they shall now shoot forth, having seen of yourselves ye know that now is the summer near: 31 so also ye, when ye see these things coming to pass, know that now is the reign of God: 32 verily I say to you, This generation may not pass away till all shall have come to pass: 33 the heaven and the earth shall pass away, but my words may not pass away.'

34 And take heed to yourselves, lest perhaps your hearts shall be weighed down with surfeiting, and drunkenness, and cares of life, and suddenly that day may come on you, 35 for as a snare shall it come on all those dwelling on the face of all the land: 36 watch ye, then, at every season, praying that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things which are about to come to pass, and to stand before the Son of Man.'

37 And he was during the day in the temple teaching, and during the nights, going out, he was lodging on the mount that is called olives: 38 and all the people were coming early to him in the temple to hear him.

XXII. 1 AND the feast of the unleavened food was coming near, which is called Passover: 2 and the chief priests and the scribes were seeking how they shall kill him, for they were afraid of the people.

3 And the Adversary entered into Judas, who is surnamed Iscariot, being of the number of the twelve: 4 and he, having gone away, spake with the chief priests and the magistrates, how he might deliver him up to them: 5 and they rejoiced, and covenanted to give him money: 6 and he agreed, and was seeking a favourable season to deliver him up to them apart from the multitude.

7 And the day of the unleavened food came, in which it becometh the passover to be sacrificed: 8 and he sent Peter and John, saying, 'Having proceeded, prepare for us the passover, that we may eat: 9 and they said to him, 'Where wilt thou that we may prepare?'

10 And he said to them, 'Lo, on your entering into the city, there shalt meet you a man, bearing a pitcher of water, follow him into the house where he goeth in: 11 and ye shall say to the master of the house, The Teacher saith to thee, Where is the guest-chamber where the passover with my disciples I may eat? 12 and he shall show you a large upper room furnished, there make ready: 13 and they having gone away, found as he had said to them, and they made ready the passover.'

14 And when the hour was come, he reclined (at meat), and the twelve apostles with him: 15 and he said to them, 'With desire I desired to eat this passover with you before my suffering: 16 for I say to you, that no more may I eat of it till the time that it may be fulfilled in the reign of God.'

17 And having taken a cup, having given thanks, he said, 'Take this and divide it among yourselves: 18 for I say to you that I will not drink of the produce of the vine till the reign of God may come.'

19 And having taken bread, having given thanks, he brake and gave to them, saying, 'This is my body, which for you is being given: this do in remembrance of me.'

20 In like manner, also, the cup after the supper, saying, 'This cup is the new covenant in my blood, which for you is being poured out.'

21 'But, lo, the hand of him who is delivering me up is with me on the table: 22 and indeed the Son of Man goeth according to what was determined: but woe to that man by whom he is being delivered up.'

23 And they began to reason among themselves, who then of them it might be, who is about to do this thing: 24 and there was also a strife among them—who of them is accounted to be greatest.

25 And he said to them, 'The kings of the nations exercise lordship over them, and those exercising authority upon them are called benefactors: 26 but ye are not so; but he who is greatest among you—let him be as the younger: and he who is leading, as he who is ministering: 27 for who is greater? he who is reclining (at meat), or he who is ministering? is it not he who is reclining (at meat), and I am in your midst as he who is ministering.'

28 And ye are those who have remained with me in my temptations: 29 and I appoint to you, as my Father appointed to me, a kingdom, 30 that ye may eat and drink at my table, in my kingdom, and sit on thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.'

31 And the Lord said, 'Simon, Simon, lo, the Adversary asked you for himself to sit as the wheat. 32 but I besought for thee, that thy faith may not fail: and thou, when thou hast turned, strengthen thy brethren.'

33 And he said to him, 'Sir, with thee I am ready both into prison and to death to go: 34 and he said, 'I say to thee, Peter, a cock shall not crow to-day before thrice thou mayest disown knowing me.'

35 And he said to them, 'When I sent you without bag, and scrip, and sandals, lacked ye anything? and they said, 'Nothing.'

36 Then said he to them, 'But, now, he who hath a bag let him take it up, and in like manner a scrip: and he who hath not, let him sell his garment, and buy a sword: 37 for I say to you, that yet this that hath been written it becometh to be fulfilled in me. And with lawless ones he was reckoned: for even the things concerning me have an end.'

38 And they said, 'Sir, lo, here are two swords: and he said to them, 'It is sufficient.'

39 And having gone out, he proceeded, according to custom, to the mount of the olives: and his disciples also followed him, 40 and having come to the place, he said to them, 'Pray ye not to enter into temptation.' 41 And he was withdrawn from them as it were a stone's cast, and falling on the knees he was praying, 42 saying, 'Father, if Thou be willing to remove this cup from me: but, not my will, but Thine be done.'

43 And there appeared to him a messenger from heaven strengthening him: ⁴⁴and having been in agony, he was more earnestly praying, and his sweat became, as it were, great drops of blood falling to the ground.

⁴⁵And having risen up from the prayer, having come to the disciples, he found them sleeping because of the sorrow, ⁴⁶and he said to them, 'Why sleep ye? having risen, pray that ye may not enter into temptation.'

⁴⁷And while he is yet speaking, lo, a multitude, and he who is called Judas, one of the twelve, was going before them, and he came near to Jesus to kiss him; ⁴⁸but Jesus said to him, 'Judas, with a kiss the Son of Man art thou delivering up?'

⁴⁹And those about him having seen what was about to be, said to him, 'Sir, shall we smite with the sword?' ⁵⁰and a certain one of them smote the servant of the chief priest, and took off his right ear; ⁵¹and Jesus answering said, 'Suffer ye thus far:' and having touched his ear, he healed him.

⁵²Then Jesus said to those coming up against him—chief priests, and magistrates of the temple, and elders—'As against a robber have ye come out, with swords and sticks? ⁵³daily, while I was with you in the temple, ye stretched forth no hand against me; but this is your hour, and the power of darkness.' ⁵⁴And having taken him, they led and brought him into the house of the chief priest.

And Peter was following afar off, ⁵⁵and they having kindled a fire in the midst of the court, and having sat down together, Peter was sitting in their midst, ⁵⁶but a certain maid having seen him sitting at the light, and having earnestly looked at him, said, 'And this one was with him!' ⁵⁷and he disowned him, saying, 'Woman, I do not know him.'

⁵⁸And after a little, another having seen him, said, 'And thou art of them:' and Peter said, 'Man, I am not.'

⁵⁹And one hour, as it were, having intervened, another was confidently affirming, saying, 'Of a truth this one also was with him, for he also is a Galilean:' ⁶⁰and Peter said, 'Man, I do not know what thou sayest:' and presently, while he is yet speaking, the cock crew.

⁶¹And the Lord having turned, looked on Peter, and Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how he said to him, 'Before a cock shall crow, thou mayest disown me thrice:' ⁶²and Peter having gone out without, wept bitterly.

⁶³And the men who were holding Jesus were mocking him, beating him; ⁶⁴and having blindfolded him, they were striking him on the face, and were questioning him, saying, 'Divine who he is who smote thee?' ⁶⁵and many other things speaking evilly they spake against him.

⁶⁶And when it became day, there was gathered together the eldership of the people, chief priests also, and scribes, and they led him up into their sanhedrim, ⁶⁷saying, 'If thou art the Christ, tell us.'

And he said to them, 'If I should tell you, ye will not believe; ⁶⁸and if I also question you, ye will not answer me, or let me go: ⁶⁹henceforth shall the Son of Man be sitting on the right hand of the power of God.'

⁷⁰And they all said, 'Thou, then, art the Son of God?' and he said to them, 'Ye say it, for I am:' ⁷¹and they said, 'What need yet have we of testimony? for we ourselves heard it from his mouth.'

XXIII. ¹AND having risen, the whole multitude of them led him to Pilate, ²and began to accuse him, saying, 'This one we found perverting the nation, and hindering the giving of tribute to Cesar, saying himself to be Christ a king.'

³And Pilate questioned him, saying, 'Thou art the king of the Jews?' and he answering him, said, 'Thou sayest it.'

⁴And Pilate said to the chief priests, and to the multitude, 'I find no fault in this man:' ⁵but they were the more urgent, saying—'He stirreth up the people, teaching throughout the whole of Judea—having begun from Galilee—unto this place.'

⁶And Pilate having heard of Galilee, questioned if the man is a Galilean; ⁷and having known that he is from the jurisdiction of Herod, he sent him up to Herod, he being also in Jerusalem in those days.

⁸And Herod having seen Jesus, rejoiced exceedingly, for he was wishing for a long time to see him, because of hearing of many things about him, and was hoping to see some sign done by him: ⁹and he was questioning him in many words, but he answered him nothing.

¹⁰And the chief priests and the scribes stood vehemently accusing him; ¹¹and Herod, with his soldiers, having set him at nought, and having mocked, having put around him gorgeous apparel, sent him back to Pilate; ¹²and both Pilate and Herod became friends on that day with one another, for they were before at enmity between themselves.

¹³And Pilate having called together the chief priests, and the rulers, and the people, ¹⁴said to them, 'Ye brought to me this man as perverting the people, and lo, I in your presence having examined, in this man found no fault, in those things ye bring forward against him: ¹⁵no, nor yet Herod: for I sent you to him, and lo, nothing worthy of death hath been done by him; ¹⁶therefore, having chastised, I will release him.'

¹⁷For it behoveth him to release to them one at every feast; ¹⁸and they cried out, the whole multitude, saying, 'Away with this one, but release to us Barabbas,' ¹⁹who had been, for a certain sedition made in the city, and murder, cast into prison.

²⁰Pilate, then, (willing to release Jesus,) again called out to them, ²¹but they were calling out, saying, 'Crucify, crucify him.'

²²And he a third time said to them, 'Why, what evil did he? no cause of death did I find in him; having chastised him, then, I will release him.'

²³And they were pressing with loud voices, asking him to be crucified; and their voices, and those of the chief priests, were prevailing, ²⁴and Pilate gave judgment for their request being done, ²⁴and released him who for sedition and murder hath been cast into the prison, whom they were asking, and Jesus he gave up to their will.

²⁵And as they led him away, having taken hold of Simon, a certain Cyrenian, coming out from the country, they put on him the cross, to bear it behind Jesus.

²⁷And there was following him a great multitude of the people, and of women, who also were bewailing and lamenting him: ²⁸but Jesus having turned to them, said, 'Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me, but for yourselves weep ye, and for your children: ²⁹for, lo, days are coming, in which they shall say, Happy the barren, and wombs which bear not, and paps which gave not suck: ³⁰then shall they begin to say to the mountains, Fall on us, and to the hills, Cover us:—³¹for, if in the green tree they do these things—in the dry what may be done?' ³²And there were led also other two—evil-doers—with him, to be put to death: ³³and when they came to the place, which is called Skull, there they crucified him and the evil-doers, one on the right hand, and one on the left.

³⁴And Jesus said, 'Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do:' and parting his garments they cast lots.

³⁵And the people were standing, looking on, and the rulers also were scoffing with them, saying, 'Others he saved, let him save himself; if he is the Christ, the chosen of God.'

³⁶And the soldiers also were mocking him, coming near and offering vinegar to him, ³⁷and saying, 'If thou art the king of the Jews, save thyself.'

³⁸And there was also a superscription written over him, in letters of Greek, and Roman, and Hebrew: 'This is the King of the Jews.'

³⁹And one of the evil-doers who were being hanged, was speaking evil of him, saying, 'If thou art the Christ, save thyself and us.' ⁴⁰But the other answering, was rebuking him, saying, 'Dost thou not at all fear God, seeing thou art in the same judgment? ⁴¹and we indeed righteously, for things worthy of what we did we receive back, but this one did nothing out of place:' ⁴²and he said to Jesus, 'Remember me, Lord, when thou comest in thy reign:' ⁴³and Jesus said to him, 'Verily I say to thee, To-day with me thou shalt be in the paradise.'

⁴⁴And it was, as it were, the sixth hour, and darkness came over all the land till the ninth hour: ⁴⁵and the sun was darkened, and the vail of the temple was rent in the midst: ⁴⁶and having cried with a loud voice, Jesus said, 'Father, into Thy hands I commit my spirit;' and these things having said, he breathed out the spirit.

⁴⁷And the centurion having seen what was done, glorified God, saying, 'Really this man was righteous;' ⁴⁸and all the multitudes who were come together to this sight, beholding those things which came to pass, smiting their breasts, turned back: ⁴⁹and all his acquaintances stood afar off, and women who followed him from Galilee, beholding these things.

⁵⁰And, lo, a man, Joseph by name, being a counsellor, a man good and righteous, ⁵¹(he was not consenting to their counsel and deed), of Arimathea, a city of the Jews, who also himself was expecting the reign of God, ⁵²he, having gone up to Pilate, asked the body of Jesus, ⁵³and having taken it down, he wrapped it in fine linen, and placed it in a tomb hewn out, where no one was yet laid.

⁵⁴And the day was the preparation, and the sabbath was approaching, ⁵⁵and the women also who had come with him out of Galilee having followed, beheld the tomb, and how his body was placed: ⁵⁶and having turned back, they made ready spices and ointments, and on the sabbath indeed they rested, according to the command.

XXIV. ¹BUT on the first of the sabbaths, at early dawn, they came to the tomb, bearing the spices they had made ready, and certain others with them, ²and they found the stone rolled away from the tomb: ³and having gone in, they found not the body of the Lord Jesus.

⁴And it came to pass, while they are perplexed about this, that, lo, two men stood by them in glittering apparel: ⁵and on their having become afraid, and having inclined the face to the earth, they said to them, 'Why seek ye the living with the dead? ⁶he is not here, but was raised: remember how he spake to you, being yet in Galilee, ⁷saying—It behoveth the Son of Man to be delivered up into the hands of sinful men, and to be crucified, and the third day to rise again.'

⁸And they remembered his sayings, ⁹and having turned back from the tomb, told all these things to the eleven, and to all the rest.

¹⁰And it was the Magdalene Mary, and Joanna, and Mary mother of James, and the other women with them, who told to the apostles these things: ¹¹and their sayings appeared to them as idle talk, and they were not believing them.

¹²And Peter having risen, ran to the tomb, and having stooped down, seeth the linen clothes lying alone, and went away, wondering in himself at that which was come to pass.

¹³And, lo, two of them were proceeding on that day to a village, distant sixty furlongs from Jerusalem, the name of which is Emmaus, ¹⁴and they were conversing one with another about all these things which had happened.

¹⁵And it came to pass, while they are conversing and reasoning together, that Jesus himself, having come near, was going on with them, ¹⁶but their eyes were hidden that they did not know him, ¹⁷and he said to them, 'What are these words which ye exchange one with another, walking, and ye are sad?' ¹⁸And the one, whose name was Cleopas, answering, said to him, 'Art thou alone such a stranger in Jerusalem, that thou hast not known the things which came to pass in it in these days?' ¹⁹ And he said to them, 'What things?'

And they said to him, 'The things about Jesus of Nazareth, who became a prophet, powerful in deed and word, before God and all the people; ²⁰ and how the chief priests and our rulers delivered him up to the judgment of death, and crucified him; ²¹ but we were hoping that he it is who is about to redeem Israel, but yet with all these things, this third day is passing to-day, since these things came to pass.'

²² But certain women of ours also astonished us, being early at the tomb, ²³ and not finding his body, they came, saying also to have seen an apparition of messengers, who say he is living; ²⁴ and certain of those with us went away to the tomb, and found even as the women said, but him they saw not.'

²⁵ And he said to them, 'O thoughtless and slow in heart to believe all that the prophets spake! ²⁶ Did it not behove the Christ these things to suffer, and to enter into his glory?' ²⁷ and having begun from Moses, and from all the prophets, he expounded to them in all the writings the things about himself.

²⁸ And they came near to the village whither they were proceeding, and he made an appearance of proceeding further, ²⁹ and they constrained him, saying, 'Remain with us, for it is toward evening, and the day hath declined;' and he went in to remain with them.

³⁰ And it came to pass, while he is reclining (at meat), with them, having taken the bread, he blessed, and having broken, was giving to them; ³¹ and their eyes were opened, and they knew him, and he became unseen by them.

³² And they said one to another, 'Was not our heart burning within us, as he was speaking to us in the way, and as he was opening up to us the writings?'

³³ And they, having risen up the same hour, turned back to Jerusalem, and found gathered together the eleven, and those with them, ³⁴ saying that, 'The Lord was really raised, and was seen by Simon;' ³⁵ and those were telling the things in the way, and how he was made known to them in the breaking of the bread; ³⁶ and as they are speaking these things, Jesus himself stood in their midst, and saith to them, 'Peace to you;' ³⁷ but being amazed, and affrighted, they were thinking themselves to see a spirit.

³⁸ And he said to them, 'Why are ye troubled? and wherefore do reasonings come up in your hearts? ³⁹ see my hands and my feet, that it is I myself: handle me and see, for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me having.'

⁴⁰ And having said this, he shewed to them the hands and feet: ⁴¹ and while they are still disbelieving from joy, and wondering, he said to them, 'Have ye anything here to eat?' ⁴² and they gave to him part of a broiled fish, and of an honey-comb; ⁴³ and having taken, he ate before them: ⁴⁴ and he said to them, 'These are the words which I spake to you, being yet with you, that it behoveth all the things written in the law of Moses, and the Prophets, and the Psalms, about me—to be fulfilled.'

⁴⁵ Then opened he up their understanding to understand the writings, ⁴⁶ and said to them—'Thus it hath been written, and thus it behoveth the Christ to suffer, and to rise from the dead the third day, ⁴⁷ and reformation and remission of sins to be proclaimed in his name to all the nations, beginning from Jerusalem: ⁴⁸ and ye—ye are witnesses of these things.'

⁴⁹ And, lo, I send the promise of my Father on you, but ye—abide ye in the city of Jerusalem till ye be clothed with power from on high.'

⁵⁰ And he led them forth without, even to Bethany; and having lifted up his hands he blessed them; ⁵¹ and it came to pass, while he is blessing them, he was parted from them, and was borne up into the heaven; ⁵² and they, having bowed before him, turned back to Jerusalem with great joy, ⁵³ and were always in the temple, praising and blessing God. Amen.

CHAP. I. ¹IN the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God; ²this one was in the beginning with God; ³all things through him were made, and without him was made not even one thing which was made.

⁴In him was life, and the life was the light of men, ⁵and the light in the darkness shineth, and the darkness comprehended it not.

⁶There came a man, sent from God, whose name is John; ⁷he came for testimony, that he might testify about the Light, that all might believe through him; ⁸that one was not the Light, but—that he might testify about the Light.

⁹That was the true Light, which, enlighteneth every man, coming into the world; ¹⁰in the world he was, and the world through him was made, and the world knew him not: ¹¹to his own things he came, and his own people received him not; ¹²but as many as received him, he gave to them power to become sons of God; to those believing in his name, ¹³who, not of blood, nor of the will of flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God—were begotten.

¹⁴And the Word became flesh, and tabernacled among us, and we beheld his glory, glory as of an only begotten of a father, full of grace and truth.

¹⁵John testified concerning him, and hath cried, saying, 'This was he of whom I said, He who after me is coming, hath come before me, for he was before me;' ¹⁶and out of his fulness we all received, and grace over-against grace: ¹⁷for the law through Moses was given, the grace and the truth through Jesus Christ came: ¹⁸God no one hath ever seen; the only begotten Son, who is in the bosom of the Father—he declared.

¹⁹And this is the testimony of John, when the Jews sent from Jerusalem priests and Levites, that they might question him, 'Who art thou?' ²⁰and he confessed, and denied not, and confessed, 'I am not the Christ.'

²¹And they questioned him, 'What, then? Elijah art thou?' and he saith, 'I am not, —' 'The prophet thou?' and he answered, 'No.'

²²They said then to him, 'Who art thou, that we mayest give an answer to those who sent us? What sayest thou concerning thyself?' ²³He said, 'I am a voice of one crying in the wilderness: Make straight the way of the Lord, as Isaiah the prophet said.'

²⁴And those sent were of the Pharisees, ²⁵and they questioned him, and said to him, 'Why, then, baptizest thou, if thou art not the Christ, nor the prophet?'

²⁶John answered them, saying, 'I baptize with water, but in midst of you he hath stood whom ye have not known, this one it is who is coming after me, who was before me, ²⁷of whom I am not worthy that I may loose the cord of his sandal.'

²⁸These things came to pass in Bethabara, beyond the Jordan, where John was baptizing: ²⁹on the morrow he seeth Jesus coming to him, and saith, 'Lo, the Lamb of God, who is taking away the sin of the world: ³⁰this is he concerning whom I said, After me cometh a man, who hath come before me, for he was before me: ³¹and I knew him not, but, that he might be manifested to Israel, therefore came I with the water baptizing.'

³²And John testified, saying, 'I have seen the Spirit coming down, as a dove, out of heaven, and it remained on him: ³³and I knew him not, but He who sent me to baptize with water, He said to me, On whomsoever thou shalt see the Spirit coming down, and remaining on him, this is he who is baptizing with the Holy Spirit: ³⁴and I have seen, and have testified, that this is the Son of God.'

³⁵On the morrow again, John was standing, and two of his disciples, ³⁶and having looked on Jesus walking, he saith, 'Lo, the Lamb of God:' ³⁷and the two disciples heard him speaking, and followed Jesus.

³⁸And Jesus having turned, and beheld them following, saith to them, 'What seek ye?' and they said to them, 'Rabbi, (which is, being interpreted, Teacher,) where remainest thou?' ³⁹He saith to them, 'Come and see;' they came, and saw where he remaineth, and with him they remained that day: and the hour was about the tenth.

⁴⁰Andrew, the brother of Simon Peter, was one of the two who heard from John, and followed him: ⁴¹this one first findeth his own brother Simon, and saith to him, 'We have found the Messiah,' (which is, being interpreted, The Anointed.) ⁴²and brought him to Jesus; and having looked on him, Jesus saith, 'Thou art Simon, the son of Jonah, thou shalt be called Cephas,' (which is, being interpreted, A rock.)

⁴³On the morrow, he wished to go forth into Galilee, and findeth Philip, and saith to him, 'Follow me.'

⁴⁴And Philip was from Bethsaida, of the city of Andrew and Peter: ⁴⁵Philip findeth Nathanael, and saith to him, 'Him of whom Moses wrote in the law, and the prophets, we have found, Jesus the son of Joseph, who is from Nazareth:' ⁴⁶and Nathanael said to him, 'Out of Nazareth is any good thing able to be?' Philip said to him, 'Come and see.'

⁴⁷Jesus saw Nathanael coming to him, and saith concerning him, 'Lo, truly an Israelite, in whom guile is not: ⁴⁸Nathanael saith to him, 'Whence me dost thou know?' Jesus answered and said to him, 'Before Philip's calling thee—thou, being under the fig-tree—I saw thee.' ⁴⁹Nathanael answered and saith to him, 'Rabbi, thou art the Son of God, thou art the king of Israel.'

⁵⁰ Jesus answered and said to him, 'Because I said to thee I saw thee under the fig-tree, thou believest: greater things than these shalt thou see.' ⁵¹ and he saith to him, 'Verily, verily, I say to you, henceforth ye shall see the heaven opened, and the messengers of God ascending and descending on the Son of Man.'

II. ¹ AND the third day a marriage happened in Cana of Galilee, and the mother of Jesus was there: ² and both Jesus was called and his disciples to the marriage: ³ and the wine having failed, the mother of Jesus saith to him, 'Wine they have not.' ⁴ Jesus saith to her, 'What—to me and to thee, woman? mine hour is not yet come.' ⁵ His mother saith to those ministering, 'Whatever he may say to you, do.'

⁶ And there were there six water-jugs of stone, placed according to the purifying of the Jews, holding each two or three measures. ⁷ Jesus saith to them, 'Fill the water-jugs with water;' and they filled them unto the brim: ⁸ and he saith to them, 'Draw out, now, and bear to the director of the feast;' and they bore.

⁹ And as the director of the feast tasted the water become wine, and had not known whence it is, (but those ministering knew, who had drawn the water,) the director of the feast calleth the bridegroom, ¹⁰ and saith to him, 'Every man, at first, the good wine setteth forth; and when they may have drunk freely, then the inferior; thou hast kept the good wine till now.'

¹¹ This beginning of the signs did Jesus in Cana of Galilee, and manifested his glory, and his disciples believed in him; ¹² after this he went down to Capernaum, himself, and his mother, and his brethren, and his disciples; and there they remained not many days.

¹³ And the passover of the Jews was near, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem, ¹⁴ and found in the temple those selling oxen, and sheep, and doves, and the money-changers sitting; ¹⁵ and having made a whip of small cords, he put all out from the temple, both the sheep and the oxen; and of the money-changers he poured out the coins, and the tables overthrew; ¹⁶ and to those selling the doves he said, 'Take these things hence; make not the house of my Father a house of merchandise.'

¹⁷ And his disciples remembered that it is written, 'The zeal of thine house did eat me up;' ¹⁸ the Jews then answered and said to him, 'What sign shewest thou to us—that thou doest these things?' ¹⁹ Jesus answered and said to them, 'Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up.'

²⁰ The Jews, therefore, said, 'Forty and six years was this temple in building, and wilt thou in three days raise it up?' ²¹ but he spake concerning the temple of his body; ²² when, then, he was raised from the dead, his disciples remembered that he said this to them, and they believed the writing, and the word which Jesus said.

²³ And as he was in Jerusalem, during the passover, during the feast, many believed in his name, beholding his signs which he was doing: ²⁴ but Jesus himself was not trusting to them because of his knowing all men, ²⁵ and because he had no need that any should testify concerning man, for he himself was knowing what was in man.

III. ¹ AND there was a man of the Pharisees, Nicodemus his name, a ruler of the Jews, ² this one came to him by night, and said to him, 'Rabbi, we have known that from God thou hast come—a teacher, for no one these signs is able to do which thou doest, if God be not with him.'

³ Jesus answered and said to him, 'Verily, verily, I say to thee, if any one be not born from above, he is unable to see the reign of God:' ⁴ Nicodemus saith to him, 'How is a man able to be born, being old? is he able into the womb of his mother a second time to enter, and to be born?'

⁵ Jesus answered, 'Verily, verily, I say to thee, if any one be not born of water, and the Spirit, he is not able to enter into the reign of God: ⁶ that which hath been born of the flesh is flesh, and that which hath been born of the Spirit is spirit.'

⁷ 'Thou mayest not wonder that I said to thee, It behoveth you to be born from above: ⁸ the Spirit where he willeth doth breathe, and his voice thou hearest, but thou hast not known whence he cometh, and whither he goeth: thus is every one who is born of the Spirit.'

⁹ Nicodemus answered and said to him, 'How are these things able to be?' ¹⁰ Jesus answered and said to him, 'Thou art the teacher of Israel, and these things thou knowest not!'

¹¹ 'Verily, verily, I say to thee, What we have known we speak, and what we have seen we testify, and our testimony ye receive not: ¹² if the earthly things I said to you, and ye believe not, how, if I say to you the heavenly things, will ye believe? ¹³ and no one hath gone up into the heaven, except he who out of the heaven came down—the Son of Man who is in the heaven.'

¹⁴ 'And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, so it behoveth the Son of Man to be lifted up, ¹⁵ that every one who believeth in him may not perish, but may have life age-during, ¹⁶ for God so loved the world, that His Son—the only begotten—He gave, that every one who believeth in him may not perish, but may have life age-during.'

¹⁷ 'For God sent not His Son into the world that he may judge the world, but that the world may be saved through him: ¹⁸ he who believeth in him is not judged, but he who believeth not hath been judged already; because he hath not believed in the name of the only begotten Son of God.'

¹⁹ 'And this is the judgment, that the light hath come into the world, and men loved the darkness rather than the light, for their works were evil; ²⁰ for every one who doeth wicked things hateth the light, and cometh not to the light, that his works may not be detected; ²¹ but he who doeth the truth cometh to the light, that his works may be manifested, that in God they have been wrought.

²² After these things came Jesus and his disciples into the land of Judea, and there he tarried with them, and was baptizing: ²³ but John also was baptizing in Enon, near to Salim, because there were many waters there, and they were coming and being baptized, ²⁴ for John was not yet cast into prison: ²⁵ there arose then a question between the disciples of John with some Jews about purifying, ²⁶ and they came to John, and said to him, 'Rabbi, he who was with thee beyond the Jordan, to whom thou hast testified, lo, this one is baptizing, and all are coming to him.'

²⁷ John answered and said, 'A man is not able to receive anything, if it may not have been given him from the heaven: ²⁸ ye yourselves testify to me that I said, I am not the Christ, but, that I have been sent before him: ²⁹ he who hath the bride is bridegroom, but the friend of the bridegroom, who is standing and hearing him, with joy rejoiceth because of the voice of the bridegroom: this then my joy hath been fulfilled.'

³² 'And what he hath seen and heard this he testifieth, and his testimony none receiveth: ³³ he who received his testimony hath sealed that God is true: ³⁴ for he whom God sent, the words of God speaketh; for not by measure doth God give the Spirit: ³⁵ the Father loveth the Son, and all things hath given into his hand: ³⁶ he who is believing in the Son, hath life age-during; but he who is not believing the Son, shall not see life, but the wrath of God remaineth on him.'

IV. ¹ WHEN therefore the Lord knew that the Pharisees heard that Jesus more disciples maketh and baptizeth than John, ² though indeed Jesus himself was not baptizing, but his disciples, ³ he left Judea, and went away again into Galilee, ⁴ and it becometh him to go through Samaria.

⁵ He cometh, therefore, to a city of Samaria, called Sychar, near to the piece of ground which Jacob gave to Joseph his son: ⁶ and there was there the well of Jacob. Jesus therefore, having become weary from the journeying, was sitting thus on the well: it was as it were the sixth hour: ⁷ there cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water.

Jesus saith to her, 'Give me to drink:' ⁸ for his disciples were gone away into the city, that they might buy victuals: ⁹ the Samaritan woman therefore saith to him, 'How dost thou, being a Jew, ask drink from me, being a Samaritan woman?' for Jews have no dealings with Samaritans.

¹⁰ Jesus answered and said to her, 'If thou hadst known the gift of God, and who it is who is saying to thee, Give me to drink, thou wouldest have asked him, and he would have given thee living water.'

¹¹ The woman saith to him, 'Sir, thou hast not a vessel to draw with, and the well is deep: whence, then, hast thou the living water? ¹² Art thou greater than our father Jacob, who gave us the well, and himself out of it did drink, and his sons, and his cattle?'

¹³ Jesus answered and said to her, 'Every one who drinketh of this water will thirst again: ¹⁴ but whoever may drink of the water which I will give him, shall not thirst for ever; but the water which I will give him shall become in him a well of water, springing up into life age-during.'

¹⁵ The woman saith to him, 'Sir, give me this water, that I may not thirst, nor come hither to draw.' ¹⁶ Jesus saith to her, 'Go, call thy husband, and come hither:' ¹⁷ the woman answered and said, 'I have not a husband.'

Jesus saith to her, 'Well didst thou say. A husband I have not: ¹⁸ for five husbands thou hast had, and, now, he whom thou hast is not thy husband: this hast thou said truly.'

¹⁹ The woman saith to him, 'Sir, I perceive that thou art a prophet: ²⁰ our fathers in this mountain worshipped, and ye say that in Jerusalem is the place where it becometh us to worship.'

²¹ Jesus saith to her, 'Woman, believe me, that there is coming an hour, when neither in this mountain, nor in Jerusalem, will you worship the Father: ²² ye worship what ye know not: we worship what we know; because salvation is of the Jews: ²³ but, there is coming an hour, and it now is, when the true worshippers will worship the Father in spirit and truth, for the Father also seeketh such to worship him: ²⁴ God is a Spirit, and those worshipping Him, in spirit and truth it becometh to worship.'

²⁵ The woman saith to him, 'I have known that Messiah cometh, who is called Christ: when that one may come, he will tell us all things:' ²⁶ Jesus saith to her, 'I am he who am speaking to thee.'

²⁷ And upon this came his disciples, and wondered that with a woman he was speaking: no one, however, said, 'What seekest thou?' or 'Why speakest thou with her?'

²⁸ The woman then left her water-jug, and went away into the city, and saith to the men, ²⁹ 'Come, see a man, who told me all things—whatever I did: is this the Christ?' ³⁰ They went forth therefore out of the city, and were coming to him.

³¹ And in the meanwhile his disciples were asking him, saying, 'Rabbi, eat:' ³² but he said to them, 'I have food to eat which ye know not.' ³³ The disciples then said to one another, 'Did any one bring him anything to eat?' ³⁴ Jesus saith to them, 'My food is, that I may do the will of Him who sent me, and finish His work: ³⁵ do ye not say that it is yet four months, and the harvest cometh? Lo, I say to you, Lift up your eyes, and see the fields, that they are white to harvest already.'

³⁶ 'And he who is reaping receiveth a reward, and gathereth fruit to life age-during:

that both he who is sowing and he who is reaping may rejoice together; ³⁷ for in this the true saying is, that One is the sower, and another the reaper. ³⁸ I sent you to reap that on which ye have not laboured; others have laboured, and ye into their labour have entered.'

³⁹ And many of the Samaritans of that city believed in him because of the word of the woman testifying. 'He told me all things—as many as I did.' ⁴⁰ When, then, the Samaritans came to him, they were asking him to remain with them, and he remained there two days: ⁴¹ and many more believed because of his word, ⁴² and said to the woman, 'No more because of thy speaking do we believe; for we ourselves have heard, and we have known that this is truly the Saviour of the world—the Christ.'

⁴³ And after the two days he went out thence, and went away into Galilee: ⁴⁴ for Jesus himself testified that a prophet in his own country hath no honour. ⁴⁵ When therefore he came into Galilee, the Galileans received him, having seen all things which he did in Jerusalem during the feast; for they also went to the feast.

⁴⁶ Jesus came, therefore, again into Cana of Galilee, where he made the water wine; and there was a certain courtier, whose son was sailing in Capernaum, ⁴⁷ he, having heard that Jesus is come out of Judea into Galilee, went away to him, and was asking him that he may come down and heal his son, for he was about to die.

⁴⁸ Jesus then said to him, 'If signs and wonders ye see not, ye will not believe.'

⁴⁹ The courtier saith to him, 'Sir, come down before my child die.' ⁵⁰ Jesus saith to him, 'Go; thy son liveth.'

And the man believed the word which Jesus said to him, and was going, ⁵¹ and already, as he is going down, his servants met him, and told, saying, 'Thy child liveth.' ⁵² he inquired then of them the hour in which he became better; and they said to him, 'Yesterday at the seventh hour the fever left him.' ⁵³ Then the father knew that it was in that hour in which Jesus said to him, 'Thy son liveth,' and he himself believed, and his whole house: ⁵⁴ this again a second sign did Jesus, having come out of Judea into Galilee.

V. ¹ AFTER these things there was a feast of the Jews, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem; ² and there is in Jerusalem by the sheep-gate a pool, which is called in Hebrew Bethesda, having five porches: ³ in these were lying a great multitude of the infirm, blind, lame, withered, waiting for the moving of the water: ⁴ for a messenger at a set time was descending to the pool, and troubling the water: the first then going in after the troubling of the water, became whole of whatever sickness he was held.

⁵ And there was a certain man there, being thirty and eight years in feeble health, ⁶ him Jesus having seen lying, and having known that he is already a long time, saith to him, 'Dost thou wish to become whole?'

⁷ The infirm man answered him, 'Sir, I have no man, that, when the water may be troubled, he may put me into the pool, but while I am coming, another goeth down before me.'

⁸ Jesus saith to him, 'Rise, take up thy couch, and walk:' ⁹ and immediately the man became whole, and took up his couch, and was walking: and it was a sabbath on that day; ¹⁰ the Jews then said to him that had been healed, 'It is a sabbath; it is not lawful for thee to take up the couch.'

¹¹ He answered them, 'He who made me whole—that one said to me, Take up thy couch, and walk:' ¹² they questioned him, then, 'Who is the man who said to thee, Take up thy couch, and walk?' ¹³ But he that was healed had not known who he is, for Jesus moved himself away, a multitude being in the place.

¹⁴ After these things, Jesus findeth him in the temple, and said to him, 'Lo, thou hast become whole; sin no more, lest something worse may happen to thee.'

¹⁵ The man went away, and told the Jews that it is Jesus who made him whole; ¹⁶ and because of this were the Jews persecuting Jesus, and seeking to kill him, because these things he was doing on a sabbath.

¹⁷ But Jesus answered them, 'My Father till now worketh, and I work:' ¹⁸ because of this, then, were the Jews seeking the more to kill him, because not only was he breaking the sabbath, but he also called God his own Father, making himself equal to God.

¹⁹ Jesus therefore answered and said to them, 'Verily, verily, I say to you, The Son is not able to do anything of himself, if he may not see the Father doing anything; for whatever things He doeth, these also the Son in like manner doeth; ²⁰ for the Father loveth the Son, and sheweth to him all things which He Himself doeth; and greater works than these He will shew him, that ye may wonder.

²¹ For, as the Father raiseth the dead, and maketh alive, so also the Son maketh alive whom he will: ²² for the Father doth not even judge any one, but all the judgment hath given to the Son, ²³ that all may honour the Son according as they honour the Father; he who is not honouring the Son, honoureth not the Father who sent him.

²⁴ Verily, verily, I say to you—He who is hearing my word, and believing Him who sent me, hath life age-during, and into judgment doth not come, but hath passed out of death into life.

²⁵ Verily, verily, I say to you—There cometh an hour, and it now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God, and those having heard shall live: ²⁶ for, as the Father hath life in Himself, so He gave also to the Son to have life in himself, ²⁷ and power He gave him also to do judgment, because he is Son of Man.

²⁸ Wonder not at this, because there cometh an hour in which all those in the tombs shall hear his voice, and shall come forth; ²⁹ those who did the good things to a rising again of life; but those who practised the evil things to a rising again of judgment.

³⁰ 'I am not able of myself to do anything; according as I hear, I judge, and my judgment is righteous, because I seek not my own will, but the will of the Father who sent me.'

³¹ 'If I testify concerning myself, my testimony is not true; ³² another there is who is testifying concerning me, and I have known that the testimony which he testifieth concerning me is true: ³³ ye have sent to John, and he hath testified to the truth.'

³⁴ 'But I receive not testimony from man, but these things I say that ye may be saved; ³⁵ he was the burning and shining lamp, and ye were willing to be glad, for an hour, in his light.'

³⁶ 'But I have testimony greater than John's, for the works which the Father gave me, that I might finish them, the works themselves which I do, testify concerning me, that the Father hath sent me.'

³⁷ 'And the Father who sent me Himself hath testified concerning me: ye have neither heard His voice at any time, nor seen His appearance; ³⁸ and His word ye have not abiding in you, because whom He sent, him ye believe not.'

³⁹ 'Ye search the writings, because ye think in them to have life age-during, and they are they which testify concerning me; ⁴⁰ and ye are not willing to come to me, that ye may have life; ⁴¹ glory from man I receive not, ⁴² but I have known you, that the love of God ye have not in yourselves.'

⁴³ 'I have come in the name of my Father, and ye receive me not; if another may come in his own name, him ye will receive; ⁴⁴ how are ye able—ye—to believe, receiving glory from one another, and the glory which is from God alone ye seek not?

⁴⁵ 'Do not think that I will accuse you to the Father; there is who is accusing you, Moses—in whom ye have hoped: ⁴⁶ for if ye were believing Moses, ye would have been believing me, for he wrote concerning me; ⁴⁷ but if ye believe not his writings, how shall ye believe my sayings?'

VI. ¹ AFTER these things Jesus went away to the other side of the sea of Galilee (of Tiberias), ² and there was following him a great multitude, because they were seeing the signs which he was doing on the infirm; ³ and Jesus went up to the mountain, and was there sitting with his disciples; ⁴ and the passover was near, the feast of the Jews.

⁵ Jesus then having lifted up his eyes and seen that a great multitude cometh to him, saith to Philip, 'Whence shall we buy loaves, that these may eat?' ⁶ but this he said, trying him, for he himself knew what he was about to do.

⁷ Philip answered him, 'Two hundred denaries' worth of loaves are not sufficient for them, that each of them may receive some little;' ⁸ one of his disciples—Andrew, the brother of Simon Peter—saith to him, ⁹ 'There is a little lad here who hath five barley loaves, and two little fishes, but these—what are they for so many?'

¹⁰ And Jesus said, 'Cause the men to sit down;' and there was much grass in the place; the men then sat down, in number, as it were, five thousand; ¹¹ and Jesus took the loaves, and having given thanks, distributed to the disciples, and the disciples to those sitting down: in like manner, also, of the little fishes as much as they wished.

¹² And when they were filled, he saith to his disciples, 'Gather together the broken pieces which are over, that nothing may be lost:' ¹³ they gathered together, therefore, and filled twelve baskets with broken pieces, from the five barley loaves which were over to those having eaten.

¹⁴ The men, then, having seen the sign which Jesus did, said—'This is truly the Prophet, who is coming into the world.'

¹⁵ Jesus, therefore, having known that they are about to come, and to take him by force that they may make him king, retired again into the mountain himself alone.

¹⁶ And when evening came, his disciples went down to the sea, ¹⁷ and having entered into the boat, were going over the sea to Capernaum; and darkness had already come, and Jesus had not come to them, ¹⁸ the sea also—a great wind blowing—was being raised: ¹⁹ having pushed onwards, therefore, about twenty-five or thirty furlongs, they behold Jesus walking on the sea, and coming near to the boat, and were afraid: ²⁰ but he saith to them, 'I am he, be not afraid:' ²¹ they were willing then to receive him into the boat, and immediately the boat came to the land to which they were going.

²² On the morrow, the multitude which was standing on the other side of the sea, having seen that there was no other boat there except one—that into which his disciples entered—and that Jesus went not in with his disciples into the boat, but his disciples went away alone, ²³ but other little boats also came from Tiberias, near the place where they did eat the bread, the Lord having given thanks; ²⁴ when therefore the multitude saw that Jesus is not there, nor his disciples, they also themselves entered into the boats, and came to Capernaum seeking Jesus; ²⁵ and having found him on the other side of the sea, they said to him, 'Rabbi, when hast thou come hither?'

²⁶ Jesus answered them and said, 'Verily, verily, I say to you, Ye seek me, not because ye saw signs, but because you did eat of the loaves, and were satisfied: ²⁷ work not for the food which is perishing, but for the food which is abiding to life age-during, which the Son of Man will give to you, for him the Father sealed—even God.'

²⁸ They said therefore to him, 'What do we, that we may work the works of God?'

²⁹ Jesus answered and said to them, 'This is the work of God, that ye may believe in him whom He sent.'

³⁰ They said therefore to him, 'What sign, then, dost thou, that we may see and believe thee? what dost thou work?' ³¹ Our fathers the manna did eat in the wilderness, according as it is written, Bread out of the heaven He gave them to eat.'

³²Jesus, therefore, said to them, 'Verily, verily, I say to you, Moses gave you not the bread out of the heaven: but my Father giveth you the true bread out of the heaven: ³³for the bread of God is that which is coming down out of the heaven, and giving life to the world.' ³⁴They said, therefore, to him, 'Sir, always give us this bread.'

³⁵And Jesus said to them, 'I am the bread of life: he who is coming to me may not hunger, and he who is believing in me may not thirst—at any time; ³⁶but I said to you, that ye have both seen me, and believe not; ³⁷all that the Father giveth to me will come to me; and him who is coming to me, I may not by any means cast out: ³⁸because I have come down out of the heaven, not that I may do my own will, but the will of Him who sent me.'

³⁹'And this is the will of the Father who sent me, that all that He hath given to me I may not lose of it, but may raise it up in the last day: ⁴⁰and this is the will of Him who sent me, that every one who is beholding the Son, and believing in him, may have life age-during, and I will raise him up in the last day.'

⁴¹The Jews were therefore murmuring at him, because he said, 'I am the bread which came down out of the heaven:' ⁴²and they said, 'Is not this Jesus, the son of Joseph, whose father and mother we have known? how then saith this one—Out of the heaven I have come down?'

⁴³Jesus answered, therefore, and said to them, 'Murmur not with one another: ⁴⁴no one is able to come to me, if the Father who sent me may not draw him: and I will raise him up in the last day: ⁴⁵it is written in the prophets, And they shall all be taught of God; every one therefore who heard from the Father, and learned, cometh to me; ⁴⁶not that any one hath seen the Father, except he who is from God, he hath seen the Father.'

⁴⁷'Verily, verily, I say to you, He who is believing in me, hath life age-during: ⁴⁸I am the bread of life: ⁴⁹your fathers did eat the manna in the wilderness, and died; ⁵⁰this is the bread which out of the heaven is coming down, that any one may eat of it, and not die.'

⁵¹'I am the living bread which came down out of the heaven: if any one may eat of this bread he shall live—to the age; and the bread also which I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world.'

⁵²The Jews were therefore striving with one another, saying, 'How is this one able to give us his flesh to eat?' ⁵³Jesus therefore said to them, 'Verily, verily, I say to you, if you do not eat the flesh of the Son of Man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in yourselves: ⁵⁴he who is eating my flesh, and drinking my blood, hath life age-during, and I will raise him up in the last day: ⁵⁵for my flesh truly is food, and my blood truly is drink: ⁵⁶he who is eating my flesh and drinking my blood, remaineth in me, and I in him.'

⁵⁷'According as the living Father sent me, and I live through the Father, he also who is eating me, even that one shall live through me: ⁵⁸this is the bread which came down out of the heaven: not as your fathers did eat the manna, and died: he who is eating this bread shall live—to the age.'

⁵⁹These things he said in a synagogue, teaching in Capernaum: ⁶⁰many therefore of his disciples having heard, said, 'This word is hard: who is able to hear it?'

⁶¹But Jesus having known in himself that his disciples are murmuring about this, said to them, 'Doth this stumble you? ⁶²—if then ye may behold the Son of Man going up where he was before: ⁶³—the spirit is that which is giving life: the flesh profiteth nothing: the sayings which I speak to you are spirit, and are life: ⁶⁴but there are certain of you who believe not: for Jesus knew from the beginning who those are who are not believing, and who he is who will deliver him up, ⁶⁵and he said, 'Because of this have I said to you,—No one is able to come to me, if it be not given him from my Father.'

⁶⁶From this time many of his disciples went away backward, and were no more walking with him: ⁶⁷Jesus, therefore, said to the twelve, 'Do ye also wish to go away?' ⁶⁸Simon Peter therefore answered him, 'Sir, to whom shall we go? thou hast the sayings of life age-during: ⁶⁹and we have believed, and known that thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.'

⁷⁰Jesus answered them, 'Did not I choose you—the twelve? and of you—one is a devil.'

⁷¹But he spoke of Simon's son, Judas Iscariot, for he was about to deliver him up, being one of the twelve.

VII. ¹AND Jesus was walking after these things in Galilee, for he did not wish to walk in Judea, because the Jews were seeking to kill him: ²but the feast of the Jews was near—that of tabernacles,—his brethren, therefore, said to him, 'Remove hence, and go away into Judea, that thy disciples also may behold thy works, which thou doest; ⁴for no one in secret doeth anything, and he himself seeketh to be in public; if thou doest these things—manifest thyself to the world:' ⁵for even his brethren were not believing in him.

⁶Jesus therefore saith to them, 'My time is not yet present, but your time is always ready: ⁷the world is not able to hate you, but me it hateth, because I testify concerning it that its works are evil. ⁸Ye—go ye up to this feast: I go not up yet to this feast, because my time hath not yet been full: ⁹and saying these things to them, he abode in Galilee.'

¹⁰But, when his brethren went up, then he also himself went up to the feast, not manifestly, but as in secret: ¹¹the Jews therefore were seeking him, in the feast, and said, 'Where is that one?' ¹²and there was much murmuring about him among the multitudes: some indeed said—'He is good,' and others said, 'No, but he leadeth astray the multitude: ¹³no one, however, was speaking publicly about him, because of the fear of the Jews.'

¹⁴ And it being now the middle of the feast, Jesus went up into the temple, and was teaching; ¹⁵ and the Jews were wondering, saying, 'How hath this one known letters— not having learned?'

¹⁶ Jesus answered them and said, 'My teaching is not mine, but His who sent me; ¹⁷ if any one may wish to do His will, he shall know concerning the teaching, whether it is of God, or—I speak from myself.'

¹⁸ 'He who is speaking from himself his own glory seeketh, but he who is seeking the glory of him who sent him, this one is true, and unrighteousness is not in him; ¹⁹ hath not Moses given you the law? and none of you doeth the law; why me do ye seek to kill?'

²⁰ The multitude answered and said, 'Thou hast a demon, who seeketh to kill thee?'

²¹ Jesus answered and said to them, 'One work I did, and ye all wonder; ²² because of this Moses hath given to you the circumcision—not that it is of Moses, but of the fathers—and on a sabbath ye circumcise a man; ²³ if a man receive circumcision on a sabbath that the law of Moses may not be broken, are ye angry with me that I made a man all whole on a sabbath? ²⁴ he not judging according to appearance, but the righteous judgment judge ye.'

²⁵ Certain, therefore, of the Jerusalemites said, 'Is not this he whom they are seeking to kill? ²⁶ and, lo, he speaketh publicly, and they say nothing to him; did even the rulers know truly that this is truly the Christ? ²⁷ but this one—we know whence he is—but the Christ, when he cometh, no one knoweth whence he is.'

²⁸ Jesus cried, therefore, in the temple, teaching and saying, 'Ye have both known me, and ye have known whence I am; and I have not come of myself, but He who sent me is true, whom ye have not known; ²⁹ but I have known Him, because I am from Him, and He sent me.'

³⁰ They were seeking, therefore, to seize him, and no one laid the hand on him, because his hour had not yet come; ³¹ but many of the multitude believed in him, and said—'The Christ—when he may come—will he do more signs than these which this one did?'

³² The Pharisees heard of the multitude murmuring these things concerning him, and the Pharisees and the chief priests sent officers that they might take him: ³³ Jesus therefore said to them, 'Yet a little time am I with you, and I go away to Him who sent me: ³⁴ ye will seek me, and shall not find; and where I am ye are not able to come.'

³⁵ The Jews, therefore, said among themselves, 'Whither is this one about to go that we shall not find him?—to the dispersed of the Greeks, and to teach the Greeks, is he about to go? ³⁶ What is this word which he said, Ye will seek me, and shall not find? and, Where I am, ye are not able to come?'

³⁷ And in the last, the great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried, saying, 'If any one thirst, let him come to me and drink: ³⁸ he who is believing in me, according as the writing said, Rivers out of his belly shall flow of living water;' ³⁹ but this he said concerning the Spirit, which those believing in him were about to receive; for as yet the Holy Spirit was not, because Jesus was not yet glorified.

⁴⁰ Many, therefore, of the multitude, having heard the word, said, 'This is truly the Prophet;' ⁴¹ others said, 'This is the Christ;' but others said, 'Why, out of Galilee doth the Christ come? ⁴² Did not the writing say, that out of the seed of David, and from Bethlehem—the village where David was—the Christ cometh?' ⁴³ A division therefore arose among the multitude because of him.

⁴⁴ And certain of them were wishing to seize him, but no one laid hands on him; ⁴⁵ the officers came therefore to the chief priests and Pharisees, and they said to them, 'Wherefore did ye not bring him?' ⁴⁶ The officers answered, 'Never so did man speak—as this man.'

⁴⁷ The Pharisees therefore answered them, 'Have ye also been led astray? ⁴⁸ did any of the rulers believe in him? or of the Pharisees? ⁴⁹ but this multitude, that knoweth not the law, is accursed.'

⁵⁰ Nicodemus saith to them—he who came by night to him—belonging of them, ⁵¹ 'Doth our law judge the man, if it may not first hear from him, and know what he doeth?'

⁵² They answered and said to him, 'Art thou also out of Galilee? Search and see, that a prophet out of Galilee hath not risen;' ⁵³ and each one proceeded to his own house, but Jesus proceeded to the mount of the olives.

VIII. ¹ AND at dawn he came again into the temple, ² and all the people were coming to him; and having sat down, he was teaching them; ³ and the scribes and the Pharisees bring to him a woman having been taken in adultery, and having set her in the midst, ⁴ they say to him, 'Teacher, this woman was taken in the very crime—committing adultery; ⁵ but in the law, Moses commanded us that such be stoned; thou, therefore, what sayest thou?' ⁶ but this they said, tempting him, that they might have to accuse him.

But Jesus, having stooped down, with the finger was writing on the ground; ⁷ but when they continued asking him, having raised himself up, he said to them, 'The sinless among you—let him first cast the stone at her;' ⁸ and again, having stooped down, he was writing on the ground; ⁹ but they having heard, and by conscience being convicted, were going out one by one, having begun from the eldest—unto the last; and Jesus was left alone, and the woman standing in the midst.

¹⁰ And Jesus having raised himself up, and having seen no one but the woman, said to her, 'Woman, where are those—thine accusers? did no one condemn thee?' ¹¹ and she said, 'No one, Sir;' and Jesus said to her, 'Neither do I condemn thee; go, and no more sin.'

¹² Again, therefore, Jesus spake to them, saying, 'I am the light of the world; he who is following me shall not walk in the darkness,¹⁸ but shall have the light of life.'

The Pharisees therefore said to him, 'Thou dost testify concerning thyself; thy testimony is not true;' ¹⁹Jesus answered and said to them, 'Even if I testify concerning myself—true is my testimony, because I have known whence I came, and whither I go: but ye—ye know not whence I come, and whither I go.'

²⁰'Ye judge according to the flesh: I do not judge any one: ²¹but even if I do judge, my judgment is true: because I am not alone, but I and the Father who sent me; ²²but also in your law it hath been written, that the testimony of two men is true: ²³I am one who is testifying concerning myself, and the Father who sent me testifieth of me.'

²⁴'They said therefore to him, 'Where is thy father?' Jesus answered, 'Ye neither know me nor my Father: if me ye had known, my Father also ye had known.'

²⁵'These sayings spake Jesus in the treasury, teaching in the temple, and no one seized him, because his hour had not yet come: ²⁶therefore said Jesus again to them, 'I go away, and ye will seek me, and in your sin ye shall die: whither I go, ye are not able to come.'

²⁷'The Jews therefore said, 'Will he kill himself, because he saith, Whither I go, ye are not able to come?' ²⁸and he said to them, 'Ye are from beneath, I am from above; ye are of this world, I am not of this world: ²⁹I said therefore to you, that ye shall die in your sins: for if ye believe not that I am he, ye shall die in your sins.'

³⁰'They said to him, therefore, 'Thou—who art thou?' and Jesus said to them, 'Even what I speak to you at the beginning: ³¹many things I have to speak, and to judge concerning you, but He who sent me is true, and I—what things I heard from Him—these say I to the world.'

³²'They knew not that of the Father he spake to them: ³³Jesus therefore said to them, 'When ye lift up the Son of Man, then will ye know that I am he; and of myself I do nothing, but according as my Father taught me, these things I speak: ³⁴and He who sent me is with me: the Father did not leave me alone, because I, the things pleasing to Him, do always.'

³⁵'As he is speaking these things, many believed in him: ³⁶Jesus therefore said to the Jews who had believed in him, 'If ye may remain in my word, truly my disciples are ye, and ye shall know the truth, ³⁷and the truth shall make you free.'

³⁸'They answered him, 'Seed of Abraham we are; and to no one have we been servants at any time; how sayest thou—Ye shall become free?'

³⁹Jesus answered them, 'Verily, verily, I say to you—Every one who is committing sin, is a servant of sin, ⁴⁰but the servant remaineth not in the house to the age, the Son remaineth to the age: ⁴¹if then the Son may make you free, in reality ye shall be free.'

⁴²'I have known that ye are seed of Abraham, but ye seek to kill me, because my word hath no place in you; ⁴³I—that which I have seen with my Father do speak, and ye, therefore, that which ye have seen with your father—do.'

⁴⁴'They answered and said to him, 'Our father is Abraham: Jesus saith to them, 'If children of Abraham ye were, the works of Abraham ye would have been doing: ⁴⁵but now, ye seek to kill me—a man who hath spoken to you the truth which I heard from God: this Abraham did not: ⁴⁶ye do the works of your father.'

They said therefore to him, 'We of whoredom have not been born; one Father we have—God; ⁴⁷Jesus then said to them, 'If God were your father, ye would have been loving me, for I came out from God, and am come: for neither have I come of myself, but He sent me: ⁴⁸wherefore do ye not know my speech? because ye are not able to hear my word.'

⁴⁹'Ye are of your father the devil, and the desires of your father ye wish to do: he was a manslayer from the beginning, and in the truth he hath not stood, because there is no truth in him: when one may speak falsehood, of his own he speaketh, because he is a liar—his father also.'

⁵⁰'But because I say the truth, ye believe me not: ⁵¹who of you convicteth me of sin? but if I speak truth, wherefore do ye not believe me? ⁵²he who is of God, the sayings of God he heareth: on this account ye hear not, because of God ye are not.'

⁵³'The Jews therefore answered and said to him, 'Do we not say well, that thou art a Samaritan, and hast a demon?' ⁵⁴Jesus answered, 'I have not a demon, but I honour my Father, and ye dishonour me: ⁵⁵but I seek not mine own glory: there is who is seeking and judging: ⁵⁶verily, verily, I say to you, If any one may keep my word, death he may not see—to the age.'

⁵⁷'The Jews therefore said to him, 'Now have we known that thou hast a demon: Abraham died, and the prophets, and thou sayest, If any one may keep my word, he shall not taste of death to the age! ⁵⁸Art thou greater than our father Abraham, who died? the prophets also died; whom dost thou make thyself?'

⁵⁹Jesus answered, 'I—if I glorify myself, my glory is nothing: it is my Father who is glorifying me, of whom ye say that He is your God: ⁶⁰and ye have not known Him, but I have known Him, and if I say that I have not known Him, I shall be like you—a liar; but I have known Him, and His word I keep: ⁶¹Abraham, your father, was glad that he might see my day; and he saw, and rejoiced.'

⁶²'The Jews therefore said to him, 'Thou art not yet fifty years old, and Abraham hast thou seen?' ⁶³Jesus said to them, 'Verily, verily, I say to you, Before Abraham came—I am: ⁶⁴they took up therefore stones that they might cast at him, but Jesus hid himself, and went out of the temple, going through the midst of them, and so passed by.'

IX. 'AND passing by, he saw a man blind from birth, ²and his disciples asked him, saying, 'Rabbi, who sinned, this one or his parents, that he should be born blind?' ² Jesus answered, 'Neither did this one sin nor his parents, but that the works of God may be manifested in him: ³ It becometh me to be working the works of Him who sent me while it is day: night cometh, when no one is able to work: ⁴ when I am in the world, I am the light of the world.'

⁵ These things having said, he spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and anointed with the clay the eyes of the blind man, and said to him, ⁶ 'Go, wash in the pool of Siloam,' which is interpreted Sent.

He went away, therefore, and washed, and came seeing: ⁷ the neighbours, therefore, and those who saw him before, that he was blind, said, ⁸ 'Is not this he who was sitting and begging?' ⁹ others said—'This is he:' but others—'He is like him:' he himself said, ¹⁰ 'I am he.'

¹¹ They said therefore to him, 'How were thine eyes opened?' ¹² He answered and said, 'A man called Jesus made clay, and anointed mine eyes, and said to me, Go to the pool of Siloam, and wash: and having gone away and washed, I received sight:' ¹³ they said therefore to him, 'Where is he?' he saith, ¹⁴ 'I know not.'

¹⁵ They bring to the Pharisees him who once was blind: ¹⁶ and it was a sabbath when Jesus made the clay, and opened his eyes. ¹⁷ Again, therefore, the Pharisees also were asking him how he received sight, and he said to them, 'Clay he put on mine eyes, and I washed—and I see.'

¹⁸ Of the Pharisees, therefore, certain said, 'This man is not from God, because the sabbath he keepeth not:' others said, 'How is a man—a sinful one—able to do such signs?' and there was a division among them.

¹⁹ They say to the blind man again, 'Thou—what sayest thou concerning him—that he opened thine eyes?' ²⁰ and he said—'He is a prophet.'

The Jews therefore did not believe concerning him that he was blind and received sight, till that they called the parents of him who received sight, ²¹ and asked them, saying, 'Is this your son, of whom ye say that he was born blind? how then doth he now see?'

²² His parents answered them and said, 'We know that this is our son, and that he was born blind: ²³ but how he now seeth, we know not: or who opened his eyes, we know not: himself is of age, ask him: he—himself shall speak concerning himself.'

²⁴ These things said his parents, because they were afraid of the Jews, for already had the Jews agreed together, that if any one may confess him Christ, he may be put out of the synagogue: ²⁵ because of this his parents said—'He is of age, ask him.'

²⁶ They called therefore a second time the man who was blind, and said to him, 'Give glory to God, we know that this man is a sinner:' ²⁷ he answered therefore and said, 'If he is a sinner—I know not: one thing I know, that being blind, now I see.'

²⁸ And they said to him again—'What did he do to thee? how opened he thine eyes?' ²⁹ He answered them, 'I told you already, and ye did not hear: why again do ye wish to hear? do ye also wish to be his disciples?'

³⁰ They reviled him therefore, and said, 'Thou art his disciple, but we are Moses' disciples: ³¹ we know that God hath spoken to Moses, but this one—we know not whence he is.'

³² The man answered and said to them, 'Why, in this is a wonderful thing, that ye know not whence he is, and he opened mine eyes! ³³ but we know that God doth not hear sinners, but, if any one be a worshipper of God, and may do His will, him He heareth: ³⁴ from the age it was not heard, that any one opened the eyes of one who hath been born blind: ³⁵ if this one were not from God, he could do nothing.'

³⁶ They answered and said to him, 'In sin thou wast born altogether, and thou—dost thou teach us?' and they cast him out.

³⁷ Jesus heard that they cast him out, and having found him, he said to him, 'Dost thou believe in the Son of God?' ³⁸ he answered and said, 'Who is he, Sir, that I may believe in him?' ³⁹ And Jesus said to him, 'Thou hast both seen him, and he who is speaking with thee is he:' ⁴⁰ and he said, 'I believe, Sir,' and bowed before him.

⁴¹ And Jesus said, 'For judgement I into this world came, that those not seeing might see, and those seeing might become blind.'

⁴² And those of the Pharisees who were with him heard these things, and said to him, 'Are we also blind?' ⁴³ Jesus said to them, 'If ye were blind, ye would not have had sin, but now ye say—we see, therefore your sin remaineth.'

X. ¹ 'VERILY, verily, I say to you, He who is not entering through the door into the fold of the sheep, but is going up from another side, that one is a thief and a robber: ² but he who is entering through the door is shepherd of the sheep: ³ to this one the doorkeeper openeth, and the sheep hear his voice, and his own sheep he calleth by name, and leadeth them out: ⁴ and when his own sheep he may put forth, before them he proceedeth, and the sheep follow him, because they know his voice: ⁵ but a stranger they will not follow, but will flee from him, because they know not the voice of strangers.'

⁶ This similitude spake Jesus to them, but they knew not what the things were which he was speaking to them: ⁷ Jesus said therefore again to them, 'Verily, verily, I say to you—I am the door of the sheep: ⁸ all, as many as came before me, are thieves and robbers, but the sheep did not hear them: ⁹ I am the door, through me if any one may come in, he shall be saved, and shall come in, and go out, and find pasture.'

¹⁰ The thief cometh not, except that he may steal, and kill, and destroy: I came that they might have life, and might have it abundantly.

¹¹ 'I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd his life layeth down for the sheep: ¹² but the hireling, and not a shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, beholdeth the wolf coming, and leaveth the sheep, and fleeth: and the wolf catcheth them, and scattereth the sheep: ¹³and the hireling fleeth because he is an hireling, and he is not caring for the sheep.

¹⁴‘I am the good shepherd, and I know my sheep, and am known by mine; ¹⁵according as the Father knoweth me, I also know the Father, and my life I lay down for the sheep: ¹⁶and other sheep I have which are not of this fold, these also it becometh me to bring, and my voice they will hear, and there shall be one flock—one shepherd.

¹⁷‘On account of this the Father loveth me, because I lay down my life, that again I may take it: ¹⁸no one taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself: authority I have to lay it down, and authority I have again to take it: this command I received from my Father.’

¹⁹Therefore, again, there came a division among the Jews, because of these words, ²⁰and many of them said, ‘He hath a demon, and is mad, why do ye hear him?’ ²¹others said, ‘These sayings are not those of a demoniac: is a demon able blind men’s eyes to open?’

²²And it was the dedication in Jerusalem, and it was winter, ²³and Jesus was walking in the Temple, in the porch of Solomon: ²⁴the Jews, therefore, came round about him, and said to him, ‘Till when our soul dost thou hold in suspense? If thou art the Christ, tell us openly.’

²⁵Jesus answered them, ‘I told you, and ye believe not; the works which I do in the name of my Father, these testify concerning me: ²⁶but ye believe not, for ye are not of my sheep,’ ²⁷according as I said to you, ‘My sheep my voice hear, and I know them, and they follow me: ²⁸and life age-during I give to them, and they shall not perish—to the age, and no one shall pluck them out of my hand: ²⁹my Father, who hath given to me is greater than all: and no one is able to pluck out of the hand of my Father: ³⁰and the Father are one.’

³¹Therefore, again, did the Jews take up stones that they might stone him: ³²Jesus answered them, ‘Many good works did I shew you from my Father: because of which work of them do you stone me?’ ³³The Jews answered him, saying ‘For a good work we stone thee not, but for evil speaking: and because thou, being a man, makest thyself God.’

³⁴Jesus answered them, ‘Is it not written in your law, I said ye are gods? ³⁵if them he called gods to whom the word of God came, (and the writing is not able to be broken,) ³⁶of him whom the Father sanctified, and sent into the world, do ye say—Thou speakest evil, because I said, Son of God I am? ³⁷if I do not the works of my Father, believe me not: ³⁸but if I do, even if ye may not believe, the works believe, that ye may know and believe that in me is the Father, and I in Him.’

³⁹Therefore were they seeking again to seize him, and he went forth out of their hand, ⁴⁰and went away again to the other side of the Jordan, to the place where John was at the first baptizing, and he remained there: ⁴¹and many came to him, and said—‘John, indeed, did no sign; but all things, as many as John said about this one were true:’ ⁴²and many believed in him there.

XI. ¹AND there was a certain one ailing, Lazarus, from Bethany, of the village of Mary and Martha her sister, ²(and it was Mary who anointed the Lord with ointment, and wiped his feet with her hair, whose brother Lazarus was ailing,) ³therefore sent the sisters to him, saying, ‘Sir, lo, he whom thou lovest is ailing:’ ⁴but Jesus having heard, said, ‘This ailment is not to death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God may be glorified through it.’

⁵But Jesus loved Martha and her sister, and Lazarus: ⁶when, therefore, he heard that he is ailing, then he remained in the place in which he was two days: ⁷then after this, he saith to the disciples, ‘Let us go into Judea again:’ ⁸the disciples say to him, ‘Rabbi, now were the Jews seeking to stone thee, and again thou goest thither!’

⁹Jesus answered, ‘Are there not twelve hours in the day? if any one may walk in the day, he stumbleth not, because the light of this world he seeth: ¹⁰but if any one may walk in the night, he stumbleth, because the light is not in him.’

¹¹These things he said, and after this he saith to them, ‘Lazarus our friend is fallen asleep, but I go that I may awake him:’ ¹²therefore said his disciples, ‘Sir, if he is fallen asleep, he will be saved:’ ¹³but Jesus had spoken about his death, but they thought that about the repose of sleep he spake.

¹⁴Then, therefore, Jesus said to them openly, ‘Lazarus hath died: ¹⁵and I rejoice, for your sake, (that ye may believe,) that I was not there: but let us go to him:’ ¹⁶therefore said Thomas, who is called Didymus, to the fellow-disciples, ‘Let us go—we also, that we may die with him.’ ¹⁷Jesus therefore having come, found him four days already in the tomb.

¹⁸And Bethany was near to Jerusalem, about fifteen furlongs off, ¹⁹and many of the Jews had come to Martha and Mary, that they might comfort them concerning their brother: ²⁰Martha, therefore, when she heard that Jesus cometh, met him, but Mary kept sitting in the house.

²¹Martha therefore said to Jesus, ‘Sir, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died: ²²but even now, I know that whatever thou mayest ask of God, God will give to thee:’ ²³Jesus saith to her, ‘Thy brother will rise again.’

²⁴Martha saith to him, ‘I knew that he will rise again, in the rising again in the last day:’ ²⁵Jesus said to her, ‘I am the rising again, and the life: he who is believing in me, even if he may die, shall live: ²⁶and no one who is living and believing in me shall die unto the age: ²⁷believest thou this?’ she saith to him, ‘Yes, Sir, I have believed that thou art the Christ, the Son of God, who is coming into the world.’

²⁸ And these things having said, she went away, and called Mary her sister privately, saying, 'The Teacher is present, and calleth for thee.' ²⁹ She, when she heard, riseth up quickly, and cometh to him; ³⁰ but Jesus had not yet come into the village, but was in the place where Martha met him; ³¹ the Jews therefore who were with her in the house, and were comforting her, having seen Mary that she rose up quickly and went out, followed her, saying—'She goeth to the tomb, that she may weep there.'

³² Mary, therefore, when she came where Jesus was, having seen him, fell at his feet, saying to him, 'Sir, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died.' ³³ Jesus therefore, when he saw her weeping, and the Jews who came with her weeping, groaned in the spirit, and troubled himself, and said, ³⁴ 'Where have ye laid him?' they say to him, 'Sir, come and see;' ³⁵ Jesus wept.

³⁶ The Jews therefore said, 'Lo, how he was loving him;' ³⁷ but certain of them said, 'Was not this one, who opened the eyes of the blind man, able to act, so that also this one might not have died?'

³⁸ Jesus therefore, again groaning in himself, cometh to the tomb; and it was a cave, and a stone was lying upon it; ³⁹ Jesus saith, 'Take away the stone;' the sister of him who hath died, Martha, saith to him, 'Sir, already he stinketh, for it is four days;' ⁴⁰ Jesus saith to her, 'Said I not to thee, that if thou mayest believe, thou shalt see the glory of God?'

⁴¹ They took away, therefore, the stone where the dead was laid, and Jesus lifted his eyes upwards, and said, 'Father, I thank Thee, that Thou didst hear me; ⁴² and I knew that Thou always dost hear me, but, because of the multitude that is standing by, I spake, that they may believe that Thou didst send me.'

⁴⁵ Many therefore of the Jews who came to Mary, and beheld what Jesus did, believed in him; ⁴⁶ but certain of them went away to the Pharisees, and told them what Jesus did; ⁴⁷ the chief priests therefore, and the Pharisees, gathered a sanhedrim, and said, 'What do we? because this man is doing many signs? ⁴⁸ if we let him alone thus, all will believe in him: and the Romans will come, and take away our place and nation.'

⁴⁹ And a certain one of them, Caiaphas, being chief priest of that year, said to them, 'Ye know nothing at all, ⁵⁰ nor reason that it is good for us that one man may die for the people, and not the whole nation perish.'

⁵¹ But this he said not of himself, but being chief priest of that year, he prophesied that Jesus was about to die for the nation, ⁵² and not for the nation only; but that also the children of God, who have been scattered abroad, he may gather together into one.

⁵³ From that day therefore they took counsel together that they might kill him; ⁵⁴ Jesus therefore was no more openly walking among the Jews, but went away thence into the region near the wilderness, to a city called Ephraim; and there he tarried with his disciples.

⁵⁵ And the passover of the Jews was near, and many went up to Jerusalem out of the country before the passover, that they might purify themselves; ⁵⁶ they were seeking therefore Jesus, and said one with another standing in the temple, 'What appeareth to you—that he may not come to the feast?' ⁵⁷ and both the chief priests and the Pharisees had given a command, that if any man may know where he is, he may shew it, so that they may seize him.

XII. ¹ JESUS, therefore, six days before the passover, came to Bethany, where was Lazarus, who had died, whom he raised from the dead; ² they made therefore to him a supper there, and Martha was ministering, but Lazarus was one of those reclining together at meat, with him; ³ Mary therefore having taken a pound of ointment of spikenard, of great price, anointed the feet of Jesus and wiped with her hair his feet, and the house was filled with the fragrance of the ointment.

⁴ Therefore saith one of his disciples—Judas Iscariot, son of Simon, who was about to deliver him up,—'Wherefore was not this ointment sold for three hundred denaries, and given to the poor?' ⁵ but he said this, not because he was caring for the poor, but because he was a thief, and had the bag, and what things were put in was carrying away.

⁶ Jesus therefore said, 'Let her alone; for the day of my burial she hath kept it.' ⁷ For the poor ye have always with yourselves, but me ye have not always.'

⁸ A great multitude, therefore, of the Jews knew that he is there, and they came, not on account of Jesus only, but that Lazarus also they might see, whom he raised from the dead; ⁹ but the chief priests took counsel, that also Lazarus they might kill, ¹⁰ because on account of him were many of the Jews going away, and believing in Jesus.

¹¹ On the morrow, a great multitude that came to the feast, having heard that Jesus cometh to Jerusalem, ¹² took the branches of the palms, and went out to meet him, and were crying, 'Hosanna, blessed is he who is coming in the name of the Lord—the king of Israel.' ¹³ And Jesus having found a young ass, sat upon it, according as it is written, ¹⁴ 'Fear not, daughter of Sion, lo, thy king cometh, sitting on an ass's colt.'

¹⁵ But these things his disciples knew not at the first, but when Jesus was glorified, then they remembered that these things had been written about him; and these things they did to him.

¹⁶ The multitude, therefore, who were with him, were testifying that he called Lazarus out of the tomb, and raised him out of the dead; ¹⁷ because of this also the multitude met him, because they heard of his having done this sign; ¹⁹the Pharisees therefore said among themselves, 'Ye see that ye gain nothing; lo, the world after him hath gone away.'

²⁰And there were certain Greeks out of those coming up, that they might worship in the feast: ²¹these then came to Philip, who is from Bethsaida of Galilee, and were asking him, saying, 'Sir, we wish to see Jesus.' ²²Philip cometh and telleth Andrew, and again Andrew and Philip tell Jesus.

²³And Jesus answered them, saying, 'The hour hath come, that the Son of Man may be glorified: ²⁴verily, verily, I say to you, if the grain of the wheat having fallen into the earth may not die, it remaineth itself alone; but if it may die, it beareth much fruit: ²⁵he who is loving his life shall lose it, and he who is hating his life in this world—to life age-during shall keep it: ²⁶if any one may minister to me, let him follow me, and where I am, there also my minister shall be; and if any one may minister to me—honour him will the Father.'

²⁷Now hath my soul been troubled, and what, shall I say Father, save me from this hour?—but because of this I come to this hour: ²⁸Father, glorify Thy name.'

There came therefore a voice out of the heaven, 'I both glorified, and again will glorify it; ²⁹the multitude therefore that were standing and hearing, were saying that there had been thunder: others said, 'A messenger hath spoken to him.'

³⁰Jesus answered and said, 'Not on my account hath this voice come, but on your account; ³¹now is the judgment of this world, now shall the ruler of this world be cast out: ³²and I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men to myself.'

³³But this he said signifying by what death he was about to die: ³⁴the multitude answered him, 'We heard out of the law that the Christ remaineth for the age; and how dost thou say, That it becometh the Son of Man to be lifted up? who is this—the Son of Man?'

³⁵Jesus therefore said to them, 'Yet a little time is the light with you: walk while ye have the light, that darkness may not overtake you; and he who is walking in the darkness knoweth not where he goeth: ³⁶while ye have the light, believe in the light, that sons of light ye may become.'

These things spake Jesus, and having gone away, he was hidden from them; ³⁷but he—having done so many signs before them, they were not believing in him, ³⁸that the word of Isaiah the prophet might be fulfilled, which he said, 'Lord, who gave credence to our report? and the arm of the Lord—to whom was it revealed?'

³⁹On account of this they were not able to believe, because again Isaiah said, ⁴⁰'He hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their hearts, that they might not see with the eyes, and understand with the heart, and turn back, and I might heal them: ⁴¹these things said Isaiah, when he saw his glory, and spake concerning him.'

⁴²Still, however, even out of the rulers

many believed in him, but because of the Pharisees were not confessing, that they might not be put out of the synagogue: ⁴³for they loved the glory of men more than the glory of God.

⁴⁴And Jesus cried and said, 'He who is believing in me, believeth not in me, but in Him who sent me: ⁴⁵and he who is beholding me, beholdeth Him who sent me: ⁴⁶I a light into the world have come, that no one who is believing in me in the darkness may remain; ⁴⁷and if any one may hear my sayings, and not believe, I do not judge him, for I came not that I might judge the world, but that I might save the world.'

⁴⁸He who is rejecting me, and not receiving my sayings, hath one who is judging him; the word which I spake, that will judge him in the last day: ⁴⁹because I spake not from myself, but the Father who sent me. He gave me a command, what I may say, and what I may speak, ⁵⁰and I know that His command is life age-during: what therefore I speak, according as the Father hath said to me, so I speak.'

XIII. ¹AND before the feast of the pass-over, Jesus knowing that his hour hath come, that he might remove out of this world to the Father, having loved his own who are in the world—to the end he loved them.

²And supper having come, the devil already having put it into the heart of Judas Iscariot, son of Simon, that he may betray him, ³Jesus knowing that all things the Father hath given to him—into his hands, and that from God he came out, and to God he goeth, ⁴he riseth from the supper, and layeth down his garments, and having taken a towel, girded himself: afterwards he putteth water into the basin, and began to wash the feet of the disciples, and to wipe with the towel with which he was girded.

⁵He cometh, therefore, to Simon Peter, and that one saith to him, 'Sir, thou—dost thou wash my feet?' ⁷Jesus answered and said to him, 'That which I do thou knowest not now, but thou shalt know after this: ⁶Peter saith to him, 'Thou mayest not wash my feet—unto the age.'

Jesus answered him, 'If I wash thee not, thou hast not part with me: ⁹Simon Peter saith to him, 'Sir, not my feet only, but also the hands and the head.' ¹⁰Jesus saith to him, 'He who hath been bathed hath no need save to wash the feet, but is clean altogether; and ye are clean, but not all: ¹¹for he knew him who is delivering him up; because of this he said, 'Ye are not all clean.'

¹²When, therefore, he washed their feet, and took his garments, having reclined (at meat) again, he said to them, 'Do ye know what I have done to you? ¹³ye call me the Teacher and the Lord, and ye say well, for I am: ¹⁴if then I washed your feet—the Lord and the Teacher,—ye also ought to wash one another's feet.

¹⁵For an example I gave to you, that, according as I did to you, ye also may do:

¹⁶Verily, verily, I say to you, a servant is not greater than his Lord, nor an apostle greater than he who sent him; ¹⁷if these things ye know, happy are ye, if ye may do them: ¹⁸not concerning you all do I speak: I know whom I chose for myself: but that the writing may be fulfilled, He who is eating the bread with me, lifted up against me his heel.

¹⁹From this time I tell you, before it cometh to pass, that, when it may come to pass, ye may believe that I am he; ²⁰verily, verily, I say to you, he who is receiving whomsoever I may send, receiveth me: and he who is receiving me, receiveth Him who sent me.

²¹These things saying, Jesus was troubled in the spirit, and testified, and said, 'Verily, verily, I say to you, that one of you will deliver me up.' ²²The disciples were looking, therefore, at one another, doubting concerning whom he speaketh.

²³And there was one of his disciples reclining (at meat) on the bosom of Jesus, whom Jesus was loving, ²⁴Simon Peter, then beckoneth to this one, to inquire who he may be concerning whom he speaketh: ²⁵and that one having reclined on the breast of Jesus, saith to him, 'Sir, who is it?' ²⁶Jesus answereth, 'That one it is to whom I, having dipped the morsel, shall give it; and having dipped the morsel, he giveth it to Judas Iscariot son of Simon.'

²⁷And after the morsel, then the Adversary entered into that one: Jesus therefore saith to him, 'What thou doest—do quickly.' ²⁸but none of those reclining at meat knew for what intent he said this to him, ²⁹for certain were thinking, since Judas had the bag, that Jesus saith to him, 'Buy what we have need of for the feast; or that he may give something to the poor; ³⁰having received therefore the morsel, that one immediately went out: and it was night.

³¹When, therefore, he went out, Jesus saith, 'Now was the Son of Man glorified, and God was glorified in him; ³²if God was glorified in him, God also will glorify him in Himself; yea, immediately He will glorify him.'

³³'Little children, yet a little am I with you; ye will seek me, and, according as I said to the Jews—Whither I go, ye are not able to come, to you also I say it now.'

³⁴'A new commandment I give to you, that ye love one another: according as I loved you, that ye also love one another; ³⁵in this will all know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another.'

³⁶Simon Peter saith to him, 'Sir, whither dost thou go?' Jesus answered him, 'Whither I go, thou art not able now to follow me, but afterward thou shalt follow me.'

³⁷Peter saith to him, 'Sir, wherefore am I not able to follow thee now? my life for thee I will lay down.' ³⁸Jesus answered him, 'Thy life for me thou wilt lay down? verily, verily, I say to thee, a cock will not crow, till thou mayest deny me thrice.'

XIV. 'LET not your heart be troubled: believe in God, also in me believe; ²in the house of my Father many mansions are;

but if not, I would have told you: I go to prepare a place for you; ³and if I go and prepare for you a place, again I come, and will receive you to myself, that where I am ye also may be; ⁴and whither I go ye know, and the way ye know.'

⁵Thomas saith to him, 'Sir, we know not whither thou goest, and how are we able to know the way?' ⁶Jesus saith to him, 'I am the way, and the truth, and the life, no one cometh to the Father, if not through me: ⁷if ye had known me, my Father also ye would have known, and from this time ye have known him, and have seen him.'

⁸Philip saith to him, 'Sir, shew to us the Father, and it is enough for us:' ⁹Jesus saith to him, 'So long time am I with you, and thou hast not known me, Philip? he who hath seen me, hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou, Shew to us the Father? ¹⁰Believest thou not that I am in the Father, and the Father is in me? the sayings which I speak to you, I speak not from myself, but the Father who is abiding in me, Himself doeth the works: ¹¹believe me, that I am in the Father, and the Father in me: but if not, because of the works themselves, believe me.'

¹²'Verily, verily, I say to you, he who is believing in me, the works which I do—that one also shall do, and greater than these shall he do, because I go to my Father: ¹³and whatever ye may ask in my name, this will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son: ¹⁴if ye ask anything in my name I will do it.'

¹⁵'If ye love me, my commands keep, ¹⁶and I will ask the Father, and another Comforter He will give to you, that he may remain with you—unto the age: ¹⁷the Spirit of truth, whom the world is not able to receive, because it beholdeth him not, nor knoweth him, but ye know him, because he remaineth with you, and shall be in you. ¹⁸'I will not leave you orphans, I come to you: ¹⁹yet a little and the world no more beholdeth me, but ye behold me, because I live, and ye shall live: ²⁰in that day ye shall know that I am in my Father, and ye in me, and I in you: ²¹he who hath my commands, and is keeping them, that one it is who is loving me, and he who is loving me, shall be loved by my Father, and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him.'

²²Judas saith to him (not Iscariot), 'Sir, why hath it come to pass, that to us thou art about to manifest thyself, and not to the world?'

²³Jesus answered and said to him, 'If any one may love me, my word he will keep, and my Father will love him, and to him we will come, and abide with him we will make: ²⁴he who is not loving me, my words keepeth not; and the word which ye hear is not mine, but the Father's who sent me.'

²⁵These things have I spoken to you, remaining with you, ²⁶but the Comforter, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, he will teach you all things, and remind you of all things I said to you.

²⁷'Peace I leave to you; my peace I give to you, not according as the world giveth do I give to you; let not your heart be troubled, nor let it be afraid: ²³ye heard that I said to you—I go away and I come to you; if ye loved me, ye would have rejoiced that I said—I go to the Father, because my Father is greater than I.

²⁴And now have I said it to you before it come to pass, that when it may come to pass, ye may believe: ²⁵I will no more talk much with you, for the ruler of this world cometh, and in me he hath nothing: ²⁶but that the world may know that I love the Father, and according as the Father gave me command so I do—arise, let us go hence.

XV. ¹I AM the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman: ²every branch in me not bearing fruit, He taketh it up, and every one bearing fruit, He cleanseth by pruning it, that it may bear more fruit: ³already ye are clean, because of the word which I have spoken to you: ⁴remain in me, and I in you; as the branch is not able to bear fruit of itself, if it may not remain in the vine, so neither ye, if ye may not remain in me.

⁵I am the vine, ye the branches; he who is remaining in me, and I in him, this one beareth much fruit, because apart from me ye are not able to do anything: ⁶if any one may not remain in me, he was cast out as the branch, and was withered, and they gather them, and cast into the fire, and they are burned: ⁷if ye remain in me, and my sayings in you remain, whatever ye wish ye shall ask, and it shall be done to you.

⁸In this was my Father glorified, that ye may bear much fruit, and ye shall become my disciples. ⁹According as the Father loved me, I also loved you, remain in my love: ¹⁰if my commandments ye may keep, ye shall remain in my love, according as I the commands of my Father have kept, and remain in His love: ¹¹these things have I spoken to you, that my joy in you may remain, and your joy may be full.

¹²This is my command, that ye love one another, according as I loved you: ¹³greater love than this hath no one, that any one his life may lay down for his friends: ¹⁴ye are my friends, if ye do whatever I command you: ¹⁵no more do I call you servants, because the servant knoweth not what his lord doeth, but you I have called friends, because all things that I heard from my Father, I made known to you.

¹⁶Ye did not choose me, but I chose you, and appointed you, that ye might go, and might bear fruit, and your fruit might remain, that whatever ye may ask of the Father in my name, He may give you.

¹⁷These things I command you, that ye love one another: ¹⁸if the world hateth you, ye know that it hath hated me before you; ¹⁹if of the world ye were, the world its own would have been loving, but because of the world ye are not—but I chose you out of the world,—for this doth the world hate you.

²⁰Remember the word which I said to you, A servant is not greater than his lord: if me they persecuted, you also they will persecute: if my word they kept, yours also they will keep: ²¹but all these things will they do to you, because of my name, because they know not Him who sent me: ²²if I had not come and spoken to them, they were not having sin; but now pretence they have none concerning their sin.

²³He who is hating me, hateth also my Father: ²⁴if I had not done among them the works which no other hath done, they would not have had sin, but now they have both seen and hated both me and my Father: ²⁵but—that the word may be fulfilled which hath been written in their law—they hated me without a cause.

²⁶But when the Comforter may come, whom I will send to you from the Father—the Spirit of truth, who from the Father cometh forth, he will testify concerning me: ²⁷and ye also do testify, because from the beginning ye are with me.

XVI. ¹THESE things have I spoken to you, that ye may not be stumbled. ²out of the synagogues they will put you; but an hour cometh, that every one who hath killed you, may think to offer service to God: ³and these things will they do to you, because they know not the Father, nor me.

⁴But these things have I spoken to you, that when the hour may come, ye may remember them, that I said them to you, and these things to you from the beginning I said not, because I was with you: ⁵but now I go away to Him who sent me, and none of you asketh me, Whither goest thou? ⁶but because these things I have said to you, sorrow hath filled your heart.

⁷But I tell you the truth: it is good for you that I go away: for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come to you; but if I go, I will send him to you: ⁸and having come, He will convict the world concerning sin, and concerning righteousness, and concerning judgment: ⁹concerning sin, because they believe not in me: ¹⁰concerning righteousness, because to my Father I go away, and no more do ye behold me: ¹¹and concerning judgment, because the ruler of this world hath been judged.

¹²I have yet many things to say to you, but ye are not able to bear them now: ¹³but when he may come—the Spirit of truth—he will guide you into all the truth, for he will not speak from himself, but as many things as he may hear he will speak, and the coming things he will tell you: ¹⁴he will glorify me, because of mine he will take, and will tell it to you.

¹⁵All things, as many as the Father hath, are mine: because of this I said, That of mine he will take, and will tell it to you: ¹⁶a little while, and ye behold me not, and again a little while, and ye shall see me, because I go away to the Father.

¹⁷Therefore said some of his disciples one to another, 'What is this that he saith to us, A little while, and ye behold me not, and again a little while, and ye will see me, and, Because I go away to the Father?' ¹⁸they said then, 'What is this that he saith—the little while? we know not what he speaketh.'

¹⁰ Jesus therefore knew that they were wishing to ask him, and said to them, 'Concerning this do ye seek one with another, because I said, A little while, and you behold me not, and again in a little while, and you will see me? ²⁰ verily, verily, I say to you, that ye will weep and lament, but the world will rejoice; and ye will be sorrowful, but your sorrow joy will become.'

²¹ 'The woman, when she may bear, hath sorrow, because her hour hath come: but when she may bring forth the child, no more doth she remember the anguish, for the joy that a man was born into the world.'

²² 'And ye therefore now indeed have sorrow: but again I will see you, and your heart shall rejoice; and your joy no one taketh from you: ²³ and in that day ye will question me nothing: verily, verily, I say to you, as many things as ye may ask of the Father in my name, He will give you: ²⁴ till now ye asked nothing in my name: ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full.'

²⁵ 'These things in similitudes have I spoken to you, but there cometh an hour when no more in similitudes will I speak to you, but openly of the Father tell you.'

²⁶ 'In that day, in my name ye will make request, and I do not say to you that I will ask the Father for you, ²⁷ for the Father Himself loveth you, because me ye have loved, and have believed that I from God came out: ²⁸ I came out from the Father, and have come into the world: again I leave the world, and proceed to the Father.'

²⁹ His disciples say to him 'Lo, now openly dost thou speak, and no similitude speakest thou: ³⁰ now have we known that thou hast known all things, and hast no need that any one ask thee: in this we believe that from God thou didst come out.'

³¹ Jesus answered them, 'Now do ye believe? lo, there cometh an hour, ³² and now hath it come, that ye will be scattered, each to his own things, and me ye will leave alone, and I am not alone, because the Father is with me: ³³ these things have I spoken to you, that in me ye may have peace, in the world ye shall have tribulation, but take courage—I have overcome the world.'

XVII. 'THESE things spake Jesus, and lifted up his eyes to the heaven, and said—Father, the hour hath come: glorify Thy Son, that Thy Son also may glorify Thee: ² according as Thou gavest him authority over all flesh, that—all that Thou hast given to him—he may give to them life age during: ³ and this is the age-during life, that they may know Thee, the only true God, and him whom Thou didst send—Jesus Christ: ⁴ I glorified Thee on the earth: the work I finished which Thou hast given me, that I may do it.'

⁵ And now, glorify me, Thou Father, with Thyself: with the glory which I had, before the world was, with Thee: ⁶ I manifested Thy name to the men whom Thou hast given to me out of the world: Thine they were, and to me Thou hast given them: and Thy word they have kept: ⁷ now they have known that all things, as many as Thou hast given to me, are from Thee, ⁸ because the sayings which Thou hast given to me, I have given to them, and they themselves received, and have known truly that from Thee I came out, and they believed that Thou didst send me.

⁹ 'I ask in regard to them; not in regard to the world do I ask, but in regard to those whom Thou hast given to me, because Thine they are; ¹⁰ and mine are all Thine, and Thine mine; and I have been glorified in them: ¹¹ and no more am I in the world, these are in the world, and I come to Thee.'

'Holy Father, keep them in Thy name, whom Thou hast given to me, that they may be one as we: ¹² when I was with them in the world, I was keeping them in Thy name: those whom Thou hast given to me I kept, and none of them was destroyed, except the son of destruction, that the writing may be fulfilled.'

¹³ 'But now to Thee I come, and these things I speak in the world, that they may have my joy fulfilled in themselves: ¹⁴ I have given to them Thy word, and the world hated them, because they are not of the world, as I am not of the world: ¹⁵ I ask not that Thou mayest take them out of the world, but that Thou mayest keep them from the evil.'

¹⁶ 'Of the world they are not, as I of the world am not: ¹⁷ sanctify them in Thy truth: Thy word is truth: ¹⁸ as Thou sentest me into the world, I also sent them into the world: ¹⁹ and for them I sanctify myself, that they also themselves may be sanctified in truth.'

²⁰ 'Not in regard to these alone do I ask, but also in regard to those believing, through their word, in me: ²¹ that they all may be one, as Thou Father art in me, and I in Thee: that they also themselves in us may be one, that the world may believe that Thou sentest me.'

²² 'And I, the glory which Thou hast given to me, have given to them, that they may be one as we are one: ²³ I in them, and Thou in me, that they be perfected into one, and that the world may know that Thou sentest me, and lovedst them as Thou lovedst me.'

²⁴ 'Father, those whom Thou hast given to me, I will that where I am they also may be with me, that they may behold my glory which Thou gavest to me, for Thou lovedst me before the foundation of the world.'

²⁵ 'Righteous Father, also the world knew Thee not, but I knew Thee, and these have known that Thou sentest me; ²⁶ and I made known to them Thy name, and will make known, that the love with which Thou lovedst me in them may be, and I in them.'

XVIII. 'THESE things having said, Jesus went out with his disciples beyond the brook of Kedron, where was a garden, into which he entered, himself and his disciples: ² and Judas also, who delivered him up, knew the place, because many times Jesus assembled there with his disciples.'

³ Judas therefore having taken the band and officers from the chief priests and Pharisees, cometh thither with torches, and lamps, and weapons: ⁴Jesus therefore knowing all things that were coming upon him, having gone out, said to them, 'Whom seek ye?' ⁵they answered him, 'Jesus the Nazarene;' Jesus saith to them, 'I am he;' (and Judas who delivered him up was standing with them;) ⁶when therefore he said to them—'I am he,' they went away backward, and fell to the ground.

⁷Again, therefore, he questioned them, 'Whom seek ye?' and they said, 'Jesus the Nazarene;' ⁸Jesus answered, 'I said to you that I am he; if therefore me ye seek, suffer these to go away;' ⁹that the word might be fulfilled which he said—'Those whom Thou hast given to me, I lost none of them.'

¹⁰Simon Peter therefore, having a sword, drew it, and struck the chief priest's servant, and cut off his right ear, (and the name of the servant was Malchus,) ¹¹Jesus therefore said to Peter, 'Put thy sword into the sheath; the cup which the Father hath given to me, may I not drink it?'

¹²The band, therefore, and the captain, and the officers of the Jews, took hold of Jesus, and bound him, ¹³and led him away to Annas first, for he was father-in-law of Caiaphas, who was chief priest of that year, ¹⁴and Caiaphas was he who gave counsel to the Jews, that it is good for one man to perish for the people.

¹⁵And following Jesus was Simon Peter, also the other disciple; and that disciple was known to the chief priest, and entered with Jesus into the hall of the chief priest; ¹⁶but Peter was standing at the door without: therefore went out the other disciple who was known to the chief priest, and spake to the female keeping the door, and brought in Peter.

¹⁷Then saith the maid keeping the door to Peter, 'Art thou also of the disciples of this man?' he saith, 'I am not;' ¹⁸and the servants and the officers were standing, having made a fire of coals, for it was cold, and were warming themselves; Peter also was standing with them, and warming himself.

¹⁹The chief priest therefore questioned Jesus concerning his disciples, and concerning his teaching: ²⁰Jesus answered him, 'I spake openly to the world: I always taught in the synagogue, and in the temple, where the Jews always come together; and in secret I spake nothing; ²¹why me dost thou question? question those who have heard what I spake to them; lo, these know what I said.'

²²And he having said these things, one of the officers standing by gave Jesus a slap, saying, 'Thus dost thou answer the chief priest?' ²³Jesus answered him, 'If I speak ill, testify concerning the evil; but if well, why me dost thou smite?' ²⁴Annas then sent him bound to Caiaphas the chief priest.

²⁵And Simon Peter was standing warming himself; they said then to him, 'Art thou also of his disciples?' he denied, and said, 'I am not.'

²⁶One of the servants of the chief priest, being kinsman of him whose ear Peter cut off, saith, 'Did not I see thee in the garden with him?' ²⁷again therefore Peter denied, and immediately a cock crew.

²⁸They lead therefore Jesus from Caiaphas into the pretorium, and it was early, and they themselves entered not into the pretorium, that they might not be defiled, but that they might eat the passover; ²⁹Pilate therefore went out to them, and said, 'What accusation bring ye against this man?' ³⁰they answered and said to him, 'If he were not an evil doer, we would not have delivered him up to thee.'

³¹Pilate therefore said to them, 'Take ye him—ye—and according to your law judge him;' the Jews therefore said to him, 'It is not legal for us to put any one to death,' ³²that the word of Jesus might be fulfilled which he said, signifying by what death he was about to die.

³³Pilate therefore entered into the pretorium again, and called Jesus, and said to him, 'Thou art the King of the Jews?' ³⁴Jesus answered him, 'From thyself dost thou say this? or did others say it to thee about me?'

³⁵Pilate answered, 'Am I a Jew? thine own nation, and the chief priests delivered thee up to me; what didst thou?' ³⁶Jesus answered, 'My kingdom is not of this world; if my kingdom were of this world, my officers would have struggled that I might not be delivered up to the Jews; but now my kingdom is not from hence.'

³⁷Pilate therefore said to him, 'Art thou a king then?' Jesus answered, 'Thou sayest it; king I am, I for this have been born, and for this have I come into the world, that I may testify to the truth; every one who is of the truth heareth my voice.'

³⁸Pilate saith to him, 'What is truth?' and this having said, again he went out to the Jews, and saith to them, 'I find no fault in him; ³⁹but ye have a custom that I release to you one—in the passover; will ye, therefore, that I shall release to you the king of the Jews?' ⁴⁰therefore they all cried out again, saying, 'Not this one—but Barabbas;' now Barabbas was a robber.

XIX. ¹THEN, therefore, Pilate took Jesus and scourged him, ²and the soldiers having plaited a crown of thorns, placed it on his head, and a purple garment they put around him, ³and said, 'Hail! the King of the Jews;' and they were giving him slaps.

⁴Pilate therefore again went out without, and saith to them, 'Lo, I bring him to you without, that ye may know that in him I find no fault;' ⁵Jesus therefore came out without, bearing the thorny crown and the purple garment; and he saith to them, 'Lo, the man!'

⁶When therefore the chief priests and the officers saw him, they cried out, saying, 'Crucify, crucify;' Pilate saith to them, 'Take him yourselves, and crucify; for I find no fault in him;' ⁷the Jews answered him, 'We have a law, and according to our law he ought to die, because he made himself Son of God.'

⁸ When therefore Pilate heard this word, he was the more afraid, ⁹ and entered again into the pretorium, and saith to Jesus, 'Whence art thou?' but Jesus gave him no answer.

¹⁰ Pilate therefore saith to him, 'To me dost thou not speak? hast thou not known that I have authority to crucify thee, and I have authority to release thee?' ¹¹ Jesus answered, 'Thou wouldest have no power against me, if it were not given thee from above; because of this, he who is delivering me up to thee hath greater sin.'

¹² From this time Pilate was seeking to release him, but the Jews were crying out, saying, 'If this one thou mayest release, thou art not a friend of Cæsar; every one making himself a king, speaketh against Cæsar.'

¹³ Pilate therefore having heard this word, brought Jesus without, (and he sat down upon the tribunal,) into a place called 'Pavement,' but in Hebrew, Gabbatha; ¹⁴ and it was the preparation of the pass-over, and as it were the sixth hour; and he saith to the Jews, 'Lo, your king!' ¹⁵ but they cried out, 'Take him away, take away, crucify him;' Pilate saith to them, 'Your king shall I crucify?' the chief priests answered, 'We have no king except Cæsar.'

¹⁶ Then therefore he delivered him up to them, that he may be crucified; and they took Jesus and led him away; ¹⁷ and bearing his cross, he went out into the place called Place of a Skull, which is called in Hebrew Golgotha, ¹⁸ where they crucified him, and with him two others, on this side, and on that side, but Jesus in the midst.

¹⁹ And Pilate also wrote a title, and put it on the cross, and it was written, 'Jesus the Nazarene, the King of the Jews;' ²⁰ this title, therefore, read many of the Jews, because the place was near the city where Jesus was crucified, and it was written in Hebrew, in Greek, in Roman.

²¹ The chief priests of the Jews said therefore to Pilate, 'Write not—The King of the Jews, but that that one said, I am King of the Jews;' ²² Pilate answered, 'What I have written, I have written.'

²³ The soldiers therefore, when they crucified Jesus, took his garments, and made four parts, to each soldier a part, also the coat, but the coat was seamless, from the top woven throughout; ²⁴ they said therefore to one another, 'Let us not rend it, but cast a lot for it, whose it shall be;' that the writing might be fulfilled, which is saying, 'They divided my garments to themselves, and upon my raiment they cast a lot;' the soldiers therefore did these things.

²⁵ And there stood by the cross of Jesus his mother, and his mother's sister, Mary of Cleopas, and Mary the Magdalene; ²⁶ Jesus therefore having seen his mother, and the disciple standing by whom he was loving, saith to his mother, 'Woman, lo, thy son;' ²⁷ afterward he saith to the disciple, 'Lo, thy mother;' and from that hour that disciple took her to his own friends.

²⁸ After this, Jesus knowing that all things now have been finished, that the writing may be fulfilled, saith, 'I thirst;' ²⁹ therefore was a vessel placed full of vinegar, and they having filled a sponge with vinegar, and having put it around a hyssop stalk, put it to his mouth; ³⁰ when therefore Jesus received the vinegar, he said, 'It hath been finished;' and having bowed the head, he gave up the spirit.

³¹ The Jews, therefore, that the bodies might not remain on the cross during the sabbath, since it was the preparation, (for that sabbath-day was a great one,) asked of Pilate that their legs might be broken, and they taken away.

³² The soldiers therefore came, and of the first indeed they did break the legs, and of the other who was crucified with him, ³³ but having come to Jesus, when they saw him already dead, they did not break his legs; ³⁴ but one of the soldiers with a spear pierced his side, and immediately there came out blood and water; ³⁵ and he who hath seen hath testified, and his testimony is true, and that one knoweth that true things he speaketh, that ye may believe.

³⁸ And after these things, Joseph of Arimathea, (being a disciple of Jesus, but concealed, through the fear of the Jews,) asked of Pilate, that he may take away the body of Jesus, and Pilate gave leave; he came, therefore, and took away the body of Jesus; ³⁹ and Nicodemus also came, (who came to Jesus by night at the first,) bearing a mixture of myrrh and aloes, as it were an hundred pounds.

⁴⁰ They took therefore the body of Jesus, and bound it with linen clothes with the spices, according as it was the custom of the Jews to prepare for burial; ⁴¹ and there was in the place where he was crucified a garden, and in the garden a new tomb, in which no one was yet laid; ⁴² there therefore, on account of the preparation of the Jews, because the tomb was near, they laid Jesus.

XX. ¹ AND on the first of the sabbaths, Mary the Magdalene cometh early (there being yet darkness) to the tomb, and seeth the stone having been taken away from the tomb; ² she runneth therefore, and cometh to Simon Peter, and to the other disciple whom Jesus was loving, and saith to them, 'They took away the Lord out of the tomb, and we know not where they laid him.'

³ Peter therefore went out, and the other disciple, and they were coming to the tomb; ⁴ and the two were running together, and the other disciple ran forward more quickly than Peter, and came first to the tomb, ⁵ and having stooped down, seeth the linen clothes lying, nevertheless he entered not.

⁶ Simon Peter therefore cometh, following him, and he entered into the tomb, and beholdeth the linen clothes lying, ⁷ and the napkin that was upon his head, not lying with the linen clothes, but apart, having been folded up, in one place; ⁸ then therefore entered also the other disciple who came first unto the tomb, and he saw, and believed; ⁹ for up to this time they knew not the writing, that it behoveth him from the dead to rise again.

¹⁰ The disciples therefore went away again to their own friends; ¹¹ but Mary was standing by the tomb, weeping without; as she was weeping, therefore, she stooped down into the tomb, and beholdeth two messengers in white, sitting, ¹² one at the head, and one at the feet, where the body of Jesus had been laid.

¹³ And they say to her, 'Woman, why weepest thou?' she saith to them, 'Because they took away my Lord, and I know not where they laid him.' ¹⁴ And these things having said, she turned backward, and seeth Jesus standing, and she knew not that it is Jesus.

¹⁵ Jesus saith to her, 'Woman, why weepest thou? whom seekest thou?' she, supposing that he is the gardener, saith to him, 'Sir, if thou didst carry him away, tell me where thou didst lay him, and I will take him away.' ¹⁶ Jesus saith to her, 'Mary!' having turned, she saith to him, 'Rabboni,' which is to say, 'Teacher.'

¹⁷ Jesus saith to her, 'Touch me not, for I have not yet ascended to my Father; but proceed to my brethren, and say to them, I ascend to my Father, and your Father, and my God, and your God.' ¹⁸ Mary the Magdalene cometh, telling to the disciples that she hath seen the Lord, and that these things he said to her.

¹⁹ It being therefore evening, on that day, the first of the sabbaths, and the doors having been shut, where the disciples were assembled, because of the fear of the Jews, Jesus came and stood in the midst, and saith to them, 'Peace to you;' ²⁰ and this having said, he shewed them his hands and side; the disciples therefore rejoiced, having seen the Lord.

²¹ Jesus therefore said to them again, 'Peace to you, according as the Father hath sent me, I also send you;' ²² and this having said, he breathed on them, and saith to them, 'Receive the Holy Spirit;' ²³ if of any ye may loose the sins, they are loosed to them: if of any ye may retain, they have been retained.'

²⁴ But Thomas, one of the twelve, called Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came; ²⁵ the other disciples therefore said to him, 'We have seen the Lord;' but he said to them, 'If I may not see in his hands the mark of the nails, and put my finger into the mark of the nails, and put my hand to his side, I will not believe.'

²⁶ And after eight days, again were his disciples within, and Thomas with them; Jesus cometh, the doors having been shut, and he stood in the midst, and said, 'Peace to you!' ²⁷ then he saith to Thomas, 'Bring thy finger hither, and see my hands, and bring thy hand, and put it to my side; and be not unbelieving, but believing.'

²⁸ And Thomas answered and said to him, 'My Lord and my God.' ²⁹ Jesus saith to him, 'Because thou hast seen me, Thomas, thou hast believed; happy those who have not seen, and have believed.'

³⁰ Many indeed, therefore, other signs also did Jesus in presence of his disciples, which are not written in this book; ³¹ but these have been written that ye may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing ye may have life in his name.

XXI. ¹ AFTER these things Jesus manifested himself again to the disciples, on the sea of Tiberias; and he manifested himself thus: ² There were together Simon Peter and Thomas called Didymus, and Nathanael from Cana of Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and two others of his disciples.

³ Simon Peter saith to them, 'I go to fish;' they say to him, 'We go—we also—with thee;' they went out and entered into the boat immediately, and during that night they caught nothing.

⁴ But morning being now come, Jesus stood on the shore, nevertheless the disciples knew not that it is Jesus; ⁵ Jesus therefore saith to them, 'Lads, have ye any victuals?' ⁶ they answered him, 'No;' and he said to them, 'Cast the net on the right side of the boat, and ye shall find;' they cast, therefore, and no longer were they able to draw it, from the multitude of the fishes.

⁷ That disciple therefore whom Jesus was loving saith to Peter, 'The Lord it is!' Simon Peter therefore having heard that it is the Lord, girded on the coat, (for he was naked,) and cast himself into the sea; ⁸ but the other disciples came by the little boat, for they were not far from the land, but as it were about two hundred cubits off, dragging the net of the fishes; ⁹ when therefore they came to land, they beheld a fire of coals lying, and a fish lying on it, and bread.

¹² Jesus saith to them, 'Come ye, dine;' but none of the disciples was venturing to inquire of him, 'Who art thou?' knowing that it is the Lord; ¹³ Jesus therefore cometh and taketh the bread, and giveth to them, and the fish in like manner; ¹⁴ this is now a third time Jesus was manifested to his disciples, being raised from the dead.

¹⁵ When therefore they dined, Jesus saith to Simon Peter, 'Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me more than these?' he saith to him, 'Yes, Lord; thou knowest that I dearly love thee;' he saith to him, 'Feed my lambs.'

¹⁶ He saith to him again, a second time, 'Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me?' he saith to him, 'Yes, Lord; thou knowest that I dearly love thee;' he saith to him, 'Tend my sheep.'

¹⁷ He saith to him the third time, 'Simon, son of Jonas, dost thou dearly love me?' Peter was grieved that he said to him the third time, 'Dost thou dearly love me?' and he said to him, 'Lord, thou knowest all things: thou knowest that I dearly love thee.'

Jesus saith to him, 'Feed my sheep: ¹⁸verily, verily, I say to thee, When thou wast younger, thou wast girding thyself and walking where thou didst wish, but when thou mayest be old, thou shalt stretch out thy hands, and another will gird thee, and carry thee whither thou dost not wish: ¹⁹and this he said, signifying by what death he shall glorify God: and having said this, he saith to him, 'Be following me.'

²⁰And Peter having turned about, seeth the disciple whom Jesus was loving following, who also reclined during the supper on his breast, and said, 'Sir, who is he who is delivering thee up?' ²¹Peter having seen this one, saith to 'Jesus, 'Lord, but what of this one?' ²²Jesus saith to him, 'If him I wish to remain till I come, what—to thee? be thou following me.'

This word therefore went out to the brethren that that disciple doth not die: ²³and Jesus said not to him, that he doth not die, but, 'If him I wish to remain till I come, what—to thee?' ²⁴this is the disciple who is testifying concerning these things, and wrote these things: and we know that his testimony is true.

²⁵But there are also many other things—as many as Jesus did—which, if they may be written one by one, not even the world itself I think to have place for the books written. Amen.

CHAP. I. ¹THE former account, indeed, I made concerning all things, O Theophilus, that Jesus began both to do and to teach, ²till the day in which, having through the Holy Spirit given command to the apostles whom he chose, he was taken up, ³to whom also he presented himself alive after his suffering by many certain proofs, through forty days being seen by them, and speaking the things concerning the reign of God.

⁴And being assembled together with them, he commanded them not to depart from Jerusalem, but to wait for the promise of the Father, which, said he. ⁵'Ye heard of me; ⁶for John indeed baptized with water, but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Spirit—not many days hence.'

⁷'They therefore indeed, having come together, were questioning him, saying, 'Lord, dost thou at this time restore the reign to Israel?' ⁸and he said to them, 'It is not yours to know times or seasons which the Father appointed in His own authority; ⁹but ye shall receive power at the coming of the Holy Spirit upon you, and ye shall be witnesses to me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and Samaria, and unto the end of the earth.'

¹⁰And these things having said—they beholding—he was taken up, and a cloud received him up from their sight: ¹¹and as they were looking stedfastly toward the heaven in his going on, then, lo, two men stood by them in white apparel, ¹²who also said, 'Men, Galileans, why stand ye gazing into the heaven? this Jesus who was taken up from you into the heaven, he shall come in what manner ye saw him going into the heaven.'

¹³Then returned they to Jerusalem from the mount which is called Olivet, which is near Jerusalem, a sabbath's journey: ¹⁴and when they came in, they went up to the upper room, where were abiding both Peter, and James, and John, and Andrew, Philip, and Thomas, Bartholomew, and Matthew, James son of Alphens, and Simon the Zealotes, and Judas brother of James: ¹⁵these all were continuing with one accord in prayer and supplication, with the women, and Mary, the mother of Jesus, and with his brethren.

¹⁶And in those days, Peter having risen up in the midst of the disciples, said, (and the multitude of the names together was, as it were, an hundred and twenty,) ¹⁷'Men, brethren, this writing behoved to be fulfilled which beforehand the Holy Spirit spake through the mouth of David, concerning Judas, who became guide to those who took Jesus, ¹⁸for he was numbered with us, and received a place in this ministration: ¹⁹this one, indeed, then, purchased a portion with the reward of unrighteousness, and falling headlong, burst asunder in the midst, and all his bowels gushed out: ²⁰and it became known to all those dwelling in Jerusalem, inasmuch as that place is called, in their proper dialect, Acceldama, that is, Portion of blood: ²¹for it hath been written in the book of Psalms, Let his lodging-place become desolate, and let no one be dwelling therein, and his oversight let another take.

²²'It behoveth, therefore, of the men who have gone with us during all the time in which the Lord Jesus went in and went out among us, ²³beginning from the baptism of John, unto the day in which he was taken up from us, one of these to become with us a witness of his rising again.'

²⁴And they set two, Joseph called Barsabas, who was surnamed Justus, and Matthias: ²⁵and praying, they said, 'Thou, Lord, who art knowing the hearts of all, shew of these two which one thou didst choose, ²⁶to receive a place in this ministration and apostleship, from which Judas, by transgression, fell, to go to his own place.' ²⁷and they gave their lots, and the lot fell on Matthias, and he was numbered with the eleven apostles.

II. ¹AND in the day of the Pentecost being fulfilled, they were all with one accord at the same place, ²and there came suddenly out of the heaven a sound as of a bearing violent breath, and it filled all the house where they were sitting: ³and there appeared to them divided tongues, as it were of fire; and it sat upon each one of them, ⁴and they were all filled with the Holy Spirit, and began to speak with other tongues, according as the Spirit was given to them to declare.

⁵And there were dwelling in Jerusalem Jews, devout men from every nation of those under the heaven, ⁶and this rumour having come, the multitude came together, and were confounded, because they were each one hearing them speaking in his own dialect, ⁷and they were all amazed, and wondered, saying to one another, 'Lo, are not all these who are speaking Galileans? ⁸and how do we hear, each in our own dialect, in which we were born? ⁹Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, and those dwelling in Mesopotamia, in Judea also, and Cappadocia, Pontus, and Asia, ¹⁰Phrygia also, and Pamphylia, Egypt, and the parts of Libya, which is along Cyrene, and the strangers of Rome, both Jews and proselytes, ¹¹Cretes and Arabians, we do hear them speaking in our tongues the great things of God.'

¹² And they were all amazed, and were in doubt, saying one to another, 'What would this wish to be?' ¹³ But others mocking said—'They are full of sweet wine;' ¹⁴ but Peter having stood up with the eleven, lifted up his voice and declared to them, 'Men, Jews! and all those dwelling in Jerusalem, let this be known to you, and hearken to my sayings, ¹⁵ for these are not drunken as ye take it up, for it is the third hour of the day.

¹⁶ But this is that which hath been spoken through the prophet Joel: ¹⁷ And it shall be in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of My Spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams; ¹⁸ and also on My men-servants, and on My maid-servants, in those days, I will pour out of My Spirit, and they shall prophesy; ¹⁹ and I will give wonders in the heaven above, and signs on the earth beneath; blood, and fire, and vapour of smoke, ²⁰ the sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before the coming of the day of the Lord—the great and manifest; ²¹ and it shall be, every one—whosoever—shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved.

²² Men, Israelites! hear these words: Jesus the Nazarene, a man approved of God among you by mighty works and wonders and signs, which God did through him in the midst of you, according as also ye yourselves know; ²³ this one, by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, being delivered up, having taken by lawless hands, having crucified, ye slew; ²⁴ whom God raised up, having loosed the pains of death, because it was not possible for him to be held by it, ²⁵ for David saith in reference to him: I set the Lord always before me—because He is on my right hand—that I may not be moved; ²⁶ therefore did my heart rejoice, and my tongue was glad, and yet—my flesh also shall rest in hope, ²⁷ because Thou wilt not leave my soul to hades, nor wilt Thou give Thy Pious One to see corruption; ²⁸ Thou hast made known to me the ways of life: Thou shalt make me full of joy with Thy countenance.

²⁹ Men, brethren! it is lawful to speak openly to you concerning the patriarch David, that he both died and was buried, and his tomb is with us till this day; ³⁰ therefore being a prophet, and knowing that with an oath God swore to him, out of the fruit of his loins, according to the flesh, to raise up the Christ, to sit upon his throne, ³¹ having foreseen, he spake concerning the rising again of the Christ, that his soul was not left to hades, nor did his flesh see corruption.

³² This Jesus, God raised up, of which we all are witnesses: ³³ at the right hand then of God having been exalted,—also the promise of the Holy Spirit having received from the Father,—he was shedding forth this, which now ye see and hear: ³⁴ for David did not ascend into the heavens, but he saith himself: The Lord said to my lord, Sit thou on my right hand, ³⁵ till I make thy foes thy footstool; ³⁶ assuredly therefore let all the house of Israel know, that Lord and Christ hath God made him—this Jesus whom ye crucified.'

³⁷ And having heard, they were pricked at the heart, and said to Peter, and to the rest of the apostles, 'What shall we do, men, brethren?' ³⁸ and Peter said to them, 'Reform, and be baptized each of you in the name of Jesus Christ, for remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit, ³⁹ for to you is the promise, and to your children, and to all those afar off, as many as the Lord our God shall call.'

⁴⁰ Also with many more other words he was testifying and exhorting, saying, 'Be saved from this perverse generation;' ⁴¹ then, indeed, those who gladly received his word were baptized; and there were added on that day, as it were, three thousand souls. ⁴² and they were continuing stedfastly in the teaching of the apostles, and the fellowship, and the breaking of the bread, and the prayers.

⁴³ And fear came on every soul, many wonders also and signs were being done through the apostles; ⁴⁴ and all those believing were at the same place, and had all things common, ⁴⁵ and the possessions and the goods they were selling, and were parting them to all, according as any one had need.

⁴⁶ Daily also continuing with one accord in the temple, breaking also at every house bread, they were partaking of food with gladness and simplicity of heart, ⁴⁷ praising God, and having favour with all the people; and the Lord was adding the saved every day to the assembly.

III. ¹ AND Peter and John were going up at the same time to the temple, at the hour of the prayer, the ninth hour, ² and a certain man, being lame from the womb of his mother, was being carried, whom they were laying every day at the gate of the temple, which is called Beautiful, to ask a kindness from those entering into the temple, ³ who having seen Peter and John about to go in to the temple, was asking to receive a kind ness.

⁴ And Peter having looked stedfastly to wards him, with John, said, 'Look toward us;' ⁵ and he was giving heed to them, looking to receive something from them; ⁶ but Peter said, 'Silver and gold have I none: but what I have, that I give to thee: in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk.'

⁷ And having seized him by the right hand, he lifted him up, and presently his feet and ancle-bones were strengthened; ⁸ and leaping up, he stood, and was walking, and entered with them into the temple, walking and leaping, and praising God: ⁹ and all the people saw him walking and praising God, ¹⁰ they were knowing him also that this was he who for a kindness was sitting at the Beautiful gate of the temple:

and they were filled with wonder and amazement at what hath happened to him.

¹¹ And as the lame man who was healed held Peter and John, all the people ran together to them in the porch, which is called Solomon's—greatly amazed: ¹² and Peter having seen, answered to the people, 'Men, Israelites! why wonder ye at this? or on us why look ye so earnestly, as if by our own power or godliness we had made him to walk?

¹³ The God of Abraham, and of Isaac, and of Jacob, the God of our fathers, glorified His child Jesus, whom ye delivered up, and denied him in the presence of Pilate, he having given judgment to release him, ¹⁴ but ye the Holy and Righteous One denied, and desired a man—a murderer—to be granted to you, ¹⁵ and the Prince of life ye killed, whom God raised from the dead, of which we are witnesses: ¹⁶ and in the faith of his name, this one whom ye see and know, his name made strong, even the faith which is through him gave to him this perfect soundness before you all.

¹⁷ And now, brethren, I know that through ignorance ye did it, as also your rulers; ¹⁸ but God, what things before He had declared through the mouth of all His prophets, that the Christ should suffer, He hath thus fulfilled: ¹⁹ reform ye, therefore, and turn back, for your sins being blotted out, that the times of refreshing may come from the presence of the Lord, ²⁰ and He may send Jesus Christ, who before hath been preached to you, ²¹ whom it behoveth heaven, indeed, to receive till the times of the restitution of all things, of which God spake through the mouth of all His holy prophets from the ages.

²² For Moses, indeed, to the fathers said—A prophet to you shall the Lord your God raise out of your brethren, like to me; him shall ye hear in all things, as many as he may speak to you; ²³ and it shall be, every soul which may not hear that prophet shall be utterly destroyed out of the people; ²⁴ and also all the prophets from Samuel, and those following in order, as many as spake, have also foretold of these days.

²⁵ 'Ye are sons of the prophets, and of the covenant which God made with our fathers, saying to Abraham: And in thy seed shall be blessed all the families of the earth; ²⁶ to you first, God, having raised up His child Jesus, sent him blessing you, in the turning away of each one from your evil ways.'

IV. ¹ AND as they were speaking to the people, there came on them the priests, and the magistrate of the temple, and the Sadducees, ² being grieved because of their teaching the people, and preaching in Jesus the rising again of the dead, ³ and they laid hands on them, and put them in custody unto the morrow, for it was evening already; ⁴ but many of those hearing the word believed, and the number of the men became, as it were, five thousand.

⁵ And it came to pass on the morrow, there were gathered together of them the rulers, and elders, and scribes, at Jerusalem, ⁶ and Annas the chief priest, and Caiaphas, and John, and Alexander, and as many as were of the kindred of the chief priest, ⁷ and having set them in the midst, they were inquiring, 'By what power, or in what name did ye this?'

⁸ Then Peter, having been filled with the Holy Spirit, said to them, 'Rulers of the people, and elders of Israel, ⁹ if we to-day are examined concerning the good deed to the infirm man, by whom he hath been saved, ¹⁰ be it known to all of you, and to all the people of Israel, that in the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, whom God raised from the dead, in him hath this one stood by before you whole.

¹¹ This is the stone which was set at nought by you—the builders, which became the head of a corner; ¹² neither is there salvation in any other, for there is no other name under the heaven which hath been given among men, by which it behoveth us to be saved.'

¹³ And beholding the boldness of Peter and John, and having perceived that they are men unlettered and plebeian, they were wondering: they were taking knowledge also of them that with Jesus they had been;

¹⁸ And having called them, they charged them not to speak at all, nor to teach, in the name of Jesus: ¹⁹ but Peter and John, answering to them said, 'Whether it be right in the sight of God to hearken to you rather than to God, judge ye: ²⁰ for we cannot but speak what we have seen and heard.'

²¹ And they having further threatened them, let them go, finding nothing how they may punish them, because of the people; for all were glorifying God for that which hath been done: ²² for above forty years of age was the man on whom had been done this sign of the healing.

²³ And being let go, they went to their own friends, and declared whatever the chief priests and the elders said to them, ²⁴ and they having heard, with one accord lifted up the voice to God, and said, 'Lord, thou art God, who hast made the heaven, and the earth, and the sea, and all that are in them, ²⁵ who, through the mouth of David thy servant, saidst, Why did nations rage, and peoples meditate vain things? ²⁶ the kings of the earth stood up, and the rulers were gathered together against the Lord and against His Christ. ²⁷ For gathered together of a truth against Thy holy child Jesus, whom Thou didst anoint, were both

Herod and Pontius Pilate, with nations, and peoples of Israel, ²³ to do whatever Thy hand and Thy counsel determined before to come to pass.

²⁴ And now, Lord, look upon their threatenings, and grant to Thy servants, with all boldness to speak Thy word, ²⁵ in the stretching forth of Thy hand, for healing, and signs and wonders to come to pass, through the name of Thy holy child Jesus.

²⁶ And they having prayed, the place was shaken in which they were gathered together, and they were all filled with the Holy Spirit, and were speaking the word of God with boldness: ²⁷ and of the multitude of those who believed the heart and the soul was one, and not one was saying that anything of the things he had was his own, but they had all things common.

²⁸ And with great power were the apostles giving testimony to the rising again of the Lord Jesus, great grace also was on them all, ²⁹ for there was not any one among them who lacked: for as many as were possessors of places, or houses, selling them, were bringing the prices of the things sold, ³⁰ and were laying them at the feet of the apostles, and distribution was made to each according as any one had need.

³¹ And Joses, who was surnamed by the apostles Barnabas, (which is, being interpreted, Son of Comfort,) a Levite, of Cyprus by birth, ³² a field being his, having sold it, brought the money and laid it at the feet of the apostles.

V. ¹ BUT a certain man, Ananias by name, with Sapphira his wife, sold a possession, ² and he kept back of the price—his wife also knowing of it—and having brought a certain part, at the feet of the apostles laid it.

³ But Peter said, 'Ananias, wherefore did the Adversary fill thine heart, for thee to lie to the Holy Spirit, and to keep back of the price of the place? ⁴ while it remained, was it not thine? and having been sold, in thine own power was it not? why is it, that thou didst put in thy heart this thing? thou didst not lie to men, but to God?' ⁵ and Ananias hearing these words, having fallen down, expired, and great fear came on all who heard these things: ⁶ and having risen, the young men wound him up, and having carried him out, buried him.

⁷ And it came to pass, about three hours after, that his wife, not knowing what hath happened, came in, ⁸ and Peter answered her, 'Tell me if for so much ye sold the place:' and she said, 'Yes, for so much.'

⁹ And Peter said to her, 'How—that ye agreed together to tempt the Spirit of the Lord? lo, the feet of those who buried thy husband are at the door, and they shall carry thee out:' ¹⁰ and she fell down presently at his feet, and expired, and the young men having come in, found her dead, and having carried her forth, buried her by her husband: ¹¹ and great fear came on all the assembly, and on all who heard these things.

¹² And through the hands of the apostles came many signs and wonders among the people, and they were with one accord all in the porch of Solomon: ¹³ but of the rest no one was daring to join himself to them, but the people were magnifying them. ¹⁴ and the more were believers added to the Lord, multitudes both of men and women: ¹⁵ so as into the streets to bring forth the infirm, and to lay them on couches and mats, that at the coming of Peter, even his shadow might overshadow some one of them: ¹⁶ and there were coming together also the multitude of the cities round about to Jerusalem, bearing infirm persons, and those harassed by unclean spirits—who were all healed.

¹⁷ And having risen, the chief priest, and all those with him, (which is the sect of the Sadducees,) were filled with indignation, ¹⁸ and laid their hands upon the apostles, and put them in the public prison: ¹⁹ but a messenger of the Lord through the night opened the doors of the prison, having also brought them forth, he said, ²⁰ 'Go, and standing, speak in the temple to the people all the sayings of this life:' ²¹ and having heard, they entered at the dawn into the temple, and were teaching.

But the chief priest having come, and those with him, they called together the sanhedrim and all the senate of the children of Israel, and sent to the prison to have them brought: ²² but the officers having come, did not find them in the prison, and having turned back, they told, ²³ saying—'The prison indeed found we shut with all safety, and the keepers standing without before the doors, but having opened—within we found no one.'

²⁴ And as the priest, and the magistrate of the temple, and the chief priest heard these words, they were doubting concerning them to what this would come: ²⁵ and coming near, a certain one told them, saying—'Lo, the men whom ye put in the prison are in the temple standing and teaching the people:' ²⁶ then the magistrate having gone away with the officers, brought them without violence, for they were fearing the people, lest they should be stoned: ²⁷ and having brought them, they set them in the sanhedrim, and the chief priest questioned them, ²⁸ saying, 'Did not we strictly command you not to teach in this name? and lo, ye have filled Jerusalem with your teaching, and intend to bring on us the blood of this man.'

²⁹ But Peter and the apostles answering said, 'To obey God it behoveth, rather than men: ³⁰ the God of our fathers raised up Jesus, whom ye slew, having hanged him on a tree: ³¹ this one, a Prince and a Saviour—him God exalted with His right hand, to give reformation to Israel, and forgiveness of sins; ³² and we are His witnesses of these things, and the Holy Spirit, also, whom God gave to those obeying him.'

³³ But they having heard, were cut to the heart, and were taking counsel to slay them, ³⁴ but a certain one, having risen up in the sanhedrim—a Pharisee, by name Gamaliel, a teacher of the law honoured by all the people—commanded to put the apostles forth a little, ²⁸and said to them, 'Men, Israelites, take heed to yourselves touching these men, what ye are about to do; ²⁹for before these days rose up Theudas, saying, that himself was some one, to whom a number of men joined themselves, as it were four hundred; who was slain, and all, as many as were obeying him, were scattered, and came to nought.

³⁰After this one rose up Judas the Galilean, in the days of the enrolment, and drew away much people after him, and that one perished, and all, as many as were obeying him, were scattered; ³¹and now I say to you, Refrain from these men, and let them alone, because if this counsel or this work be of men, it will be overthrown; ³²but if it is of God, ye are not able to overthrow it, lest perhaps also ye be found to fight against God.'

³³And to him they agreed, and having called the apostles, having beaten them, they commanded them not to speak in the name of Jesus, and let them go; ³⁴they indeed then departed from the presence of the sanhedrim, rejoicing that for his name they were counted worthy to suffer dishonour; ³⁵every day also in the temple, and in every house, they were not ceasing teaching and proclaiming the good news—Jesus the Christ.

V. 1. AND in these days of the disciples multiplying, there came a murmuring of the Hellenists at the Hebrews, because their widows were being overlooked in the daily ministration, ²but the twelve, having called near the multitude of the disciples, said, 'It is not pleasing that we, having left the word of God, minister at tables; ³look ye out, therefore, brethren, seven men of you who are well testified of, full of the Holy Spirit and wisdom, whom we may set over this business, ⁴but we to prayer, and to the ministration of the word, will give ourselves continually.'

⁵And the thing was pleasing before all the multitude, and they chose Stephen, a man full of faith and the Holy Spirit, and Philip, and Prochorus, and Nicanor, and Simon, and Parmenas, and Nicolaus, a proselyte of Antioch, ⁶whom they set before the apostles, and they having prayed, laid on them their hands.

And the word of God increased, and the number of the disciples multiplied in Jerusalem exceedingly; a great multitude also of the priests were obedient to the faith.

⁸And Stephen, full of faith and power, was doing great wonders and signs among the people; ⁹but there arose certain of those of the synagogue, which is called of the Libertines, and Cyrenians, and Alexandrians, and of them from Cilicia, and Asia, disputing with Stephen; ¹⁰and they were not able to resist the wisdom and the spirit by which he was speaking; ¹¹then they suborned men, saying—'We have heard him speaking evil sayings against Moses and God.'

¹²They stirred up also the people, and the elders, and the scribes, and having come upon him, caught him, and brought him to the sanhedrim; ¹³they set up also false witnesses, saying, 'This man ceaseth not to speak evil sayings against this holy place and the law, ¹⁴for we have heard him saying, That this Jesus the Nazarean shall overthrow this place, and change the customs which Moses delivered to us; ¹⁵and gazing at him, all those sitting in the sanhedrim saw his face as it were the face of a messenger.

VII. ¹AND the chief priest said, 'Are then these things so?' ²and he said, 'Men, brethren, and fathers, hearken: The God of glory appeared to our father Abraham, being in Mesopotamia, before his dwelling in Haran, ³and said to him, Go out from thy land, and from thy kindred, and come to the land which I shall shew thee.

⁴Then having come out of the land of the Chaldeans, he dwelt in Haran; and from thence, after the death of his father, He removed him to this land wherein ye now dwell; ⁵and He gave him no inheritance in it, not even a footstep, and promised to give it to him for a possession, and to his seed after him—he having no child.

⁶But God spake thus, that his seed shall be sojourning in a strange land, and they shall cause it to serve, and do it evil four hundred years; ⁷and the nation whom they shall serve will I judge, said God; and after these things shall they come forth and serve Me in this place.

⁸And He gave to him the covenant of circumcision; and so he begat Isaac, and circumcised him on the eighth day, and Isaac begat Jacob, and Jacob—the twelve patriarchs; ⁹and the patriarchs, having been moved with envy, sold Joseph into Egypt, and God was with him, ¹⁰and delivered him out of all his tribulations, and gave him favour and wisdom in the presence of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and he set him—governor over Egypt, and all his house.

¹¹But there came a dearth upon all the land of Egypt, and Canaan, and great tribulation, and our fathers were not finding sustenance; ¹²but Jacob having heard that there was corn in Egypt, sent out our fathers first; ¹³and at the second time Joseph was made known to his brethren, and Joseph's kindred became manifest to Pharaoh; ¹⁴and Joseph having sent, called for his father Jacob, and all his kindred—being seventy and five souls—¹⁵and Jacob went down into Egypt, and died, himself and our fathers, ¹⁶and they were carried over into Sychem, and laid in the tomb that Abraham bought for a price in money from the sons of Emmor, father of Sychem.

¹⁷But according as the time of the promise was drawing near, which God swear to Abraham, the people increased and multiplied in Egypt, ¹⁸till another king arose, who had not known Joseph; ¹⁹this one, having dealt subtly with our kindred, did evil to our fathers, causing to expose their babes, that they might not live; ²⁰in which time Moses was born, and he was fair to God, and he was brought up three months

In the house of his father; ²¹but having been exposed, the daughter of Pharaoh took him up, and reared him to herself for a son; ²²and Moses was taught in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and he was powerful in words and in works.

²³But when forty years were fulfilled to him, it came up on his heart to look after his brethren, the children of Israel; ²⁴and having seen a certain one suffering injustice, he defended him, and did justice to the oppressed, having smitten the Egyptian; ²⁵but he supposed his brethren to understand that God, through his hand, giveth them salvation: but they understood not.

²⁶On the succeeding day, also, he shewed himself to them as they strove, and urged them to peace, saying, Men, brethren ye are: wherefore do ye injustice one to another? ²⁷but he who is doing injustice to his neighbour, thrust him away, saying, Who set thee a ruler and a judge over us? ²⁸to kill me dost thou wish, as thou didst kill the Egyptian yesterday?

²⁹But Moses fled at this, and became a sojourner in the land of Midian, where he beget two sons: ³⁰and forty years being fulfilled, there appeared to him in the wilderness of mount Sinai a messenger of the Lord, in the flame of fire of a bush, ³¹and Moses having seen, wondered at the sight: and he, drawing near to behold, there came the voice of the Lord to him: ³²I am the God of thy fathers: the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob.

And Moses having become terrified, durst not behold, ³³but the Lord said to him, Loose the sandals of thy feet, for the place in which thou hast stood is holy ground; ³⁴seeing, I have seen the affliction of My people which is in Egypt, and their groaning I have heard, and have come down to deliver them; and now come, I will send thee into Egypt.

³⁵This Moses, whom they refused, saying, Who set thee a ruler and a judge? this one God a ruler and a redeemer sent, by the hand of the messenger who appeared to him in the bush; ³⁶this one brought them out, having done wonders and signs in the land of Egypt, and in the Red Sea, and in the wilderness forty years: ³⁷this is the Moses who said to the children of Israel: A prophet to you shall the Lord your God raise out of your brethren, like to me: him shall ye hear.

³⁸This is he who was in the assembly in the wilderness, with the messenger who is speaking to him in the mount Sinai, and with our fathers, who received the living oracles to give to us: ³⁹to whom our fathers did not wish to become obedient, but thrust away, and turned back in their hearts to Egypt, ⁴⁰saying to Aaron, Make to us gods who shall go on before us: for this Moses, who brought us out of the land of Egypt, we do not know what hath happened to him.

⁴¹And they made a calf in those days, and brought sacrifice to the idol, and were rejoicing in the works of their hands; ⁴²and

God turned, and gave them up to serve the host of the heaven, according as it hath been written in the roll of the prophets: Slain beasts and sacrifices have ye offered to Me forty years in the wilderness, O house of Israel? ⁴³yea, ye took up the tabernacle of Moloch, and the star of your god Remphan—the figures which ye made to bow before them: and I will remove your dwelling beyond Babylon.

⁴⁴The tabernacle of testimony was among our fathers in the wilderness, according as He directed, who is speaking to Moses, to make it according to the figure that he had seen; ⁴⁵which also our fathers having in succession received, brought in with Joshua, into the possession of the nations whom God drove out from the presence of our fathers, till the days of David, ⁴⁶who found favour in the presence of God, and requested to find a tabernacle for the God of Jacob: ⁴⁷but Solomon built Him an house.

⁴⁸But the Most High in temples made with hands doth not dwell, according as the prophet saith, ⁴⁹The heaven is My throne, and the earth my footstool: what house will ye build to Me? saith the Lord, or what the place of My rest? ⁵⁰hath not My hand made all these things?

⁵¹Stiff necked and uncircumcised in heart and in ears! ye do always the Holy Spirit resist: as your fathers—ye also! ⁵²which of the prophets did not your fathers persecute? and they killed them who declared before concerning the coming of the Righteous One, of whom now ye betrayers and murderers have become, ⁵³who received the law by the dispositions of messengers, and did not keep it.

⁵⁴And hearing these things, they were cut to their hearts, and gnashed their teeth at him: ⁵⁵but being full of the Holy Spirit, having looked stedfastly into the heaven, he saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing on the right hand of God, ⁵⁶and he said, 'Lo, I see the heavens opened, and the Son of Man standing on the right hand of God.'

⁵⁷And they, having cried out with a loud voice, stopped their ears, and rushed with one accord upon him, ⁵⁸and having cast him outside of the city, were stoning him, and the witnesses put down their garments at the feet of a young man called Saul: ⁵⁹and they were stoning Stephen, calling and saying, 'Lord Jesus, receive my spirit: ⁶⁰and having kneeled, he cried with a loud voice, 'Lord, mayest thou not lay to them this sin:' and this having said, he fell asleep.

VIII. ¹BUT Saul was consenting to his death, and there came in that day a great persecution upon the assembly which was in Jerusalem: they were also all scattered abroad in the regions of Judea and Samaria, except the apostles: ²and devout men carried away Stephen, and made great lamentation over him: ³but Saul was making havoc of the assembly, into every house entering, and haling men and women, he was giving them up to prison: ⁴they then, indeed, having been scattered, went abroad, proclaiming the good news—the word.

⁴ And Philip having gone down to a city of Samaria, was preaching to them the Christ: ⁵ the multitudes also were giving heed to those things spoken by Philip with one accord, on their hearing and seeing the signs which he was doing: ⁶ for unclean spirits came out of many who were possessed, crying with a loud voice, and many who had been paralytic and lame were healed, ⁷ and great joy was in that city.

⁸ But a certain man, by name Simon, was formerly in the city using magic, and amazing the nation of Samaria, saying himself to be a certain great one, ⁹ to whom they were all giving heed, from small to great, saying, 'This one is the great power of God:' ¹⁰ and they were giving heed to him, because of his having for a long time amazed them with deeds of magic.

¹¹ But when they believed Philip, proclaiming the good news, the things concerning the reign of God and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized both men and women; ¹² and Simon also himself believed, and having been baptized, he was continuing with Philip; and beholding signs and mighty acts being done, he was amazed.

¹³ And the apostles in Jerusalem having heard that Samaria hath received the word of God, sent to them Peter and John, ¹⁴ who having come down, prayed concerning them, that they may receive the Holy Spirit. ¹⁵ (for as yet he was fallen upon none of them, but only they had been baptized into the name of the Lord Jesus,) ¹⁶ then were they laying their hands on them, and they received the Holy Spirit.

¹⁷ But Simon having beheld that through the laying on of the hands of the apostles the Holy Spirit is given, he brought before them money, ¹⁸ saying, 'Give to me also this authority, that on whosoever I lay the hands, he may receive the Holy Spirit.'

¹⁹ But Peter said to him, 'Thy money with thee—may it be to destruction! because the gift of God thou didst think to purchase through money; ²⁰ thou hast neither part nor lot in this thing, for thy heart is not right in the presence of God: ²¹ reform therefore from this thy wickedness, and beseech God, if then the purpose of thine heart be forgiven thee: ²² for in the gall of bitterness, and in the bond of unrighteousness, I perceive thou art.'

²³ And Simon answering said, 'Beseech ye for me to the Lord, that nothing may come upon me of the things ye have spoken.'

²⁴ They indeed therefore having testified fully, and spoken the word of the Lord, turned back to Jerusalem; in many villages also of the Samaritans they proclaimed the good news; ²⁵ but a messenger of the Lord came to Philip, saying, 'Arise, and go on to the south, on the way that goeth down from Jerusalem to Gaza,' which is desert.

²⁶ And having arisen, he went on, and lo, a man of Ethiopia, a eunuch, a man of authority, of Candace the queen of the Ethiopians, who was over all her treasure, who had come to worship to Jerusalem;

²⁷ he was also returning, and sitting on his chariot, and was reading the prophet Isaiah.

²⁸ And the Spirit said to Philip, 'Go near, and be joined to this chariot;' ²⁹ and Philip having run near, heard him reading the prophet Isaiah, and said, 'Dost thou then know what thou readest?' ³⁰ and he said, 'Why, how am I able, if some one may not guide me?' he called Philip also, having come up, to sit with him.

³¹ And the place of the writing which he was reading was this: 'As a sheep to the slaughter he was led, and as a lamb before his shearer dumb, so he openeth not his mouth; ³² in his humiliation his judgment was taken away, and his generation who shall declare? for taken from the earth is his life.'

³⁵ And as they were proceeding on the way, they came upon a certain water, and the eunuch said, 'Lo, water; what doth hinder me to be baptized?' ³⁶ And Philip said, 'If thou dost believe out of all the heart, it is lawful;' and he answering said, 'I believe the Son of God to be Jesus Christ;' ³⁷ and he commanded the chariot to stand still, and they went down both to the water, both Philip and the eunuch, and he baptized him: ³⁸ but when they came up from the water, the Spirit of the Lord caught away Philip, and the eunuch saw him no more, for he was going on his way rejoicing; ³⁹ but Philip was found at Azotus, and passing through, was proclaiming the good news to all the cities, till his coming to Caesarea.

IX. ¹ BUT Saul, yet breathing threatening, and slaughter to the disciples of the Lord, having gone to the chief priest, ² asked from him letters to Damascus, to the synagogues, that if he may find any being of this way, both men and women, he may bring them bound to Jerusalem.

³ And in the going, he came near to Damascus; and suddenly there shone round about him a light from the heaven, ⁴ and having fallen on the earth, he heard a voice saying to him, 'Saul, Saul, why dost thou persecute?'

⁵ And he said, 'Who art thou, Lord?' and the Lord said, 'I am Jesus, whom thou dost persecute; hard for thee at the pricks to kick;' ⁶ and he, trembling and astonished, said, 'Lord, what dost thou wish me to do?' and the Lord said to him, 'Arise, and enter into the city, and it shall be told thee what it behoveth thee to do.'

⁷ And the men who are journeying with him stood speechless, hearing indeed the voice, but seeing no one; ⁸ and Saul arose from the earth, and his eyes having been opened, he beheld no one, and they, leading him by the hand, brought him to Damascus; ⁹ and he was three days without seeing, and did neither eat nor drink.

¹⁰ And there was a certain disciple in Damascus, by name Ananias, and the Lord said to him in a vision, 'Ananias;' and he said, 'Behold me, Lord;' ¹¹ and the Lord said to him, 'Having arisen, proceed unto the street which is called Straight; and seek in the house of Judas, for one by name Saul of Tarsus, for, lo, he prayeth,' ¹² and he saw in a vision a man, by name Ananias, coming in, and putting the hand on him, that he may receive sight.'

¹³ And Ananias answered, 'Lord, I have heard from many concerning this man, how many evils he did to Thy saints in Jerusalem,' ¹⁴ and here he hath authority from the chief priests, to bind all who are calling on Thy name.' ¹⁵ But the Lord said to him, 'Be going on, for a chosen vessel to Me is this one, to bear My name before nations and kings, the Children also of Israel; ¹⁶ for I will shew him how many things it behoveth him for My name's sake to suffer.'

¹⁷ And Ananias went away, and entered into the house, and having put on him his hands, said, 'Saul, brother, the Lord hath sent me—Jesus who appeared to thee in the way in which thou wast coming—that thou mayest receive sight, and mayest be filled with the Holy Spirit.'

¹⁸ And immediately there fell from his eyes as it were scales, he received also sight presently, and having risen, was baptized: ¹⁹ and having received nourishment, he was strengthened; and Saul was with the disciples in Damascus certain days; ²⁰ and immediately in the synagogues he was preaching the Christ, that he is the Son of God.

²¹ But all who are hearing were amazed, and said, 'Is not this he who laid waste in Jerusalem those calling on this name, and hitherto to this intent had come, that he might bring them bound to the chief priests?' ²² but Saul was the more strengthened, and was confounding the Jews dwelling in Damascus, proving that this is the Christ.

²³ And when many days were fulfilled, the Jews took counsel together to kill him, ²⁴ but their counsel against him was known to Saul, and they were watching the gates both day and night, that they may kill him; ²⁵ but the disciples having taken him, by night let him down by the wall, letting him down in a basket.

²⁶ And Saul having come to Jerusalem, tried to join himself to the disciples, and they were all afraid of him, not believing that he is a disciple; ²⁷ but Barnabas having taken him, brought him to the apostles, and declared to them how in the way he saw the Lord, and that he spake to him, and how in Damascus he was speaking boldly in the name of Jesus.

²⁸ And he was with them, coming in and going out in Jerusalem, ²⁹ and having spoken boldly in the name of the Lord Jesus, he was both speaking and disputing with the Hellenists, and they were taking in hand to kill him, ³⁰ and the brethren having known about it, brought him down to Cesarea, and sent him forth to Tarsus.

³¹ Then, indeed, the assemblies throughout all Judea, and Galilee, and Samaria, had peace, being built up, and, going on in the fear of the Lord, and in the comfort of the Holy Spirit, were multiplied.

³² And it came to pass that Peter passing throughout all quarters, came down also to the saints who were dwelling at Lydda, ³³ he found there also a certain man, Æneas by name—for eight years laid on a couch—who was paralytic; ³⁴ and Peter said to him, 'Æneas, heal thee doth Jesus the Christ; arise and spread for thyself;' and immediately he rose, ³⁵ and all who are dwelling at Lydda and Saron saw him, and they turned to the Lord.

³⁶ In Joppa also there was a certain disciple, by name Tabitha, (which interpreted is called Dorcas,) this woman was full of good works and kind acts which she was doing; ³⁷ but it came to pass in those days she, having siled, died, and having bathed her, they laid her in an upper chamber; ³⁸ and Lydda being near to Joppa, the disciples having heard that Peter is in that place, sent two men to him, calling upon him not to delay to come through to them.

³⁹ And Peter having risen, went with them, whom having come, they brought into the upper chamber, and all the widows stood by him weeping, and shewing coats and garments, as many as Dorcas was making while she was with them.

⁴⁰ But Peter having put them all without, having bowed the knees, prayed, and having turned to the body, said, 'Tabitha, arise;' and she opened her eyes, and having seen Peter, she sat up, ⁴¹ and having given her his hand, he lifted her up; and having called the saints and the widows, he presented her alive; ⁴² and it became known throughout all Joppa, and many believed on the Lord; ⁴³ and it came to pass, that he remained many days in Joppa, with a certain one, Simon a tanner.

X. ¹ BUT there was a certain man in Cesarea, by name Cornelius, a centurion of a band called 'Italian,' ² devout, and fearing God with all his house, doing also many kind acts to the people, and beseeching God always; ³ he saw in a vision manifestly as it were the ninth hour of the day, a messenger of God coming in to him, and saying to him, 'Cornelius;' ⁴ and he having looked earnestly on him, and becoming afraid, said, 'What is it, Lord?'

And he said to him, 'Thy prayers and thy kind acts came up for a memorial in the presence of God; ⁵ and now send men to Joppa, and send for Simon who is surnamed Peter, ⁶ this one lodgeth with a certain one Simon a tanner, whose house is by the sea; this one shall speak to thee what it behoveth thee to do.'

⁷ And when the messenger who was speaking to Cornelius went away, having called two of his domestics, and a devout soldier of those waiting on him continually, ⁸ and having declared to them all things, he sent them to Joppa.

⁹ But on the morrow, as these are proceeding on their journey, and drawing near to the city, Peter went up on the house-top to pray, about the sixth hour,¹⁰ and he became very hungry, and wished to eat—but, they making ready, there fell upon him a trance,¹¹ and he beheld the heaven opened, and descending to him a certain vessel as a great sheet, bound at the four corners, and let down upon the earth,¹² in which were all manner of the four-footed beasts of the earth, and the wild beasts, and the creeping things, and the fowls of the heaven;¹³ and there came a voice to him: 'Having risen, Peter, slay and eat.'

¹⁴But Peter said, 'Not so, Lord; for at no time did I eat anything common or unclean;' ¹⁵and a voice again a second time came to him: 'What God cleansed, thou, declare not thou common!' ¹⁶and this was done thrice, and again was the vessel received up into the heaven.

¹⁷And as Peter was perplexed in himself what the vision which he saw might be, then, lo, the men who are sent from Cornelius having made inquiry for the house of Simon, stood at the gate,¹⁸ and having called, they were asking if Simon, who is surnamed Peter, lodgeth here?

¹⁹While Peter thought about the vision, the Spirit said to him, 'Lo, three men seek thee; ²⁰but having arisen, go down and proceed with them, nothing doubting, because I have sent them;' ²¹and Peter having gone down to the men who have been sent from Cornelius to him, said, 'Lo, I am he whom ye seek; what is the cause for which ye are come?'

²²And they said, 'Cornelius, a centurion, a man righteous and fearing God, well testified to, also, by all the nation of the Jews, was divinely warned by a holy messenger to send for thee, into his house, and to hear sayings from thee.'

²³Having called them in, therefore, he lodged them, and on the morrow Peter went forth with them, and certain of the brethren from Joppa went with him; ²⁴and on the morrow they entered into Cesarea, and Cornelius was waiting for them, having called together his kindred and near friends; ²⁵and as it came that Peter entered in, Cornelius having met him, having fallen at his feet, bowed before him; ²⁶but Peter raised him, saying, 'Stand up; I also myself am a man;' ²⁷and talking with him he went in, and findeth many having come together.

²⁸And he said to them, 'Ye know how it is unlawful for a man, a Jew, to keep company with, or to come unto, one of another race; but to me, God shewed to call no man common or unclean; ²⁹therefore also without gainsaying I came, having been sent for; I ask, therefore, for what matter ye sent for me?'

³⁰And Cornelius said, 'Four days ago till this hour, I was fasting, and at the ninth hour praying in my house, and, lo, a man stood before me in bright clothing; ³¹and said, Cornelius, thy prayer was heard, and thy kind acts were remembered in the presence of God; ³²send therefore to Joppa, and call for Simon, who is surnamed Peter;

this one lodgeth in the house of Simon a tanner, by the sea, who having come, shall speak to thee; ³³at once, therefore, I sent to thee; thou also hast done well, having come; now therefore are we all before God present to hear all things that have been commanded thee by God.'

³⁴And Peter having opened his mouth, said, 'Of a truth, I perceive that God is no respecter of persons, ³⁵but in every nation he who is fearing Him, and working righteousness, is acceptable to Him; ³⁶the word which He sent to the children of Israel, proclaiming the good news—peace through Jesus Christ (this one is Lord of all), ³⁷ye have known;—the word which came throughout all Judea, having begun from Galilee, after the baptism which John preached; ³⁸Jesus who is from Nazareth—how God anointed him with the Holy Spirit and power; who went through doing good, and healing all those oppressed by the devil, because God was with him; ³⁹and we—we are witnesses of all things which he did, both in the country of the Jews, and in Jerusalem,—whom they slew, having hanged him on a tree.

⁴⁰'This one God raised up the third day, and gave him to become manifest, ⁴¹not to all the people, but to witnesses, who had been chosen before by God—to us who did eat with him, and drink with him after his rising from the dead; ⁴²and he commanded us to preach to the people, and to testify fully that it is he who hath been ordained by God judge of living and dead—⁴³to this one all the prophets testify, that through his name every one that believeth in him receive remission of sins.'

⁴⁴While Peter is yet speaking these things, the Holy Spirit fell on all those hearing the word; ⁴⁵and those of the circumcision who believed were astonished, as many as came with Peter, that also on the nations the gift of the Holy Spirit hath been poured out. ⁴⁶for they were hearing them speaking with tongues and magnifying God.

⁴⁷Then answered Peter, 'The water is any one able to forbid, that these may not be baptized, who the Holy Spirit received—even as also we?' ⁴⁸and he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord; then besought they him to remain certain days.

XI. ¹AND the apostles and the brethren who were in Judea heard that also the nations received the word of God; ²and when Peter came up to Jerusalem, those of the circumcision were contending with him, ³saying—'To men uncircumcised thou didst go in, and didst eat with them!'

⁴But Peter having begun, expounded to them in order, saying, ⁵'I was in the city of Joppa praying, and I saw in a trance a vision, a certain vessel descending, as a great sheet, by four corners let down out of the heaven, and it came unto me; ⁶and having looked steadfastly, I was considering, and I saw the four-footed beasts of the earth, and the wild beasts, and the creeping things, and the fowls of the heaven: ⁷I heard also a voice saying to me, Having risen, Peter, slay and eat; ⁸but I said, Not so, Lord: for anything common or unclean hath at no time entered into my mouth: ⁹but the voice answered me a second time out of the heaven, What God cleansed, thou—declare not thou common.

¹⁰And this happened thrice, and again was all drawn up into the heaven: ¹¹and, lo, at once, three men stood at the house in which I was, sent from Cesarea to me, ¹²and the Spirit said to me to go with them, nothing doubting; but these six brethren also went with me, and we entered into the house of the man, ¹³and he declared to us how he saw the messenger in his house standing, and saying to him, Send men to Joppa, and call for Simon, who is surnamed Peter, ¹⁴who shall speak to thee sayings by which thou shalt be saved, thou and all thy house.

¹⁵And in my beginning to speak, the Holy Spirit fell on them, even as also on us in the beginning. ¹⁶and I remembered the saying of the Lord, how he said, John indeed baptized with water, but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Spirit: ¹⁷if then the equal gift God gave to them as also to us, having believed on the Lord Jesus Christ, I—how was I able to withstand God?

¹⁸And they, having heard these things, were silent, and were glorifying God, saying, 'Then, indeed, to the nations also God gave the reformation unto life.'

¹⁹Those, indeed, therefore who were scattered abroad, from the tribulation that came after Stephen, went through—unto Phœnice, and Cyprus, and Antioch, speaking the word to none except to the Jews only: ²⁰but there were certain of them men of Cyprus and Cyrene, who having come to Antioch, were speaking to the Hellenists, proclaiming as good news the Lord Jesus: ²¹and the hand of the Lord was with them, a great number also having believed, turned to the Lord.

²²And the account was heard in the ears of the assembly which is in Jerusalem concerning them, and they sent forth Barnabas to go through—unto Antioch, ²³who having come, and having seen the grace of God, was glad, and exhorted all with purpose of heart to cleave to the Lord, ²⁴for he was a good man, and full of the Holy Spirit, and of faith: and a great multitude was added to the Lord.

²⁵But Barnabas went forth to Tarsus, to seek Saul, ²⁶and having found him, he brought him to Antioch: and it came to pass that they a whole year assembled together in the assembly, and taught a great multitude, and that the disciples also were divinely called first in Antioch Christians.

²⁷And in those days there came from Jerusalem prophets to Antioch, ²⁸and one of them, by name Agabus, having stood up, signified through the Spirit that great dearth is about to be throughout all the world, (which also came to pass in the time of Claudius Cæsar,) ²⁹and the disciples, according as every one was prospering, determined each of them to send for distribution to the brethren dwelling in Judea, ³⁰which also they did, having sent it to the elders by the hands of Barnabas and Saul.

XII. ¹BUT at that time, Herod the king put forth a hand, to do evil to certain of those of the assembly, ²and he killed James, the brother of John, with the sword, ³and having seen that it is pleasing to the Jews, he added to lay hold of Peter also, (and they were the days of the unleavened food, ⁴whom also having seized, he put in prison, delivering him to four quarters of soldiers to guard him, intending after the passover to bring him out to the people.

⁵Peter therefore, indeed, was kept in the prison, but prayer was fervently made by the assembly to God for him, ⁶and when Herod was about to bring him forth, the same night was Peter sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains, guards also before the door were keeping the prison, ⁷and lo, a messenger of the Lord stood by, and a light shone in the buildings, and having smitten Peter on the side, he raised him up, saying, 'Rise in haste,' and his chains fell off from his hands.

⁸And the messenger said to him, 'Gird thyself, and bind on thy sandals;' and he did so: and he saith to him, 'Put thy garment around thee, and follow me:' ⁹and having gone out, he was following him, and knew not that it is true that which is done through the messenger, but was thinking he saw a vision, ¹⁰but having passed through the first ward, and the second, they came unto the iron gate that is leading to the city, which of its own accord opened to them, and having gone out, they went on through one street: and immediately the messenger departed from him.

¹¹And Peter having come to himself, said, 'Now have I known of a truth that the Lord sent forth His messenger, and delivered me out of the hand of Herod, and all the expectation of the people of the Jews:' ¹²and having considered, he came to the house of Mary, the mother of John, who is surnamed Mark, where there were many thronged together and praying.

¹³And Peter having knocked at the door of the porch, there came a damsel to hearken, by name Rhoda, ¹⁴and having known the voice of Peter, for the joy she opened not the porch, but having run in, told of the standing of Peter before the porch: ¹⁵but they said to her, 'Thou art mad:' ¹⁶but she was confidently affirming it to be so: and they said, 'It is his messenger:' ¹⁷but Peter continuing knocking, and having opened, they saw him, and were astonished, ¹⁸but having heckoned to them with the hand to be silent, he declared to them how the Lord brought him out of the prison, and he said, 'Report to James and to the brethren these things:' and having gone forth, he proceeded to another place.

¹⁹And day having come, there was not a little stir among the soldiers what then was become of Peter: ²⁰and Herod having sought for him, and not having found, having examined the guards, commanded them to be led away to punishment; and having gone down from Judea to Cesarea, he was there abiding.

²⁰ And Herod was highly displeased with those of Tyre and Sidon, but with one accord they came to him, and having made a friend of Blastus, who was over the bed-chambers of the king, they were asking peace, because of their country being nourished from the king's; ²¹ and on a set day, Herod having arrayed himself in royal apparel, and having sat down upon the tribunal, was making an oration to them; ²² and the crowd were shouting, 'The voice of a god, and not of a man'; ²³ but presently there stood him a messenger of the Lord, because he gave not the glory to God; and having been eaten of worms, he expired.

XIII. ¹ AND there were certain in Antioch, in the assembly there, prophets and teachers: both Barnabas, and Simeon who is called Niger, and Lucius the Cyrenian, Manaen also, (Herod the tetrarch's foster-brother,) and Saul; ² and in their ministering to the Lord and fasting, the Holy Spirit said, 'Separate to me both Barnabas and Saul for the work to which I have called them.' ³ then having fasted and prayed, and having laid their hands on them, they sent them away.

⁴ These, indeed, then having been sent out by the Holy Spirit, went down into Seleucia, and from thence they sailed to Cyprus; ⁵ and having come into Salamis, they declared the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews, and they had also John as a ministrant; ⁶ and having gone through the island unto Paphos, they found a certain magian, a false prophet, a Jew, whose name was Bar-Jesus; ⁷ who was with the pro-consul Sergius Paulus, an intelligent man: this one having called for Barnabas and Saul, desired to hear the word of God; ⁸ but there withstood them Elymas the magian, (for so is his name interpreted,) seeking to pervert the pro-consul from the faith.

⁹ But Saul (who also is Paul) having been filled with the Holy Spirit, and having looked stedfastly upon him, ¹⁰ said, 'O full of all guile and all profligacy, son of the devil, enemy of all righteousness, wilt thou not cease perverting the right ways of the Lord? ¹¹ and now, lo, the hand of the Lord is upon thee, and thou shalt be blind, not seeing the sun for a time.' and presently there fell on him a mist and darkness, and he going about, was seeking some to lead him by the hand; ¹² then the pro-consul having seen what hath come to pass, believed, being astonished at the teaching of the Lord.

¹³ And those about Paul having set sail from Paphos, came to Perga of Pamphylia, but John having withdrawn from them, turned back to Jerusalem, ¹⁴ but they having gone through from Perga, came to Antioch of Pisidia, and having gone into the synagogue on the sabbath, they sat down; ¹⁵ and after the reading of the law and of the prophets, the chief men of the synagogue sent to them, saying, 'Men, brethren, if there is a word in you of exhortation to the people—say on.'

¹⁶ And Paul having risen, and having beckoned with the hand, said, 'Men, Israelites, and those fearing God, hearken: ¹⁷ the God of this people Israel chose our fathers, and the people He exalted in their sojourning in the land of Egypt, and with an high arm He brought them out of it: ¹⁸ and about the time of forty years He suffered their manners in the wilderness, ¹⁹ and having destroyed seven nations of the land of Canaan, He divided by lot to them their land.

²⁰ And after these things, about the space of four hundred and fifty years, He gave judges—till Samuel the prophet; ²¹ and thereafter they asked for a king, and God gave to them Saul, son of Kish, a man of the tribe of Benjamin, for the space of forty years; ²² and having removed him, He raised up to them David for king, to whom also having testified, he said, I found David, the son of Jesse, a man according to My heart, who shall do all My will.

²³ (Of this one's seed God, according to promise, raised to Israel a Saviour, Jesus: ²⁴ John having first preached, before his coming, the baptism of reformation to all the people of Israel, ²⁵ and as John was fulfilling the course, he said, Whom me do ye suppose to be? I am not he, but, lo, he cometh after me, of whom I am not worthy to loose the sandal of his feet.

²⁶ Men, brethren, sons of the race of Abraham, and those among you fearing God, to you was the word of this salvation sent, ²⁷ for those dwelling in Jerusalem, and their chiefs, this one not having known, and the voice of the prophets, who every sabbath are read—having judged him—fulfilled them. ²⁸ and no cause of death having found, they asked of Pilate that he should be slain, ²⁹ and when they completed all the things written concerning him, having taken him down from the tree, they laid him in a tomb; ³⁰ but God raised him from the dead, ³¹ and he was seen for many days of those who came up with him from Galilee to Jerusalem, who are his witnesses to the people.

³² And we to you proclaim the good news—that the promise made to the fathers, ³³ God hath in full completed this to us their children, having raised up Jesus, as also in the second Psalm it hath been written, My Son thou art—I to-day have begotten thee.

³⁴ And that He raised him up out of the dead, no more to return to corruption he hath said thus—I will give to you the faithful kindnesses of David; ³⁵ wherefore also

In another place he saith, Thou shalt not give Thy kind one to see corruption,³⁶ for David, indeed, his own generation having served by the will of God, fell asleep, and was added unto his fathers, and saw corruption,³⁷ but he whom God raised up, saw no corruption.

³⁸Let it therefore be known to you, men, brethren, that through this one to you is the forgiveness of sins declared:³⁹ and from all things from which ye were not able in the law of Moses to be justified, in this one every one who is believing is justified:⁴⁰ see, therefore, it may not come upon you that which hath been spoken in the prophets:⁴¹ See, ye despisers, and wonder, and perish, for a work I—I do work in your days, a work in which ye may not believe, though any one may declare it to you.

⁴²And having gone out of the synagogue of the Jews, the nations were calling upon them that on the next sabbath these sayings may be spoken to them:⁴³ and the synagogue having been dismissed, many of the Jews and of the devout proselytes followed Paul and Barnabas, who, speaking to them, were persuading them to remain in the grace of God.

⁴⁴But on the coming sabbath, almost all the city was gathered together to hear the word of God:⁴⁵ but the Jews having seen the multitudes, were filled with envy, and contradicted the things spoken by Paul, contradicting and speaking evil.

⁴⁶But speaking boldly, Paul and Barnabas said, 'To you was it necessary that first the word of God be spoken, but seeing ye thrust it away, and judge yourselves not worthy of age-during life, lo, we turn to the nations;⁴⁷ for so hath the Lord commanded us: I have set thee for a light of nations—for thy being for salvation unto the end of the earth.

⁴⁸And the nations hearing were glad, and were glorifying the word of the Lord, and they believed—as many as were appointed to life age-during:⁴⁹ and the word of the Lord was spread abroad through all the region.

⁵⁰But the Jews stirred up the devout and honourable women, and the principal men of the city, and raised persecution against Paul and Barnabas, and put them out from their borders:⁵¹ but they having shaken off the dust of their feet against them, came unto Iconium,⁵² and the disciples were filled with joy and the Holy Spirit.

XIV. ¹AND it came to pass in Iconium that they entered together into the synagogue of the Jews, and spake, so that there believed both of Jews and Greeks a great multitude:² but the unbelieving Jews stirred up and made evil the souls of the nations against the brethren:³ long time, indeed, therefore abode they speaking boldly in the Lord, who is testifying to the word of His grace, and granting signs and wonders to be done through their hands.

⁴But the multitude of the city was divided, and some were with the Jews, and some with the apostles;⁵ and when there was a purpose both of the nations and of Jews with their rulers to use them despitefully, and to stone them,⁶ they having become aware, fled to the cities of Lycaonia, Lystra, and Derbe, and to the region round about,⁷ and there were they proclaiming the good news.

⁸And a certain man in Lystra, impotent in the feet, was sitting, being lame from the womb of his mother—who never had walked,⁹ this one was hearing Paul speaking, who having stedfastly beheld him, and having seen that he hath faith to be saved,¹⁰ said with a loud voice, 'Stand up on thy feet upright;' and he was leaping and walking;¹¹ and the multitudes having seen what Paul did, lifted up their voice, in the speech of Lycaonia, saying, 'The gods having become like men, have come down to us.'¹² they were calling also Barnabas Zeus, and Paul Hermes, seeing he was the leader in speaking.

¹⁹But there came thither, from Antioch and Iconium, Jews, and they having persuaded the multitudes, and having stoned Paul, drew him outside of the city, having supposed him to be dead;²⁰ but the disciples having surrounded him, having risen he entered into the city, and on the morrow he went forth with Barnabas to Derbe.

²¹Having proclaimed the good news also to that city, and having made many disciples, they turned back to Lystra, and Iconium, and Antioch,²² confirming the souls of the disciples, exhorting them to remain in the faith, and that through many tribulations it behoveth us to enter into the reign of God;²³ and having appointed to them by vote elders in every assembly, having prayed with fastings, they commanded them to the Lord in whom they had believed.

²⁴And having passed through Pisidia, they came to Pamphylia,²⁵ and having spoken in Perga the word, they went down to Attalia,²⁶ and thence sailed to Antioch, whence they had been at first given by the grace of God for the work which they fulfilled;²⁷ and having come and gathered together the assembly, they declared as many things as God did with them, and that He opened to the nations a door of faith: ²²and they abode there not a little time with the disciples.

XV. ¹AND certain having come down from Judea, were teaching the brethren:—²'If ye be not circumcised after the custom of Moses, ye are not able to be saved;'³there having been therefore not a little dissension and disputation by Paul and Barnabas with them, they determined that Paul and Barnabas, and certain others of them, should go up to the apostles and elders to Jerusalem about this question: ⁴they indeed then, having been brought on their way by the assembly, were passing through Phœnice and Samaria, declaring the conversion of the nations, and were causing great joy to all the brethren.

⁵And having come to Jerusalem, they were received by the assembly, and the apostles, and the elders, and they declared as many things as God did with them: ⁶but there rose up certain of those of the Pharisees who believed, saying:—'It is needful to circumcise them, to command them also to keep the law of Moses.'

⁷And there were gathered together the apostles and the elders, to see about this matter, ⁸and there having been much disputing, Peter, having risen up, said to them, 'Men, brethren, ye know that from former days, God among us made choice, through my mouth, for the Gentiles to hear the word of the good news, and to believe: ⁹and the heart-knowing God bare them testimony, giving to them the Holy Spirit, even as also to us, ¹⁰and put no difference between us and them, by faith having purified their heart: ¹¹now, therefore, why tempt ye God, to put a yoke upon the neck of the disciples, which neither our fathers nor we were able to bear? ¹²but, through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, we believe to be saved, even as they.'

¹³And all the multitude kept silence, and were hearkening to Barnabas and Paul, declaring as many signs and wonders as God did among the nations through them: ¹⁴and after they were silent, James answered, saying, 'Men, brethren, hearken to me: ¹⁵Simeon declared how at first God did look after to take out of the nations a people for His name, ¹⁶and to this agree the words of the prophets, as it hath been written: ¹⁷After these things I will turn back, and will build again the tabernacle of David, which is fallen down, and its ruins I will build again, and will set it upright:—¹⁸that the residue of men may seek after the Lord, and all the nations, upon whom My name hath been called, saith the Lord, who is doing all these things.'

¹⁹Known from the ages to God are all His works: ²⁰wherefore I judge: not to trouble those who from the nations do turn back to God, ²¹but to write to them to abstain from the pollutions of the idols, and whoredom, and the strangled thing, and blood: ²²for Moses from former generations in every city hath those preaching him—in the synagogues every sabbath being read.'

²³Then it pleased the apostles and the elders, with the whole assembly, chosen men out of themselves to send to Antioch with Paul and Barnabas—Judas surnamed Barsabas, and Silas, leading men among the brethren:—²⁴having written through their hand thus:

'The apostles, and the elders, and the brethren, to those in Antioch, and Syria, and Cilicia, brethren, who are of the nations, greeting: ²⁵seeing we have heard that certain having gone out from us troubled you with words, subverting your souls, saying to be circumcised and to keep the law, to whom we gave no command, ²⁶it pleased us, having come together with one accord, chosen men to send to you, with our beloved Barnabas and Paul:—²⁷men who have given up their lives for the name of our Lord Jesus Christ:—²⁸we have sent therefore Judas and Silas, they also by word are telling the same things.'

²⁹For it pleased the Holy Spirit, and us, no more burden to lay upon you, except these necessary things: ³⁰to abstain from things offered to idols, and blood, and a strangled thing, and whoredom: from which keeping yourselves, ye shall do well; be strong!'

³¹They then, indeed, having been let go, went to Antioch, and having brought the multitude together, delivered the epistle, ³²and they having read, rejoiced for the consolation; ³³and Judas and Silas, being themselves also prophets, through much discourse exhorted the brethren, and confirmed them; ³⁴and having passed some time, they were let go with peace from the brethren to the apostles: ³⁵but it pleased Silas to remain there still.

³⁶And Paul and Barnabas continued in Antioch, teaching and proclaiming the good news—with many others also—the word of the Lord: ³⁷and after certain days, Paul said to Barnabas, 'Having turned back again, let us look after our brethren, in every city in which we have preached the word of the Lord—how they are.'

³⁸And Barnabas took counsel to take with them John called Mark: ³⁹but Paul was not thinking it good to take him with them who withdrew from them from Pamphylia, and went not with them to the work; ⁴⁰there came therefore a sharp contention, so that they were parted from one another, and that Barnabas having taken Mark, sailed to Cyprus: ⁴¹but Paul having chosen Silas, went forth, having been given up to the grace of God by the brethren: ⁴²and he went through Syria and Cilicia, confirming the assemblies.

XVI. ¹AND he came to Derbe and Lystra, and lo, a certain disciple was there, by name Timothy, son of a certain woman, a believing Jewess, but of a father, a Greek, ²who was well testified by those of the brethren in Lystra and Iconium; ³this one Paul wished to go forth with him, and having taken him, he circumcised him, because of the Jews who were in those places, for they all knew his father—that he was a Greek.

⁴And as they were going on through the cities, they were delivering to them the decrees to keep, that have been judged by the apostles and the elders who are in Jerusalem. ⁵Then indeed the assemblies were established in the faith, and were abounding in number every day, ⁶but having gone through Phrygia and the region of Galatia, having been forbidden by the Holy Spirit to speak the word in Asia, ⁷having gone toward Mysia, they were trying to proceed toward Bithynia, and the Spirit suffered them not; ⁸and having passed by Mysia, they came down to Troas.

⁹And a vision through the night appeared to Paul, a certain man of Macedonia was standing, calling on him, and saying, 'Having passed through to Macedonia, help us;' ¹⁰and when he saw the vision, immediately we endeavoured to go into Macedonia, assuredly gathering that the Lord hath called us to preach the good news to them; ¹¹having set sail, therefore, from Troas, we came with a straight course to Samothracia, and on the morrow to Neapolis, ¹²and from thence to Philippi, which is a principal city of that part of Macedonia—a colony.

And we were in this city abiding certain days; ¹³and on the sabbath-day we went outside of the city, by a river, where there used to be prayer, and having sat down, we spake to the women who came together; ¹⁴and a certain woman, by name Lydia, a seller of purple, of the city of Thyatira, worshipping God, was hearing, whose heart the Lord opened to attend to the things spoken by Paul; ¹⁵and when she was baptized, and her household, she called on us, saying, 'If ye have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, having entered into my house, remain;' and she constrained us.

¹⁶And it came to pass on our proceeding to prayer, a certain maid having a spirit of Python, met us, who brought much employment to her masters by soothsaying. ¹⁷she having followed Paul and us, was crying, saying, 'These men are servants of the Most High God, who declare to us a way of salvation;' ¹⁸and this she was doing for many days, but Paul having been grieved, and having turned to the spirit, said, 'I command thee, in the name of Jesus Christ, to come out of her;' and it came out the same hour.

¹⁹But her masters having seen that the hope of their employment was gone, having caught Paul and Silas, drew them to the market-place, to the rulers, ²⁰and having brought them to the magistrates, said, 'These men do exceedingly trouble our city, being Jews; ²¹and they proclaim customs which are not lawful for us to receive nor to observe, being Romans.'

²²And the multitude rose up together against them, and the magistrates having torn their garments from them, were commanding to beat them with rods, ²³many blows also having laid upon them, they cast them into prison, having given charge to the jailor to keep them safely, ²⁴who such a charge having received, put them into the inner prison, and their feet he made fast in the stocks.

²⁵But at midnight, Paul and Silas praying, were singing hymns to God, and the prisoners were hearing them; ²⁶and suddenly a great earthquake came, so that the foundations of the prison were shaken: opened also presently were all the doors, and of all—the hands were loosed; ²⁷and the jailor having come out of sleep, and having seen the doors of the prison open, having drawn his sword, was about to kill himself, supposing the prisoners to be fled; ²⁸but Paul cried out with a loud voice, saying, 'Thou mayest not do thyself any harm, for we are all here.'

²⁹And having asked for a light, he sprang in, and trembling, fell down before Paul and Silas, ³⁰and having brought them forth, said, 'Sirs, what must I do—that I may be saved?' ³¹and they said, 'Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved—thou and thy house;' ³²and they spake to him the word of the Lord, and to all those in his household; ³³and having taken them in that hour of the night, he bathed them from the blows, and was baptized, himself and all his presently, ³⁴having brought them into his house, he set food before them, and was glad, with all the household, having believed in God.

³⁵And day having come, the magistrates sent the rod-bearers, saying, 'Let those men go;' ³⁶and the jailor told these words to Paul—'The magistrates have sent—that ye may be let go: now therefore having departed, proceed in peace;' ³⁷but Paul said to them, 'Having beaten us openly uncondemned—men, Romans being—they did cast us into prison, and now privately do they cast us out; no, verily, but having come themselves, let them bring us out.'

³⁸And the magistrates told to the magistrates these sayings, and they were afraid, having heard that they are Romans; ³⁹and having come, they besought them, and having brought them out, were asking them to go out of the city; ⁴⁰and they, having gone out of the prison, entered into the house of Lydia, and having seen the brethren, they comforted them, and departed.

XVII. ¹AND having passed through Amphipolis, and Apollonia, they went to Thessalonica, where was the synagogue of the Jews, ²and according to the custom of Paul, he went in unto them, and for three sabbaths was reasoning with them from the writings, ³opening and alleging, 'That the Christ it behoved to suffer, and to rise again from the dead, and that this is the Christ—Jesus whom I proclaim to you.'

⁴And certain of them believed, and attached themselves to Paul and Silas, also of the worshipping Greeks a great multitude, of the principal women also not a few.

⁵But the unbelieving Jews, having been moved with envy, and having taken to them of the loungers certain evil men, and having made a crowd, were setting the city in an uproar; having stood up also against the house of Jason, they were seeking them to bring them out to the people, ⁶but not having found them, they drew Jason and certain brethren to the city rulers, calling aloud—'These, having put the world into commotion, are also here present, ⁷whom Jason hath received; and these all do contrary to the decrees of Cæsar, saying another to be king—Jesus.'

⁸And they troubled the multitude and the city rulers hearing these things, ⁹and having taken security from Jason and the rest, they let them go.

¹⁰And the brethren immediately, through the night, sent away both Paul and Silas to Berea, who having come, went into the synagogue of the Jews; ¹¹and these were more noble than those in Thessalonica: they received the word with all readiness of mind, every day examining the writings whether those things were so; ¹²many, indeed, therefore of them believed, and of honourable Greek women not a few.

¹³But when the Jews from Thessalonica knew that also in Berea was the word of God declared by Paul, they came thither also, stirring up the multitudes; ¹⁴and then immediately the brethren sent away Paul, to proceed as it were to the sea; but both Silas and Timothy were remaining there.

¹⁵And those conducting Paul brought him—unto Athens, and having received a command to Silas and Timothy, that with all speed they may come to him, they departed; ¹⁶and Paul waiting for them at Athens, his spirit was stirred within him, beholding the city wholly given to idolatry; ¹⁷therefore, indeed, he was reasoning in the synagogue with the Jews, and with the worshippers persons, and in the market every day with those who met with him.

¹⁸And certain of the Epicureans, and of the Stoics—philosophers—were meeting with him, and some were saying, 'What would this babbler wish to say?' and others, 'Of strange demons he seemeth to be an announcer;' because Jesus and the rising again he proclaimed as good news to them; ¹⁹having also taken him, to the Areopagus they brought him, saying, 'Are we able to know what is this new teaching which is spoken by thee? ²⁰for certain strange things thou bringest to our ears; we wish, then, to know what these things would wish to be?' ²¹now all Athenians, and the strangers sojourning, for nothing else were at leisure but to say and to hear some newer thing.

²²And Paul, having stood up in the midst of the Areopagus, said, 'Men, Athenians, in all things I perceive how ye are too much given to religion; ²³for passing through and contemplating your objects of worship, I found also an erection on which had been inscribed: To God—unknown; whom, therefore—not knowing—ye worship, this One I proclaim to you.

²⁴'God, who made the world, and all things in it, this One, of heaven and of earth being Lord, in temples made with hands doth not dwell, ²⁵neither by the hands of men is He served—needing anything; He having given to all life, and breath, and all things; ²⁶He made also of one blood every nation of men, to dwell on all the face of the earth—having determined times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitations—²⁷to seek the Lord, if perhaps they might feel after Him, and might find,—though, indeed, He is not far from each one of us, ²⁸for in Him we live, and move, and are; as also certain of your own poets have said, For of Him also we are offspring.

²⁹'Being, therefore, offspring of God, we ought not to think the Godhead to be like to gold, or silver, or stone, graving of art and device of man; ³⁰the times, indeed, therefore of ignorance God having overlooked, now commandeth all men everywhere to reform, ³¹because He set a day in which He is about to judge the world in righteousness, by a man whom He ordained, having given assurance to all, having raised him from the dead.'

³²But having heard of the rising again of the dead, some, indeed, were mocking, but others said, 'We will hear thee again concerning this;' ³³and so Paul went out from the midst of them; ³⁴but certain men having cleaved to him, believed; among whom is also Dionysius the Areopagite, and a woman, by name Damaris, and others with them.

XVIII. ¹AND after these things, Paul having departed out of Athens, came to Corinth, ²and having found a certain Jew, by name Aquilas, of Pontus by birth, lately come from Italy, and Priscilla his wife, because of Claudius having ordained that all the Jews depart out of Rome, he came to them, ³and because of his being of the same craft, he remained with them, and was working, for they were tent-makers as to craft; ⁴and he was reasoning in the synagogue every sabbath, persuading both the Jews and the Greeks.

⁵And when both Silas and Timothy came from Macedonia, Paul was pressed in the Spirit, testifying to the Jews Jesus the Christ; ⁶and on their resisting, and speaking evil, having shaken his garments, he said to them, 'Your blood is on your own head—I am clean; henceforth to the nations I will proceed.'

⁷And having departed thence, he went into the house of a certain one, by name Justus, a worshipper of God, whose house was adjoining the synagogue; ⁸but Crispus, the ruler of the synagogue, believed in the Lord with all his house, and many of the Corinthians hearing were believing, and were being baptized.

⁹And the Lord said to Paul, through a vision in the night, 'Be not afraid, but speak, and be not silent; ¹⁰because I am with thee, and no one shall set on thee to do thee evil; because I have much people in this city;' ¹¹and he continued a year and six months, teaching among them the word of God.

¹²And Gallio being pro-consul of Achaia, the Jews made a rush with one accord upon Paul, and brought him to the tribunal, ¹³saying—'Against the law this one persuadeth men to worship God.' ¹⁴and Paul being about to open his mouth, Gallio said to the Jews, 'If, indeed, then, it was some unrighteous deed, or act of wicked profligacy, O ye Jews, according to reason I would have borne with you; ¹⁵but if it is a question concerning words and names, and of your law, look ye yourselves to it, for a judge of these things I do not wish to be.' ¹⁶and he drave them from the tribunal; ¹⁷but all the Greeks having taken Sosthenes, the chief man of the synagogue, were beating him before the tribunal; and for none of these things was Gallio caring.

¹⁸But Paul having remained yet many days, having taken leave of the brethren, was sailing into Syria, (and with him are Priscilla and Aquilas,) having shorn his head in Cenchrea, for he had a vow; ¹⁹and he came to Ephesus, and left them there, but he himself having entered into the synagogue, reasoned with the Jews; ²⁰and they having requested him to remain longer time with them, he consented not, ²¹but took leave of them, saying, 'It behoveth me by all means the coming feast to keep at Jerusalem; but again I will return to you—God willing.'

And he sailed from Ephesus, ²²and having landed at Cesarea, having gone up, and having saluted the assembly, he went down to Antioch; ²³and having made some stay, he departed, going through in order all the region of Galatia and Phrygia, strengthening all the disciples.

²⁴And a certain Jew, Apollos by name, an Alexandrian by birth, an eloquent man—being mighty in the writings—came to Ephesus; ²⁵this one was instructed in the way of the Lord, and being burning in spirit, was speaking and teaching diligently the things about the Lord, knowing only the baptism of John; ²⁶this one also began to speak boldly in the synagogue, and Aquilas and Priscilla having heard of him, took him to them, and more exactly expounded to him the way of God, ²⁷and he being minded to pass through into Achaia, the brethren wrote to the disciples, exhorting to receive him, who having come, helped them much who believed through grace, ²⁸for powerfully the Jews was he refuting publicly, shewing through the writings Jesus to be the Christ.

XIX. ¹AND it came to pass, in Apollos' being in Corinth, Paul having passed through the upper parts, came to Ephesus, and having found certain disciples, ²said to them, 'The Holy Spirit did ye receive—having believed?' and they said to him, 'But we have not even heard whether there is any Holy Spirit;' ³and he said to them, 'Into what, then, were ye baptized?' and they said, 'Into John's baptism.'

⁴But Paul said, 'John, indeed, baptized with a baptism of reformation, saying to the people that in him who is coming after him they should believe—that is, in Christ Jesus;' ⁵and they, having heard, were baptized into the name of the Lord Jesus, ⁶and Paul having laid on them his hands, the Holy Spirit came upon them; they were speaking also with tongues, and prophesying; ⁷and all the men were, as it were, twelve.

⁸And having gone into the synagogue, he was speaking boldly for three months, reasoning and persuading the things concerning the reign of God, ⁹but when certain were hardened and disbelieving, speaking evil of the way before the multitude, having departed from them, he separated the disciples, every day reasoning in the school of a certain Tyrannus.

¹⁰And this was for two years, so that all those dwelling in Asia heard the word of the Lord Jesus, both Jews and Greeks: ¹¹mighty works also—not common—was God working through the hands of Paul, ¹²so that even unto the infirm were brought from his body handkerchiefs or aprons, and the sicknesses departed from them; the evil spirits also went out of them.

¹³But certain of the wandering exorcist Jews, took upon them to name over those having the evil spirits the name of the Lord Jesus, saying, 'We adjure you by Jesus, whom Paul preacheth;' ¹⁴and there were certain—seven sons of Sceva, a Jew, a chief priest—who were doing this thing; ¹⁵but the evil spirit answering said, 'Jesus I know, and Paul I am acquainted with; but ye, who are ye?'

¹⁶And the man, in whom was the evil spirit, leaping on them, having also overcome them, prevailed against them, so that naked and wounded they fled out of that house; ¹⁷and this became known to all, both Jews and Greeks, who were dwelling at Ephesus, and fear fell on them all, and the name of the Lord Jesus was being magnified; ¹⁸many also of those who believed were coming, confessing and declaring their deeds, ¹⁹and many of those who had practised the curious arts, having brought the books together, were burning them before all; and they counted the price of them, and found it five myriads of silverlings; ²⁰so powerfully was the word of God increasing and prevailing.

²¹But when these things were fulfilled, Paul purposed in the spirit, having passed through Macedonia and Achaia, to proceed to Jerusalem, saying—'After my being there, it behoveth me also to see Rome;' ²²and having sent to Macedonia two of those who ministered to him—Timothy and Erastus—he himself stayed a time in Asia.

²³But there came, at that time, not a little stir about the way, ²⁴for a certain one, Demetrius by name, a worker in silver, making silver temples of Artemis, was bringing to the tradesmen gain not a little, ²⁵whom, having called together, and those who worked about such things, he said, 'Men, ye know that by this gain we have our wealth; ²⁶and ye see and hear, that not only at Ephesus, but almost in all Asia, this Paul, having persuaded, turned away a great multitude, saying, that they are not gods who are made by hands; ²⁷ but not only is this portion of ours in danger of coming into censure, but also, that of the great goddess Artemis: the temple is to be reckoned for nothing, and also her greatness is about to be brought down, whom all Asia and the world worshippeth.

²⁸ And they having heard, and having become full of wrath, were crying out, saying, 'Great is Artemis of the Ephesians!' ²⁹ and the whole city was filled with confusion: and they rushed with one accord into the theatre, having caught Gaius and Aristarchus, Macedonians, Paul's fellow-travellers.

³⁰ But on Paul's purposing to enter in unto the people, the disciples were not suffering him: ³¹ and certain also of the chief men of Asia, being his friends, having sent to him, were entreating him not to venture himself into the theatre.

³² Some indeed, therefore, were calling one thing, and some another: for the assembly was confused, and the greater part knew not for what they were come together: ³³ but out of the multitude they put Alexander forward—the Jews thrusting him forward—and Alexander having beckoned with the hand, wished to make a defence to the people, ³⁴ but having known that he is a Jew, one voice came out of all, for about two hours, crying, 'Great is Artemis of the Ephesians!'

³⁵ But the clerk having appeased the multitude, said, 'Men, Ephesians, why, who is the man that knoweth not that the city of the Ephesians is a devotee of the great goddess Artemis, and of that which fell down from Zeus? ³⁶ these things, then, not being gainsaid, it is necessary for you to be quiet, and to do nothing rashly.

³⁹ But if ye inquire after anything concerning other matters, in the legal assembly it shall be determined: ⁴⁰ for we are even in peril of being accused for insurrection in regard to this day, there being no occasion by which we shall be able to give an account of this concourse; ⁴¹ and these things having said, he dismissed the assembly.

XX. ¹ AND after the ceasing of the tumult, Paul having called to him the disciples, and having embraced them, departed to proceed to Macedonia; ² and having gone through those parts, and having exhorted them with many words, he came into Greece; ³ having made also three months' stay—a counsel of the Jews having been against him—being about to set forth to Syria, there came to him a resolution of returning through Macedonia.

⁴ And there were accompanying him unto Asia, Sopater of Berea, and of the Thessalonians Aristarchus and Secundus, and Gaius of Derbe, and Timothy; and of those of Asia, Tychicus and Trophimus; ⁵ these, having gone before, remained for us in Troas, ⁶ and we sailed, after the days of unleavened food, from Philippi, and came to them to Troas in five days, where we abode seven days.

⁷ And on the first of the sabbaths, the disciples having been gathered together to break bread, Paul was discoursing to them, about to depart on the morrow, and he was continuing the discourse till midnight, ⁸ and there were many lamps in the upper chamber where they were gathered together, ⁹ and there was sitting a certain youth, by name Eutychus, on the window being borne down by a deep sleep, Paul reasoning long, he having sunk down from sleep, fell down from the third storey, and was lifted up dead.

¹⁰ But Paul, having gone down, fell on him, and having embraced him, said, 'Make no tumult, for his life is in him: ¹¹ and having come up, and having broken bread, and having eaten, and for a long time having talked—till daylight, so he departed; ¹² and they brought up the lad alive, and were comforted in no ordinary measure.

¹³ And we having gone before to the ship, sailed to Assos, there intending to take in Paul, for so had he appointed, intending himself to go on foot; ¹⁴ and when he met with us at Assos, having taken him in, we came to Mitylene: ¹⁵ and from thence having sailed, on the morrow we came over against Chios, and the next day we arrived at Samos, and having remained in Trogyllium, on the coming day we came to Miletus, ¹⁶ for Paul decided to sail past Ephesus, that there may not be to him a loss of time in Asia, for he hasted, if it were possible for him, on the day of the Pentecost to be at Jerusalem.

¹⁷ And from Miletus, having sent to Ephesus, he called for the elders of the assembly, ¹⁸ and when they were come to him, he said to them, 'Ye—ye know from the first day in which I came into Asia, how, with you at all times I have been; ¹⁹ serving the Lord with all humility, and many tears, and temptations, which befel me by the counsels of the Jews against me; ²⁰ how nothing I kept back of what is profitable, not to declare to you, and to teach you publicly, and in every house ²¹ testifying fully both to Jews and Greeks, toward God reformation, and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ.

²² And now, lo, I—bound in the Spirit—proceed to Jerusalem, the things that shall befall me I know not; ²³ save that the Holy Spirit in every city doth testify fully, saying, that for me bonds and tribulations remain; ²⁴ but I make account of none of these things, neither count I my life precious to myself, so that I finish my course with joy, and the ministry which I received from the Lord Jesus, to testify the good news of the grace of God.

²⁵ And now, lo, I have known that no more shall ye see my face,—ye all among whom I have gone preaching the reign of God: ²⁶ wherefore I take you fully to testify this day, that I am clear from the blood of all, ²⁷ for I did not shun to declare to you all the counsel of God.

²⁸ Take heed, therefore, to yourselves, and to all the flock, among which the Holy Spirit made you overseers, to feed the assembly of God, which He acquired through His own blood; ²⁹ for I have known this, that there shall enter in, after my departing, grievous wolves unto you, not sparing the flock; ³⁰ and of your own selves there shall arise men, speaking perverse things, to draw the disciples after them.

³¹ Therefore watch, remembering that three years, night and day, I ceased not with tears to warn every one; ³² and now, I commend you, brethren, to God, and to the word of His grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all those sanctified.

³³ The silver or gold or garments of no one did I covet; ³⁴ and ye yourselves know that to my necessities, and to those who were with me, minister did these hands; ³⁵ all things I shewed you, that, so labouring, it behoveth us to aid the infirm, to be mindful also of the words of the Lord Jesus that he himself said, It is more blessed to give than to receive.

³⁶ And these things having said, having bowed his knees, with them all, he prayed; ³⁷ and there came a great weeping to all, and having fallen on the neck of Paul, they were kissing him, ³⁸ sorrowing most of all for the word that he had said—that they are about no more to see his face; and they were accompanying him to the ship.

XXI. ¹ AND it came to pass, at our sailing, having been parted from them, having run direct, we came to Coos, and on the succeeding day to Rhodes, and from thence to Patara, ² and having found a ship passing over to Phenicia, having gone on board, we sailed, ³ but having discovered Cyprus, and having left it on the left, we were sailing to Syria, and landed at Tyre, for there was the ship unloading the merchandise.

⁴ And having found out the disciples by searching, we tarried there seven days, and they said to Paul, through the Spirit, not to go up to Jerusalem; ⁵ but when it came that we completed the days, having departed, we went on, all bringing us on our way, with women and children, unto the outside of the city, and having bowed the knees on the shore, we prayed; ⁶ and having embraced one another, we went on board the ship: but they returned to their own friends.

⁷ And we, having finished the course from Tyre, came to Ptolemais, and having saluted the brethren, we remained one day with them; ⁸ and on the morrow Paul and his company having gone forth, we came to Cesarea, and having entered into the house of Philip the evangelist, (who was of the seven,) we remained with him, ⁹ and this one had four daughters, virgins, prophesying.

¹⁰ And we remaining many days, there came down a certain one from Judea, a prophet, by name Agabus, ¹¹ and he having come to us, and taken the girdle of Paul, having bound also his own hands and feet, said, 'Thus saith the Holy Spirit, The man whose is this girdle—so shall the Jews in Jerusalem bind, and they shall deliver him up into the hands of the nations.'

¹² And when we heard these things, we exhorted him—both we, and those of that place—not to go up to Jerusalem, ¹³ but Paul answered, 'What do ye—weeping, and crushing mine heart? for I, not only to be bound, but also to die in Jerusalem, am ready, for the name of the Lord Jesus;' ¹⁴ and he not being persuaded, we were silent, saying, 'The will of the Lord be done.'

¹⁵ And after these days, having taken up our vessels, we were going up to Jerusalem, ¹⁶ and there went also some of the disciples from Cesarea with us, bringing with them him with whom we may lodge, one Mnason of Cyprus, an old disciple.

¹⁷ And we having come to Jerusalem, the brethren gladly received us, ¹⁸ and on the morrow Paul was going in with us to James, all the elders also came, ¹⁹ and having saluted them, he was declaring, one by one, each of the things God did among the nations through his ministry; ²⁰ and they having heard, were glorifying the Lord.

And they said to him, 'Thou seest, brother, how many myriads there are of Jews who have believed, and all are zealous of the law; ²¹ but they are instructed concerning thee, that apostasy from Moses thou teachest to all Jews among the nations, saying—Not to circumcise the children, nor after the customs to walk: ²² what then is it? certainly the multitude it behoveth to come together, for they will hear that thou hast come.

²³ This therefore do that we say to thee: We have four men having a vow on themselves; ²⁴ these having taken, be purified with them, and be at expense for them, that they may shave their head, and all may know that the things of which they have been instructed concerning thee are nothing, but thou dost walk—thyself also—the law keeping.

²⁷ But, as the seven days were about to be completed, the Jews from Asia having beheld him in the temple, were stirring up all the multitude, and they laid hands on him, ²⁸ crying out, 'Men, Israelites, help! this is the man who, against the people, and the law, and this place, all everywhere is teaching; and further, also, Greeks he brought into the temple, and hath defiled this holy place;' ²⁹ for they had seen before Trophimus, the Ephesian, in the city with him, whom they were supposing that Paul brought into the temple.

³⁰ All the city also was moved, and it came to pass there was a running together of the people, and having laid hold of Paul, they were drawing him out of the temple, and immediately were the doors shut, ²¹ but they seeking to kill him, tidings came to the chief captain of the band that all Jerusalem hath been thrown into an uproar, ²² who, at once, having taken soldiers and centurions, ran down upon them, and they having seen the chief captain and the soldiers, left off beating Paul.

²³ Then the chief captain, having come near, took him, and commanded him to be bound with two chains, and was inquiring who he may be, and what it is he hath been doing; ²⁴ but some were crying out one thing, and some another, among the multitude, and not being able to know the certainty because of the tumult, he commanded him to be carried to the castle, ²⁵ and when he came upon the stairs, it happened he was borne by the soldiers, because of the violence of the multitude, ²⁶ for the multitude of the people was following after, crying, 'Away with him.'

²⁷ And Paul being about to be led into the castle, saith to the chief captain, 'Is it lawful for me to say anything to thee?' and he said, 'Greek dost thou know?' ²⁸ art thou not, then, the Egyptian who before these days made an uprising, and led into the desert four thousand men of the assassins?'

²⁹ But Paul said, 'I, indeed, am a Jew of Tarsus of Cilicia, of no mean city a citizen: and I beseech thee, suffer me to speak to the people.'

³⁰ And he having given him leave, Paul having stood on the stairs, beckoned with the hand to the people, and there having been a great silence, he spake to them in the Hebrew dialect, saying:

XXII. 1 'MEN, brethren, and fathers, hear my defence now to you: ² and they having heard that in the Hebrew dialect he was speaking to them, gave silence the more, and he saith, ³ I, indeed, am a man, a Jew, born in Tarsus of Cilicia, but brought up in this city at the feet of Gamaliel, having been taught according to the exactitude of the law of the fathers, zealous of God, as all ye are to-day.

⁴ And this way I persecuted unto death, binding and delivering into prisons both men and women, ⁵ as also the chief priest doth testify to me, and all the eldership: from whom also having received letters to the brethren to Damascus, I was proceeding to bring also those there bound to Jerusalem—that they might be punished, ⁶ and it came to pass that, in my proceeding and coming near to Damascus, about noon, suddenly out of the heaven there shone a great light round about me, ⁷ and I fell to the ground, and heard a voice saying to me, Saul, Saul, why dost thou persecute?'

⁸ And I answered, Who art thou, Lord? and he said to me, I am Jesus the Nazarene whom thou dost persecute: ⁹ and they who were with me the light indeed saw, and became afraid, but the voice they heard not of him who was speaking to me,) ¹⁰ and I said,

What shall I do, Lord? and the Lord said to me, Having risen, go on to Damascus, and there it shall be told thee concerning all things which are appointed for thee to do.

¹¹ And when I did not see for the glory of that light, being led by the hand by those who were with me, I came to Damascus; ¹² and a certain one, Ananias, a devout man according to the law, being testified to by all the Jews who dwell there, ¹³ having come to me and stood by me, said to me, Saul, brother, receive sight; and I the same hour looked up to him; ¹⁴ and he said, The God of our fathers chose thee beforehand to know His will, and to see the Righteous One, and to hear a voice out of his mouth, ¹⁵ for thou shalt be his witness to all men of what thou hast seen and heard; ¹⁶ and now, why tarriest thou? having risen, baptize thyself and wash from thee thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord.

¹⁷ And it came to pass when I returned to Jerusalem, and while I was praying in the temple, I came into a trance, ¹⁸ and saw him saying to me, Haste and go out with speed from Jerusalem: because they will not receive thy testimony concerning me; ¹⁹ and I said, Lord, they—they know that I was imprisoning and scourging in every synagogue those who believed on thee; ²⁰ and when the blood of thy witness Stephen was being poured out, I also was standing by and consenting to his death, and keeping the garments of those who put him to death; ²¹ and he said to me, Go, for I to the nations far off will send thee.'

²³ And they, crying out and casting up their garments, and throwing dust into the air, ²⁴ the chief captain commanded him to be brought into the castle, saying, 'By scourges let him be examined: that he might know for what cause they were crying so against him.'

²⁵ And as they were stretching him with the cords, Paul said to the centurion who was standing, 'A man—a Roman, and uncondemned—is it lawful for you to scourge?' ²⁶ and the centurion having heard it, having gone to the chief captain, told, saying, 'Take heed what thou art about to do, for this man is a Roman; ²⁷ and the chief captain having come, said to him, 'Tell me, art thou a Roman?' and he said, 'Yes; ²⁸ and the chief captain answered, 'I, with a great sum, obtained this citizenship;' but Paul said, 'But I have been born so.'

²⁹ Immediately, therefore, they departed from him who were about to examine him, and the chief captain also was afraid, having learned that he is a Roman, and because he had bound him; ³⁰ but on the morrow, intending to know the certainty wherefore he is accused by the Jews, he loosed him from the bonds, and commanded the chief priests and all their sanhedrim to come, and having brought Paul down, he set him before them.

XXIII. ¹AND Paul, having earnestly beheld the sanhedrim, said, 'Men, brethren, I, in all good conscience, have lived to God till this day.' ²And the chief priest Ananias commanded those standing by him to smite him on the mouth: ³then Paul said to him, 'God is about to smite thee, thou white-washed wall, and thou—thou sittest judging me according to the law, and, violating the law, orderest me to be smitten!'

⁴And those who stood by said, 'The chief priest of God dost thou revile?' ⁵And Paul said, 'I knew not, brethren, that he is chief priest: for it hath been written, Of the ruler of thy people thou shalt not speak evil.' ⁶But Paul having known that the one part are Sadducees, and the other Pharisees, cried out in the sanhedrim, 'Men, brethren, I am a Pharisee—son of a Pharisee—concerning the hope and rising again of the dead I am judged.'

⁷And he having spoken this, there came an uprising of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees; and the multitude was divided, ⁸for Sadducees, indeed, say there is no rising again, nor messenger, nor spirit; but Pharisees confess both. ⁹And there came a great cry, and the scribes of the Pharisees' part having arisen, were striving, saying, 'No evil do we find in this man; but if a spirit spake to him, or a messenger, let us not fight against God'; ¹⁰and a great uprising having come, the chief captain, fearing lest Paul may be pulled to pieces by them, commanded the soldiers, having gone down, to take him by force out of the midst of them, and to bring him into the castle.

¹¹And on the following night, the Lord having stood by him, said, 'Take courage. Paul, for as thou didst testify the things concerning me in Jerusalem, so it behoveth thee also at Rome to testify.'

¹²And day having come, certain of the Jews having made a concourse, anathematized themselves, saying they would neither eat nor drink till they may kill Paul; ¹³and they were more than forty who made this conspiracy by oath, ¹⁴who having come to the chief priests and to the elders said, 'With an anathema we have anathematized ourselves—to taste nothing till we have killed Paul'; ¹⁵now therefore ye, signify ye to the chief captain, with the sanhedrim, that to-morrow he may bring him down to you, as being about to inquire more exactly the things concerning him: and we, before his coming near, are ready to put him to death.'

¹⁶But the son of Paul's sister having heard of the lying in wait, having gone and entered into the castle, told Paul, ¹⁷and Paul having called near one of the centurions, said, 'This young man lead to the chief captain, for he hath something to tell him.' ¹⁸He indeed, then, having taken him, brought him to the chief captain, and said, 'The prisoner Paul having called me to him, asked me this young man to bring to thee, who hath something to say to thee.'

¹⁹And the chief captain having taken him

by the hand, and having withdrawn by themselves, inquired, 'What is that thou hast to tell me?' ²⁰and he said, 'The Jews agreed to request thee, that to-morrow to the sanhedrim thou mayest bring down Paul, as about to inquire something more exactly concerning him; ²¹thou, therefore, mayest thou not yield to them, for there lie in wait for him of them more than forty men, who anathematized themselves—not to eat nor to drink till they may kill him; and now they are ready, waiting for the promise from thee.'

²²The chief captain then, indeed, let the young man go, having charged him to tell no one, {that these things thou didst shew to me;}' ²³and having called to him a certain two centurions, he said, 'Make ready soldiers two hundred, that they may go unto Caesarea, and horsemen seventy, and spearmen two hundred, at the third hour of the night; ²⁴provide also beasts, that, having set Paul on, they may bring him safe to Felix the governor.' ²⁵He having written a letter after this description:

²⁶Claudius Lysias, to the most noble governor Felix, hail: 'This man having been taken by the Jews, and being about to be killed by them—having come with the soldiers, I rescued him, having learned that he is a Roman; ²⁷and, intending to know the cause for which they were accusing him, I brought him down into their sanhedrim, ²⁸whom I found to be accused concerning questions of their law, but having no accusation involving death or bonds; ²⁹and a plot having been intimated to me—about to be of the Jews—against this man, at once I sent to thee: having given command also to the accusers to say the things against him before thee: be strong.'

³¹Then, indeed, the soldiers according to that commanded them, having taken Paul, brought him through the night to Antipatris; ³²and on the morrow, having suffered the horsemen to proceed with him, they returned to the castle; ³³those having entered into Caesarea, and delivered the letter to the governor, presented Paul also to him.

³⁴And the governor having read it, and inquired of what province he is, and understood that he is from Cilicia; ³⁵'I will hear thee (said he) when thine accusers also may have come; and he commanded him to be kept in the pretorium of Herod.

XXIV. ¹AND after five days went down the chief priest Ananias, with the elders, and a certain orator—Tertullus; and they made manifest to the governor the things against Paul; ²and he having been called, Tertullus began to accuse him, saying, 'Much peace enjoying through thee, and worthy deeds being done to this nation through thy forethought, ³always also and everywhere we receive it, most noble Felix, with all thankfulness; ⁴but that I be not further tedious to thee, I pray thee to hear us concisely in thy gentleness: ⁵for having found this man a pestilence, and moving an uprising to all the Jews through the world—and a ringleader of the sect of the Nazareones—⁶who also the temple tried to profane, whom also we took, and according to our law wished to judge, ⁷but Lysias the chief captain having come near, with much violence, out of our hands took him away, ⁸commanding his accusers to come to thee, from whom thou mayest be able thyself, having examined, to know concerning all these things of which we accuse him: ⁹and the Jews also agreed—professing these things to be so.

¹⁰But Paul answered—the governor having beckoned to him to speak—¹¹Knowing that for many years thou hast been a judge to this nation, the more cheerfully the things concerning myself do I answer; ¹²thou being able to know that it is not more than twelve days to me since I went up to worship in Jerusalem, ¹³and neither in the temple did they find me reasoning with any one, or making an uprising of the multitude, nor in the synagogues, nor in the city; ¹⁴nor are they able to prove against me the things concerning which they now accuse me.

¹⁵But I confess this to thee, that, according to the way which they call a sect, so serve I the God of the fathers: believing all things which in the law and the prophets are written, ¹⁶having hope toward God, which they themselves also wait for, that there is about to be a rising again of the dead, both of righteous and unrighteous; ¹⁷but in this do I exercise myself, to have a conscience void of offence toward God and toward men always.

¹⁸But after many years I came, about to do kind acts to my nation, and offerings, ¹⁹in which certain Jews from Asia found me purified in the temple, not with multitude, nor with tumult, ²⁰whom it behoved to be present before thee, and to accuse, if they had anything against me; ²¹or let these same here say if they found any unrighteousness in me in my standing before the sanhedrim, ²²except concerning this one voice, in which I cried, standing among them—concerning a rising again of the dead I am judged to-day by you.

²³And having heard these things, Felix delayed them, (having known more exactly of the things concerning the way,) saying, 'Whenever Lysias the chief captain may come down, I will know fully the things concerning you.' ²⁴having given also a charge to the centurion to keep Paul, and to let him have liberty, and to forbid none of his own friends to minister or come to him.

²⁵And after certain days, Felix having come with Drusilla his wife, being a Jewess, he sent for Paul, and heard him concerning the faith in Christ; ²⁶and he reasoning concerning righteousness, and temperance, and the judgment which is about to be, Felix, having become afraid, answered, 'For the present be going, but having got time, I will call for thee.' ²⁷and at the same time also hoping that money shall be given to him by Paul, that he may release him, therefore also sending for him the oftener, he was conversing with him: ²⁸but two years having been fulfilled, Felix received a successor, Porcius Festus, and Felix, willing to lay a favour on the Jews, left Paul bound.

XXV. ¹FESTUS therefore having come into the province, after three days went up to Jerusalem from Cæsarea; ²and the chief priest and the principal men of the Jews made manifest to him the things against Paul, and were calling on him, asking favour against him, that he may send for him to Jerusalem, laying an ambush to put him to death in the way.

³Then, indeed, Festus answered that Paul is kept in Cæsarea, and himself is about speedily to proceed thither, ⁴Therefore those able among you [saith he], having come down together with me, if there is anything in this man—let them accuse him: ⁵and having tarried among them more than ten days, having gone down to Cæsarea, on the morrow having sat on the tribunal, he commanded Paul to be brought; ⁶and he having come, there stood round about the Jews who had come down from Jerusalem—many and weighty charges bringing against Paul, which they were not able to prove; ⁷he making defence—'Neither in regard to the law of the Jews, nor in regard to the temple, nor in regard to Cæsar—did I commit any sin.'

⁸But Festus willing to lay on the Jews a favour, answering Paul, said, 'Art thou willing, having gone up to Jerusalem, there concerning these things to be judged before me?' ⁹but Paul said, 'At the tribunal of Cæsar I stand, where it behoveth me to be judged; to the Jews I did no unrighteousness, as thou also very well knowest: ¹⁰for if indeed I am unrighteous, and anything worthy of death have done, I deprecate not to die; but if there is none of the things of which these accuse me, no one is able to make a favour of me to them; to Cæsar I appeal!' ¹¹then Festus having communed with the counsel, answered, 'To Cæsar thou hast appealed; to Cæsar then shalt thou go.'

¹²And certain days having passed, Arippa the king, and Bernice, came to Cæsarea to salute Festus; ¹³and as they were continuing there more days, Festus to the king declared the things concerning Paul, saying, 'There is a certain man left by Felix a prisoner, ¹⁴about whom, in my being at Jerusalem, the chief priest and the elders of the Jews laid information, asking a decision against him, ¹⁵to whom I answered, that it is not a custom of Romans to deliver any man to die, before that he who is accused have the accusers face to face, and receive place of defence in regard to the charge laid against him.'

¹⁶They therefore having come hither—I making no delay, on the succeeding day having sat on the tribunal, commanded the man to be brought, ¹⁷concerning whom—the accusers having stood up—they were bringing against him no accusation of the things I was thinking of, ¹⁸but certain questions concerning their own religion had they against him, and concerning a certain Jesus who was dead, whom Paul affirmed to be alive; ²⁰ and I, doubting in regard to the question concerning this, said, 'If he wished to proceed to Jerusalem, and there to be judged concerning these things—²¹ but Paul having appealed to be kept to the hearing of Sebasius, I commanded him to be kept till I might send him to Cæsar.'

²² And Agrippa said to Festus, 'I was wishing also myself to hear the man;' and he said, 'To-morrow thou shalt hear him:' ²³ on the morrow therefore—on the coming of Agrippa and Bernice with much display, and they having entered into the audience chamber, with the chief captains also, and the principal men of the city, and Festus having called—Paul was brought forth.

²⁴ And Festus said, 'King Agrippa, and all men who are present with us, ye see this one, about whom all the multitude of the Jews dealt with me, both in Jerusalem and here, crying out, He ought not to live any longer: ²⁵ but I having found him to have done nothing worthy of death, and he also himself having appealed to Sebasius, I decided to send to him, ²⁶ concerning whom I have no certain thing to write to my lord, wherefore I brought him forth before you, and specially before thee, king Agrippa, that examination having been made, I may have something to write; ²⁷ for it seemeth to me irrational, sending a prisoner, not also to signify the fault laid against him.'

XXVI. ¹ AND Agrippa said to Paul, 'It is permitted to thee to speak for thyself;' then Paul having stretched forth the hand, was making a defence: ² 'Concerning all things of which I am accused by the Jews, king Agrippa, I have thought myself happy, being about to make a defence before thee to-day, ³ especially knowing thee to be acquainted with all things—both customs and questions—among the Jews; wherefore, I beseech thee, patiently to hear me.

⁴ 'The manner of my life then, indeed, from youth—which from the beginning was among my nation, in Jerusalem—know all the Jews, ⁵ knowing me before from the first, (if they may be willing to testify,) that after the most exact sect of our worship, I lived a Pharisee; ⁶ and now for the hope of the promise made to the fathers by God, I stand judged ⁷ to regard to which our twelve tribes, intently night and day serving, hope to come, concerning which hope I am accused, king Agrippa, by the Jews; ⁸ why is it judged incredible by you, if God doth raise the dead?

⁹ 'I indeed, therefore thought with myself, that against the name of Jesus of Nazareth it behoved me many things to do, ¹⁰ which also I did in Jerusalem, and many of the saints I in prison did shut up, from the chief priests having received authority; and they being put to death, I gave my vote against them, ¹¹ and in every synagogue, often punishing them, I was constraining them to speak evil, and being exceedingly mad against them, I was persecuting even unto strange cities.

¹² 'In which things, also proceeding to Damascus—with authority and commission from the chief priests—¹³ at mid-day, I saw in the way, O king, out of heaven, above the brightness of the sun, shining round about me a light,—and those going with me; ¹⁴ and we all having fallen to the earth, I heard a voice speaking to me, and saying in the Hebrew dialect, Saul, Saul, why me dost thou persecute? hard for thee against pricks to kick!

¹⁵ 'And I said, Who art thou, Lord? and he said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest; ¹⁶ but rise, and stand upon thy feet; for for this have I appeared to thee, to appoint thee an officer and a witness both of the things thou hast seen, and of the things in which I will appear to thee, ¹⁷ delivering thee from the people, and the nations, to whom now I send thee, ¹⁸ to open their eyes, to turn them from darkness to light, and from the power of the Adversary to God, for receiving their forgiveness of sins, and inheritance among those sanctified by faith that is in me.

¹⁹ 'Whereupon, king Agrippa, I was not disobedient to the heavenly vision, ²⁰ but to those in Damascus first, and in Jerusalem, and to all the region of Judea, and to the nations, I was preaching to reform, and to turn to God, doing works worthy of reformation; ²¹ because of these things the Jews—having caught me in the temple—were going about to kill me.

²² 'Having obtained therefore help from God—till this day—I stand, witnessing both to small and to great, saying nothing besides the things which both the prophets and Moses spake of as about to come, ²³ whether Christ is to suffer, whether first by rising from the dead, he is about to proclaim light to the people and to the nations.'

²⁴ And he by these things making a defence, Festus with a loud voice said, 'Thou art mad, Paul; much learning doth turn thee mad:' ²⁵ but he said, 'I am not mad, most noble Festus; but of truth and soberness the sayings I speak forth; ²⁶ for the king knoweth concerning these things, before whom also I speak boldly, for none of these things, I am persuaded, are hidden from him; for this thing hath not been done in a corner: ²⁷ thou believest, king Agrippa, the prophets? I have known that thou believest!'

²⁸ And Agrippa said to Paul, 'In a little thou dost persuade me to become a Christian!' ²⁹ and Paul said, 'I would have wished to God, both in a little and in much, not only thee, but also all those hearing me to-day, to become such as I also am—except these bonds.'

³⁰ And he having spoken these things, the king rose up, and the governor, Bernice also, and those sitting with them, ³¹ and having withdrawn, they were speaking to one another, saying—'This man doth nothing worthy of death or of bonds;' ³² and Agrippa said to Festus, 'This man might have been released, if he had not appealed to Cæsar.'

XXVII. ¹ AND when it was determined for our sailing to Italy, they were delivering up both Paul and certain others, prisoners, to a centurion, by name Julius, of the band of Sebastus,² and having embarked in a ship of Adramyttium, we being about to sail by the coasts of Asia, set sail, there being with us Aristarchus, a Macedonian of Thessalonica,³ and on the next day we touched at Sidon, and Julius, courteously treating Paul, permitting him, having gone to friends, to receive their care.

⁴And thence, having set sail, we sailed under Cyprus, because of the winds being contrary,⁵ and having sailed over the sea toward Cilicia and Pamphylia, we came to Myra of Lycia,⁶ and there the centurion having found a ship of Alexandria, sailing to Italy, put us into it,⁷ and having sailed slowly for many days, and scarce coming over against Cnidus, the wind not suffering us, we sailed under Crete, over-against Salmone,⁸ and hardly passing it, we came to a certain place called 'Fair Havens,' near to which was the city of Lasea.

⁹But much time being spent, and the sailing being now dangerous, (because of the fasting also being already past,) Paul admonished them,¹⁰ saying to them, 'Men, I perceive that with hurt and much damage, not only of the lading and of the ship, but also of our lives—the voyage is about to be;' ¹¹but the centurion to the pilot and shipowner gave credence more than to the things spoken by Paul;¹² and the haven being incommensurable to winter in, the more part gave counsel to sail thence also, if by any means they might be able, having attained to Phenice, there to winter, which is a haven of Crete, looking toward the south-west and north-west,¹³ and a south wind blowing softly, having thought they had obtained their purpose, having lifted anchor, they sailed close by Crete,¹⁴ but not long after there arose against it a tempestuous wind, which is called Euroclydon,¹⁵ and the ship being caught, and not being able to bear up to the wind, having given her up, we were borne on,¹⁶ and having run under a certain island, called Claudia, we were hardly able to become masters of the boat,¹⁷ which having taken up, they used helps, undergirding the ship, and fearing lest they may fall on the quicksand, having let down the sail—so were borne on.

¹⁸And we, being exceedingly tossed, the succeeding day they were making a clearing,¹⁹ and on the third day with our own hands the tackling of the ship we cast out,²⁰ and neither sun nor stars appearing for many days, and not a little tempest being on us, thenceforth all hope was taken away of our being saved.

²¹And there having been long fasting, then Paul having stood in the midst of them, said, 'It behoved you, indeed, O men—having hearkened to me—not to set sail from Crete, and to save this harm and loss:²² and now I exhort you to be of good cheer, for there shall be no loss of any one's life among you—but of the ship;²³ for there stood by me this night a messenger of God,

(whose I am, and whom I serve),²⁴ saying, Fear not, Paul; before Cæsar it behoveth thee to be brought; and lo, God hath given thee all these sailing with thee;²⁵ wherefore, be of good cheer, men! for I believe God, that so it shall be, even as it hath been spoken to me,²⁶ but on a certain island it behoveth us to be cast.'

²⁷But when the fourteenth night came—we being borne up and down in Adria—toward the middle of the night the sailors were thinking that they are drawing near to some country,²⁸ and having sounded they found twenty fathoms, and having gone a little farther, and again having sounded, they found fifteen fathoms,²⁹ and fearing lest on rough places we may fall, out of the stern having cast four anchors, they were wishing day to come.

³⁰And the sailors seeking to flee out of the ship, and letting down the boat into the sea, in pretence as if out of the foreship they are about to cast anchor,³¹ Paul said to the centurion and to the soldiers, 'If these remain not in the ship—ye are not able to be saved:'³² then the soldiers cut off the ropes of the boat, and suffered her to fall off.

³³And till the day was about to be, Paul was calling upon all to partake of food, saying, 'Fourteen days to-day, waiting, ye continue fasting, having taken nothing;³⁴ wherefore I call upon you to take food, for this is for your safety, for of you—not one hair of the head shall fall:'³⁵ and having said these things, and taken bread, he gave thanks to God before all, and having broken it, he began to eat;³⁶ and all having become of good cheer, themselves also took food;³⁷ (and we were—all the souls in the ship—two hundred, seventy and six);³⁸ and having eaten sufficient food, they were lightening the ship, casting out the wheat into the sea.

³⁹But when day came, they were not knowing the land, but a certain creek were discovering having a shore, into which they took counsel, if possible, to thrust forward the ship,⁴⁰ and having cut the anchors, they were committing themselves to the sea, at the same time—having loosed the bands of the rudders, and hoisted up the mainsail to the wind—they made to the shore,⁴¹ but having fallen into a place of two seas, they ran the ship aground, and the fore-part, indeed, having stuck fast, remained immovable, but the hinder-part was broken by the violence of the waves.

⁴²And the soldiers' counsel was that they should kill the prisoners, lest any one having swam out should escape,⁴³ but the centurion, wishing to save Paul, hindered them from the counsel, and commanded those able to swim, having cast themselves out first—to get to the land,⁴⁴ and the rest, some indeed on boards, and some on certain pieces of the ship; and thus it came to pass that all came safe to the land.

XXVIII. ¹AND having been saved, then they knew that the island is called Melita,² and the strangers were shewing us no ordinary kindness, for having kindled a fire, they received us all, because of the pressing rain, and because of the cold; ³but Paul having gathered a bundle of sticks, and laid them on the fire, a viper—having come out of the heat—fastened on his hand.

⁴And when the strangers saw the beast hanging from his hand, they said to one another, 'Certainly this man is a murderer, whom, having been saved out of the sea, justice suffered not to live.' ⁵He then, indeed, having shaken off the beast into the fire, suffered no evil, ⁶but they were expecting him to be about to be inflamed, or to fall down suddenly dead, and they, expecting it a long time, and seeing nothing uncommon happening to him, changing their minds, said that he was a god.

⁷And in the neighbourhood of that place were the lands of the principal man of the island, by name Publius, who, having received us, three days courteously lodged us; ⁸and it came to pass, the father of Publius with fever and bloody flux was pressed, to whom Paul having entered, and prayed, having laid his hands on him, healed him; ⁹this therefore being done, the others also in the island having infirmities were coming and were healed; ¹⁰who also with many honours honoured us, and we sailing—they were lading us with the things that were necessary.

¹¹And after three months, we sailed in a ship (which had wintered in the Isle) of Alexandria, with the sign Dioscuri, ¹²and having landed at Syracuse, we remained there three days, ¹³from thence having gone round, we came to Rhegium, and after one day, a south wind blowing, the second day we came to Puteolis; ¹⁴where, having found brethren, we were called on to remain with them seven days, and thus to Rome we went; ¹⁵and from thence, the brethren having heard the things concerning us, came out to meet us, unto Appii Forum, and Three Taverns—whom Paul having seen, having given thanks to God, took courage.

¹⁶And when we came to Rome, the centurion delivered up the prisoners to the chief of the soldiers, but Paul was suffered to remain by himself with the soldier guarding him.

¹⁷And it came to pass after three days, Paul called together those who were the principal men of the Jews, and they having come together, he said to them: 'Men, brethren, I—having done nothing contrary to the people, or to the customs of the fathers—a prisoner from Jerusalem, was delivered up into the hands of the Romans: ¹⁸who, having examined me, were wishing to release me, because of there being no cause of death in me, ¹⁹but the Jews having spoken against it, I was constrained to appeal to Caesar—not as having anything to accuse my nation of, ²⁰for this cause, therefore, I called for you, to see and to speak with you, for because of the hope of Israel with this chain am I bound.'

²¹And they said to him, 'We neither received letters concerning thee from Judea, nor did any one who came of the brethren declare or speak any evil concerning thee: ²²but we think it good from thee to hear what thou thinkest, for, indeed, concerning this sect it is known to us that everywhere it is spoken against.' ²³and having appointed him a day, they came, more of them, to him—to the lodging, to whom he was expounding, testifying fully the reign of God, and persuading them concerning the things of Jesus, both from the law of Moses, and the prophets—from morning till evening; ²⁴and some indeed were believing the things spoken, but some were not believing.

²⁵And not being agreed with one another, they were going away, Paul having spoken one word—'Well did the Holy Spirit speak through Isaiah the prophet to our fathers, ²⁶saying, Go to this people and say, With hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand, and seeing ye shall see, and shall not perceive, ²⁷for made gross was the heart of this people, and with the ears they heard heavily, and their eyes they closed, lest perhaps they may see with the eyes, and with the ears may hear, and with the heart may understand, and be turned back, and I may heal them.'

²⁸'Be it known therefore to you, that to the nations was sent the salvation of God, and these will hear it.' ²⁹and he having said these things, the Jews went away, having much disputation among themselves, ³⁰but Paul remained an entire two years in his own hired house, and was receiving all those coming in to him, ³¹preaching the reign of God, and teaching the things concerning the Lord Jesus Christ with all boldness—unforbidden.

ROMANS.

CHAP. I. ¹PAUL, a servant of Jesus Christ, a called apostle, having been separated to the good news of God, ²(which He announced before through His prophets in holy writings,) ³concerning His Son, (who is come out of the seed of David according to the flesh, ⁴who is marked out Son of God in power, according to the Spirit of holiness, by the rising again from the dead,) Jesus Christ our Lord: ⁵through whom we received grace and apostleship, for obedience of faith among all the nations, in behalf of his name: ⁶among whom are ye also the called of Jesus Christ: ⁷to all who are in Rome, beloved of God, called saints: Grace to you, and peace, from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ!

⁸First, indeed, I thank my God through Jesus Christ for you all, that your faith is proclaimed in the whole world: ⁹for God is my witness, whom I serve in my spirit in the good news of His Son, how unceasingly I make mention of you, ¹⁰always in my prayers beseeching, if by any means now at length I shall have a prosperous journey, by the will of God, to come to you: ¹¹for I long to see you, that I may impart to you some spiritual gift, that ye may be established; ¹²and that is, that I may be comforted together among you, through the faith in each other, both yours and mine.

¹³But I do not wish you to be ignorant, brethren, that many times I purposed to come to you, (and was hindered till the present time,) that some fruit I might have also among you, even as also among the other nations.

¹⁴Both to Greeks and to barbarians, both to wise and to unintelligent, I am a debtor: ¹⁵so, as much as in me is, I am ready also to you who are in Rome to proclaim the good news, ¹⁶for I am not ashamed of the good news of Christ, for it is the power of God for salvation to every one who is believing, both to Jew first, and to Greek.

¹⁷For the righteousness of God in it is revealed from faith to faith, according as it hath been written, 'But the righteous one by faith shall live:' ¹⁸for revealed is the wrath of God from heaven upon all ungodliness, and unrighteousness of men, holding down the truth in unrighteousness.

¹⁹Because that which is known of God is manifest among them, for God manifested it to them, ²⁰for the invisible things of Him from the creation of the world, by the things made being understood, are plainly seen, both His eternal power and Godhead—for their being inexcusable: ²¹because, having known God, they glorified Him not as God, nor gave thanks, but were made vain in their reasonings, and their foolish heart was darkened, ²²professing themselves to be wise ²³they were made fools, and changed the glory of the incorruptible God into the likeness of an image of corruptible man, and of fowls, and of quadrupeds, and of reptiles.

²⁴Wherefore also God gave them up, in the desires of their hearts, to uncleanness, to dishonour their bodies among themselves: ²⁵who changed the truth of God into falsehood, and honoured and served the creature more than the Creator, who is blessed to the ages. Amen.

²⁶Because of this, God gave them up to dishonourable affections, for even their females changed the natural use into that against nature; ²⁷and in like manner also the males having left the natural use of the female, burned in their lusts towards one another; males with males working shame, and the recompense of their error which was fit, in themselves receiving.

²⁸And, according as they did not think good to have God by knowledge, God gave them up to a disapproved mind to do the things not seemly: ²⁹having been filled with all unrighteousness, whoredom, wickedness, covetousness, malice; full of envy, murder, strife, deceit, evil dispositions: whisperers, ³⁰evil-speakers, God-haters, contemptuous, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents, ³¹foolish, faithless, without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful: ³²who the righteous judgment of God having known, (that those who are practising such things are worthy of death,) not only do them, but also have delight with those who are practising them.

II. ¹THEREFORE, thou art inexcusable, O man, every one who is judging, for in that in which thou judgest the other, thyself thou condemnest, for the same things thou dost practise who art judging: ²but we know that the judgment of God is according to truth, upon those who are practising such things.

³And thinkest thou this, O man, who art judging those who such things are practising, and art doing them, that thou shalt escape the judgment of God? ⁴or the riches of His goodness, and forbearance, and long-suffering, despisest thou?—not knowing that the goodness of God leadeth thee to reformation! ⁵but, according to thy hardness and impenitent heart, thou treasurest up to thyself wrath, in the day of wrath, and of the revelation of the righteous judgment of God: ⁶who shall render to each according to his works: ⁷to them, indeed, who in patient continuance of a good work, seek glory, and honour, and incorruptibility—life age-during: ⁸but to those contentious, and disobedient, indeed, to the truth, but obeying unrighteousness—indignation, and wrath, ⁹tribulation, and distress, on every soul of man that is working evil, both of Jew first, and of Greek: ¹⁰but glory, and honour, and peace, to every one who is working good, both to Jew first, and to Greek.

¹¹For there is no acceptance of persons with God, ¹²for as many as without law sinned, without law also shall perish, and as many as sinned in law, through law shall be judged, ¹³for not the hearers of the law are righteous before God, but the doers of the law shall be declared righteous.

¹⁴For when nations which have not law, by nature may do the things of the law, these not having law, to themselves are a law; ¹⁵who shew the work of the law written in their hearts, their conscience also witnessing with them, and between one another the thoughts accusing or else defending, ¹⁶in the day when God shall judge the secrets of men, according to my good news, through Jesus Christ.

¹⁷Lo, thou art named a Jew, and dost rest on the law, and dost boast in God, ¹⁸and knowest the will, and discernest the more excellent things, being instructed out of the law; ¹⁹and hast confidence that thou thyself art a leader of the blind, a light of those in darkness, ²⁰an instructor of foolish ones, a teacher of babes, having the form of the knowledge and of the truth in the law:

²⁵For circumcision indeed profiteth, if law thou mayest practise; but if a transgressor of law thou mayest be, thy circumcision hath become uncircumcision. ²⁶If therefore the uncircumcision the righteousness of the law may keep, shall not his uncircumcision for circumcision be reckoned? ²⁷and the uncircumcision, by nature fulfilling the law, shall judge thee who, through letter and circumcision, art a transgressor of law.

²⁸For he is not a Jew who is so outwardly, neither is circumcision that which is outward in flesh; ²⁹but a Jew is he who is so inwardly; and circumcision is of the heart, in spirit, not in letter: of which the praise is not of men, but of God.

III. ¹WHAT, then, is the superiority of the Jew? or what the profit of circumcision? ²much in every way: for first, indeed, that they were intrusted with the oracles of God: ³for what, if certain have been faithless? shall their faithlessness the faithfulness of God make void? ⁴let it not be! but let God become true, but every man false: according as it hath been written, 'That Thou mayest be declared righteous in Thy words, and mayest overcome in Thy being judged.'

⁵But if our unrighteousness God's righteousness doth establish, what shall we say? is God unrighteous who is inflicting the wrath? (after the manner of a man, I speak) ⁶let it not be! since how shall God judge the world? ⁷for if the truth of God in my falsehood hath more abounded to His glory, why yet am I also as a sinner judged? ⁸and not as we are evil spoken of, and as certain affirm us to say—'let us do the evil things, that the good ones may come?' whose judgment is righteous.

⁹What, then? are we better? not at all! for we have before charged both Jews and Greeks with being all under sin, ¹⁰according as it hath been written—'There is none righteous, not even one: ¹¹there is none who is understanding: there is none who is seeking after God: ¹²all have gone out of the way, together they have become unprofitable; there is none doing good, there is not even one: ¹³a sepulchre opened is their throat; with their tongues they have used deceit: poison of asps is under their lips: ¹⁴whose mouth is full of cursing and bitterness: ¹⁵swift are their feet to shed blood: ¹⁶ruin and misery are in their ways: ¹⁷and a way of peace they have not known: ¹⁸there is no fear of God before their eyes.'

¹⁹But we know, that whatever things the law saith, to those in the law it speaketh, that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world may come under judgment to God: ²⁰wherefore by works of law shall no flesh be declared righteous before Him; for through law is knowledge of sin.

²¹But now apart from law hath the righteousness of God been manifested, testified to by the law and the prophets, ²²even the righteousness of God through the faith of Jesus Christ to all, and upon all those believing, for there is no difference, ²³(for all have sinned, and are come short of the glory of God,) ²⁴being declared righteous freely by His grace through the redemption which is in Christ Jesus, ²⁵whom God set forth a propitiation through faith in His blood, for the shewing forth of His righteousness, because of the passing over of the bygone sins in the forbearance of God—²⁶for the shewing forth of His righteousness in the present time, for His being righteous, and declaring him righteous who is of the faith of Jesus.

²⁷Where then is the boasting? it was excluded: through what law? of works? no, but through the law of faith: ²⁸therefore we reckon a man to be declared righteous by faith, apart from works of law.

²⁹ Is He the God of Jews only, and not also of nations? ³⁰ yes, also of nations; since one is God who shall declare righteous the circumcision by faith, and the uncircumcision through faith. Law then do we make void through the faith? let it not be! but we establish law.

IV. ¹ What, then, shall we say Abraham our father to have found according to flesh? ² for if Abraham by works was declared righteous, he hath to boast—but not before God; ³ for what doth the writing say? ⁴ And Abraham believed God, and it was reckoned to him for righteousness; ⁵ and to him who is working, the reward is not reckoned of grace, but of debt; ⁶ but to him who is not working, but believing on Him who is declaring righteous the ungodly, his faith is reckoned for righteousness: ⁷ even as David also speaketh of the happiness of the man to whom God reckoneth righteousness apart from works: ⁸ Happy they whose lawless acts were forgiven, and whose sins were covered; ⁹ happy the man to whom the Lord shall reckon no sin.

¹⁰ Is this blessedness, then, on the circumcision, or also on the uncircumcision—for we say that the faith was reckoned to Abraham for righteousness? ¹¹ how, then, was it reckoned? he being in circumcision, or in uncircumcision? not in circumcision, but in uncircumcision, ¹² and a sign he received of circumcision, a seal of the righteousness of the faith in the uncircumcision, for his being father of all those believing through uncircumcision, for the reckoning also to them of righteousness, ¹³ and father of circumcision to those not of circumcision only, but who also walk in the steps of the faith, which was in the uncircumcision, of our father Abraham.

¹⁴ For not through law is the promise to Abraham, or to his seed, of his being heir of the world, but through the righteousness of faith; ¹⁵ for if they who are of law are heirs, the faith hath been made void, and the promise is made of none effect; ¹⁶ for the law worketh wrath; for where law is not, neither is transgression.

¹⁷ Therefore, it is of faith, that it may be according to grace, for the promise being sure to all the seed, not to that which is of the law only, but also to that which is of the faith of Abraham, ¹⁸ who is father of us all (according as it hath been written—‘A father of many nations have I set thee,’ before Him whom he believed—God, who is quickening the dead and calling the things which be not as being.

¹⁹ Who, against hope in hope believed, for his becoming father of many nations according to that spoken: ‘So shall be thy seed;’

²⁰ and not having been weak in the faith, he considered not his own body, already become dead, (being about a hundred years old,) and the deadness of Sarah’s womb.

²¹ But at the promise of God staggered not in unbelief, but was strengthened in faith, having given glory to God, ²² and having been fully persuaded that what He hath promised He is able also to do: ²³ wherefore also it was reckoned to him for righteousness.

²⁴ But it was not written on his account alone, that it was reckoned to him, ²⁵ but also on ours, to whom it is about to be reckoned—to those believing on Him who raised up Jesus our Lord from the dead, ²⁶ who was delivered up for our offences, and raised for our justification.

V. ¹ Having been declared righteous, then, by faith, we have peace toward God through our Lord Jesus Christ; ² through whom also we have had the access by the faith into this grace in which we stand, and we boast on the hope of the glory of God.

³ And not only so, but we also boast in the tribulations, knowing that the tribulation worketh endurance; ⁴ and the endurance, experience; and the experience, hope; ⁵ and the hope maketh not ashamed, because the love of God hath been poured forth in our hearts through the Holy Spirit which is given to us.

⁶ For in our being still weak, Christ in due time died for the ungodly; ⁷ for scarcely for a righteous man will any one die, for for the good man perhaps some one might also dare to die; ⁸ but God commendeth His own love to us, that, in our being still sinners, Christ died for us; ⁹ much more, then, having been declared righteous now in His blood, we shall be saved through Him from wrath; ¹⁰ for if, being enemies, we have been reconciled to God through the death of His Son, much more, having been reconciled, we shall be saved in His life.

¹¹ And not only so, but we are also boasting in God, through our Lord Jesus Christ, through whom now we have received the reconciliation; ¹² because of this, even as through one man sin entered into the world, and through sin death; and thus to all men death passed through, for that all sinned; ¹³ for till law sin was in the world; but sin is not reckoned when there is not law; ¹⁴ but death reigned from Adam till Moses, even upon those not having sinned in the likeness of Adam’s transgression, who is a type of him who is coming.

¹⁵ But, not as the offence so also the free gift; for if by the offence of the one the many died, much more did the grace of God, and the free gift in grace of the one man Jesus Christ, abound to the many; ¹⁶ and not as through one who sinned is the free gift, for the judgment indeed is of one to condemnation, but the gift is of many offences to justification, ¹⁷ for if by the offence of the one death reigned through the one, much more those, who, the abundance of the grace and of the free gift of the righteousness are receiving, in life shall reign through the one—Jesus Christ.

¹⁸ So, then, as through one offence to all men it is to condemnation, so also through one righteousness it is to all men to justification of life; ¹⁹ for as through the disobedience of the one man, the many were constituted sinners: so also through the obedience of the one, the many will be constituted righteous. ²⁰ But law came in, that the offence might abound, but where sin abounded, grace did overabound, that even as sin reigned in death, so also grace may reign, through righteousness, to life age-during, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

VI. ¹ WILAT, then, shall we say? shall we continue in sin that grace may abound? ² let it not be! we who died to sin—how shall we still live in it? ³ are ye ignorant that we, as many as were baptized into Christ Jesus, into his death were baptized? ⁴ we were buried, then, with him through the baptism into death, that even as Christ was raised up from the dead through the glory of the Father, so also we, in newness of life, should walk.

⁵ For, if we have become planted together in the likeness of his death, so also we shall be of his rising again; ⁶ this knowing, that our old man was crucified with him, that the body of sin may be destroyed, for our no longer serving sin; ⁷ for he who died hath been set free from sin. ⁸ And if we died with Christ, we believe that we also shall live with him, ⁹ knowing that Christ, having been raised up from the dead, no more dieth, death over him hath no more lordship; ¹⁰ for in that he died, to sin he died once, but in that he liveth, he liveth to God; ¹¹ so also ye, reckon ye yourselves to be dead indeed to sin, but living to God in Jesus Christ our Lord.

¹² Let not then sin reign in your mortal body, to obey it in its desires: ¹³ neither present ye your members instruments of unrighteousness to sin, but present ye yourselves to God as living from the dead, and your members instruments of righteousness to God; ¹⁴ for sin over you shall not have lordship, for ye are not under law, but under grace.

¹⁵ What then? shall we sin because we are not under law but under grace? let it not be! ¹⁶ have ye not known that to whom ye present yourselves servants for obedience, servants ye are to him to whom you obey, whether of sin to death, or of obedience to righteousness? ¹⁷ but thanks to God, that ye were servants of sin, but have been obedient from the heart to the form of teaching to which ye were delivered up: ¹⁸ but having been freed from sin, ye have become servants to righteousness.

¹⁹ In the manner of men I speak because of the weakness of your flesh, for even as ye presented your members servants to uncleanness and to lawlessness for lawlessness, so now present ye your members in service to righteousness for holiness, ²⁰ for when ye were servants of sin, ye were free from righteousness, ²¹ what fruit, therefore, had ye then in the things of which ye are now ashamed? for the end of those is death.

²² But now, having been freed from sin, and having become servants to God, ye have your fruit to holiness, and the end life age-during; ²³ for the wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is life age-during in Christ Jesus our Lord.

VII. ¹ ARE ye ignorant, brethren, (for to those knowing law I speak,) that the law hath lordship over the man as long as he liveth? ² for the married woman, to the living husband, is bound by law, but if the husband may die, she is free from the law of the husband: ³ so, then, the husband being alive, an adulteress she shall be called if she become another man's; but if the husband may die, she is free from the law, so as not to be an adulteress, if she become another man's.

⁴ So that, my brethren, ye also have been made dead to the law through the body of the Christ, for your becoming another's, who from the dead was raised up, that we might bear fruit to God: ⁵ for when we were in the flesh, the passions of the sins, which are through the law, were working in our members, to bring forth fruit to death; ⁶ but now we were clear from the law, having died in that in which we were held, for our serving in newness of spirit, and not in oldness of letter.

⁷ What, then, shall we say? the law is sin? let it not be! but sin I knew not except through law, for also covetousness I had not known if the law had not said: ⁸ 'Thou shalt not covet;' but sin having received an opportunity, through the command, wrought in me all covetousness, for apart from law sin is dead.

⁹ But I was alive apart from the law once: but the command having come, sin revived, but I died; ¹⁰ and the command which is for life, this was found by me for death: ¹¹ for sin, receiving an opportunity, through the command, deceived me, and through it slew me; ¹² so that the law, indeed, is holy, and the command holy, and righteous, and good.

¹³ Did, then, that which is good to me become death? let it not be! but sin, that it might appear sin, through the good, working death to me, that sin might become exceeding sinful through the command, ¹⁴ for we have known that the law is spiritual, but I am fleshly, sold under sin: ¹⁵ for that which I work, I do not acknowledge: for not what I will, this I practise, but what I hate, this I do.

¹⁶ But if what I do not will, this I do, I consent to the law that it is good, ¹⁷ but now it is no longer I that work it, but the sin dwelling in me, ¹⁸ for I have known that there dwelleth not in me, that is, in my flesh, good: for to will is present with me; but to work the right I find not, ¹⁹ for the good that I will, I do not: but the evil that I do not will, this I practise. ²⁰ But if what I do not will, this I work, it is no longer I that work it, but the sin dwelling in me.

²¹ I find, then, the law, that when I desire to do what is right, with me evil is present, ²² for I too delight in the law of God according to the inward man: ²³ but I behold another law in my members, warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin which is in my members. ²⁴ A wretched man I am!

who shall deliver me out of the body of this death? ²¹ I thank God—through Jesus Christ our Lord; so, then, I myself indeed with the mind serve the law of God, but with the flesh, the law of sin.

VIII. ¹ THERE is, then, now no condemnation to those in Christ Jesus, who walk not according to the flesh, but according to the Spirit; ² for the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus set me free from the law of sin and of death; ³ for what the law was not able to do, in that it was weak through the flesh, God, His own Son having sent in the likeness of sinful flesh, and for sin, condemned sin in the flesh, ⁴ that the righteousness of the law may be fulfilled in us, who walk not according to the flesh, but according to the Spirit.

⁵ For those who are according to the flesh, the things of the flesh do mind; but those according to the Spirit, the things of the Spirit; ⁶ for the mind of the flesh is death; but the mind of the Spirit—life and peace; ⁷ because the mind of the flesh is enmity to God, for to the law of God it doth not subject itself, ⁸ for neither is it able; and those who are in the flesh are not able to please God.

⁹ But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if indeed the Spirit of God dwelleth in you; but if any one hath not the Spirit of Christ—this one is not His; ¹⁰ but if Christ is in you, the body, indeed, is dead because of sin, but the Spirit is life because of righteousness; ¹¹ but if the Spirit of Him who raised up Jesus from the dead dwelleth in you, He who raised up the Christ out of the dead shall quicken also your dying bodies, through His Spirit dwelling in you.

¹² So, then, brethren, we are debtors, not to the flesh, to live according to the flesh; ¹³ for if according to the flesh ye live, ye are about to die; but, if, by the Spirit, the deeds of the body ye put to death, ye shall live; ¹⁴ for as many as are led by the Spirit of God, these are sons of God; ¹⁵ for ye have not received a spirit of bondage again for fear, but ye have received a spirit of adoption in which we cry, 'Abba—Father.'

¹⁶ The Spirit himself testifieth with our spirit, that we are children of God; ¹⁷ and if children also heirs, heirs indeed of God, and heirs together with Christ—if, indeed, we suffer together, that we may be glorified also together.

¹⁸ For I reckon that the sufferings of the present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory about to be revealed in us; ¹⁹ for the earnest looking out of the creation expecteth the revelation of the sons of God; ²⁰ for to vanity was the creation made subject (not of its will, but because of Him who subjected it) in hope, ²¹ that also the creation shall be set free from the servitude of corruption into the liberty of the glory of the children of God; ²² for we have known that all the creation groaneth together, and travaileth in pain together till now.

²³ And not only so, but also we ourselves, having the first-fruit of the Spirit, we also ourselves in ourselves do groan, expecting the adoption—the redemption of our body; ²⁴ for in hope we were saved, but hope be- hold is not hope; for what any one behold- eth, why also doth he hope for it? ²⁵ But if what we behold not we hope for, through patience we expect it.

²⁶ And, in like manner also, the Spirit helpeth our weaknesses; for, what we may pray for, as it behoveth us, we know not, but the Spirit himself maketh intercession for us with groanings unutterable; ²⁷ but He who is searching the hearts knoweth what is the mind of the Spirit, because according to God he intercedeth for saints.

²⁸ But we know that to those loving God all things work together for good, to those who are called according to the purpose; ²⁹ because whom He did foreknow, He also did predestinate to be conformed to the image of His Son, that he might be first-born among many brethren; ³⁰ but whom He did predestinate, these also He called; and whom He called, these also He declared righteous; but whom He declared righte- ous, these also He glorified.

³¹ What, then, shall we say to these things? if God is for us, who is against us? ³² He who indeed His own Son spared not, but for us all delivered him up, how shall He not also with him all things grant to us?

³³ Who shall lay a charge against the chosen of God? God is He that declareth righteous, ³⁴ who is he that condemneth? Christ is he that died, yea, rather also raised up; who is also on the right hand of God—who also intercedeth for us.

³⁵ Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? tribulation, or distress, or perse- cution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? ³⁶ according as it hath been writ- ten—'For Thy sake we are put to death all the day long, we were reckoned as sheep of slaughter;' ³⁷ but in all these we more than conquer, through him who loved us; ³⁸ for I am persuaded that neither death, nor life, nor messengers, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, ³⁹ nor things about to be, nor height, nor depth, nor any other created thing, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

IX. ¹ TRUTH I say in Christ, I lie not: my conscience bearing testimony with me in the Holy Spirit; ² that I have great grief and unceasing pain in my heart; ³ for I was wishing I myself to be a curse from the Christ) for my brethren, my kindred, according to the flesh: ⁴ who are Israelites, whose is the adoption, and the glory, and the covenants, and the law-giving, and the service, and the promises; ⁵ whose are the fa- thers, and of whom is the Christ, according to the flesh, who is over all God blessed to the ages. Amen.

⁶ It is not possible that the word of God hath failed; for not all who are of Israel are these Israel; ⁷ nor because they are seed of Abraham are all children, but—in

Isaac shall a seed be called to thee; ⁸ that is, the children of the flesh—these are not children of God; but the children of the promise are reckoned for seed: ⁹ for the word promised is this: 'According to this time I will come, and there shall be to Sarah a son.'

¹⁰ And not only so, but also Rebecca, having conceived by one—Isaac, our father—¹¹ for they being not yet born, neither having done anything good or evil, (that the purpose of God, according to choice, might remain: not of works, but of Him who is calling,) it was said to her—¹² 'The greater shall serve the less:' ¹³ according as it hath been written, 'Jacob I loved, but Esau I hated.'

¹⁴ What, then, shall we say? unrighteousness is with God? let it not be! ¹⁵ for to Moses He saith, 'I will do kindness to him to whom I do kindness, and I will have compassion on him on whom I have compassion:' ¹⁶ so, then—not of him who is willing, nor of him who is running, but of God who is doing kindness: ¹⁷ for the writing saith to Pharaoh—'For this very thing I raised thee up, that I might shew in thee My power, and that My name might be declared in all the land:' ¹⁸ so, then, to whom He willeth, He doth kindness, but whom He willeth, He hardeneth.

¹⁹ Thou wilt say, then, to me, 'Why yet doth He find fault? for His purpose who hath resisted?' ²⁰ nay, but, O man, who art thou that art answering again to God? shall the thing formed say to Him who formed it, 'Why me hast thou made thus?' ²¹ hath not the potter power over the clay, out of the same lump to make the one vessel to honour, and the one to dishonour?

²² But what if God, willing to shew wrath, and to make known His power, endured, in much long-suffering, vessels of wrath fitted for destruction; ²³ also that he might make known the riches of His glory on vessels of kindness, which He before prepared for glory, whom also He called—us—²⁴ not only out of Jews, but out of nations. ²⁵ as also in Hosea He saith, 'I will call what was not My people—My people: and her not beloved—Beloved,' ²⁶ and it shall be—in the place where it was said to them, 'Ye are not My people: there shall they be called sons of the living God.'

²⁷ But Isaiah crieth concerning Israel, 'If the number of the children of Israel may be as the sand of the sea, the remnant shall be saved: ²⁸ for the matter He is finishing, and cutting short in righteousness, because a matter cut short will the Lord do upon the earth,' ²⁹ and according as Isaiah said before, 'Except the Lord of Sabaoth had left to us a seed, as Sodom we would have become, and as Gomorrah we would have been made like.'

³⁰ What, then, shall we say? that nations who are not pursuing righteousness attained to righteousness, even righteousness that is of faith, ³¹ but Israel, pursuing a law of righteousness, to a law of righteousness did not arrive; ³² wherefore? because—not by faith, but as by works of law: for they stumbled at the stone of stumbling, ³³ according as it hath been written, 'Lo, I place in Sion a stone of stumbling and a rock of offence: and every one who is believing thereon shall not be ashamed.'

X. ¹ BRETHREN, the pleasure indeed of my heart, and my supplication which is to God for Israel, is—for salvation: ² for I hear them testimony that they have a zeal of God, but not according to knowledge, ³ for being ignorant of the righteousness of God, and their own righteousness seeking to establish, to the righteousness of God they submitted not.

⁴ For Christ is the end of law for righteousness to every one who is believing, ⁵ for Moses describeth the righteousness which is of the law, that, 'The man who did them shall live in them,' ⁶ but the righteousness of faith thus speaketh: 'Thou mayest not say in thine heart, Who shall ascend into the heaven,' that is, Christ to bring down? ⁷ or, 'Who shall descend into the abyss,' that is, Christ from the dead to bring up.

⁸ But what doth it say? 'Near thee is the saying—in thy mouth, and in thy heart:' that is, the saying of the faith, which we preach: ⁹ that if thou mayest confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and mayest believe in thy heart that God raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved, ¹⁰ for with the heart doth one believe to righteousness, and with the mouth confession is made to salvation: ¹¹ for the writing saith, 'Every one who is believing on him shall not be ashamed:' ¹² for there is no difference between Jew and Greek, for the same Lord of all is rich to all who are calling on Him, ¹³ for every one—whoever shall call on the name of the Lord, shall be saved.

¹⁴ How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? but how shall they believe on him of whom they have not heard? but how shall they hear apart from one preaching? ¹⁵ but how shall they preach, if they may not be sent? according as it hath been written, 'How beautiful the feet of those proclaiming good tidings of peace, of those proclaiming good tidings of the good things!'

¹⁶ But they were not all obedient to the good tidings, for Isaiah saith, 'Lord, who gave credence to our report?' ¹⁷ so then faith is by a report, but the report through the saying of God, ¹⁸ but I say, Did they not hear it? yes, indeed—to all the earth their voice went out, and to the ends of the habitable world their sayings.

¹⁹ But I say, Did not Israel know? first Moses saith, 'I will provoke you to jealousy by that which is not a nation: by a foolish nation I will anger you:' ²⁰ but Isaiah is very bold, and saith, 'I was found by these not seeking Me; I became manifest to those not inquiring after Me:' ²¹ but to Israel He saith, 'All the day I stretched out My hands to a people unbelieving and gaining.'

XI. ¹ I SAY, then, Did God cast away His people? let it not be I for I also am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, of the tribe of Benjamin: ² God did not cast away His people whom He foreknew: have ye not known (in Elijah) what the writing saith? how he pleadeth with God concerning Israel saying, ³ 'Lord, Thy prophets they killed, and Thine altars they dug down, and I am left alone, and they seek my life;' ⁴ but what saith the divine answer to him? 'I left to Myself seven thousand men, who bowed not the knee to Baal.' ⁵ So then also in the present time a remnant according to the choice of grace there hath been: ⁶ but if by grace, no longer of works, otherwise grace becometh no more grace; but if of works, it is no more grace, otherwise work is no more work.

⁷ What then? What Israel seeketh after, this he attained not, but the chosen obtained it, and the rest were hardened, ⁸ according as it hath been written, 'God gave to them a spirit of deep sleep, eyes not to see, and ears not to hear,'—unto this very day; ⁹ and David saith, 'Let their table become for a snare, and for a gin, and for a stumbling-block, and for a recompense to them: ¹⁰ let their eyes be darkened—not to behold, and their back do Thou always bow down.'

¹¹ I say, then, Did they stumble that they might fall? let it not be I but by their fall salvation is to the nations, to provoke them to jealousy; ¹² but if their fall is the riches of the world, and their diminution the riches of the nations, how much more their fulness?

¹³ For to you I speak—to the nations—inasmuch as I am indeed an apostle of nations, my ministration I glorify: ¹⁴ if by any means I shall provoke to jealousy mine own flesh, and shall save certain out of them, ¹⁵ for if their casting away is the reconciliation of the world, what the reception—if not life from the dead? ¹⁶ but if the first-fruit is holy, the lump also; and if the root is holy, the branches also.

¹⁷ But if certain of the branches were broken off, but thou, being a wild olive tree, wast grafted in among them, and a fellow-partaker of the root and of the fatness of the olive tree wast made—¹⁸ boast not against the branches; but if thou dost boast, thou dost not bear the root, but the root thee!

¹⁹ Thou wilt say, then, 'The branches were broken off, that I might be grafted in:' right: ²⁰ by unbelief they were broken off, but thou standest by faith; be not high-minded, but fear: ²¹ for if God the natural branches spared not—lest perhaps He also may not spare thee. ²² Lo, then, the goodness and severity of God—upon those indeed who fell, severity; but upon thee, goodness, if thou mayest remain in the goodness, otherwise, thou also shalt be cut off. ²³ And those also, if they remain not in unbelief, shall be grafted in: for God is able again to graft them in: ²⁴ for if thou out of the olive tree, wild by nature, wast cut out, and, contrary to nature, wast grafted into a good olive tree, how much rather shall they, who are according to nature, be grafted into their own olive tree?

²⁵ For I do not wish you to be ignorant, brethren, of this mystery, that ye may not be wise in your own conceits, that hardness in part to Israel hath happened till the fulness of the nations may come in: ²⁶ and so all Israel shall be saved, according as it hath been written, 'There shall come out of Sion he who delivereth, and he shall turn away ungodliness from Jacob: ²⁷ and this to them is the covenant from Me, when I may take away their sins.'

²⁸ As regards, indeed, the good tidings, they are enemies on your account: but as regards the choice—beloved on account of the fathers: ²⁹ for unrepented of are the gifts and the calling of God: ³⁰ for as ye also once did not believe in God, but now have found kindness by the unbelief of these: ³¹ so also these now have not believed, that in your kindness they also may find kindness: ³² for God shut up together the whole to unbelief, that to the whole He might do kindness.

³³ O depth of riches! both of wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable His judgments, and untraceable His ways! ³⁴ for who knew the mind of the Lord? or who became His counsellor? ³⁵ or who first gave to Him, and it shall be recompensed to him again? ³⁶ because of Him, and through Him, and to Him are all things: to Him is the glory—to the ages. Amen.

XII. ¹ I ENTREAT you, therefore, brethren, through the compassions of God, to present your bodies a sacrifice—living, holy, acceptable to God—your intelligent service: ² and be not conformed to this world, but be transformed by the renewing of your mind, for your proving what is the will of God—the good, and acceptable, and perfect.

³ For I say, through the grace which was given to me, to every one who is among you, not to have high thoughts above what he ought to think; but to think so as to be wise, as to each God dealt a measure of faith, ⁴ for, as in one body we have many members, but all the members have not the same office, ⁵ so we, the many, one body are in Christ, and members each one of one another.

⁶ But having gifts, different according to the grace—which was given to us: whether prophecy—'According to the proportion of faith!' ⁷ or ministry—'In the ministry!' or he who is teaching—'In the teaching!' ⁸ or he who is exhorting—'In the exhortation!' he who is sharing—'In simplicity!' he who is leading—'In diligence!' he who is doing kindness—'In cheerfulness.'

⁹ The love unfeigned: abhorring the evil; cleaving to the good: ¹⁰ in love of the brethren: to one another kindly affectioned: in honour going before one another: ¹¹ in diligence not slothful; in spirit fervent; serving the Lord; ¹² in hope rejoicing; in tribulation enduring: in prayer persevering; ¹³ to the necessities of the saints communicating: hospitality pursuing.

¹⁴ Bless those persecuting you: bless, and curse not; ¹⁵ to rejoice with those rejoicing, and to weep with those weeping. ¹⁶ Of the same mind one with another, not minding the high things, but with the lowly going along: become not wise in your own conceit: ¹⁷ recompensing to no one evil for evil: providing right things before all men.

¹⁸ If possible—so far as in you—with all men living in peace: ¹⁹ not avenging yourselves, beloved, but give place to the wrath, for it hath been written, 'Vengeance is Mine,' ²⁰ I will recompense again, saith the Lord: if, then, thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink: for this doing, coals of fire thou shalt heap upon his head; ²¹ be not overcome by the evil, but overcome, in the good, the evil.

XIII. ¹ LET every soul be subject to the higher authorities, for there is no authority except from God, and the authorities existing are appointed by God; ² so that he who is setting himself up against the authority, against God's ordinance hath set himself up: and those setting themselves up, to themselves shall receive judgment.

³ For those ruling are not a terror to the good works, but to the evil: but dost thou wish not to be afraid of the authority? that which is good he doing, and thou shalt have praise from it, ⁴ for of God it is a minister to thee for good: but if that which is evil thou mayest do, be afraid: for not in vain doth it bear the sword: for of God it is a minister, an avenger for wrath to him who is doing that which is evil.

⁵ Wherefore it is necessary to be subject, not only because of the wrath, but also because of the conscience: ⁶ for on this account also ye pay tribute: for officers of God they are, on this very thing attending continually: ⁷ render, therefore, to all their dues: to whom tribute, tribute: to whom custom, custom: to whom fear, fear: to whom honour, honour.

⁸ To no one owe anything, except to love one another: for he who is loving the other law hath fulfilled, ⁹ for, 'Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt do no murder, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false testimony, Thou shalt not covet:' and if there is any other command, in this word it is summed up, in this: 'Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself;' ¹⁰ love to the neighbour worketh no ill: love, therefore, is the fulness of law.

¹¹ And this, knowing the time, that for us the hour already is to be aroused out of sleep: for now nearer is our salvation than when we believed; ¹² the night hath advanced, and the day hath come near: let us lay aside, therefore, the works of the darkness, and let us put on the armour of the light: ¹³ as in day-time, let us walk becomingly: not in revellings and drunkenness, not in chambering and lasciviousness, not in strife and emulation: ¹⁴ but ye—put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and if the flesh take no forethought—for lusts.

XIV. ¹ BUT him who is weak in the faith receive ye—not to determinations of reasonings: ² one believeth that he may eat all things—but he who is weak eateth herbs: ³ let not him who is eating despise him who is not eating: and let not him who is not eating judge him who is eating, for God received him. ⁴ Thou—who art thou that art judging another's domestic? to his own master he standeth or falleth: but he shall be made to stand, for God is able to make him stand.

⁵ One judgeth one day above another: but another judgeth every day alike; let each in his own mind be fully assured. ⁶ He who is regarding the day, to the Lord he regardeth it; and he who is not regarding the day, to the Lord he doth not regard it.

He who is eating, to the Lord he eateth, for he giveth thanks to God: and he who is not eating, to the Lord he doth not eat, and giveth thanks to God.

⁷ For none of us to himself liveth, and none to himself dieth: ⁸ for both, if we may live, to the Lord we live; if also we may die, to the Lord we die: both then if we may live, also if we may die, we are the Lord's; ⁹ for for this Christ both died and rose again, and lived again, that both of dead and of living he may be Lord.

¹⁰ But thou, why dost thou judge thy brother? or again, thou, why dost thou set at nought thy brother? for we shall all stand at the tribunal of Christ: ¹¹ for it hath been written, 'I live!' saith the Lord—to Me how shall every knee, and every tongue shall confess to God: ¹² so, then, each of us concerning himself shall give account to God: ¹³ no longer, therefore, let us judge one another, but this judge ye rather, not to put a stumbling-stone before the brother, or a cause of offence.

¹⁴ I have known, and am persuaded, in the Lord Jesus, that nothing is unclean of itself, except to him who is reckoning anything to be unclean—to that one it is unclean; ¹⁵ but if through victuals thy brother is grieved, no more dost thou walk according to love; with thy victuals destroy not that one for whom Christ died.

¹⁶ Let not, then, your good be evil spoken of, ¹⁷ for the reign of God is not eating and drinking, but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Spirit: ¹⁸ for he who in these things is serving the Christ, is acceptable to God and approved of men.

²² Thou hast faith! to thyself have it before God: happy is he who is not judging himself in what he approveth, ²³ but he who is discerning a difference, if he may eat, hath been condemned, because it is not of faith: and all that is not of faith is sin.

XV. ¹BUT we ought—we who are strong—to bear the infirmities of the weak, and not to please ourselves; ²for let each one of us please the neighbour for good, to edification, ³for even the Christ pleased not himself; but, according as it hath been written, 'The reproaches of those reproaching Thee fell on me;' ⁴for, as many things as were written before, for our instruction were written before, that through the endurance, and the exhortation of the writings, we might have hope.

⁵And may the God of the endurance, and of the exhortation, give to you to have the same mind towards one another, according to Christ Jesus: ⁶that with one accord—with one mouth—ye may glorify the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ; ⁷wherefore receive ye one another, according as also the Christ received us, to the glory of God.

⁸And I say, Jesus Christ to have become a minister of circumcision for the truth of God, to confirm the promises to the fathers, ⁹and the nations for kindness to glorify God, according as it hath been written, 'Because of this I will confess to Thee among nations, and to Thy name will sing praise;' ¹⁰and again it saith, 'Rejoice, nations, with His people;' ¹¹and again, 'Praise the Lord, all ye nations; and laud Him, all ye peoples;' ¹²and again, Isaiah saith, 'There shall be the root of Jesse, and he who is rising to rule nations—in him shall nations hope;' ¹³and the God of the hope shall fill you with all joy and peace in the believing, for your abounding in the hope in power of the Holy Spirit.

¹⁴But I am persuaded, my brethren—I myself also—concerning you, that ye yourselves also are full of goodness, having been filled with all knowledge, able also one another to admonish; ¹⁵but the more boldly have I written to you, brethren, in part, putting you in mind, because of the grace which is given to me by God, ¹⁶for my being an officer of Jesus Christ to the nations, acting as priest in the good news of God, that the offering up of the nations may become acceptable, sanctified by the Holy Spirit.

¹⁷I have, then, boasting in Christ Jesus, in the things pertaining to God, ¹⁸for I will not dare to speak anything of the things which Christ did not work through me, to obedience of nations, by word and deed, ¹⁹in power of signs and wonders, in power of the Spirit of God; so that I, from Jerusalem, and in a circle as far as Illyricum, have fully preached the good news of the Christ; ²⁰and so striving to proclaim the good news, not where Christ was named, (that upon another's foundation I might not build,) ²¹but, according as it hath been written, 'To whom it was not told concerning him, they shall see; and they who have not heard, shall understand.'

²²Wherefore, also, I was many times hindered from coming to you; ²³but now, no longer having place in these parts, and having a longing to come to you for many years, ²⁴when I may proceed to Spain I will come to you, for I hope in going through, to see you, and by you to be set forward thither, if of you first, in part, I shall be filled.

²⁵But, now, I proceed to Jerusalem, ministering to the saints; ²⁶for Macedonia and Achaia were well pleased to make a certain contribution for the poor of the saints who are in Jerusalem; ²⁷for they were well pleased, and their debtors they are, for if in their spiritual things the nations participated, they ought also, in the fleshy things, to minister to them.

²⁸This, then, having finished, and having sealed to them this fruit, I will return, through you, into Spain; ²⁹but I know that—coming to you—in the fulness of the blessing of the good news of Christ I shall come.

³⁰But I entreat you, brethren, through our Lord Jesus Christ, and through the love of the Spirit, to strive together with me in the prayers for me to God; ³¹that I may be saved from those who do not believe in Judea, and that my ministration, which is for Jerusalem, may become acceptable to the saints; ³²that in joy I may come to you, through the will of God, and may be refreshed with you, ³³and the God of peace be with you all. Amen.

XVI. ¹BUT I commend to you Phoebe our sister, (being a ministrant of the assembly which is in Cenchrea,) ²that ye may receive her in the Lord, as becoming saints, assist her in whatever matter she may have need of you; for she also became a succourer of many, and of myself.

³Salute Priscilla and Aquilas, my fellow-workmen in Christ Jesus, ⁴(who for my life their own neck laid down, to whom not only I give thanks, but also all the assemblies of the nations,) ⁵and the assembly at their house: salute Epænetus, my beloved, who is the first-fruits of Achaia to Christ.

⁶Salute Mary, who laboured much for us; ⁷salute Andronicus and Junias, my kindred, and my fellow-prisoners, who are of note among the apostles, who also have been in Christ before me.

⁸Salute Amplias, my beloved in the Lord; ⁹salute Urbanus, my fellow-workman in Christ, and Stachys, my beloved; ¹⁰salute Apelles, the approved in Christ: salute those who are of the household of Aristobulus; ¹¹salute Herodion, my kinsman: salute those who are of the household of Narcissus, who are in the Lord; ¹²salute Tryphena, and Tryphosa, who laboured in the Lord; salute Persis, the beloved, who laboured much in the Lord.

¹³Salute Rufus, the chosen in the Lord, and his mother and mine, ¹⁴salute Asyncritus, Philegon, Hermas, Patrobas, Hermes, and the brethren with them; ¹⁵salute Philologus, and Julius, Nereus, and his sister, and Olympas, and all the saints with them; ¹⁶salute one another with a holy kiss; the assemblies of Christ salute you.

¹⁷But I call upon you, brethren, to mark those who the divisions and the stumbling-blocks, contrary to the teaching which ye learnt, are causing, and turn away from them; ¹⁸ for such our Lord Jesus Christ do not serve, but their own belly: and through the good word and fair speech they deceive the hearts of the harmless, ¹⁹ for your obedience reached to all; I rejoice, therefore, as it regards you, but I wish you to be wise, indeed, as to the good, but harmless as to the evil; ²⁰ but the God of peace shall bruise the Adversary under your feet quickly: the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you.

²¹ Salute you do Timothy, my fellow-workman, and Lucius, and Jason, and Sosipater, my kindred; ²² I Tertius salute you (who wrote the letter) in the Lord; ²³ salute you doth Gaius, mine host, and of the whole assembly; salute you doth Erastus, the steward of the city, and the brother Quartus; ²⁴ the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

²⁵ And to Him who is able to establish you, according to my good news, and the preaching of Jesus Christ, according to the revelation of the mystery, in the times of the ages kept hidden, ²⁶ but which now was made manifest, both through prophetic writings, according to the command of the age-during God, made known to all the nations for obedience of faith—²⁷ to the only wise God, through Jesus Christ, be glory to the ages. Amen.

FIRST CORINTHIANS.

CHAP. I. ¹PAUL, a called apostle of Jesus Christ through the will of God, and Sosthenes the brother, ²to the assembly of God which is in Corinth, those sanctified in Christ Jesus, called saints, with all those calling on the name of our Lord Jesus Christ in every place—both theirs and ours: ³grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ!

⁴I give thanks to my God always concerning you for the grace of God which was given to you in Christ Jesus, ⁵that in every thing ye were enriched in him, in all discourse, and all knowledge, ⁶according as the testimony of the Christ was confirmed in you, ⁷so that ye are not behind in any gift, waiting for the revelation of our Lord Jesus Christ, ⁸who also shall confirm you till the end—unblamable in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ: ⁹faithful is God, through whom ye were called to the fellowship of His Son Jesus Christ our Lord.

¹⁰But I entreat you, brethren, through the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that the same thing ye all say, and there may not be divisions among you, but ye may be perfected in the same mind, and in the same judgment, ¹¹for it was signified to me concerning you, my brethren, by those of Chloe, that contentions are among you; ¹²and I say this, that each one of you saith, 'I, indeed, am of Paul,'—'and I of Apollos,'—'and I of Cephas,'—'and I of Christ.'

¹³Hath the Christ been divided? was Paul crucified for you? or into the name of Paul were ye baptized; ¹⁴I give thanks to God that no one of you did I baptize, except Crispus and Gaius—¹⁵that no one may say that into mine own name I baptized: ¹⁶but I baptized also Stephanus' household—further, I know not if I baptized any other.

¹⁷For Christ did not send me to baptize, but to proclaim the good news: not in wisdom of discourse, that the cross of Christ may not be made of none effect; ¹⁸for the word of the cross to those indeed perishing is foolishness, but to us—the saved—it is the power of God, ¹⁹for it hath been written, 'I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and the intelligence of the intelligent I will bring to nought.' ²⁰where is the wise? where the scribe? where the disputer of this age? did not God make foolish the wisdom of this world? ²¹for, seeing in the wisdom of God the world through wisdom knew not God, it pleased God through the foolishness of the preaching to save those believing.

²²And seeing Jews ask a sign, and Greeks seek wisdom, ²³we also—we preach Christ crucified, to Jews, indeed, a stumbling-block, and to Greeks foolishness, ²⁴but to those called—both Jews and Greeks—Christ the power of God, and the wisdom of God, ²⁵because the foolishness of God is wiser than men, and the weakness of God is stronger than men; ²⁶for see your calling, brethren, that not many are wise according to flesh, not many mighty, not many noble; ²⁷but the foolish things of the world did God choose, that the wise He may put to shame; and the weak things of the world did God choose, that He may put to shame the strong; ²⁸and the base thing of the world, and the things despised, did God choose, and the things that are not, that the things which are He may bring to nought—²⁹that no flesh may glory before Him; ³⁰but of Him ye—ye are in Christ Jesus, who was made to us from God wisdom, righteousness also, and sanctification, and redemption; ³¹that, according as it hath been written, 'He who is glorying—in the Lord let him glory.'

II. ¹AND I, having come to you, brethren, came—not in superiority of discourse or wisdom—declaring to you the testimony of God, ²for I decided not to know any thing among you, except Jesus Christ, and him crucified; ³and I, in weakness, and in fear, and in much trembling, came to you; ⁴and my word and my preaching was not with persuasive words of human wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power—⁵that your faith may not be in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God.

⁶But wisdom we speak among the perfect, but wisdom not of this age, nor of the rulers of this age—of those coming to nought, ⁷but we speak the hidden wisdom of God in a mystery, which God fore-ordained before the ages to our glory, ⁸which no one of the rulers of this age knew, for if they had known, the Lord of the glory they would not have crucified; ⁹but, according as it hath been written, 'What eye did not see, and ear did not hear, and on the heart of man came not up what God prepared for those loving Him.'—¹⁰but to us God revealed them through His Spirit, for the Spirit all things searcheth, even the depths of God, ¹¹for who of men hath known the things of a man, except the spirit of the man that is in him? so also the things of God no one hath known, except the Spirit of God.

¹² And we the spirit of the world have not received, but the Spirit which is of God, that we may know the things conferred by God on us, ¹³ which also we speak, not in words taught by human wisdom, but in those taught by the Holy Spirit, in spiritual words spiritual things comparing, ¹⁴ but the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God, for to him they are foolishness, and he is not able to know them, because spiritually they are discerned; ¹⁵ but he who is spiritual, discerneth indeed all things, but himself is by no one discerned: ¹⁶ for who knew the mind of the Lord that he shall instruct him? but we—we have the mind of Christ.

III. ¹ AND I, brethren, was not able to speak to you as to spiritual, but as to fleshly—as to babes in Christ: ² with milk I fed you, and not with meat, for ye were not yet able, and not even yet are ye now able, ³ for yet are ye fleshly, for where there is among you envying, and strife, and divisions, are ye not fleshly, and in the manner of men do walk? ⁴ for when one may say, 'I, indeed, am of Paul;' and another, 'I—of Apollos;' are ye not fleshly?

⁵ Who, then, is Paul, and who Apollos, but ministrants through whom ye believed, and as the Lord gave to each? ⁶ I planted, Apollos watered, but God was giving growth: ⁷ so that neither is he who is planting anything, nor he who is watering, but He who is giving growth—God; ⁸ but he who is planting and he who is watering are one, but each his own reward shall receive, according to his own labour, ⁹ for of God we are fellow-labourers; God's tillage, God's building are ye.

¹⁰ According to the grace of God which was given to me, as a wise master-builder, a foundation I have laid, but another buildeth on it, but let each take heed how he buildeth on it, ¹¹ for other foundation no one is able to lay except that which is laid, which is Jesus the Christ; ¹² but if any one doth build on this foundation gold, silver, costly stones, wood, hay, straw—¹³ of each the work shall be made manifest, for the day shall declare it, because in fire it is to be revealed, and the work of each, what kind it is, the fire shall prove; ¹⁴ if of any one the work remain, which he built on it, a wage he shall receive; ¹⁵ if of any the work be burned up, he shall suffer loss; but himself shall be saved, but so as through fire.

¹⁶ Have ye not known that ye are the temple of God, and the Spirit of God dwelleth in you? ¹⁷ if any one the temple of God waste, him shall God waste: for the temple of God is holy, the which ye are.

¹⁸ Let no one deceive himself; if any one seemeth to be wise among you in this age—let him become a fool, that he may become wise, ¹⁹ for the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God, for it hath been written, 'That taketh the wise in their craftiness;' ²⁰ and again, 'The Lord knoweth the reasonings of the wise, that they are vain.'

²¹ So then, let no one glory in men, for all things are yours, ²² whether Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things coming—all are yours, ²³ and ye Christ's, and Christ God's.

IV. ¹ LET a man so reckon us as officers of Christ, and stewards of the mysteries of God, ² and as to the rest, it is required in the stewards, that one be found faithful, ³ but to me it is for a very little thing that by you I may be judged, or by man's day, but not even myself do I judge, ⁴ for of nothing to myself am I conscious, but not in this am I justified, but he who is discerning me is the Lord: ⁵ so, then, nothing before the time judge ye, till the Lord may come, who will both bring to light the hidden things of the darkness, and will manifest the counsels of the hearts, and then the praise shall come to each from God.

⁶ And these things, brethren, I transferred to myself and to Apollos for your sake, that in us ye may learn not to think above that which hath been written, that ye may not be puffed up one for the one against the other, ⁷ for who maketh thee to differ? and what hast thou that thou didst not receive? and if thou didst also receive, why dost thou glory as not having received?

⁸ Already ye have been filled, already ye were rich, apart from us ye did reign, and I would also ye did reign, that we with you may reign together, ⁹ for I think that God set forth us the apostles last—as appointed to death, for a spectacle we became to the world, and to messengers, and to men; ¹⁰ we are fools because of Christ, but ye wise in Christ: we are infirm, but ye strong; ye glorious, but we dishonoured; ¹¹ unto the present hour we both hunger, and thirst, and are naked, and are buffeted, and wander about, ¹² and labour working with our own hands; being reviled, we bless: being persecuted, we suffer; ¹³ being spoken evil of, we entreat: as the filth of the world we are become—of all things the offscouring—till now.

¹⁴ Not as putting you to shame do I write these things, but as my beloved children I admonish, ¹⁵ for if a myriad of child-conductors ye may have in Christ, yet not many fathers; for in Christ Jesus, through the good news, I—I begat you: ¹⁶ I call upon you, therefore, become ye followers of me; ¹⁷ because of this I sent to you Timothy, who is my child, beloved and faithful in the Lord, who shall remind you of my ways in Christ, according as everywhere in every assembly I teach.

¹⁸ As though I were not coming to you certain were puffed up; ¹⁹ but I will come quickly to you, if the Lord may will, and will know not the word of those puffed up, but the power; ²⁰ for not in word is the reign of God, but in power: ²¹ what do ye wish? with a rod shall I come to you, or in love and a spirit of meekness?

V. ¹ WHOREDOM is actually heard of among you, and such whoredom as is not even named among the nations,—that one hath the wife of the father,—² and ye are puffed up, and did not rather mourn, that he may be removed out of your midst who did this work, ³ for I indeed, as being absent in the body, but present in the spirit, have already judged, as being present, him who so wrought this thing: ⁴ in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ—ye being gathered together—and my spirit, with the power of our Lord Jesus Christ, ⁵ to deliver up such a one to the Adversary for the destruction of the flesh, that the spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord Jesus.

⁶ Not good is your glorying: have ye not known that a little leaven the whole lump leaveneth? ⁷ purge out, therefore, the old leaven, that ye may be a new lump, according as ye are unleavened, for also our pass-over for us was sacrificed—Christ: ⁸ so that we may keep the feast, not with old leaven, nor with the leaven of evil and wickedness, but with the unleavened food of sincerity and truth.

⁹ I have written to you in the epistle, not to keep company with whoremongers, ¹⁰ and not certainly with the whoremongers of this world, or with the covetous, or extortioners, or idolaters, seeing ye ought then to go out of the world. ¹¹ But now, I have written to you not to keep company with him, if any one, named a brother, be a whoremonger, or covetous, or an idolater, or a railer, or a drunkard, or an extortioner—with such a one not even to eat: ¹² for what have I also those without to judge? those within do ye not judge? ¹³ but those without God judgeth: and put ye away the evil person from among yourselves.

VI. ¹ DARE any one of you, having a matter with one another, go to law before the unrighteous, and not before the saints? ² have ye not known that the saints shall judge the world? and if by you the world is judged, are ye unworthy of the smallest judgment? ³ have ye not known that we shall judge messengers? why not, then, the things of life? ⁴ of the things of life, indeed, then, if ye have judgment, those despised in the assembly—these cause ye to sit: ⁵ to your shame I speak: so there is not among you a wise man, not even one, who shall be able to discern in the midst of his brethren! ⁶ but brother with brother goeth to law, and this before unbelievers!

⁷ Already, indeed, then, there is altogether a fault among you, that ye go to law with one another; wherefore do ye not rather suffer injustice? wherefore be ye not rather defrauded? ⁸ but ye—ye do injustice, and defraud others, and these—brethren! ⁹ what, have ye not known that the unjust the reign of God shall not inherit? be not led astray: neither whoremongers, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor sodomites, ¹⁰ nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, the reign of God shall inherit.

¹¹ And certain of you were these! but ye were washed, but ye were sanctified, but ye were justified, in the name of the Lord Jesus, and in the Spirit of our God.

¹² All things are lawful to me, but all things are not expedient: all things are lawful to me, but I—I will not be under power by any; ¹³ the meats are for the belly, and the belly for the meats, but God both this and these shall destroy: but the body is not for whoredom, but for the Lord, and the Lord for the body; ¹⁴ and God both the Lord raised, and us will raise up through His power. ¹⁵ Have ye not known that your bodies are members of Christ? having taken, then, the members of the Christ, shall I make them members of an harlot? let it not be! ¹⁶ What, have ye not known that he who is joined to the harlot is one body? for they shall be (saith He) the two for one flesh.

¹⁷ But he who is joined to the Lord is one spirit; ¹⁸ flee whoredom: every sin—whatever a man may commit—is without the body, but he who is committing whoredom, against his own body doth sin. ¹⁹ What, have ye not known that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit in you, which ye have from God? and ye are not your own, ²⁰ for ye are bought with a price; glorify, then, God in your bodies and in your spirits, which are God's.

VII. ¹ BUT concerning the things of which ye wrote to me: good it is for a man not to touch a woman, ² but because of whoredom, let each man have his own wife, and each woman have her own husband: ³ to the wife let the husband due benevolence render, and in like manner also the wife to the husband; ⁴ the wife over her own body hath not authority, but the husband: and, in like manner also, the husband over his own body hath not authority, but the wife.

⁵ Defraud not one another, except by consent for a time, that ye may be free for fasting and prayer; and again come together that the Adversary may not tempt you because of your incontinency; ⁶ but this I say by way of concession—not of command, ⁷ for I wish all men to be even as I myself am; but each his own gift hath of God, one indeed thus, and one thus.

⁸ But I say to the unmarried and to the widows: It is good for them if they remain even as I am; ⁹ but if they have not continence—let them marry, for it is better to marry than to burn; ¹⁰ but to the married I command—not I, but the Lord—let not a wife separate from her husband: ¹¹ but and if she may separate, let her remain unmarried, or to the husband let her be reconciled, and let not a husband send away a wife.

¹² But to the rest I speak—not the Lord—if any brother hath a wife unbelieving, and she is content to dwell with him, let him not send her away; ¹³ and a woman who hath a husband—unbelieving, and he is content to dwell with her, let her not send him away; ¹⁴ for the unbelieving man is sanctified in the wife, and the unbelieving wife is sanctified in the husband: else your children are unclean, but now they are holy.

¹⁵ But if the unbelieving separateth himself—let him separate himself: the brother or the sister is not under servitude in such cases, but in peace hath God called us; ¹⁶ for what, hast thou known, O wife, whether the husband thou shalt save? or what, hast thou known, O man, whether the wife thou shalt save? ¹⁷ If not, as God distributed to each, as the Lord hath called each—so let him walk; and thus in all the assemblies do I ordain; ¹⁸ being uncircumcised—was any one called? let him not become uncircumcised; in uncircumcision was any one called? let him not be circumcised; ¹⁹ the circumcision is nothing, and the uncircumcision is nothing—but the keeping of the commands of God.

²⁰ Each in the calling in which he was called—in this let him remain; ²¹ a servant—wast thou called? be not caring; but if also thou art able to become free—use it rather: ²² for he who is in the Lord—having been called a servant—is the Lord's freeman: in like manner also he who is the freeman, having been called, is servant of Christ: ²³ with a price ye were bought, become not servants of men; ²⁴ each, in that in which he was called, brethren, in this let him remain with God.

²⁹ But this I say, brethren, the time henceforth hath been shortened—that both they who have wives may be as those not having; and those weeping, as those not weeping; and those rejoicing, as those not rejoicing; and those buying, as those not possessing; ³¹ and those using this world, as those not abusing it; for passing away is the fashion of this world.

³² But I wish you to be without care; the unmarried careth for the things of the Lord, how he shall please the Lord; ³³ but the married careth for the things of the world, how he shall please the wife. ³⁴ The wife and the virgin have been divided; the unmarried careth for the things of the Lord, that she may be holy both in body and in spirit, but the married careth for the things of the world, how she shall please the husband.

³⁵ And this for your own advantage I say: not that I may cast a snare on you, but for seemliness and devotedness to the Lord, undisturbedly, ³⁶ but if any one thinketh it to be unseemly to his virgin, if she may be beyond the bloom of age, and it ought so to be, what he willeth let him do; he doth not sin—let them marry. ³⁷ But he who standeth stedfast in heart—not having necessity—but hath power over his own will, and this he hath determined in his heart—to keep his own virgin—doth well; ³⁸ so that both he who is giving in marriage doth well, and he who is not giving in marriage doth better.

³⁹ A wife is bound by law as long time as her husband may live, but if her husband may sleep, she is free to be married to whom she will—only in the Lord: ⁴⁰ but she is happier if she may so remain—in my judgment; and I think I also have the Spirit of God.

VIII. ¹ BUT concerning the things sacrificed to idols, we have known that we all have knowledge: knowledge puffeth up, but love buildeth; ² and if any one thinketh to know anything, he hath not yet known anything according as it becometh him to know; ³ but if any one loveth God, this one hath been known by Him.

⁴ Concerning the eating then of the things sacrificed to idols, we have known that an idol is nothing in the world, and that there is no other God except one; ⁵ for even if there are those called gods, whether in heaven, whether on the earth, (as there are gods many and lords many,) ⁶ yet to us is one God, the Father, of whom are the all things, and we to Him; and one Lord Jesus Christ, through whom are the all things, and we through him; ⁷ but not in all men is this knowledge, and certain, with conscience of the idol, till now, as a thing sacrificed to an idol do eat it, and their conscience being weak, is defiled.

⁸ But victuals commendeth us not to God, for neither if we eat are we in advance; nor if we eat not, are we behind; ⁹ but see, lest this power of yours become a stumbling-block to the infirm, ¹⁰ for if any one may see thee that hast knowledge in an idol's temple sitting at meat—will not his conscience—he being infirm—be emboldened to eat the things sacrificed to idols, ¹¹ and a brother who is infirm shall perish by thy knowledge, because of whom Christ died; ¹² and sinning thus in regard to the brethren, and smiting their weak conscience—in regard to Christ ye sin; ¹³ wherefore, if victuals cause my brother to stumble, I may eat no flesh—to the age, that my brother I may not cause to stumble.

IX. ¹ AM I not an apostle? am I not free? Jesus Christ our Lord have I not seen? my work are not ye in the Lord? ² If to others I am not an apostle—yet doubtless to you I am; for the seal of mine apostleship are ye in the Lord.

³ My defence to those who examine me in this: ⁴ have we not authority to eat and to drink? ⁵ have we not authority a sister—a wife—to lead about, as also the other apostles, and the brethren of the Lord, and Cephas? ⁶ or only I and Barnabas, have we not authority—not to work? ⁷ who serveth as a soldier at his own charges at any time?

who planteth a vineyard, and of its fruit eateth not? or who feedeth a flock, and of the milk of the flock eateth not?

⁸ According to man do I speak these things? doth not also the law say these things? ⁹ For in the law of Moses it hath been written, 'Thou shalt not muzzle an ox treading out the corn;' for the oxen doth God care? ¹⁰ or because of us by all means doth He say it? yea, because of us it was written, because 'In hope ought the plowman to plow, and he who is treading ought of his hope to partake in hope.'

¹¹ If we to you the spiritual things did sow—great is it if we your fleshly things do reap? ¹² if others partake of the authority over you—not we more? but we did not use this authority, but all things we bear, that we give no hindrance to the good news of the Christ. ¹³ Have ye not known that those working about the things of the temple—of the temple do eat, and those waiting at the altar with the altar are partakers? ¹⁴ so also did the Lord appoint to those proclaiming the good news: of the good news to live.

¹⁵ But I used none of these things: neither did I write these things that it may be so done in my case, for it is good for me rather to die, than that any one may make my glorying void: ¹⁶ for if I may proclaim the good news, it is no glorying for me, for necessity is laid on me, and we is to me if I may not proclaim the good news: ¹⁷ for if willingly I do this, I have a reward; but if unwillingly—with a stewardship have I been entrusted!

¹⁸ What, then, is my reward?—that, proclaiming the good news, without charge I shall make the good news of the Christ, not to abuse my authority in the good news: ¹⁹ for being free from all men, to all men I made myself servant, that the more I may gain: ²⁰ and I became to the Jews as a Jew, that Jews I might gain: to those under law as under law, that those under law I might gain: ²¹ to those without law, as without law—(not being without law to God, but within law to Christ)—that I might gain those without law: ²² I became to the infirm as infirm, that the infirm I might gain: to all men I have become all things, that by all means I might save some.

²³ And this I do because of the good news, that a fellow-partaker of it I may become: ²⁴ have ye not known that those running in a race—all indeed run, but one receiveth the prize? so run ye, that ye may obtain: ²⁵ and every one who is striving, is in all things temperate: these, indeed, then, that a corruptible crown they may receive, but we an incorruptible: ²⁶ I therefore thus run, not uncertainly, thus I fight, as not beating air: ²⁷ but I chastise my body, and bring it into servitude, lest by any means, having preached to others—I myself may become disapproved.

X. ¹ BUT I wish you not to be ignorant, brethren, that our fathers were all under the cloud, and all passed through the sea, ² and all into Moses were baptized in the cloud and in the sea: ³ and all the same spiritual food did eat, ⁴ and all the same spiritual drink did drink, for they were drinking of a spiritual rock following them, and the rock was the Christ: ⁵ but in the most of them God was not well pleased, for they were strewn in the wilderness: ⁶ but those things became our types, for our not passionately desiring evil things, as also these desired.

⁷ Neither become ye idolaters, as certain of them also did, as it hath been written, 'The people sat down to eat and to drink, and stood up to play:' ⁸ neither let us commit whoredom, as certain of them committed whoredom, and there fell in one day twenty-three thousand: ⁹ neither let us tempt the Christ, as also certain of them did tempt, and by the serpents perished: ¹⁰ neither murder ye, as also some of them murdered, and perished by the destroyer.

¹¹ But all these things as types happened to those persons, but they were written for our admonition, to whom the ends of the ages came, ¹² so that he who is thinking to stand—let him see, lest he fall. ¹³ No temptation hath taken you—except human: but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above what ye are able, but will make, with the temptation, also the outlet, for your being able to bear it.

¹⁴ Wherefore, my beloved, flee ye from idolatry: ¹⁵ as to wise men I speak—judge ye what I say: ¹⁶ The cup of the blessing which we bless—is it not the fellowship of the blood of the Christ? the bread which we break—is it not the fellowship of the body of the Christ? ¹⁷ for one bread, one body, are we the many—for we all of the one bread do partake.

¹⁸ See Israel according to the flesh! are not those eating the sacrifices in the fellowship of the altar? ¹⁹ what then do I say? that an idol is anything? or that a sacrifice offered to an idol is anything?—²⁰ no, but that the things which the nations sacrifice—they sacrifice to demons, and not to God; but I do not wish you to come into the fellowship of demons. ²¹ Ye are not able the cup of the Lord to drink, and the cup of demons; ye are not able of the table of the Lord to partake, and of the table of demons: ²² or do we provoke the Lord to jealousy? are we stronger than He?

²³ All things to me are lawful, but all things are not expedient; all things to me are lawful, but all things do not build up: ²⁴ let no one seek his own—but each another's.

²⁵ Whatever in the meat-market is sold eat ye, not inquiring, because of conscience, ²⁶ for the Lord's is the earth, and its fulness: ²⁷ and if any of the unbelieving doth call you, and ye wish to go, all that is set before you eat, nothing inquiring, because of conscience: ²⁸ but if any one may say to you, 'This is a thing sacrificed to an idol,'—eat not, because of that one who shewed it, and of conscience, for the Lord's is the earth, and its fulness: ²⁹ but conscience, I say, not of thyself, but of the other, for why is it that my liberty is judged by another's conscience? ³⁰ and if I thankfully do partake, why am I evil spoken of, for that for which I give thanks?

³¹ Whether, then, ye eat, or drink, or do anything, do all to the glory of God: ³² become offenceless, both to Jews and Greeks, and to the assembly of God: ³³ as I also in all things please all, not seeking mine own advantage, but that of the many—that they may be saved.

XI. ¹ FOLLOWERS of me become ye, as I also of Christ.

² But I praise you, brethren, that in all things ye remember me, and according as I delivered to you, the deliverances ye do keep, ³ but I wish you to know that of every man the head is the Christ, but the head of a woman is the man, but the head of Christ—God.

¹³ In your own selves judge ye: is it seemly for a woman uncovered to pray to God? ¹⁴ doth not even nature itself teach you, that if a man indeed have long hair, a dishonour it is to him? ¹⁵ but a woman, if she have long hair, a glory it is to her, for the hair for a covering is given to her; ¹⁶ but if any one thinketh to be contentious, we have no such custom, neither the assemblies of God.

¹⁷ But this declaring, I give no praise, because not for the better, but for the worse ye come together; ¹⁸ for first, indeed, ye, coming together in the assembly, I hear of divisions being among you, and partly I believe it, ¹⁹ for it behoveth that sects also be among you, that those approved may become manifest among you; ²⁰ ye, then, coming together at the same place—it is not to eat the Lord's supper; ²¹ for each his own supper taketh beforehand in the eating, and one is hungry, and another is filled; ²² why, have ye not houses to eat and to drink in? or the assembly of God do ye despise, and shame those not having? what may I say to you? shall I praise you in this? I give no praise!

²³ For I—I received from the Lord that which also I delivered to you, that the Lord Jesus, in the night in which he was delivered up, took bread, ²⁴ and having given thanks, he brake, and said, 'Take ye, eat ye, this is my body, which for you is being broken; this do ye in remembrance of me.'

²⁵ In the same manner also the cup after the supping, saying, 'This cup is the new covenant in my blood; this do ye, as often as ye may drink it, in remembrance of me;' ²⁶ for as often as ye may eat this bread, and this cup may drink, the death of the Lord ye shew forth—till he may come: ²⁷ so that whoever may eat this bread or may drink the cup of the Lord unworthily, guilty shall be of the body and blood of the Lord: ²⁸ but let a man examine himself, and so of the bread let him eat, and of the cup let him drink; ²⁹ for he who is eating and drinking unworthily, judgment to himself doth eat and drink—not discerning the body of the Lord.

³⁰ Because of this, among you many are weak and sickly, and sleep do many; ³¹ for if ourselves we were discerning, we would not be being judged, ³² but being judged, by the Lord we are chastened, that with the world we may not be condemned; ³³ so then, my brethren, coming together to eat, for one another tarry ye; ³⁴ and if any one is hungry, at home let him eat, that unto judgment ye come not together; and the rest, whenever I may come, I shall set in order.

XII. ¹ BUT concerning spiritual things, brethren, I wish you not to be ignorant; ye have known that ye were nations, to the dumb idols—as ye were led—carried away; ² wherefore, I give you to understand that no one, in the Spirit of God speaking, saith Jesus is anathema, and no one is able to say Jesus is Lord, except in the Holy Spirit.

³ But there are diversities of gifts, but the same Spirit; ⁴ and there are diversities of ministrations, and the same Lord; ⁵ and there are diversities of workings, but it is the same God who is working all in all.

⁶ But to each is given the manifestation of the Spirit for good; ⁷ for to one through the Spirit is given a word of wisdom, but to another a word of knowledge, according to the same Spirit; ⁸ but to another faith in the same Spirit, but to another gifts of healings in the same Spirit; ⁹ but to another workings of mighty deeds, but to another prophesies, but to another discerning of spirits; but to another divers kinds of tongues, but to another interpretation of tongues; ¹¹ but all these worketh the one and the same Spirit, dividing to each several one as he willeth.

¹² For even as the body is one, and hath many members, but all the members of the one body, being many, are one body, so also is the Christ, ¹³ for also in one Spirit we all into one body were baptized, whether Jews or Greeks, whether servants or freemen, and all into one Spirit were made to drink, ¹⁴ for also the body is not one member, but many; ¹⁵ if the foot may say, 'Because I am not a hand, I am not of the body: 'it is not, because of this, not of the body: ¹⁶and if the ear may say, 'Because I am not an eye, I am not of the body; 'it is not, because of this, not of the body.

¹⁷If the whole body were an eye, where the hearing? If the whole hearing, where the smelling? ¹⁸but now, God set the members each one of them in the body, even as He willed, ¹⁹but if all were one member, where the body? ²⁰but now, indeed, there are many members, but one body; ²¹but an eye is not able to say to the hand, 'I have no need of thee; nor again the head to the feet, 'I have no need of you.'

²²But, much more the members of the body which seem to be more infirm are necessary, ²³and those which we think to be less honourable of the body, around these we put more abundant honour, and the unseemly things of us have seemliness more abundant, ²⁴but our seemly things have no need; but God tempered the body together, to the lacking part having given more abundant honour, ²⁵that there may be no division in the body, but that the members may have the same care for one another, ²⁶and whether one member suffereth, suffer with it do all the members, or one member is glorified, rejoice with it do all the members; ²⁷but ye are the body of Christ, and members in particular.

²⁸And some, indeed, did God set in the assembly, first apostles, secondly prophets, thirdly teachers, afterwards miracles, afterwards gifts of healings, helpings, governings, divers kinds of tongues; ²⁹are all apostles? all prophets? all teachers? all miracles? ³⁰have all gifts of healing? do all speak with tongues? do all interpret? ³¹but desire earnestly the better gifts; and yet a far exceeding way do I show to you:

XIII. ¹If with the tongues of men and messengers I speak, but have not love, I have become brass sounding, or a cymbal tinkling; ²and if I have prophesy, and know all the mysteries, and all the knowledge, and if I have all the faith, so as to remove mountains, but have not love, I am nothing; ³and if I give away to feed others all the things belonging to me, and if I give up my body that I may be burned, but have not love, I am profited nothing.

⁴Love is long-suffering, is kind, love envieth not, love vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up, ⁵doth not act unseemly, seeketh not its own things, is not provoked, inputteth not evil, ⁶rejoiceth not over unrighteousness, but rejoiceth with the truth; ⁷all things it beareth, all it believeth, all it hopeth, all it endureth.

⁸Love never faileth; but whether there be prophecies, they shall be done away; whether tongues, they shall cease; whether knowledge, it shall be done away; ⁹for in part we know, and in part we prophesy; ¹⁰but when that which is perfect may come, then that which is in part shall be done away.

¹¹When I was a babe, as a babe I was speaking, as a babe I was thinking, as a babe I was reasoning, but when I have become a man, I have done away the things of the babe; ¹²for we see now through a mirror obscurely, but then face to face; now I know in part, but then shall I fully know, as also I am fully known; ¹³but now there remaineth faith, hope, love—these three; but the greatest of these is love.

XIV. ¹PURSU^E love, but seek earnestly the spiritual things, but rather that ye may prophesy; ²for he who is speaking in an unknown tongue—to men doth not speak, but to God, for no one hearkeneth, but in spirit he speaketh mysteries; ³but he who is prophesying to men doth speak edification, and exhortation, and comfort; ⁴he who is speaking in an unknown tongue, himself edifieth; but he who is prophesying, an assembly edifieth; ⁵but I wish you all to speak with tongues, but more that ye may prophesy, for greater is he who is prophesying than he who is speaking with tongues, except one may interpret, that the assembly may receive edification.

⁶But now, brethren, if I may come to you speaking tongues, what shall I profit you, except I shall speak to you either in revelation, or in knowledge, or in prophesying, or in teaching? ⁷even the things without life giving sound, (whether pipe or harp,) if a difference in the sounds they may not give, how shall be known that which is piped or that which is harped? ⁸for if also an uncertain sound a trumpet may give, who shall prepare himself for battle? ⁹so also ye, if, through the tongue, speech easily understood ye may not give—how shall that which is spoken be known? for ye shall be speaking into air.

¹⁰There are, it may be, so many kinds of voices in the world, and none of them is unmeaning; ¹¹if, then, I do not know the power of the voice, I shall be to him who is speaking a stranger, and he who is speaking, to me is a stranger; ¹²so also ye, since ye are earnestly desirous of spiritual gifts, for the building up of the assembly, seek ye, that ye may abound; ¹³wherefore he who is speaking in an unknown tongue—let him pray that he may interpret; ¹⁴for if I pray in an unknown tongue, my spirit prayeth, but my understanding is unfruitful.

¹⁵What then is it? I will pray with the spirit, but I will pray also with the understanding; I will sing psalms with the spirit, but I will sing psalms also with the understanding; ¹⁶since, if thou mayest bless with the spirit, he who is filling the place of the unlearned, how shall he say the Amen at thy giving of thanks, since what thou sayest he knoweth not? ¹⁷for thou, indeed, dost give thanks well, but the other is not built up! ¹⁸I give thanks to my God—more than you all with tongues speaking—¹⁹but in an assembly I wish to speak five words through my understanding, that others also I may instruct, rather than a myriad of words in an unknown tongue.

²⁰Brethren, be not children in understanding; but in evil be ye babes, but in understanding be ye perfect; ²¹in the law it hath been written, that, 'With other tongues and with other lips will I speak to this people, and not even so will they hear Me, saith the Lord: ²²so that the tongues are for a sign, not to the believing, but to the unbelieving; but prophecy is not for the unbelieving, but for the believing.

²³If, therefore, the whole assembly may come together, to the same place, and all may speak with tongues, but there may come in unlearned or unbelievers, will they not say that ye are mad? ²⁴but if all may prophesy, and any one may come in, an unbeliever or unlearned, he is convicted by all, he is discerned by all, ²⁵and so the secrets of his heart become manifest, and so having fallen on his face, he will bow before God, declaring that God really is among you.

²⁶What then is it, brethren? whenever ye may come together, each of you hath a psalm, hath a teaching, hath a tongue, hath a revelation, hath an interpretation! let all things be for building up: ²⁷if in an unknown tongue any one speak,—by two, or at the most, by three, and in turn, and let one interpret; ²⁸but if there may be no interpreter, let him be silent in an assembly, but to himself let him speak, and to God.

²⁹But prophets—let two or three speak, and let the others discern, ³⁰but if to another sitting anything may be revealed, let the first be silent; ³¹for ye are able, one by one, all to prophesy, that all may learn, and all may be exhorted, ³²and the spirits of prophets to prophets are subject, ³³for God is not a God of tumult, but of peace, as in all the assemblies of the saints.

³⁴Your women—in the assemblies let them be silent, for it hath not been permitted to them to speak, but to be subject, as also the law saith; ³⁵and if they wish to learn anything, at home their own husbands let them question; for it is a shame to women to speak in an assembly.

³⁶From you did the word of God come out? or to you alone did it come? ³⁷if any one thinketh to be a prophet, or spiritual, let him acknowledge the things which I write to you—that of the Lord they are commands; ³⁸but if any one is ignorant—let him be ignorant; ³⁹so that, brethren, earnestly desire to prophesy, and to speak with tongues forbid not: let all things be done decently and in order.

XV. ¹BUT I make known to you, brethren, the good news which I proclaimed to you, which also ye received, in which also ye stand, ²through which also ye are being saved, in what words I proclaimed good news to you, if ye hold fast, except ye believed in vain, ³for I delivered to you first, what also I received, that Christ died for our sins, according to the writings, ⁴and that he was buried, and that he hath risen on the third day, according to the writings, ⁵and that he appeared to Cephas, then to the twelve; ⁶afterwards he appeared to above five hundred brethren at once, of whom the greater part remain till now, but certain also fell asleep; ⁷afterwards he appeared to James, then to all the apostles.

⁸But last of all—as to the one born out of due time—he appeared also to me, ⁹for I am the least of the apostles, who am not worthy to be called an apostle, because I persecuted the assembly of God, ¹⁰but by the grace of God I am what I am, and His grace which is towards me came not in vain, but more abundantly than they all did I labour, but not I, but the grace of God which is with me; ¹¹whether, then, I or they, so we preach, and so ye believed.

¹²But if Christ is preached, that from the dead he hath risen, how say certain among you, that there is no rising again of dead persons? ¹³but if there is no rising again of dead persons, neither hath Christ risen: ¹⁴but if Christ hath not risen, then void is our preaching, and void also your faith. ¹⁵and we also are found false witnesses of God, because we testified of God that He raised up the Christ, whom He raised not. If then dead persons rise not, ¹⁶for if dead persons rise not, neither hath Christ risen, ¹⁷and if Christ hath not risen, vain is your faith, ye are yet in your sins: ¹⁸then also those having fallen asleep in Christ—perished: ¹⁹if in Christ only in this life we have hope, we are of all men most to be pitied.

²⁰But now, Christ hath risen from the dead—he became first-fruits of those who slept, ²¹for since through man is death, also through man is the rising again of the dead: ²²for even as in Adam all die, so also in Christ all shall be made alive, ²³but each in his own order, the first-fruits Christ, afterwards those who are Christ's in his coming.

²⁴Then is the end, when he may deliver up the reign to God, even to the Father, when he may have done away all rule, and all authority and power, ²⁵(for it becometh him to reign till he may have put all enemies under his feet,) ²⁶the last enemy is done away—death: ²⁷for all things He put under his feet, but, when one may say that all things have been subjected, it is evident that He is excepted who did subject the all things to him, ²⁸but when the all things may be subjected to him, then the Son also himself shall be subject to Him who did subject the all things to him, that God may be all in all.

²⁹Seeing what shall they do who are baptized for the dead, if the dead do not rise at all? why also are they baptized for the dead? ³⁰why also do we stand in peril every hour? ³¹Every day do I die, by the glorying of you which I have in Christ Jesus our Lord: ³²if after the manner of a man with wild beasts I fought in Ephesus, what the advantage to me if the dead rise not? let us eat and drink, for to-morrow we die.

³³Be not led astray: evil communications corrupt good manners; ³⁴awake up, as is right, and sin not; for certain have an ignorance of God: for shame to you I speak it.

³⁵But any one will say, 'How do the dead rise? and with what body do they come?' ³⁶unwise! thou—what thou sowest is not quickened except it may die; ³⁷and that which thou sowest, not the body which shall be doth thou sow, but bare grain it may be, of wheat, or of some one of the others,³⁸ but God giveth to it a body according as He willed, and to each of the seeds its own body.

³⁹All flesh is not the same flesh, but there is one flesh of men, and another flesh of beasts, and another of fishes, and another of birds: ⁴⁰and there are heavenly bodies, and earthly bodies; but one is the glory of the heavenly, and another that of the earthly, ⁴¹one glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars, for star from star differeth in glory.

⁴²So also is the rising again of the dead; it is sown in corruption, it is raised in incorruption: ⁴³it is sown in dishonour, it is raised in glory; it is sown in weakness, it is raised in power; ⁴⁴it is sown a natural body, it is raised a spiritual body: there is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body: ⁴⁵so also it hath been written, 'The first man Adam became a living creature,' the last Adam a life-giving spirit, ⁴⁶but that which is spiritual was not first, but that which was natural, afterwards that which is spiritual. ⁴⁷The first man is out of the earth, earthly; the second man is the Lord out of heaven: ⁴⁸as is the earthly, such are those also who are earthly; and as is the heavenly, such are those also who are heavenly: ⁴⁹and according as we did bear the image of the earthly, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly.

⁵⁰But this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood the reign of God is not able to inherit, nor doth corruption inherit incorruption: ⁵¹lo, I tell you a mystery: we indeed shall not all sleep, but we all shall be changed: ⁵²in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, in the last trump, for it shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we—we shall be changed: ⁵³for it behoveth this corruptible to put on incorruption, and this mortal to put on immortality; ⁵⁴and when this corruptible may have put on incorruption, and this mortal may have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the word that hath been written, 'Death was swallowed up in victory; ⁵⁵where, O death, thy sting? where, O hades, thy victory?' ⁵⁶but the sting of death is sin, but the power of sin the law; ⁵⁷but to God—thanks, to Him who is giving us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ; ⁵⁸so that, my brethren beloved, become ye steadfast, unmovable, abounding in the work of the Lord at all times, knowing that your labour is not vain in the Lord.

XVI. ¹AND concerning the collection

for the saints, as I gave order to the assemblies of Galatia, so also ye—do ye; ²on every first of the sabbaths let each one of you lay by him, treasuring up whatever he may have prospered, that when I may come then collections may not be made; ³and whenever I may come, whomsoever ye may approve, through letters, these will I send to carry your favour to Jerusalem; ⁴and if it be meet for me also to go, with me they shall go.

⁵And I will come to you, when I pass through Macedonia, (for Macedonia I do pass through,) ⁶and with you, it may be, I will abide, or even winter, that ye may send me forward whithersoever I go, ⁷for I wish not to see you now in the way, but I hope to remain a certain time with you, if the Lord permit; ⁸but I will remain in Ephesus till the Pentecost, ⁹for a door to me is open—great and effectual—and withstanders are many.

¹⁰And if Timothy may come, see that he may become without fear with you, for the work of the Lord he worketh, even as I; ¹¹let no one, then, despise him; but send ye him forward in peace, that he may come to me, for I expect him with the brethren: ¹²but concerning Apollos our brother, much I entreated him that he may come to you with the brethren, and it was not at all his will that he may come now, but he will come when he may find convenient.

¹³Watch ye, stand fast in the faith; be men, be strong; ¹⁴let all your things be done in love. ¹⁵But I entreat you, brethren, ye have known the household of Stephanas, that it is the first-fruits of Achaia, and to the ministration to the saints did they set themselves—¹⁶that ye also be subject to such, and to every one who is working with us and labouring; ¹⁷but I rejoice over the coming of Stephanas, and Fortunatus, and Achaicus, because the lack of you have these filled up; ¹⁸for they refreshed my spirit and yours: acknowledge ye, therefore, those who are such.

¹⁹Salute you do the assemblies of Asia; salute you much in the Lord do Aquilas and Priscilla, with the assembly in their house; ²⁰salute you do all the brethren; salute ye one another with an holy kiss.

²¹The salutation of me Paul with mine own hand; ²²if any one loveth not the Lord Jesus Christ—let him be anathema! The Lord cometh! ²³The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ be with you; ²⁴my love is with you all in Christ Jesus. Amen.

SECOND CORINTHIANS.

CHAP. I. ¹PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ, through the will of God, and Timotheus the brother, to the assembly of God which is in Corinth, with all the saints who are in all Achaia: ²Grace to you and peace from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ!

³Blessed is God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of mercies, and God of all comfort, ⁴who is comforting us in all our tribulation, for our being able to comfort those in any tribulation through the comfort with which we are comforted ourselves by God; ⁵because, as the sufferings of the Christ do abound to us, so through Christ doth abound also our comfort; ⁶but whether we be in tribulation, it is for your comfort and salvation, which is wrought in the enduring of the same sufferings which we also suffer; whether we are comforted, it is for your comfort and salvation; ⁷and our hope is steadfast for you, knowing that even as ye are partakers of the sufferings—so also of the comfort.

⁸For we wish you not to be ignorant, brethren, of our tribulation which happened to us in Asia, that we were exceedingly burdened above our power, so that we despaired even of life; ⁹but we ourselves in ourselves the sentence of death have had, that we may not be trusting on ourselves, but on God, who is raising the dead, ¹⁰who out of so great a death delivered us, and doth deliver, in whom we have hoped that even yet He will deliver us; ¹¹ye working together also for us by your supplication, that the gift through many persons to-us, may be by many acknowledged.

¹²For our glorying is this: the testimony of our conscience, that in simplicity and sincerity of God, not in fleshly wisdom, but in the grace of God, we conducted ourselves in the world, and more abundantly toward you; ¹³for no other things do we write to you, but what ye either read or also acknowledge, and I hope that even unto the end ye shall acknowledge, ¹⁴according as also ye did acknowledge us in part, that your glory we are, even as also ye are ours, in the day of the Lord Jesus; ¹⁵and in this confidence I purposed to come to you before, that a second favour ye might have, ¹⁶and through you to pass into Macedonia, and again from Macedonia to come to you, and by you to be sent forward to Judea.

¹⁷This therefore counselling, did I then use lightness? or the things which I counsel, according to the flesh do I counsel, that it may be with me Yes, yes, and No, no? ¹⁸but God is faithful, that our word to you become not Yes and No, ¹⁹for the Son of God, Jesus Christ, among you through us having been preached—through me and Silvanus and Timotheus—became not Yes and No, but in him it became Yes; ²⁰for as many as are promises of God, in him are the Yes, and in him the Amen, for glory to God through us; ²¹but He who is confirming you with us into Christ, who also anointed us, is God, ²²who also sealed us, having also given the earnest of the Spirit in our hearts.

²³But I for a witness on God do call upon my soul, that sparing you, I came not yet to Corinth: ²⁴not that we are lords over your faith, but we are helpers together with your joy: for by faith ye stand.

II. ¹BUT I decided this to myself, not again to come in sorrow to you, ²for if I make you sorry, then who is he who is making me glad, except he who is made sorry by me? ³and I wrote to you this same thing, that having come, I may not have sorrow from them of whom it behoved me to have joy, having confidence in you all, that my joy is of you all, ⁴for out of much tribulation and pressure of heart I wrote to you through many tears, not that ye might be made sorry, but that ye might know the love which I have more abundantly to you.

⁵But if any one hath caused sorrow, he hath not caused sorrow to me, but in part, that I may not burden you all; ⁶sufficient to such a one is this punishment, which is by the more part, ⁷so that, on the contrary, it is rather for you to have favour and to comfort him, lest, by any means, by overabundant sorrow such a one may be swallowed up; ⁸wherefore, I entreat you to confirm love to him, ⁹for for this also did I write, that I might know the proof of you, whether in regard to all things ye are obedient.

¹⁰But to whom ye forgive anything—I also; for I also, if I have forgiven anything, to whom I have forgiven it, because of you—in the person of Christ—I forgive it, ¹¹that we may not be overreached by the Adversary, for of his devices we are not ignorant.

¹²And having come to Troas for the good news of the Christ, and a door to me having been opened in the Lord, ¹³I found not rest to my spirit, on my not finding Titus my brother, but having taken leave of them, I went out into Macedonia: ¹⁴but to God are thanks, who at all times is leading us in triumph in the Christ, and the fragrance of His knowledge is manifesting through us in every place; ¹⁵because of Christ a sweet fragrance we are to God, in those being saved, and in those being lost; ¹⁶to the one, indeed, a fragrance of death to death, but to the other, a fragrant of life to life: and for these things who is sufficient? ¹⁷ for we are not as the many, adulterating the word of God: but as of sincerity—but as of God; in the presence of God, in Christ we speak.

III. ¹ DO we begin again to recommend ourselves, except we need, as some, letters of recommendation to you, or from you? ² our letter ye are, written in our hearts, known and read by all men, ³ manifested that ye are a letter of Christ ministered by us, written not with ink, but with the Spirit of the living God, not in tables of stone, but in fleshy tables of the heart; ⁴ and such trust we have through the Christ toward God; ⁵ not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think anything, as of ourselves, but our sufficiency is of God, ⁶ who also made us sufficient ministrants of the new covenant, not of letter, but of spirit: for the letter killeth, but the spirit maketh alive.

⁷ But if the ministration of death, in letters engraven in stones, came in glory, so that the children of Israel were not able to look stedfastly to the face of Moses, because of the glory of his face—which glory was being done away, ⁸ how shall the ministration of the Spirit not be more in glory? ⁹ for if the ministration of the condemnation is glory, much more doth the ministration of the righteousness abound in glory: ¹⁰ for even that also hath no glory which was made glorious—in this respect, because of the superior glory; ¹¹ for if that which is being done away was through glory, much more that which is remaining is in glory.

¹² Having, then, such hope, we use much boldness of speech, ¹³ and not as Moses, who was putting a vail upon his own face, for the children of Israel not stedfastly to look to the end of that which is being done away, ¹⁴ but their minds were hardened, for unto this day the same vail at the reading of the Old Covenant remaineth not withdrawn, (which vail in Christ is being done away,) ¹⁵ but till to-day, when Moses is read, a vail on their heart lieth, ¹⁶ but when they may turn to the Lord, the vail is taken away. ¹⁷ But the Lord is the Spirit: and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty; ¹⁸ but we all, with unveiled face, the glory of the Lord beholding, in a mirror, to the same image are being transformed, from glory to glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord.

IV. ¹ BECAUSE of this, having this ministration, according as we received kindness, we faint not, ² but renounced for ourselves the hidden things of shame, not walking in craftiness, nor guile, deceitfully using the word of God, but by the manifestation of the truth recommending ourselves to every conscience of men, in the presence of God; ³ but if also our good news is veiled, in those perishing it is veiled, ⁴ in whom the god of this age blinded the minds of the unbelieving, that there doth not shine forth to them the enlightening of the good news of the glory of Christ, who is the image of God; ⁵ for not ourselves do we preach, but Christ Jesus—Lord, and ourselves your servants because of Jesus; ⁶ because it is God who said, that out of darkness let light shine, who shined in our hearts, for the enlightening of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ.

⁷ But we have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the exceeding greatness of the power may be God's, and not of us; ⁸ on every side being in tribulation, but not straitened; doubting, but not in despair; ⁹ persecuted, but not forsaken; struck down, but not destroyed; ¹⁰ at all times the dying of the Lord Jesus bearing about in the body, that the life also of Jesus in our body may be manifested, ¹¹ for always are we who are living delivered up to death, because of Jesus, that the life also of Jesus may be manifested in our dying flesh, ¹² so that, then, death indeed in us worketh, but life in you.

¹³ But having the same spirit of faith, according to that which hath been written, 'I believed, therefore did I speak;' we also believe, therefore also we speak; ¹⁴ knowing that life who raised up the Lord Jesus, us also through Jesus shall raise up, and shall present with you, ¹⁵ for all things are because of you, that the grace being multiplied, because of the thanksgiving of the more, may abound to the glory of God: ¹⁶ wherefore, we faint not, but if also our outward man decayeth, yet the inward is renewed day by day: ¹⁷ for our momentary light tribulation more and more exceedingly an age-during weight of glory worketh out for us—¹⁸ we not looking at the things seen, but at the things not seen; for the things seen are temporary, but the things not seen—age-during.

V. ¹ FOR we have known, that if our earthly house of the tabernacle may be thrown down, a building from God we have, an house not made with hands—age-during—in the heavens, ² for also in this we groan, with our house which is out of heaven earnestly desiring to clothe ourselves, ³ if so be that, having clothed ourselves, we shall not be found naked, ⁴ for we also who are in the tabernacle do groan, being burdened, seeing we wish not to unclothe ourselves, but to clothe ourselves, that the mortal may be swallowed up of life?

⁵ But he who wrought us into this self-same thing is God, who also gave to us the earnest of the Spirit: ⁶ having courage, then, at all times, and knowing that being at home in the body, we are away from home from the Lord, ⁷ (for through faith we walk, not through sight,) ⁸ we have courage, and are well pleased rather to be away from the home of the body, and to be at home with the Lord.

⁹ Wherefore also we aim, whether at home or away from home, to be well pleasing to him, ¹⁰ for all of us it becometh to be manifested before the tribunal of the Christ, that each one may receive the things done through the body, in reference to the things which he did, whether good or evil: ¹¹ knowing therefore the fear of the Lord, we persuade men, but to God we are manifested, and I hope also in your consciences we are manifested: ¹² for not again ourselves do we recommend to you, but we are giving occasion to you of glorying in our behalf, that ye may have something in reference to those glorying in face and not in heart; ¹³ for whether we were beside ourselves, it was to God; whether we be of sound mind—it is to you, ¹⁴ for the love of the Christ constraineth us, having judged thus: that if one for all died, then all died, ¹⁵ and for all he died, that those living, no more to themselves may live, but to him who died for them, and was raised again.

¹⁶ So that we henceforth know no one according to the flesh, and even if we have known Christ according to the flesh, yet now we know him no more; ¹⁷ so that if any one is in Christ—he is a new creature; the old things passed away, lo, become new have all things. ¹⁸ But the all things are of God, who reconciled us to Himself through Jesus Christ, and gave to us the ministration of the reconciliation, ¹⁹ how that God was in Christ—a world reconciling to Himself, not reckoning to them their trespasses, and put in us the word of the reconciliation: ²⁰ in behalf of Christ then we are ambassadors, as if God were calling on you through us, we beseech, in behalf of Christ, 'Be ye reconciled to God;' ²¹ for him who did not know sin, in our behalf He made sin, that we may become the righteousness of God in him.

VI. ¹ AND WE, working together, also entreat that ye receive not in vain the grace of God, ² (for He saith, 'In an acceptable time I heard thee, and in a day of salvation I helped thee, lo, now is a well-accepted time: lo, now, a day of salvation,') ³ in nothing giving any cause of offence, that the ministration be not blamed, ⁴ but in everything recommending ourselves as God's ministrants: in much patience, in tribulations, in necessities, in distresses, ⁵ in stripes, in imprisonments, in tumults, in labours, in watchings, in fastings, ⁶ in pureness, in knowledge, in long-suffering, in kindness, in the Holy Spirit, in love unfeigned, ⁷ in the word of truth, in the power of God, through the armour of the righteousness, on the right and on the left, ⁸ through glory and dishonour, through evil report and good report, as leading astray and true: ⁹ as unknown and well-known; as dying, and lo, we live; as chastened, and not put to death; ¹⁰ as sorrowful, but always rejoicing; as poor, but making many rich; as having nothing, and possessing all things!

¹¹ Our mouth hath been open to you, O Corinthians, our heart hath been enlarged; ¹² ye are not straitened in us, but ye are straitened in your own bowels: ¹³ but as a recompense of the same kind, (as to my children I say it,) be ye enlarged—also ye!

¹⁴ Become not yoked with others—unbelievers, for what partaking is there to righteousness and lawlessness? ¹⁵ and what fellowship to light with darkness? and what concord to Christ with Belial, or what part to a believer with an unbeliever? ¹⁶ and what agreement to the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God, according as God said—'I will dwell in them, and will walk among them, and I will be their God, and they shall be My people,' ¹⁷ wherefore, come ye out of the midst of them, and be separated, saith the Lord, and an unclean thing touch not, and I—I will receive you, ¹⁸ and will be to you for a Father, and ye—ye shall be to Me for sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty.

VII. ¹ HAVING, then, these promises, beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from every pollution of flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God; ² receive us; no one did we wrong; no one did we waste; no one did we defraud; ³ not to condemn you do I say it, for I have said before that in our hearts ye are to die with and to live with; ⁴ great is my boldness of speech to you, great my glorying on your behalf: I have been filled with comfort, I overabound with joy on all our tribulation, ⁵ for also we having come into Macedonia, no relaxation hath our flesh had, but on every side we are in tribulation, without—fightings, within—fears; ⁶ but He who is comforting the cast-down—God—He comforted us in the coming of Titus: ⁷ and not only in his coming, but also in the comfort with which he was comforted over you, declaring to us your longing desire, your lamentation, your zeal for me, so that the more did I rejoice, ⁸ because even if I made you sorry in the letter, I do not repent—if even I did repent—for I perceive that that letter, even if for an hour, made you sorry.

⁹ I now rejoice, not that ye were made sorry, but that ye were made sorry to reformation, for ye were made sorry towards God, that in nothing ye might receive damage from us; ¹⁰ for the sorrow towards God reformation to salvation not to be repented of doth work, ¹¹ for, lo, this same thing—your being made sorry towards God—how much diligence it wrought in you! but defence, but displeasure, but fear, but longing desire, but zeal, but revenge: in every thing ye approved yourselves to be pure in the matter.

¹² If, then, I also wrote to you—not for his cause who did wrong, nor for his cause who suffered wrong, but for our diligence in your behalf being manifested to you in the presence of God—¹³ because of this we have been comforted in your comfort, but more abundantly the more did we rejoice in the joy of Titus, that his spirit hath been refreshed from you all: ¹⁴ because if anything to him in your behalf I have boasted, I was not put to shame: but as all things in truth we speak to you, so also our boasting before Titus became truth, ¹⁵ and his affection is more abundantly toward you, remembering the obedience of you all, as with fear and trembling ye re-celled him: ¹⁶ I rejoice, therefore, that in everything I have courage in you.

VIII. ¹ BUT we make known to you, brethren, the grace of God, which hath been given in the assemblies of Macedonia, ² because in much trial of tribulation the abundance of their joy, and their deep poverty, abounded to the riches of their liberality: ³ because, according to their power, I testify, and above their power they were willing of themselves, ⁴ with much entreating beseeching us to receive the favour and the fellowship of the ministration to the saints, ⁵ and not according as we expected, but themselves they gave first to the Lord, and to us through the will of God, ⁶ so that we exhorted Titus, that according as he began before, so also he may finish, to you also this favour, ⁷ but even as in every thing ye abound, in faith, and word, and knowledge, and all diligence, and in your love to us, that also in this grace ye may abound; ⁸ not according to command do I speak, but by occasion of the diligence of others, and of your love proving the sincerity, ⁹ for ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that because of you he became poor—being rich, that ye by his poverty may become rich.

¹⁰ And an opinion in this do I give: for this for you is expedient, who not only to do, but also to will, began before—a year ago, ¹¹ but now also finish doing it, that even as there was the readiness of the will, so also the finishing out of that which ye have, ¹² for if the willing mind is present, according to that which any one may have, it is well-accepted, not according to that which he hath not; ¹³ for not that others may be released, and ye troubled, do I speak, ¹⁴ but by equality, at the present time your abundance—for their want, that also their abundance may be for your want, that there may be equality, ¹⁵ according as it hath been written, ¹⁶ He who gathered much, had nothing over; and he who gathered little, had no lack.

¹⁶ But thanks to God, who is putting the same diligence for you in the heart of Titus, ¹⁷ because that indeed the exhortation he accepted, but being more diligent, of his own accord he went out to you, ¹⁸ and we sent with him the brother, whose praise in the good news is through all the assemblies, ¹⁹ and not only so, but there is also one chosen by the assemblies, our fellow-traveller, with this favour which is administered by us, to the glory of the same Lord, and your willing mind; ²⁰ being afraid of this, lest any one may blame us in this abundance which is administered by us, ²¹ providing right things, not only in the presence of the Lord, but also in the presence of men; ²² but we sent with him our brother, whom we proved in many things many times, being diligent, but now much more diligent, by the great confidence which is toward you, ²³ whether—about Titus—my partner and fellow-worker he is, whether—our brethren, apostles of assemblies—glory of Christ they are; ²⁴ the showing therefore of your love, and of our boasting in your behalf, to them shew ye, and in the face of the assemblies.

IX. ¹ FOR, indeed, concerning the ministration which is for the saints, it is superfluous for me to write to you, ² for I have known your willingness of mind, which I boast of in your behalf to Macedonians, that Achaia hath been prepared a year ago, and the zeal of you stirred up the more part, ³ but I sent the brethren, that our boasting on your behalf may not be made vain in this respect, that, according as I said, ye may be ready; ⁴ lest, perhaps, if Macedonians may come with me, and find you unprepared, we—may be put to shame (that we say not—ye) in this same confidence of boasting.

⁵ Necessary, therefore, I thought it to exhort the brethren, that they may go before to you, and may make up before your formerly announced blessing, that this be ready, as of blessing, and not as of covetousness. ⁶ But this: He who is sowing sparingly, sparingly also shall reap; and he who is sowing in blessings, in blessings also shall reap; ⁷ each one according as he purposeth in heart, not out of sorrow or out of necessity, for a cheerful giver God loveth, ⁸ and God is able all grace to cause to abound to you, that in every thing always all sufficiency having, ye may abound to every good work, ⁹ (according as it hath been written, ¹⁰ He dispersed abroad; he gave to the poor: his righteousness remaineth—to the age;) ¹¹ but may He who is supplying seed to the sower, and bread for food, supply and multiply your seed sown, and increase the fruits of your righteousness: ¹² in every thing being enriched for all liberality, which worketh through us thanksgiving to God, ¹³ for the administration of the service not only is supplying the wants of the saints, but is also abounding through many thanksgivings to God: ¹⁴ through the proof of this ministration glorifying God for the subjection of your confession into the good news of the Christ, and the liberality of fellowship to them and to all, ¹⁵ and by their supplication in your behalf, longing after you because of the exceeding grace of God in you; ¹⁶ but thanks to God for His unspeakable gift.

X. ¹ BUT I, Paul, myself, entreat you, (through the meekness and gentleness of the Christ,) who in presence, indeed, am humble among you, but being absent, have courage in regard to you, ² but I beseech you, that being present, I may not have courage, with the confidence with which I reckon to be bold against certain reckoning us as walking according to the flesh; ³ for walking in the flesh, not according to the flesh do we war, ⁴ (for the weapons of our warfare are not fleshly, but powerful to God for bringing down of strongholds,)—⁵ reasonings bringing down, and every high thing lifted up against the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought—to the obedience of the Christ, ⁶ and being in readiness to avenge every disobedience, whenever your obedience may be fulfilled.

⁷The things in presence do ye see? if any one hath trusted in himself to be Christ's, this let him reckon again from himself, that according as he is Christ's, so also we are Christ's; ⁸for even if also anything more abundantly I shall boast concerning our authority, which the Lord gave us for building up, and not for casting you down, I shall not be ashamed: ⁹that I may not seem as if I would terrify you through the letters, ¹⁰because the letters indeed (saith one) are weighty and strong, but the bodily presence weak, and the speech despicable. ¹¹This one—let him reckon thus: that such as we are in word through letters, being absent, such also being present we are in deed.

¹²For we make not bold to rank or compare ourselves with certain of those commending themselves; but they, among themselves measuring themselves, and comparing themselves with themselves, are not wise, ¹³but we in regard to the unmeasured things will not boast ourselves, but after the measure of the line which the God of measure appointed to us—to reach even unto you: ¹⁴for not as not reaching to you do we stretch ourselves overmuch, for even unto you did we come in the good news of the Christ: ¹⁵not boasting of the things not measured, in other men's labours, but having hope—your faith increasing—in you to be enlarged, according to our line—into abundance, ¹⁶in the places beyond you to proclaim the good news, not in another's line in regard to the things made ready, to boast: ¹⁷but he who is boasting—in the Lord let him boast: ¹⁸for not he who is commending himself is approved, but whom the Lord commendeth.

XI. ¹O THAT ye were bearing with me a little in folly, but ye do also bear with me: ²for I am zealous for you with God's zeal, for I betrothed you to one husband, a pure virgin, to present to Christ: ³but I fear, lest, by any means, as the serpent beguiled Eve in his subtilty, so your minds may be corrupted from the simplicity which is in Christ: ⁴for if, indeed, he who is coming doth preach another Jesus whom we did not preach, or another Spirit ye receive which ye did not receive, or other good news which ye did not accept—well were ye hearing it, ⁵for I reckon that I have been nothing behind the very chiefest apostles, ⁶but even if unlearned in word—yet not in knowledge, but in every thing we were made manifest in all things to you.

⁷Sin did I commit—myself humbling that ye might be exalted, because freely God's good news I proclaimed to you? ⁸other assemblies I robbed, having taken wages, for your ministration: ⁹and being present with you, and having been in want, I was chargeable to no one: for my lack did the brethren supply—having come from Macedonia—and in everything burdensome to you did I keep myself, and will keep.

¹⁰The truth of Christ is in me, because this boasting shall not be stopped in regard to me in the regions of Achaia: ¹¹wherefore? because I love you not? God knoweth! ¹²but what I do, I also will do, that I may cut off the occasion of those wishing an occasion, that in that which they boast they may be found according as we also: ¹³for such are false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into apostles of Christ, ¹⁴and no wonder—for even the Adversary transformeth himself into a messenger of light: ¹⁵no great thing, then, if also his ministrants transform themselves as ministrants of righteousness—whose end shall be according to their works.

¹⁶Again I say, no one may think me to be a fool; but if otherwise, even as a fool receive me, that a little I also may boast: ¹⁷that which I speak, I speak not according to the Lord, but as in foolishness, in this the confidence of boasting: ¹⁸seeing many boast according to the flesh, I also will boast: ¹⁹for gladly do ye bear with fools—being wise: ²⁰for ye bear, if any one is bringing you into bondage, if any one devoureth, if any one taketh away, if any one exalteth himself, if any one on the face doth smite you: ²¹in reference to obloquy I speak, how that we were weak, but in whatever any one is bold—in foolishness I say it—I also am bold.

²²Hebrews are they? I also! Israelites are they? I also! seed of Abraham are they? I also! ²³ministrants of Christ are they? (as beside myself I speak,) I more; in labours more abundantly, in stripes above measure, in prisons more frequently, in deaths many times; ²⁴from Jews five times forty stripes save one I received: ²⁵thrice was I beaten with rods, once was I stoned, thrice was I shipwrecked, a night and a day in the deep have I passed; ²⁶journeys many times, perils of rivers, perils of robbers, perils from kindred, perils from nations, perils in city, perils in wilderness, perils in sea, perils among false brethren: ²⁷in weariness and painfulness, in watchings many times, in hunger and thirst, in fastings many times, in cold and nakedness: ²⁸apart from the things without—the crowding on me which is daily—the care of all the assemblies.

²⁹Who is infirm, and I am not infirm? who is stumbled, and I am not fired? ³⁰if to boast it behoveth me, of the things of my infirmity I will boast: ³¹the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ—who is blessed to the ages—knoweth that I lie not:—³²In Damascus the ethnarch of Aretas the king was watching the city of the Damascenes—wishing to seize me, ³³and through a window in a rope basket was I let down, through the wall, and fled out of his hands.

XII. ¹TO boast, really, is not expedient for me: for I will come to visions and revelations of the Lord: ²I have known a man in Christ, above fourteen years ago, (whether in the body I have not known, whether out of the body I have not known—God hath known,) such an one being caught away unto the third heaven; ³and I have known such a man, (whether in the body, whether out of the body, I have not known—God hath known,) ⁴that he was caught away into paradise, and heard unutterable sayings, which it is not possible for man to speak.

⁵Of such an one will I boast, but of myself I will not boast, except in my infirmities, ⁶for if I may wish to boast, I shall not be a fool; for truth I will say; but I forbear, lest any one in regard to me may think anything above what he seeth me, or heareth anything of me; ⁷and that by the exceeding greatness of the revelations I might not be exalted overmuch, there was given to me a thorn in the flesh, a messenger of the Adversary, that he might buffet me, that I might not be exalted overmuch.

⁸For this thing thrice the Lord did I call upon, that it might depart from me, ⁹and he said to me, 'Sufficient for thee is My grace; for My power in infirmity is perfected; most gladly, therefore, will I rather boast in my infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest on me; ¹⁰wherefore I am well pleased in infirmities, in insults, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses—for Christ; for whenever I am infirm, then am I strong; ¹¹I have become a fool—boasting; ye—ye compelled me; for I ought by you to have been commended, for in nothing was I behind the very chiefest apostles—even if I am nothing. ¹²The signs, indeed; of the apostle were wrought among you in all patience, in signs, and wonders, and mighty deeds; ¹³for what is there in which ye were inferior to the other assemblies, except that I myself was not a burden to you? forgive me this injustice!

¹⁴Lo, a third time I am ready to come to you, and I will not be a burden to you; for I seek not yours, but you; for the children ought not for the parents to lay up, but the parents for the children; ¹⁵but I very gladly will spend and be entirely spent for your souls, even if, more abundantly loving you, less I am loved. ¹⁶But be it so, I—I did not burden you, but being crafty, with guile I took you; ¹⁷any one of those whom I sent to you—by him did I take advantage of you? ¹⁸I entreated Titus, and sent with him the brother; did Titus take advantage of you? in the same spirit did we not walk?—did we not in the same steps?

¹⁹Again, do ye think that to you we are making defence? in the presence of God in Christ do we speak; but all the things, beloved, are for your upbuilding; ²⁰for I fear, lest perhaps having come, not such as I wish I may find you, and I—I may be found by you such as ye do not wish, lest perhaps there be strifes, envyings, wraths, contentions, evil-speakings, whisperings, puffings up, tumults, ²¹lest again having come, my God may humble me among you, and I may bewail many of those having sinned before, and not having reformed concerning the uncleanness, and whoredom, and lasciviousness, which they did practise.

XIII. ¹THIS third time do I come to you; on the mouth of two witnesses or three shall every saying be established; ²I have said before, and I say it before, as being present the second time; and being absent, now do I write to those having sinned before, and to all the rest, that if I come again, I will not spare; ³seeing a proof ye seek of the Christ speaking in me, who to you is not infirm, but is powerful in you, ⁴for even if he was crucified from infirmity, yet he liveth from the power of God; for we also are infirm in him, but we shall live with him from the power of God toward you.

⁵Your own selves try ye, if ye are in the faith; your own selves prove ye; do ye not know your own selves, that Jesus Christ is in you—if ye be not in some respect disapproved of? ⁶but I hope that ye shall know that we—we are not disapproved; ⁷and I pray before God that ye do no evil, not that we may appear approved, but that ye may do that which is right, and we may be as disapproved; ⁸for we are not able to do anything against the truth, but for the truth; ⁹for we rejoice, when we may be infirm, but ye may be powerful; and this also we pray for—your perfection! ¹⁰because of this these things—being absent—I write, that being present, I may not treat any sharply, according to the authority which the Lord gave me for building up, and not for casting down.

¹¹Henceforth, brethren, rejoice; be made perfect, be comforted, be of the same mind, be at peace, and the God of love and peace shall be with you; ¹²salute one another with an holy kiss; ¹³salute you do all the saints; ¹⁴the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the fellowship of the Holy Spirit, be with you all! Amen.

GALATIANS.

CHAP. I. ¹PAUL, an apostle, (not from men, nor through man, but through Jesus Christ, and God the Father, who raised him from the dead,) ²and all the brethren with me—to the assemblies of Galatia: ³Grace to you, and peace from God the Father, and our Lord Jesus Christ, ⁴who gave himself for our sins, that he might deliver us out of this present evil age, according to the will of God even our Father, ⁵to whom is the glory to the ages of the ages. Amen.

⁶I wonder that ye are so quickly removed from Him who called you in the grace of Christ, into another good news, ⁷which is not another, except there be certain who are troubling you, and willing to pervert the good news of the Christ: ⁸but even if we or a messenger out of heaven may proclaim good news to you different from that which we proclaimed to you—anathema let him be! ⁹as we have said before, and now say again, If any one to you may proclaim good news different from that which ye received—anathema let him be! ¹⁰for now men do I persuade, or God? or do I seek to please men? for if yet men I pleased—Christ's servant I should not be.

¹¹But I make known to you, brethren, the good news that were proclaimed by me, that it is not according to man, ¹²for neither did I from man receive it, nor was I taught it, but through a revelation of Jesus Christ, ¹³for ye heard of my converse once in Judaism, that exceedingly was I persecuting the assembly of God, and wasting it, ¹⁴and I was advancing in Judaism above many equals in age in mine own race, being more abundantly zealous of my fathers' deliverances, ¹⁵but when God was well pleased—having separated me from the womb of my mother, and called me through His grace—¹⁶to reveal His Son in me, that I might proclaim him good news among the nations, immediately I conferred not with flesh and blood, ¹⁷nor did I go up to Jerusalem to those who were apostles before me, but I went away to Arabia, and again turned back to Damascus, ¹⁸then, after three years, I went up to Jerusalem to see Peter, and remained with him fifteen days, ¹⁹but other of the apostles I saw not, except James, the brother of the Lord.

²⁰But the things which I write to you, lo, in the presence of God—I lie not; ²¹then I came into the regions of Syria and of Cilicia, ²²but was unknown by face to the assemblies of Judea, which are in Christ, ²³but only they were hearing, that 'he who was persecuting us once, now proclaimeth

the good news—the faith which once he was wasting:' and they were glorifying God in me.

II. ¹THEN, after fourteen years, again I went up to Jerusalem with Barnabas, having taken with me Titus also; ²but I went up by revelation, and declared to them the good news which I preach among the nations, but privately to those esteemed, lest by any means in vain I might run or did run; ³but not even Titus, who was with me, being a Greek, was compelled to be circumcised—⁴and that because of the false brethren brought in unawares, who came in privily to spy out our liberty which we have in Christ Jesus, that us they might bring into bondage, ⁵to whom not even for an hour we gave place by subjection, that the truth of the good news might remain to you.

⁶But from those who were esteemed to be something—whatever they were once, it maketh no difference to me—the face of man God accepteth not, for to me those esteemed added nothing, ⁷but, on the contrary, having seen that I have been intrusted with the good news of the uncircumcision, as Peter with that of the circumcision, ⁸for He who wrought in Peter to the apostleship of the circumcision, wrought also in me in regard to the nations, ⁹and having known the grace which was given to me, James, and Cephas, and John, who were esteemed to be pillars, the right hand of fellowship gave to me, and to Barnabas, that we to the nations, but they to the circumcision may go, ¹⁰only, of the poor that we should be mindful, which also I was diligent—this very thing—to do.

¹¹But when Peter came to Antioch, to the face I stood up against him, because he was blameworthy, ¹²for before the coming of certain from James, with the nations he was eating, but when they came, he was withdrawing and separating himself, fearing those of the circumcision: ¹³and dissembled with him also did the other Jews, so that even Barnabas was carried away by their dissimulation.

¹⁴But when I saw that they are not walking uprightly to the truth of the good news, I said to Peter before all, 'If thou, being a Jew, in the manner of the nations dost live, and not in the manner of the Jews, why the nations dost thou compel to Judaise? ¹⁵we by nature Jews, and not sinners of the nations, ¹⁶knowing that a man is not declared righteous by works of law, if not through the faith of Jesus Christ, and we in Christ Jesus believed, that we might be declared righteous by the faith of Christ, and not by works of law, because declared righteous by works of law shall be no flesh.'

¹⁷ But if, seeking to be declared righteous in Christ, we ourselves also were found sinners, ¹⁸ then Christ a ministrant of sin? let it not be! ¹⁹ for if the things I throw down, these again I build up, a transgressor I make myself; ²⁰ for I, through law, to law died, that to God I may live; ²¹ with Christ I have been crucified, but live—no more do I, but Christ liveth in me; but that which I now live in the flesh—in the faith I live of the Son of God, who loved me and gave himself for me; I do not make void the grace of God, for if righteousness be through law—then Christ died in vain.

III. ¹ O FOOLISH Galatians, who bewitched you, not to obey the truth—before whose eyes Jesus Christ was described before among you—crucified? ² this only do I wish to learn from you—by works of law the Spirit did ye receive, or by the hearing of faith? ³ so foolish are ye! having begun in the Spirit, now in the flesh do ye end? ⁴ so many things did ye suffer in vain! if, indeed, even in vain.

⁵ He, therefore, who is supplying to you the Spirit, and working mighty acts among you—by works of law or by the hearing of faith is it? ⁶ according as Abraham believed God, and it was reckoned to him for righteousness; ⁷ know ye, then, that those of faith—these are sons of Abraham, ⁸ and the writing having foreseen that by faith God doth declare righteous the nations, proclaimed before the good news to Abraham—⁹ 'Blessed in thee' shall be all the nations; ¹⁰ so that those of faith are blessed with the faithful Abraham, ¹¹ for as many as are of works of law are under a curse, for it hath been written, 'Cursed is every one who is not remaining in all things which have been written in the book of the law—to do them,' ¹² but that in law no one is declared righteous with God, is evident, because 'The righteous by faith shall live,' ¹³ but the law is not by faith, but—'The man who did them shall live in them.'

¹⁴ Christ redeemed us from the curse of the law, having become for us a curse, for it hath been written, 'Cursed is every one who is hanging on a tree,' ¹⁵ that to the nations the blessing of Abraham may come in Christ Jesus, (that the promise of the Spirit we may receive through faith. ¹⁶ Brethren, as a man I say it, even of man a confirmed covenant no one maketh void or addeth to, ¹⁷ but to Abraham were the promises spoken, and to his seed: He saith not, 'And to seeds,' as of many, but as of one, 'And to thy seed,' which is Christ; ¹⁸ but this I say, A covenant confirmed before by God to Christ, the law, which came four hundred and thirty years after, doth not set aside, to make void the promise, ¹⁹ for if by law be the inheritance, it is no more by promise, but to Abraham through promise God granted it.

²⁰ Why, then, the law? on account of the transgressions it was added, till the seed might come to which it hath been promised, having been set in order through messengers in the hand of a mediator, ²¹ but the mediator is not of one, but God is one; ²² the law, then, is against the promises of God! let it not be! for if the law was given which was able to make alive, truly by law there would have been the righteousness, ²³ but the writing shut up all under sin, that the promise by faith of Jesus Christ may be given to those believing.

²⁴ But before the coming of faith, under law we were kept, shut up to the faith about to be revealed, ²⁵ so that the law became our child-conductor to Christ, that by faith we may be declared righteous, ²⁶ but the faith having come, no more under a child-conductor are we, ²⁷ for ye are all sons of God through the faith in Christ Jesus, ²⁸ for as many as into Christ were baptized did put on Christ; ²⁹ there is not Jew nor Greek, there is not servant nor freeman, there is not male and female, for all ye are one in Christ Jesus; ³⁰ but if ye are Christ's, then of Abraham ye are seed, and according to promise—heirs.

IV. ¹ BUT I say, so long time as the heir is an infant, he differeth nothing from a servant—being lord of all, ² but is under tutors and stewards till the time appointed of the father, ³ so also we, when we were infants, under the elements of the world we were in servitude, ⁴ but when the fulness of the time came, God sent forth His son, come of a woman, come under law, ⁵ that those under law he may redeem, that the adoption of sons we may receive; ⁶ but because ye are sons, God sent forth the spirit of His Son into your hearts, crying, 'Abba, Father!' ⁷ so that thou art no more a servant, but a son, and if a son, also an heir of God through Christ.

⁸ But then, indeed, not knowing God, ye did service to those not by nature gods, ⁹ but now, having known God—but rather being known by God—how turn ye again to the weak and poor elements to which anew ye desire to be in servitude? ¹⁰ days ye observe, and months, and times, and years! ¹¹ I am afraid of you, lest somehow in vain I laboured toward you.

¹² Become as I am, (because I also am as ye,) brethren, I beseech you; to me ye did no hurt, ¹³ but ye have known that through infirmity of the flesh I proclaimed the good news to you at the first, ¹⁴ and my temptation which was in my flesh ye did not despise nor reject, but as a messenger of God ye received me—as Christ Jesus; ¹⁵ what then was your happiness? for I testify to you, that if possible, your eyes having plucked out, ye would have given to me; ¹⁶ so that your enemy have I become speaking truth to you? ¹⁷ they are zealous for you—yet not well, but they wish to shut us out, that for them ye may be zealous; ¹⁸ but it is good to be zealously affected in a good thing at all times, and not only in my being present with you, ¹⁹ my little children, of whom again I travail in birth, till Christ may be formed in you; ²⁰ and I wished to be present with you now, and to change my voice, because I am in doubt of you.

²¹Tell me ye who are wishing to be under law, the law do ye not hear? ²²for it hath been written, that Abraham had two sons, one by the maid-servant, and one by the free-woman, ²³but he who is of the maid-servant, according to flesh hath been, but he who is of the free-woman, through the promise; ²⁴which things are allegorized, for these are the two covenants: one, indeed, from mount Sinai, to servitude gentling, which is Hagar: ²⁵for this—Hagar—is mount Sinai in Arabia, and answereth to the Jerusalem that now is, and is in servitude with her children, ²⁶but the Jerusalem above is free, which is mother of us all, ²⁷for it hath been written, 'Rejoice, O barren, who art not bearing: break forth and cry thou who art not travelling, because many are the children of the desolate—more than of her who hath the husband.'

²⁸But we, brethren, as Isaac, are children of promise, ²⁹but as then he who was born according to the flesh persecuted him according to the Spirit, so also now: ³⁰but what saith the writing? 'Cast out the maid-servant and her son, for the son of the maid-servant may not be heir with the son of the free-woman.' ³¹then, brethren, we are not a maid-servant's children, but the free-woman's.

V. ¹IN the freedom, then, with which Christ made you free—stand ye, and be not held fast again by a yoke of servitude: ²lo, I Paul say to you, that if ye be circumcised, Christ shall profit you nothing: ³and I testify again to every man circumcised, that he is a debtor to do the whole law: ⁴ye are ceased from the Christ, ye who in law are declared righteous; from grace ye fell away: ⁵for we by the Spirit, by faith, a hope of righteousness wait for, ⁶for in Christ Jesus neither circumcision availeth anything, nor uncircumcision, but faith through love working.

⁷Ye were running well; who did hinder you—not to obey the truth? ⁸the obedience is not of him who is calling you! ⁹a little leaven the whole lump leaveneth; ¹⁰I have confidence in regard to you in the Lord, that ye will be none otherwise minded; but he who is troubling you shall bear the judgment, whoever he may be. ¹¹But I, brethren, if circumcision I yet preach, why yet am I persecuted? then hath the stumbling of the cross been done away: ¹²O that—and they shall cut themselves off who are troubling you!

¹³For ye—to freedom were ye called, brethren, only not freedom for an occasion to the flesh, but through love serve ye one another, ¹⁴for all the law in one word is fulfilled—in this: 'Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself;' ¹⁵but if one another ye bite and devour, see—that ye may not by one another be consumed.

¹⁶But I say: In the Spirit walk ye, and the desire of the flesh may ye not complete: ¹⁷for the flesh desireth contrary the Spirit, but the Spirit contrary the flesh, but these are opposed to one another, that the things which ye may not will—these ye may do: ¹⁸but if by the Spirit ye are led, ye are not under law.

¹⁹But manifest are the works of the flesh, which are: Adultery, whoredom, uncleanness, lasciviousness, ²⁰idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, strifes, emulations, wraths, rivalries, seditions, sects, ²¹envyings, murders, drunkennesses, revellings, and the like of these, of which I tell you before, as I also said before, that those doing such things the reign of God shall not inherit.

²²But the fruit of the Spirit is: Love, Joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, ²³meekness, temperance: against such law is not; ²⁴but those who are Christ's, the flesh did crucify with the affections and the desires; ²⁵if we live in the Spirit, in the Spirit also let us walk: ²⁶let us not become vain-glorious—one another provoking, one another envying!

VI. ¹BRETHREN, if a man may be overtaken in any trespass, ye who are spiritual restore such an one in the spirit of meekness, considering thyself—lest thou also may be tempted; ²of one another the burdens bear ye, and so fill up the law of Christ, ³for if any one thinketh himself to be something—being nothing—himself he deceiveth; ⁴but his own work let each one prove, and then in regard to himself alone the glorying he shall have, and not in regard to the other; ⁵for each one his own burden shall bear, ⁶but let him who is instructed in the word share with him who is instructing—in all good things.

⁷Be not led astray; God is not mocked: for what a man may sow—that also shall he reap, ⁸because he who is sowing to his own flesh, of the flesh shall reap corruption; but he who is sowing to the Spirit, of the Spirit shall reap life age-during; ⁹but in doing good, let us not be faint-hearted, for at the proper time we shall reap—not exhausted; ¹⁰therefore, then, as we have opportunity, let us work good to all, but specially to those of the household of the faith.

¹¹Ye see in how large a letter I have written to you with mine own hand; ¹²as many as are willing to make a good appearance in the flesh, they constrain you to be circumcised—only that for the cross of the Christ they may not be persecuted, ¹³for neither do those circumcised themselves keep the law, but they wish you to be circumcised, that in your flesh they may glory.

¹⁴But for me, let it not be—to glory, except in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, through whom to me the world is crucified, and I to the world; ¹⁵for in Christ Jesus neither circumcision availeth anything, nor uncircumcision, but a new creation: ¹⁶and as many as by this rule walk—peace on them, and kindness, and on the Israel of God!

¹⁷Henceforth, let no man give me trouble, for I the marks of the Lord Jesus in my body do bear. ¹⁸The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirits, brethren! Amen.

EPHESIANS.

CHAP. I. ¹PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ through the will of God, to the saints who are in Ephesus, and faithful in Christ Jesus: ²Grace to you, and peace from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ!

³Blessed is the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who blessed us in all spiritual blessing in the heavenly places in Christ, ⁴according as He chose us in Him before the foundation of the world, for our being holy and unblemished before Him in love, ⁵having pre-determined us to the adoption of sons through Jesus Christ to Himself, according to the good pleasure of His will, ⁶to the praise of the glory of His grace, in which He made us accepted in the beloved, ⁷in whom we have redemption through His blood, the remission of the transgressions, according to the riches of His grace, ⁸in which He abounded towards us in all wisdom and prudence, ⁹having made known to us the mystery of His will, according to His good pleasure, which He purposed in Himself, ¹⁰in regard to the dispensation of the fulness of the times, to bring into one all things in Christ, both the things in the heavens, and the things on the earth—in Him; ¹¹in whom also we obtained an inheritance, being fore-ordained according to the purpose of Him who all things is working according to the counsel of His will, ¹²for our being to the praise of His glory, even those who first hoped in the Christ, ¹³in whom ye also, having heard the word of truth—the good news of your salvation—in whom also having believed, ye were sealed with the Holy Spirit of promise, ¹⁴which is an earnest of our inheritance, to the redemption of the purchased possession, to the praise of His glory.

¹⁵Because of this I also, having heard of your faith in the Lord Jesus, and love to all the saints, ¹⁶cease not giving thanks for you, making mention of you in my prayers, ¹⁷that the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give to you a spirit of wisdom and revelation in the knowledge of Him, ¹⁸the eyes of your understanding being enlightened, for your knowing what is the hope of His calling, and what the riches of the glory of His inheritance in the saints, ¹⁹and what the surpassing greatness of His power to us who are believing, according to the working of the might of His power, ²⁰which He wrought in the Christ, having raised Him from the dead, and He set Him at His right hand in the heavenly places, ²¹far above all principality, and power, and might, and lordship, and every name named, not only in this age, but in the coming one; ²²and all things He put under His feet, and gave Him head over all things to the assembly, which is His body, the fulness of Him who is filling all in all.

II. ¹AND you—being dead in trespasses and sins, ²in which once ye walked according to the age of this world, according to the ruler of the power of the air, of the spirit which is now working in the sons of disobedience, ³among whom also we all walked once in the desires of our flesh, doing the wishes of the flesh and of the thoughts, and were by nature children of wrath—as also the others, ⁴but God, being rich in kindness, because of His great love with which He loved us, ⁵even being dead in trespasses, made us to live together with the Christ, (by grace ye are having been saved,) ⁶and raised us up together, and seated us together in the heavenly places in Christ Jesus, ⁷that He might show, in the ages which are coming, the surpassing riches of His grace in kindness towards us in Christ Jesus, ⁸for by grace are ye having been saved, through faith, and this not of you—of God the gift, ⁹not of works, that no one may boast; ¹⁰for of Him we are workmanship, created in Christ Jesus to good works, which God before prepared, that in them we may walk.

¹¹Wherefore, remember, that ye were once the nations in the flesh, who are called Uncircumcision by that called Circumcision in the flesh made by hands, ¹²that ye were at that time apart from Christ, having been alienated from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers to the covenant of the promise, having no hope, and without God, in the world; ¹³but now, in Christ Jesus, ye who were once afar off became near in the blood of the Christ, ¹⁴for He is our peace, who made both one, and the middle wall of the enclosure broke down, ¹⁵the enmity in His flesh, the law of the commands in ordinances, having done away, that the two He might create in Himself into one new man, making peace, ¹⁶and might reconcile both in one body to God through the cross, having slain the enmity in it, ¹⁷and having come, He proclaimed good news—peace to you—the far-off and the near, ¹⁸because through Him we have the access—we both—in one Spirit to the Father.

¹⁹Then, therefore, ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow-citizens of the saints, and of the household of God, ²⁰being built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ Himself being chief corner-stone, ²¹in whom all the building fitly framed together increaseth into a holy temple in the Lord, ²²in whom also ye are builded together, for a habitation of God in the Spirit.

III. ¹FOR this cause, I Paul, the prisoner of Christ Jesus for you the nations, ²if, indeed, ye heard of the dispensation of the grace of God which was given to me in regard to you, ³that by revelation He made known to me the mystery, according as I wrote before in few words, ⁴(in regard to which ye are able, having read it, to understand my knowledge in the mystery of the Christ, ⁵which in other generations was not made known to the sons of men, as it hath been now revealed to His holy apostles and prophets in the Spirit, ⁶that the nations be fellow-heirs, and of the same body, and partakers of His promise in the Christ, through the good news, ⁷of which I became a ministrant according to the gift of the grace of God which was given to me, according to the working of His power; ⁸to me—less than the least of all the saints—was given this grace, among the nations to proclaim the good news—the untraceable riches of the Christ, ⁹and to cause all to see what is the fellowship of the mystery which hath been hid from the ages in God, who all things created by Jesus Christ, ¹⁰that it might be known now to the principalities and powers in the heavenly places, through the assembly, the manifold wisdom of God, ¹¹According to the purpose of the ages, which He made in Christ Jesus our Lord, ¹²in whom we have the boldness and the access in confidence through the faith of him, ¹³wherefore, I ask you not to faint in my tribulations for you, which is your glory.

¹⁴For this cause I bow my knees to the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, ¹⁵of whom the whole family in heaven and on earth is named, ¹⁶that He may give to you, according to the riches of His glory, with might to be strengthened through His Spirit, in regard to the inner man, ¹⁷that the Christ dwell through faith in your hearts, in love having been rooted and founded, ¹⁸that ye may be able to comprehend, with all the saints, what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height, ¹⁹to know also the love of the Christ that is surpassing knowledge, that ye may be filled to all the fulness of God; ²⁰but to Him who is able above all things to do exceeding abundantly what we ask or think, according to the power that is working in us, ²¹to Him is the glory in the assembly in Christ Jesus, to all the generations of the age of the ages. Amen.

IV. ¹CALL upon you, then, do I—the prisoner in the Lord—to walk worthily of the calling with which ye were called, ²with all lowliness and meekness, with long-suffering, forbearing one another in love, ³being diligent to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace, ⁴one body and one Spirit, according as also ye were called in one hope of your calling; ⁵one Lord, one faith, one baptism, ⁶one God and Father of all, who is over all, and through all, and in you all, ⁷but to each one of you was given the grace, according to the measure of the gift of the Christ, ⁸wherefore, he saith, 'Having gone up on high he led captive captivity, and gave gifts to men,' ⁹(but that, he went up, what is it except that he also went down first into the lower parts of the earth? ¹⁰he who went down is the same also who went up far above all the heavens, that He may fill all things,) ¹¹and He gave some apostles, and some prophets, and some proclaimers of the good news, and some shepherds and teachers, ¹²for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of ministration, for the building up of the body of the Christ, ¹³till we may all come into the unity of the faith and of the full knowledge of the Son of God, into a perfect man, into the measure of the stature of the fulness of the Christ, ¹⁴that we may no more be infants, tossed and borne about by every wind of the teaching, in the sleight of men, in craftiness, to the artifice of leading astray, ¹⁵but, acting truly in love, we may increase into Him in all things, who is the head—Christ: ¹⁶from whom the whole body, being fitly joined together and united, through the supply of every joint, according to the working in the measure of each single part, the increase of the body maketh for the building up of itself in love.

¹⁷This, then, I say, and testify in the Lord: ye are no more to walk, as also the other nations walk, in the vanity of their mind, ¹⁸being darkened in the understanding, being alienated from the life of God, because of the ignorance that is in them, because of the hardness of their heart. ¹⁹who, having ceased to feel, themselves gave up to lasciviousness, for the working of all uncleanness in greediness, ²⁰but ye did not so learn the Christ, ²¹if so be ye heard him, and in him were taught, as truth is in Jesus; ²²ye are to put off concerning the former behaviour the old man, which is corrupt according to the desires of deceit, ²³and to be renewed in the spirit of your mind, ²⁴and to put on the new man, which, according to God, was created in righteousness and holiness of the truth.

²⁵Wherefore, putting away lying, speak truth each with his neighbour, because we are members of one another: ²⁶be angry and sin not; let not the sun go down upon your wrath; ²⁷neither give place to the devil; ²⁸let him who is stealing no more steal, but rather let him labour, working the thing that is good with the hands, that he may have to give to him who hath need.

²⁹Let no corrupt word out of your mouth proceed, but what is good for the needful building up, that it may give grace to the hearers; ³⁰and make not sorrowful the Holy Spirit of God, in which we were sealed to the day of redemption.

³¹Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and evil-speaking, be put away from you, with all malice, ³²and become kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, according as also God in Christ forgave you.

V. ¹ BECOME, then, followers of God, as children beloved, ² and walk in love, as also Christ loved us, and gave himself for us, an offering and a sacrifice to God for an odour of a sweet smell, ³ but whoredom, and all uncleanness, or covetousness, let it not even be named among you, as becometh saints; ⁴ filthiness also, and foolish talking, or jesting—the things not fit—but rather thanksgiving; ⁵ for this ye know, that no whoremonger, or uncleanness, or covetous person, who is an idolater, hath any inheritance in the reign of Christ—even of God.

⁶ Let no one deceive you with vain words, for because of these cometh the anger of God upon the sons of disobedience; ⁷ become not, then, partakers with them, ⁸ for ye were once darkness, but now light in the Lord: as children of light walk, ⁹ for the fruit of the Spirit is in all goodness, and righteousness, and truth, ¹⁰ proving what is well-pleasing to the Lord, ¹¹ and have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of the darkness, but rather even reprove, ¹² for the things in secret done by them it is a shame even to speak of, ¹³ but all things reprov'd by the light are manifested, for everything that is manifested is light; ¹⁴ wherefore he saith, 'Awake thou who art sleeping, and arise from the dead, and the Christ shall shine upon thee.'

¹⁵ See, then, how exactly ye walk, not as unwise, but as wise, ¹⁶ redeeming the time, because the days are evil; ¹⁷ because of this become not fools, but understanding what is the will of the Lord, ¹⁸ and be not drunk with wine, in which is dissoluteness, but be filled in the Spirit, ¹⁹ speaking to yourselves in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your heart to the Lord, ²⁰ giving thanks always for all things, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, to God even the Father: ²¹ subjecting yourselves to one another in the fear of God.

²² Wives, to your own husbands subject yourselves, as to the Lord, ²³ for the husband is head of the wife, as also Christ is head of the assembly, and he is saviour of the body, ²⁴ but even as the assembly is subject to Christ, so also the wives to their own husbands in everything.

²⁵ Husbands, love your own wives, as also the Christ loved the assembly, and gave himself for it, ²⁶ that he might sanctify it, having cleansed it with the bathing of the water in a saying, ²⁷ that he might present it to himself a glorious assembly, not having spot or wrinkle, or any of such things, but that it may be holy and unblemished; ²⁸ so, the husbands ought to love their own wives as their own bodies: he who is loving his own wife—himself he loveth; ²⁹ for no one ever his own flesh hated, but doth love and cherish it: as also the Lord—the assembly, ³⁰ because members we are of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones, ³¹ for this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall be joined to his wife, and they shall be—the two—for one flesh; ³² this mystery is great; but I speak in regard to Christ and to the assembly; ³³ but ye also, every one in particular—let each his own wife so love as himself, and the wife—that she may reverence the husband.

VI. ¹ CHILDREN! obey your parents in the Lord, for this is righteous; ² honour thy father and mother, ³ which is the first command with a promise, 'That it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live a long time on the land.'

⁴ And fathers! provoke not your children, but bring them up in the instruction and admonition of the Lord.

⁵ Servants! obey the masters according to the flesh with fear and trembling, in the simplicity of your heart, as to the Christ ⁶ not with eye-service as men-pleasers, but as servants of the Christ, doing the will of God out of the soul, ⁷ with good-will serving, as to the Lord, and not to men, ⁸ knowing that whatever good thing each one may do, this shall he receive from the Lord, whether servant or freeman.

⁹ And masters! the same things do ye to them, letting threatening alone, knowing that also your Master is in the heavens, and acceptance of persons is not with him.

¹⁴ Stand, therefore, having your loins girt about in truth, and having put on the breastplate of righteousness, ¹⁵ and being shod in the preparation of the good news of the peace; ¹⁶ above all, taking up the shield of faith, in which ye shall be able all the fiery darts of the evil one to quench, ¹⁷ and the helmet of salvation receive, and the sword of the Spirit, which is a saying of God, ¹⁸ through all prayer and supplication praying at all times in the Spirit, and in regard to this same, watching in all perseverance and supplication for all the saints—¹⁹ and for me, that to me may be given a word in the opening of my mouth, in boldness, to make known the mystery of the good news, ²⁰ for which I am an ambassador in bonds, that in it I may speak boldly—as it becometh me to speak.

²¹ But that ye may know—ye also—the things concerning me—what I do, all things make known to you shall Tychicus, the beloved brother and faithful ministrant in the Lord, ²² whom I sent to you for this very thing, that ye might know the things concerning us, and that he might comfort your hearts.

²³ Peace to the brethren, and love, with faith, from God the Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ! ²⁴ Grace with all those loving our Lord Jesus Christ—undecayingly! Amen.

PHILIPPIANS.

CHAP. I. ¹ PAUL and Timothy, servants of Jesus Christ, to all the saints in Christ Jesus who are in Philippi, with overseers and ministers: ² Grace to you, and peace from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

³ I give thanks to my God on all the remembrance of you, ⁴ always, in every supplication of mine for you all, with joy making the supplication, ⁵ for your fellowship in regard to the good news from the first day till now, ⁶ having been confident of this very thing, that He who began in you a good work, will perform it till the day of Jesus Christ, ⁷ according as it is right for me to think this in behalf of you all, because of my having you in the heart, both in my bonds, and in the defence and confirmation of the good news—all of you being fellow-partakers with me of grace.

⁸ For God is my witness, how I long for you all in the bowels of Jesus Christ; ⁹ and this I pray, that your love yet more and more may abound in full knowledge, and all judgment, ¹⁰ for your distinguishing the things that differ, that ye may be pure and offenceless in regard to the day of Christ, ¹¹ being filled with the fruits of righteousness, which are through Jesus Christ, to the glory and praise of God.

¹² But I wish you to know, brethren, that the things against me, rather to the advancement of the good news have come, ¹³ so that my bonds have become manifest in Christ in the whole pretorium, and to all the rest; ¹⁴ and the greater part of the brethren in the Lord, having confidence by my bonds, are more abundantly bold—fearlessly to speak the word.

¹⁵ Certain, indeed, even because of envy and contention, but certain also because of goodwill, do preach Christ; ¹⁶ the one, indeed, of rivalry the Christ proclaim, not purely, supposing to add affliction to my bonds, ¹⁷ but the other of love, knowing that for the defence of the good news I am set: ¹⁸ what, then? in every way, whether in pretence or in truth, Christ is proclaimed—and in this I rejoice, yea, and shall rejoice.

¹⁹ For I have known that this shall fall out to me for salvation, through your supplication, and the supply of the Spirit of Christ Jesus: ²⁰ according to my earnest expectation and hope, that in nothing I shall be ashamed, but with all boldness, as always, also now Christ shall be magnified in my body, whether through life or death: ²¹ for to me to live is Christ, and to die gain.

²² But if to live in the flesh is to me the fruit of work, then what shall I choose? I know not; ²³ for I am pressed by the two, having a desire to be free, and to be with Christ, which is far better; ²⁴ but to remain in the flesh is more necessary on your account: ²⁵ and of this being persuaded, I know that I shall remain and continue with you all, for your advancement and joy of faith, ²⁶ that your boasting may abound in Christ Jesus in me through my coming again to you.

²⁷ Only, worthy of the good news of Christ conduct yourselves, that, whether having come and seen you, whether being absent, I may hear of the things concerning you, that yestand fast in one spirit, with one soul, striving together for the faith of the good news, ²⁸ and not terrified in anything by those opposing, which to them indeed is a token of destruction, but to you of salvation, and that from God; ²⁹ because to you was it granted, on behalf of Christ, not only to believe in him, but also on behalf of him to suffer; ³⁰ the same conflict having which ye saw in me, and now hear of in me.

II. ¹ IF, then, any exhortation is in Christ, if any comfort of love, if any fellowship of spirit, if any bowels and mercies, ² fulfil ye my joy, that ye may mind the same thing—having the same love—of one soul—minding the one thing, ³ nothing in rivalry or vain-glory, but in humility of mind one another counting more excellent than yourselves—each not to your own look ye, but each also to the things of others.

⁴ For let this mind be in you which is also in Christ Jesus: ⁵ who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal to God, ⁶ but emptied himself, the form of a servant having taken, in the likeness of men having been made, ⁷ and in fashion having been found as a man, he humbled himself, having become obedient unto death—death even of a cross, ⁸ wherefore, also, God highly exalted him, and gave to him a name which is above every name, ⁹ that in the name of Jesus every knee may bow—of those in heaven, and those on earth, and those under the earth—¹⁰ and every tongue may confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

¹¹ So that, my beloved, as ye always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but now much more in my absence, with fear and trembling your own salvation work out, ¹² for God it is who is working in you to will and to work of His good pleasure.

¹³ All things do without murmurings and reasonings, ¹⁴ that ye may become blameless and harmless, children of God, unblemished in the midst of a generation crooked and perverse, among whom ye appear as lights in the world: ¹⁵ the word of life holding forth, for rejoicing to me in regard to the day of Christ, that not in vain did I run, nor in vain did I labour: ¹⁶ but, if also I am poured out on the sacrifice and service of your faith, I rejoice and joy with you all, ¹⁷ for this do ye also joy and rejoice with me.

¹⁸ But I hope, in the Lord Jesus, Timothy to send quickly to you, that I also may be of good spirit, I, having known the things concerning you, ¹⁹ for I have no one like-minded, who sincerely for the things concerning you will care, ²⁰ for the whole seek their own things, not the things of Christ Jesus. ²¹ But the proof of him ye know, that as a child serveth a father, with me he served in regard to the good news; ²² him, indeed, therefore, I hope to send, when I may see through the things concerning me—immediately; ²³ but I trust in the Lord that I myself also shall quickly come.

²³ But I thought it necessary Epaphroditus—my brother, and fellow-workman, and fellow-soldier, but your apostle and servant to my need—to send to you, ²⁴ seeing he was longing after you all, and in heaviness, because ye heard that he ailed, ²⁵ for he also ailed nigh to death, but God dealt kindly with him, and not with him only, but also with me, that sorrow upon sorrow I should not have.

²⁶ The more eagerly, therefore, I sent him, that having seen him again ye may rejoice, and I may be the less sorrowful; ²⁷ receive him therefore in the Lord with all joy, and hold such in honour. ²⁸ because on account of the work of the Christ he drew near to death, having hazarded life that he might fill up your deficiency of service to me.

III. ¹ AS to the rest, my brethren, rejoice in the Lord: the same thing to write to you to me indeed is not tiresome, but for you—sure; ² look to the dogs, look to the evil-workers, look to the concision; ³ for we are the circumcision, who by the Spirit are serving God, and rejoicing in Christ Jesus, and in flesh having no trust, ⁴ though I also have cause of trust in the flesh.

If any other one thinketh to have trust in the flesh, I more: ⁵ circumcised the eighth day, of the race of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, a Hebrew of Hebrews; according to law a Pharisee; ⁶ according to zeal persecuting the assembly; according to righteousness which is in law—blameless.

⁷ But what things were to me gain these I have counted loss, because of the Christ; ⁸ yea, indeed, and I count all to be loss, because of the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord, because of whom of all things I suffered loss, and count them to be refuse, that Christ I may gain, and be found in him, ⁹ not having mine own righteousness, which is of law, but that which is through the faith of Christ—the righteousness which is of God by faith, ¹⁰ to know him, and the power of his rising again, and the fellowship of his sufferings, becoming conformed to his death, ¹¹ if anyhow I may attain to the rising again of the dead.

¹² Not that I already obtained, or am already perfected; but I pursue, if also I may lay hold of that for which also I was laid hold of by Christ Jesus; ¹³ brethren, I reckon not myself to have laid hold; but one thing—the things behind indeed forgetting, but to the things before stretching forth—¹⁴ to the mark I pursue for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.

¹⁵ As many therefore as are perfect—let us think this, and if in anything ye think otherwise, even this shall God reveal to you, ¹⁶ but to what we have come up—by the same rule to walk, the same to think: ¹⁷ become followers together of me, brethren, and observe those thus walking, according as ye have us—a pattern; ¹⁸ for many walk of whom many times I told you—but now also weeping tell—the enemies of the cross of Christ; ¹⁹ whose end is destruction, whose god is the belly, and whose glory is in their shame, who the things on earth are minding.

²⁰ For our citizenship is in the heavens, whence also the Saviour we await—the Lord Jesus Christ—²¹ who shall transform the body of our humiliation for its becoming conformed to the body of his glory, according to the working of his power, even to subject to himself all things.

IV. ¹ SO then, my brethren, beloved and longed for, my joy and crown, so stand in the Lord, beloved.

² Euodia I exhort, and Syntyche I exhort. to be of the same mind in the Lord; ³ and I ask also thee, true yoke-fellow, be assisting those women who in the good news strove along with me, with Clement also, and the other, my fellow-workers, whose names are in the book of life.

⁴ Rejoice in the Lord always; again will I say, rejoice; ⁵ let your forbearance be known to all men; the Lord is near; ⁶ for nothing be careful, but in everything by prayer, and by supplication, with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known unto God; ⁷ and the peace of God, which is surpassing all understanding, shall guard your hearts and your thoughts in Christ Jesus.

⁸ As to the rest, brethren, as many things as are true, as many as are grave, as many as are right, as many as are pure, as many as are lovely, as many as are of good report, if any virtue, and if any praise, these things think upon; ⁹ the things which also ye learned, and received, and heard, and saw in me do; and the God of peace shall be with you.

¹⁰ But I rejoiced in the Lord greatly, that now at length ye flourished again in caring for me, for which also ye were caring, but ye lacked opportunity; ¹¹ not that in respect of want I say it, for I learned in the things in which I am—to be content; ¹² I have known both to be abased, and I have known to abound: In everything and in all things I have been initiated, both to be full and to be hungry, both to abound and to be in want.

¹³ All things I can do in Christ's strengthening me; ¹⁴ but ye did well, having communicated with my tribulation; ¹⁵ but ye have known, even ye Philipians, that in the beginning of the good news, when I went out from Macedonia, no assembly communicated with me in regard to giving and receiving except ye only; ¹⁶ because, also in Thessalonica, both once and a second time for my need ye sent; ¹⁷ not that I seek after a gift, but I seek after the fruit which is overflowing to your account; ¹⁸ but I have all things, and abound; I am filled, having received from Epaphroditus the things from you—an odour of a sweet smell—a sacrifice acceptable, well-pleasing to God; ¹⁹ and my God shall supply all your need according to His riches in glory, in Christ Jesus; ²⁰ and to God, even our Father, is the glory unto the ages of the ages. Amen.

²¹ Salute ye every saint in Christ Jesus: there salute you the brethren with me; ²² there salute you all the saints, but specially those of Caesar's house; ²³ the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

COLOSSIANS.

CHAP. I. ¹PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ through the will of God, and Timothy the brother, ²to the saints in Colosse, and to the faithful brethren in Christ: Grace to you, and peace from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ!

³We give thanks to God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, always praying for you, ⁴having heard of your faith in Christ Jesus, and of the love which is to all the saints, ⁵because of the hope which is laid up for you in the heavens, which ye heard of before in the word of the truth of the good news, ⁶which is present to you, according as also it is in all the world, and is bearing fruit, according as it doth also in you, from the day in which ye heard, and knew the grace of God in truth; ⁷according as ye also learned from Epaphras, our beloved fellow-servant, who is for you a faithful ministrant of Christ, ⁸who also declared to us your love in the Spirit.

⁹Because of this, we also, from the day in which we heard, cease not praying for you, and asking that ye may be filled with the knowledge of his will in all wisdom and spiritual understanding, ¹⁰for your walking worthily of the Lord to all pleasing, in every good work being fruitful, and increasing into the knowledge of God, ¹¹in all might being made mighty according to the power of his glory, into all endurance and long-suffering with joy.

¹²Giving thanks to the Father who made us meet for the portion of the inheritance of the saints in the light, ¹³who rescued us out of the power of the darkness, and translated us into the reign of the Son of His love, ¹⁴in whom we have the redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of the sins, ¹⁵who is the image of the invisible God, the first-born of every creature, ¹⁶because in him were all things created, those in the heavens, and those on the earth, those visible, and those invisible, whether thrones, whether lordships, whether principalities, whether authorities; all things through him, and for him, have been created, ¹⁷and he is before all, and all things in him consist.

¹⁸And he is the head of the body—the assembly—who is the beginning, the first-born from the dead, that he might become in all things—himself—first, ¹⁹because in him it pleased that all the fulness should dwell, ²⁰and through him to reconcile all things to himself—having made peace through the blood of his cross—through him, whether the things on the earth, whether the things in the heavens.

²¹And you—once being alienated, and enemies in the mind, in the evil works, yet now he reconciled, ²²in the body of his flesh through death, to present you holy, and unblemished, and unblameable before him, ²³if ye remain in the faith, being founded and settled, and not moved away from the hope of the good news, of which ye heard, which was preached in all the creation that is under the heaven, of which I became—I Paul—a ministrant.

²⁴I now rejoice in my sufferings for you, and fill up the things lacking of the tribulations of the Christ in my flesh for his body, which is the assembly, ²⁵of which I—I became a ministrant according to the dispensation of God, which was given to me for you to fulfil the word of God, ²⁶the mystery which hath been hid from the ages and from the generations, but which now was manifested to his saints, ²⁷to whom God wished to make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the nations—which is Christ in you, the hope of the glory, ²⁸whom we proclaim, warning every man, and teaching every man in all wisdom, that we may present every man perfect in Christ Jesus, ²⁹for which also I laboured, striving according to his working which is working in me in power.

II. ¹FOR I wish you to know how great a conflict I have for you and those in Laodicea, and as many as have not seen my face in the flesh, ²that their hearts may be comforted, being knit together in love, and to all riches of the full assurance of the understanding, to the perfect knowledge of the mystery of God, even the Father and of Christ, ³in whom are all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge hid, ⁴but this I say, that no one may beguile you in enticing words, ⁵for if even in the flesh I am absent—yet in the spirit am I with you, joying and beholding your order, and the steadfastness of your faith in regard to Christ: ⁶as, then, ye received Christ Jesus the Lord, in him walk ye, ⁷rooted and built up in him, and confirmed in the faith, as ye were taught—abounding in it in thanksgiving.

⁸See that no one shall be spoiling you through the philosophy and vain deceit, according to the deliverance of men, according to the rudiments of the world, and not according to Christ, ⁹because in him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily, ¹⁰and ye are in him complete, who is the head of all principality and authority, ¹¹in whom also ye were circumcised with the circumcision not made with hands, in the putting off of the body of the sins of the flesh in the circumcision of the Christ, ¹²buried with him in the baptism, in which ye rose with him by the faith of the working of God, who raised him from the dead.

¹³And you—being dead in the trespasses and the uncircumcision of your flesh—He made alive together with him, having forgiven you all the trespasses, ¹⁴having blotted out the handwriting in the ordinances which is against us, which was contrary to us, and he took it out of the way, having nailed it to the cross: ¹⁵having stripped the principalities and the authorities, he made a shew of them openly—having triumphed over them in it.

¹⁶Let no one, then, judge you in eating or in drinking, or in respect of a feast, or of a new moon, or of sabbaths, ¹⁷which are a shadow of the coming things, but the body is of the Christ; ¹⁸let no one beguile you, delighting in humble-mindedness and in worship of the messengers, intruding into the things he hath not seen, being vainly puffed by the mind of his flesh, ¹⁹and not holding the head, from which all the body—through the joints and bands gathering supply, and being knit together—increaseth with the increase of God.

²⁰If, then, ye died with the Christ from the rudiments of the world, why, as living in the world, are ye subject to ordinances? ²¹(thou mayest not touch, nor taste, nor handle,) ²²which are all for destruction with the using, after the commands and teachings of men, ²³which are, indeed, having a matter of wisdom in will-worship and humble-mindedness and neglecting of the body—not in any honour to the satisfying of the flesh.

III. ¹If, then, ye were raised with the Christ, the things above seek ye, where the Christ on the right hand of God is seated, ²the things above mind ye, not the things on the earth, ³for ye died, and your life hath been hid with the Christ in God; ⁴when the Christ—our life—may be manifested, then also we with him shall be manifested in glory.

⁵Put to death, then, your members which are upon the earth—whoredom, uncleanness, passions, evil desire, and the covetousness, which is idolatry—⁶because of which things cometh the anger of God upon the sons of disobedience, ⁷in which also ye—ye walked once, when ye lived in them; ⁸but now put off, even ye, all these: anger, wrath, malice, evil-speaking, filthy talking out of your mouth.

⁹Lie not to one another, having put off the old man with his practices, ¹⁰and having put on the new man, which is renewed in knowledge, after the image of Him who created him; ¹¹where there is not Greek and Jew, circumcision and uncircumcision, barbarian, Scythian, servant, freeman—but all and in all—Christ.

¹²Put on, therefore, as the chosen of God, holy and beloved, bowels of mercies, kindness, humble-mindedness, meekness, long-suffering, ¹³forbearing one another, and forgiving each other: if any one with any one may have a quarrel, as also the Christ forgave you—so also ye; ¹⁴but, above all these things, have love, which is the band of the perfection, ¹⁵and let the peace of God rule in your hearts, to which also ye were called in one body, and be thankful.

¹⁶Let the word of the Christ dwell in you richly, in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing each other, in psalms, and hymns, and spiritual songs, in grace singing in your heart to the Lord; ¹⁷and all, whatsoever ye may do in word or in work, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus—giving thanks to God, even the Father, by him.

¹⁸Wives! be subject to your own husbands, as is fit in the Lord; ¹⁹husbands! love your wives, and be not bitter to them; ²⁰children! obey the parents in all things, for this is well-pleasing to the Lord; ²¹fathers! provoke not your children, lest they be discouraged.

²²Servants! obey in all things those who are masters according to the flesh, not in eye-service as men-pleasers, but in simplicity of heart, fearing God; ²³and all, whatever ye may do—out of the heart do—as to the Lord, and not to men, ²⁴knowing that from the Lord ye shall receive the recompense of the inheritance—for the Lord Christ ye serve; ²⁵he who is doing unrighteousness shall receive what he unrighteously did, and there is no acceptance of persons.

IV. ¹MASTERS! that which is righteous and equal to the servants give ye, knowing that ye also have a Master in the heavens.

²In prayer continue ye, watching in it in thanksgiving; ³praying at the same time also for us, that God may open to us a door for the word, to speak the mystery of the Christ, because of which also I have been bound, ⁴that I may manifest it, as it becometh me, to speak it; ⁵in wisdom walk ye towards those without, the time redeeming; ⁶your word always in grace—with salt seasoned—to know how it becometh you to answer each one.

⁷All the things concerning me make known to you shall Tychicus—the beloved brother, and faithful ministrant, and fellow-servant in the Lord—⁸whom I sent to you for this very thing, that he might know the things concerning you, and might comfort your hearts, ⁹with Onesimus, the faithful and beloved brother, who is of you; all things to you shall they make known which are here.

¹⁰Salute you doth Aristarchus, my fellow-prisoner, and Marcus, the nephew of Barnabas, (concerning whom ye received commands—if he may come to you, receive him,) ¹¹and Jesus who is called Justus, who are of the circumcision: these only are fellow-workers for the reign of God, who became a comfort to me.

¹²Salute you doth Epaphras, who is of you, a servant of Christ, always striving for you, in the prayers, that ye may stand perfect and complete in all the will of God, ¹³for I testify to him that he hath much zeal for you, and those in Laodicea, and those in Hierapolis.

¹⁴Salute you doth Lukas, the beloved physician, and Demas; ¹⁵salute ye those in Laodicea—brethren, and Nymphas, and the assembly in his house; ¹⁶and when the epistle may be read with you, cause that also in the assembly of the Laodiceans it may be read, and that from Laodicea that also may ye read; ¹⁷and say to Archippus, 'See to the ministrations thou didst receive in the Lord, that thou mayest fulfil it.'

¹⁸The salutation by the hand of me, Paul; remember my bonds; grace be with you. Amen.

FIRST THESSALONIANS.

CHAP. I. ¹PAUL, and Silvanus, and Timotheus, to the assembly of the Thessalonians in God the Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ: Grace to you, and peace, from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ!

²We give thanks to God always for you all, making mention of you in our prayers, ³unceasingly remembering of you the work of the faith, and the labour of the love, and the endurance of the hope, of our Lord Jesus Christ, in the presence of God even our Father, ⁴knowing, brethren beloved, by God your election, ⁵because our good news came not to you in word only, but also in power, and in the Holy Spirit, and in much assurance, even as ye have known of what sort we became among you because of you, ⁶and ye—ye became imitators of us, and of the Lord, having received the word in much tribulation, with joy of the Holy Spirit, ⁷so that ye became patterns to all those believing in Macedonia and Achaia, ⁸for from you hath sounded out the word of the Lord, not only in Macedonia and Achaia, but also in every place your faith toward God went out, so that we have no need to say anything, ⁹for they themselves concerning us declare what entrance we had to you, and how ye turned to God from the idols, to serve the living and true God, ¹⁰and to wait for His Son from the heavens, whom He raised from the dead—Jesus, who is rescuing us from the anger that is coming.

II. ¹FOR yourselves have known, brethren, our entrance into you, that it became not vain, ²but having both suffered before, and been injuriously treated (as ye have known) in Philippi, we were bold in our God to speak to you the good news of God in much conflict, ³for our exhortation is not of deceit, nor of uncleanness, nor in guile, ⁴but as we have been approved by God to be entrusted with the good news, so we speak, not as pleasing men, but God, who is proving our hearts, ⁵for at no time did we come with words of flattery, as ye have known, nor in a pretext for covetousness, (God is witness!) ⁶nor seeking of men glory, neither of you nor of others, being able to be burdensome, as Christ's apostles.

⁷But we were gentle in your midst, as a nurse may cherish her own children, ⁸so being desirous of you, we are willing to impart to you not only the good news of God, but also our own souls, because beloved ye have become to us, ⁹for ye remember, brethren, our labour and travail, for night and day labouring not to be a burden upon any of you—we preached to you the good news of God; ¹⁰ye are witnesses, God also, how kindly, and righteously, and blamelessly to you who believe we were, ¹¹even as ye have known, how each one of you, as a father his own children, we are exhorting you, and comforting, and testifying, ¹²for your walking worthily of God, who is calling you to His own reign and glory.

¹³Because of this also, we—we give thanks to God continually, that, having received a word of hearing from us of God, ye accepted it not as the word of man, but as it is truly, the word of God, who also worketh in you who believe; ¹⁴for ye became imitators, brethren, of the assemblies of God which are in Judea in Christ Jesus, because such things ye suffered, even ye, from your own countrymen, as even they from the Jews, ¹⁵who both put to death the Lord Jesus and their own prophets, and persecuted us, and God they are not pleasing, and to all men are contrary, ¹⁶forbidding us to speak to the nations that they might be saved, to fill up their sins always, but the anger came on them to the end.

¹⁷But we, brethren, having been taken from you for the space of an hour, in presence not in heart, hastened the more abundantly to see your face in much desire, ¹⁸wherefore we wished to come to you, (I indeed Paul,) both once and again, and the Adversary hindered us: ¹⁹for what is our hope, or joy, or crown of rejoicing? are not even ye in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ in his coming? for ye are our glory and joy.

III. ¹WHEREFORE no longer forbearing, we thought good to be left in Athens alone, ²and sent Timotheus, our brother and a ministrant of God, and our fellow-workman in the good news of the Christ, to establish you and to comfort you concerning your faith, ³that no one be moved in these tribulations, for yourselves have known that for this we are set, ⁴for even when we were with you, we said to you before that we are about to suffer tribulation, as also it came to pass, and ye have known it; ⁵because of this also, I, no longer forbearing, sent to know your faith, lest somehow he who is tempting did tempt you, and in vain may be our labour.

⁶But now Timotheus having come to us from you, and having declared the good news to us of your faith and love, and that ye have good remembrance of us always, desiring much to see us, as we also to see you, ⁷because of this we were comforted, brethren, over you, in all our tribulation and necessity, through your faith, ⁸because now we live, if ye stand fast in the Lord; ⁹for what thanks are we able to recompense to God for you, for all the joy with which we joy because of you in the presence of our God? ¹⁰night and day exceedingly beseeching, that we might see your face, and perfect the things lacking in your faith.

¹¹ But may God himself, even our Father, and our Lord Jesus Christ, direct our way to you, ¹² and you may the Lord cause to increase and to abound in love to one another, and to all, even as we also to you, ¹³ to establish your hearts blameless in holiness in the presence of God, even our Father, in the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ with all His saints.

IV. ¹ AS to the rest, then, brethren, we request you, and exhort in the Lord Jesus, as ye received from us how it behoveth you to walk and to please God, that ye may abound the more, ² for ye have known what commands we gave you through the Lord Jesus, ³ for this is the will of God—your sanctification, that ye abstain from whoredom; ⁴ that each of you know his own vessel to possess in sanctification and honour, ⁵ not in the affection of desire, as also the nations that are not knowing God, ⁶ that one go not beyond and defraud in the matter his brother, because an avenger is the Lord of all these, as also we spake before to you and testified, ⁷ for God called us not on uncleanness, but in sanctification; ⁸ he therefore who is despising—doth not despise man, but God, who also gave His Holy Spirit to us.

⁹ But concerning the brotherly love, ye have no need of my writing to you, for ye yourselves are taught of God to love one another, ¹⁰ for ye do it even to all the brethren who are in all Macedonia: but we entreat you, brethren, to abound the more, ¹¹ and to study to be quiet, and to do your own business, and to work with your own hands, as we commanded you, ¹² that ye may walk becomingly to those without, and may have lack of nothing.

¹³ But I do not wish you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning those who have fallen asleep, that ye may not sorrow, as also the rest who have not hope, ¹⁴ for if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, so also God those who slept through Jesus will bring with him, ¹⁵ for this to you we say in the word of the Lord, that we who are living—who remain over to the coming of the Lord—may not precede those asleep, ¹⁶ because the Lord himself, in a shout, in the voice of a chief-messenger, and in the trumpet of God, shall come down from heaven, and the dead in Christ shall rise first, ¹⁷ then we who are living, who remain over, together with them shall be caught away in clouds to meet the Lord in the air, and so always with the Lord we shall be; ¹⁸ so, then, comfort ye one another in these words.

V. ¹ BUT concerning the time and the seasons, brethren, ye have no need of my writing to you, ² for yourselves have known exactly that the day of the Lord as a thief in the night so cometh, ³ for when they may say, Peace and surely, then sudden destruction standeth by them, as the travail doth her who is with child, and they shall not escape; ⁴ but ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that the day may overtake you as a thief; ⁵ all ye are sons of light, and sons of day, we are not of night, nor of darkness, ⁶ so, then, let us not sleep as also the others, but let us watch and be sober, ⁷ for those who sleep, by night do sleep, and those who make themselves drunken, are drunken by night, ⁸ but we who are of the day—let us be sober, putting on a breastplate of faith and love, and an helmet—the hope of salvation, ⁹ because God did not appoint us to anger, but for the obtaining of salvation, through our Lord Jesus Christ, ¹⁰ who died for us, that whether we wake—whether we sleep—together with him we may live: ¹¹ wherefore, comfort ye one another, and build up one another, as also ye do.

¹² But we ask you, brethren, to know those who labour among you, and preside over you in the Lord, and admonish you, ¹³ and to esteem them very abundantly in love, because of their work; be at peace among yourselves: ¹⁴ but we exhort you, brethren, admonish the disorderly, comfort the feeble-minded, support the infirm, be patient to all; ¹⁵ see, let no one evil for evil render to any, but always that which is good pursue ye, both to one another and to all; ¹⁶ always rejoice ye; ¹⁷ continually pray ye; ¹⁸ in every thing give thanks, for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus in regard to you.

¹⁹ The Spirit quench not; ²⁰ prophesying despire not; ²¹ all things prove; that which is good hold fast; ²² from all appearance of evil abstain ye; ²³ but the God of peace Himself sanctify you wholly, and may your whole spirit and soul and body be preserved unblameably in the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ; ²⁴ faithful is He who is calling you, who also will do it.

²⁵ Brethren, pray for us; ²⁶ salute all the brethren in an holy kiss; ²⁷ I charge you by the Lord, that the letter be read to all the holy brethren; ²⁸ the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you! Amen.

SECOND THESSALONIANS.

CHAP. I. ¹PAUL, and Silvanus, and Timotheus, to the assembly of the Thessalonians in God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ: ²Grace to you, and peace, from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ!

³We ought to give thanks to God always for you, brethren, as it is meet, because increase greatly doth your faith, and abound doth the love of each one of you all, to one another; ⁴so that we ourselves glory in you in the assemblies of God, for your endurance, and faith, in all your persecutions and tribulations which ye bear, ⁵a token of the righteous judgment of God, for your being counted worthy of the kingdom of God, for which ye also suffer, ⁶since it is a righteous thing with God to recompense to those troubling you—trouble, ⁷and to you who are troubled—rest with us, in the revelation of the Lord Jesus from heaven, with the messengers of his power, ⁸in flaming fire, giving vengeance to those who know not God, and to those who obey not the good news of our Lord Jesus Christ; ⁹who shall suffer justice—destruction age-during—from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his strength, ¹⁰when he may come to be glorified in his saints, and to be wondered at in all those believing (because our testimony was believed among you) in that day; ¹¹for which also we pray always for you, that our God may count you worthy of the calling, and may fulfil all the good pleasure of goodness, and the work of faith in power, ¹²that the name of our Lord Jesus Christ may be glorified in you, and ye in him, according to the grace of our God and Lord Jesus Christ.

II. ¹BUT we ask you, brethren, in regard to the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, and our gathering together to him, ²that ye be not quickly shaken in mind, nor be troubled, neither through spirit, neither through word, neither through letters as through us, as that the day of Christ is near; ³let not any one deceive you in any manner; because—except the falling away may come first, and the man of sin may be revealed—the son of destruction, ⁴who is opposing and raising himself up above all called God or worshipped, so that he in the temple of God as God hath sat down, showing himself off that he is God—the day shall not come.

⁵Do ye not remember that, being yet with you, these things I said to you? ⁶and now, what is hindering ye have known, for his being revealed in his own time, ⁷for the mystery of the lawlessness doth already work, only he who is hindering now will hinder—till he may be out of the way, ⁸and then revealed shall be the Lawless One, whom the Lord shall consume with the spirit of his mouth, and shall destroy with the appearance of his coming, ⁹him, whose coming is according to the working of the Adversary, in all power, and signs, and lying wonders, ¹⁰and in all the deceitfulness of the unrighteousness in those perishing, because the love of the truth they received not for their being saved, ¹¹and because of this shall God send to them the working of delusion, for their believing the lie, ¹²that they may be judged—all who believed not the truth, but were well pleased in the unrighteousness.

¹³But we—we ought to give thanks to God always for you, brethren beloved by the Lord, that God chose you from the beginning to salvation, in sanctification of the Spirit, and belief of the truth, ¹⁴to which He called you through our good news, to the acquiring of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ; ¹⁵so, then, brethren, stand fast, and hold the deliverances which ye have been taught, whether through word, whether through our letter: ¹⁶but may our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and God, even our Father, who loved us, and gave age-during comfort, and good hope in grace, ¹⁷comfort your hearts, and establish you in every good word and work.

III. ¹AS to the rest, pray ye, brethren, concerning us, that the word of the Lord may run and may be glorified, as also with you; ²and that we may be delivered from the unreasonable and evil men, for the faith is not of all; ³but faithful is the Lord, who shall establish you, and guard you from the evil, ⁴but we have confidence in the Lord touching you, that the things which we command you ye both do and will do; ⁵but may the Lord direct your hearts into the love of God, and into the endurance of the Christ.

⁶But we command you, brethren, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, to withdraw yourselves from every brother disorderly walking, and not after the deliverance which ye received from us, ⁷for yourselves have known how it becometh you to imitate us, because we acted not disorderly among you; ⁸nor for nought did we eat the bread of any one, but in labour and travail, night and day working not to be chargeable to any of you, ⁹not because we have not authority, but that ourselves a pattern we might give to you, to imitate us; ¹⁰for even when we were with you, this we commanded you, that if any one is not willing to work, neither may he eat, ¹¹for we hear of certain walking among you disorderly, nothing doing, but over-doing, ¹²but such we command and exhort through our Lord Jesus Christ, that with quietness working, their own bread they may eat, ¹³but ye, brethren, be not weary doing well, ¹⁴but if any one obey not our word through the letter, this one note ye, and have no company with him, that he may be ashamed, ¹⁵and as an enemy count him not, but admonish ye him as a brother; ¹⁶but may the Lord of peace Himself give to you the peace always in every way: the Lord be with you all!

¹⁷The salutation by the hand of me, Paul, which is a sign in every letter: thus I write: ¹⁸the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all! Amen.

FIRST TIMOTHY.

CHAP. I. ¹PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ, according to the command of God our Saviour, and of the Lord Jesus Christ our hope, ²to Timotheus, to the genuine son in the faith: Grace, kindness, peace, from God our Father, and Christ Jesus our Lord, ³according as I exhorted thee to remain in Ephesus—I going on to Macedonia—that thou mightest charge certain to teach no other thing, ⁴nor to give heed to fables and endless genealogies, which cause questions rather than the building up of God, which is in faith.

⁵But the end of the command is love out of a pure heart, and of a good conscience, and of faith unfeigned, ⁶from which certain having swerved, turned aside to vain discourse, ⁷willing to be teachers of law, not understanding either the things they say, nor concerning what they asseverate, ⁸but we have known that the law is good, if any one use it lawfully; ⁹having known this, that for a righteous man law is not set, but for lawless and insubordinate persons, ungodly and sinners, impious and profane, paricides, matricides, man-slayers, ¹⁰whoremongers, sodomites, men-stealers, liars, persecuted persons, and if there be any other thing which to sound doctrine is adverse, ¹¹according to the good news of the glory of the blessed God, with which I was entrusted.

¹²And I give thanks to him who enabled me—Christ Jesus our Lord—that he reckoned me faithful, having put me into the ministry, ¹³who before was speaking evil, and persecuting, and contumelious, but I found kindness, because being ignorant, I did it in unbelief, ¹⁴but exceedingly abound did the grace of our Lord with faith and love which is in Christ Jesus: ¹⁵faithful is the word, and of all acceptation worthy, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners—first of whom am I; ¹⁶but because of this I found kindness, that in me first Jesus Christ might shew forth all long-suffering, for a pattern of those about to believe in him to life age-during: ¹⁷but to the King of the ages, to the incorruptible, invisible, only wise God, is honour and glory—to the ages of the ages! Amen.

¹⁸This charge I commit to thee, son Timotheus, according to the prophecies that went before on thee, that thou mayest war in them the good warfare, ¹⁹having faith and a good conscience, which certain having thrust away, concerning the faith made shipwreck, ²⁰of whom are Hymeneus and Alexander, whom I delivered to the Adversary, that they may be instructed not to speak evil.

II. ¹I EXHORT, then, first of all, there be made supplications, prayers, intercessions, thanksgivings, for all men: ²for kings, and all who are in authority, that a quiet and peaceable life we may lead in all godliness and gravity, ³for this is right and acceptable in the presence of God our Saviour, ⁴who willeth all men to be saved, and to come to the knowledge of the truth: ⁵for one is God, one also is the mediator of God and of men, the man Christ Jesus, ⁶who gave himself a ransom for all—the testimony at its own seasons—⁷in regard to which I was appointed a preacher and an apostle—truth I say in Christ, I lie not—a teacher of nations, in faith and truth.

⁸I wish, therefore, that men pray in every place, lifting up pious hands, apart from anger and reasoning: ⁹in like manner also the women, in becoming apparel, with reverence and sobriety to adorn themselves, not in braided hair, or gold, or pearls, or garments of great price, ¹⁰but—which becometh women professing godliness—through good works.

¹¹Let a woman in quietness learn in all subjection; ¹²but a woman I suffer not to teach, nor to rule a husband, but to be in quietness, ¹³for Adam was first formed, then Eve; ¹⁴and Adam was not deceived, but the woman, having been deceived, into transgression came; ¹⁵but she shall be saved through the child-bearing, if they remain in faith, and love, and holiness with sobriety.

III. ¹FAITHFUL is the word: if any one the office of an overseer doth aim at, a right work he desireth; ²it behoveth, therefore, the overseer to be blameless, of one wife a husband, vigilant, sober, decent, a friend of strangers, apt to teach, ³not given to wine, not a striker, not given to filthy lucre, but gentle, not contentious, not a lover of money, ⁴his own house ruling well, having children in subjection with all gravity, ⁵(but if any one his own house how to rule hath not known, how an assembly of God shall he take care of?) ⁶not a new convert, lest having been puffed up he may fall into the judgment of the devil; ⁷but it behoveth him also to have a good testimony from those without, lest he fall into reproach and a snare of the devil.

⁸Ministrants—in like manner grave, not double-tongued, not given to much wine, not given to filthy lucre, ⁹having the mystery of the faith in a pure conscience, ¹⁰but let these also first be proved, then let them minister, being unblameable.

¹¹Wives—in like manner grave, not false accusers, vigilant, faithful in all things.

¹²Ministrants—let them be of one wife husbands, the children ruling well, and their own houses, ¹³for those who ministered well a good degree to themselves do obtain, and much boldness in the faith which is in Christ Jesus.

¹⁴These things I write to thee, hoping to come to thee soon; ¹⁵but if I delay, that thou mayest know how it behoveth thee to conduct thyself in the house of God, which is the assembly of the living God, a pillar and foundation of the truth; ¹⁶and, confessedly, great is the mystery of godliness, God was manifested in flesh, declared righteous in spirit, seen by messengers, preached among nations, believed on in the world, taken up in glory.

IV. ¹BUT the Spirit expressly speaketh, that in the latter times shall certain fall away from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits and teachings of demons, ²in hypocrisy speaking lies, seared in their own conscience, ³forbidding to marry,—to abstain from meats which God created to be received with thanksgiving by those believing and acknowledging the truth, ⁴because every creature of God is good, and nothing is to be refused, with thanksgiving being received, ⁵for it is sanctified through the word of God and intercession.

⁶These things placing before the brethren, thou shalt be a good ministrant of Jesus Christ, nourished by the words of the faith, and of the good teaching, which thou hast followed out, ⁷but the profane and old women's fables reject, but exercise thyself to godliness, ⁸for the bodily exercise is to little profit, but the godliness is to all things profitable, a promise having of the life which now is, and of that which is coming: ⁹faithful is the word, and of all acceptance worthy; ¹⁰for for this we both labour and are reproached, because we hope on the living God, who is Saviour of all men—especially of those believing.

¹¹Command these things, and teach: ¹²let no one despise thy youth, but a pattern become thou of the believers in word, in behaviour, in love, in spirit, in faith, in purity; ¹³till I come, give heed to the reading, to the exhortation, to the teaching: ¹⁴be not careless of the gift that is in thee, which was given thee through prophecy, with the laying on of the hands of the eldership; ¹⁵of these things be careful: in these things be, that thy advancement may be manifest in all things; ¹⁶take heed to thyself and to the teaching: remain in them, for this thing doing, both thyself thou shalt save, and those hearing thee.

V. ¹AN aged person thou mayest not rebuke, but do thou entreat as a father; younger persons as brethren; ²aged women as mothers, younger ones as sisters—in all purity; ³honour widows who are really widows; ⁴but if any widow have children or grandchildren, let them learn first at their own home to show godliness, and to give back a recompense to the parents, for this is right and acceptable in the presence of God.

⁵But she who is really a widow and desolate, hath hoped on God, and remaineth in supplications and in prayers night and day; ⁶but she who is given to luxury, living—hath died; ⁷and these things give in charge, that they may be blameless: ⁸but if any one for his own—and especially for those of the household—provide not, the faith he hath denied, and than an unbeliever he is worse.

⁹A widow—let her not be enrolled under sixty years of age, having been the wife of one husband, ¹⁰in good works being testified to: if she brought up children, if she entertained strangers, if saints' feet she washed, if those in tribulation she relieved, if every good work she followed after: ¹¹but younger widows refuse, for when they may revel against the Christ, they are wishing to marry, ¹²having judgment, because the first faith they did cast away, ¹³and also at the same time they learn to be idle, going about houses, and not only idle, but also tattlers and busybodies, speaking the things they ought not; ¹⁴I wish, therefore, younger ones to marry, to bear children, to be mistress of the house, to give no occasion to the opposer on account of reviling; ¹⁵for already certain turned aside after the Adversary. ¹⁶If any believing man or woman have widows, let them relieve them, and let not the assembly be burdened, that those really widows it may relieve.

¹⁷The elders who are presiding well, of double honour let them be counted worthy, especially those labouring in word and teaching, ¹⁸for the writing saith, 'An ox treading out thou shalt not muzzle,' and 'Worthy is the labourer of his reward.' ¹⁹Against an elder an accusation receive not, except upon two or three witnesses. ²⁰Those sinning, reprove before all, that the others also may have fear; ²¹I testify fully, in the presence of God and the Lord Jesus Christ, and the chosen messengers, that these things thou mayest keep, without forejudging, doing nothing by partiality.

²²Be laying hands quickly on no one, nor be having fellowship with the sins of others: be keeping thyself pure; ²³no longer be drinking water, but a little wine be using, because of thy stomach and of thine often infirmities; ²⁴of certain men the sins are manifest beforehand, leading before to judgment, but certain also they follow after: ²⁵in like manner also the right works are manifest beforehand, and those that are otherwise are not able to be hid.

VI. ¹AS many as are servants under the yoke, their own masters worthy of all honour let them reckon, that the name of God and the teaching may not be evil spoken of; ²but those having believing masters, let them not despise them, because they are brethren, but rather serve, because they are faithful and beloved, who of the benefit are receiving again.

These things teach and exhort: ³if any one teach otherwise, and consent not to sound words—those of our Lord Jesus Christ—and to the teaching according to godliness, ⁴he is proud, knowing nothing, but doting about questions and word-striving, out of which cometh envy, strife, evil-speakings, evil surmisings, wranglings of men wholly corrupted in mind, and destitute of the truth, supposing godliness to be gain; depart from such; ⁵but it is great gain—godliness with contentment; ⁶for nothing did we bring into the world—it is manifest that we are able to carry nothing out; ⁷but having food and raiment—with these we shall suffice ourselves; ⁸but those wishing to be rich, do fall into temptation and a snare, and many desires, foolish and hurtful, which sink men into ruin and destruction; ¹⁰for a root of all evils is the love of money, which certain desiring eagerly did go astray from the faith, and themselves pierced through with many sorrows; ¹¹but thou, O man of God, these things flee, but pursue righteousness, godliness, faith, love, endurance, meekness; ¹²be striving the good strife of faith, be laying hold on age-during life, to which also thou wast called, and hast professed the right profession in the presence of many witnesses.

¹³I charge thee in the presence of God, who is making all things alive, and of Christ Jesus, who testified before Pontius Pilate the right profession, ¹⁴that thou keep the command unspotted, unblameable, till the manifestation of our Lord Jesus Christ, ¹⁵which in his own times he shall shew—the blessed and only potentate, the King of the kings, and Lord of the lords, ¹⁶who only is having immortality, dwelling in light unapproachable, whom no one of men saw, nor is able to see, to whom is honour and might age-during! Amen.

¹⁷Those rich in the present age charge not to be high-minded, nor to hope in the uncertainty of riches, but in the living God, who is giving to us richly all things to enjoy;—¹⁸to do good, to be rich in good works, to be ready to impart, willing to communicate, ¹⁹treasuring up to themselves a right foundation against the time to come, that they may lay hold on the age-during life.

²⁰O Timotheus, the thing entrusted guard, avoiding the profane vain words and oppositions of the falsely-named knowledge, ²¹which certain professing—in regard to the faith did swerve; the grace be with you. Amen.

SECOND TIMOTHY

CHAP. I. ¹PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ, through the will of God, according to the promise of life which is in Christ Jesus, ²to Timotheus, the beloved child: Grace, kindness, peace, from God the Father, and Christ Jesus our Lord!

³I am thankful to God, whom I serve from the progenitors in a pure conscience, that unceasingly I have remembrance concerning thee in my supplications night and day, ⁴desiring greatly to see thee, being mindful of thy tears, that with joy I may be filled, ⁵taking remembrance of the unfeigned faith that is in thee, which dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and thy mother Eunice, but I am persuaded that also in thee.

⁶For which cause I remind thee to stir up the gift of God which is in thee through the putting on of my hands, ⁷for God gave us not a spirit of fear, but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind; ⁸therefore thou mayest not be ashamed of the testimony of our Lord, nor of me his prisoner, but do thou suffer evil along with the good news according to the power of God, ⁹who saved us, and called with an holy calling, not according to our works, but according to His own purpose and grace, which was given to us in Christ Jesus, before the times of the ages, ¹⁰but made manifest now through the manifestation of our Saviour Jesus Christ, who abolished death, but who enlightened life and immortality through the good news, ¹¹unto which I was placed a preacher and an apostle, and a teacher of nations, ¹²for which cause also these things I suffer, but I am not ashamed, for I have known in whom I have believed, and have been persuaded that he is able that which I have committed to him to guard—to that day.

¹³The pattern hold of sound words, which from me thou didst hear, in faith and love which is in Christ Jesus, ¹⁴the good thing committed guard through the Holy Spirit which is dwelling in us; ¹⁵thou hast known this, that they turned from me—all those in Asia, of whom are Phygellus and Hermogenes, ¹⁶may the Lord give kindness to the house of Onesiphorus, because many times he refreshed me, and of my chain was not ashamed, ¹⁷but being in Rome, very diligently he sought me, and found; ¹⁸may the Lord give to him to find kindness from the Lord in that day; and how many things in Ephesus he ministered thou very well knowest.

II. ¹THOU, therefore, my child, be strong in the grace which is in Christ Jesus, ²and the things which thou didst hear from me through many witnesses, these things be committing to faithful men, who shall be sufficient also others to teach; ³thou, therefore, suffer evil as a good soldier of Jesus Christ; ⁴no one serving as a soldier entangleth himself with the affairs of life, that him who enlisted him he may please; ⁵but if also any one may strive, he is not crowned, except he strive lawfully; ⁶the labouring husbandman it behoveth first of the fruits to be partaker. ⁷Be considering what things I say, for the Lord give to thee understanding in all things.

⁸Remember Jesus Christ, raised from the dead, of the seed of David, according to my good news, ⁹in which I suffer evil—unto bonds, as an evil-doer, but the word of God hath not been bound; ¹⁰because of this all things do I endure, because of the chosen, that they also salvation may obtain which is in Christ Jesus, with the glory age-during. ¹¹Faithful is the word: for if we died together—we also shall live together; ¹²if we endure together—we shall also reign together: if we deny him, he also shall deny us; ¹³if we are not faithful, he remaineth faithful; to deny himself he is not able.

¹⁴These things remind them of, testifying fully in the presence of the Lord—not to strive about words to no profit, but to the subversion of those hearing; ¹² be diligent to present thyself approved to God—a workman irreproachable, rightly dividing the word of truth; ¹³ but the profane vain talkings stand aloof from, for to more ungodliness they will advance, ¹⁴ and their word as a gangrene will have pasture, of whom is Hymeneus and Philetus, ¹⁵ who concerning the truth did swerve, saying the rising again to have already been, and overthrow the faith of some; ¹⁶ sure, nevertheless, doth the foundation of God stand, having this seal, 'The Lord hath known those who are His,' and 'Let him depart from unrighteousness—every one who is naming the name of Christ.'

¹⁷ But, in a great house there are not only vessels of gold and of silver, but also of wood and of earth, and some to honour, but some to dishonour; ¹⁸ if, then, any one may cleanse himself from these, he shall be a vessel to honour, sanctified and profitable to the master—to every good work prepared, ¹⁹ but the youthful lusts flee ye, but pursue righteousness, faith, love, peace, with those who are calling on the Lord out of a pure heart; ²⁰ but the foolish and unlearned questions be avoiding, having known that they beget strife; ²¹ but a servant of the Lord it becometh not to strive, but to be gentle to all, apt to teach, patient under evil, ²² in meekness instructing those who are opposing—perhaps God may give to them repentance to the acknowledging of truth, ²³ and they may recover themselves out of the devil's snare, having been caught by him, at his will.

III. ¹ BUT this know, that in the last days there shall come perilous times, ² for men shall be lovers of themselves, lovers of money, boasters, proud, evil-speakers, to parents disobedient, unthankful, unkind, ³ without natural affection, implacable, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, not lovers of those who are good, ⁴ traitors, heady, lofty, lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God, ⁵ having a form of godliness, but its power having denied; and from these be turning away, ⁶ for of these there are those who come into the houses and captivate the silly women, laden with sins, led away with desires manifold, ⁷ always learning, and never to the knowledge of truth able to come, ⁸ (but even as Jannes and Jambres stood against Moses, so these also do stand against the truth,) men corrupted in mind, disapproved concerning the faith; ⁹ but they shall not advance any further, for their folly shall be manifest to all, as theirs also became.

¹⁰ But thou—thou hast followed after my teaching, manner of life, purpose, faith, long-suffering, love, endurance, ¹¹ the persecutions, the afflictions, which befel me in Antioch, in Iconium, in Lystra; what persecutions I endured, and out of all the Lord delivered me, ¹² but all also who will to live godly in Christ Jesus shall be persecuted, ¹³ but evil men and impostors shall advance to the worse, leading astray and being led astray.

¹⁴ But thou—remain thou in the things which thou didst learn and wast assured of, having known from whom thou didst learn, ¹⁵ and that from a babe the Holy Writings thou hast known, which are able to make thee wise to salvation, through faith that is in Christ Jesus: ¹⁶ every writing is God-inspired and profitable for teaching, for conviction, for setting aright, for instruction which is in righteousness, ¹⁷ that the man of God may be perfect—to every good work complete.

IV. ¹ I FULLY testify, then, in the presence of God, and of the Lord Jesus Christ, who is about to judge living and dead at his manifestation and his reign—² preach the word; be earnest in season, out of season, reprove, rebuke, exhort, in all long-suffering and teaching, ³ for there shall be a season when the sound teaching they will not suffer, but according to their own desires to themselves shall they heap up teachers—itching in the hearing, ⁴ and, indeed, from the truth the hearing they shall turn away, but to fables shall they be turned aside.

⁵ But thou—watch in all things; suffer evil; do the work of one proclaiming the good news; of thy ministration make full assurance, ⁶ for I am already being poured out, and the time of my release hath arrived; ⁷ the good strife I have striven, the course I have finished, the faith I have kept, ⁸ henceforth there is laid up for me the crown of righteousness, which the Lord—the Righteous Judge—shall give to me in that day; and not only to me, but also to all those who love his manifestation.

⁹ Be diligent to come to me quickly, ¹⁰ for Demas forsook me—having loved the present age—and proceeded to Thessalonica, Crescens to Galatia, Titus to Dalmatia, ¹¹ Lukas only is with me; Markus having taken, bring with thyself, for he is profitable to me for ministration; ¹² but Tychicus I sent to Ephesus; ¹³ the cloak which I left in Troas with Carpus, coming, bring thou, and the books—especially the parchments.

¹⁴ Alexander the coppersmith did me much evil; may the Lord repay to him according to his works, ¹⁵ of whom also beware, for greatly hath he stood against our words; ¹⁶ in my first defence no one stood with me, but all forsook me, (may it not be reckoned to them!) ¹⁷ but the Lord stood by me, and strengthened me, that through me the preaching might be fully assured, and all the nations might hear, and I was freed out of the mouth of a lion, ¹⁸ and the Lord shall free me from every evil work, and shall save me for His heavenly kingdom; to whom is the glory to the ages of the ages! Amen.

¹⁹ Salute Prisca and Aquilas, and Onesiphorus's household: ²⁰ Erastus remained in Corinth, but Trophimus I left in Miletus infirm; ²¹ be diligent to come before winter.

Salute thee doth Eubulus, and Pudens, and Linus, and Claudia, and all the brethren.

²² The Lord Jesus Christ be with thy spirit—the grace be with you! Amen.

TITUS.

CHAP. I. ¹PAUL, a servant of God, but an apostle of Jesus Christ, according to the faith of the chosen of God, and the acknowledging of truth which is according to godliness, ²in hope of life age-during, which God, who doth not lie, promised before the times of the ages, ³(but who manifested in His own times His word,) in preaching, which I was entrusted with, according to the charge of God our Saviour, ⁴to Titus, the genuine child according to the common faith: Grace, kindness, peace, from God the Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ our Saviour.

⁵For this cause left I thee in Crete, that the things lacking thou mayest set in order, and mayest set down in every city elders, as I appointed to thee; ⁶if any one is blameless, of one wife a husband, having children faithful, not under accusation of riotously living or insubordinate—⁷for it becometh the overseer to be blameless, as God's steward, not self-willed, nor irascible, not given to wine, not a striker, not given to filthy lucre; ⁸but a lover of strangers, a lover of good men, sober, righteous, kind, self-controlled, ⁹holding, according to the teaching, to the faithful word, that he may be able both to exhort in the sound teaching, and the gainsayers to convince; ¹⁰for there are many both insubordinate, vain-talkers, and mind-deceivers, especially they of the circumcision, ¹¹whose mouth it becometh to stop, who whole households overturn, teaching what it becometh not, for filthy lucre's sake.

¹²A certain one of them, a prophet of their own, said—"Cretans! always liars, evil beasts, lazy bellies!" ¹³this testimony is true; for which cause reprove them sharply, that they may be sound in the faith, ¹⁴not giving heed to Jewish fables, and commands of men, turning themselves away from the truth; ¹⁵all things, indeed, are pure to the pure, but to the defiled and unbelieving is nothing pure, but to them defiled are both the mind and the conscience; ¹⁶God they profess to know, but in works they deny Him, being abominable, and disobedient, and to every good work disapproved.

II. ¹BUT thou—be speaking what becometh the sound teaching; ²aged men to be temperate, grave, sober-minded, sound in the faith, in the love, in the endurance; ³aged women, in like manner, in deportment, as becometh sacred persons, not false accusers, to much wine not enslaved, of good things teachers, ⁴that they may make the young women sober-minded, to be lovers of their husbands, lovers of their children, ⁵sober-minded, pure, keepers of their own houses, good, subject to their own husbands, that the word of God may not be evil spoken of.

⁶The young men, in like manner, be exhorting to be sober-minded; ⁷concerning all things showing thyself a pattern of good works; in the teaching, uncorruptedness, gravity, incorruptibility, ⁸discourse sound, uncondemnable, that he who is of the contrary part may be ashamed, having nothing evil to say concerning you.

⁹Exhort servants—to their own masters to be subject, in all things to be well-pleasing, not gainsaying, ¹⁰not purloining, but shewing all good faithfulness, that the teaching of God our Saviour they may adorn in all things.

¹¹For the saving grace of God was manifested to all men, ¹²teaching us, that denying the ungodliness and the worldly desires, soberly and righteously and godly we may live in the present age, ¹³waiting for the blessed hope and manifestation of the glory of the great God even our Saviour Jesus Christ, ¹⁴who gave himself for us, that he might ransom us from all lawlessness, and purify to himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works; ¹⁵these things be speaking, and exhorting, and reproving with all charge; let no one despise thee!

III. ¹REMAND them to be subject to principalities and authorities, to obey rule, to every good work to be ready, ²of no one to speak evil, not to be quarrelsome—gentle, shewing all meekness to all men, ³for we were once—even we—foolish, disobedient, led astray, serving desires and pleasures manifold, in malice and envy living, hateful—hating one another; ⁴but when the kindness and the love to men of God our Saviour appeared (⁵not by works which are in righteousness which we did, but according to His kindness,) He saved us, through the bathing of renovation, and the renewing of the Holy Spirit, ⁶which He poured on us richly, through Jesus Christ our Saviour, ⁷that having been declared righteous by His grace, heirs we may become according to the hope of life age-during. ⁸Faithful is the word; and concerning these things I wish thee to affirm fully, that they may be thoughtful, to be diligent in good works—who have believed God; these are the good and profitable things to men, ⁹but foolish questions, and genealogies, and contentions, and strivings about law, stand away from—for they are unprofitable and vain.

¹⁰A sectarian man after first and second admonition reject, ¹¹having known that he hath been subverted who is such, and doth sin, being self-condemned.

¹²When I shall send Artemas to thee, or Tychicus, be diligent to come to me to Nicopolis, for thence to winter I have determined. ¹³Zenas the lawyer and Apollos diligently send forward, that nothing to them may be lacking, ¹⁴but let them learn—ours also—to be diligent in good works for the necessary uses, that they may not be unfruitful.

¹⁵Salute thee do all those with me: salute those loving us in the faith; the grace be with you all! Amen.

HEBREWS.

CHAP. I. ¹IN many parts, and in many ways, God of old having spoken to the fathers in the prophets, ²in these last days spake to us in the Son, whom He appointed heir of all things, through whom also He made the ages; ³who being the brightness of the glory, and the Impress of His subsistence, bearing up also all things by the saying of His might—through himself having made a cleansing of our sins, sat down on the right hand of the greatness in the highest, ⁴having become so much better than the messengers, as he inherited a more excellent name than they.

⁵For to which of the messengers said He ever, 'My Son thou art—I to-day have begotten thee?' and again, 'I will be to him for a father, and he shall be to Me for a son?' ⁶and when again He bringeth in the first-born into the world, He saith, 'And let them bow before him—all the messengers of God;' ⁷and to the messengers, indeed, He saith, 'Who is making His messengers spirits, and His ministers a flame of fire;' ⁸but to the Son: 'Thy throne, O God, is to the age of the age; a sceptre of rightness is the sceptre of thy reign;' ⁹thou didst love righteousness, and didst hate lawlessness; because of this did He anoint thee—God, thy God—with the oil of gladness above thy partners; ¹⁰and, 'Thou, at the beginning, Lord, the earth didst found, and the work of Thy hands are the heavens; ¹¹these shall perish, but Thou remainest, and they shall all, as a garment, become old, ¹²and as a mantle shalt Thou roll them together, and they shall be changed, but Thou art the same, and Thy years shall not fail.'

¹³But to which of the messengers said He ever, 'Sit on My right hand, till I may make thine enemies thy footstool?' ¹⁴are they not all spirits of service—for ministration sent forth because of those who are about to inherit salvation?

II. ¹BECAUSE of this it becometh us more abundantly to take heed to the things heard, lest perhaps we may glide aside, ²for if the word spoken by messengers became steadfast, and every transgression and disobedience received a just recompense, ³how shall we escape, having neglected so great salvation? which a beginning receiving—to be spoken through the Lord—by those having heard was confirmed to us, ⁴God also bearing joint-witness with signs, and wonders, and manifold powers, and distributions of the Holy Spirit, according to His own will.

⁵For not to messengers did He subject the coming world, concerning which we speak, ⁶but one in a certain place testified fully, saying, 'What is man, that Thou art mindful of him, or son of man, that Thou dost look after him?' ⁷Thou didst make him some little less than the messengers, with glory and honour Thou didst crown him and didst set him over the works of Thy hands, ⁸all things Thou didst put in subjection under his feet,' for in the subjecting to him the all things, nothing He left to him unsubjected, but now not yet do we see the all things subjected, ⁹but him who was made some little less than the messengers we see—Jesus—because of the suffering of death, with glory and honour having been crowned, that by the grace of God for every one he might taste of death.

¹⁰For it was becoming to Him, because of whom are the all things, and through whom are the all things, many sons to glory bringing, the author of their salvation through suffering to make perfect, ¹¹for both he who is sanctifying and those sanctified are all of one, for which cause he is not ashamed to call them brethren, ¹²saying, 'I will declare Thy name to my brethren, in the midst of my assembly will I sing praise to Thee;' and again, 'I will be trusting in Him;' ¹³and again, 'Behold I and the children which God gave to me.'

¹⁴Seeing, then, the children have partaken of flesh and blood, he himself also in like manner took part of the same, that through death he might destroy him having the power of death—that is, the devil—¹⁵and might deliver such as, with fear of death, throughout all their life, were subjects of bondage, ¹⁶for verily of messengers it layeth not hold, but of the seed of Abraham it layeth hold, ¹⁷wherefore it behoved him in all things to be made like to the brethren, that he might become a kind and faithful chief-priest in the things pertaining to God, to make propitiation for the sins of the people, ¹⁸for in that he suffered himself, being tempted, he is able to help those who are tempted.

III. ¹WHEREFORE, holy brethren, partakers of a heavenly calling, consider the apostle and chief priest of our profession, Christ Jesus, ²being faithful to Him who appointed him, as also Moses in all his house, ³for of more glory than Moses hath this one been counted worthy, inasmuch as more honour than the house hath he who buildeth it, ⁴for every house is builded by some one, but He who the all things buildeth is God, ⁵and Moses indeed was faithful in all his house, as an attendant, for a testimony of those things that were to be spoken afterwards, ⁶but Christ, as a Son over his house, whose house are we, if the boldness and the rejoicing of the hope to the end we hold fast.

⁷Wherefore, as the Holy Spirit saith, 'To-day, if His voice ye may hear—⁸ye may not harden your hearts, as in the provocation, in the day of the temptation in the wilderness, ⁹in which tempt Me did your fathers, they proved Me, and saw My works forty years; ¹⁰wherefore I was grieved with that generation, and said, Always do they go astray in heart, and these have not known My ways, ¹¹so I swear in Mine anger, If they shall enter into My rest—'

¹²See, brethren, lest perhaps there shall be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief in the falling away from the living God, ¹³but exhort one another every day, while the To-day is spoken of, that none of you may be hardened by the deceitfulness of the sin, ¹⁴for partakers we have become of the Christ, if the beginning of our confidence unto the end we may hold fast, ¹⁵in its being said, 'To-day, if His voice ye may hear, ye may not harden your hearts, as in the provocation, ¹⁶for certain have heard did provoke, but not all who came out of Egypt through Moses; ¹⁷but with whom was He grieved forty years? was it not with those who sinned, whose carcases fell in the wilderness? ¹⁸and to whom sware He that they shall not enter into His rest, except to those who believed not?'—¹⁹and we see that they were not able to enter in because of unbelief.

IV. ¹LET us fear, then, lest perhaps a promise being left of entering into His rest, any one of you may seem to have come short, ²for we also have the good news proclaimed, even as they, but the word heard did not profit them, not being mixed with faith in those who heard, ³for we enter into the rest—we who believed, as He said, 'As I swear in Mine anger, If they shall enter into My rest—'; and yet the works were done from the foundation of the world, ⁴for He spake somewhere concerning the seventh day thus: 'And God rested in the seventh day from all His works;' ⁵and in this place again, 'If they shall enter into my rest—'; ⁶seeing, then, it remaineth that certain do enter into it, and those who first heard the good news entered not in because of unbelief—again He limiteth a certain day, 'To-day,' (in David saying after such a time,) as it hath been said, 'To-day, if His voice ye may hear, ye may not harden your hearts,' ⁸for if Joshua had given them rest, He would not concerning another day have spoken after these things: ⁹there remaineth, then, a sabbatic rest to the people of God, ¹⁰for he who entered into His rest, he also rested from his works, as God from His own.

¹¹Let us be diligent, then, to enter into that rest, that no one in the same example of unbelief may fall, ¹²for the reckoning of God is living, and working, and sharp above any two-edged sword, and piercing unto the dividing asunder both of soul and spirit, of joints also and marrow, and is a discernor of thoughts and intents of the heart, ¹³and there is not a created thing not manifest before Him, but all things are naked and open to His eyes—with whom is our reckoning.

¹⁴Having, then, a great chief priest passed through the heavens—Jesus the Son of God—let us hold fast the profession, ¹⁵for we have not a chief priest unable to sympathise with our infirmities, but one tempted in all things in like manner—apart from sin; ¹⁶we may come near, then, with boldness, to the throne of grace, that we may receive kindness, and may find grace—for reasonable help.

V. ¹FOR every chief priest—out of men taken—in behalf of men is set in things pertaining to God, that he may offer both gifts and sacrifices for sins, ²able to be gentle to those ignorant and going astray, seeing himself also is compassed with infirmity, ³and because of this infirmity he ought, as for the people, so also for himself to offer for sins, ⁴and no one to himself taketh this honour, but he who is called by God, as also Aaron; ⁵so also the Christ did not glorify himself to become chief priest, but He who spake to him: 'My Son thou art, I to-day have begotten thee:' ⁶as also in another place He saith, 'Thou art a priest—to the age after the order of Melchisedek;' ⁷who in the days of his flesh both prayers and supplications to Him who was able to save him from death—with strong crying and tears—having offered up, and having been heard for the devoutness, ⁸although being a Son, learned by the things he suffered—the obedience, ⁹and having been made perfect, he became to all those obeying him the cause of salvation age-during, ¹⁰having been addressed by God a chief priest, after the order of Melchisedek, ¹¹concerning whom we have much discourse and of hard explanation to say, seeing ye have become dull of hearing, ¹²for even owing to be teachers, because of the time, again ye have need that one teach you what are the elements of the beginning of the oracles of God, and ye have become having need of milk, and not of strong food, ¹³for every one who is partaking of milk is unskilled in the word of righteousness—for he is an infant, ¹⁴but of perfect men is the strong food, who through the use have the senses exercised, to the discernment both of good and of evil.

VI. ¹WHEREFORE, having left the word of the beginning of the Christ, unto the perfection let us advance, not again a foundation laying of reformation from dead works, and of faith on God, ²of the teaching of baptisms, of laying on also of hands, of rising again also of the dead, and of judgment age-during, ³and this will we do, if God may permit, ⁴for it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, who tasted also of the heavenly gift, and partakers became of the Holy Spirit, ⁵and tasted the good saying of God, the powers also of the coming age, ⁶and who fell away, again to renew them to reformation, crucifying again to themselves the Son of God, and exposing to public shame.

⁷For earth, which is drinking in the rain many times coming on it, and bringing forth herbs meet for those because of whom also it is dressed, partaketh of blessing from God; ⁸but that which is bearing thorns and briars is disapproved of, and near to cursing, whose end is for burning; ⁹but we are persuaded, concerning you, beloved, the things which are better and accompanying salvation, though even thus we speak, ¹⁰for

God is not unrighteous to forget your work, and the labour of the love, which ye shewed to His name, having ministered to the saints and ministering: ¹¹ but we desire each one of you the same diligence to shew, to the full assurance of the hope unto the end, ¹² that ye may not become slothful, but followers of those who by faith and patient endurance are inheriting the promises.

¹³ For to Abraham God having made promise, seeing he had no one greater to swear by, aware by Himself, ¹⁴ saying, 'Blessing indeed I will bless thee, and multiplying I will multiply thee;' ¹⁵ and so, having patiently endured, he obtained the promise: ¹⁶ for men indeed do swear by the greater, and an end of all controversy to them for confirmation is the oath, ¹⁷ in which God, more abundantly willing to shew to the heirs of the promise the immutability of His counsel, interposed by an oath, ¹⁸ that through two immutable things, in which it is impossible for God to lie, a strong comfort we may have who fled for refuge to lay hold on the hope set before us, ¹⁹ which we have, as an anchor of the soul, both sure and steadfast, and which is entering into that within the vail, ²⁰ whither a forerunner for us entered—Jesus, after the order of Melchisedek chief priest becoming to the age.

VII. ¹ FOR this Melchisedek, king of Salem, priest of God Most High, who met Abraham turning back from the smiting of the kings, and blessed him, ² to whom also a tenth of all Abraham divided, (first, indeed, being interpreted 'King of righteousness,' and then also, 'King of Salem, which is, King of Peace,') ³ without father, without mother, without genealogy, having neither beginning of days nor end of life, but being made like to the Son of God—remaineth a priest continually.

⁴ But see how great this one is, to whom also a tenth Abraham the patriarch gave out of the best of the spoils, ⁵ and those, indeed, of the sons of Levi receiving the priesthood, a command have to take tithes from the people according to the law, that is, their brethren, even though they have come out of the loins of Abraham; ⁶ but he who was not reckoned by genealogy of them, received tithes from Abraham, and him having the promises he hath blessed, ⁷ (but apart from all controversy, the less by the better is blessed,) ⁸ and here, indeed, men who die receive tithes, but there he, who is testified to that he liveth, ⁹ and so to speak, through Abraham even Levi who is receiving tithes, paid tithes, ¹⁰ for he was yet in the loins of his father when Melchisedek met him.

¹¹ If indeed, then, perfection were through the Levitical priesthood, (for the people under it had received the law,) what further need, according to the order of Melchisedek, for another priest to arise, and not to be called after the order of Aaron? ¹² for the priesthood being changed, of necessity also, of the law a change cometh, ¹³ for he of whom these things are said in another tribe hath had part, of whom no one gave attendance at the altar, ¹⁴ for it is evident that out of Judah arose our Lord, in regard to which tribe Moses spake nothing concerning priesthood.

¹⁵ And it is yet more abundantly most evident, if after the similitude of Melchisedek there ariseth another priest, ¹⁶ who came not after the law of a fleshly command, but after the power of an endless life, ¹⁷ for He testified—'Thou art a priest—to the age, after the order of Melchisedek;' ¹⁸ for a disannulling indeed cometh of the command going before because of its weakness and unprofitableness, ¹⁹ for nothing did the law perfect, but the bringing in of a better hope, through which we draw near to God.

²⁰ And inasmuch as it is not apart from oath, (for those indeed apart from oath became priests, ²¹ but he with an oath through Him who is saying to him, 'The Lord aware, and will not repent, Thou art a priest—to the age, after the order of Melchisedek;') ²² by so much of a better covenant hath Jesus become surety, ²³ and those indeed are many who have become priests, because by death they are hindered from remaining; ²⁴ but he, because of his remaining to the age, hath the priesthood not transient, ²⁵ whence also he is able to save to the end of all, those coming through him to God, ever living to make intercession for them.

²⁶ For such a chief priest became us—pious, harmless, undefiled, separate from the sinners, and become higher than the heavens, ²⁷ who hath no necessity daily, as the chief priests, first for his own sins to offer up sacrifice, then for those of the people; for this he did once, having offered up himself; ²⁸ for the law appointeth men chief priests, having infirmity, but the word of the oath which is after the law appointeth the Son—to the age perfected.

VIII. ¹ BUT the sum concerning the things spoken of us: we have such a chief priest, who sat down on the right hand of the throne of the greatness in the heavens, ² of the holy places a servant, and of the true tabernacle, which the Lord set up, and not man, ³ for every chief priest do offer both gifts and sacrifices is appointed, whence it is necessary for this one to have also something which he may offer: ⁴ for if, indeed, he were on earth, he would not be a priest—(there being the priests who offer, according to law, the gifts, ⁵ who unto an example and shadow do serve of the heavenly things, as Moses hath been divinely warned, being about to construct the tabernacle: for 'See (saith He), thou mayest make all things after the pattern which was shewn to thee in the mount;')—⁶ but now he hath obtained a more excellent service, how much also of a better covenant is he mediator, which on better promises hath been established, ⁷ for if that first was faultless, a place would not have been sought for a second.

⁸ For finding fault, He saith to them, 'Lo, days come, saith the Lord, and I will make with the house of Israel, and with the house of Judah, a new covenant, ⁹ not according to the covenant which was made with their fathers, in the day of My taking them by their hand, to bring them out of the land of Egypt—because they remained not in My covenant, and I regarded them not, saith the Lord,—¹⁰because this is the covenant which I will make with the house of Israel, after those days, saith the Lord, giving My laws into their mind, and on their hearts will I write them, and I will be to them for a God, and they shall be to Me for a people: ¹¹and they shall not teach each his neighbour, and each his brother, saying, Know thou the Lord, because they shall all know Me from the smallest of them unto the greatest of them, ¹²for I will be merciful to their unrighteousnesses, and their sins and their lawlessnesses will I remember no more;—¹³in the saying 'new,' He hath made the first obsolete; but what becometh obsolete and old is near disappearing.

IX. ¹IT is said, indeed, then (even the first tabernacle) ordinances of service, also the worldly sanctuary, ²for a tabernacle was constructed, the first, in which was both the lamp, and the table, and the shew-bread, which is called 'Holy'; ³but after the second veil a tabernacle which is called 'Holy of holies'; ⁴having a golden censer, and the ark of the covenant overlaid all round about with gold, in which is the golden pot having the manna, and the rod of Aaron which budded, and the tables of the covenant, ⁵and over it cherubim of glory, overshadowing the mercy-seat, concerning which we cannot now speak particularly.

⁶But these things having been thus ordained, into the first tabernacle, indeed, at all times the priests go in, performing the services, ⁷but into the second, once in the year, only the chief priest, not apart from blood, which he offereth for himself and for the errors of the people, ⁸the Holy Spirit this evidencing that not yet hath been manifested the way of the holy places, the first tabernacle having yet a standing: ⁹which is a simile in regard to the present time, in which both gifts and sacrifices are offered, which are not able, in conscience, to make perfect him who is serving, ¹⁰only in victuals, and drinks, and different baptisms, and fleshly ordinances—till the time of reformation imposed on them.

¹¹But Christ being come, chief priest of the coming good things, through the greater and more perfect tabernacle not made with hands—that is, not of this creation—¹²neither through the blood of goats and calves, but through his own blood, entered in once into the holy places, age-during redemption having obtained; ¹³for if the blood of bulls, and of goats, and the ashes of an heifer sprinkling those defiled, sanctifieth to the purifying of the flesh, ¹⁴how much more shall the blood of the Christ (who by the age-during Spirit offered himself unblemished to God) purify your conscience from dead works to serve the living God.

¹⁵And because of this, of a new covenant he is mediator, that death having come, for the redemption of the transgressions under the first covenant, the called may receive the promise of the age-during inheritance, ¹⁶for where a covenant is, that the death of the covenant-victim come in is necessary, ¹⁷for a covenant over dead victims is steadfast, seeing it is of no force at all when the covenant-victim liveth, ¹⁸whence not even the first apart from blood hath been initiated, ¹⁹for every command having been spoken according to law, by Moses to all the people, having taken the blood of the calves and goats, with water, and scarlet wool, and hyssop, he both the book itself and all the people sprinkled, ²⁰saying, 'This is the blood of the covenant which God enjoined on you,' ²¹but both the tabernacle and all the vessels of the service with blood in like manner he sprinkled, ²²and with blood almost all things are purified according to the law, and apart from blood-shedding forgiveness cometh not.

²³It is necessary therefore, that the patterns indeed of the things in the heavens be purified with these, but the heavenly things themselves with better sacrifices than these; ²⁴for not into holy places made with hands did the Christ enter—figures of the true—but into the heaven itself, now to be manifested in the presence of God for us; ²⁵nor that he may many times offer himself, even as the chief priest entereth into the holy places every year with the blood of others; ²⁶since it would have behoved him many times to suffer from the foundation of the world, but now once, at the end of the ages, for the putting away of sin through his sacrifice, he hath been manifested; ²⁷and as it is laid up to men once to die, but after this—Judgment: ²⁸so also the Christ, once having been offered to bear the sins of many, a second time, apart from a sin-offering, shall appear, to those waiting for him—to salvation!

X. ¹FOR the law having a shadow of the coming good things—not the very image of the matters, every year, by the same sacrifices which they offer continually is never able to make perfect those coming near, ²since, would they not have ceased to be offered, because of those serving having no more conscience of sins, having once been purified? ³but in those sacrifices is a remembrance of sins every year, ⁴for it is impossible for the blood of bulls and goats to take away sins.

⁵Wherefore, coming into the world, he saith, 'Sacrifice and offering Thou didst not will, but a body didst thou prepare for me, ⁶in burnt-offerings, and concerning sacrifices for sin, Thou didst not delight, ⁷then I said, Lo, I come, (in the volume of the book it hath been written concerning me,) to do, O God, thy will;' ⁸saying above, 'Sacrifice and offering and burnt-offerings and concerning sin-offering Thou didst not will,' nor delight in—which according to the law are offered—⁹then he said, 'Lo, I come to do, O God, Thy will,' he taketh away the first that the second he may establish; ¹⁰in the which will we are sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once, ¹¹and every priest standeth daily serving, and the same sacrifices many times offering, which are never able to take away sins.

¹²But He, for sin one sacrifice having offered—to the end, sat down on the right hand of God,¹³ as to the rest, expecting till He may place his enemies as his footstool,¹⁴ for by one offering he hath perfected to the end those sanctified;¹⁵ but testify to us also doth the Holy Spirit, for after that he had said before,¹⁶ 'This is the covenant which I will make with them after those days, saith the Lord, giving My laws on their hearts, and on their minds will I inscribe them,¹⁷ and their sins and their lawlessness I will remember no more.'¹⁸ but where forgiveness of these is, there is no more offering for sin.

¹⁹Having, therefore, brethren, boldness for the entrance into holy places, in the blood of Jesus,²⁰ which way he consecrated for us—new and living, through the veil, that is, his flesh,²¹ and with a high priest over the house of God,²² let us draw near with a true heart, in full assurance of faith, having the hearts sprinkled from an evil conscience, and having the body bathed with pure water;²³ let us hold fast the unwavering profession of the faith, (for faithful is He who promised),²⁴ and let us consider one another to provoke to love and to good works,²⁵ not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the custom of certain is, but exhorting, and so much the more as ye see the day coming near.

²⁶For we—wilfully sinning after the receiving the acknowledging of the truth—no more for sins doth there remain a sacrifice,²⁷ but a certain fearful looking for of judgment, and fiery indignation, about to devour the opposers;²⁸ any one who set at nought the law of Moses, apart from mercies, by two or three witnesses, dieth,²⁹ of how much sorer punishment shall he be counted worthy who the Son of God trampled on, and the blood of the covenant counted a common thing, in which he was sanctified, and to the Spirit of grace did despise?³⁰ for we have known Him who is saying, 'Vengeance is Mine, I will recompense, saith the Lord;' and again, 'The Lord shall judge His people:'—³¹fearful is the falling into the hands of the living God.

³²But call to your remembrance the former days, in which, having been enlightened, ye endured much conflict of sufferings,³³ partly both with reproaches and tribulations being made spectacles, and partly having become partners of those so living,³⁴ for also with my bonds ye sympathised, and the robbery of your goods with joy ye received, knowing that ye have in yourselves a better substance in the heavens, and an enduring one.

³⁵Ye may not cast away, then, your boldness, which hath great recompense of reward,³⁶ for of patience ye have need, that the will of God having done, ye may receive the promise,³⁷ for yet a very little, life who is coming will come, and will not tarry;³⁸ but 'the righteous by faith shall live,' and, 'if any one may draw back, My soul hath no pleasure in him,'³⁹ but we are not of those drawing back to destruction, but of those believing to the preserving of soul.

⁴⁰XI. ¹BUT faith is of things hoped for a confidence, a conviction of matters not seen,² for in this were the elders testified of;³ by faith we understand the ages to be set in order by the saying of God, in regard to the things seen not having come out of things manifest;⁴ by faith a better sacrifice did Abel offer to God than Cain, through which he was testified to be righteous, God testifying of his gifts, and through it, he being dead, yet speaketh.

⁵By faith Enoch was translated—not to see death, and was not found, because God translated him; for before his translation he had been testified to—that he had pleased God well,⁶ but apart from faith it is impossible to please well, for it becometh him who is coming to God to believe that He is, and to those seeking Him He is a rewarder.

⁷By faith Noah, being divinely warned concerning the things not yet seen, having feared, prepared an ark to the salvation of his house, by which he condemned the world, and of the righteousness in faith became heir.

⁸By faith Abraham, being called, obeyed, to go out to the place which he was about to receive for an inheritance, and he went out, not knowing whither he goeth;⁹ by faith he sojourned in the land of promise as in a strange country, in tabernacles having dwelt with Isaac and Jacob, fellow-heirs of the same promise,¹⁰ for he was looking for the city having the foundations, whose artificer and constructor is God.

¹¹By faith also Sarah herself received power to conceive seed, and she bare after the time of life, seeing she judged Him faithful who promised;¹² wherefore, also of one were begotten—and that of one who had become dead—as the stars of the heaven in multitude, and as sand which is by the sea-shore—the innumerable.

¹³In faith died all these, not having received the promises, but from afar having seen them, and having been persuaded, and having saluted them, and having confessed that strangers and sojourners they are upon the earth,¹⁴ for those saying such things make manifest that they seek a country;¹⁵ and if, indeed, they had been mindful of that from which they came out, they might have had an opportunity to return,¹⁶ but now they desire a better, that is, an heavenly; wherefore God is not ashamed of them, to be called their God, for He prepared for them a city.

¹⁷By faith Abraham hath offered up Isaac, being tried, and the only begotten he offered up who received the promises,¹⁸ of whom it was said—'In Isaac shall a seed be called to thee;'¹⁹ reckoning that even from the dead God is able to raise up, whence also in a figure he received him.

²⁰By faith, concerning coming things, Isaac blessed Jacob and Esau;²¹ by faith Jacob dying—each of the sons of Joseph did bless, and bowed down, upon the top of his staff;²² by faith, Joseph dying, concerning the going out of the children of Israel made mention, and concerning his bones gave command.

²³By faith Moses, having been born, was hid three months by his parents, because they saw the child to be comely, and were not afraid of the decree of the king; ²⁴by faith Moses, having become great, refused to be called a son of the daughter of Pharaoh, ²⁵having chosen rather to be afflicted with the people of God, than to have sin's pleasure, which is for a season, ²⁶greater wealth having reckoned the reproach of the Christ than the treasures in Egypt, for he looked to the recompense of reward; ²⁷by faith he forsook Egypt, not having been afraid of the wrath of the king, for, as seeing the Invisible One—he endured; ²⁸by faith he hath kept the passover, and the sprinkling of the blood, lest He who is destroying the first-born touch them.

²⁹By faith they passed through the Red Sea as through dry land, which the Egyptians having tried, were swallowed up; ³⁰by faith the walls of Jericho fell, having been surrounded for seven days; ³¹by faith Rahab the harlot perished not with those who disbelieved, having received the spies with peace.

³²And what shall I yet say? for the time will fail me recounting about Gideon, Barak also, and Samson, and Jephthah, David also, and Samuel, and the prophets, ³³who through faith subdued kingdoms, wrought righteousness, obtained promises, stopped the mouths of lions, ³⁴quenched the power of fire, escaped the mouth of the sword, were made powerful out of infirmities, became strong in battle, caused to give way the battle-hosts of the aliens.

³⁵Women received by a rising again their dead, but others were tortured, not accepting the redemption, that a better rising again they might receive, ³⁶but others of mockings and scourgings received trial, but yet of bonds and imprisonments; ³⁷they were stoned, they were sawn asunder, they were tempted, in the killing of the sword they died; they went about in sheepskins, in goatskins—being destitute, afflicted, tormented, ³⁸of whom the world was not worthy; in deserts wandering, and in mountains, and in caves, and in the holes of the earth; ³⁹and these all, having been testified to through the faith, received not the promise, ⁴⁰God for us something better having provided, that apart from us they might not be made perfect.

XII. ¹WHEREFORE, we also having so great a cloud of witnesses surrounding us, having put off every weight, and the easily besetting sin, through endurance let us run the contest which is set before us, ²looking to the author and perfecter of faith—Jesus, who, over-against the joy set before him—endured a cross, shame having despatched, on the right hand also of the throne of God sat down; ³for consider well him who endured such galling from sinners to himself, lest ye be wearied in your souls—faint.

⁴Not yet unto blood did ye resist—against sin striving; ⁵and ye have forgotten the exhortation which speaketh with you as with sons, 'My son, be not despising the chastening of the Lord, nor be faint, being reproved by Him, ⁶for whom the Lord loveth He chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom He receiveth;' ⁷if chastening ye endure, as to sons God conducteth Himself to you, for who is a son whom a father doth not chasten? ⁸but if ye are apart from chastisement, of which all have been partakers, then bastards are ye, and not sons.

⁹Then, indeed, fathers of our flesh we have had, chastising us, and we were reverencing them; shall we not much rather be subject to the Father of spirits, and live? ¹⁰for they, indeed, for a few days, according to what seemed good to them, did chasten, but He for profit, to be partakers of His holiness; ¹¹but all chastening for the present, indeed, seemeth not to be of joy, but of sorrow, but afterwards the peaceable fruit of righteousness to those exercised through it—it yieldeth.

¹²Wherefore, the hanging down hands and the loosened knees set up; ¹³and make straight paths for your feet, lest that which is lame be turned aside, but let it rather be healed; ¹⁴peace pursue with all, and holiness, apart from which no one shall see the Lord, ¹⁵looking diligently over lest any one is failing of the grace of God, lest any root of bitterness springing up may give trouble, and through this many may be defiled; ¹⁶lest any be a fornicator, or profane person, as Esau, who in exchange for one morsel of food sold his birthright, ¹⁷for ye know that also afterwards, wishing to inherit the blessing, he was disapproved of, for a place of reformation he found not, though with tears having sought it.

¹⁸For ye have not come to the mount touched and scorched with fire, and to blackness, and darkness, and tempest, ¹⁹and the sound of a trumpet, and the voice of sayings, which those having heard entreated that the word might not be added to them, ²⁰for they were not bearing that which is commanded, 'And if a beast may touch the mountain, it shall be stoned, or with an arrow shot through,' ²¹and so terrible was the sight, that Moses said, 'I am fearful exceedingly, and trembling.'

²²But ye have come to mount Zion, and to the city of the living God, to the heavenly Jerusalem, and to the company of myriads of messengers, ²³to the assembly of the first-born in heaven enrolled, and to God the judge of all, and to the spirits of righteous men made perfect, ²⁴and to the mediator of the new covenant—Jesus, and to the blood of sprinkling, speaking better things than that of Abel!

²⁵See that ye refuse not him who is speaking, for if those did not escape who refused him who on the earth was divinely speaking—much more we who turn away from him who speaketh from heaven, ²⁶whose voice the earth shook then, but now hath he promised, saying, 'Yet once—I shake not only the earth, but also the heaven,' ²⁷but this—'Yet once'—maketh evident the removal of the things shaken, as of things having been made, that the things not shaken may remain; ²²wherefore, a kingdom unmoveable receiving, let us have grace, through which we may serve God well pleasingly, with reverence and religious fear; for also our God is a consuming fire.

XIII. ¹LET brotherly love remain; ²of hospitality be not forgetful, for through this unawares certain did entertain messengers; ³be mindful of those in bonds, as having been bound with them, of those maltreated, as also yourselves being in the body; ⁴honourable is marriage in all, and the bed undefiled, but whoremongers and adulterers God shall judge.

⁵Without covetousness the behaviour, content with the things which are present, for He hath said, 'No, I will not leave, nor forsake thee,' ⁶so that we boldly say, 'The Lord is to me a helper, and I will not fear what man shall do to me,' ⁷be mindful of those leading you, who spake to you the word of God, whose faith—considering the issue of the converse—be imitating.

⁸Jesus Christ yesterday and to-day is the same, and—to the ages; ⁹with teachings manifold and strange be not carried about, for it is good that by grace the heart be confirmed, not with meats, in which they who were occupied were not profited; ¹⁰we have an altar, of which to eat they have no authority who the tabernacle are serving, ¹¹for of those beasts whose blood is brought for sin into the holy places through the chief priest—of these the bodies are burned without the camp.

¹²Wherefore also Jesus—that he might sanctify through His own blood the people—without the gate did suffer; ¹³now, then, let us go forth to him without the camp, his reproach bearing; ¹⁴for we have not here an abiding city, but the coming one we seek; ¹⁵through him, then, let us offer up the sacrifice of praise always to God, that is, the fruit of lips giving thanks to His name; ¹⁶but of doing good, and of communicating, be not forgetful; for with such sacrifices God is well pleased.

¹⁷Be obedient to those leading you, and be subject, for these watch for your souls, as about to give account, that with joy they may do this—and not sighing—for this is unprofitable to you. ¹⁸Pray for us, for we trust that we have a good conscience, in all things willing to behave well, ¹⁹but more abundantly do I entreat you to do this, that more quickly I may be restored to you.

²⁰But the God of the peace, who brought up from the dead the great shepherd of the sheep,—in the blood of the age—during covenant,—our Lord Jesus, ²¹make you perfect in every good work to do His will, doing in you that which is well-pleasing before Him, through Jesus Christ, to whom is the glory—to the ages of the ages! Amen.

²²But I entreat you, brethren, suffer the word of the exhortation, for also through few words I have written to you. ²³Know ye that the brother Timotheus is released, with whom, if he may come more shortly, I will see you.

²⁴Salute all those leading you, and all the saints; salute you do those from Italy; ²⁵the grace be with you all! Amen.

PHILEMON.

CHAP. I. ¹PAUL, a prisoner of Jesus Christ, and Timothy the brother, to Philemon the beloved, and our fellow-worker, ²and Apphia the beloved, and Archippus our fellow-soldier, and the assembly in thy house: ³Grace to you, and peace, from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ!

⁴I give thanks to my God, always making mention of thee in my prayers, ⁵hearing of thy love and faith, which thou hast to the Lord Jesus and to all the saints, ⁶that the fellowship of thy faith may become working in the acknowledging of every good thing which is in you in regard to Christ Jesus; ⁷for we have much joy and comfort in thy love, because the bowels of the saints have been refreshed through thee, brother.

⁸Wherefore, having in Christ much boldness, to command thee that which is fit—⁹because of the love I rather entreat, being such an one as Paul the aged, but now also a prisoner of Jesus Christ; ¹⁰I entreat thee concerning my child—whom I begot in my bonds—Onesimus, ¹¹who once was to thee unprofitable, but now profitable to me and to thee, ¹²whom I sent again, but thou him (that is, mine own bowels) receive, ¹³whom I wished to retain to myself, that in thy behalf he might minister to me in the bonds of the good news, ¹⁴but apart from thy mind I willed to do nothing, that as of necessity thy good deed may not be, but of willingness, ¹⁵for perhaps because of this he departed for an hour, that age-duringly thou mayest have him; ¹⁶no more as a servant, but above a servant—a brother beloved, especially to me, but how much more to thee, both in the flesh and in the Lord!

¹⁷If, then, with me thou hast fellowship, receive him as me, ¹⁸but if he did hurt to thee, or owe anything, this to me reckon: ¹⁹I, Paul, have written with my hand, I—I will repay: that I may not say that also thyself, besides, to me thou workest.

²⁰Yes, brother, let me have profit of thee in the Lord; refresh my bowels in the Lord; ²¹having been confident in thy obedience I have written to thee, having known that also above what I may say thou wilt do; ²²but at the same time also prepare for me a lodging; for I hope that through your prayers I shall be granted to you.

²³Salute thee do Epaphras, (my fellow-prisoner in Christ Jesus,) ²⁴Markus, Aristarchus, Demas, Lukas, my fellow-workmen!

²⁵The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit! Amen.

JAMES.

CHAP. I. JAMES, of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ, a servant, to the Twelve Tribes who are in the dispersion: Gail!

¹All joy count it, my brethren, when ye may fall into temptations manifold; ²knowing that the proof of your faith worketh endurance, ³but let the endurance have a perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire—in nothing lacking; ⁴but if any of you do lack wisdom, let him ask from God, who is giving to all liberally, and not reproaching, and it shall be given to him; ⁵but let him ask in faith, nothing doubting, for he who is doubting is like a wave of the sea, driven by the wind and tossed, ⁷for let not that man suppose that he shall receive anything from the Lord—⁸a two-souled man is unstable in all his ways.

⁹But let the brother who is low rejoice in his exaltation, ¹⁰but the rich in his becoming low, because as a flower of grass he shall pass away: ¹¹for the sun rose with the burning heat, and withered the grass, and the flower of it fell, and the grace of its appearance perished, so also the rich in his ways shall fade away! ¹²Happy the man who endureth temptation, because, becoming approved, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord did promise to those loving Him.

¹³Let no one say, being tempted—'From God I am tempted,' for God is not to be tempted of evil, and Himself doth tempt no one, ¹⁴but each one is tempted, by his own desires being led away and enticed, ¹⁵afterwards the desire having conceived, giveth birth to sin, and the sin having been perfected, bringeth forth death.

¹⁶Be not led astray, my brethren beloved: ¹⁷every good giving, and every perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variation, or shadow of turning; ¹⁸having willed, He begat us with the word of truth, for our being a certain first-fruits of His creatures.

¹⁹So then, my brethren beloved, let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath, ²⁰for the wrath of man the righteousness of God doth not work; ²¹wherefore having put aside all filthiness and superabundance of evil, in meekness be receiving the engrafted word, which is able to save your souls; ²²but become ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving yourselves, ²³because, if any one is a hearer of the word and not a doer, this one is like to a man viewing his natural face in a mirror, ²⁴for he viewed himself, and hath gone away, and immediately he forgot what kind of man he was; ²⁵but he who looked into the perfect law—that of liberty, and continued there, this one—not a forgetful hearer becoming, but a doer of work—this one shall be happy in his doing.

²⁶If any one thinketh to be religious among you, not bridle his tongue, but deceiving his heart, of this one vain is the religion; ²⁷religion pure and undefiled with God even the Father is this, to look after orphans and widows in their tribulation—unsported to keep himself from the world.

¹¹MY brethren, hold not, in respect of persons, the faith of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ, ²for if there may come into your synagogue a man with gold ring, in gay raiment, but there may come in also a poor man in vile raiment; ³and ye may look upon him bearing the gay raiment, and may say to him, 'Thou—sit thou here well,' and to the poor man may say, 'Thou—stand thou there, or, Sit thou here under my footstool,'—⁴ye did not judge fully in yourselves, and became ill-reasoning judges.

⁵Hearken, my brethren beloved, did not God choose the poor of this world, rich in faith, and heirs of the kingdom which He promised to those loving Him? ⁶but ye dishonoured the poor one; do not the rich oppress you, and themselves draw you to the judgment-seats? ⁷do they not speak evil of the good name which was called upon you?

⁸If, indeed, the royal law ye complete, according to the writing, 'Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself,'—ye do well; ⁹but if ye accept persons, sin ye do work, being convicted by the law as transgressors; ¹⁰for whoever the whole law shall keep, but shall stumble in one point, he hath become guilty of all; ¹¹for He who is saying, 'Thou mayest not commit adultery,' said also, 'Thou mayest do no murder:' but if thou shalt not commit adultery, but shalt commit murder, thou hast become a transgressor of law; ¹²so speak ye and so do, as about by the law of liberty to be judged, ¹³for the judgment without kindness is to him not having done kindness, and exult doth kindness over judgment.

¹⁴What is the profit, my brethren, if 'faith' any one may speak of having, but works he may not have? Is the faith able to save him? ¹⁵but if a brother or sister may be naked, and may be destitute of daily food, ¹⁶but any one of you may say to them, 'Depart ye in peace, be warmed, and be filled,' but may not give to them the things needful for the body, what is the profit? ¹⁷so also the faith, if it may not have works, is dead by itself. ¹⁸But any one may say, 'Thou hast faith, and I have works, shew me thy faith out of thy works, and I will shew thee out of my works my faith: ¹⁹thou dost believe that God is one: thou dost well, and the demons believe and shudder!'

²⁰But dost thou wish to know, O vain man, that the faith apart from the works is dead? ²¹Abraham our father—was not he declared righteous out of works, having offered up Isaac his son on the altar? ²²dost thou see that the faith was working with his works, and out of the works the faith was perfected? ²³and fulfilled was the writing which is saying, 'But Abraham believed God, and it was reckoned to him to righteousness;' and, 'Friend of God' he was called.

²⁴Ye see, then, that out of works is a man declared righteous, and not out of faith only: ²⁵but in like manner also Rahab the harlot—was she not out of works declared righteous, having received the messengers, and by another way having sent them out? ²⁶for as the body apart from the spirit is dead, so also the faith apart from the works is dead.

III. ¹MANY teachers become not, my brethren, knowing that greater judgment we shall receive, ²for we will make many stumblers; if any one in word doth not stumble, this one is a perfect man, able to bridle also the whole body; ³lo, the bits we put into the mouths of the horses for their obeying us, and their whole body we turn about; ⁴lo, also the ships, being so great, and by fierce winds being driven, are led about by a very small helm, whithersoever the impulse of the helmsman wisheth, ⁵so also the tongue is a little member, and boasteth greatly; ⁶lo, a little fire how much wood it kindleth! ⁷and the tongue is a fire, the world of the unrighteousness, so the tongue is set in our members, which is spotting the whole body, and is setting on fire the course of nature, and is set on fire by the gehenna.

⁷For every nature, both of beasts and of fowls, both of creeping things and things of the sea, is subdued, and hath been subdued, by the human nature, ⁸but the tongue no one of man is able to subdue, it is an unruly evil, full of deadly poison, ⁹with it we bless God even the Father, and with it we curse men made according to the similitude of God: ¹⁰out of the same mouth cometh forth blessing and cursing: it needeth not, my brethren, these things so to be: ¹¹doth the fountain out of the same opening pour forth the sweet and the bitter? ¹²is the fig-tree able, my brethren, olives to yield? or a vine figs? so no fountain salt and sweet water is able to yield.

¹³Who is wise and intelligent among you? let him shew out of the good behaviour his works in meekness of wisdom, ¹⁴but if bitter zeal ye have, and rivalry in your heart, glory not, nor lie against the truth: ¹⁵this wisdom is not descending from above, but earthly, animal, demoniac, ¹⁶for where zeal and rivalry are, there is tumult and every evil matter: ¹⁷but the wisdom from above, first, indeed, is pure, then peaceable, gentle, easily entreated, full of kindness and good fruits, uncontentious, and unhyphocritical:—¹⁸but the fruit of the righteousness in peace is sown to those making peace.

IV. ¹WHENCE are wars and fightings among you? not thence—out of your passions, that are as soldiers in your members? ²ye desire, and ye have not: ye murder, and are zealous, and are not able to attain; ye fight and war, but ye have not, because of your not asking: ³ye ask, and receive not, because evilly ye ask, that in your pleasures ye may spend it. ⁴Adulterers and adulteresses! have ye not known that the friendship of the world is enmity with God?

whosoever, then, may wish to be a friend of the world, an enemy of God he is set.

⁵Do ye think that empty the writing saith, 'To envy earnestly desireth the Spirit which dwelt in us,' but greater grace he giveth, wherefore he saith, God against proud ones setteth himself up, but to lowly ones He giveth grace? ⁷be subject, then, to God; stand up against the devil, and he will flee from you; ⁸draw near to God, and He will draw near to you; cleanse ye hands, O sinners! and purify hearts, O two-souled! ⁹be exceeding afflicted, and mourn, and weep; let your laughter to mourning be turned, and the joy to heaviness; ¹⁰be made low in the presence of the Lord, and He shall exalt you.

¹¹Speak not against one another, brethren; he who is speaking against a brother, and is judging his brother, speaketh against law, and judgeth law, but if law thou dost judge, thou art not a doer of law but a judge; ¹²one is the lawgiver, who is able to save and to destroy; thou—who art thou that dost judge the other?

¹³Go, now, ye who are saying, 'To-day or to-morrow we will proceed to such a city, and pass there one year, and traffic, and make gain;' ¹⁴who know not the thing of the morrow: for what is your life? for it is a vapour which is appearing for a little, but then is vanishing; ¹⁵instead of your saying, 'If the Lord may will, we shall live, and we do this or that,' ¹⁶but now ye glory in your pride: all such glorying is evil; ¹⁷to him, then, knowing to do good, and not doing, sin it is to him.

V. ¹GO, now, ye rich! weep, howling over your miseries which are coming upon you; ²your riches have rotted, and your garments have become moth-eaten; ³your gold and silver have rotted, and the rest of them for a testimony shall be to you, and shall eat your flesh as fire; ye have made a treasure in the last days. ⁴Lo, the reward of the labourers, of those who in-gathered your fields, which hath been fraudulently kept back by you—crieth out, and the exclamations of those who reaped into the ears of the Lord of Sabaoth have entered; ⁵ye lived in luxury upon the earth, and were wanton: ye nourished your hearts, as in a day of slaughter; ⁶ye condemned—ye murdered the just one, he doth not resist you.

⁷Be patient, then, brethren, till the coming of the Lord; lo, the husbandman expecteth the precious fruit of the earth, being patient for it, till he may receive rain—the early and latter: ⁸Be patient, ye also; establish your hearts, because the coming of the Lord draweth near: ⁹murmur not against one another, brethren, that ye may not be condemned: lo, the Judge before the door hath stood.

¹⁰An example take ye of suffering of evil, my brethren, and of patience, the prophets who spake in the name of the Lord: ¹¹lo, we call happy those who are enduring; the endurance of Job ye heard of, and the end of the Lord have seen, that very compassionate is the Lord, and pitying.

¹² But before all things, my brethren, do not swear, neither by the heaven, neither by the earth, neither by any other oath, but let your Yes be Yes, and the No, No; that under judgment ye may not fall.

¹³ Doth any one suffer evil among you? let him pray; is any of good cheer? let him sing psalms; ¹⁴ is any infirm among you? let him call for the elders of the assembly, and let them pray over him, having anointed him with oil, in the name of the Lord, ¹⁵ and the prayer of the faith shall save the distressed one, and the Lord shall raise him up, and if sins he may have committed, they shall be forgiven to him.

¹⁶ Confess to one another the trespasses, and pray for one another, that ye may be healed; very strong is the working supplication of a righteous man; ¹⁷ Elijah was a man like affected as we, and with prayer he prayed—not to rain, and it rained not upon the land three years and six months; ¹⁸ and again he prayed, and the heaven gave rain, and the earth brought forth her fruit.

¹⁹ Brethren, if any among you may go astray from the truth, and any one may turn him back; ²⁰ let him know that he who turned back a sinner from the straying of his way shall save a soul from death, and shall hide a multitude of sins.

FIRST PETER.

CHAP. I. ¹ PETER, an apostle of Jesus Christ, to the chosen sojourners of the dispersion of Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia, ² according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, in sanctification of the Spirit, to obedience and sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ: Grace to you and peace be multiplied!

³ Blessed is the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who, according to the abundance of His kindness begot us again to a living hope, through the rising again of Jesus Christ from the dead, ⁴ to an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and unfading, reserved in the heavens unto you, ⁵ who, in the power of God are being guarded, through faith, unto salvation ready to be revealed in the last time, ⁶ in which ye are glad, a little now, if it is necessary, being made to sorrow in manifold trials, ⁷ that the proof of your faith—much more precious than of gold which is perishing, but through fire being approved—may be found to praise, and honour, and glory, in the revelation of Jesus Christ, ⁸ whom, not having seen, ye love, in whom now, not seeing, but believing, ye are glad with joy unspeakable and glorified, ⁹ receiving the end of your faith—the salvation of souls; ¹⁰ concerning which salvation seek out and search out did prophets who concerning the grace towards you did prophesy, ¹¹ searching in regard to what or what manner of time the Spirit of Christ which was in them was manifesting, testifying before the sufferings of Christ, and the glory after these, ¹² to whom it was revealed, that not to themselves, but to us they were ministering these, which now were told to you through those who proclaimed the good news to you, in the Holy Spirit sent from heaven, to which things messengers desire to bend looking.

¹³ Wherefore having girded up the loins of your mind, being sober, hope—perfectly unto the grace which is being brought to you in the revelation of Jesus Christ, ¹⁴ as obedient children, not fashioning yourselves to the former desires in your ignorance, ¹⁵ but according as He who called you is holy, ye also, become holy in all behaviour,

¹⁶ because it hath been written, 'Become ye holy, because I am holy;' ¹⁷ and if on the Father ye call, who without acceptance of persons is judging according to the work of each, in fear the time of your sojourn pass ye, ¹⁸ knowing that, not with corruptible things—silver or gold—were ye redeemed from your behaviour of folly delivered by fathers, ¹⁹ but with precious blood, as of a lamb unblemished and unspotted—Christ's—²⁰ fore-ordained, indeed, before the foundation of the world, but manifested in the last times because of you, ²¹ who through him believe in God, who raised him from the dead, and glory to him give, so that your faith and hope may be in God.

²² Your souls having purified in the obedience of the truth through the Spirit to brotherly love unfeigned, out of a pure heart one another love ye earnestly, ²³ being begotten again, not out of earned corruptible, but incorruptible, through the word of God which is living and remaining—to the age; ²⁴ because all flesh is as grass, and all glory of man as flower of grass; ²⁵ wither did the grass, and its flowers fell away, ²⁶ but the saying of the Lord remaineth—to the age: but this is the saying which was proclaimed as good news to you.

II. ¹ HAVING put aside, then, all evil, and all guile, and hypocrisies, and envyings, and all evil-speakings, ² as new-born babes the word's pure milk desire ye, that in it ye may grow, ³ if so be ye tasted that the Lord is good, ⁴ to whom coming—a living stone—by men, indeed, having been disapproved of, but by God chosen, precious, ⁵ ye also yourselves, as living stones, are built up, a spiritual house, a holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ.

⁶ Wherefore, also, it is contained in the writing: 'Lo, I lay in Zion a chief corner-stone, chosen, precious, and he who is believing on him may not be put to shame;' ⁷ to you, then, who are believing is the preciousness; but to the unbelieving, the stone which the builders disapproved of, this one became for the head of a corner, ⁸ and a stone of stumbling and a rock of offence,—who are stumbling at the word, being unbelieving,—to which also they were appointed: ⁹but ye are a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people for a possession, that the excellences ye may shew forth of Him who out of darkness called you into His wondrous light: ¹⁰who were once not a people, but are now the people of God; who had not found kindness, but now have found kindness.

¹¹Beloved, I entreat you, as strangers and sojourners, to keep from the fleshly desires, which war against the soul, ¹²having your behaviour among the nations right, that in that which they speak against you as evil-doers, of the good works having beheld, they may glorify God in the day of inspection.

¹³Be subject, then, to every human creation, because of the Lord, whether to the king, as supreme, ¹⁴whether to governors, as to those sent through him, for punishment indeed, of evil-doers, but a praise of those doing good: ¹⁵because, so is the will of God, doing good, to put to silence the ignorance of the foolish men: ¹⁶as free, and not having the freedom as a cloak of the evil, but as servants of God: ¹⁷to all give ye honour; the brotherhood love ye; God fear ye; the king honour ye.

¹⁸Domestics! be subjecting yourselves in all fear to the masters: not only to the good and gentle, but also to the cross: ¹⁹for this is gracious, if because of conscience toward God any one endureth sorrows, suffering unrighteously: ²⁰for what renown is it, if sinning and being buffeted, ye endure it? but if, doing good and suffering for it, ye endure, this is gracious with God, ²¹for to this were ye called, because Christ also suffered for you, leaving to you an example, that ye may follow his steps, ²²who did not commit sin, nor was guile found in his mouth, ²³who being reviled—was not reviling again, suffering—was not threatening; but was committing himself to Him who is judging righteously, ²⁴who our sins himself bare in his body, on the tree, that to the sins having died, to righteousness we may live; by whose stripes ye were healed; ²⁵for ye were as sheep going astray, but ye turned back now to the shepherd and overseer of your souls.

III. ¹IN like manner, ye wives, be subject to your own husbands, that even if certain are disobedient to the word, they may be won, ²having beheld your pure behaviour in fear, ³whose adorning—let it not be that which is outward, of plaiting of hair, and of putting around of things of gold, or beauty, of putting on of garments, ⁴but—the hidden man of the heart, in the incorruptible thing of the meek and quiet spirit, which is, in the presence of God, of great price, ⁵for this once also the holy women who hoped on God were adorning themselves, being subject to their own husbands, ⁶as Sarah was obedient to Abraham, calling him 'lord,' of whom ye became children, doing good, and not fearing any terror.

⁷Husbands, in like manner, dwelling with them, according to knowledge; as to the weaker vessel—to the wife—imparting honour, as also being heirs together of the grace of life, that your prayers be not hindered.

⁸But finally, being all of one mind, having fellow-feeling, loving as brethren, compassionate, courteous, ⁹not giving back evil for evil, or railing for railing, but on the contrary, blessing, knowing that to this ye were called, that a blessing ye may inherit: ¹⁰for 'he who is willing to love life, and to see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips—not to speak guile: ¹¹let him turn aside from evil, and do good, let him seek peace and pursue it: ¹²because the eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous, and His ears—to their supplication, but the face of the Lord is upon those doing evil: ¹³and who is he who will be doing you evil, if of that which is good ye may become imitators? ¹⁴but if ye even should suffer because of righteousness, happy are ye! for of their fear be not afraid, neither be troubled: ¹⁵but the Lord God sanctify in your hearts.

But be ready always for defence to every one who is asking of you for an account concerning the hope which is in you, with meekness and fear: ¹⁶having a good conscience, that in that in which they speak against you as evil-doers, they may be ashamed who are traducing your good behaviour in Christ: ¹⁷for it is better doing good, if the will of God will it, to suffer, than doing evil: ¹⁸because Christ also once for sin suffered—righteous for unrighteous—that he may lead us to God, having been put to death in the flesh, but having been made alive in the spirit, ¹⁹in which also to the spirits in prison having gone he preached, ²⁰who sometime disbelieved, when once the long-suffering of God did wait, in the days of Noah—an ark being a preparing—in which few, that is, eight souls, were saved through water: ²¹to which also an antitype doth now save us—baptism, (not a putting away of the filth of the flesh, but the question of a good conscience in regard to God,) through the rising again of Jesus Christ, ²²who is on the right hand of God, having gone into heaven—messengers, and authorities, and powers, having been subjected to him.

IV. ¹CHRIST, then, having suffered for us in the flesh, ye also with the same mind arm yourselves, because he who suffered in the flesh hath done with sin, ²no more in the desires of men, but in the will of God to live the rest of the time in the flesh; ³for sufficient to us is the past time of life the will of the nations to have wrought, having walked in lasciviousnesses, desires, excesses of wines, revellings, drinkings, and unlawful idolatries, ⁴in which they think it strange—your not running with them to the same excess of dissoluteness, speaking evil, ⁵who shall give an account to Him who is ready to judge living and dead, ⁶for for this also to the dead was the good news proclaimed, that they may be judged, indeed, according to men in the flesh, but may live according to God in the spirit.

⁷ But of all things the end hath come near; he sober-minded, then, and watch unto prayers, ⁸ but, before all things, to one another having the earnest love, because the love shall cover a multitude of sins; ⁹ being hospitable to one another, without murmurings, ¹⁰ each, according as he received a gift, to one another ministering it, as good stewards of the manifold grace of God; ¹¹ if any one doth speak—as the oracles of God; if any one doth minister—as of the ability which God supplieth; that in all things God may be glorified through Jesus Christ, to whom is the glory and power—to the ages of the ages! Amen.

¹² Beloved, think it not strange at the fiery suffering among you which is coming to try you, as at some strange thing happening to you; ¹³ but, according as ye have fellowship with the sufferings of the Christ, rejoice ye, that also in the revelation of his glory ye may rejoice—exulting; ¹⁴ if ye be reproached in the name of Christ—happy are ye, because the Spirit of glory and of God upon you doth rest; in regard, indeed, to them, he is evil-spoken of, but in regard to you, he is glorified; ¹⁵ for let none of you suffer as a murderer, or thief, or evil-doer, or as an inspector into other men's matters; ¹⁶ but if as a Christian, let him not be ashamed, but let him glorify God in this respect; ¹⁷ because it is the time of the beginning of judgment from the house of God, but if first from you, what the end of those not obedient to the good news of God? ¹⁸ And if the righteous man is scarcely saved, the ungodly and sinner—where shall he appear? ¹⁹ so that also those suffering according to the will of God, as to a faithful Creator, let them commit their own souls in good doing.

V. ¹ ELDERS who are among you, I exhort, who am a fellow-elder, and a witness of the sufferings of the Christ, and of the glory about to be revealed a partaker, ² tend the flock of God which is among you, being overseers, not constrainedly, but willingly, neither for filthy lucre, but of a ready mind, ³ neither as exercising lordship over the heritages, but patterns becoming of the flock; ⁴ and at the manifestation of the chief Shepherd, ye shall receive the unfading crown of glory.

⁵ In like manner, ye younger, be subject to the elders, but all to one another subjecting yourselves; with humble-mindedness be clothed, because God the proud resisteth, but to the humble He giveth grace; ⁶ be humbled, then, under the powerful hand of God, that you He may exalt in due time; ⁷ all your care having cast on Him, because He careth for you.

⁸ Be sober, vigilant, because your opponent the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may swallow up, ⁹ whom resist, steadfast in the faith, knowing the same sufferings to your brotherhood in the world to be accomplished.

¹⁰ But the God of all grace, who called you to His age-during glory in Christ Jesus, having suffered a little, Himself make you perfect, establish, strengthen, settle you; ¹¹ to Him is the glory, and the power—to the ages of the ages! Amen.

¹² Through Silvanus, to you the faithful brother, as I reckon, through few words I have written, exhorting and testifying this to be the true grace of God in which ye stand. ¹³ Salute you doth the assembly in Babylon jointly-elected, and Markus my son. ¹⁴ Salute one another in a kiss of love; peace to you all who are in Christ Jesus! Amen.

SECOND PETER.

CHAP. I. ¹ SIMON PETER, a servant and an apostle of Jesus Christ, to those who obtained like precious faith with us in the righteousness of our God and Saviour Jesus Christ: ² Grace to you, and peace be multiplied in the acknowledgment of God and of Jesus our Lord!

³ As all things to us His divine power (the things pertaining to life and godliness) hath given, through the acknowledgment of him who called us through glory and virtue, ⁴ through which to us the greatest and precious promises have been given, that through these ye may become partakers of a divine nature, having escaped from the corruption in the world in desires.

⁵ But this same also—all diligence having brought in besides, superadd in your faith the virtue, but in the virtue the knowledge, ⁶ but in the knowledge the temperance, but in the temperance the endurance, but in the endurance the godliness, ⁷ but in the godliness the brotherly kindness, but in the brotherly kindness the love; ⁸ for these things being to you and abounding, do make you neither inert nor unfruitful in regard to the acknowledging of our Lord Jesus Christ, ⁹ for he with whom these things are not present is blind, dim-sighted, having become forgetful of the cleansing of his old sins; ¹⁰ wherefore the rather, brethren, be diligent to make steadfast your calling and choice, for these things doing, ye may never stumble, ¹¹ for, so, richly shall be superadded to you the entrance into the age-during reign of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

¹² Wherefore, I will not be careless always to remind you concerning these things, though, knowing them, and having been established in the present truth, ¹³ but I think right, so long as I am in this tabernacle, to stir you up in reminding you, ¹⁴ having known that soon is the laying aside of my tabernacle, even as also our Lord Jesus Christ shewed to me ¹⁵ but I will be diligent that also at every time ye have, after my departure, power to make to yourselves the remembrance of these things.

¹⁶For, skillfully devised fables not having followed out, we made known to you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but eye-witnesses having become of his majesty—¹⁷for having received from God the Father honour and glory, such a voice being borne to him by the excellent glory: 'This is My Son—the beloved, in whom I have been well pleased.' ¹⁸and this voice we—we heard, out of heaven borne, being with him in the holy mount. ¹⁹And we have the more firm the prophetic word, to which ye do well giving heed, as to a lamp shining in a dark place, till the day may dawn, and the morning star may arise—in your hearts: ²⁰this first knowing, that no prophecy of the writing cometh of private exposition, ²¹for not of the will of man did ever prophecy come, but by the Holy Spirit borne did the holy men of God speak.

II. ¹BUT there came also false prophets among the people, as also among you there shall be false teachers, who shall bring in besides destructive sects, and the Master who bought them denying, bringing to themselves quick destruction, ²and many shall follow their destructive ways, because of whom the way of the truth shall be evil-spoken of, ³and in covetousness, with mottled words, of you they shall make merchandise, whose judgment of old is not idle, and their destruction doth not slumber.

⁴For if God the angels who sinned spared not, but with chains of thick gloom, having cast them down to Tartarus, delivered them to judgment, having been reserved, ⁵and the old world spared not, but the eighth person, Noah, of righteousness a preacher, He kept, a flood on the world of the ungodly having brought, ⁶and the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah having turned into ashes, with an overthrow he condemned, an example to those about to be ungodly having set them; ⁷and righteous Lot, worn down by the conduct in lasciviousness of the impious, He rescued, ⁸for in seeing and in hearing, the righteous man, dwelling among them, day by day the righteous soul with unlawful works was harassing.

⁹The Lord hath known to rescue godly ones out of temptation, but unrighteous ones to a day of judgment, being punished, to keep, ¹⁰but chiefly those going behind the flesh in desire of uncleanness, and lordship despising: presumptuous, self-complacent, dignitaries they are not afraid to speak evil of, ¹¹whereas, messengers in strength and power being greater, do not bear against them before the Lord an evil-speaking judgment; ¹²but these, as irrational natural beasts, made to be caught and destroyed, (in what things they are ignorant of, speaking evil,) in their own destruction shall be destroyed, ¹³about to receive the reward of unrighteousness, pleasure counting the luxury in the day, spots and blemishes, luxuriating in their own deceits, feasting with you, ¹⁴having eyes full of adultery, and unable to cease from sin, enticing unstable souls, having an heart exercised in covetousnesses, children of a curse, ¹⁵having forsaken the right way, they went astray, having followed in the way of Balaam the son of Bosor, who a reward of unrighteousness did love, ¹⁶but had a rebuke of his own iniquity, a dumb ass, in man's voice having spoken, forbade the prophet's madness.

¹⁷These are wells without water, clouds by a tempest driven, to whom the thick gloom of the darkness to the age is kept: ¹⁸for overswellings of vanity speaking, they entice in the desires of the flesh, in lasciviousnesses, those who had truly escaped from those conducting themselves in error. ¹⁹liberty to them promising, themselves being servants of corruption, for by whom any one is overcome, to this one also he is brought into servitude, ²⁰for if, having escaped from the pollutions of the world, in the acknowledging of the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, but by these again being entangled, they are overcome, become to them hath the last things worse than the first things, ²¹for it were better for them not to have acknowledged the way of righteousness, than having acknowledged it, to turn back from the holy commandment delivered to them. ²²but happened to them hath that of the true similitude: 'A dog turned back upon his own vomit,' and, 'A sow having bathed herself—to rolling in the mire.'

III. ¹THIS, now, beloved, a second letter to you I write, in both which I stir up your pure mind in reminding you, ²to be mindful of the sayings said before by the holy prophets, and of the command of us the apostles of the Lord and Saviour, ³this first knowing, that there shall come in the latter end of the days scoffers, according to their own desires going ⁴and saying, 'Where is the promise of his coming? for since the fathers fell asleep, all things so remain from the beginning of the creation:' ⁵for this is unobserved by them willingly, that the heavens were of old, and the earth out of water and through water standing together by the word of God, ⁶through which the then world, by water having been overflowed, did perish; ⁷but the present heavens and the earth, by the same word are treasured, for fire kept to the day of judgment and destruction of the ungodly men.

⁸But this one thing let not be unobserved by you, beloved, that one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day: ⁹the Lord is not slow in regard to the promise, as certain count slowness, but is long-suffering to us, not wishing any to be lost, but all to go forward to reformation, ¹⁰but it will come—the day of the Lord—as a thief in the night, in which the heavens with a rushing noise will pass away, and the elements with burning heat shall be dissolved, and earth and the works in it shall be burnt up.

¹¹All these, then, being dissolved, what kind of persons doth it behoove you to be in holy behaviour and godliness? ¹² waiting for and hasting to the coming of the day of God, in which the heavens being on fire, shall be dissolved, and the elements with burning heat shall melt; ¹³ but for new heavens and new earth according to His promise we wait, in which righteousness dwelleth; ¹⁴ wherefore, beloved, these things waiting for, be diligent, spotless and unblameable, by him to be found in peace, ¹⁵ and the long-suffering of our Lord count ye salvation, according as also our beloved brother Paul—according to the wisdom given to him—wrote to you, ¹⁶ as also in all the letters, speaking in them concerning these things, in which things are certain things hard to be understood, which the untaught and unstable wrest, as also the other writings, to their own destruction.

¹⁷ Ye, then, beloved, knowing before, take heed, lest, together with the error of the impious being led away, ye may fall from your own steadfastness, ¹⁸ but increase in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ; to him is glory both now, and to the day of the age! Amen.

FIRST JOHN.

CHAP. I. ¹ THAT which was from the beginning, that which we have heard, that which we have seen with our eyes, that which we beheld, and our hands handled, concerning the Word of Life, ² (and the Life was manifested, and we have seen, and testify, and declare to you the Life the age-during, which was with the Father, and was manifested to us,) ³ that which we have seen and heard declare we to you, that also ye may have fellowship with us, but our fellowship also is with the Father, and with His Son Jesus Christ; ⁴ and these things we write to you, that your joy may be full.

⁵ And this is the message which we have heard from Him, and announce to you, that God is light, and darkness in Him is not at all; ⁶ if we may say—'we have fellowship with him,' and in the darkness may walk—we lie, and do not the truth; ⁷ but if in the light we may walk, as He is in the light—we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanseth us from all sin; ⁸ if we may say—'we have not sin,' ourselves we lead astray, and the truth is not in us; ⁹ if we may confess our sins, faithful He is and righteous that He may forgive us the sins, and may cleanse us from all unrighteousness; ¹⁰ if we may say—'we have not sinned,' a liar we make Him, and His word is not in us.

II. ¹ MY little children, these things write I to you, that ye may not sin; and if any one may sin, an Advocate we have with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous, ² and he—he is a propitiation for our sins, and not for ours only, but also for those of the whole world, ³ and in this we know that we have known him, if his commands we may keep; ⁴ he who is saying, 'I have known him,' and his command is not keeping, a liar he is, and in him the truth is not; ⁵ but whoso may keep his word, truly in him the love of God hath been perfected; in this we know that in him we are. ⁶ He who is saying in him he remaineth, ought according as he walked also himself so to walk.

⁷ Brethren, a new command I write not to you, but an old command, which ye had from the beginning—the old command is the word which ye heard from the beginning; ⁸ again a new command I write to you, which thing is true in him and in you, because the darkness passeth away, and the true light now shineth; ⁹ he who is saying, in the light he is, and his brother is hating, in the darkness he is till now; ¹⁰ he who is loving his brother, in the light he remaineth, and a stumbling-block in him there is not; ¹¹ but he who is hating his brother, in the darkness he is, and in the darkness he walketh, and he hath not known whither he goeth, because the darkness blinded his eyes.

¹² I write to you, little children, because the sins have been forgiven you because of his name; ¹³ I write to you, fathers, because ye have known him who is from the beginning; I write to you, young men, because ye have overcome the evil one.

I write to you, little boys, because ye have known the Father; ¹⁴ I wrote to you, fathers, because ye have known him who is from the beginning; I wrote to you, young men, because ye are strong, and the word of God in you remaineth, and ye have overcome the evil one.

¹⁵ Love not ye the world, nor the things in the world; if any one may love the world, the love of the Father is not in him, ¹⁶ because all that is in the world—the desire of the flesh, and the desire of the eyes, and the ostentation of life—is not of the Father, but is of the world; ¹⁷ and the world passeth away, and the desire of it; but he who is doing the will of God, he remaineth—to the age.

¹⁸ Little boys, it is the last hour; and even as ye heard that the antichrist cometh, even now antichrists have become many—whence we know that it is the last hour; ¹⁹ out of us they went forth, but they were not of us, for if they had been of us, they would have remained with us; but—that they might be manifested that they are not all of us.

²⁰ And ye have an anointing from the Holy One, and have known all things; ²¹ I wrote not to you because ye have not known the truth, but because ye have known it, and because no lie is of the truth. ²² Who is the liar, except he who is denying that Jesus is the Christ? this one is the antichrist who is denying the Father and the Son; ²³ every one who is denying the Son, neither hath he the Father; [he who is confessing the Son hath the Father also.]

²¹Ye, then, that which ye heard from the beginning, in you let it remain; if in you may remain that which from the beginning ye heard, ye also in the Son and in the Father shall remain, ²²and this is the promise which He—He promised us—the life age-during.

²³These things I wrote to you concerning those leading you astray; ²⁴and you, the anointing which ye received from him, in you it remaineth, and ye have no need that any one may teach you, but as the same anointing teacheth you concerning all, and is true, and is not a lie, and even as it taught you, ye shall remain in him.

²⁵And now, little children, remain in him, that when he may be manifested, we may have boldness, and may not be ashamed before him, in his coming; ²⁶if ye know that he is righteous, ye know that every one who is doing the righteousness, of him hath been begotten.

III. ¹SEE ye what love the Father hath given to us, that children of God we may be called; because of this the world doth not know us, because it did not know Him; ²beloved, now, children of God are we, and it was not yet manifested what we shall be, but we have known that if he may be manifested, like him we shall be, because we shall see him as he is; ³and every one who is having this hope on him, purifieth himself, even as he is pure.

⁴Every one who is doing the sin, the lawlessness also doth, and the sin is the lawlessness, ⁵and ye have known that he was manifested that our sins he may take away, and sin is not in him; ⁶every one who is remaining in him doth not sin; every one who is sinning, hath not seen him, nor known him.

⁷Little children, let no one lead you astray; he who is doing the righteousness is righteous, even as He is righteous, ⁸he who is doing the sin, of the devil he is, because from the beginning the devil sinneth; for this was the Son of God manifested, that he may break up the works of the devil; ⁹every one who hath been begotten of God, sin he doeth not, because his seed in him remaineth, and he is not able to sin, because of God he hath been begotten.

¹⁰In this manifest are the children of God, and the children of the devil: every one who is not doing righteousness, is not of God, and he who is not loving his brother, ¹¹because this is the message which ye heard from the beginning, that we may love one another, ¹²not as Cain—of the evil one he was, and slew his brother, and wherefore slew he him? because his works were evil, but those of his brother righteous.

¹³Do not wonder, my brethren, if the world hatech you; ¹⁴we—we have known that we have passed out of the death into the life, because we love the brethren; he who is not loving the brother remaineth in the death. ¹⁵Every one who is hating his brother—a man-killer he is, and ye have known that no man-killer hath life age-during in him remaining, ¹⁶in this we have known the love of God, because he for us his life laid down, and we ought for the brethren the lives to lay down; ¹⁷but whoso may have the goods of the world, and may see his brother having need, and may shut up his bowels from him—how doth the love of God remain in him?

¹⁸My little children, let us not love in word nor in tongue, but in work and in truth; ¹⁹and in this we know that of the truth we are, and before Him we shall assure our hearts, ²⁰because if our heart may condemn—because, greater is God than our heart, and He knoweth all things.

²¹Beloved, if our heart may not condemn us, we have boldness toward God, ²²and whatever we may ask, we receive from Him, because His commands we keep, and the things pleasing before Him we do, ²³and this is His command, that we may believe in the name of His Son Jesus Christ, and may love one another, even as He gave command to us, ²⁴and He who is keeping His commands, in Him he remaineth and He in him; and in this we know that He remaineth in us, by the Spirit which He gave us.

IV. ¹BELOVED, every spirit believe not, but prove the spirits, if of God they are, because many false prophets have gone out into the world; ²in this know the Spirit of God: every spirit which confesseth Jesus Christ in the flesh having come, of God it is, ³and every spirit which doth not confess Jesus Christ in the flesh having come, of God it is not; and this is that of the antichrist, which ye heard that it cometh, and now in the world it is already.

⁴Ye—of God ye are, little children, and ye have overcome them; because greater is He who is in you, than he who is in the world. ⁵They—of the world they are; because of this from the world they speak, and the world heareth them; ⁶we—of God we are; he who is knowing God, heareth us; he who is not of God, doth not hear us; by this we know the spirit of the truth, and the spirit of the error.

⁷Beloved, let us love one another, because the love is of God, and every one who is loving, of God hath been begotten, and knoweth God; ⁸he who is not loving, did not know God, because God is love. ⁹In this was manifested the love of God in us, because His Son—the only begotten—hath God sent into the world, that we may live through him; ¹⁰in this is the love, not that we loved God, but that He loved us, and sent His Son a propitiation for our sins.

¹¹Beloved, if thus God loved us, also we ought one other to love; ¹²God no one hath ever seen; if we may love one another, God in us remaineth, and His love hath been perfected in us; ¹³in this we know that in Him we remain, and He in us, because of His Spirit He hath given us.

¹⁴And we—we have seen and do testify, that the Father hath sent the Son—Saviour of the world; ¹⁵whoever may confess that Jesus is the Son of God, God in him remaineth, and he in God; ¹⁶and we—we have known and believed the love, which God hath in us; God is love, and he who is remaining in the love, in God he remaineth, and God in him.

¹⁷In this made perfect hath been the love with us, that boldness we may have in the day of judgment, because even as He is, we—we also are in the world; ¹⁸fear is not in the love, but the perfect love casteth out the fear, because the fear hath punishment, but he who is fearing hath not been made perfect in the love; ¹⁹we—we love him, because He—He first loved us; ²⁰if any one may say—'I love God,' and his brother he may hate, a liar he is; for he who is not loving his brother whom he hath seen, God—whom he hath not seen—how is he able to love? ²¹and this the command we have from Him, that he who is loving God, may love also his brother.

V. ¹EVERY one who is believing that Jesus is the Christ, of God he hath been begotten, and every one who is loving Him who begat, loveth also him who is begotten of Him: ²in this we know that we love the children of God, when we may love God, and His commands may keep; ³for this is the love of God, that His commands we may keep, and His commands are not burdensome; ⁴because every one who is begotten of God overcometh the world, and this is the victory which overcame the world—our faith; ⁵who is he who is overcoming the world, except he who is believing that Jesus is the Son of God?

⁶This one is he who came through water and blood—Jesus the Christ, not in the water only, but in the water and the blood; and the Spirit it is that is witnessing, because the Spirit is the truth, ⁷because three are who are testifying (in the heaven, the Father, the Word, and the Holy Spirit, and these—the three—are one; ⁸and three are who are testifying in the earth, the spirit, and the water, and the blood, and the three are into the one.

A. & G. S. Sinai 185

⁹If the testimony of man we receive, the testimony of God is greater, because this is the testimony of God, which He hath testified concerning His Son. ¹⁰He who is believing in the Son of God, hath the testimony in himself; he who is not believing God, a liar hath made Him, because he hath not believed in the testimony which God hath testified concerning His Son; ¹¹and this is the testimony that life age-during God gave to us, and this—the life—is in His Son; ¹²he who is having the Son, hath the life; he who is not having the Son of God—the life he hath not.

¹³These things I wrote to you who are believing in the name of the Son of God, that ye may know that life ye have age-during, and that ye may believe in the name of the Son of God. ¹⁴And this is the boldness which we have toward Him, that if anything we may ask according to His will, He heareth us, ¹⁵and if we have known that He heareth us, whatever we may ask, we have known that we have the requests which we have requested from Him.

¹⁶If any one may see his brother sinning a sin not to death, he shall ask, and He shall give to him life to those sinning not to death: there is sin to death, not concerning it do I speak that he may beseech; ¹⁷all unrighteousness is sin, and there is sin not to death. ¹⁸We have known that every one who is begotten of God doth not sin, but he who was begotten of God keepeth himself, and the evil one doth not touch him; ¹⁹we have known that of God we are, and the whole world in the evil lieth; ²⁰but we have known that the Son of God is come, and hath given us a mind, that we may know Him who is true, and we are in Him who is true, in His Son Jesus Christ; this one is the true God and the life age-during! ²¹Little children, keep yourselves from the idols! Amen.

SECOND JOHN.

¹THE elder to the chosen lady, and to her children, whom I love in truth, and not I only, but also all those having known the truth, ²because of the truth which is remaining in us, and with us shall be to the age; ³there shall be with you grace, kindness, peace, from God the Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of the Father, in truth and love.

⁴I rejoiced exceedingly that I have found of thy children walking in truth, even as a command we received from the Father; ⁵and now I beseech thee, lady, not as writing to thee a new command, but which we had from the beginning, that we may love one another, ⁶and this is the love, that we may walk after His commands; this is the command, even as ye heard from the beginning, that in it ye may walk, ⁷because many leading astray did enter into the world, who are not confessing Jesus Christ coming in flesh; this one is he who is leading astray, and the antichrist.

⁸See to yourselves, that we may not lose the things which we wrought, but a full reward may receive; ⁹every one who is transgressing, and is not remaining in the teaching of the Christ, hath not God; he who is remaining in the teaching of the Christ, this one hath both the Father and the Son; ¹⁰if any one doth come to you, and this teaching doth not bear, receive him not into the house, and say not to him 'Hail!' ¹¹for he who is saying to him 'Hail,' hath fellowship with his evil works.

¹²Many things having to write to you, I purposed not through paper and ink, but I hope to come to you, and speak mouth to mouth, that our joy may be full; ¹³salute thee do the children of thy chosen sister. Amen.

THIRD JOHN.

¹THE elder to Gaius the beloved, whom I love in truth! ²beloved, concerning all things I desire thee to prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth, ³for I rejoiced exceedingly, the brethren coming and testifying of the truth in thee, even as thou in truth dost walk; ⁴greater than these things I have no joy, that I may hear of my children in truth walking.

⁵Beloved, faithfully dost thou do whatever thou mayest work to the brethren and to the strangers, ⁶who testified of thy love before an assembly, whom thou wilt do well, having sent forward worthily of God, ⁷for for His name they went forth, nothing receiving from the nations; ⁸we, then, ought to receive such, that fellow-workers we may become to the truth.

⁹I wrote to the assembly, but he who is loving the first place among them—Diotrephes—doth not receive us; ¹⁰because of this, if I may come, I will cause him to remember his works which he doeth, with evil words prating against us; and not content with these, neither doth he himself receive the brethren, and those wishing he forbid—deth, and out of the assembly doth cast.

¹¹Beloved, be not thou following that which is evil, but that which is good: he who is doing good, of God he is, but he who is doing evil hath not seen God; ¹²to Demetrius testimony hath been given by all, and by the truth itself, and we also—we testify, and ye have known that our testimony is true.

¹³Many things had I to write, but I do not wish through ink and pen to write to thee, ¹⁴but I hope straightway to see thee, and mouth to mouth we shall speak; ¹⁵Peace to thee! salute thee do the friends; be saluting the friends by name.

JUDE.

¹JUDAS, of Jesus Christ a servant, and brother of James, to those sanctified in God the Father, and in Jesus Christ kept—called, ²kindness to you, and peace, and love be multiplied!

³Beloved, all diligence using to write to you concerning the common salvation, I had necessity to write to you, exhorting to contend earnestly for the faith once delivered to the saints, ⁴for there came in unobserved certain men, long ago having been written beforehand to this judgment, ungodly, the grace of our God perverting to lasciviousness, and the only Master—God, and our Lord Jesus Christ denying, ⁵but to remind you I wish, ye knowing once this, that the Lord, a people out of the land of Egypt having saved, again those who believed not did destroy; ⁶messengers also, those who kept not their own principality, but left their own dwelling, to the judgment of the great day, in bonds everlasting, under darkness He hath kept, ⁷as Sodom and Gomorrah, and the cities around them, in like manner to these, having given themselves to whoredom, and having gone after other flesh, have been set before—an example, of fire age-during, justice suffering.

⁸In like manner, nevertheless, these dreamers also the flesh indeed defile, and lordship they put away, and dignities speak evil of, ⁹but Michael, the chief-messenger, when, with the devil contending, he was disputing about the body of Moses, dared not to bring up an evil speaking judgment, but said, 'The Lord rebuke thee!' ¹⁰but these, as many things indeed as they have not known, they speak evil of; but as many things as naturally (as the irrational beasts) they understand, in these they are corrupted; ¹¹wo to them! for in the way of Cain they proceeded, and to the error of Balaam for reward they rushed, and in the gainsaying of Korah they perished.

¹²These are in your love-leasts—craggy rocks: feasting together with you, without fear shepherding themselves; clouds without water, by winds carried about; trees autumnal, without fruit, twice dead, rooted up; ¹³wild waves of the sea, foaming out their own shames: stars going astray, to whom the gloom of the darkness to the age hath been kept.

¹⁴But prophesy also to these did the seventh from Adam—Enoch—saying, 'Lo, the Lord came in His saintly myriads, ¹⁵to do judgment against all, and to convict all their ungodly ones, concerning all their works of ungodliness which they did ungodly, and concerning all the hard things that speak against Him did ungodly sinners.'

¹⁶These are murmurers, repiners; according to their own desires walking, and their mouth speaketh great swellings, giving admiration to persons, because of profit; ¹⁷but ye, beloved, remember ye the sayings spoken before by the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ: ¹⁸that they said to you, that in the last time there shall be scoffers, after their own desires of ungodliness walking; ¹⁹these are those setting themselves apart, natural men, the Spirit not having.

²⁰But ye, beloved, on your most holy faith building yourselves up, in the Holy Spirit praying, ²¹yourself in the love of God keep ye, waiting for the kindness of our Lord Jesus Christ—to life age-during; ²²and to some be kind, judging thoroughly, ²³but some with fear save ye, out of the fire snatching them, hating even the coat from the flesh spotted.

²⁴But to Him who is able to guard you not stumbling, and to set you in the presence of His glory unblemished, in gladness, ²⁵to the only wise God our Saviour, is glory and greatness, strength and power, both now and to all the ages! Amen.

REVELATION.

CHAP. I. ¹ A REVELATION of Jesus Christ, which God gave to him, to shew to his servants what things it behoveth to come to pass quickly; and he signified it, having sent through his messenger to his servant John, ² who testified the word of God, and the testimony of Jesus Christ, as many things also as he saw. ³ Happy is he who is reading, and those hearing the words of the prophecy, and keeping the things written in it—for the time is near!

⁴ John to the seven assemblies which are in Asia: Grace to you, and peace, from Him who is, and who was, and who is coming, and from the seven spirits which are before His throne, ⁵ and from Jesus Christ, the faithful witness, the first-born from the dead, and the ruler of the kings of the earth; to him who loved us, and bathed us from our sins in his blood, ⁶ and made us kings and priests to God, even his Father, to him is the glory and the power to the ages of the ages! Amen.

⁷ Lo, he cometh with the clouds, and see him shall every eye, even those who pierced him, and bemoan because of him shall all the tribes of the earth. Yes! Amen!

⁸ I am the Alpha and the Omega, beginning and end, saith the Lord, who is, and who was, and who is coming—the Almighty.

⁹ I, John, who also am your brother and fellow-partner in the tribulation, and in the reign and endurance of Jesus Christ, was in the isle which is called Patmos, because of the word of God, and because of the testimony of Jesus Christ; ¹⁰ I was in the Spirit in the Lord's-day, and I heard behind me a great voice, as of a trumpet, saying, ¹¹ 'I am the Alpha and the Omega, the First and the Last;' and, 'What thou seest, write in a scroll, and send to the seven assemblies which are in Asia: to Ephesus, and to Smyrna, and to Pergamos, and to Thyatira, and to Sardis, and to Philadelphia, and to Laodicea.'

¹² And I turned to see the voice which spake with me, and having turned, I saw seven golden lamps, ¹³ and in the midst of the seven lamps one like to the Son of Man, clothed to the foot, and girt round at the breast with a golden girdle, ¹⁴ and his head and hairs white, as if white wool—as snow, and his eyes as a flame of fire; ¹⁵ and his feet like to fine brass, as in a furnace fired, and his voice as a sound of many waters, ¹⁶ and having in his right hand seven stars, and out of his mouth a sharp two-edged sword is proceeding, and his countenance is as the sun shineth in its might.

¹⁷ And when I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead, and he placed his right hand upon me, saying to me, 'Be not afraid; I am the First, and the Last, ¹⁸ and he who is living, and I became dead, and, lo, I am living to the ages of the ages, (Amen!) and I have the keys of hades and of death.

¹⁹ Write the things which thou hast seen, and the things which are, and the things which are about to come after these things: ²⁰ the mystery of the seven stars which thou hast seen on my right hand, and the seven golden lamps: the seven stars are the messengers of the seven assemblies, and the seven lamps which thou hast seen are the seven assemblies.

II. ¹ TO the messenger of the Ephesian assembly write: These things saith he who is holding the seven stars in his right hand, who is walking in the midst of the seven lamps—the golden: ² I have known thy works, and thy toil, and thy endurance, and that thou art not able to bear evil ones, and that thou hast tried those saying themselves to be apostles and are not, and hast found them liars, ³ and thou didst bear, and hast endurance, and because of my name hast toiled, and not been weary.

⁴ But I have against thee: That thy first love thou didst leave! ⁵ remember, then, whence thou hast fallen, and reform, and the first works do; but if not, I come to thee quickly, and will remove thy lamp out of its place—if thou mayest not reform: ⁶ but this thou hast, that thou dost hate the works of the Nicolaitans, which I also hate. ⁷ He who is having an ear—let him hear what the Spirit saith to the assemblies: To him who is overcoming—I will give to him to eat of the tree of life, which is in the midst of the paradise of God.

⁸ And to the messenger of the assembly of the Smyrneans write: These things saith the First and the Last, who became dead and lived: ⁹ I have known thy works, and tribulation, and poverty, (but thou art rich,) and the evil-speaking of those saying themselves to be Jews, and are not, but are a synagogue of the Adversary.

¹⁰ Be not afraid of the things which thou art about to suffer: lo, the devil is about to cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tried, and ye shall have tribulation ten days; become thou faithful unto death, and I will give to thee the crown of life. ¹¹ He who is having an ear—let him hear what the Spirit saith to the assemblies: He who is overcoming may not be injured of the second death.

¹² And to the messenger of the assembly in Pergamos write: These things saith he who is having the sharp two-edged sword: ¹³ I have known thy works, and where thou dwellest—where the throne of the Adversary is—and thou dost hold fast my name, and didst not deny my faith, even in the days in which Antipas was my faithful witness, who was put to death beside you, where the Adversary doth dwell.

¹⁴ But I have against thee a few things: That thou hast there those holding the teaching of Balaam, who taught Balak to cast a stumbling-block before the children of Israel, to eat idol-sacrifices, and to commit whoredom: ¹⁸so hast thou, even thou, those holding the teaching of the Nicolaitans, which thing I hate.

¹⁶Reform! but if not, I come to thee quickly, and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth. ¹⁷He who is having an ear—let him hear what the Spirit saith to the assemblies: To him who is overcoming, I will give to him to eat from the hidden manna, and will give to him a white stone, and upon the stone a new name written, which no one knew except he who is receiving it.

¹⁸And to the messenger of the assembly of Thyatira write: These things saith the Son of God, who is having his eyes as a flame of fire, and his feet like to fine brass: ¹⁹I have known thy works, and love, and ministrations, and faith, and thy endurance, and thy works—and the last are more than the first.

²⁰But I have against thee a few things: That thou dost suffer the woman Jezebel, who is calling herself a prophetess, to teach, and to lead astray my servants, to commit whoredom, and idol-sacrifices to eat; ²¹and I gave to her a time that she may reform from her whoredom, and she did not reform; ²²lo, I will cast her into a couch, and those committing adultery with her into great tribulation—if they may not repent of their works; ²³and her children I will kill in death, and know shall all the assemblies that I am he who is searching reins and hearts; and I will give to you—to each—according to your works.

²⁴But to you I say, and to the rest who are in Thyatira, as many as have not this teaching, and who did not know the depths of the Adversary, as they say: I will not put upon you other burden; ²⁵but that which ye have—hold ye, till I may come; ²⁶and he who is overcoming, and who is keeping unto the end my works, I will give to him authority over the nations, ²⁷and he shall rule them with a rod of iron—as the vessels of the potter shall they be broken—as I also have received from my Father; ²⁸and I will give to him the star of the morning. ²⁹He who is having an ear—let him hear what the Spirit saith to the assemblies.

III. ¹AND to the messenger of the assembly in Sardis write: These things saith he who is having the seven spirits of God, and the seven stars: I have known thy works, that thou hast the name that thou livest, and thou art dead; ²become watching, and strengthen the rest of the things which are about to die, for I have not found thy works fulfilled in the presence of God.

³Remember, then, how thou hast received, and heard, and be keeping, and reform; if, then, thou mayest not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou mayest not know what hour I will come upon thee. ⁴Thou hast a few names even in Sardis who did not defile their garments, and they shall walk with me in white, because they are worthy. ⁵He who is overcoming—this one—shall be arrayed in white garments, and I will not blot out his name from the scroll of life, and I will confess his name in the presence of my Father, and in the presence of His messengers. ⁶He who is having an ear—let him hear what the Spirit saith to the assemblies.

⁷And to the messenger of the assembly in Philadelphia write: These things saith he who is holy, he who is true, he who is having the key of David, he who is opening and no one shutteth, and he shutteth and no one openeth! ⁸I have known thy works: lo, I have set before thee a door—opened, and no one is able to shut it, because thou hast a little power, and didst keep my word, and didst not deny my name; ⁹lo, I make of the synagogue of the Adversary those saying themselves to be Jews, and are not, but do lie; lo, I will make them that they may come and may bow before thy feet, and may know that I loved thee.

¹⁰Because thou didst keep the word of my endurance, I also will keep thee from the hour of the trial which is about to come upon all the world, to try those dwelling on the earth. ¹¹Lo, I come quickly, he holding fast that which thou hast, that no one may take thy crown. ¹²He who is overcoming—I will make him a pillar in the temple of my God, and without he may not go any more, and I will write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, the new Jerusalem, which cometh down out of the heaven from my God—also my new name. ¹³He who is having an ear—let him hear what the Spirit saith to the assemblies.

¹⁴And to the messenger of the assembly of the Laodiceans write: These things saith the Amen, the witness—the faithful and true—the chief of the creation of God: ¹⁵I have known thy works, that neither cold art thou nor hot; I would thou wert cold or hot. ¹⁶So—because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I am about to vomit thee out of my mouth; ¹⁷because thou sayest—I am rich, and have grown rich, and have need of nothing, and hast not known that thou art the wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked; ¹⁸I counsel thee to buy from me gold fired by fire that thou mayest be rich, and white garments that thou mayest be arrayed, and the shame of thy nakedness may not be manifest, and with eye-salve anoint thine eyes, that thou mayest see.

¹⁹As many as I love, I reprove and chasten; be zealous, then, and reform; ²⁰lo, I have stood at the door, and I knock; if any one may hear my voice, and may open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me. ²¹He who is overcoming—I will give to him to sit with me in my throne, as I also overcame and sat down with my Father in His throne. ²²He who is having an ear—let him hear what the Spirit saith to the assemblies.

IV. ¹AFTER these things I saw, and lo, a door opened in the heaven, and the first voice which I heard is as of a trumpet speaking with me, saying 'Come up hither, and I will shew thee what it behoveth to come to pass after these things;' ² and immediately I was in the Spirit, and lo, a throne was set in the heaven, and on the throne is one sitting, ³ and He who is sitting was to look upon like a stone, jasper and sardine: and a rainbow was round the throne like an emerald to look upon.

⁴ And around the throne are thrones twenty and four, and upon the thrones I saw twenty and four elders sitting, clothed in white garments, and they had on their heads crowns of gold; ⁵ and out of the throne proceed lightnings, and thunders, and voices, and seven lamps of fire are burning before the throne, which are the seven spirits of God; ⁶ and before the throne is a sea of glass like to crystal, and in the midst of the throne, and round the throne, are four living creatures, full of eyes before and behind; ⁷ and the first living creature is like a lion, and the second living creature is like a calf, and the third living creature had the face as a man, and the fourth living creature is like a flying eagle.

⁸ And the four living creatures, each one of them had six several wings, around and within full of eyes, and rest they have not day and night, saying, 'Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, who was, and who is, and who is coming;' ⁹ and when the living creatures give glory, and honour, and thanks, to Him who is sitting on the throne, to Him who is living to the ages of the ages, ¹⁰ fall down do the twenty and four elders before Him who is sitting on the throne, and bow before Him who is living to the ages of the ages, and they cast their crowns before their throne, saying, '¹ Worthy art Thou, O Lord, to receive the glory, and the honour, and the power, because Thou—Thou didst create all things, and because of Thy will are they, and they were created.'

V. ¹ AND I saw on the right hand of Him who is sitting on the throne a scroll, written within and on the back, sealed with seven seals; ² and I saw a strong messenger crying with a great voice, 'Who is worthy to open the scroll and to loose its seals?' ³ and no one was able in the heaven, nor on the earth, nor under the earth, to open the scroll, nor to see it.

⁴ And I was weeping much, because no one was found worthy to open and to read the scroll, nor to see it, ⁵ and one of the elders saith to me, 'Weep not; lo, overcame did the Lion who is of the tribe of Judah, the root of David, to open the scroll, and to loose its seven seals;' ⁶ and I saw, and lo, in the midst of the throne, and of the four living creatures, and in the midst of the elders, a Lamb hath stood as it had been slain, having seven horns and seven eyes, which are the seven spirits of God, which are sent into all the earth, ⁷ and he came and took the scroll out of the right hand of Him who is sitting on the throne.

⁸ And when he took the scroll, the four living creatures and the twenty-four elders fell before the Lamb, having each one harps, and golden vials full of perfumes, which are the prayers of the saints, ⁹ and they sing a new song, saying, 'Worthy art thou to take the scroll, and to open its seals, because thou wast slain, and didst redeem us to God in thy blood, out of every tribe, and tongue, and people, and nation, ¹⁰ and didst make us to our God kings and priests, and we shall reign on the earth.'

¹¹ And I saw, and I heard the voice of many messengers round the throne, and the living creatures, and the elders, (and the number of them was myriads of myriads, and thousands of thousands,) ¹² saying with a great voice, 'Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive the power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing!' ¹³ and every creature which is in the heaven, and in the earth, and under the earth, and the things which are upon the sea, and the all things in them, heard I saying, 'To Him who is sitting upon the throne, and to the Lamb is the blessing, and the honour, and the glory, and the might—to the ages of the ages!' ¹⁴ and the four living creatures said, 'Amen!' and the twenty-four elders fell down and bowed before Him who is living to the ages of the ages.

VI. ¹ AND I saw when the Lamb opened one of the seals, and I heard one of the four living creatures saying, as it were a voice of thunder, 'Come and see!' ² and I saw, and lo, a white horse, and he who is sitting on him is having a bow, and there was given to him a crown; and he went forth overcoming, and that he may overcome.

³ And when he opened the second seal, I heard the second living creature saying, 'Come and see!' ⁴ and there went forth another horse—red, and to him who is sitting on it, there was given to him to take the peace from the land, and that one another they may slay; and there was given to him a great sword.

⁵ And when he opened the third seal, I heard the third living creature saying, 'Come and see!' and I saw, and lo, a black horse, and he who is sitting on it is having a balance in his hand, ⁶ and I heard a voice in the midst of the four living creatures saying, 'A measure of wheat for a denary, and three measures of barley for a denary,' and 'The oil and the wine thou mayest not injure.'

⁷ And when he opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth living creature saying, 'Come and see!' ⁸ and I saw, and lo, a pale horse, and he who is sitting upon him—his name is Death, and Hades followeth with him, and there was given to them authority to kill, (over the fourth part of the land,) with sword, and with hunger, and with death, and by the beasts of the land.

⁹ And when he opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of those slain because of the word of God, and because of the testimony which they held, ¹⁰ and they were crying with a great voice, saying, 'Till when, O Master, the Holy and the True, dost Thou not judge and take vengeance of our blood from those dwelling on the land?' ¹¹and there were given to each one white robes, and it was said to them that they may rest themselves yet a little time, till may be fulfilled also their fellow-servants and their brethren, who are about to be killed—even as they.

¹²And I saw when he opened the sixth seal, and lo, a great earthquake came, and the sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the moon became as blood, ¹³and the stars of the heaven fell to the earth, (as a fig tree casteth her untimely figs, by a great wind being shaken,) ¹⁴and the heaven departed as a scroll rolled up, and every mountain and island out of their places were moved; ¹⁵and the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich, and the chiefs of thousands, and the mighty, and every servant, and every freeman, hid themselves in the dens, and in the rocks of the mountains, ¹⁶and they say to the mountains and to the rocks, 'Fall upon us, and hide us from the face of Him who is sitting upon the throne, and from the anger of the Lamb,' ¹⁷because come did the great day of His wrath, and who is able to stand?

VII. ¹AND after these things I saw four messengers, standing on the four corners of the land, holding the four winds of the land, that the wind may not blow on the land, nor upon the sea, nor upon any tree: ²and I saw another messenger going up from the rising of the sun, having the seal of the living God, and he cried with a great voice to the four messengers, to whom it was given to injure the land and the sea, saying, ³'Do not injure the land, nor the sea, nor the trees, till we may seal the servants of our God on their foreheads.'

⁴And I heard the number of those sealed, (144 thousands were sealed out of all the tribes of the Sons of Israel): ⁵of the tribe of Judah 12 thousand were sealed: of the tribe of Reuben 12 thousand were sealed: of the tribe of Gad 12 thousand were sealed: ⁶of the tribe of Asher 12 thousand were sealed: of the tribe of Naphtali 12 thousand were sealed: of the tribe of Manasseh 12 thousand were sealed: ⁷of the tribe of Simcon 12 thousand were sealed: of the tribe of Levi 12 thousand were sealed: of the tribe of Issachar 12 thousand were sealed: ⁸of the tribe of Zebulun 12 thousand were sealed: of the tribe of Joseph 12 thousand were sealed: of the tribe of Benjamin 12 thousand were sealed.

⁹After these things I saw, and lo, a great multitude, which—to number it no one was able, out of every nation, and tribes, and peoples, and tongues, standing before the throne, and before the Lamb, arrayed in white robes, and palms in their hands, ¹⁰and crying with a great voice, saying, 'The salvation to our God, to Him who is sitting upon the throne, and to the Lamb!'

¹¹And all the messengers stood around the throne, and the elders, and the four living creatures, and they fell before the throne on their face, and bowed before

God, ¹²saying, 'Amen! the blessing, and the glory, and the wisdom, and the thanksgiving, and the honour, and the power, and the might are to our God—to the ages of the ages! Amen!'

¹³And answer did one of the elders, saying to me, 'These who have been arrayed in the white robes—who are they, and whence came they?' ¹⁴and I have said to him, 'Sir, thou hast known:' and he said to me, 'These are those who are coming out of the great tribulation, and they washed their robes, and they made their robes white in the blood of the Lamb; ¹⁵because of this are they before the throne of God, and they do service to Him day and night in His temple, and He who is sitting upon the throne shall tabernacle over them; ¹⁶they shall not hunger any more, nor shall they thirst any more, nor may the sun fall on them, nor any heat, ¹⁷because the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall tend them, and shall lead them to living fountains of waters, and wipe away shall God every tear from their eyes.'

VIII. ¹AND when he opened the seventh seal, there came silence in the heaven about half-an-hour, ²and I saw the seven messengers who before God have stood, and there were given to them seven trumpets, ³and another messenger came, and stood at the altar, having a golden censer, and there was given to him much perfume, that he may give it to the prayers of all the saints upon the golden altar which is before the throne, ⁴and go up did the smoke of the perfume to the prayers of the saints out of the hand of the messenger, before God: ⁵and the messenger took the censer, and filled it out of the fire of the altar, and cast it to the earth, and there came voices, and thunders, and lightnings, and an earthquake.

⁶And the seven messengers who are having the seven trumpets prepared themselves that they may sound: ⁷and the first messenger sounded, and there came hail, and fire, mingled with blood, and were cast to the earth, and the third of the trees was burnt up, and all green grass was burnt up.

⁸And the second messenger sounded, and as it were a great mountain with fire burning was cast into the sea, and the third of the sea became blood, ⁹and die did the third of the creatures which are in the sea, having life, and the third of the ships were destroyed.

¹⁰And the third messenger sounded, and there fell out of the heaven a great star, burning as a lamp, and it fell upon the third of the rivers, and upon the fountains of the waters: ¹¹and the name of the star is called Wormwood, and the third of the waters becometh wormwood, and many of the men died of the waters, because they were made bitter.

¹²And the fourth messenger sounded, and smitten was the third of the sun, and the third of the moon, and the third of the stars, that darkened may be the third of them, and that the day may not shine—the third of it, and the night in like manner.

¹² And I saw and I heard one messenger flying in the mid-heaven, saying with a great voice, 'Wo, wo, wo, to those dwelling on the earth from the rest of the voices of the trumpet of the three messengers, of those about to sound.'

IX. ¹ AND the fifth messenger sounded, and I saw a star out of the heaven having fallen to the earth, and there was given to it the key of the pit of the abyss, ² and he opened the pit of the abyss, and there came up a smoke out of the pit as the smoke of a great furnace, and darkened was the sun and the air, from the smoke of the pit.

³ And out of the smoke came forth locusts into the earth, and there was given to them authority as the scorpions of the earth have authority, ⁴ and it was said to them that they may not injure the grass of the earth, nor any green thing, nor any tree, but the men, only who have not the seal of God upon their foreheads, ⁵ and it was given to them that they may not kill them, but that they may be tormented five months, and their torment is as the torment of a scorpion, when it may strike a man: ⁶ and in those days shall the men seek death—and they shall not find it, and they shall desire to die—and death shall flee from them.

⁷ And the likenesses of the locusts are like to horses made ready to battle, and on their heads as crowns like gold, and their faces as faces of men, ⁸ and they had hair as the hair of women, and their teeth were as those of lions, ⁹ and they had breastplates as breastplates of iron, and the noise of their wings is as the noise of chariots of many horses running to battle; ¹⁰ and they have tails like to scorpions, and stings were in their tails; and their authority is to injure men five months; ¹¹ and they have over them a king—the messenger of the abyss—a name is to him in Hebrew, Abaddon, and in the Greek he hath a name, Apollyon. ¹² The first wo went forth, lo, there come yet two woes after these things.

¹³ And the sixth messenger sounded, and I heard a voice out of the four horns of the altar of gold which is before God, ¹⁴ saying to the sixth messenger who had the trumpet, 'Loose the four messengers who are bound beside the great river Euphrates;' ¹⁵ and loosed were the four messengers, who have been made ready for the hour, and day, and month, and year, that they may kill the third of the men; ¹⁶ and the number of the forces of the horsemen is two myriads of myriads, and I heard the number of them.

¹⁷ And thus I saw the horses in the vision, and those sitting on them, having breastplates of fire, and jacinth, and brimstone; and the heads of the horses are as the heads of lions, and out of their mouths proceed fire, and smoke, and brimstone: ¹⁸ by these three were the third of the men killed, from the fire, and from the smoke, and from the brimstone, which is proceeding out of their mouth, ¹⁹ for their powers are in their mouth, and in their tails, for their tails are like serpents, having heads, and with them they injure; ²⁰ and the rest of the men who were not killed in these plagues, neither did reform from the works of their hands, that they may not bow before the demons, and idols, those of gold, and those of silver, and those of brass, and those of stone, and those of wood, which are neither able to see, nor to hear, nor to walk, ²¹ yea they did not reform from their murders, nor from their sorceries, nor from their whoredoms, nor from their thefts.

X. ¹ AND I saw another strong messenger coming down out of the heaven, arrayed in a cloud, and a rainbow upon his head, and his face as the sun, and his feet as pillars of fire, ² and he had in his hand a little scroll opened, and he placed his right foot upon the sea, but the left upon the land, ³ and he cried with a great voice, as a lion roareth, and when he cried, speak did the seven thunders with their voices; ⁴ and when the seven thunders spake with their voices, I was about to write, and I heard a voice out of the heaven saying to me, 'Seal the things which the seven thunders spake,' and, 'Thou mayest not write these things.'

⁵ And the messenger whom I saw standing on the sea, and on the land, lifted up his hand to the heaven, ⁶ and swore in Him that liveth to the ages of the ages, who created the heaven and the things in it, and the land and the things in it, and the sea and the things in it—that time 'shall not be yet,' but in the days of the voice of the seventh messenger, when he may be about to sound, and the mystery of God may be finished, as He declared to His servants, to the prophets.

⁷ And the voice which I heard out of the heaven is again speaking with me, and saying, 'Go, take the little scroll which is open in the hand of the messenger who hath been standing upon the sea, and upon the land;' ⁸ and I went away to the messenger, saying to him, 'Give me the little scroll;' and he saith to me, 'Take, and eat it up, and it shall make thy belly bitter, but in thy mouth it shall be sweet as honey.'

⁹ And I took the little scroll out of the hand of the messenger, and did eat it up, and it was in my mouth as honey—sweet, and when I did eat it—my belly was made bitter; ¹⁰ and he saith to me, 'It behooveth thee again to prophesy about peoples, and nations, and tongues, and kings—many.'

XI. ¹ AND there was given to me a reed like to a rod, [and the messenger stood,] saying, 'Rise, and measure the temple of God, and the altar, and those worshipping in it; ² and the court which is without the temple leave out,' and, 'Thou mayest not measure it, because it was given to the nations, and the holy city shall they tread down forty-two months; ³ and I will give to My two witnesses, and they shall prophesy days, a thousand, two hundred, sixty, arrayed in sackcloth; ⁴ these are the two olive trees, and the two lamps which before the God of the earth do stand; ⁵ and if any one may will to injure them, fire proceedeth out of their mouth, and devoureth their enemies, and if any one may will to injure them, thus it behoveth him to be killed. ⁶These have authority to shut the heaven, that it may not rain rain in their days of the prophecy, and authority they have over the waters to turn them to blood, and to smite the land with every plague, as often as they may will.

⁷And when they may finish their testimony, the beast that is coming up out of the abyss shall make war with them, and overcome them, and kill them, ⁸and their dead bodies are on the streets of the great city (which is called spiritually Sodom, and Egypt, where also our Lord was crucified,) ⁹and they shall see—they of the peoples, and tribes, and tongues, and nations—their dead bodies three days and a half, and their dead bodies they shall not suffer to be put into tombs, ¹⁰and those dwelling on the earth shall rejoice over them, and shall make merry, and gifts shall send to one another, because these—the two prophets—tormented those dwelling upon the earth.

¹¹And after the three days and a half, the spirit of life from God did enter into them, and they stood upon their feet, and great fear fell upon those beholding them, ¹²and they heard a great voice out of the heaven saying to them, 'Come up hither:' and they went up to the heaven in the cloud, and their enemies beheld them: ¹³and in that hour came a great earthquake, and the tenth of the city fell, and killed in the earthquake were names of men—seven thousands, and they became affrighted, and they gave glory to the God of the heaven. ¹⁴The second now went forth, lo, the third now cometh quickly.

¹⁵And the seventh messenger sounded, and there came great voices in the heaven, saying, 'The kingdoms of the world became those of our Lord and of His Christ, and he shall reign to the ages of the ages!' ¹⁶and the twenty and four elders who before God are sitting on their thrones, fell upon their faces, and bowed before God, ¹⁷saying, 'We give thanks to Thee, O Lord God, the Almighty, who art, and who wast, and who art coming, because Thou hast taken Thy great power and didst reign: ¹⁸and the nations were angry, and Thine anger came, and the time of the dead, to be judged, and to give the reward to Thy servants, to the prophets, and to the saints, and to those fearing Thy name, to the small and to the great, and to destroy those who are destroying the earth.'

¹⁹And opened was the temple of God in the heaven, and there was seen the ark of His covenant in His temple, and there came lightnings, and voices, and thunders, and an earthquake, and great hail.

XII. ¹AND a great sign was seen in the heaven, a woman arrayed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars, ²and being with child she crieth out, travelling and pained to bring forth.

³And there was seen another sign in the heaven, and, lo, a great red dragon, having seven heads and ten horns, and upon his head seven diadems, ⁴and his tail draweth the third of the stars of the heaven, and he cast them to the earth; and the dragon stood before the woman who is about to bring forth, that when she may bring forth, her child he may devour, ⁵and she brought forth a male child, who is about to rule all the nations with a rod of iron, and caught away was her child to God and to His throne, ⁶and the woman fled into the wilderness, where she hath a place made ready from God, that there they may nourish her—days a thousand, two hundred, sixty.

⁷And there came war in the heaven: Michael and his messengers warred against the dragon, and the dragon warred, and his messengers, ⁸and they prevailed not, nor was their place found any more in the heaven: ⁹and the great dragon was cast out—the old serpent, who is called 'Devil,' and 'the Adversary,' who is leading astray the whole world—he was cast to the earth, and his messengers were cast with him.

¹⁰And I heard a great voice saying in the heaven, 'Now came the salvation, and the power, and the reign of our God, and the authority of His Christ, because cast down was the accuser of our brethren, who is accusing them before our God day and night: ¹¹and they overcame him because of the blood of the Lamb, and because of the word of their testimony, and they loved not their life—unto death: ¹²because of this be glad, ye heavens, and those in them who tabernacle: wo to those inhabiting the land and the sea, because the Devil went down to you, having great wrath, having known that he hath little time.'

¹³And when the dragon saw that he was cast to the earth, he pursued the woman who brought forth the male. ¹⁴and there were given to the woman two wings of the great eagle, that she may fly into the wilderness, into her place, where she is nourished a time, and times, and half a time, from the face of the serpent: ¹⁵and the serpent cast out after the woman, out of his mouth, water as a river, that he may cause her to be carried away by the river, ¹⁶and the land helped the woman, and the land opened her mouth, and swallowed up the river, which the dragon cast out of his mouth: ¹⁷and the dragon was wroth against the woman, and went away to make war with the rest of her seed, those keeping the commands of God, and having the testimony of Jesus Christ.

XIII. ¹AND I stood upon the sand of the sea, and I saw out of the sea a beast coming up: it had seven heads and ten horns, and upon its horns ten diadems, and upon its heads a name of evil-speaking, ²and the beast which I saw was like to a leopard, and its feet as of a bear, and its mouth as the mouth of a lion, and the dragon gave to it his power, and his throne, and great authority. ³And I saw one of its heads as slain to death, and its deadly stroke was healed, and all the earth wondered after the beast, ⁴and they bowed before the dragon who gave authority to the beast, and they bowed before the beast, saying, 'Who is like to the beast? who is able to war with it?'

⁵And there was given to it a mouth speaking great things, and evil-speakings, and there was given to it authority to make war forty-two months, ⁶and it opened its mouth for evil-speaking towards God, to speak evil of His name, and of His tabernacle, and of those who tabernacle in the heaven: ⁷and there was given to it to make war with the saints, and to overcome them, and there was given to it authority over every tribe, and tongue, and nation.

⁸And how before it shall all who are dwelling on the land, whose names have not been written in the scroll of life of the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world: ⁹if any one have an ear—let him hear: ¹⁰if any one a captivity doth gather, into captivity he doth go away: if any one by the sword doth kill, it behoveth him by the sword to be killed: here is the endurance and the faith of the saints.

¹¹And I saw another beast coming up out of the land, and it had two horns like to a lamb, and it was speaking as a dragon, ¹²and all the authority of the first beast doth it do before it, and maketh the land and those dwelling in it that they bow before the first beast, whose deadly stroke was healed, ¹³and it doeth great signs, that fire also it may make to come down out of the heaven to the earth in the presence of men, ¹⁴and it lendeth astray those dwelling on the land, because of the signs which were given it to do in the presence of the beast, saying to those dwelling on the land, to make an image to the beast which hath the stroke of the sword and did live, ¹⁵and there was given to it to give a spirit to the image of the beast, that also the image of the beast may speak, and that it may make as many as may not bow before the image of the beast, that they may be killed.

¹⁶And it maketh all, the small, and the great, and the rich, and the poor, and the free, and the servants, that it may give to them a mark upon their right hand or upon their foreheads, ¹⁷and that no one may be able to buy, or to sell, except he who is having the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name. ¹⁸Here is the wisdom! He who is having understanding, let him count the number of the beast, for the number of a man it is, and its number is 666.

XIV. ¹AND I saw, and lo, a Lamb having stood on the mount Sion, and with him an hundred, forty-four thousands, having the name of his Father written on their foreheads; ²and I heard a voice out of the heaven as a voice of many waters, and as a voice of great thunder, and a voice I heard of harpers harping with their harps, ³and they sing a new song before the throne, and before the four living creatures, and the elders, and no one was able to learn the song except the hundred, forty-four thousands, who have been bought from the earth; ⁴these are they who with women were not defiled, for they are virgin: these are they who are following the Lamb whithersoever he may go; these are they bought from among men—first-fruits to God and to the Lamb—⁵and in their mouth there was not found guile, for unblemished are they before the throne of God.

⁶And I saw another messenger flying in the mid-heaven, having the good news agreeing to proclaim to those dwelling on the earth, and to every nation, and tribe, and tongue, and people, ⁷saying with a great voice, 'Fear ye God, and give to Him glory, because come did the hour of His judgment: and bow ye before Him who made the heaven, and the land, and sea, and fountains of waters.'

⁸And another messenger followed, saying, 'Fallen, fallen hath Babylon, the great city: because of the wine of the wrath of her whoredom hath she given to all nations to drink.'

⁹And a third messenger followed them, saying with a great voice, 'If any one the beast doth bow before, and his image, and doth receive a mark on his forehead, or upon his hand, ¹⁰also he shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which hath been mingled unmingled into the cup of His anger, and he shall be tormented in fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy messengers, and in the presence of the Lamb, ¹¹and the smoke of their torment goeth up to ages of ages: and they have no rest day and night, who are bowing before the beast and his image, also if any one doth receive the mark of his name. ¹²Here is the endurance of the saints: here are those keeping the commands of God, and the faith of Jesus.'

¹³And I heard a voice out of the heaven saying to me, 'Write: Happy are the dead who in the Lord are dying, from this time!' 'Yes, (saith the Spirit,) That they may rest from their toils—but their works do follow them!'

¹⁴And I saw, and lo, a white cloud, and upon the cloud is one sitting like to the Son of Man, having on his head a golden crown, and in his hand a sharp sickle; ¹⁵and another messenger came out of the temple crying with a great voice to him who is sitting upon the cloud, 'Send forth thy sickle and reap, because come to thee hath the hour of reaping, because ripe hath been the harvest of the earth;' ¹⁶and he who is sitting upon the cloud put forth his sickle upon the earth, and the earth was reaped.

¹⁷And another messenger came out of the temple which is in the heaven, having—ho also—a sharp sickle, ¹⁸and another messenger came out from the altar, having authority over the fire, and he called with a great cry to him having the sharp sickle, saying, 'Send forth thy sharp sickle, and gather the clusters of the vine of the earth, because come to perfection have her grapes;' ¹⁹and the messenger put in his sickle into the earth, and gathered the vine of the earth, and cast it into the great wine-press of the wrath of God; ²⁰and trodden was the wine-press outside of the city, and blood came out of the wine-press—unto the bridles of the horses, a thousand, six hundred furlongs.

XV. ¹AND I saw another sign in the heaven, great and wonderful, seven messengers having the seven last plagues, because in these was completed the wrath of God: ²and I saw as a sea of glass mingled with fire, and those who had come from overcoming the beast, and his image, and his mark, and the number of his name, are standing upon the sea of glass, having harps of God, ³and they sing the song of Moses, servant of God, and the song of the Lamb, saying, 'Great and wonderful are Thy works, O Lord God, the Almighty, righteous and true are Thy ways, O King of saints: ⁴who may not fear Thee, O Lord, and glorify Thy name? because Thou only art kind, because all the nations shall come and bow before Thee, because Thy righteous acts were manifested.'

⁵And after these things I saw, and lo, opened was the temple of the tabernacle of the testimony in the heaven: ⁶and come out did the seven messengers having the seven plagues, out of the temple, clothed in linen, pure and shining, and girded round the breasts with golden girdles; ⁷and one of the four living creatures gave to the seven messengers seven golden vials, full of the wrath of God, who is living to the ages of the ages: ⁸and filled was the temple with smoke from the glory of God, and from His power; and no one was able to enter into the temple till the seven plagues of the seven messengers may be finished.

XVI. ¹And I heard a great voice out of the temple saying to the seven messengers, 'Go away, and pour out the vials of the wrath of God to the earth:' ²and the first went away, and poured out his vial upon the land, and there came a sore—bad and grievous to the men, those having the mark of the beast, and those bowing to his image.

³And the second messenger poured out his vial to the sea, and there came blood as of one dead, and every living soul died in the sea.

⁴And the third messenger poured out his vial to the rivers, and to the fountains of the waters, and there came blood; ⁵and I heard the messenger of the waters, saying, 'Righteous, O Lord, art Thou, who art, and who wast, and who shalt be, because these things Thou didst judge,' ⁶because the blood of saints and prophets they poured out, and blood to them didst Thou give to drink, for they are worthy:' ⁷and I heard another out of the altar, saying, 'Yes, Lord God, the Almighty, true and righteous are Thy judgments.'

⁸And the fourth messenger poured out his vial upon the sun, and there was given to him to scorch the men with fire; ⁹and the men were scorched with great heat, and they spake evil of the name of God, who hath authority over these plagues, and they did not reform—to give to Him glory.

¹⁰And the fifth messenger poured out his vial upon the throne of the beast, and his kingdom became darkened, and they were gnawing their tongues from the pain, ¹¹and they spake evil of the God of the heaven, from their pains, and from their sores, and they did not reform from their works.

¹²And the sixth messenger poured out his vial upon the great river, the Euphrates, and dried up was its water, that the way of the kings who are from the rising of the sun may be made ready; ¹³and I saw come out of the mouth of the dragon, and out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the false prophet, three unclean spirits like frogs—¹⁴for they are spirits of demons doing signs—which go out unto the kings of the earth, and of the whole world, to bring them together to the battle of that great day of God the Almighty: ¹⁵'lo, I come as a thief: happy is he who is watching, and keeping his garments, that he may not walk naked, and they may see his unseemliness:' ¹⁶and they brought them together to the place which is called in Hebrew Armageddon.

¹⁷And the seventh messenger poured out his vial into the air, and there came forth a great voice from the temple of the heaven, from the throne, saying, 'It hath come!' ¹⁸and there came voices, and thunders, and lightnings; and a great earthquake came, such as came not since men came upon the earth, so mighty an earthquake—so great! ¹⁹And it came—the great city—into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell; and Babylon the great was remembered before God, to give to her the cup of the wine of the wrath of His anger, ²⁰and every island fled away, and the mountains were not found, ²¹and great hail (as of talent weight) cometh down out of the heaven upon the men, and the men spake evil of God because of the plague of the hail, because its plague is very great.

XVII. ¹AND there came one of the seven messengers, of those having the seven vials, and he spake with me, saying to me, 'Come, I will shew to thee the judgment of the great whore, of her sitting upon the many waters, ²with whom the kings of the earth committed whoredom: and made drunk from the wine of her whoredom were those inhabiting the earth:' ³and he carried me away to a wilderness in spirit, and I saw a woman sitting upon a scarlet-coloured beast, full of names of evil-speaking, having seven heads and ten horns, ⁴and the woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet-colour, and decked with gold, and precious stone, and pearls, having a golden cup in her hand full of the abominations and uncleanness of her whoredom, ⁵and upon her forehead was a name written: 'Mystery, Babylon the Great, the Mother of the Whores, and of the Abominations of the earth.'

⁶And I saw the woman drunken from the blood of the saints, and from the blood of the witnesses of Jesus, and I wondered—having seen her—with great wonder; ⁷and the messenger said to me, 'Wherefore didst thou wonder? I—I will tell thee of the mystery of the woman, and of the beast which is carrying her, who hath the seven heads and the ten horns:

⁸ 'The beast which thou sawest: it was, and it is not; and it is about to come up out of the abyss, and to go away into destruction, and wonder shall those who are dwelling on the earth, whose names have not been written on the scroll of life from the foundation of the world, seeing the beast which was, and is not, although it is.

⁹ 'Here is the mind which is having wisdom; the seven heads are seven mountains, on which the woman sitteth, ¹⁰ and there are seven kings, the five fell, and the one is, the other hath not yet come, and when he may come, it behoveth him to remain a little time: ¹¹ and the beast, which was, and is not, also he is eighth, and from the seven he is, and to destruction he goeth away.

¹² 'And the ten horns which thou sawest, are ten kings, who a kingdom have not yet received, but authority as kings the same hour do receive with the beast: ¹³ these have one mind, and their own power and authority to the beast they give over: ¹⁴ these with the Lamb shall make war, and the Lamb shall overcome them, because Lord of lords he is, and King of kings, and those with him are called, and chosen, and faithful.'

¹⁵ And he saith to me, 'The waters which thou sawest, where the whore sitteth, are peoples, and multitudes, and nations, and tongues: ¹⁶ and the ten horns which thou sawest upon the beast, these shall hate the whore, and shall make her desolate and naked, and shall eat her flesh, and shall burn her in fire, ¹⁷ for God gave into their hearts to do its will, and to make one will, and to give their kingdom to the beast—till the sayings of God may be complete: ¹⁸ and the woman which thou sawest is the great city which is having a kingdom above the kings of the land.'

XVIII. ¹ AND after these things I saw another messenger coming down out of the heaven, having great authority, and the earth was lightened from his glory, ² and he cried in might with a great voice, saying, 'Fall, fall did Babylon the great, and she became a habitation of demons, and a hold of every unclean spirit, and a hold of every unclean and hateful bird, ³ because of the wine of the wrath of her whoredom have all the nations drunk, and the kings of the earth with her did commit whoredom, and the merchants of the earth by the power of her revel were made rich.'

⁴ And I heard another voice out of the heaven, saying, 'Come out of her, My people, that ye may not partake with her sins, and that ye may not receive of her plagues, ⁵ because her sins followed—unto the heaven, and God remembered her unrighteousnesses. ⁶ Render to her as also she rendered to you, and double to her doubles according to her works: in the cup which she mingled—mingle to her double.

⁷ 'As much as she glorified herself and revelled, so much torment and sorrow give to her, because in her heart she saith, I sit a queen, and a widow I am not, and sorrow I shall not see: ⁸ because of this, in one hour, shall come her plagues, death, and sorrow, and famine, and in fire shall she be utterly burned, because strong is the Lord God who is judging her: ⁹ and weep over her, and lament for her shall the kings of the earth, who with her committed whoredom and revelled, when they may see the smoke of her burning, ¹⁰ from afar having stood because of the fear of her torment, saying, Wo, wo, the great city! Babylon the strong city! because in one hour came thy judgment.

¹⁴ 'And the fruits of the desire of thy soul went away from thee, and all things—the dainty and the bright—went away from thee, and no more at all mayest thou find them. ¹⁵ The merchants of these things, who were made rich of her, from afar shall stand because of the fear of her torment, weeping and sorrowing, ¹⁶ saying, Wo, wo, the great city, which was arrayed in fine linen, and purple, and scarlet, and gilded in gold, and precious stone, and pearls, because in one hour so much riches were made waste!

¹⁷ 'And every shipmaster, and all the company upon the ships, and sailors, and as many as work the sea, from afar stood, ¹⁸ and were crying, seeing the smoke of her burning, saying, What city is like to the great city? ¹⁹ and they cast dust upon their heads, and were crying out, weeping and sorrowing, saying, Wo, wo, the great city! in which were made rich all who have ships in the sea, out of her costliness, because in one hour was she made waste.

²⁰ 'Be glad over her, O heaven, and ye holy apostles and prophets, because God did judge your judgment of her!

²¹ 'And a strong messenger took up a stone as a great millstone, and cast it into the sea, saying, 'Thus with violence shall Babylon be cast, the great city, and may not be found any more at all: ²² and the voice of harpers, and musicians, and pipers, and trumpeters, may not be heard at all in thee any more; and any artisan of any art may not be found at all in thee any more; and the noise of a millstone may not be heard at all in thee any more; ²³ and the light of a lamp may not shine at all in thee any more; and the voice of a bridegroom and of a bride may not be heard at all in thee any more; because thy merchants were the great ones of the earth, because in thy sorcery were all the nations led astray,²⁴ and in her life blood of prophets and of saints was found, and of all those who have been slain upon the earth.'

XIX. ¹AND after these things I heard a great voice of a great multitude in the heaven, saying, 'Alleluia! the salvation, and the glory, and the honour, and the power, is to the Lord our God; ²because true and righteous are His judgments, because He judged the great whore, who did corrupt the earth in her whoredom, and He avenged the blood of His servants at her hand;' ³and a second time they said, 'Alleluia;' and her smoke cometh up—to the ages of the ages! ⁴And fall down did the elders—the twenty and four—and the four living creatures, and they bowed before God who is sitting upon the throne, saying, 'Amen, Alleluia.'

⁵And a voice out of the throne came forth, saying, 'Praise our God, all ye His servants, and those fearing Him, both the small and the great:' ⁶and I heard as the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thunderings, saying, 'Alleluia! because reign did the Lord God—the Almighty!' ⁷let us rejoice and exult, and give the glory to Him, because come did the marriage of the Lamb, and his wife made herself ready:' ⁸and there was given to her that she may be arrayed in fine linen, pure and shining, for the fine linen is the righteousnesses of the saints.

⁹And he saith to me, 'Write: Happy are they who to the supper of the marriage of the Lamb have been called;' and he saith to me, 'These are the true words of God:' ¹⁰and I fell before his feet, to bow before him, and he saith to me, 'See—not! fellow-servant of thee am I, and of thy brethren who have the testimony of Jesus: bow before God, for the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of the prophecy.'

¹¹And I saw the heaven having been opened, and lo, a white horse, and he who is sitting on it is called Faithful and True, and in righteousness doth he judge and war, ¹²and his eyes are as a flame of fire, and upon his head many diadems—having a name written which no one hath known, except he himself, ¹³and he is arrayed in a garment dipped in blood, and his name is called, 'The Word of God.'

¹⁴And the armies which are in the heaven were following him on white horses, clothed in fine linen—white and pure; ¹⁵and out of his mouth proceedeth a sharp sword, that with it he may smite the nations, and he shall rule them with a rod of iron, and he treadeth the press of the wine of the wrath and the anger of God—the Almighty, ¹⁶and he hath upon the garment and upon his thigh the name written, 'King of kings, and Lord of lords.'

¹⁷And I saw a messenger standing in the sun, and he cried with a great voice, saying to all the birds which are flying in the mid-heaven, 'Come and be gathered together to the supper of the great God, ¹⁸that ye may eat the flesh of kings, and the flesh of the chiefs of thousands, and the flesh of strong men, and the flesh of horses, and of those sitting on them, and the flesh of all—freemen and servants—both small and great.'

¹⁹And I saw the beast, and the kings of the earth, and their armies having been gathered together to make war with him who is sitting upon the horse, and with his army: ²⁰and the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet who did the signs before him, in which he led astray those who received the mark of the beast, and those who bow before his image: living they were cast—the two—into the lake of the fire, which is burning with the brimstone: ²¹and the rest were killed with the sword of him who is sitting upon the horse, which sword is proceeding out of his mouth, and all the birds were filled out of their flesh.

XX. ¹AND I saw a messenger coming down out of the heaven, having the key of the abyss, and a great chain over his hand, ²and he laid hold on the dragon, the old serpent, who is Devil and Adversary, and bound him a thousand years, ³and he cast him into the abyss, and shut him up, and put a seal upon him, that he may not lead astray the nations any more, till the thousand years may be finished; and after these it becometh him to be loosed a little time.

⁴And I saw thrones, and they sat upon them, and judgment was given to them, and the souls of those who have been beheaded because of the testimony of Jesus, and because of the word of God, and who did not bow before the beast, nor his image, and did not receive the mark upon their forehead and upon their hand, and they lived and reigned with Christ the thousand years; ⁵but the rest of the dead did not live again till the thousand years may be finished: this is the first rising again. ⁶Happy and holy is he who hath part in the first rising again; over these the second death hath not authority, but they shall be priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand years.

⁷And when the thousand years may be finished, the Adversary shall be loosed out of his prison, ⁸and he shall go out to lead the nations astray, which are in the four corners of the earth—Gog and Magog—to gather them together to war; of whom the number is as the sand of the sea: ⁹and they went up over the breadth of the land, and surrounded the camp of the saints, and the beloved city, and there came down fire from God out of the heaven, and devoured them; ¹⁰and the Devil, who is leading them astray, was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, where are the beast and the false prophet, and they shall be tormented day and night—to ages of the ages.

¹¹And I saw a great white throne, and Him who is sitting on it, from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away, and place was not found for them: ¹²and I saw the dead, small and great, standing before

God, and scrolls were opened, and another scroll was opened, which is that of life, and the dead were judged out of the things written in the scrolls—according to their works: ¹³and the sea gave up those dead in it, and death and hades gave up those dead in them, and they were judged each one according to their works: ¹⁴and death and hades were cast into the lake of the fire—this is the second death: ¹⁵and if any one was not found written in the scroll of life, he was cast into the lake of the fire.

XXI. ¹AND I saw a new heaven and a new earth, for the first heaven and the first earth passed away, and the sea is not any more: ²and I, John, saw the holy city—new Jerusalem—coming down from God out of the heaven, made ready as a bride adorned for her husband: ³and I heard a great voice out of the heaven, saying, 'Lo, the tabernacle of God is with the men, and He will tabernacle with them, and they shall be His peoples, and God Himself shall be with them—their God, ⁴and God shall wipe away every tear from their eyes, and death shall not be any more, nor sorrow, nor crying, nor shall there be any more pain, because the first things went away.'

⁵And He who is sitting upon the throne said, 'Lo, new I make all things:' and He saith to me, 'Write, because these words are true and faithful:' ⁶and He said to me, 'It hath been done! I am the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end: I, to him who is thirsting, I will give of the fountain of the water of life freely: ⁷he who is overcoming shall inherit all things, and I will be to him—a God, and he shall be to me—the son, ⁸but to the fearful, and unbelieving, and abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all the liars, their part is in the lake which is burning with fire and brimstone, which is the second death.'

⁹And there came to me one of the seven messengers, who have the seven vials which are full of the seven last plagues, and he spake with me, saying, 'Come, I will shew thee the bride of the lamb—the wife,' ¹⁰and he carried me away in spirit to a mountain great and high, and shewed to me the great city, the holy Jerusalem coming down out of the heaven from God, ¹¹having the glory of God, and her light like a stone most precious, as a jasper stone shining like crystal, ¹²having also a wall great and high, having twelve gates, and at the gates twelve messengers, and names written thereon, which are those of the twelve tribes of the children of Israel: ¹³at the east three gates, at the north three gates, at the south three gates, at the west three gates: ¹⁴and the wall of the city had twelve foundations, and on them are the names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb.

¹⁵And he who is speaking with me had a golden reed, that he may measure the city, and its gates, and its wall: ¹⁶and the city lieth square, and the length of it is as great as the breadth: and he measured the city with the reed—furlongs twelve thousand;

the length, and the breadth, and the height of it are equal: ¹⁷and he measured its wall, an hundred forty-four cubits, the measure of a man, that is, of the messenger: ¹⁸and the building of its wall was jasper, and the city is clear gold—like to pure glass: ¹⁹and the foundations of the wall of the city with all manner of precious stones have been adorned: the first foundation jasper: the second, sapphire: the third, chalcedony: the fourth, an emerald: ²⁰the fifth, a sardonyx: the sixth, a sardius: the seventh, a chrysolite: the eighth, a beryl: the ninth, a topaz: the tenth, a chrysoprasus: the eleventh, a jacinth: the twelfth, amethyst.

²¹And the twelve gates are twelve pearls: each several one of the gates was of one pearl: and the street of the city is of pure gold—as transparent glass.

²²And a temple I did not see in it, for the Lord God, the Almighty, is its temple, and the Lamb, ²³and the city hath no need of the sun, nor of the moon, that they may shine in it: for the glory of God did lighten it, and its lamp is the Lamb: ²⁴and the nations of the saved in its light shall walk; and the kings of the earth do bring their glory and honour into it, ²⁵and its gates shall not at all be shut by day, for night shall not be there: ²⁶and they shall bring the glory and the honour of the nations into it: ²⁷and there may not at all enter into it any thing defiling and doing abomination, and a lie, but those written in the scroll of life of the Lamb.

XXII. ¹AND he shewed me a pure river of the water of life, bright as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb: ²in the midst of its broad place, and of the river on this side and on that, is the tree of life, yielding twelve fruits, in each several month rendering its fruit, and the leaves of the tree are for the healing of the nations: ³and any curse there shall not be any more, and the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it, and His servants shall serve Him, ⁴and they shall see His face, and His name is on their foreheads, ⁵and night shall not be there, and they have no need of a lamp and the light of a sun, because the Lord God giveth them light, and they shall reign—to the ages of the ages.

⁶And he said to me, 'These words are faithful and true, and the Lord God of the holy prophets sent His messenger to shew to His servants the things which it behoveth to come quickly: ⁷lo, I come quickly: happy is he who is keeping the words of the prophecy of this scroll.'

⁸And I, John, am he who is seeing these things and hearing, and when I heard and saw, I fell down to bow before the feet of the messenger who is shewing me these things: ⁹and he saith to me, 'See—not; for fellow-servant of thee am I, and of thy brethren the prophets, and those keeping the words of this scroll: bow before God.'

¹⁰And he saith to me, 'Thou mayest not seal the words of the prophecy of this scroll, because the time is near: ¹¹he who is unrighteous—let him be unrighteous still, and he who is filthy—let him be filthy still, and he who is righteous—let him be righteous still, and he who is holy—let him be holy still. ¹² And lo, I come quickly, and my reward is with me, to render to each as his work shall be; ¹³ I am the Alpha and the Omega—beginning and end—the First and the Last.

¹⁴ Happy are those doing His commands that their authority shall be unto the tree of life, and by the gates they may enter into the city; ¹⁵ but without are the dogs, and the sorcerers, and the whoremongers, and the murderers, and the idolaters, and every one who is loving and doing a lie.

¹⁶ 'I, Jesus, sent my messengers to testify to you those things concerning the assemblies: I am the root and the offspring of David, the bright and morning star!'

¹⁷ And the Spirit and the Bride say, 'Come;' and he who is hearing—let him say 'Come;' and he who is thirsting—let him come; and he who is willing—let him take the water of life freely.

¹⁸ For I testify to every one hearing the words of the prophecy of this scroll, if any one may add to these, God shall add to him the plagues which have been written in this scroll; ¹⁹ and if any one may take away from the words of the scroll of this prophecy, God shall take away his part from the scroll of life, and out of the holy city, and the things which have been written in this scroll; ²⁰ he saith—who is testifying these things—'Yes, I come quickly!' Amen! Yes, come, Lord Jesus!

²¹ The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

OPINIONS AS TO THE SCHOLARSHIP OF MR. YOUNG.

As to Mr Young's competency for a work of this kind, the following extracts, from among numerous other Testimonials, may be referred to:—

I.—The Rev. Dr THOMAS BARCLAY, Principal and Vice-Chancellor of the University of Glasgow, says of him:—"I have no hesitation in saying that I regard Mr Young as one of the most accomplished Hebrew scholars in this kingdom. His familiar and extensive acquaintance with the Semitic languages is abundantly evidenced by the numerous works which he has translated into those languages, and is recognised by all Biblical and Oriental scholars."

II.—The Rev. Dr ROBERT LEE, Professor of Biblical Criticism and Biblical Antiquities, Edinburgh University, remarks of him:—"His talents and acquirements as a linguist are perfectly wonderful. His knowledge of the Biblical Hebrew, and of the various versions in cognate dialects, as also of other families of languages, is such as may well excite the wonder of those who know the difficulty of such acquisitions to even the most diligent student of ordinary capacity."

"I have not, in my time, known any person who appeared to me to possess equal capacity as a linguist as Mr Young; and I incline to think that, as a Biblical Orientalist and Philologist, he has very few equals, if any, in this country."

III.—The Rev. R. S. CANDLISH, D.D., Edinburgh, Moderator of the General Assembly of the Free Church of Scotland, states:—"In respect of linguistic acquirements, especially as bearing on the learning of the East, and on the Interpretation of Scripture, I suppose Mr Young is almost, if not altogether, unrivalled."

IV.—The Rev. WILLIAM LINDSAY ALEXANDER, D.D., Edinburgh, testifies that "His mastery of the Shemitic dialects, in particular, is not only remarkable, but such as, I believe, is rarely attained by a native of this country, whether Jew or Christian. I have known several eminent Hebrew and Aramaic scholars, but never one whose command of these languages equalled Mr Young's. He not only is thoroughly acquainted with their grammatical structure and peculiar idioms, but their vocabulary is so completely familiar to him, that it seemed alike easy to him to translate from them into English or from English into them."

V.—DUNCAN H. WEIR, A.M., Professor of Hebrew and Oriental Languages, Glasgow University, declares: "Judging from those of Mr Young's publications which I have seen, I can confidently testify that he has long been a most earnest, painstaking, and successful student of the Shemitic languages."

VI.—Rev. D. LISTON, Professor of Hebrew, Edinburgh University, bears witness that "His acquaintance with the Semitic dialects is indeed quite extraordinary; very few, I believe, have achieved such a command over, and power of composing in them. But the best evidence of Mr Young's accomplishments in this way is to be found in his published works."

VII.—Rev. JOHN EADIE, D.D., Glasgow, Professor of Divinity in the Theological Hall of the United Presbyterian Church of Scotland, thus expresses himself: "I knew Mr Young for some time before he left for India, and could not but admire his industry, skill, and success as a self-taught Hebraist. I have looked into the most of his publications, and have no hesitation in saying, that they display a great amount of accurate Hebrew philology. His translation into Hebrew exhibits a rare familiarity, not simply or generally with the Hebrew Grammar and Lexicon, but specially with Hebrew idiom, and its peculiar modes of representing thought."

VIII.—Rev. W. H. GOULD, D.D., Edinburgh, Professor of Divinity in the Reformed Presbyterian Church, adds—"I have had occasion to test his resources in some linguistic difficulties, and I could easily gather that, in the special departments with which he professes to be conversant, his knowledge is at once extensive and accurate. His character is remarkable for integrity, straight-forwardness, and the modesty of the genuine scholar. He is an example of what a man can accomplish in sacred learning by sheer force of natural ability and constant industry, in spite of various disadvantages. His mind is cautious and well-balanced, quite above any hunt for popularity by means of startling and novel theories."

IX.—The Rev. JAMES GLASGOW, D.D., senior Missionary of the Irish Presbyterian Church in India, and Chief Editor of the Gujarati Bible, thus writes to Mr Young:—"Your most minute and accurate knowledge of the Hebrew Bible—your familiarity with the Chaldee of the Targums and with Rabbinical Books—your many useful publications in connection with these—your Translation of the Shorter Catechism into several languages—your Translation of the Poetical and Prophecetical Portions of the Old Testament (translations marked by literal faithfulness and discriminating investigation, of multitudes of which I have been immediately cognizant)—your Translation of the Books of Chronicles into Gujarati—your extensive knowledge of Hebrew Criticism, and your persevering zeal in Biblical literature—combine, in my opinion, to mark you out for a Professorship in the department to which they belong, or for being an efficient and faithful Translator or Revisor for a Bible Society or any Society requiring the employment of such attainments."

X.—The Rev. ALEXANDER McCALL, D.D., King's College, London: "Having had the pleasure of knowing Mr R. Young for several years before his departure for India, and having had the opportunity of informing myself, by oral communication, of that gentleman's extraordinary knowledge of Hebrew and the cognate dialects, I have great pleasure in testifying that I know of no one more eminently qualified for a Chair of Hebrew and Oriental languages."

XI.—Rev. Dr CRAWFORD, Professor of Divinity, Edinburgh University, writes:—"He is an accomplished Hebrew scholar, and is at the same time thoroughly conversant with the other Semitic languages."

XII.—The Rev. PETER LORIMER, Professor of Theology and Biblical Literature to the English Presbyterian Church, says of Mr Young:—"The numerous works which he has edited, printed, and published, in a most important but too much neglected department of learning, bear redundant testimony, not only to his rare erudition, but also to the indefatigable industry, perseverance, and energy of his character. By these publications he has conferred a great service upon Oriental Learning. In particular, he has provided a supply of excellent Text Books—which were very much wanted—for use in our Universities and Colleges; and his laborious and enterprising efforts in this field have repeatedly called forth the warmest acknowledgments of the public literary journals."

XIII.—The Rev. A. R. BONAR, one of the Ministers of Canongate Church, Edinburgh, certifies:—"Mr Robert Young has been long known in the world of letters as perhaps the greatest Hebrew and Oriental scholar of our time.—Mr Young is an indefatigable scholar, and is far advanced in a revised translation of the Old Testament, which will afford the best proof of the matured result of his investigations."

XIV.—The Rev. Dr MURPHY, Professor of Hebrew, Belfast, says of Mr Young's "Polyglot Reading Book," in Chaldee, Hebrew, Greek, and Syriac, "It is a most useful and interesting Publication. It is just such a work as the student needs."

XV.—The Rev. HARTWELL HORNE, the laborious and venerable author of the "Introduction to the Bible," in the "Church of England Quarterly Review," observes, "One of the most pleasing signs of the time is the increasing attention which is now given to the study of the original languages of Scripture; and Mr Young the learned Editor of this work [the Hexaglot], has conferred a great boon on Hebrew Students by the publication of this elegantly executed volume."

XVI.—The Rev. SAMUEL LEE, D.D., Professor of Hebrew, Cambridge, writes to Mr Young regarding his "Translation of the Shorter Catechism into Hebrew":—"I have felt with you that it is difficult to translate the technical terms so much now in use into Biblical Hebrew, and taking into consideration the many found in this Work, I must say your translation is, on the whole, a fair one."

XVII.—The Rev. A. A. BONAR, late of Collace, now of Glasgow, says, "Let me return you my best thanks for your 'Shorter Catechism in Hebrew'; I have been recommending it to several Brethren."

XVIII.—The Rev. W. K. TWEEDE, D.D., Edinburgh, writes:—"I cannot pretend to be Orientalist enough to estimate to the full the learning of Mr Young in that department where his eminence had secured for him the esteem and regard of all who knew him; but if an admirable enthusiasm in the pursuit of the most worthy objects—a persistency which no obstacle could repress—and, withal, a devout and reverent spirit in regard to the highest departments of knowledge—be recommendations, in my opinion Mr Young possesses all these in a pre-eminent degree. The mere list of his labours in the sphere to which his life and his energies are consecrated is such as to indicate both the extent and the depth of his acquirements; and from all that I know of him as a linguist and a man, I should think that few indeed can be found qualified as he is."

XIX.—The Rev. JAMES MORGAN, D.D., Convener of the Foreign Mission Committee of the Presbyterian Church in Ireland, writes:—"At the same time I cannot contemplate Mr Young's separation from it and us, without expressing the great satisfaction we have had in his connection with us, and the results that have followed from it. We have found in him what we had reason to expect—an able, excellent, and successful fellow-labourer in the cause of Christ and the Mission. Anything that it may be hereafter in our power to do in order to forward his views, will be cheerfully rendered. We regard him as an eminent scholar and a consistent Christian. And it is our prayer that God may open for him, in His adorable providence, a suitable field for the exercise of his talents and great acquirements."

XX.—"We cordially wish Mr Young all the success which he could desire in his most meritorious and useful labours; and we earnestly recommend his publications to the attention, especially, of all lovers and students of Biblical criticism."—Edinburgh Ecclesiastical Journal.

XXI.—"Mr YOUNG's works are not suited to the light and frivolous taste of the bulk of readers, but the fruit of patient industry and research, fitted to be eminently useful to those who are entering upon the study of this important branch of Biblical literature."—Church of Scotland Magazine and Review.

XXII.—"We conclude by thanking Mr Young most warmly, in the name of all who are interested in the elevation of the Jews and their deliverance from error, for this valuable contribution to the array of means necessary to bring about that result, and trust he will be encouraged to proceed in his scholarly pursuits according to his heart's desire."—Friend of Israel.

XXIII.—"To the notice of English scholars we commend these Biblical and Philological Works which are appearing in the Scottish metropolis. To some of Mr YOUNG's publications on Hebrew Rabbinical literature we have already directed attention."—Literary Gazette.

XXIV.—"Mr YOUNG's Hexaglot may be consulted with advantage by both the Theologian and the Philologist. It is calculated to assist the former in ascertaining the meaning of the original text, and the latter in his inquiries into the characteristic features of the Semitic Languages."—Athenaeum.
